#1
白米良 shirakome ryo
illust.たかやKi
takayaki
ありふれた職業で
ARIFURETA SHOKUGYOU DE SEKAISAIKYOU
世界最強
OVERLAP

Arifureta Publication Commemoration SS

Publication Commemoration SS

Beloved people of Narou, good evening.

Recently, you know that I’m spending an increasingly good chuuni life.

This is Chuuni Suki, the one who have the privilege of posting「Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou」.

Now then, in this occasion, I have the privilege of reporting that「Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou」will be published by Overlap Bunko-sama.

It seems that there will be even a special site created at the official website of Overlap-sama.

The detail will be announced in the near future.

「Arifureta」will change shape to be on paper page, but please keep taking care of me from here on too.

I write a bit extra story for the commemoration of the book publication.

It’s a what-if story unrelated with the main story.

「Haa, haa, kuu, what persistence-. I should just obediently follow Hajime-san’s warning.」

Shia cursed while nimbly running with her beautiful faint bluish-white hair trailing behind her. Her usual innocent smile couldn’t be seen on her face, her own failure and the evil hand that was currently cornering her into this bitter situation caused her prided rabbit ears to busily twitching around in vigilance against the surrounding.

Shia was pushing her way through the narrow path among the buildings while nimbly evading the trash cans and plumbing like an acrobat. It was as though she was in the middle of a desperate escape……no, in fact Shia was really forced to escape no matter how hard to believe it was.

Shia who was categorized as inhuman person along with Hajime and others didn’t have any existence that could be a threat for her. Her ability was such that even made the magic cheat Yue to say「Your physical ability is bugged」. An existence that could force such Shia to escape……

「I, I found herrr! The rabbit-eared girl Shia-chaaaaan!」

「Hii!?」

A person carrying a backpack on his back, wearing a T-shirt with moe character design, blazing eye glint peeking from the gap of his long hair, with his hand carrying a tough camera——he was The Otaku.

Just before Shia could get out from the back alley, that otaku youth appeared from the back door of a building that opened roughly, which caused Shia to reflexively raise a pitiful shriek.

That was only natural. The reason was because Shia’s rabbit ears detected his presence to be at the other side of the building just a moment ago. Yet despite so, he appeared before her eyes right after she got distracted for a moment. It wouldn’t be that strange even if an absurd existence like this existed at the previous world, but that was impossible.

That was because this was earth, the home world of Hajime.

The otaku youth faced Shia whose face was shuddering. He readied his camera and suddenly he lowered his head in a snap.

「Pho, photo, please!!」

「I told you no already-!」

Shia reflexively retorted back. However, the otaku young man wasn’t discouraged at all. 「E, even so please-!」Even though he was stuttering, but he lowered his head even deeper with a force that strangely emitted a formidable will.

Seeing how she made no progress, Shia used the wall of the building to make a wall-kick jump and flew over the head of the otaku youth. She came out into a street somewhere.

Then, it seemed that the angry yell of Shia was heard, the fellows who were chasing after Shia until just now——the otaku group was gathering bustlingly.

「Ra, Rabbit ear-san, please, let me take a photo-!」

「One snap, just one snap is fine-」

「Ca, can I call you Shia-tan-」

「Tha, that gaze, please turn it over here!」

□Can I ask you, to pose? I, if possible please make gun shape with your fingers. Also, can you make the rabbit ear's shape to droop a bit more? Or rather, I, I have a uniform here, ca, can I ask you to change into it?□

In the blink of eye, otaku young men (middle-aged men included) and the curious onlookers who were wondering if there was some kind of event, were starting to form a crowd.

□Uu, just why this is happening desuu? Even though there are people wearing cat ear or dog ear, why is it only me…… thi, this is just like what Hajime-san said, □the neighborhood of Akiba is rough□desuu□

Shia's face contorted and about to cry. The surrounding was already packed with the warriors of Akiba, they were waiting impatiently for Shia's permission of photo opportunity.

Yes, the place where Shia was currently at, was Earth's Tokyo metropolis, right in the middle of Akibahara. If it was asked about why Shia who came to earth together with Hajime was now at Akibahara, it was because of a reason that wasn't particularly deep……

Putting that aside, Shia who was showing an interest to Akihabara was given a serious warning by Hajme. He said, if Shia entered the neighborhood of Akiba as she was, there would be a great commotion without a doubt.

'That was because Shia's rabbit ear was the real thing', that wasn't the only reason. Thinking normally, no matter how real it looked, surely there wouldn't be anyone thinking that it was actually real. But, in this occasion, it was irrelevant whether it was the real thing or not.

Her beautiful long hair with faint bluish white color that could be mistaken as moonlight, her beautiful face that could make foreign idol to run away with tail between their legs, her perfect proportion that could put model to shame, her loveliness that came from her gentle atmosphere despite her beauty, which made anyone wanted to look at her forever. That kind of miraculous girl, was completed with twitching rabbit ears.

For the humans at Akiba, no, as long as someone was a man, it would be impossible for their heart to be not stolen!

That was why, Hajime firmly warned Shia to not go to Akiba by herself, and in the case she went anyway, Hajime handed her a disguise artifact to change her look.

Shia was thinking「This is exaggerated desuu」, even so she wore the artifact and in the end she went to Akiba by herself but……here she made a sorrowful miss. Everything at her surrounding was unusual, and her eyes were stolen by girls intentionally putting on animal ears by themselves, seeing that Shia carelessly took off her artifact.

When she did that, naturally Shia’s beauty and charm were exposed. And then, the otakus swarmed like hyenas.

If here the warriors of Akiba committed rudeness to Shia and tried to force her, Shia would send them flying mercilessly and then she would vanish right away.

However, as expected from them who was a gentleman despite being a warrior. They would lower their head and ask for permission without fail before taking their camera, even though they were passionately making request without reservation, but they didn’t bulldoze their way through.

Shia who had received warning from Hajime in the beginning, and what’s more she even committed mistake of getting rid of her artifact, she became unable instead to act forceful toward the otaku group who was like that.

And so she attempted to escape from Akiba, but the warriors of Akiba weren't that soft. Just like how the craftsmen of Hairihi Kingdom chased after Hajime before, they were earnestly coming to beg at Shia using wondrous tracking skill, physical ability, and coordination between fellow warriors that made Shia couldn't help but making retort「Are you guys really normal human!?」. Their figures made it as though the OTAKU nesting in AKIBA was really a different race.

Shia was thinking, 「The station of Akiba is far away……」, like that.

「Fuu, it cannot be helped. I didn't really want to do preposterous thing in Hajime-san's world but……it's already too late for that like this.」

By the time the voice of「Please, let us take a picture」was starting to become a great chorus, Shia sighed deeply while starting to walk briskly. The crowd surrounding Shia in circle became noisy, but Shia walked straight ahead without minding that and came to a stop in front of a young man.

The young man was muttering「Eh, eh? M, me? By any chance, it's coming? My springtime is coming?」, but as expected Shia didn't pay that any attention and she firmly grabbed the shoulders of the young man.

The young man went beet red from having both his shoulders grabbed by a foreign super beautiful girl wearing rabbit ears that couldn't be compared even with the countless idols he had seen. The surrounding was getting noisier.

The young man was making an expression that was vaguely containing hope. However, Shia gifted him with words that were heartless, that could also be considered as reward for a part of peculiar kind of human.

「I’m sorry. Can I ask you to kneel for a bit?」

「Eh?」

「Can you kneel, for me?」

Shia smiled sweetly while putting on strength that was just barely the limit. The young man was befuddled for a moment, but for some reason his face got even redder, then he bent his knee while breathing roughly in excitement. It seemed that this young man was also “a part of peculiar kind of human”.

Shia put her foot on the shoulder of that young man. The young man gulped his saliva seeing the beautiful leg peeking out from the skirt. The surrounding people were also holding their breath, wondering if an abnormal play was really going to start in front of a crowd this big. Camera lenses were gleaming here and there.

But, the next moment, they were blinking in astonishment.

「Well then everyone, forgive me for making ruckus.」

Saying that, Shia put her weight on the foot stepping on the young man’s shoulder, and then the next moment she leaped high. The young man surprisingly didn’t feel the feedback that would normally come from getting used as footstool for jumping even though he was slightly lurching forward. He felt surprised while coming back to his senses and turned around quickly.

There, he saw the figure of Shia twirling through a rotation midair while making the head of a bald uncle at the back as the next footstool. Like that, Shia was making the warriors of Akiba as footstool while advancing rapidly through the crowd.

「I, I was used as footstool!?」

「Shi, Shia-tan's beautiful foot, o, on my head, haa haa」

「Ste, step on me toooo! Shia-tan's footsie, grind on meee!!」

「Rabbit ear going pyon pyon……it's the real thing. It's the real rabbit-eared GIRLLLLL!! I cannot hold it in-」

「Right now, I'm witnessing a miracle……」

The warriors were greatly stimulated by Shia hopping around overhead the crowd. Her rabbit ears twitching pyoko pyoko, her rabbit tail shaking left and right furi furi, and then the brutally prancing melons barun barun pushed them to the verge of madness.

Of course, Shia wasn't aiming for that by doing this. Originally it was something easy for her to break out of the crowd with a single jump. However, doing that was only possible for a true inhuman person. Using people as footholds and jumped around was barely still in the range that could be processed using common sense.

Ignoring the commotion from the warriors of Akiba, Shia landed firmly at the end with a great jump that was accompanied with a splendid midair somersault that would make gymnastic athlete to go blue, and then without pause she sprinted away like a fleeing rabbit. The warriors who went 'hah' in realization started to move all at once.

「This time for sure, I swear I will reach Akiba stationnn! Don’t look down at the rabbit that overcame even the apostle of god desu!」

Surely the god apostles too would cry in the shadow if they knew they were compared with Akiba warrior.

Like that, Shia dashed through the last alley, and she caught the sight of Akihabara station ahead, her mouth burst into a broad smile thinking that she would quickly return to Hajime and receive punishment, it was at that time,

A second tale that was completely involuntary for Shia was starting.

In the shape of a hole that was like a pitch dark black hole suddenly appeared right under the foot of Shia who was stepping forward.

「Eh?」

Losing the place where her foot could step, Shia lurched forward and she was falling toward the hole. However, this person was one of the inhuman monsterr~s. She instantly activated the Air Force that was instilled into her shoes and used that as foothold in her attempt to escape to the opposite side.

But,

「Wha-!? I’m sucked!?」

Yes, the expression of black hole fitted that hole perfectly. It captured Shia with a radical absorbing force that was hard to oppose, as though it was the Absolute Catastrophe that Yue was controlling.

「Kuh, Hajime-san-!」

Because of the completely unexpected surprise attack, and because her combat senses had been receding since she came to earth, Shia was unable to deal with the absorption and in the end she called at the name of her beloved lover while being swallowed into the abyss.

Silence returned at the alley where Shia vanished. There was already no sign remaining that Shia had been there, a breeze blew through the alley vainly.

◇◆◇◆◇◆◇◆◇◆◇◆

Shia felt a solid ground under her butt after a terrible sense of weightlessness. Light was overflowing her field of vision that she couldn’t see clearly. However, her excellent sensing ability to detect presence detected multiple presences surrounding her at the other side of the light.

「It seems I avoided an instant death but……this place smell strongly with troublesomeness.」

Shia was smiling bitterly while pouring magic power into the ruby encrusted ring on her left hand’s ring finger. At the same time she lifted her palm to the side and clenched it into fist. Wirr Drucken manifested with a superb timing and settled inside her grasp.

It was an unforeseen situation, but the profound weight of her partner caused a fearless smile to emerge on Shia’s face. No matter what happened, she had the confidence that she would smash through all of them and her resolve that she would reunite with Hajime without fail was dwelling brightly inside her eyes as though it had been engraved there.

Like that, when Shia observed the situation while putting up her vigilance, the light was vanishing before long as though it was melting into the space.

‘Now then, what kind of bunches had done the idiotic action of kidnapping me’, ahead of Shia’s gaze that narrowed dangerously was,

「Oo, is it a success!?」

「As expected from the palace’s head magician-done.」

「Look at that beauty. It is as though she is the goddess of the moon.」

「No, more important than that, that thing growing at that person’s head……it could be, that she is a retainer of Spinea-sama.」

There were around twenty people who seemed to be soldiers wearing clothes like priest robe and armor. They were making noise of shock and happiness. Shia was looking around at the surrounding while keeping silent. A young man that looked slightly exhausted stepped forward to such Shia.

The young man was wearing a robe that was decorated with geometrical pattern of splendid ultramarine and silver, his hand was holding a cane that was created from tree that seemed to be a twisted evergreen oak, a jewel that looked like sapphire was attached on its tip. His vibrant silver long hair was tied at its root. He was wearing a small pince-nez glasses and his eyes of long slits gave an intellectual impression. He was a dreadfully handsome man of intellectual type.

That kind of intellectual handsome man faced Shia and he opened his mouth, however, someone grabbed his shoulder from behind and stopped him from speaking.

"Wait Reed. Don't approach carelessly. That woman is holding a weapon. We don't know what she might do."

The one who was saying that while sending vigilant and suspicious gaze at Shia was another dreadfully handsome man. He had vibrant blonde hair and golden eyes. His sharp gaze resembled carnivore beast, and his body was obviously well-trained even through the light armor he was wearing. He was a man that gave an impression as though he was a wild lion.

"Ee~, is that so? I think she is a really cute young woman though? I want to approach her right away."

"Phil, just shut your mouth. I don't need to hear the opinion of a playboy."

"Even though you said that, But Erick is also thinking inside your heart 'Su~per cute', right? Besides, look, Greg who normally has no interest to girl is completely charmed there."

The one who spoke with frivolous tone was also a handsome man as expected. His appearance was slovenly with his chest greatly exposed and his hand playing around with his wavy deep green hair.

Furthermore, there was one more man whose body built was larger than the others, however, as expected he was also a handsome man as though it had been arranged beforehand. This man with short black hair was focusing his gaze at Shia.

Looking at them, Shia who was considerably growing impatient opened her mouth while tapping Wirr Drucken on her shoulder.

「Excuse me, I don’t know what is your objective in kidnapping me, but if you are not hostile, then can you explain the situation already? I also want to go home quickly, so if possible I want you to teach me the method to go home without any antagonism.」

Hearing that, the blonde haired man who seemed to have a really haughty and prideful personality might be taking offense from Shia’s attitude, his eyes narrowed while he opened his mouth.

This time it was the silver haired gentle man who stopped the blond hair. He then made a gentle smile while speaking about their objective.

「My apologies. We are calling you here, is because we wish for you to save this world. My deepest apologies of our rudeness in doing this for our own convenience. But, please, I beg you to bring salvation to our world.」

Like that, the word that was the template, and in a sense was commonplace word was said decisively.

「——Hero-sama.」

After that, during the few months before Hajime was coming to pick her up, a great tale was unfolding, like splattering the monsters threatening the world, or splattering the fighting between countries, or splattering the handsome army that became the prisoner of Shia’s charm, or splattering the demon king together with the handsome men who weren’t discouraged even with the splattering they experienced, or getting showered with marriage proposals as the hero that saved the world from the princes of many countries, dragon king, spirit king, etc., anyway they were all handsome men, or having Hajime who came to pick her up going DOPAN- at them, but……all those would be told at another chance someday.

The End

‘Thinking carefully, Shia is really made up with main character qualities huh’, I tried to write this from that kind of thinking. If you like, please try to have your imagination run wild with a tale of Shia shooing off handsome men in another world that is overflowing with them while playing an active role by grandly beating enemy to death.

Well then, please kindly treat well the published version too.

Table of Content

Manga Vol 1 SS

That Meeting, Was Fate

There isn’t a single sound. An overwhelming silence. Not even a single streak of light shined in. The darkness is crushing and choking.

Something like the sense of time has vanished since a long time ago. The will to live has also dispersed. The harbored hatred has melted into the darkness, not even the meaning of word despair could be recalled anymore. Even so, I’m unable to even turn mad. Because of my ability that I was proud of at the past, but right now I can only think of it as a curse.

Suddenly, I feel like I can hear something. Even though that shouldn’t be possible. This place is the bottom of hell. The place where the uncle I trusted and his retainers sealed me into. So that the monstrous me cannot creep out even in the unlikely chance. A seal was applied.

——Why, am I still alive, I wonder

It’s a question, with obvious answer. I’m alive merely because I cannot die. That’s all.

I understand. I understand, yet I thought about it on a whim sometimes. As though, ‘perhaps there is another answer?’, it’s like I’m clinging to something that cannot even be called as an inexistent hope.

How foolish. Even though both hope and despair doesn’t exist anymore inside me. ——dopan-

「-……a?」

It seems that the ear of I who see through my own self-torturing mind and try to sink my consciousness into the bottom of darkness, is catching an auditory hallucination. ——dopan-, zuun-——dopan-

That’s not just my……imagination? I open my closed eyes. Two voices echoed inside my heart. A cold voice that spit out ‘it’s just hallucination’, and a voice that say ‘could it be’ in expectation of something.

A streak of light, shined in. It come from the wall that is splitting vertically, as though cutting through the darkness.

It’s hallucination, finally I become crazy, don’t hold any hope-. While the cold me is yelling with voice that is somewhat colored with desperation, ——he appeared from inside the light. Wearing an expression of wariness, and suspiciousness, a one-armed white-haired boy.

Our eyes met. Even though there is quite a distance, for some reason I can see clearly. His eyes.

At that moment, my heart jumped. There is no reason. My heart that should be freezing since that day of betrayal, dokun- it displayed its existence, it produced heat like a smelter that is burning with flame.

My eyes cannot move away. I’m merely, continue to stare in earnest at him who appeared from inside the light……

「Sorry, I entered the wrong room.」

Saying that, he began to close the door. The salvation that won’t visit for the second time. The space that is closing bit by bit, that is starting to be ruled by darkness once more, the moment the last light vanished, it promised an everlasting darkness for me.

That’s why, I desperately recall the way to let out voice that I have forgotten completely while somehow moving my tongue that cannot move satisfactorily and yelled. 「Help me」I said.

「No way.」

An instant answer. The impact rivaled a direct hit from a magic of the highest class. I am already deathly desperate.

He is going away. I will be unable to meet him. This trivial meeting will vanish completely from his memory-, I don’t want that-. I don’t want that no matter what-. Rather than being imprisoned for eternity in this darkness, rather than going through the torture of being alive simply from being unable to die, I don’t want to lose sight of him more than anything-.

I desperately spun my words, when I notice the door opened once again, and he is in front of my eyes.

He is saying something, but throughout it all I’m captured by his eyes that are really close and cannot even reply properly. dokun dokun My heart reverberated. Hot blood is rushing through it as though coming back to life.

――I’m scolded by the irritated him.

After somehow suppressing the emotion that is too much even for me, I talked about myself. If I really want to be saved, then surely it will be better if I invent some kind of made-up story. However, such thinking doesn’t emerge even just for a bit inside the me at that time. I merely told everything wishing for him to know about me.

Will he, abandon me? Will he yell at me, calling me monster? Will he fear, the undying vampire that won’t die as long as she still has magic power? Sure enough, he……

I, surely won’t, forget the sight at that time, for my whole life. Surely, in the whole world it’s the most striking, and powerful——crimson magic power. It undulate, spreading in ripples, shining brilliantly, bewitching me without any question.

When I’m finally liberated, and I speak the gratitude that is filled with my whole feeling, he——Hajime, for a moment is unable to speak with a complicated color emerging in his eyes, then he smile faintly. My heart is driven until it’s in the verge of bursting.

And then an even further pursuing attack. Hajime give me name. A new name that separate me from the past. It seems to mean the moon. He said that because he could see the moon shining in the night sky from when I was inside the darkness.

——Someone, please use healing magic on me. My automatic regeneration is nullified. My heart isss

I think it’s great that my expression stiffened. Because if not, my face will turn so slovenly without comparison.

When I am wearing Hajime’s clothes excitedly, he suddenly leaped toward me. Do-do-do-, don’t tell me-, he is pushing me down!? Someone-, someone-, use healing magic on my jumping heart-.

I am making a ruckus inside my heart, but right after that, I saw the monster leaping down from the ceiling and my head cooled right away. It is an outrageous monster. It is an opponent that really should be regarded as a desperate situation for the frail me and Hajime who most likely only has a talent as a transmutation master. It’s enough. That a monster like me is saved. That I am given a name. That I am smiled at. It’s enough already, so it’s fine even if I’m left behind. I stare at Hajime with that kind of feeling.

「Bring it on. ……If you think you can kill me then just try it.」

What returned is a fearless smile. A striking killing intent that cause the body to shiver reflexively. And then, with his back toward me protectively, an overwhelming will that displayed determination. While feeling a sensation that paralyzes my whole body, in this situation that should be a desperate one, inside my head suddenly, the usual question was coming to mind.

——Why, am I still alive, I wonder

Aa, I understand. Right now, I understand. I found the answer.

The time of more than several hundred years, is for the meeting in this bottom of hell. That is exactly the reason, that I stayed alive while being dead.

I don’t turn it into words. Because if I do so, it will instantly sound hackneyed.

That’s why, let’s yell it, inside the heart, obeying the welling up impulse.

This meeting——is fate.

Table of Content

Arifureta Manga Vol 2 SS & Afterword

Showing Up Right Away Huh!?

Three hundred years, that was how long the darkness of abyss was imprisoning me.

Tomorrow, I'll get out from here. Together with my beloved who I met miraculously.

When I'm watching the sleeping face of Hajime who is sleeping at my side, everything that has happened until now is coming out to the forefront of my mind slowly one by one. It was a dramatic time that passed by in the blink of eye, to the degree that as though it felt like a mere instant. It was a struggle for survival above thin ice, like a dance with the death god as the accompaniment partner.

Surely I won't forget for my whole life, of the battle against the scorpion look-alike that became our first cooperation activity.

Setting that aside——Hajime's blood was delicious. So much so that I went into la-la land.

The conversation that we were doing after that in front of the camp fire was also deeply memorable. Because, at that time, Hajime said to me. That he will bring me home to his homeland.

I was extremely happy from hearing those words. No words can describe what I felt then.

No matter how you look at it, it was an indirect marriage proposal from someone beloved. No doubt about it. If I say that there is no doubt then there really is no doubt. No objection is allowed. Even if for example it’s from Hajime himself.

Also, Hajime’s blood was delicious just as I thought. I don’t hear anything like Hajime’s scream.

The days of battle against the monsters that were increasing in threat level the deeper we advanced. I can remember everything clearly. Every time we descend into deeper level, every time we overcame a battle, it felt like the bond between me and Hajime was deepening.

Hajime is happy if I burn the enemy. Hajime will smile to me if I turn the enemy into pieces. Hajime will praise me if I carve apart the enemy.

Hajime! I’ll kill more and more enemy! I’ll split the earth, make the air explode, freeze every life, dye the world crimson with flame that will make everything return into dust! That’s why, pat my head a lot! Hug me tightly!

……Nn. I think, the me at that time was too worked up. How embarrassing. As expected, even Hajime seemed like hesitating toward my devotion, he told me act a bit more restrained.

Hajime is so kind. Even recalling it now make me want to push him——cough-. Make me want to hug him tightly.

Although, that one time was unacceptable. Certainly, for me to get manipulated by that disgusting plant monster, was my great blunder. There is no excuse. In addition, although it was just for a tiny bit, it was a fact that I tasted the feeling of a tragic heroine. Really, I'm reflecting very much.

But still, even with all that, I think shooting unhesitatingly is still out. It made jyoin- sound. Jyoinnn, like that. The sound of the head skin getting scraped, sounded unexpected…….

I guess at that time, Hajime's thinking about me was still strongly reluctant in considering me as fellow comrade, then he use every word in his disposal to return my plummeting mood back to normal……the truth is I felt happy with Hajime acting like that that my mood recovered instantly, but that's a secret.

At any rate, I sucked Hajime's blood senseless after that. It was a flavor that can melt you.

There was also a lot of drama throughout the time until we reached this lowest level. Of course, it was a romance story of me and Hajime, where we overcame difficulty and our love of each other grew. If everything is turned into book, there is no doubt that it will be a huge story that take a hundred volume in total.

Blowing away everything with the power of love even while plainly falling into a pinch, doing 'chuu~ chuu~' at Hajime, destroying powerful enemies who were lining up one after another without letting even a single one escape, going 'muchuuuu' at Hajime, turning the trap of a cunning monster back to itself and telling it 'serves you right', pushing down Hajime and doing 'chuuu- chuuu- splat*, releasing flame and set ablaze the whole floor……everything is deeply memorable, let's turn them into book someday, yes, let's do that.

What really make my love story with Hajime to be worthy of publishing, is the hydra battle as expected. I think that scene is exactly the climax of the story. That monster, it was really something that has gone off the proper rail.

The foul play that is me, who can fire the highest class magic in no time, and the foul play that is Hajime's artifact, that can fire excessively powerful attack, regardless of the user and the situation. Even with those the victory is only barely reached.

Anyway, unforgivable liberator. I don't care whether it's a trial or something, but the sin of hurting Hajime is heavy. It's unfortunate that the liberator is already died and I cannot do anything to him.

If he is still alive, fuh, fufuh, fufufufufufufufufufufuh.

In any case, I was relieved from the bottom of my heart that Hajime recovered completely in Oscar's hideout. I was relieved, so I dug in deliciously.

If it was a story, then it was surely the happy end. The ending is of course, the mutual love of me and Hajime. However, it wasn't the plain bed scene you can find anywhere. It was in the hot spring, under the moonlight. Fufufuh, the level of the lovers around there compared with us, is just too different, like heaven and earth! Even when I'm recalling it right now, Hajime at that time was……kufuu!

In these two months, I believe that the bond between me and Hajime was deepened from the honeymoon in this hideout. It was a sweet, joyous days. As though, we are newly-wed. As though we are newly-wed! A world of just the two of us, without any nuisance! Actually, I was thinking a bit, that staying with only Hajime like this in the bottom of the abyss, without escaping or anything is also a possible choice……rather, shutting in Hajime to be with me for eternity is……

Cough-. By no means, I’m thinking anything like that. Hajime want to go back to his homeland, so I will just support him with my all.

Although, I think that if we escape from here then the world of only the two of us will vanish, in its place a lot of encounters will be waiting. I think, that among those encounters, there will be absolutely, without even any doubt, the shitty bitch——nn-, woman who will aim to get Hajime.

The time of escape, will be the time of determination for me, so to speak. It will be time to step inside the battlefield.

No matter what time it would be, no matter what kind of existence the opponent would be, this vampire princess Yue, will take them on right from the front!

——The next day, right after the escape

□I fhound youuu! I finally fhound youuuu~~!□

Showing up right away huh!? I am the vampire princess Yue. A woman who won’t show mercy even against a regrettable-looking rabbit!

Afterword from Shirakome Ryou

This is the author who is in extreme bliss from being able to give speech once more in this place——

This is Shirakome Ryou.

Original development that is distinctive of manga version, and impact that is conveyed exactly because of the illustration…….

Even while the physique condition of RoGa-sensei whose work isn’t dropping in quality is getting shaky,

Every month, Shirakome is looking forward to the manga while grinning widely.

The publishing of the second volume is coming true like this is thanks to RoGa-sensei’s strenuous effort, the hard work of everyone in the editing department, and then, above all else all of you honored readers who purchased the first volume.

I’m wishing so that I can be allowed to give a speech once more in the next volume too.

Everyone! I beg you, please take care of “Arifureta” from here on too!!

Afterword from RoGa

The second volume managed to get published safely too. My apology and gratitude to the OVL editing department about all the trouble I gave them this time too.

My many thanks to Futada-man of composition help and Takeda-man who gave me help too.

Please take care of the third volume in the future too.

Next will Shia become active I wonder!?

This is RoGa.

Table of Content

Manga Vol 3 SS

Don’t Misunderstand Okay!? We Are Still Not Friend or Anything, You Get It!?

–

「……Fly away until the moon.」

Tonight a rabbit is also dancing in the sky at the same time with my declaration. Together with a scream.

I and Hajime who got out of Great Labyrinth Orcus encountered a happy-go-lucky and regrettable rabbit who is receiving wind blow from every direction at midair right now. A regrettable rabbit who escaped from the sea of trees, who got her family taken away by the empire, and who was told by her fellow race that if she returned to her homeland she would be executed.

It seems being born is a sin. It seems this girl’s wish to live is also a sin. Her encounter with Hajime saved her and her family but……what a situation to be put in.

Putting that aside,

「……Become a star.」

The rabbit who is sent flying for who know how many dozens of times already for tonight. Rabbit flying in the sky is beautiful……

「Sti, still not yeeet, hics-, fuee-. Next time for sureee-」

The rabbit who fell on the ground with dosha- sound is, right, it's strange to say this when it's me who did it but, she is in terrible state. She is wounded all over, she is smeared with mud, her face is also messed up from tear and snot. And so,

「……Become stain on the ground.」

'Hebua!?' Such bizarre scream is raised while the regrettable rabbit sunk into the ground. With today this is the fifth day of training. Without caring of afternoon or night, without even giving any time for rest, the regrettable rabbit is repeating getting sent flying or flattened on the ground forever. No matter how excellent her physical ability is, no matter how tough her body is, they can't help with her pain and wretchedness. I think her heart will reach the limit soon but……

「So, something like thiiis. Hics-, sniff-. Uuuh!!」

She doesn't break. As I thought, she doesn't break. Even though she is just a regrettable rabbit, this girl……doesn't break! No matter how regrettable her appearance become, the light won't extinguish from this girl's blue eyes. Even though she is crying, she is looking straight at me, she absolutely won't avert her gaze. Unconsciously……I thought, it's beautiful.

It's vexing so I freeze her. 「PYAAAAAH」 A strange scream is raised, but no mercy. Because I am Yue, a woman who goes all out full power even in venting anger!

Sixth day of training. The regrettable rabbit is starting to dodge the wind blows. I can see it from her gaze's movement. She is definitely dodging after confirming with sight. She isn't just charging blindly. This girl is growing. The firm will that is established for the sake of her wish is granting strength to this girl with unbelievable speed.

Seventh day of training. It seems she mastered the control of her strength. The sea of trees become a natural weapon warehouse for the regrettable rabbit. Large tree that will easily snap come flying as buckshot. The soil that is scooped up by impact come attacking as dust and pebbles. If it's just basic level magic, she can send them flying with only physical strength.

Is this regrettable rabbit a monster!? Hajimee! Hajime~! The forest rabbit won't go down! No matter how many times I send her flying, she won't stop! What should I do!?

Eighth day of training. Ora Ora Ora Oraa! Don't you dare underestimate a cheat level vampire princessss. Wait, ah, wait! Time out! Don't come! WAAAAAH.

Ninth day of training. Carelessness, isn't permitted anymore! If I let my guard down, that large tree will smash me. Getting smashed by the regrettable rabbit, that's too humiliating! Training? Who cares about that. O regrettable rabbit, die!

Tenth day of training. ……I lost. This me, this me who in the past was even lauded as one of the strongest in the world is, against a rabbit who was even completely unrelated with fighting until just ten days ago, defeated…….

I look at the rabbit who is going pyon, pyon around happily in front of me. Irritating. Unconsciously, I'm thinking to send the highest class of wide range magic flying and make the rabbit return back to the forest from where she came from. Although…….

「Yue-san! Yue-san! With this I can journey together with you two! I'm looking forward to it!」

'Ehehe~' While laughing like that, this girl hug my arm tightly. Seeing her figure, somehow I'm feeling strange. Throughout the training it was also like that. Eyes that won't lose their radiance, the figure that will stand back up no matter how many times while crying. Each time I see it, a feeling that even I myself don't really understand, which feels itchy, which feels like I want to writhe, which feels greatly constricting, such feeling is welling up. That's why,

「……Fix yourself there.」

「He? Wait, Uwappuu!? It's cruel to suddenly pour water like that desuu! What grudge do you――」

「……Even though you are going to make the confession of your lifetime, what's with that appearance? I'll clean you up, so stay still.」

Shia is looking up at me in a daze with her mouth wide open. And then, the next moment, her expression breaks down flabbily. It's really obvious even without any word. Just from a glance, you can see she is unbearably happy.

I'm, feeling strange again. I focus on cleaning up Shia and cover up the feeling.

「Yue-san. I'll surely get turned down.」

「……Nn」

For a moment, I’m lost for words hearing Shia’s words. Even though, I should be able to reply ‘Naturally’ right away.

Even though Shia should be talking about an undesirable future for her, she is speaking with a really bright atmosphere.

「But, I’ll be able to come along in the journey. ……Yue-san, are you really okay with me coming together?」

This girl is……, even though she had overcome a hellish training with an unshakeable will, and yet getting weak-kneed at this point……what a regrettable rabbit.

While washing the hair with a lot of bubbles, when I noticed, I have naturally opened my mouth toward the rabbit who is gazing uneasily at me.

「……A woman won’t goes back on her words. I am, your ally. If I’m not okay with it……you absolutely wouldn’t win.」

Aah, that’s right. I’m convinced after hearing my own words. This girl’s growth, is certainly abnormal but, if I was serious then there is no doubt that I would be completely unharmed. This small wound, is the proof that this girl’s feeling reached. It’s the proof, of my recognition.

Looking at Shia, with that bubbly appearance, she is smiling with happy and joyful expression.

「Ehehe~. Yue-san, we are already friend, no, it’s not an exaggeration to call us best friend!」

「……It’s an exaggeration, so don’t get carried away, regrettable rabbit.」

‘Ee~’, the rabbit raised a voice that sounded dissatisfied, but happy. I wash her thoroughly a bit violently while repeatedly ruminating on the word “friend” that strangely resounded in my heart.

I have no power to see the future like this girl. But, somehow I thought.

Surely, the relationship with this girl will be a long one.

In the world that was filled with the two colors of Hajime and me, another coloring is born……that’s what I feel.

–

–

–

Author’s Afterword

Celebration! Manga volume 3 is on sale! Congratulations! Thank you very much!

This is the author, Chuuni Suki who now is Shirakome Ryou.

In this volume, Shia suddenly entered the stage for real but,

The Shia that RoGa-sensei drew is cute.

In addition, Yue’s expression also changed all over the place with Shia’s entrance, this is unbearably cute!

The impact that cannot be found in novel, that is unique to manga, it’s overflowing with comical and cuteness.

Shirakome himself has reread this many times over.

Anyway, my overwhelming gratitude to RoGa-sensei!

Above all else, everyone who picked up the volume! Really thank you very much!

Please give your best regards to Arifureta from here on too.

Shirakome Ryou

–

Mangaka’s Afterword

Volume 3 managed to be published safely.

My thanks to the people who cooperated with this.

It’s great how abundant Shia’s expression is.

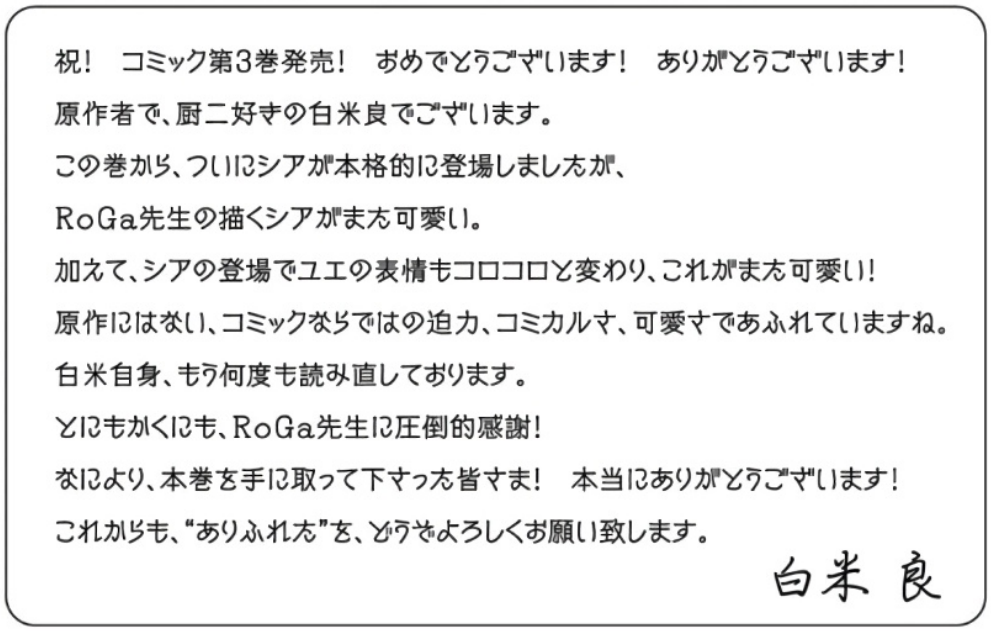
Next is her breast.

Please give your best regards for the next volume too.

Who will stand out in the next volume I wonder!?

This is RoGa.

RoGa



祝！　コミック第3巻発売！　おめでとうございます！　ありがとうございます！
原作者で、厨二好きの白米良でございます。
この巻から、ついにシアが本格的に登場しましたが、
RoGa先生の描くシアがまた可愛い。
加えて、シアの登場でユエの表情もコロコロと変わり、これがまた可愛い！
原作にはない、コミックならではの迫力、コミカルさ、可愛さであふれていますね。
白米自身、もう何度も読み直しております。
とにもかくにも、RoGa先生に圧倒的感謝！
なにより、本巻を手に取って下さった皆さま！　本当にありがとうございます！
これからも、“ありふれた”を、どうぞよろしくお願い致します。
白米 良

Table of Content

Manga Vol 4 SS

I, I Made……A Friend (□□д□□) Fidget Fidget

–

Pissed off……

I’m super pissed off……

That was the whole impression of me who challenged Great Labyrinth Raisen.

If I had to confess, I was a former queen, so I received super first rate education, so since I was born I had never using any words like □Pissed off□.

Someone like me was made to say □pissed off□. From the bottom of my heart I was made to say □Miledi seriously pissed me off□ with overflowing feeling.

Miledi Raisen……she really had done it now.

Very much so.

She was an outrageous person, in various meanings, no exaggeration.

Let me confessed one more thing.

When I who was curious just what was behind the annoying traps that were set up inside the great labyrinth and the Miledy crest that was like the most annoying ever existed learned the answer.

Yes, when I faced Miledi Raisen herself at the deepest part of the great labyrinth.

When she received our challenge with a firm will.

I trembled.

I was completely overwhelmed. Not against the pressure that she released.

It was by her strength of will.

I thought it was impossible. I almost raised my voice spontaneously to say, that’s impossible.

Because don’t you agree?

To wait all this time. To keep believing until now like that.

On hope, on the future, on human’s strength, on the world changing, no matter how many months and years passed, to think that he wouldn’t give up even now-.

When did the Liberators died? Just how long she had continued to live, alone by herself, throwing away even her body? She was able to continue holding on her sense of self in this bottom of the earth? How in the world she was able to continue believing wholeheartedly, without wavering?

If I was asked if I didn’t feel any sympathy, I couldn’t deny it. The darkness of the abyss, the loneliness, the suffering that were imprisoning me continuously for three hundred years were surely similar with hers.

However, it couldn’t be compared. That was what I honestly thought.

After all even while I was sinking into the swamp of resignation and despair, she was continuing to wait all this time with the believe that someone would arrive in front of her.

That was truly a will of steel that even god wouldn’t be able to violate.

It was completely unbelievable that a mere human would be able to do something like that. It was far surpassing the domain of human.

I was in a deathly battle against her, but even during that I couldn’t help but harboring feeling of awe to her overwhelming strength of heart.

That must be why. I gave her my words when she was vanishing.

Driven by a strong impulse that felt like constricting myself, as though I was floating lightly in the air, an impulse that even I myself didn’t really understand, I wanted to say something, but I didn’t know what kind of word I should give her, and somehow the words that I found out from within was something trite like “Thank you for your hard work”……

Even so, she said 「Thank you」 to me……

Well, putting that aside.

I’ll crush you! You-you little-, damn Miledi-! You are pissing me offff! This bastarddd!

「Ah!? Wait a second blond girl! Yue-chan was it!? Stooop! This body is really delicate you knowww! Miledi-san will breakkkkkkkkkk-」

Who cares! I'll trample on you-, I'll grind on youuu!

I'll clear this vexation of being unable to be really useful for Hajime due to Raisen's traitttt! How dare you making a fool of meee! Ora ora oraaa, the humiliation I received isn't something this smallll! I am Yue! A woman who will give double the payback !

I'm also, a woman who won't hesitate to vent!

「Yue-san! Let's tear off this thing's clothes!」

「……Nn-. Nice idea. Leave behind, all of your possession.」

Like that, I paid back the grandly annoying liberator to my heart's content and became somewhat refreshed, but as expected from Miledi who would surely be the champion of the millennium by great margin if there was a world championship for annoyingness.

This littleee! At the end she flushed us out into toilet hole!

This humiliation! This resentment! It has to be cleared no matter whaatt!

Cough-. In any case, I mean to say that the Pissledy Raisen was an outrageous person.

And so, regarding the comforting rabbit though, right, I think, she really had done her best. Even though just a little while ago she was just a hopeless rabbit.

Just because she wished to be together with us, she was wailing tearfully while desperately clinging doggedly……

Even when she peed herself, even when the rabbit fur at the tip of her rabbit ear were plucked hard, even when her head was hit strongly with metal basin, even when mysterious milky white liquid was splashed on her face, even when she was dropped into a pit full of insect, even when she was rained down with metal basins……she was pitiable huh.

A, anyway! She really did her best to endur all the humiliation and insult and pain!

Such thing had to be recognized. The feeling of this girl who wished to be together with us.

Her wish to me of wanting to become comrade, a friend was also amazing for some reason. It gave me a ticklish feeling but——I'll recognize it.

That Shia Hauria was, a person who was worthy of trust, my friend.

With such feeling, after defeating the Pissledy Raisen. I hugged Shia tightly and patted her head consolingly but……

「Yue-saaa~~n」

……

……

What's this cute creature? She hugged me back clingingly, she was moved to tears while smiling happily, and her fluffy rabbit ears were rubbing on me fawningly.

I've to protect her! I've to protect this girl!

Cough-. I was feeling a bit disturbed but, anyway, I who recognized Shia made a vow.

——From here on, I won’t let anyone hurt this girl anymore.

Because this girl had been hurt enough. Her birth was rejected, she was chased away from her birthplace, her family taken away from her.

Even so she did her best, that was how this girl arrived at this place, the place where I and Hajime were at.

Then, I’d fight everything that tried to hurt this girl with my all.

I would protect her to the end by risking the whole body and spirit of the vampire princess who was once called as the strongest.

That’s why……that’s why!

So, something like a kiss, isn’t any problem you know?

Yue-san, was a friend but she was older after all? She was a big sister after all? The caliber of her heart, was large after all?

Even if it was one that felt a bit like deep kiss, it was fine you know?

It was fine, but……

.

Shia. What did you say about my breast?

.

Fufufu-. Yue-san had snapped after so long. She fully understood that her cute little sister needed disciplining.

Were you prepared? Had you finished praying? Was your preparation to go ‘blub blub’ in the bathtub okay?

Come, squeal like a pig.

And, due to those various things, I firmly punished my troubling little sister and friend who often got carried away while we were departing to a new journey once more.

Somehow, I had a premonition.

Surely, there would be another troubling encounter from now. And I thought that surely, the encounter would be with another woman again. My sharp instinct was whispering to me.

However, I wondered why. It wasn’t a bad feeling.

Before I even thought that it would be fine with only me and Hajime in this world, but after going out from the bottom of Abyss, perhaps even I was changing little by little.

In any case, I thought that it wouldn’t be a problem if that encounter was something good for Hajime.

After all if that was the case, then it should also be a good encounter for me at the same time.

Arifureta Afterword of Afterword

Afterword of Afterword

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou 1

Author – Shirakome Ryou

At the time after about a week passed since the students of earth were summoned to another world Tortus.

At the training place of knights and soldiers in the Hairihi kingdom, there were the figures of the students making wondrous cane or accessories shined while activating magic, swinging around splendorous sword or spear with fairly experienced air.

The students were showing splendid skill like heroes that appeared in fairy tale in just about one week. Their vocation that bloomed by descending into this world and displayed matchless talent in its field, and the pointed support from the kingdom side, those factors were the reason why the students were growing with a speed like sponge absorbing water.

While those students were endeavoring in their training, there was the figure of a boy looking down while moaning ‘hm hm’ at the corner of the place.

□……Slow.□

The young man——Nagumo Hajime was whispering with a voice that could be heard as cursing or feeling exasperated. Before his eyes there were something like a thorn? growing up limply from the ground.

Hajime was hanging his head down while moaning wasn't because he was gasping from stomachache while desperately enduring from spurting out black history from his butt, nor because he was desperately repressing the chuuni soul that was sealed in the deepest part of his heart.

He was merely using his talent the "transmutation" skill desperately. He was repeatedly testing if he could somehow grow out thorn from the ground using transmutation to attaackk! like in a certain manga, otaku style, but the result was totally limp like jelly lump no matter how many times he tried it.

Although he was at a corner, but the visibility of the place was extremely well, so naturally such figure of Hajime entered the sight. Hiyama Daisuke and his gang who came to make fun of Hajime glanced at Hajime's result and then smirked obviously.

The other classmates too, they were also emitting unfriendly air, as though they were making fun of him somewhat, or looking down at him as an existence that wasn't worthy to be taken seriously, or perhaps deciding that Hajime wasn't even worth any interest.

But, at that time, something cold poked at the cheek of Hajime who was starting to concentrate once again……

□Uhyah□

Hajime reflexively jumped while raising a scream that sounded somewhat unbefitting for a man. A lovely chuckle that sounded like a ringing bell reached Hajime’s ear. That clear voice didn’t sound malicious by any means, it sounded like someone who succeeded in their prank, or possibly an expression of happiness from seeing that rare reaction of Hajime.

「Shi, Shirasaki-san……don’t surprise me like that.」

「Fufu, I’m sorry, Nagumo-kun. For some reason it looked like you were really persevering at it, so I’m wondering that some rest might done you good. Here, it’s nicely cooled already.」

Ahead of the gaze of Hajime who was turning around, there was the figure of a girl——Shirasaki Kaori presenting him with a cold drink. It seemed she came bringing drink in consideration of Hajime who was straying off course into a training without any clear prospect.

Hajime smiled wryly while saying thanks and took the glass. Inside the glass was filled with a mysterious liquid that was rainbow colored with popping bubbles. Actually it was a carbonated drink with a taste that resembled apple, and it was Hajime’s favorite but……it seemed that Kaori-san had grasped Hajime’s preference before anyone knew it.

Hajime shivered a bit in a different meaning. Seeing such Hajime, Kaori said 「Oh no, you are catching cold there」 and quickly approached Hajime with her misunderstanding in full throttle. And then, as expected she was fully prepared, Kaori took out a towel from somewhere and began to faithfully wipe the little sweat Hajime was perspiring.

(Ple, please be conscious, of someone’s personal area, and also the TPO!) (TN: TPO = Time, Place, Occasion)

Hajime was letting out sweat further from the torture of the piercing gazes from the surrounding while taking distance away from Kaori slowly, but the more he was backing away, the more Kaori was advancing with light steps. And then, saying 「Waa, you are sweating a lot」, she was wiping and wiping even more.

Slowly, backing away. Step step, forward forward.

Sweat sweat, wipe wipe.

(No, no good. The eyes of Hiyama and others are looking murderous-. Ah, even the other boys are making their artifact shine-. Wai-, girls!? Isn't that the chanting for the combination magic you all just learned!?)

Hajime's state of mind was exactly like a mouse that was cornered by a cat. But, the cat-san that was really bothered by the mouse-kun that it couldn't be helped looked really worried from the bottom of her heart seeing the worsening color of mouse-san's face, that she approached closer even more insistently.

Hajime class changed from mouse into rabbit and began to seriously think to run away just like a panicky rabbit, but it was at that time that his savior finally arrived.

「Come on, Kaori. You should stop there. You are being too close. Nagumo-kun cannot rest if you are like that, see?」

「Ah, Shizuku-chan.」

It was Yaegashi Shizuku who was Kaori's stopper and also best friend. It seemed Shizuku was completely grasping the current situation, so she made a troubled smile from having to look after her best friend's rampage even while nonchalantly pulling Kaori away.

The temperature of the surrounding’s atmosphere was decreasing. It seemed that the voltage of the classmates was going up and down in comparison with the distance between Kaori and Hajime.

And then, Kaori who became a bit calmer similarly like the surrounding’s atmosphere blushed from how close she was with Hajime and she backed away with brisk steps. And then, she gazed at Hajime shyly with brief glances and upward stare. With an upward stare!

(Kuh, as expected from Shirasaki-san, what fighting strength-. Is she a monster-)

Using such impression that was painted with impoliteness and joke material, Hajime pretended to not notice his heart that was beating like an alarm bell while sending his gratitude toward Shizuku once more. Even though Shizuku shrugged her shoulders at that, but it seemed she saw through Hajime’s pretension and she didn’t bother to hide her amused air.

Shizuku pulled at Kaori’s hand while the corner of her mouth was twitching.

「The, then Kaori. You have finished giving the drink already, we should go back to our own training too, okay?」

「Wait, Shizuku-chan. I have something I want to ask from Nagumo-kun.」

「Something you want to ask? Come to think of it, you were really deep in talk with the maid just for asking about the drink that Nagumo-kun often asked for before this.」

While comprehending that the information source was actually from a maid, Hajime was getting a bad premonition seeing Kaori who was looking at him with determination.

It seemed that his premonition was right on the money. The next moment, the words that Kaori fired showed how she was still in charge ahead maiden mode.

「Na, Nagumo-kun. You, you see…..Does Nagumo-kun like a girl who is wearing maid uniform I wonder!? I wonder!?」

「Just what are you saying so suddenly, Shirasaki-san!?」

Hajime was greatly shaken at this situation where he was publicly interrogated by a girl classmate about 「Do you like maid?」.The eyes of the girls changed as though they were looking at trash, as for the boys……several of them were averting their eyes.

「Because, Nagumo-kun. Your eys often chased after the maids in the palace……. Sometimes, when you looked at the casual act of the maids, you would nod with a face like a critic somewhere……」

「Stop-. More than this and it will be all over for me!! Shirasaki-san, you actually hate me right!? Isn't that right!?」

The life point of Hajime's heart was being shaved off greatly. But, it seemed that the word "mercy" didn't exist in the dictionary of the beautiful girl who was even praised as the two great goddess along with Shizuku in the school. Beside her, the best friend was looking at the sky with an expression that was mixed with resignation, saying 「This is no good, she is completely in charge ahead mode」. Kaori didn't even notice that and launched her second blow.

「And, and also. I think the work of the palace maids must not get obstructed. Nagumo-kun is also a boy, that's why you mustn’t do anything even by mistake, that’s what I think.

Hey, Shirasaki-san. Do you notice? You said that my existence is a hindrance for the maids, you are saying cruel thing nonchalantly there you know? What’s more, you said that I might assault the maids……in my heart, right now Shirasaki-san’s words are stabbing all over and over you know?

That’s why, I reluctantly, yes, really reluctantly make this suggestion!

You aren’t listening to me at all aren’t you! Oi Yaegashi-san, your best friend is completely going wild here! Quickly stop……wait, what’s with that face that seem to say Man can only pray to the god!? Don’t give up! If you give up here, then it’s the end for me!

Shizuku made a transparent smile while starting to look at the sky far away. The figure of the pitiful boy was already not reflected in those eyes.

And then, while feeling uneasy, Hajime opened his mouth to stop Kaori somehow, but right after that, Kaori beat him to the punch by dropping the bomb.

So that Nagumo-kun won’t commit any mistake! And also for the sake of the maids too! I’ll wear maid uniform for you!

The tension of the classmates broke through the sky. Of course, to the direction of the negative.

Surely that was something that couldn’t be helped. Listening objectively, in order to protect the maids from Hajime’s sexually hungry gaze, Kaori would wear maid uniform and exposed herself to Hajime’s gaze in the place of those girls……that was how it sounded like.

Hajime dashed away without glancing left or right like a rabbit on fire. In order to jump into the chest of the reliable older brother replacement of everyone――the captain of the kingdom’s knight order, Meld who was not present because of some business. ‘If it is that person, he should be able to protect me from my frenzied angry classmates!’ That was the lifeline that Hajime was holding on to.

Behind him, beside Kaori who was holding her blushing red cheeks with closed eyes while saying 「I, I said it!」, dododododo the berserkers were passing through with steps that were making tremor on the ground.

「……I’m sorry, Nagumo-kun. Forgive this powerless me.」

Shizuku’s powerless voice slipped into the breeze weakly and vanished.

After that, Kaori who noticed Hajime’s escape and the classmates’ misunderstanding chased after Hajime and others in panic in order to resolve the misunderstanding, what she found ahead was the sight of captain Meld who was being embraced by Hajime. She was swallowed by the vortex of misunderstanding, 「I have to bring back Nagumo-kun away from that path!」 and resolved to a completely unfounded direction, and for a while she directed vigilant gaze at captain Meld in every chance and continuously troubled him, such thing happened.

And then, among the palace maids, this and that about captain Meld and the incompetent boy were whispered……

「「Why it become like this……」」

The strongest knight of the kingdom and the weakest boy of the summoned group whispered with overlapping disheartened voice.

–

–

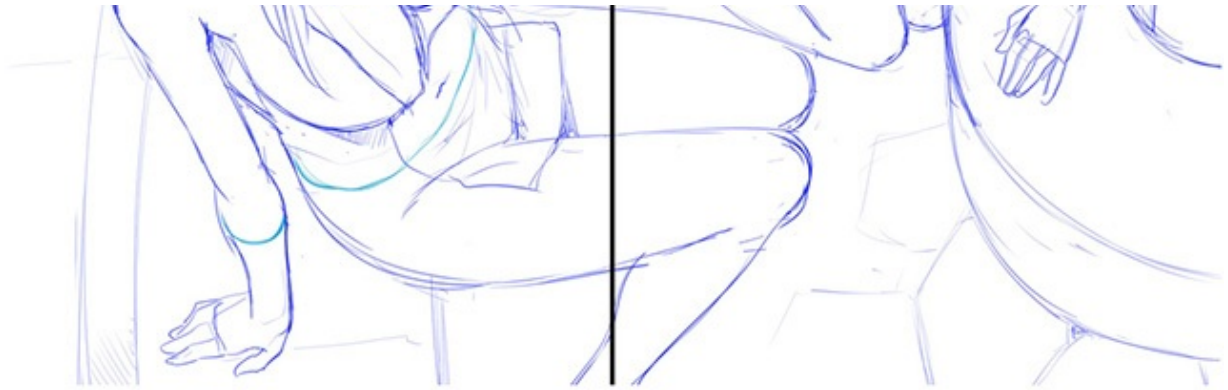
–

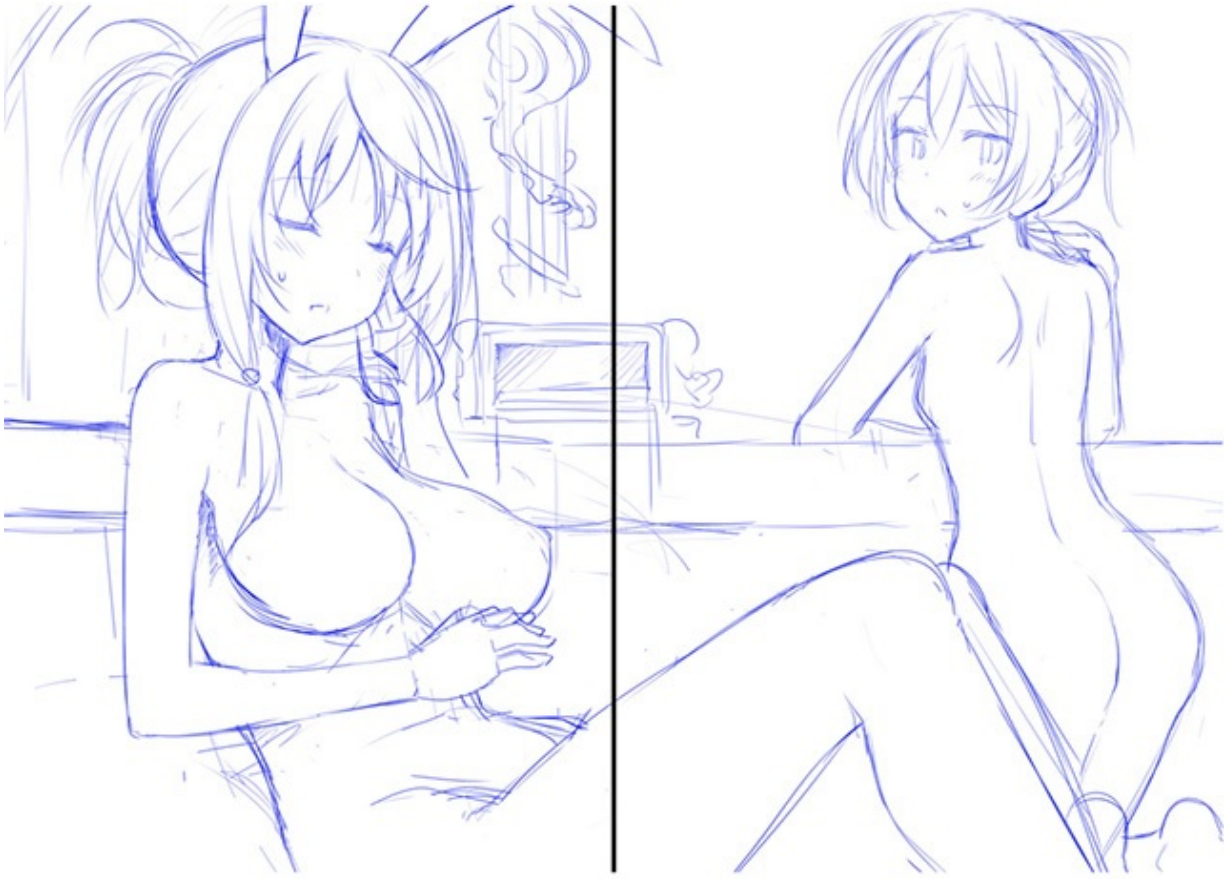
Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou 2

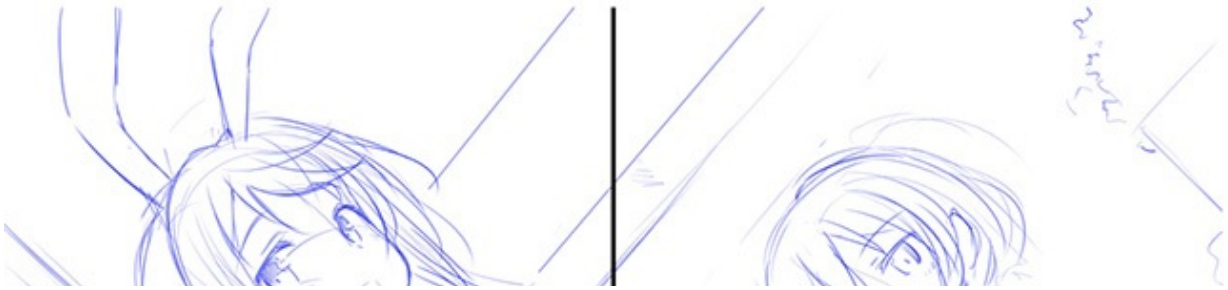
Author – Shirakome Ryou Illustrator – Takayaki

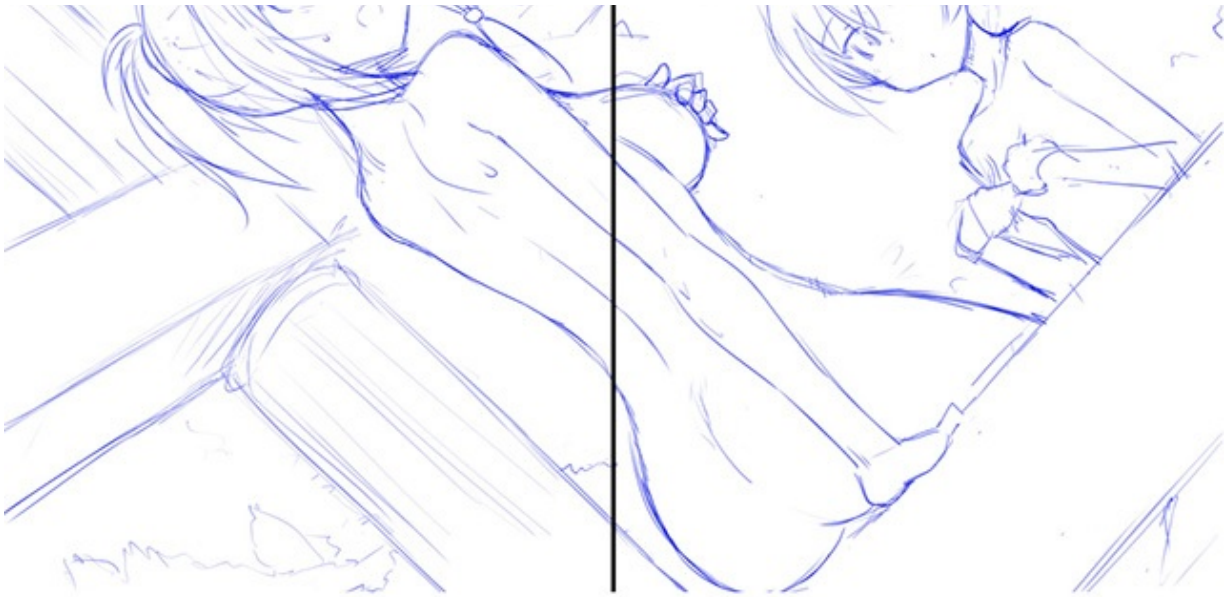
Afterword of afterword’s limited!

Great publication of volume 2’s rough illustration!









–

–

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou　3

Author – Shirakome Ryou

When Shirakome write light novel, what came into mind first is the character.

Character come into mind, the scene I want to write come into mind, and then the story in order to reach that scene is fleshed out……something like that.

The characters that become the origin of such tale. Famous image character is needed for those characters. The impetus for my wild delusion is generally starting when Shirakome is reading some kind of work that cause Shirakome to grin by himself w

And so, I’m thinking to introduce for just a bit of the image characters that become the basis for Arifureta characters.

First, the main heroine Yue-san——the image character for her is the great sage-sama (loli version) of Genso○ somewhere. Seeing a certain work in Niconico douga, Shirakome went 「Uwaa, Yu○ri-san, totally cute」 and my delusion gave out such result.

Next, Shia. It doesn’t even need to be said. You all know right. Yes, she too is based on from a former military officer rabbit-san (however, the not insane version) from that Genso○ somewhere. What’s more, my delusion spread and before I realized a certain Mon○ji black rabbit-san was mixed.

For Kaori, it’s from the class representative-san of a certain tokimeku diary (only love), Shizuku is from a certain magical ○dex’s fallen angel maid-san (saint ponytail swordswoman-san), and Kouki is from the proto Saber-san of F○te.

And, for Tio who made her entrance at third volume……her image character is from world’s number 2 dragon god-sama of Hi○ School DxD. Yes, she is completely different isn’t she? She needed loli-ness, and taciturn-ness, and also pureness. For some reason I cannot just get into goth-loli……yosh, then, I’ll rather do everything in reverse! From such idea that kind of girl was born. Shirakome himself thought it the most, how did it become like this……like that.

Now then, this time there is also characters that I don’t introduce (like the main character), it will be for the next chance someday.

Please look after [Arifureta] from here on too.

–

–

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou 4

Author – Shirakome Ryou

At the□Afterword of Afterword□ last volume, I introduced the image characters regarding the main characters.

What about the other characters!? If there are those who are holding expectation about that, I'm sorry. This time borrowing this place, I'm thinking to introduce the image models for the artifacts Hajime created.

For example, the arms that are representative of Hajime, the two large revolvers "Donner & Schlag", the model is from Constrictor and a certain black cat's ornamental gun, the revolver of tongari(pointed) gunner, and so on.

Doing air reload using two of those revolvers with slightly peculiar design while performing Gun Kata of the movie Equilibr○m……that will be absurdly awesome!! The result of Shirakome's chuuni soul feeling itchy like that gave birth to Donner & Schlag.

For the sniper cannon "Schlagen" and gatling cannon "Metzelei", there is no image model especially for them, but if I'm forced to say, Metzelei is from Black Ro○ Shooter I guess.

Rocket and missile launcher "Orkan" is from that thing of the big bro pastor from Tri○n. Puni○er-san is top ranked romance weapon even inside Shirakome.

For pile bunker, I imaged it from the thing that came out in nico douga's Azatho○ Diva(□□□□□○□□□□□). It's not exaggeration even if Shirakome said that this video series is already sacred video for me. The uploader-sama is god.

The four wheeled vehicle Breeze is from Hummer. The two wheeled Steiff is from around Goldwing F6C. The dearest wish of Shirakome that want to ride both of them someday leaked out.

And the last is Doryukken, this is from RWB○, as expected it's modeled from romance weapon that came out in Niconico. This video is heaped with romance weapons that made one writhed.

Now then, for the time being, this time let's end it until here. When the story is advancing and we come to this section once more, I'm thinking to be allowed to talk about the characters, or the romance weapons, or the behind the scene, and so on.

Well then everyone, please take care of [Arifureta] from here on too.

–

–

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou 5

Author – Shirakome Ryou

I'm thinking to be allowed to talk about the behind the scene of Arifureta in the「Afterword of Afterword」of this volume too.

Honestly speaking, 「Arifureta」, was planned by me to end at volume 4——that is to say, at the scene where Hajime and Kaori's reunion was actualized was planned to be the end of the volume. It was planned to give the readers the feeling of 「Ooyah」 and ended the volume with the atmosphere of 「Our journey will start from here!」.

If asked for the reason, the big reason is because when Shirakome started writing [Arifureta], watching the Gunda○ Seed's episode of 「Descending Sword」, when the main character flew down from the sky and saved his comrades, the wild delusion 「What the hell is this, awesome!」 was overflowing out.

In other words, at the point when Hajime smashed the labyrinth ceiling and saved Kaori, I was in the state of 「Shirakome, is super satisfied☆」 you see.

If so then why, is the story became this long……

That is simply because many people in [Narou] were giving support, no other reason for it. In a sense, the one who gave birth to the story of the volume 5 and the rest of it were everyone, the readers of [Narou[, it's not an exaggeration even if I said that.

Because everyone is skilled in flattering, this stupid Shirakome got carried away and wrote a lot of after stories even after the conclusion of the main story. Rather, it feels like the after stories are the one that get better popularity……

Now then, I don't know how far I will continue writing [Arifureta], but so that the extra stories and the published version after revising become even more fun work, I'm investing all my experience point to delusion power and work hard, so please take care of this work from here on too.

–

–

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou 6

Author – Shirakome Ryou

About the afterword of afterword this time, there is no behind the scene talk like before. If it’s the behind the scene about artifact or character, there is a tiny bit, but it feels like it will end with just a few lines, so I’m thinking to do it in the next chance.

And so, this time is a bit of short story. That guy that was blown up by Hajime in the fifth volume is actually alive, I got that kind of idea at the time. And then, actually it formed this kind of connection with that child that was left behind in Erisen……it’s that kind of story.

–

Myself is a clione. My name is——likely, none.

Myself have heard other organisms calling I things like ancient monster, or devil of the ocean, or repulsive eater, or ‘that guy won’t be killed no matter what you die, he is seriously super annoying’.

Possibly, those might be mine names.

Though myself think that the last one is too long……

Or rather, myself feel like that’s already just a badmouthing……

By the way, mine favorite is the “repulsive eater”. For some reason it sound cool.

Putting that aside, myself has nice sexy body that look transparent like jelly, possess shape like a clione, truly a beautiful and great being, but recently, there was something absurd that threatened the existence of such myself.

Myself met a demon.

That guy, is seriously bad news. Really bad news.

Even like this, myself has lived for a long time. Don’t mention about the race called “human”, myself has been living since the time when even the race called “monster” didn’t exist. However, even in that several thousands, tens of thousands of year of long life, myself had never seen that kind of brutish fiend!

After all, this demon tried to burn myself to death in our first meeting!

Even though myself only tried to eat him a bit!

What’s more, the demon tried to escape into the water, so myself hurriedly chased behind, but then——myself was exploded! What a deed!

Mine body shrunk really much, mine tension also decreased a lot.

It couldn’t be helped, myself filled my stomach and then myself thought to go out to the ocean to take a walk, but as though lying in ambush for myself to do that, that demon flew out from the bottom of the sea toward myself.

After that, it was already a competition of survival. Myself was desperate. Myself was also a tiny bit angry, myself won’t let him escape anymore! Thinking that myself even produced a tsunami.

Thinking back now, that was a mistake. If the demon wanted to escape, then it would be fine if myself let them get away. It would be great if myself didn’t get carried away thinking that it was just a bit more to gulp the demon down! like that.

But, even still. Although it’s certain that some fault lie in myself who got carried away, but still.

Black sticky liquid was splashed all over inside mine body and the demon burned me from inside, and in the end myself was exploded, myself think there is something wrong with that! Myself will get bad dream of death for several thousand years after that!

Normally, will anyone do something terrifying like that!? Furthermore that demon, seeing myself writhing in agony, the demon laughed! How terrifying! Since when the race called human became that much of a fiend!?

Fortunately, in a stroke of good luck a part of mine body the size of a fingertip remained safe, and myself got away just barely alive, but myself is completely traumatized.

Myself didn’t even have the strength to swim and promptly got washed away by the current, at the end myself encountered a kind hearted little girl……her name is, what was it……Nyuu? Muu? Yuu? Her name was something like that. If that little girl didn’t kindly look after I, surely mine mind would fall sick and myself would become fertilizer in the sea.

Human is scary. Human is bad news. That recognition of mine doesn’t change, and don’t even mentions eating human, myself absolutely won’t even approach them, but that kindly hearted little girl, myself has to return the favor someday.

If, there is time when that little girl have a need of I, myself will always be available to rush at her side.

Oh kindly hearted little girl of sea. Please, I wish that you won’t lose your kind heart till the end of time.

I wish you won’t grow to become like that kind of brutish fiend.

Myself pray from the bottom of mine heart for that little girl’s healthy growth!

……There is no way, that girl has any relation with that brutish fiend right?

–

–

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou 7

Author – Shirakome Ryou

The ocean where the sunlight was pouring down glaringly.

Amidst the flow of calm wave and sea wind, the surface suddenly swelled up as though to break that calmness.

Splash- The sea water splashed up, next, 「Puhaah」 a young girl of seaman race rose up from inside the sea.

「Nmyuu~ nano~」

The girl narrowed her eyes pleasantly while her emerald green hair sparkled. It was obvious from that distinctive speaking habit, it was Myuu.

Myuu was relaxing for a while with her face up. She was having her fill of the coolness of the sea water and the warmth of the sunlight while drifting lazily on the sea surface, entrusting her body to the wave.

It was one of Myuu's hobby recently. It was an adult way of having fun for a little girl, normally she would often make merry with friends of the same age, but sometimes she would want to entrust her body to the sea like this very much, and immersed herself in her memory.

It was the memory of the thick and striking adventure despite its briefness. And then, the memory of the people important for her who were irreplaceable. Of her beloved papa.

It was unknown how long she was like that. Myuu who confirmed that the sun had reached the peak was,

「Nn~, it will be noon soon nano.」

She spoke to herself and turned her gaze to far away. A lot of buildings, piers, and then boats could be seen from between the undulating sea surface.

It was Myuu's hometown, the city on the sea, Erisen.

Myuu wanted to entrust her body to the sea's current like this for a bit more, but there was no way she could trouble Remia mama who should be preparing lunch for her, so she took a deep breath.

Hyururi She turned around with flowing body motion. Myuu dove into the water with the elegance that would cause even a first class swimmer to go pale.

The distance until the town was easily five hundred meter, but for Myuu who was of the seaman race that was the heaven sent child of the sea it was a strolling distance. She advanced within the water smoothly with only dolphin kick. Sometimes she would also roll twirl twirl twirl around.

If there was a diver from earth here, they would undoubtedly get emotionally moved from witness ing a beautiful mermaid girl.

Like that, Myuu was going home while enjoying the sea world at the same time, then she suddenly felt a gaze.

She looked around restlessly while swimming inside the sea.

There,

「Oops, looks like I became nuisance in your fun. Really sorry, Jou-chan (little miss). I thought I felt a familiar magic power here.」

An old man voice that sounded really thick resounded. When Myuu turned her gaze there——she found it. A human faced fish with old man face.

「Mo, monster nano!」

「O? You can use telepathy? You became even more similar——wait, calm down Jou-chan. I ain't planning to harm you. Look, I'm just an old man.」

The human faced fish swam smoothly with joking gesture. Myuu was about to escape in full speed at the appearance of a monster, but she stopped seeing the fish’s movement and voice that were really like clown.

「You, can talk nano?」

「Yeah. I’m that kind of species. More importantly, Jou-chan yourself, it’s rare that you can use telepathy. That’s amazing.」

Myuu grinned proudly. She was happy as though her papa was praised.

「That’s right nano! Papa is amazing! This pendant allow Myuu to be able to talk with mama anytime nano. It’s so that no matter what happened to Myuu, this time Myuu will be able to tell it to mama right away.」

Saying that, Myuu showed the pendant with red jewel on it that was dangling from her neck. This was an artifact that her papa, Hajime presented to her when they parted from each other. It had the function of telepathy, barrier, alarm, and so on. Matching item was also given to Remia.

「A present from your father huh. However, this magic power……by the way, what is your papa’s name?」

「Nmyu? Papa is called Hajime nano!」

Hajime boy
「So you’re Ha-bou’s daughter! That bastard, he didn’t say anything that he got a child. Are you his child with Shia missy? No, the race is different……. Kukuh, looks like Ha-bou is a lecher huh.」

While Hajime wasn’t knowing, he got a label as harem bastard attached to him from a monster. Although that label wasn’t necessary mistaken, so nothing could be said.

Myuu guessed that this fish seemed to be an acquiantance of Hajime-papa. She threw away her wariness completley and after that, she enthusiastically talked about hajime with the human faced fish——Leeman.

Like that, Myuu suddenly recalled that she was in the middle going home. Knowing that, Leeman went 「Oops, is that so. My bad for stopping you here. However in any case, if you are Ha-bou's daughter than uncle too got to watch out for you. Myuu-jouchan. If you got any trouble, call for uncle any time. I'll lend you my strength.」

The human faced fish Leeman declared with manliness. Myuu smiled widely and said her thanks.

「Thank you nano! Lee-san!」

「Ou. Aah, also, if Ha-bou come to pick you up someday, tell him this for me. ——At the end pick a nee-san wife. But, don't accept her highness wife. Don't turn into hen-pecked husband okay.」 (TN: Nee-san wife = wife older than yourself, her highness wife = overbearing wife)

「???」

A lot of "?" were dancing above Myuu's head. But, before Leeman could convey to her the meaning of his words, a loud telepathic voice was transmitted like a quake.

「DEAARRRRRR-! How long you need just to go picking up lunch! This useless man!」

「Yo, you……why are you he——gueh」

Another human faced fish with demonic look was yelling angrily while throwing a weapon that was like sea weed vine, which caught the part around Leeman's gill.

「That’s because you didn’t return no matter how long I waited-. Come on, we’re going home right now! You’re always loitering around! I’m going to tie you up inside the house today! Play with your children for a bit!」

The human faced fish who seemed to be Leeman’s wife yelled such thing while dragging back her husband and vanished into the depth of sea. Leeman’s yell 「My regards for Ha-bouu~~~~~」 at the end felt like he was really used with this situation.

「My, Myuu don’t get it nano.」

Myuu muttered that and she stared at the bottom of the sea where Leeman and his wife vanished for a while. And then she returned to her senses with a ‘hah’ and this time she finally returned to her home.

After going home, Myuu tried asking Remia while eating lunch.

「Mama.」

「Whaaat, Myuu?」

「Is mama a nee-san wife nano?」

「……Err. I, I guess. If Hajime-san become Myuu’s papa, certainly mama can be called that. But, Myuu. Where did you hear those wo――」

「Then, is mama a her highness wife nano?」

「……M, my my, Myuu? Mama don’t under――」

「Will Mama put rope around papa’s neck and tie him up nano? And then make him play with Myuu like that nano?」

Clang Such sound rang out. It was the sound of Remia's fork getting dropped. Myuu tilted her head. In respond, Remia was,

「Myuu? Will you talk with mama for a bit, about who taught you those words? Mama has to have a "TALK" with that person.」

「Ma, mama?」

'My my, ufufu. There is a troubling person out there isn't it?' Remia questioned Myuu with a laugh that didn't reach her eyes at all. Frankly, she looked absurdly scary.

'I see, so this is what Nee-san wife, and her highness wife means nano……'

Myuu was trembling slightly while remembering the new words. But, if possible, she wished that her mama's relationship with papa would be a bit more peaceful, not like the Leeman couple nano……was what she thought.

–

–

–

Arifureta Shokugyou de Sekai Saikyou Zero 1

Author – Shirakome Ryou

Great country of technology, Welka Kingdom. Its capital, Welnika.

A weeping voice 'hics hics' bawling sadly was resounding inside a restaurant located in the corner of the capital's downtown.

The time was before noon.

If it was a restaurant in downtown, it was time where the place would be bustling with customer. In fact, adventurers and workers from nearby who were regular customers had also started to gather in this restaurant too.

Normally, the poster girl of the restaurant would be calling out to them energetically and approached them to take their order but……

「Hics hics, uu, sniff. Oscar-san, why did you go leaving me behind……」

‘That’s because, you ain’t his lover or anything.’ The tsukkomi from the adventurers were naturally said only inside their heart because they feared poking the bush where snake was hiding.

‘More importantly can you take our order quickly?’, they tried filling their gaze with such earnest feeling, but the poster girl of this restaurant who was sobbing listlessly right now naturally wouldn’t give notice to them.

「He, hey Ayesha–chan. We are also shocked that Oscar-san left the capital but……look, he was together with that kind of cute girl.」

「As I thought! Oscar-san told me that it’s for work though! But he was actually eloping with that girl called Miledy something!」

The poster girl——Ayesha-chan hit the table DAN-. The regular female customers who tried to console her (the group who was aiming for Oscar just like Ayesha) became shaken and said 「Eh!? Eloping!? No one said that!」.

And then, after Ayesha-chan kept going DAN DAN DAN- because thing didn’t work out like she wanted and the table became lightly cracked, she collapsed once more on the table and began to cry ‘Waaa-‘.

‘What to do about this…..’ The regular customers looked at each other with that kind of air.

There, the restaurant owner who was also the cook, Ayesha’s father Sergey showed his face from the kitchen.

「Oi, Ayesha. How long you’re going to bawl like that huh? The customers are waiting.」

He didn’t give a damn at his daughter’s broken heart. Sergey told her mercilessly to work right away. Ayesha raised her head in a flash in response to that and,

「Otou-san you idiot! This is why Okaa-san ran away from you!」

「She isn’t running away! Father-in-law’s condition is bad so she went home for a bit, that’s all! Ayesha also knows that right!?」

「That’s just the excuse! Surely Otou-san who doesn’t understand woman’s heart cause Okaa-san to give up on you! The final blow is when Otou-san forgot the wedding anniversary day before this! That’s how it is!」

「Sto, stop it Ayesha. ……She never contact at all even though one month passed already but……that’s a joke right? Isn’t that right?」

The owner Sergey went pale and looked shaken. Ayesha’s broken heart problem turned into the danger of her parents’ divorce unnoticed.

The regular customers looked really interested! 「Come to think of it, recently I didn’t see auntie『』To forget the wedding anniversary……this is why man is just…uugh. Aa~ah, the countdown until their divorce is already ticking」 etc, etc. Their mouths were whispering at each other without hiding it. The popular restaurant in downtown was turned into chaos before noon.

Although, the customers also weren’t people with free time. The adventurer duo that was previously called out by Oscar and Miledy——Vivitri and Hetarei smiled wryly while addressing the father and daughter.

「Now now Ayesha-chan. Don’t vent it at your father. Besides, Oscar and Miledy-chan’s relationship is not like what you are thinking you know?」

「Right right. Also, the guys at downtown rushed at Orcus Workshop asking if Oscar got excommunicated, but seems like the boss himself denied it clearly.」

Even while being dejected, Ayesha-chan reacted to the words of the two.

「Bu, but, when I asked Oscar-san when he would be back, he didn’t answer me clearly you know? In other words that mean, he won’t return anymore to the capital……」

Vivitri and Hetarei wry smile deepened while they shrugged in response.

「That’s not guaranteed yet. Even that guy must have a circumstance he cannot tell other people.」

「……Oscar-san’s circumstance……」

「Besides, Ayesha-chan. Until now you used us adventurer to gather information about Oscar, if you are also concerned this time, you can just make a request to search for Oscar's movement, ain't that right?」

Aisha's big and round eyes widened even bigger.

「That's right. A circumstance, Oscar-san must have some kind of big circumstance! An outrageous circumstance that he cannot tell other!」

「O, oi, Ayesha-chan?」

「Wa, wait, calm down.」

Even the words from Vivitri and Hetarei didn't reach the ears of Ayesha-chan who got a fire lit inside her.

「Oscar-san, surely he didn't say anything so that he wouldn't get me dragged into it. However, he is actually really troubled, worrying about it by himself, and he is looking for someone to help him!」

The regular customers started holding their head saying 「Aa~, Ayesha-chan's wild delusion habit is running wild~」 at their wits' end.

But, Ayesha-chan didn't stop. Nothing entered her sight anymore! She was heating up in such state.

「But surely, Oscar-san won't say help me or anything. Because, that person is kind after all! I understand, Oscar-san. I, Ayesha is the only one who understand you! You are actually looking for your beloved spouse to lean on amidst your loneliness and worry!」

It seemed it became that Oscar was searching for wife before anyone knew it.

The restaurant’s poster girl clasped both her hands in front of her chest and immersed herself into her own world with a praying pose. If there was a spotlight that was directed to her, she would surely be able to job change into stage actress even now.

Inside the restaurant that became 「Uwaa」 in various senses, Ayesha-chan twirled and looked straight at Sergey. And then, she declared.

「Otou-san! You have taken care of me until now! But today, Ayesha will leave the house!」

「Just what are you saying!?」

「Don’t stop me! Everything is for the sake of love!」

Ayesha swiftly ignored Sergey’s question and this time she went toward the adventurer duo with her frilly apron flapping in the air.

「I have request for you two! Please become my guard while I’m searching for Oscar-san!」

「「Haa!?」」

Surely they never even imagined that their remark would send the talk flying until this point. Vivitri and Hetarei’s eyes snapped open wide.

But, Ayesha-chan who was carried away in her mood didn’t stop! She currently had job changed from a scheming maiden to a maiden that would charge forward!

「If it’s the request fee don’t worry! I thought that something like this would happen, so I have a lot of secret saving I saved from the restaurant’s sale that I pilfered!」

「Ayesha. Just now, Otou-san think that he heard something he cannot ignore though……」

Ayesha didn’t give a damn at Sergey whose expression turned serious. Seeing Vivitri and Hetarei who didn’t respond immediately, light vanished from Ayesha-chan’s eyes. And then, she whispered in low voice into the ear of the two with those cold eyes. Then,

「We will accompany you no matter how far yeah, Nee-san!」

「Leave it to us to guard you, boss!」

The two who were drenched in sweat returned a salute in straight and stiff stance. Their gazes were fiercely darting around, and their expressions were grandly twitching, but Ayesha-chan smiled brightly 「Thank god! Thank you very much!」 in return.

It was a scene that invited terror very much.

「Then Otou-san! Be well!」

「Ah, hey, Ayesha! Wait!」

Ayesha-chan rushed out from the restaurant energetically. After that, Vivitri and Hetarei followed behind with their shoulders dropped in dejection.

Sergey was chasing further behind them, but Ayesha-chan’s legs were fast. The distance was opened in the blink of eye, heading toward the sun that was shining brilliantly.

Oscar-san! Please wait for me! Right now, your Ayesha is coming!

She yelled.

After that, whether Ayesha and her two companions could be reunited with Oscar or not.....

It would be told in another chance.

Table of Content

Arifureta Chapter 180

Arifureta After – Morning at the Nagumo House Part 1

AN: Thank you very much for a lot of the review about the completion.

From here on too, I, Shirakome, will enjoy myself while discharging wild ideas bit by bit, and it will make me happy if you readers can keep accompanying me.

「……Wake up. Wake up, Hajime.」

His dozing off awareness was led to awakening by a soft voice and a gentle shake. Because of the brightness that could be seen through the back of his eyelids, he could tell that the curtains had been opened. It was morning, and the sun was insisting on its presence.

「……Don't mind me. Go on, ahead.」(TN: Here, Hajime is using a line like a hero who will stay behind so that others can escape safely)

「……It's no good using a clichéd line like that. Breakfast will get cold. So wake up.」

He tucked himself into the bed like a bagworm and tried to take a journey into the dream world. This man who was trying to journey to the dream world, with a voice that seemed as if it was going to disappear at any moment, was the eldest son of the household——Nagumo Hajime. And the one who was making a troubled smile to such a Hajime, even while urging him gently to get out of the bed, was Hajime's beloved vampire princess that came from another world——Yue.

Yue sat down beside the bed and gently stroked the black hair of Hajime who was curling into himself. Her slender fingertips caressed Hajime's hair, combing them down. Her eyes squinted affectionately as she quietly brought her lips towards Hajime's ear.

A small chuu sound resounded and Hajime twitched in reaction. Perhaps enjoying that reaction of Hajime's, Yue's look was increasingly bursting open in happiness. Next, she placed Hajime's earlobe into her mouth. Hajime once more twitched in reaction. Yue kept playfully nibbling, while Hajime kept twitching due to such an act.

Yue separated her lips from Hajime's ear with a chupa sound before she opened her mouth while blowing a feverish sigh into Hajime's ear.

「……If you don't wake up……Hajime will be the breakfast.」

「I'll wake up.」

It was a lovely speech, but there were his parents downstairs, and other than them there were also the freeloaders and his daughter. Making a ruckus complete with moaning sounds 「aah-」 early in the morning would be problematic in various meanings. The neighbors would be guaranteed to look at him later with grinning expressions saying 「oh my」. Therefore, Hajime pushed aside the futon with a snap and woke up.

「Good morning, Yue.」

「……Nn. Good morning.」

Hajime's hair that was curling up here and there was fixed attentively by Yue using her hand as a comb. Since the morning the atmosphere of the two was already teeming with mushiness. It even felt like the morning sunlight that was brightly shining in through the window was growing dim in reservation from these two's lack in prudence.

Hajime who was exposing a dazed waking up face, which was unthinkable if it was in the period when he was journeying through the other world, Tortus, was narrowing his eyes toward his lover that was caressing his head in front of him. While he was at it he was also running his gaze through the surroundings relaxedly.

Inside the room, seventy percent of it was buried in bookshelves filled with books and games. There was also a desk and a reclining chair, a good quality desktop PC, and a closet between the bookshelves. A window was attached to the wall that was facing south, and navy-blue curtains, the same color as the bed, were hanging over it.

(…..I'm still feeling that this room is 'nostalgic'. It must be because the experience on the other side was too strong. If I still feel like this even after going home for a year, then it might take a half year more to be able to live without feeling that anything is out of place.)

Hajime sighed a bit inside his heart. And then, he clenched his left hand repeatedly as though to ascertain it. That arm didn't shine with a dull metallic gleam, its appearance was that of a normal human arm. It had elastic skin and slight marks of suntan similar to his right arm.

Furthermore, Hajime also gently traced his right eye with his fingertip. There, he didn’t feel the sensation of an eye patch that was in the process of becoming his trademark in Tortus. Far from that, there wasn’t even the bluish white shine that was the trait of a god crystal. The eye’s appearance was a dark brown eye that looked like the eye of a normal Japanese person.

「……Nn? Hajime, what’s wrong? It feels uncomfortable?」

Yue noticed Hajime’s state. She then brought her face closer until their nose tips almost touched while tilting her head. The sweet fragrance that tickled Hajime’s nasal cavity slightly bewitched him while he shook his head.

「No, there is no discomfort in both my arm and my eye. Thanks to Yue and the others’ cooperation, the artificial skin and the artificial eyes are all in extremely excellent condition. No one would notice them as long as they don’t get scanned in detail at a hospital. If I have to say, perhaps I’m feeling discomfort from this situation where there is no discomfort.」

「……? Hajime feels discomfort from the appearance of your body?」

「Yeah. After all, the experience over there was just too dense. The metallic arm, the crystal eye, and also the white hair, all those were already me. That’s why, rather than calling this appearance ‘going back to normal’, it feels like I changed again. Well, it’s going to be really bad if that kind of unknown automail and strange crystal eye got discovered on this modern earth, so that can’t be helped.」

While smiling wryly, Hajime tapped on his left hand using his right hand. The artificial skin that used metamorphosis magic had reproduced a splendid skin texture, making the one touching it unable to sense the existence of the metallic artificial arm hidden beneath it.

The one who accomplished this was Tio. The technique of Tio’s, that was the only expert in metamorphosis magic among his comrades, aided by Hajime and Yue’s help, remade the artificial hand smartly and disguised it as a normal arm in an outward appearance and texture.

Also, Hajime’s artificial eye was something that was remade using creation magic while his hair color was due to Kaori’s regeneration magic returning the hair color to what it was before.

Of course, for Kaori whose hand had reached the territory of time intervention, if she used regeneration magic seriously then it was possible she could even restore Hajime’s altered body to a normal human body. Whether it was his lost limb or his change due to eating monsters, all of those could be reverted if Kaori just returned Hajime’s body back to its previous state.

But Hajime didn’t wish for that. Actually, by returning back to earth, things like a tough body were unneeded. But for some reason, it felt like turning his body back to how it was before would be like making light of his journey in that other world. And above all else, he couldn’t be growing senile first and leave behind Yue who would be living for a long time.

In the end, possessing a monster class body, where it wasn’t even definite that it had a lifespan, was in agreement with Hajime’s own wish. By the way, if they were using Yue’s secret technique of apostle creation, then the problem of lifespan could be resolved to a certain degree even if they were using their original normal bodies, so Kaori and the others also didn’t view this matter as a problem.

「……Nn. Personally, there is no problem for me because I can enjoy various Hajimes. Rather I feel happy.」

Yue said that and gave kisses in turn at Hajime’s left shoulder, right eye, and his head. Every single action of Yue’s was overflowing with affection.

On that day, after they had established the method of going home, since that day when Yue was proposed to under the great tree of [Haltina Sea of Trees], Yue’s expression of love had increasingly become polished. She had never been seen without the ring that was fitted on the ring finger of her left hand, and when Yue saw the matching ring that was fitted on Hajime’s left ring finger, an aura of happiness would be scattered in full from her.

「Speaking of that, what about Yue? Have you gotten used to the world over here?」

「……Nn. There are still a lot of things that I don’t know, that I am not familiar with. This is really, a different world. There are a lot of unbelievable things……. But, it’s fun. Every day is fun, like opening a jack-in-the-box.」

「I see.」

「……Nn. Besides, I will be happy anywhere if that is a place where Hajime is. Mother-in-law and father-in-law are also really kind. They treasured me like their real daughter, it feels really happy. Everywhere in Hajime’s world, is filled with happiness.」

「I, I see……somehow, it feels hot even though it’s morning huh.」

The gaze of Hajime who ate a straight punch of love was wandering around. Yue who understood that Hajime was being shy chuckled 「Nfufu」while snuggling him like a cat. Hajime’s hand was subconsciously moving and gently caressing Yue’s fluffy hair.

An atmosphere that was overflowing with sugar content was running rampant since the morning. Yue quivered her long eyelashes while quietly closing her eyelids, her faint pink lips were pushing out to Hajime. Hajime easily surrendered seeing that obviously coaxing pose. His face was approaching near……

「Geez~, Yue-oneechan! Is Papa still not awake nano!?」

The one who opened the door of the room loudly with a bang while entering with a huff was a five-year-old girl who puffed up her flat chest. She was Hajime’s daughter Myuu. However, now her emerald green hair became emerald blond, while her fan-shaped ears, that were the trait of the merman race, had changed into small and cute human ears.

The cause of the change was the illusion that was created by the ring artifact hanging down from Myuu’s neck. The artifact was something excellent that could surprisingly reproduce even the touching sensation; so even if Myuu’s ears were touched, the person touching wouldn’t feel the texture of a fin, but the sensation of a human ear instead. And so, Myuu’s appearance was completely that of a beautiful little girl with blond hair.

The moment that Myuu energetically entered the room, she pointed her finger at the clichéd childhood friend morning scene which entered her eyes and raised a protesting voice 「Aa~~!」.

「Geez-, Yue-oneechan! I always told you every time! Doing that to papa right from the morning is a no-no! Why aren't you protecting your promise nano!」(TN: Here Myuu said 'me-' to Yue. This is the way people in Japanese scold their naughty child or pet, it's like saying 'bad' with a scolding tone in English, though I translated it into no-no here.)

「……uu. Tha, that is because Hajime is……」

「Blaming others is a no-no!」

「……au. I'm sorry.」

Toward Myuu who pointed her index finger at Yue's nose while saying 「Bad-」, Yue could only dejectedly hang her head down regardless of her big sister status.

It had been about a year since they moved to Earth. Recently Myuu, who had grown up remarkably, was acting really proper and strict. When all the onee-chans who often became hopeless characters that couldn't read the atmosphere when they got entangled with Hajime, like Yue right now, Myuu would remonstrate them with a 'Bad' like this.

Actually, in order for Myuu to become used to this world quickly, and also because it was desirable for Myuu to have education in good taste, she was then enrolled into a nursery school about two months ago, but it seemed that in the school Myuu became awakened as 'onee-san' for some reason.

There was the factor of how based on her age she was included in the senior group in the school, but additionally, there was also how she had been piling up experience that should be too dense for a mere infant. She had been kidnapped, auctioned, traveled through a desert, struggling through a scene of carnage at the Devil King’s Castle, and even participated in a legendary decisive battle. Looking at it from the point of view of such a Myuu, the children the same age as her, who were born in a peaceful country like Japan, were looked upon as really young and naïve, as expected.

Thinking ‘I have to be proper and strict!’, she imitated the outrageous onee-chan group around her and her mother that was overflowing with kindness, like that she acted too helpful towards the other kindergarteners……when she noticed, she had become the trusted and beloved leader of the kindergarteners.

However, her call of 「Gentlemen! And ladies of Myuu’s friend!」 when she was gathering the kindergarteners, or how she said 「Right now is exactly the time to blaze our souls!」when encouraging a child that felt down, or how she showed a fearless grin when there was a child that looked uneasy, those actions that looked a little bit unlike a kindergartener were conspicuous so the teacher there reported it to the Nagumo household……regarding the state of Hajime when he received that contact from the teacher, let’s just say that he was rolling around on the floor for real at that time.

「Really it’s my bad, Myuu. Come on, I’ve already woken up here.」

Yue, who possessed the absolute dignity as the legal wife towards the other wives, was seriously feeling down from getting scolded by Myuu. Hajime sent a glance towards such a Yue while crawling out from the futon. Myuu listened to Hajime’s words and nodded, then faced Hajime and reached out both her hands.

「Myuu? What’s with those hands?」

「Papa, Myuu wants to be carried nano.」

Even though she was scolding Yue just now, Myuu demonstrated a spoiled kid request. Yue went ‘hah’ in shock and moved her gaze to Myuu. Her eyes were clearly narrating her dissatisfaction 「Even though I was scolded when acting spoiled……」which was looking a bit lacking in maturity.

Toward that, Myuu said,

「Mama said, 「When Yue-san pulls back, immediately act spoiled(attack)」, like that nano.」

「……I’m going to speak a bit with Remia.」

Yue became enveloped with faint golden light, right after that, she became adult mode. And then, in order to speak a few words with the mother who taught woman’s battle tactics to a little child, Yue silently, but quickly, exited from the room.

And then Myuu, who kept holding her pose asking for a hug, directed a shuddering gaze toward Hajime who was left behind. This little girl in front of his eyes was steadily mastering the lessons from the seniors around her. From here on, just what kind of growth this beloved daughter would show him after accepting the teachings of the women who had one or two peculiarities, Hajime wondered……

「Papa, carry me nano.」

「……Okay」

With a cramped expression, Hajime hugged Myuu who was making a cute request with a cute grin, and then he exited the room while listening to the tumult that was audible from downstairs.

Hajime who entered the living room on the first floor with one of his arms carrying Myuu witnessed the scene of Yue laying down complaints incessantly towards Myuu's actual mother Remia. In regards to Remia, similar with Myuu, she was also exposing emerald blonde hair and human ears, right now she was showing her usual 「my my, ufufu」smile while dodging Yue's complaints flightily――that's how it looked like, but her cheeks were faintly blushing.

With the adult mode Yue as her opponent, as expected even a professional widow would find herself at a disadvantage. Even though they were the same gender, being stared at by the adult Yue fixedly from a very close range would make anyone unable to calm down. Adult Yue-sama, how terrifying.

「Ah, you finally woke up Hajime-san.」

「Fumu, as I thought, perhaps having Yue in charge of waking you up art no good.」

Shia who was helping with the preparation of breakfast was saying such a thing with an exasperated face while giving her morning greeting, and Tio who was watching the morning news in the living room looked behind while also similarly greeting him.

There was no change in Tio's appearance, while Shia's prided rabbit ears were similarly hidden with an artifact like Myuu and Remia. Right now her straight faint blue hair was put together using a hair tie located around her neck, and the bundle of hair was hung down forward.

「My, Shia-chan and also Tio-chan, you two are saying such things, but if it's the two of you who are going to wake up Hajime won't you two also dive in?」

「Naturally desu, Kaa-sama.」

「Of course, Hahaue-dono」(TN: Both ways of calling have the same meaning of mother, but the kanji they are written with has the meaning of mother-in-law.)

Carrying breakfast from the kitchen……wasn't how she appeared. This person who appeared from the washroom as though to say that she had woken up just now, was Hajime's mother, Nagumo Sumire. Sumire was a famous shoujo manga artist, so there were a lot of times where she was staying out until late at night in her workplace, she was extraordinarily weak in the morning. Because of that, the Nagumo household didn't make a regular habit of taking breakfast properly but……

There Shia, who was in charge of the cooking while in Tortus, and Remia, who was a mother with a child, came in. Hajime took home Yue and the others from the other world and not long after that the girls became freeloaders, so the kitchen became entrusted to the two of them.

「Everyone, good morning. Maaan, it's great that the house is brilliant right from the morning. Even after a year has passed, my heart is still dancing every time I see this. You damn son, how dare you come home after becoming a great man! Really, thank you very much-」

「You are full of energy even in the morning huh, Tou-san. And don't grin like that while looking at them. You are going to get punched flying you know……by Kaa-san.

The short-haired middle-aged man with a tall stature, who had been continuously in a state of ‘Right now, I’m intensely moved!’ since a year ago, was the central pillar of the Nagumo household, a company president who managed a game company, Nagumo Shuu.

He who was a pure otaku seemed to be deeply moved everyday from witnessing Yue and the others who seemed to come straight out from 2D. And then, most likely, being called as Otou-sama by beautiful girls and women was also undoubtedly greatly related to that.

Shuu laughed in a good mood from being surrounded by his daughters-in-law, Sumire was in a daze, and Hajime was doing Myuu’s hairstyle while the breakfast was lined up on the dining table.

By the way, Shuu and Sumire’s yearly income far surpassed the earning of an average salaryman, so the Nagumo household was quite large. Because of that, even when their family increased all of a sudden, the home didn’t feel that cramped even when all of them lived in one house.

Although, because of the sudden increase in the number of residents right now, the renovation of the house was in progress and after several months the house would surely be completed into a splendid building twice the previous size, that the neighbors would notice.

In addition, regarding the administrative concern of Yue and the others, like their resident registration and the like, Hajime had snuck into the government office and finished forging the documents. For their peace of mind, Yue even used her soul magic on the government workers to plant suggestions in them so that there would be no problem. It was hard work because there were a lot of documents that needed to be put in order, for example, passport and identification papers and so on, but at the very least there should be no one that could discover any unnaturalness with their existences in Japan.

Even if they got found out, they could just use soul magic to deal with it every time. They were also planning to slowly leave behind evidence of their existences at the foreign governments too. The government officials of the world would be opposed by age of god magic!

「Yup, Shia-chan, Remia-chan, today the food is also delicious. Before this I thought that putting food into your stomach right from the morning, “Is that some kind of torture huh?”, like that……but if it’s like this then I can eat no matter how much.」

「I get what you mean. Hajime, Tou-san is happy. My son became a splendid cheat harem bastard when he returned back. There is nothing that I can teach you anymore like this.」

「Tou-san, I don’t understand whether you are praising me or speaking ill of me from your words, but I have never received any lesson or anything about being a cheat harem bastard at all.」

Sumire sent an exaggerated praise at Shia and Remia excessively, while Shuu was sending Hajime words with a condescending attitude. Hearing that, Hajime replied back with an exasperated state. To that, Shuu opened his mouth with an irritating atmosphere as though to say 「Good grief, yareyare daze」.

「What are you saying? Haven’t I beaten the soul of an otaku into you since you had awareness of your surroundings? In other words, that was also me beating the soul of a cheat harem into you. The reason that you were able to create a cheat harem in another world, is exactly because of that. How is that? Can you feel the gratitude for your Otou-sama keenly in your heart now?□

□I think I have already talked with you about my experience in the other world, but where is an otaku soul proving useful there――□

Shuu and Sumire had listened to all that Hajime experienced in the other world. About how much effort it took to recover his normal appearance, about how his arm and eye were artificial, about how his gaze turned sharp now, and above all, about how his atmosphere now was completely different from in the past. Hajime told all of those personally without any falsehood or manipulation, nor was he even trying to do those.

In other words, Shuu and Sumire should have known about the sequence of events of their son's grand experience starting from his experiences in the abyss. In spite of that, Shuu now declared that otaku knowledge was useful in those experiences, hearing that Hajime was a bit unable to accept it.

And so, Hajime normally objected to Shuu, but Shuu and Sumire immediately grinned widely while cutting off Hajime's words.

□□Ladies and gentleman-, all of you warriors-□□

□-□

□□Right now in this time, is exactly the time to blaze your soul-□□

□!!□

□□If you said you are going to get in my way, I’ll kill you.□□

□!?□

□□I’ll protect Yue, and Yue will protect me. With that we are――□□

□I got it already-! Otou-sama, really thank you very much-! That’s why, stop it-□

Hajime writhed while asking them to stop with a voice that sounded like a scream. Toward their son who was enduring his shame that much, the father and mother were mercilessly dealing the pursuing attack.

□Oi oi, what’s wrong Hajime? What are you feeling ashamed for? You were cool you know? In real life, there is almost no chance to say those kinds of speeches you know? When Tou-san watched the image recording Tio-san showed to me, my heart was trembling hard. Oh man, it was really an amazing chuu――cough-, really an amazing heroic speech you know?□

□Yes, truly. Not only to the girl partner, but you even said □she is my woman□ to the girl’s parent, when I watched that I thought, “Just from what galgame this conquering character came from?”. Really……□

After giving a glance at Hajime who was shaking while holding his chopstick, Shuu and Sumire paused with a superb timing before continuing with splendid harmony.

□□Hajime-san, those were seriously awesome –ssu. Truly, thank you very much-!□□

「You two are noisy-. Don’t screw around, stop messing with me using that material-」

Shuu and Sumire knew about the events in the other world not only from Hajime’s story. While keeping it secret from Hajime, Tio used regeneration magic to leave behind recording images of every memory――obviously the events in the abyss were not included, other than that, the time when Hajime accepted Shia, the time when Hajime spoke resolutely to Tio’s grandfather Adol, and even Hajime’s speech to his classmates in the Devil King’s castle, etc.――and showed it to Shuu and Sumire. Since then, at every opportunity, Shuu and Sumire would praise Hajime 「As expected from our son-!」 with teasing mixed in it to mess with Hajime.

The corners of Hajime’s eyes lifted up fiercely and brutally put pressure on Tio in an outburst of anger. With a cough, Tio choked in the middle of slurping her miso soup. Miso soup was dripping from her nose while her breathing was getting rough ‘haa haa’.

「A, as expected from the parents of Hajime-san. Recently I have become used to it, but as I thought, seeing the figure of Hajime-san being toyed around, the uncomfortable feeling that I get is not half-baked desu.」

「……Nn. But, the bullied Hajime……is also nice.」

「My my, Yue-san. Recently, it feels that if it is about Hajime-san then everything is fine for you. Fufu, Myuu too has to work hard like this. Also Tio-san, this is the dining table you know? Please don’t go haa haa while dripping snot like that, eat your food properly. Right now your face is looking quite “over the age limit” you know?」

Shia smiled wryly towards the exchange between Hajime and his parents, while Yue’s cheeks reddened for some reason, Tio was going haa haa, and Remia was going ‘my my, ufufu’ smilingly. This was the ordinary day of the Nagumo household recently.

Just when Hajime was going to snap from the mess, Shuu and Sumire easily drew back and concentrated on their breakfast as though nothing had happened. Hajime who was trembling from losing the target of his anger was then comforted by Yue and the others altogether.

With a sidelong glance at their son who was being taken care of by beautiful women and girls, Shuu and Sumire faced each other and their expressions burst into a smile.

「Nevertheless, that time when Hajime suddenly returned home, and in addition, he also introduced Yue and the others, it was really shocking huh.」

「You’re right. For him to really go to another world and return home bringing a cheat harem, that’s something that I had never even dreamed of.」

While exchanging words with small whispers, both of them recalled that time when Hajime came home.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspellings and omitted words.

For the time being, I’m thinking of writing a bit about the story of post-going home.

After all, there are considerable requests and also hope for a present-day story (lol).

Shirakome himself is swelling out with wild ideas.

Next will be the story of Hajime returning to his home and reuniting with Shuu and Sumire.

I think it most likely can be posted at 6 P.M Saturday next week.

Please take care of me from here on too.

Arifureta Chapter 181

Arifureta After – Morning at the Nagumo House Part 2

AN: Regarding the autograph session at [Tora no Ana] that is planned to be carried out on 22 November because Shirakome is diagnosed with influenza, it was suddenly canceled in a hurry.

Please see the details in my action report.

Really, my deepest apologies to those who are looking forward to it.

I think I will get better if I can recuperate at home.

Please treat me well.

A year after a whole class from a certain high school was spirited away which made a stir in the world.

At first, the impossibility of a group kidnapping in the middle of the day inside a school, within an instant, without any other classes noticing, and the unlikeliness of it being a group disappearance from the half-eaten lunch, the unfinished homework, the kicked down chairs, etc., all of those heated up the media excessively toward this modern time Mary Celeste case that happened in a school.

However, what was called as the flow of society was quite callous, even the interest towards such a major occult incident didn’t continue for long. After half a year passed, with the news that there was no concrete progress within that short time, there were only impertinent commentators or self-alleged occult researchers harboring ulterior motives trying to use this case as their chance to make it big who kept trying to attract attention to this topic from various kinds of viewpoints while the media was sprinkled with new topics one after another, like some celebrity couple divorcing or getting into an affair, or some big shot politician having their dirty laundry aired.

Like that, the heated mass media calmed down and the interest of the people began to move to other topics. Even so, at that time, the family of the students, who were still missing without any information, and the police were still frantically searching for their whereabouts. However, unable to obtain even a single clue, every one of them was beginning to be encroached by fatigue and resignation.

Shuu and Sumire were also the same. They became exhausted from continuing to search for the whereabouts of their vanished son. While desperately believing that Hajime was safe and that he would definitely return home, they could definitely hear the flow of time that was heartlessly flowing away and the sound of despair that was gradually approaching them.

So that Hajime could come home anytime, they never missed a chance to clean up Hajime’s room for even a single day. And each time they cleaned the room, the coldness of the room that had lost its owner chilled their body. Even when they were in the living room, or when they were having a meal, what was echoing inside their ears was the voice of their son. While understanding that it was only their hallucination, many times they still suddenly looked around at their surroundings in surprise. It was already forgotten how many times they dashed to the front door every time they heard small sounds from there.

Even the 「family association」 that was formed together by the families of all the disappeared students only seemed to infect Shuu and Sumire with a chill to their hearts from looking at the faces of the parents who were losing their expression day by day.

And then, soon it would be one year since Hajime disappeared. For the two of them, that meant that the shadow of despair would only become thicker.

The tick-tock sound of the clock was echoing excessively clearly. Shuu, who was looking at his PC display, suddenly opened his mouth without turning away or stopping his hand that was clicking on the mouse.

「Sumire, how about going to sleep soon? Yesterday you already stayed until late right?」

「It’s no problem. If you are saying that, then you yourself, isn’t it better for you to sleep? Yesterday at work you had a lot of problems, right? You had almost no time to sleep at all.」

Late at night, Shuu and Sumire who had gotten thin due to their anxiety were checking the bulletin board on the PC and producing the flyer that called for information with a movement that was like a programmed machine. They were both exchanging words without even lifting up their face to look at each other.

「There is no problem with work. After all, my guys are all reliable. Even when the president is not there, it really doesn’t matter for them. Rather, I would just be a bother for them if I go to work with a face that looks like a ghost. Like that, they would even chase me out. Besides, doesn’t Sumire have it worse than me? You missed your deadline again right?」

「……Yes. But, that was only one time. My assistant is also excellent after all.」

Both Shuu and Sumire, in this one year they often took days off in their respective works of managing the game company or the manga serialization. Everything was for the sake of finding their son. Normally that kind of consecutive days off would make them lose the social trust from the people around them, but their coworkers and subordinates who knew about the circumstances of the two showed their understanding and even proactively cooperated with them. Thanks to that, they didn’t end up unemployed.

That was really an appreciated consideration so that in the case that Hajime came home, there would be no complicated situation like him witnessing both his parents becoming jobless altogether. There was also the factor that both of their work environments were special, and also how Hajime often showed his face at both his parent’s workplaces so the people there held favorable impressions of him. So the people at Hajime’s parents’ workplaces were also really worried about Hajime from the bottom of their hearts that Hajime had disappeared after getting involved with a sudden occult situation.

But even those people’s gazes were gradually changing into a gaze that was filled with a lot of pity, as though they were looking at something painful. Surely resignation had already grown thick inside them. There was no way they could say anything to the parents whose son’s whereabouts became unknown, but everyone had begun to think 「It’s possible, that Hajime is already……」

There was also no way that Shuu and Sumire wouldn’t notice such atmosphere. It also became a factor that cornered their minds needlessly, but the fact that they could take the time to search for Hajime like this now was also thanks to those people, so there was no way they could do something like exploding in anger towards them.

Even with their gloomy hearts, while both understanding that there was no way they could rest, they still exchanged barefaced words like recommending each other to rest.

After a while, Shuu and Sumire still continued to exchange dialogue that was really empty, but before long, after looking at the information board on the internet that was not only lacking in plausible information but filled with obviously fake information or inconsiderate writings instead, Shuu finally took off his gaze from the monitor screen.

And then, while sighing deeply, he put both his elbows on the table and his head hung down with both his hands covering his eyes.

「……Hajime. Just where is he right now……」

「Dear……」

Even though Shuu was still in the early half of his forties, right now he looked like a tired old man. Sumire who saw him like that also stopped her working hand and lifted her face.

「As expected, how about we rest a bit?」

「……You know that’s impossible, right? I won’t be able to sleep soundly anyway.」

「That might be true but……」

Sumire’s words were caught up in her throat. What Shuu was saying was wholly correct, she herself was also like that. No matter how exhausted their body and mind had become, but day by day the fire of uneasiness in their heart only kept broiling stronger. Such a thing stole their ability to have a quiet sleep.

「It will be fine. It’s still only a year. Even if it would take several years, we will find him without fail. No way am I going to collapse until then.」

「……You’re right. It’s just as you say.」

Her husband lifted his face with a wry smile, even so, there was a dark shadow that couldn’t be hidden there. Sumire smiled at him even while feeling concern, and then she stood up from her chair to nestle close to him.

But just before she could do that, suddenly pin poo—n there was a chime sounding from the entrance.

Naturally, at this time of day when the date had already changed, there was no way there would be anyone who would visit. If it was a relative then they should have contacted them beforehand, so the two of them faced each other suspiciously. That they were unable to reach ‘that possibility’ immediately, showed how exhausted the state of their heart was.

Shuu slowly raised his heavy waist and took the receiver off the intercom. When he did that, naturally the figure of the visitor was projected at the display……

□……Aa, that, what to say……this is, me, here.□

The state of the sudden visitor who was unable to smoothly decide what words to use while his gaze was wandering incessantly. If the people who knew of this person in this one year saw this attitude, they would surely stare in amazement reflexively.

Even from across the display, they knew.

This person’s air, look, and even height were different from the one in their memory.

Even so, they knew.

Shuu perfectly, and instantly knew. That person, who was looking awkward somehow with a frowning face that looked troubled was……the one who they had continued to search for, the one they believed would surely come home……

——it was their beloved son.

With a smacking sound, Shuu threw away the receiver phone and threw open the door of the living room with a force as though he was kicking it open. Without even hiding his impatience he roughly opened the lock of the front door, and then, he threw the door open.

And then,

□Aa……that……I’m home, Tou-san.□

□□Hajime-□□

Shuu’s voice overlapped with Sumire who had chased after him unnoticed. They called the name of their son with a volume that might rip open their throat. At the same time, they tackled the son who was scratching his cheek awkwardly in front of the house’s gate.

「Hajime-, you, this stupid bastard! Where the hell have you been running around until now-」

「This stupid son-. Do you know how much you made us worry!」

Father and mother embraced their son altogether strongly, so strongly that it made it hard to breathe. Right now, in this moment, they were confirming that this son was really standing before their eyes. So that he wouldn’t disappear for a second time. They strongly, strongly embraced him.

The dim street light, the lighting leaking out from inside the house, and then the perfectly round moon in the sky were gently illuminating the family who became one once more. Amidst that Hajime was stiffening in a banzai posture while being hugged tightly by the two. (TN: Banzai posture, if you screamed banzai in celebration, usually you will also raise both your hands in cheers right?)

Hajime thought that his parents must be worrying about him. He was convinced that they were believing that he would return home.

But, even so, the figure and atmosphere of the current him, even though his hair color, his artificial eye, and his artificial hand were returned to his former appearance as much as possible, the him right now should be really different from how he once was.

That was why, he thought that they would surely feel confused. He even resolved himself in preparation for them to say doubting words like 「Are you really Hajime?」 in suspicion. Depending on the situation, there might even be a need to spend the time to reach an understanding, that was what Hajime was thinking in the corner of his heart.

It was just like how Hajime’s false image pointed out in one of the seven great labyrinths——at the 「Ice and Snow Cave of Shuune Snowfield」 before this, that in the depth of Hajime’s heart, he had the fear that the person who had been acknowledged by both himself and other people as a monster couldn’t be accepted by his parents, that was the cause of this emotion of Hajime’s that couldn’t be varnished over, which was both like himself but also unlike himself.

But, now that he had tried to open the lid, this was how it turned out. Shuu and also Sumire didn’t even give any attention to Hajime’s change, they gave him a tight hug that was overflowing with conviction and anger, and also a helplessly great relieve.

Inside Hajime’s body, a hot, yet silently strong emotion that was unfathomably deep was rising up. Every grand experience that he had experienced in the another world, were passing through his brain as though he was experiencing a revolving lantern.

And then, there was only one thing that he was thinking.

——Aa, finally, I came home.

Hajime’s two arms silently held the backs of his two parents. And then, with a trembling voice, he spoke it one more time in a small, but clear voice.

「Tou-san, Kaa-san——I’m home.」

Shuu and Sumire, with their eyes still overflowing with tears, separated themselves from Hajime slightly, and with a firm straight gaze, they gave him those words together with the escaping smile——surely for Hajime, these words were the mark that informed him of the end of his long and dangerous journey in the true meaning.

□□Welcome home, Hajime.□□

After that, Hajime and others who noticed that the neighbors were stealing peeks at the situation from the gaps between the curtains, excitedly returned inside the house.

It was a home that he left only for a year. Even so, Hajime narrowed his eyes in nostalgia, he couldn’t help himself to lightly caress his hand on the railing and the ornaments.

Entering the living room, Hajime saw a large amount of the leaflets scattered on the table. He took one of them into his hand and stared at it closely. After that, he also discovered the PC that was left opened displaying the site that asked for information on missing people.

□……This one year after you were gone, we tried everything we could to look for a clue. But, in the end, we couldn’t obtain even one clue. ……Hajime, you, no, all of you, just where in the world did you all go?□

□Also, Hajime. A year ago on that day, just what in the world happened?□

□……About that. Explaining it is simple, but also difficult. There are a lot of things that must be talked.□

The deep gaze of their son that already couldn’t be called as young at all, made Shuu and Sumire gulp. And then they guessed that Hajime had gone through a tremendous experience that they couldn’t even imagine.

「I see. Then, let me straighten up the table quickly, we are going to talk a lot after that. Wait a second. I’m going to brew a delicious milk tea now.」

「Yeah. Thank you, Kaa-san.」

「Fufu, somehow you completely feel like an adult.」

While drinking the sweet and warm milk tea that Sumire prepared, Hajime told the truth of the group’s disappearance to the two. Hajime’s experience was too dense to have everything said in one sitting. Therefore, he talked only about the summary of every important point, but even so, the summoning to another world, survival in the abyss, the separation with his classmates, the conquer of the great labyrinths, the legendary decisive battle……by the time Hajime finished talking about those, the sky was already starting to grow light.

Hajime, who had finished talking about the general event, emptied his cup that had been refilled several times, and then he sighed. Shuu and Sumire were also sighing tiredly. Shuu was rubbing on his eye with his finger while Sumire was dropping her gaze at the empty cup. They were silent from feeling lost as to how to respond.

「As I thought, is that hard to believe?」

Hajime asked while smiling wryly.

「That’s, obviously. Tou-san and also Kaa-san, due to our work we have plenty of knowledge about something like that but……thinking, that it happened for real……」

「That’s right. But, thinking about the extremely unnatural group disappearance, we cannot really reject that it might be true. There is also no reason for Hajime to lie in this situation. That’s why, our worry is, the possibility that someone is making Hajime believe such thing.

Haha, indeed, that way of thinking is way more realistic. Me too, if I were in the position of Tou-san and Kaa-san, surely I would also think that at first.

Being kidnapped by unknown people, and then the group was then brainwashed and had the memory of fantastical nonsense inserted into their brain……indeed, rather than believing that he was going to another world and fought against monsters and gods there, that explanation sounded more plausible. Rather than they weren’t believing the words of their son, it was more that they were thinking realistically with worry that if such a thing was really done to their son then they would need to get him treatment quickly.

Hajime’s wry smile deepened to the two who were worrying about him, then he opened his mouth because there was something that he had to confirm no matter what.

Tou-san, Kaa-san. Whether what I’m saying is the truth or not, there is a method to prove that. That’s why, assuming for now that what I’m saying is the truth, I want to ask something. ……Regarding the things that I had done, what do you two think? No, what do you think about the current me?

That was the question that Hajime feared the most from the depths of his heart. If his parents held disappointment and fear, avoidance and disgust toward him then……as expected, that would be hard for him. Surely if that happened, Hajime would exit the house, and then he would leap into the chest of his beloved lover.

But, in contrast with the anxiety and nervousness inside Hajime’s heart, as though they had guessed the concern in Hajime’s heart, Shuu and Sumire showed a smile that looked troubled, or possibly exasperated.

「Now see here, Hajime. I and also Sumire, we aren’t saints you know?」

「Eh?」

Shuu and Sumire stood up from their seat and approached close to the side of Hajime who was perplexed.

「Rather than other people’s death, our son’s safety is far more important. Perhaps you think of that as cold-hearted, but that is what is called a parent. Good grief, for you to feel that nervous……I wonder if you are thinking of something like, perhaps I’m going to be chased out from home? Really, what a big idiot you are.」

「However……Kaa-san. Indeed, I killed because it was necessary, but I didn’t even hesitate in killing. That was how much I changed. A guy who is not even holding any avoidance or disgust for killing, can you accept someone like that?」

What a hopeless kid, Sumire who was brushing his head as though to say that was replied back by Hajime with an expression that was lost for words. Hearing that reply, Shuu opened his mouth in exasperation for real this time.

「It’s not about accepting or not, we are family you know? Something like stop being family doesn’t exist in the Nagumo family. Don’t you know? There is nothing that can make you stop being my son. The end result is, 「You cannot run away from Otou-sama!」」(TN: Might be a reference to something.)

「No, don’t make any quote at a time like this……」

「Hahaha, well, putting that aside. Hajime is my son, and I am a father. As long as that holds true, then me and also Sumire will be your ally anytime. There is no way anyone can worry about other people while their son's survival is being threatened. Also, if you are feeling guilty, if you say that you want to atone to the family of the deceased then I'll atone for it together with you, and even if you become a psychopath killer then I'll stake my body and life to stop you.」

Most likely, if it was thought from the viewpoint of common sense then the way of Shuu and Sumire were doing things were mistaken. As a parent, no matter what kind of circumstance there was, they had to question the right and wrong of the killer. And if it was something unforgivable then they had to admonish the person. As a parent, they had to reprimand their child about their wrongdoing.

And surely Shuu and Sumire also understood that. But even with that understanding, they were still undoubtedly happy that their son returned home alive even by killing someone else. If Hajime had come to terms with it then that was fine, if for example, he wanted to atone for his sin then they as his parents would accompany him, and if he ended up as a fiend, then they would stake their lives to take him back to the right path. They declared that clearly to Hajime.

「Hajime, do you regret what you have done until now?」

「No, I have not even a bit of regret. I don't even think that I'm mistaken. I decided to do what I did with the resolve against everything.」

「Yep. That's how it has to be. But Hajime, that way of doing things won't work in Japan you know?」

「I know. The journey that I started with the determination to kill all the guys antagonizing me is over already. That's why I too have to change my way of living. Well, I might at least do something like planting trauma to those who stand in my way though.」

「I see, then that's fine. Even if Hajime's heart has grown to become unreluctant in killing people, reasoning and emotion still pro~perly exist inside Hajime. Then, that's fine. It's just as Shuu said, if Hajime actually steps on the wrong path, we are going to take you back even if we have to spank you, and take the responsibility together with you.」

「Kaa-san……」

Hajime thought, even when he had obtained the power to slaughter even god, but as expected, he was still no match against his father and mother. And then, he recalled his beloved daughter that he obtained in the other world, and he keenly felt how he was still lacking as a father.

Shuu and Sumire gently patted Hajime who was closing his eyes quietly. If they actually saw Hajime murdering someone with their own eyes, there was no way they wouldn't be shaken. Perhaps it would become a trauma for them. Perhaps they wouldn't be able to give him their words unhesitatingly like this.

Even so, one thing that they could say with certainty was, that them getting scared of Hajime, their son, and then distancing themselves with him due to that, was the only thing that they would never do.

That feeling was certainly conveyed to Hajime. Therefore, Hajime could only say one thing.

「……Thank you. Tou-san, Kaa-san.」

The eyes of Shuu and Sumire squinted gently.

While feeling the warmth of these parents, Hajime opened his eyes and showed a wide and mischievous grin to them. His heart was perfectly cleared. Hajime recovered his usual self due to the acceptance of his parents towards his changed self.

In that case, what was left was the report that in a sense was the most important report that he had to tell them. It would also become a proof about the other world that he told them about just now, so it would be two birds with one stone.

「Tou-san, Kaa-san. Do you remember, in the past……about the stupid talk of what am I going to do if I am summoned into another world?」

「Hm? Aa, I remember. If you are a man, then in a world of sword and magic you will surely want to defeat the demon king and build a harem, that was what I said, while Hajime, I think you said 『If it's me, it doesn't feel like I can defeat the demon king at all. What I can do, at best is to return home. And then if I find someone important for me there, then I'll return together with them』, right?」

「Tou-san remember that well huh. Well, that's how it is. I think I mentioned it a bit in my explanation before but……I found important people there. I want to introduce them to you, so is it fine right now?」

「Right now? It's already dawn you know? Or rather, you made a girlfriend there!? Furthermore from another world? No, wait, I still don't know whether the story of another world summoning is true or not……」

「Tha, that's right, isn't it? By any chance, that person might be the one who planted false memories in Hajime……. And then, that person will say something like 「If you want your son to return to normal, then please buy this holy vase. Don’t worry, if you buy it right now, I’ll give you a special fifty percent discount for this million yen vase you know?」!」 (TN: In Japan there were cases of fraud where a salesman was selling a vase/pot, that they claimed was holy, possessing various effects, at a crazy price.)

Shuu who heard the full blown wild delusion of the frankly wary Sumire instantly went 「Sumire, are you a genius!?」 in agreement. While smiling wryly from witnessing his beloved being considered as a crooked salesman, Hajime’s gaze wandered at empty air.

「……Yue, can you hear me? It’s me.」

「Oi, Sumire! For some reason Hajime is talking to empty air see! Is this that? What is called as air girlfriend!? What should I do as a father like this!?」

「Calm down dear. We were careless……surely they had set up listening devices in our house! After this, the woman who will sell us the holy vase will arrive after getting called by Hajime you know!」

「What, the? Bastard, making my son as the stooge of your vase selling……don’t think that this is going to end up well for you. With my marvelous haggling technique, I’m going to beat down the price until below fifty thousand yen!」

Shuu and Sumire who couldn’t possibly understand that Hajime who was suddenly talking to empty air was using “telepathy” were greatly shaken up. Sumire was strangely speaking up a realistic assumption while Shuu became slightly panicked and hardened a slightly off determination. And then, before Hajime knew it, Yue had become a holy vase seller girl.

Hajime continued his telepathy while giving a sidelong glance at such parents.

「Yeah, it’s fine already. ……Yeah, I already talked about the gist of the events. I want to introduce all of you quickly. …… That’s right. You know the coordinates right? Yeah, then open a gate and come here directly. It’s at……let’s see, open it around a meter from my east.」

Actually, right now Yue was at the school building that Hajime attended before. When they returned to earth from Tortus, Hajime made the rooftop of the school building as the place where the gate was opened. From that place, it was easy for him to imagine his home’s position, and even if they arrived in the afternoon, normally that rooftop was locked and people were forbidden to enter there, the location was also outside of the public’s gaze. That spot was convenient to use.

And then, after the classmates returned to their own homes one after another, Yue and the others proposed to stay at the school. It was so they wouldn’t hinder Hajime’s reunion with his parents.

Naturally, Shuu and Sumire who didn’t know about that circumstances could only face each other in wonderment about their son who continued to talk towards empty air――they stiffened right after that.

With a distortion, the space right beside Hajime suddenly formed a vortex, and then it formed an ellipse shape right after that, and then a moment later a familiar scenery――a place that seemed to be a classroom of a school could be seen.

「A, Anyere, Door?」(TN: Reference to anywhere door from Doraemon)

「E, eh? Wai-, this is just too fantasy so suddenly!」

While Shuu and Sumire were greatly flustered, Yue's face peeked out with a plop from inside the gate. Those crimson eyes were wandering through the room with deep interest, and then those eyes narrowed joyfully when they captured Shuu and Sumire, at the end of which those eyes turned to Hajime and wordlessly inquired 「It's fine to enter?」

「Welcome, to the Nagumo household. Come in without reservation.」

「……Nn」

With Hajime's welcoming words, Yue slowly stepped into the Nagumo house. The space hole that suddenly opened inside the room and the beautiful girl who was like an awakened bisque doll that appeared from there caused Shuu and Sumire to open and close their mouths wordlessly in obvious turmoil.

Hajime stood beside Yue, and while grinning mischievously like a kid who succeeded in his prank, he introduced his beloved lover.

「Tou-san, Kaa-san. Her name is Yue. She is my special person. By the way, she is a person of another world, a vampire, and a former princess.」

「「-, Template attribute!?」」(TN: I think what they mean here is how Yue has so many clichéd character attributes.)

Shuu and Sumire splendidly returned a response that was impossible for run-of-the-mill people. Inside her heart Yue was feeling warm and fluffy thinking 「Aa, they are really Hajime's parents」 while at the same time, feeling a bit nervous in this important event where she was greeting her lover’s parents, she pinched at the edge of her skirt, and showed a courtesy gesture that was overflowing with elegance and beauty.

「……How do you do, Hajime’s Otou-sama, Okaa-sama. Please call me Yue. Please take care of me for many years to come.」

「E, o, ou. No, I need to be polite here. Please take care of me too desu?」

「Ple, please take care of me, desuwa?」(TN: Both of the parents also used extremely polite language here)

The shock from witnessing the blond-haired crimson-eyed beautiful girl that looked like she came out from a picture book, and also this being the introduction to their son’s lover for the first time in their life, caused the end of their sentence to actually turn strange. The figures of his parents lowering their head repeatedly and incoherently deepened Hajime’s grin, however, as though to say that 「It won’t end with just this much yeah!」 he opened his mouth once more.

「Shia, it’s okay now!」

「Hai desuu! Tou-sama, Kaa-sama, I am called Shia! Please take care of me desuu!」(TN: The Kaa-sama and Tou-sama used by her is the kanji for in-law.)

「「Rabbit eaaar, it cameee—!?」」

Shia leaped out from the gate with a wide smile while her rabbit ears were flopping around. Shuu and Sumire showed a splendid harmonious reaction to the appearance of this second beautiful girl. Without even any composure to reply, their eyes became nailed to the rabbit ears that were moving around.

「Tio, come!」

「Uh huh. This art our first meeting, Chichiue-dono, Hahaue-dono. I am Tio Clarce of the dragon race, a mistress of Goshujin-sama, and also his sex slave. Please take care of me forever from here on.」

「「Sex slave!?」」

With twin hills that looked like they were going to spill out anytime, and dragon wings spread and flapped behind her in order to expose her true form, Tio made that greeting that was relatively no good. Hearing that caused Shuu and Sumire to spontaneously stagger. It appeared that the consecutive shocking developments made their feet unsteady.

「Remia, Myuu!」

「Yes dear. Nice to meet you, I am called Remia. Please take care of me, together with my daughter.」

「E, err, err……I, I am Papa’s daughter Myuu desu! Ojii-chan, Obaa-chan, please take care of me nano!」(TN: Ojii-chan=grandfather, obaa-chan=grandmother)

「O, Ojii-chan!?」

「Da, daughteeer!?」

The beauty who lowered her head politely with a graceful appearance, and the small Myuu who gave her all in greeting. Shuu and Sumire were finally paralyzed from the astonishing words of Myuu. And then, gigigi their gaze moved toward Hajime like a machine that had forgotten to be oiled.

Their eyes were speaking their feelings more eloquently than anything. That was to say, 「Explain what is the meaning of this!」

Therefore, Hajime answered concisely.

「Myuu is my daughter, and all of the others are my wives. Well, please take care of them okay.」

「「So casual!?」」

「Ah, by the way, there are four more wives, so I'll have them give their greeting on another day.」

「「Real cheat hareeem!?」」

As expected, the two of them splendidly synchronized in a splendid reaction.

And then, the parental heart that was unshakeable even when their son confessed to being a killer went 「You, are you really my son!?(Shuu)」 and 「You, are you really that son of mine!?(Sumire)」 in great agitation and fluster, and then Shuu suddenly went 'I revealed the trick!' and yelled 「No, wait, Sumire! There is no way girls this cute are real! Everything is CG! Don't get tricked!」, hearing that Sumire yelled 「Dear, you are a genius! Hajime, open your eyes! Even if 2D girls are converted into 3D, in the end, they are just false images. It will only end in vain!」 with a sorrowful expression……

Anyway, the room already descended into a grand pandemonium.

However, even that pandemonium didn't continue for long.

It was because Myuu who sensed that they weren't welcomed from the state of the two parents got depressed, then she asked 「Ojii-chan, Obaa-chan……is Myuu no good?」. The result from that went without saying.

「How do you do, I am Myuu's Ojii-chan you know?」

「How do you do, I am Myuu-chan's Obaa-chan you know?」

They splendidly got back on their feet within an instant. Their figure that was knocked out helplessly by Myuu's sly loveliness was exactly the same as Hajime as expected.

Like that, after they managed to get back on their feet, seeing the fantasy phenomenon that happened in front of their eyes and the beautiful girls who were not human, the two people who right from the start had high resistance to this kind of thing due to their nature of work immediately confirmed the truth of Hajime's words.

After that, there was a great commotion of 'hip hip hurray'. The too real this and that which their son experienced, and the real harem of beautiful girls……their otaku soul ate it up energetically before they threw a barrage of questions at Hajime and the others with eyes shining brightly.

When Tio used regeneration magic to get out the image recording of Hajime's battle that she recorded, strange voices resounded through the residential area in the morning. 「UoOOOOOO-, AWESOOOOMEE! Did you know, did you know huuuh!? That's, that's my son! Thank you very much!」or, 「KyaAAAA-, you heard that!? Just now, he said something amazing you know! This is bad! This child is seriously demon king-sama! And then, demon king-sama is my son desu! Thank you very much!」 and so on. Perhaps because the two were also staying up all night without sleeping, their tension kept raising and raising up, in the end, the two of them continued to make a commotion until Hajime who became unable to endure the shame made them go ‘abababa’ using Lightning Clad. (TN: That abababa expressed cartoonish electric shock, where the person that got shocked exposed their skeleton and ended up with only smoking body and curled up hair.)

「……Nn. As expected from Hajime’s Otou-sama and Okaa-sama. They are completely out of the ordinary.」

「Certainly, it feels like that they are really Hajime-san’s parent like this desu.」

「It can even be said, that this is only natural for Goshujin-sama’s Chichiue-dono and Hahaue-dono.」

「Ufufu, they resemble Haijme-san, what a unique personage.」

「Yep-, Papa, really resembled Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan nano!」

Yue and others spoke their impression while lukewarmly staring at Shuu and Sumire who fainted with great smiles.

To those impressions, Hajime said a sentence.

「What the hell do you guys mean by that?」

Hajime’s expression turned speechless.

Shuu and Sumire who returned from their reminiscence called with wide grins at their son’s family who were flirting and frolicking in a sense at the morning dining table.

「Which reminds me, Hajime. You are going to meet with Kaori-chan and the others today, right? You are not going to be late?」

「Aa~, it will be at past noon, so there is no problem.」

「Shizuku-chan will also come, right? What about Ai-chan?」

「It seems that Shizuku will come together with Kaori, but Aiko, I think she can come, but perhaps she will be late. She has her work and also her position after all.」

Hajime shrugged, while Sumire lowered her eyebrow in sympathy thinking 「Ai-chan also has it hard eh.」

Today Hajime had the plan of having dinner with everyone, including Kaori and the others too. The classmates would also participate so it would be something like the class reunion of the people who got summoned to the alternate world. Although currently all of them were still active students, so the nuance was a bit different.

「Oi, Hajime. Tell Kaori-chan and the others to show their faces here more often. About beautiful daughters in law, the more the better.」

「That's right. Or rather, if the houses reconstruction is finished, it's okay for them to live here instead you know? Isn't it the best when the house is lively and merry?」

「……The girls themselves don't really mind that……rather, they seem to want to come normally, but their families don't seem to approve. Well, that's the sensible decision.」

At the corner of his mind, Hajime recalled the time when he met the family of Kaori and Shizuku while shrugging.

「H~mm, there is that. Well, just tell them that Kaa-san will welcome them anytime. Also……fufu. I won't mind if you are going to stay over tonight you know?」

「Debauchery party eh! What a terrifying child even as my son.」

「You are noisy. I told you already I'm going to come home normally. Really, Tou-san and Kaa-san are……」

Hajime's expression turned somewhat tired right from the morning. The wives from another world watched over that exchange between parent and child smilingly.

What was unfolding before their eyes, was certainly a peaceful and gentle, normal every day of a family.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspellings and omitted words.

I think in the next chapter, I'll try writing about going out around the city with the wives.

It seems that the heartwarming story without much development will continue, but I'm also wanting to write a long extra story before long so I will be happy if you all can read while feeling the heartwarming atmosphere.

……If Shirakome has more time……real life, you bastard……

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday next week too.

Arifureta Chapter 182

Arifureta After – Downtown Date? Part 1

AN: I’m sorry, this chapter is a bit late……

It’s short but, please have mercy.

At the station plaza several blocks away from the neighborhood of Hajime’s house, there was quite a splendid fountain installed. Many people were bustling around on this holiday.

Naturally, there were a lot of young males and females in that spot who seemed to have rendezvous appointments. Their gazes often moved alternately towards their watches and the direction that the person they were waiting for would come from, or they were playing around with their smartphones to kill time.

Amidst those young people, there was the figure of Hajime. What seemed to be different from him compared to other people, was that he never particularly looked at his watch or played with his smartphone, he kept sitting on the bench beside the fountain while staring absentmindedly at empty air, like a father who was taking his children out to play on a holiday while slackening from the fatigue of his everyday work.

Yet, regardless of his slackening atmosphere, there was a vague presence from him as though his back was standing straight, perhaps it was because of the abnormal experience a normal youth of the same age would never encounter that Hajime had piled up.

While Hajime’s body was in a really relaxed posture, the attention of the surroundings was naturally attracted to him because of that presence he exuded. Despite the strange sense of security that his calm atmosphere caused, there was also the slight aroma of danger that came from him.

Due to that, perhaps it could be said as only natural that sometimes there were groups of girls who kept glancing toward Hajime. There were also girls whispering to each other with slightly reddened cheeks among those groups, who were on the verge of doing reverse picking up. (TN: Gyaku nanpa: Instead of a man calling out to a woman on the street, it was the woman who called on a man in reverse.)

It was a popularity that was unthinkable for Hajime before he got summoned to the alternate world Tortus.

「……Should I use presence isolation like this?」

Naturally, for Hajime who possessed monstrous specs, the movements of the surroundings were leaked into his ears, he muttered such thing while his posture and gaze stayed unmoving.

Like that, a group of girls with courage(?) finally approached timidly in order to call out to Hajime, at that time when the surrounding girls and boys were observing carefully, an energetic calling voice that caused them to open their eyes wide in shock resounded.

「Ah, you are there nano~. Papaa~~~~!」

sutetetetete— The one who dashed from the street of the station was Myuu, her emerald blond hair was lightly fluttering while a full smile was pasted on her face. That lovely figure of a foreigner beautiful little girl running with her all caused the gazes of all the people at the station plaza to move to her.

As though to say ‘who cares about those gazes!’, Myuu didn’t show any reaction at all and keeping her momentum she dived at Hajime who was slacking up on the bench.

Like a bullet, Myuu leaped at full power without a single shred of reservation or mercy. Normally, Hajime would match the timing and sway back to perfectly kill the impact and gently catch her, but right now he was sitting on the bench so he couldn’t do that.

And so, one of Hajime’s hands gently scooped the jumping Myuu’s shoulder and he skillfully converted the charging momentum into rotation. So to speak, it was something like Aikido. Just before Myuu impacted the stomach of Hajime in midair, she was twirled in a rotation and like that she was dropped down to sit on the lap of Hajime.

「Oy, Myuu. I told you many times already, don’t jump because it’s dangerous.」

「Ehehe~, I’m sorry nano~」

Myuu blinked for a moment because she didn’t understand what happened, but seeing Hajime who was warning her with a wry smile, she immediately grinned loosely and leaned back snugly at Hajime’s chest.

Hajime made a troubled smile seeing the state of his beloved daughter who didn’t seem to reflect on her action at all. He then used his hand to change the way he held her and then he stood up.

From the surroundings, 「E, eee? Papa? Just now, that girl called him papa?」 or 「Lies, he has a child!?」, or 「Oi oi, how old is that guy……if that kid is his child, then just when was she born……」, or 「Rather than that, just now was amazing wasn’t it? That kid was rotated in a full circle you know?」, the topic was spreading with an amazing momentum in the plaza.

But, the entrance of Myuu was still only the beginning. All of them would witness even more shocking scenes after this.

「My my, Myuu. Mama told you that it’s no good for you to run off alone, right? After all, it’s easy to get lost in this world……」

「Mamaa. But, Papa is here so……」

「Ufufu, Myuu really is a daddy’s girl. Dear……thank you for waiting.」

With her sandals making cute sounds patapata from each step, wearing a long skirt and elegant cardigan, also swaying emerald blond hair that was braided with a hair tie, Remia finally arrived.

Seeing the entrance of an older, or rather a foreigner onee-san who had plenty of sex appeal of a widow, gulp the sound of someone gulping their saliva could be heard from somewhere. Several men were already sending piercing gazes of envy towards Hajime who had beauties as his wife and daughter.

But, still not yet. It still wasn’t over yet with this!

「Hajime-saa~n, thank you for waiting~.」

「My apologies for making you wait, Goshujin-sama.」

The ones who were saying that with their arrival were Shia, with her faint bluish white long straight hair swaying, wearing a miniskirt from which her white slender beautiful legs were generously exposed, and Tio who wasn’t wearing her usual kimono but instead wore loose trousers and a V-shirt along with a long cardigan.

Both of them were owners of good looks that could make idols or actresses run away barefooted in shame. Two such girls were approaching towards Hajime who seemed to already have a wife and child with obvious good will coloring their whole face.

The gazes of the people at the station plaza were already in a glued state towards Hajime without being able to take their gazes off. Their curiosity kept rising over the limit.

While completely ignoring those people, Hajime shrugged while still carrying Myuu.

「You all wanted to try having a rendezvous, right? I don’t really mind. Spending time not doing anything only staring absentmindedly at nothing is not bad sometimes.」

Yes, it was just as Hajime said, if it was asked for what reason these people who were living at the same house were meeting at the station plaza at an appointed time, that was because of the request of the female camp. Hajime thought in his heart that it was better to go together, but if he was requested for something like this then he couldn’t reject it. It was a cute request for him.

「So, what about Yue? You all came together, right?」

Hajime tilted his head seeing that there was only one of his lovers who hadn't yet appeared at this place.

「Aa, I think Yue-san will arrive soon. There were some guys picking up women in the train, so Yue-san was taking care of them while telling us to go ahead.」

「Taking care……don't tell me, she isn't going to smash them, right? Spare me from that. If the monster of the clothing store will be overflowing even until this world…… I'm prepared to even wage war you know?」

「Even though Goshujin-sama is a godslayer, thou art still not very good against Christabel and the others huh.」

Hajime's expression cramped from listening to Shia's explanation. Tio was being somewhat exasperated seeing that state of Hajime, but when she thought from the point of view of Hajime whose ass kept getting stared feverishly each time by those manly women of another world, her gaze was changing into sympathy thinking that it might be something that couldn't be helped.

By the way, according to Shia's additional explanation, it seemed that Yue would only toy with the guys' memory and mind using soul magic, and she wouldn't use the crotch smash. For the time being, Yue and the others had also learned of the proper method of dealing with trouble in Japan, which had strict laws to maintain order compared to the other world.

While they were talking like that, Hajime suddenly felt a restless sign from the direction of the station street, so Hajime turned his gaze there.

Sure enough, from there he could see the figure of a beautiful girl with crimson eyes and golden hair that looked as though she came right out off the screen, walking with a calm air majestically, and also with elegance and gracefulness at the same time, as though she was a queen walking on a red carpet.

Yue wasn’t in her girl mode that was normally in the appearance of a twelve year old. She had transformed her appearance similar to Hajime, into an age of around seventeen years old. There was no need to mention her bewitching air, the faint smile that was pasted on her lips might be from her feelings towards her beloved that was at the end of her sight. That smile also exposed tenderness, which was magnifying the charm of her perfect beauty by several times over.

Yue, who should be called as a peerless beauty from just a glance, was exuding out an adult charm, but the clothes that she came wearing were a loose parka and lacy skirt that honestly seemed to be rough yet cute. That style of clothing pushed aside the difficult to approach aura that was characteristic in a beautiful person which further boosted up her charm.

Anyone who caught sight of Yue, regardless of their age or gender, they would have their gaze drawn in without exception. The sounds of gon-, or gashan-, or bachikon- that could be heard from here and there, were the sounds of disaster that were played by the victim of Yue. In a sense, she could be called a walking disaster.

A youth crashed into a telephone pole because he was walking while watching Yue, a group of boys that seemed to be students were stampeding over a store’s signboard, a girlfriend who came back to her senses slapped her boyfriend beside her to drag him back to reality.

However, Yue didn’t pay attention to those at all. She walked forward dashingly, and before long, amidst the gathered attention, she had approached Hajime’s side.

「……Nn. Hajime, thank you, for letting us to have a “rendezvous”.」

Yue then put her lips on top of Hajime’s. That act was really natural, as though doing that was only a matter of course, like how if the wind blew then the leaves would sway.

Yue put her hand gently on Hajime’s chest with her feet standing on her tiptoes to make herself a little taller in order to kiss Hajime. Seeing such a Yue caused the surroundings to get shaken.

「Geez, Yue-oneechan is unfair nano! Myuu is going to do ‘chuu’ too!」

「My my, then I too……」

「Uu, it’s a little embarrassing in front of a crowd like this desu, but……」

「Art that so? Rather, this makes me a little excited though?」

Right after Yue separated from Hajime, Hajime nonchalantly evaded the octopus kiss of Myuu who aimed at his lips and redirected it on his cheek. After that, he accepted Remia and Shia’s kiss while gifting a slap to Tio. In the end, the female camp cheeks were blushing, and one pervert was going ‘haa haa’ while holding her slapped cheek.

The scene of a real harem, where one man with a child was exchanging kisses with multiple beautiful girls and women, caused the tension of the people in the area to break through the limit. 「What the hell is that!? What is going on!? Is this a shooting of some show!?」 some panicked, 「Tha, that man, what kind of person is he!? Is he the son of a financial conglomerate somewhere?」 some were imagining the true identity of Hajime,「Thi, this is Japan right?」 and some were doubting their own whereabouts, the crowd was getting really busy with their thoughts.

At last, some people with smartphone cameras appeared, deciding that there was no way they were going to let go of this rare scene.

But, without a single exception,

「E, eh? Wai-, the screen light vanished suddenly!?」

「What's this, it got noises all over!?」

「No way, is it broken!? Spare me from that!」

Like that, all the smartphones suddenly became out of form and the people couldn't take pictures using their phones. The cause of this was naturally, Hajime. By performing a minute adjustment to his characteristic magic "Lightning Clad", he emitted out electromagnetic waves that disrupted the electronics in the area. Of course, if the electronic device got away from Hajime then they would return to normal.

「……Nn. It became noisy. Hajime, let's go soon?」

「No no, what are you trying to do attempting to depart naturally like that. There are still members who haven't arrived here yet.」

「……? Hajime, you are feeling tired right now.」

「You think I’m Agent Muer. Don’t try to avert the topic with X-Fi*e make-believe.」(TN: X-Files series, FBI agent Fox William Mulder. Don’t know what this refers too though, never watched X-Files)

Even while knowing that there were members who hadn’t arrived yet, Yue urged them to depart with a really natural gesture. To that, Hajime smiled wryly while making a retort.

「……It’s fine, there is no problem. Those two had severe constipation and cannot co――」

「Yuee~~~~! What are you saying~~!」

「Wait a second, no matter what, that lie is just too cruel don’t you think!」

Yue’s deceiving words that were too cruel to be targeted to a maiden were cut off by Kaori who was running to here wearing a feminine one-piece dress, with her body returned to her original body, and Shizuku, whose trademark ponytail was swaying behind her.

The further addition of two more beautiful girls caused the surroundings to become hectic. Kaori only gave that a glance before glaring sharply at Yue right away. And then she immediately turned her gaze to Hajime and smiled gently.

「Sorry, Hajime-kun. You’ve waited long?」

Hajime was going to open his mouth, but before that happened,

「……Nn. He waited feeling bored to death. As punishment, Kaori is to go home right away. Now, quickly go home. Now, now.」

「I won't go home! Yue you bully-. Yue who is saying something like that is the one that has to go home!」

Yue kept pushing away on Kaori, to that Kaori reacted honestly and pushed back at Yue. This was what was called as "Hand Four" in pro-wrestling. The two girls were grappling with each other putting all their strength into it. Both of their foreheads pushed at each other without any side taking a single step back. (TN: Don't know if that's the correct name, Yue and Kaori here were pushing at each other with their hands grasping the other's hands and also their foreheads coming into contact.)

By the way, that Kaori was able to face Yue equally despite not being in the body of an apostle was because Kaori's original body itself was inserted with the factor of apostle flesh and changed into a specially made body.

It was a body reconstruction for the sake of clearing the problem of the difference in lifespan between her and Hajime and the others, but that wasn't all, she was also able to activate "Apostle Mode", in that case, her hair would change to silver and she could let out wings from her back. Of course, she could also use the disintegration ability and twin sword arts without any problem. ……Though those were something extremely unneeded in this peaceful Japan life.

Yue and Kaori were always quarreling about something, but the one who took the lead in the body reconstruction of Kaori was none other than Yue. Perhaps due to the influence when she was taken over by Ehito, Yue somehow understood the method to create apostles, so by using all age of god magic and with the help of Hajime and Tio, the apostlefication of Kaori succeeded splendidly. Their closeness was as great as how much they were quarreling……perhaps this phrase existed to describe these two.

「Err, Hajime. I think we came right on time but……I wonder if we made you wait?」

Even while looking troubled at the quarrel of the two, Shizuku asked timidly at Hajime. Of course, Hajime said no to the question. Shizuku sighed in relieve hearing that, and then after she looked around feeling a bit embarrassed, she asked Hajime with reservation.

「Say……I wonder if I look strange?」

That question was naturally referring to the fashion she was wearing. Shizuku, before she was summoned to another world and even while she was in another world, basically kept wearing pants, but today her appearance was wrapped in a flare skirt and no-sleeve shirt. Although looking from the length of her skirt that reached around above the knee, and the properly fastened buttons on her skirt, this appearance was also really like Shizuku.

「Yeah, I think you look cute. Or rather, before this too, I told you already that you don’t need to get that shy just from wearing a skirt, right? After all, it really suits you.」

「Is, is that so? Fufu, thank you.」

The appearance of Shizuku who was shyly fiddling around with her skirt, if the self-alleged little sisters who idolized her as Onee-sama saw this then they would surely faint without a doubt. That was just how lovely the figure of Shizuku who was letting out her natural girlishness in front of Hajime was.

And then, Yue and Kaori whose hands were still grappling each other with only their heads turned towards that exchange between Hajime and Shizuku were,

「……So nonchalantly, taking the delicious part like that. Shizuku, what a terrifying child.」

「Shizuku-chan……recently, you are not stopping me even when I was quarreling with Yue aren't you……」

Even the whispers of those two didn't reach the ears of the swordswoman-sama whose maiden power was in full throttle right now.

After that, Kaori who noticed that Yue and others had kissed Hajime pressed Hajime for a kiss as expected while Shizuku whose face became bright red thinking 'such a thing is impossible in front of the crowd!' got a little depressed that it would be only her who didn't get a kiss. But Hajime, who was unable to be indifferent to that state of Shizuku, forcefully kissed her which caused her to faint. It went without saying that the station plaza became a pandemonium after that.

Seeing that the commotion was also getting larger, Hajime and the others set out to the city for a date until five o'clock, when the dinner party with the summoned classmates would start.

「I have……seen something amazing.」

After that, someone among the people who were left behind whispered that. That sentence was exactly something that represented the feelings of everyone in the station plaza.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspellings and omitted words.

The next update is planned at 16 P.M Saturday next week=>correction=> 6 P.M Saturday next week too.

Arifureta Chapter 183

Arifureta After – Downtown Date? Part 2

On the street that was slightly distanced from the downtown main street, in the fast-food restaurant that was facing the street, at the window-side seat on that restaurant’s second floor, the figures of three young men who seemed to be high school students could be seen slacking up listlessly on the chair, as though to say that they had too much free time to spare.

Above the tray that was put on the table in front of the three, burger wrappings that had been crumpled up into a round shape and empty French fries containers were scattered about carelessly.

「Aa~」

While scowling at the juice which had become thin due to the melting ice, one of the high school students was discharging out a strange groan. Hearing that, the remaining two students directed an annoyed gaze and an understanding gaze at the first student.

「I know that we got nothing to do, but don’t make that kind of voice. It’s embarrassing.」

「You are saying something like that huh. On this precious holiday, three men are jabbering like this……haaa~. On top of having nothing to do, this is just empty……

Don’t say that. That’ll just make you feel emptier.

These three who had been friends since middle school were currently first-year high school students. Harboring a faint hope that if they advanced to high school then it would be an exciting springtime of their lives that didn’t exist in middle school……that something would happen. In actuality, there wasn’t really anything particular that happened, and they were spending normal days that held no difference with their middle school period.

Actually, the school they were enrolled into, was the high school where the world-shaking occult case happened a year ago, and among the current third-years, there were also the seniors who were directly related with that case. That too became the primary cause that inflated the hope they were harboring that “something” might happen in their high school life (they received fierce opposition from their parents when they chose this school as the first choice but they persuaded their parents) but……there wasn’t really anything that happened.

Of course, there was also a decisively different point before and after the occult case, and that was something that undoubtedly made them delighted from the bottom of their hearts that they enrolled into their current high school. That point was……

Aa, I want to have a date with Yue-senpai.

I want to marry Shia-senpai.

Shirasaki-senpai……is great isn’t she.

The three were facing up to the ceiling while leaking out their wild delusions, that rather than with these male friends with whom they had a stuffily undesirable but inseparable relationship, they would rather walk around the city on a holiday with the seniors they yearned for. And then hearing each other’s words, they exchanged glances among them. And then, they spoke words to each other at the same time.

□□□Don’t say something like that. It feels empty.□□□

The three simultaneously sighed so deeply to the degree that it would surely let out all the happiness that they possessed. While the images of the seniors they yearned for were floating at the back of their minds, at the same time they lamented the fact of how the gaze of their yearned person was directed only at a single person. Furthermore, that person was the same person for the three different girls they yearned for, and that fact was known not only in school, but even the whole neighborhood had already known that fact. (TN: In Japan, there is the saying that sighing will cause your happiness to get away from you.)

In addition to that, it didn’t stop with just those three seniors, something like that was just……

□Shit, even though in this world, there are many people in love poverty like us, that shitty bastard-□

□O, oi. Stop that. Did you forget already, about the guys that were turned like that after speaking ill of that “you-know-who” behind his back?□

□……Are you talking about the captain of the karate club, how he got transfigured into a big sis the next day?□

□There is also that, but there are also people like the ace of the soccer club who got planted with a phobia of females, or the math teacher who was always acting sarcastically one day suddenly started using polite language at “you know who” like a military personnel……

Bu, but, those were lies, right? Those were just like urban legends, right? Look, those guys, they are the ‘returnees’. Those kinds of stories were created a lot half for fun……in fact, there aren’t any seniors or teachers like in those rumors.

That’s, you’re right but……

Stories that sounded like an urban legend——but speaking about that, even the story about the “real harem” also “sounded like an urban legend” in that case……In the end, that was what the three of them came to think but they didn’t say it out loud. It was the truth that students and teachers that became the basis of the rumors couldn’t be found in the school, but at the same time, there were also rumors that those rumored guys had transferred schools or changed jobs.

It was unknown what was truth and what was a lie, and that also granted uneasy feelings that they couldn’t describe. Especially because the new first-years didn’t know about the ‘returnees’——the people who returned back from being spirited away in mass were called like that by society, and like that the naming stuck—— school life right after they returned from the occult case.

Naturally, there were also a lot of first-year students who were ignorant of the ways of the world and got carried away. They attempted to go on the offensive towards the beautiful seniors and foreign students that were among the ‘returnee’ group; but……most of them were turned into ash after being shown the relationship of those beauties with “that person”, or they were stopped by the male seniors of the ‘returnee’ group with kind gazes when they attempted to take malicious actions out of jealousy. After a few months passed, those kinds of people eventually became a little bit more adult like from understanding in their hearts that “it’s just how it is”.

Even so, as expected, there was no way the yearning towards the seniors who were so beautiful that even celebrities couldn’t win against them would disappear, and that went even truer with the jealousy towards that “you-know-who” who was literally monopolizing those beautiful seniors like a joke. Grumbles or cursing would sometimes leak out suddenly toward that you-know-who like this.

「Haa……hm? O, oi, that.」

「Hm?」

「Aa?」

One of the male students for some reason turned his gaze outside the window, and then he noticed that group and raised his voice. The other two got curious and moved their gazes to follow his, and there, at an unbelievable timing, the rumored group was walking on the street on the other side.

It was that “you-know-who” ——Nagumo Hajime, and his wives.

「Oi oi, just why are those people here?」

「That is, no matter how you see it, this must be a date.」

「As always, what an amazing line up, huh……wait, that child riding on “that person’s” shoulder, is that the rumored daughter? So it’s true that he has a child? Isn’t that bad……

bita-! The three boys clung on the window glass, staring hungrily at Hajime who was walking nonchalantly while being surrounded by extraordinarily beautiful girls and women in enjoyment. Seeing it from the viewpoint of the people inside the restaurant, the figures of those three were like geckos that were clinging to a window, it was a relatively strange sight. It almost caused the 0 yen smile of the restaurant waitress to crumble. (TN: 0 yen smile=a free smile, a business smile)

Yue-senpai, Shia-senpai……also Shirasaki-senpai and Yaegashi-senpai are there too. Next are the black haired beauty and the blonde beauty that were sometimes seen at the school festival or after school……

Just what kind of perfect lineup is this. Dammit it all-

Aa, also that child……she is super cute. There is even a beautiful little girl……how envious.

Eh?

Eh?

Eh?

The last statement caused the three to spontaneously leak out stupid sounds while they faced each other. Or rather, two of them were making Eh, this guy is seriously, that kind of guy? look at the last one while drawing back. That last person seeing that tried to solve the misunderstanding in panic.

Ah, those senpai are getting farther see.

「Yosh, we got nothing to do anyway, let’s try following them yeah. What kind of date a real harem man is having, this can be used for future reference.」

「Hey, you guys are misunderstanding, okay? I’m not like that, okay?」

「But, will it be okay? From the rumor, those people for some reason are really sharp I heard. Won’t it be bad if we got found out?」

「This is in the middle of the city. There are also a lot of people so there won’t be any problem. Besides, this is that group of beauties we are talking about. There is a high chance some punks are going to pick a fight with them. At that time, what kind of action “that person” will take…… perhaps we are going to understand a bit, whether those rumors about the senpai that got turned into a big sis or the teacher that got turned into pseudo-military are the truth or not, don’t you think so? You are curious, right?」

「He, heey, listen to me. I really, don’t have any interest for little kids at all. I was just simply……」

「Indeed……wait, this is bad, they are seriously getting farther. For now, let’s go first.」

「Yoosh. Well, even just paying respect to the figure of Yue-senpai and the others in casual clothing on the holiday is already the best anyway.」

「Yeah-」

「Oi wait! Don’t ignore me here! You guys are seriously mistaken! No, really!」

Until the end, the noisy three students didn’t notice the previous waitress whose eyes weren’t smiling anymore even though the lips were still smiling. They exited the restaurant with noisy footsteps. And then, from the entrance downstairs, a yell of 「Rather, I am someone that gets excited from adult woman, like female teachers, or widows heree-」 that would cause headaches could be heard……the waitresses sighed deeply hearing that.

「Heeey, you guys are really mistaken. okay?」

「Geez, we got it already.」

「You like female teachers or widows. That was what you were saying, right? Rather than that, don’t make so much noise. We are going to get found out here.」

「Even though I was on the brink of getting treated like a perverted lolicon just now, you guys……」

By the time he did a coming out with his outrageous fetish at the fast-food restaurant, he was already definitely a pervert, but no one there made such a retort. Rather than that, it was more important to observe carefully the party of Hajime and the others, who were currently enjoying window shopping, at the end of their gazes.

While they were observing, Hajime’s group entered a large three-story store that was fairly famous for its ladies fashion. From across the glass window, the trio could see how the shop employees and other customers were taken aback for a moment, but the shop employees were immediately recovering their usual attitudes like a pro while the other female customers were sending their gazes as though they had encountered a celebrity. The males who were taken along with the female customers were staring in fascination in a daze.

Amidst those, the aforementioned group didn’t look particularly bothered with all the attention and they only looked around inside the store. Sometimes the female camp would ask for Hajime’s opinion and try on some clothes. To that, Hajime changed Myuu’s position from on top of his shoulders to carrying her with one hand, and then he seemed to say one or two sentences back regarding his impressions of the clothes. Just from looking it could clearly be seen that Yue and the others were swinging from joy and nervousness when they were listening to what Hajime was saying.

「……By any chance, is that man giving back different impressions to all of them respectively?」

「If he is just saying “that suits you”, then at the very least it will be said six times from only one round you know. That would make him look like a broken record in that case.」

「Based on the expressions of all those girls, it seems that man is saying different impressions each time without fail. ……Is this, the true power of a harem man……」

The trio were continuing to observe by hiding in the shadows of merchandise even while being seen suspiciously by other customers and employees. Their expressions changed into a shudder. If it was them who were asked for impressions by that many women changing clothes multiple times like that……without a doubt, in their case they would be turned into a broken speaker saying the same thing.

But, after that, after the group was feeling satisfied walking around inside the store, the three mediocre high school students (first-years) were made to taste further the dreadfulness of a real harem man’s deed.

「Wa, wait-. Don’t tell me, he is planning to pay for that many clothes!?」

「That’s a lie right-. This store, it’s really expensive you know! Even if each of them only buys one piece of clothing, there will be six pieces……is that guy’s financial strength a monster!?」

Ahead of the gaze of the trembling trio, were six pieces of clothing that were put on the register. Yue, Shia, Tio, and Remia looked happy, while Kaori and Shizuku looked a bit apologetic. Even so, they were staring with undisguised happiness at the back of Hajime who was speaking with the clerk.

Hajime handed a card to the clerk and finished the bill, then he wrote the address for the mailing destination and turned back. He only shrugged towards the thanks that were said to him by the female camp before urging them to continue the date. And then there was Myuu who repeatedly lightly hit Hajime’s cheek in protest because it was only her who wasn’t bought some clothes due to the lack of size that matched her body, but as though to say that he got it, Hajime turned a gentle gaze at her and nodded before leaving the store.

The customers who were accompanied by lovers or friends, and the employees who were left behind then let out a deep sigh that was filled with various thoughts.

「Come to think of it, once, I heard a rumor. “That person’s” parents seem to be the president of a game company and a popular manga author. Also, it seems the person himself also did some part-time work, and it was said that he earned quite a lot.」

「Aa. I also heard something like that. In addition, there was also some joking rumor that the person himself was starting up a company related to jewelry. They said that that black haired beauty and that blonde beauty are the company director or the secretary or something.」

While following behind Hajime's group, the trio were laughing dryly after conversing about the rumors that originally sounded like a joke but now seemed to have some truth in it after what they witnessed.

In fact, that rumor hit the bull's eye. When Hajime just returned back to this world, he got really busy with taking care of large problems, like the forgery of everything that was related to government administration, including family register, etc., and also countermeasures against the mass media. By the time all of those calmed down, he was faced with the problem about providing for Yue and the others. Although he was still a student, as expected it was unacceptable for a man to keep relying on his parents for that. In order to raise his dependability status, he pondered for a way to earn money.

One of his ideas was starting up a jewelry shop. If he was asked why a jewelry shop, of course, it was because he was a transmutation master, and through that, he possessed an unfair method regarding the processing technology of jewels. Depending on the situation, even without any raw ore, as long as he had the Structural Component skill he could possibly create precious stones from scratch.

As for designs, he left it to Remia who unexpectedly displayed a good sense in her ideas while Hajime only transmuted following her designs. Furthermore, just by wearing these accessories that Hajime created, it would improve the physical condition of the wearer, improve the skin, or raise the memorizing ability, anyway the accessories had miraculous effects.

At present, the business was carried out from a small office, with their sales mainly coming from the internet, but even so, Tio, who in this one year was learning economy and management, carried out the administration of the business so he could work while also going to school. Rather, through word of mouth the good design sense and the miraculous effects were promoted further and the business produced quite an earning.

Furthermore, Remia and Tio who weren't attending school respectively showed their interest in the various design style or economic system of earth, so this jewelry shop that Hajime established wasn't just killing two birds with one stone, it was already killing three birds with one stone where Remia and Tio also could pursue their interests. Hajime himself was also stretching his hand towards various trades in his own way.

「Magic merchandise is selling like magic huh.」 Seeing Hajime who was making a really crooked smile while saying that caused Shuu and Sumire to avert their eyes at the same time while it went without saying that Yue and the others were enraptured with that Hajime.

「O, oi, it's finally the development just as we thought! As expected from those seniors. The predator that snapped at the bait is nothing half-assed.」

「Wait, is this, going to be okay? From their appearance, they feel like college students, they are absurdly huge.」

「Le, let's at least, prepare so that we can contact the police.」

Ahead of the gazes of the trio who were hiding by the nearby signboard while seeing the situation, Hajime’s group, who were going to enter into a children’s clothing shop, were being approached by five men with great body builds that seemed to be college students. The five college students were approaching with smiles on their mouths. Dyed hair, rough clothing, rough expressions, and rough atmospheres, from all those it was obvious that they were the type of people you wouldn’t want to get involved with.

The people in the surroundings were also somehow sensing the trouble that would happen, an uneasy air could be felt from them.

The approach of those fellows caused Hajime to look back and narrow his eyes. And then, the five men arrived before Hajime’s group, the sound of someone gulping could be heard from somewhere, immediately following,

「Hajime-san, also all the girlfriends, greetings —su-!」

「「「「Greetings —su-!」」」」

The five scary guys bowed their head simultaneously. Voices and expressions of 「Eee——!!」 were overflowing from the surroundings. The unexpected development also caused the trio to go 「Whyyyy!?」 with their bodies leaning out from the signboard. Amidst those, Hajime was,

「……Aa? Who are you guys?」

He returned a suspicious stare at the scary guys. Getting flustered and a bit shocked by that reply, a man with dyed blonde hair and piercings opened his mouth in a panicked rush.

「I, it’s me, me. Don’t you remember me?」

「Hmph? So this is a “It’s me, me” fraud right to the face…… you are quite a novel guy huh.」(TN: “It’s me, me” fraud, when someone unknown called your phone and suddenly said “it’s me, me” without saying any name and in a panicked tone. They would claim that your friend or family just got into an accident and rush you to transfer money to them.) 「Tha, that’s not it! Half a year ago, I picked a fight with Hajime-san together with twenty of my friends. I am Hide that got beaten up black and blue at that time! After that, Hajime-san gave me introductions to my current workplace, and from that, I work together with Hajime-san a few times as an information dealer don’t you remember-」

「……Aah, yep. Hide huh. Hide. Yep. I remember you now.」

「Do, do you really remember mee-」

Hajime obviously didn’t seem to remember, but it would be scary later if this Hide kept asking doggedly (half a year ago, he had tasted “true fear”) so he stopped insisting. That scary face changed into a pathetic look like a puppy that was thrown away.

「So, beaten up information dealer Hide, what’s your business with me?」

「That name feels like it’s going to end up as my nickname, so please spare me from that. Eeerr, I don’t really have any business, but I just caught sight of Hajime-san by chance, so I only came to give a greeting, that’s all.」

「I see. What an honest guy huh. Aa, somehow I recall you. If I remember correctly, you guys are that bunch who got the cold shoulder from Yue and the others, and then you tried to take Myuu hostage as revenge, and in the end, you guys did dogeza while crying to me, right?」

「……Please don’t say anything about that anymore. That is a past that I really want to erase……」

The eyes of Hide and his friends turned empty altogether while their bodies were shivering. One of them looked like they could burst out crying anytime.

After that, Hide and the others who talked a bit with Hajime said that if it was children’s clothing then they knew of a shop of an acquaintance nearby that was little-known yet had good merchandise, and upon receiving that information Hajime and the others headed there. Seeing the five scary guys who were like well-trained soldiers from how they continued to lower their heads until the figure of Hajime’s group disappeared from view, it went without saying that it caused the gaze of the surroundings to become wordless.

「Somehow, it was different from expectation……」

「What we expected had already happened, and it was settled by “that person”, and this is the result huh.」

「……“Settlement” that made that dangerous looking older bunch act like loyal dogs, huh……those guys, did you two see they were trembling……」

「「……」」

For some reason, the bodies of the trio shuddered suddenly. And then at that time when they were pondering whether to continue tailing or to just stop it already, they witnessed the spectacle of Hajime’s group exiting the children’s clothing shop and the delinquent bunch who caught sight of that once more bowing their heads to Hajime just like before.

The trio somehow missed their chance to speak of stopping their observation. And while that trio was still watching attentively, they saw Hajime and the others who asked for a good café this time before they walked away and the delinquents who, as expected, bowed their heads for seeing them off.

Even during the walk to the café, the scene of the young bunch who obviously had preferences of living in a back alley standing up in a panic to give a greeting while bowing their heads when they happened to catch sight of Hajime, entered their sight many times.

Even when they returned back to the main street the same thing happened, bunches of guys who seemed to be of that kind would suddenly lower their head with gazes that were filled with terror and respect when they crossed over Hajime’s path.

And the clincher of all that was when a black foreign car stopped near Hajime and group who were having a pleasant chat at an open terrace café. From that car, a bunch of men wearing suits and clad in a dangerous atmosphere that would blow away the likes of the delinquents until now were getting out, and as expected, even these dangerous men were also greeting while bowing their heads to Hajime. Naturally, the atmosphere of the café froze due to this.

And then, the last man that got out of the car, an old man around sixty years old wearing a hakama……no matter how anyone looked at him, that man couldn’t be seen as anything other than a yakuza boss. That man’s villainous face distorted even more villainous when he talked to Hajime.

As always, you are in a nice position eh. Having women serving you in this kind of open place in the middle of the day, even though you are just a brat. I want to see the face of the parent of someone like you.」

「If it's the face of my parents than you know them already, right? After all, when you tried to take revenge on me who crushed your idiotic dealings, you thoroughly investigated my surroundings. Rather, just what business do you have with me here, huh? Just as you can see, I'm in the middle of a date now. If you intentionally stopped your car just for saying sarcasm to me, then I'm going to crush you underfoot again you know?」

「Ka ka-, don't say something scary like that. As the side that actually got done in, I cannot take that as a joke here.」

"Don't run off your mouth like that against a yakuza you!" The guests and café employees around, and also the trio were screaming like that inside their hearts, but when they heard the continuing words of the yakuza boss, this time they froze from a different significance. They thought 「Just now, what did the boss say?」

「It's great that this is Japan, and I'm a virtuous Japanese huh. If that wasn't the case, by this time you guys would have already all become dust that dances in the world's sky.」

「……Do you have the self-awareness that your speech is more yakuza than the actual yakuza? Haa, well that's fine. About why I called out to you like this……」

It seemed that the reason for the yakuza boss calling out to Hajime was, once in the past various things happened and one group of this boss's yakuza got annihilated by Hajime (all members of the group were sent to the hospital half-dead while its young leader had no hope of recovery), now this group was revived back, and the replacement of the former young leader of this group had been formally decided, so this boss came to Hajime in order to make the new young leader give his greetings. (TN: In Japan, the big boss of the yakuza (called oyabun) stands at the top of the organization. The yakuza organization itself is divided into several groups where each group is led by a young leader (wakagashira) that answer directly to the oyabun.)

It seemed that it had become a new common sense, that if you wanted to survive in the area around the city where Hajime was living, then you must not forget about Hajime's existence. Due to that, the new young leader who knew about the hellish scenery of that time now carried out the inauguration greeting to Hajime expressionlessly while being unable to hide the cold sweat that was dripping from his face.

There was no way Hajime would come if he was called to attend the inauguration event, and it was unknown what kind of punishment they would receive if they intruded on Hajime's house or school. However, if the new young leader didn't show his face to Hajime, then they wouldn't be able to calm down no matter what when thinking about the future. While the yakuza boss was at his wits end about what to do while traveling by car he caught sight of Hajime's group by accident. Thinking 「This is a chance-! Let's take care of the unpleasant matter all at once! There is no way we are going to get assaulted in a public place, that's unthinkable!」, he called out to Hajime like this to give his greeting.

……It was really unclear which side was the yakuza.

「I see. Well, as long as you guys don't do anything that involves the people in my surroundings, you can do whatever you want. However, previously there was still some extenuating circumstances that I took into consideration, so your guys got off with only being half-dead, but there is no next time. If in the future, even if only indirectly, something happens……I'll present you guys with a really lovely second life. Forcefully. Got that?」

Saying that Hajime's mouth split into a crescent moon shape.

「……As expected, you are more yakuza than the yakuza.」

The people at the surroundings heavily sympathized 「It's exactly as you said, Oyabin-san!」inside their hearts. And then, the yakuza boss was attacked with the impulse of wanting to ask "Just what kind of experience it was that produced a brat like you", based on his knowledge that Hajime was one of those "returnees", but his instinct from his long life experience was raising a piercing alarm, so with effort he swallowed back his words.

Before long, the yakuza bunch bowed their heads simultaneously at Hajime before also speaking in chorus to Yue and the others 「All of you Nee-san, pardon us for bothering you in the middle of your enjoyment」, leaving behind that bizarre scene they finally drew back and left.

「Now then, it will be time soon, let's go.」

Yue and the others stood from their chairs hearing Hajime's words. When Hajime asked for the bill, the girl clerk around the same age as Hajime who had watched the exchange just now faced the register while saying 「Hyess! The bhill ishn't hit! Thank you very mhucch!」 in a state that was really like the template that made him wonder if she was actually aiming for it.

However, the fact that this act wasn't something intentional was made clear by the clerk's finger barrage at the register buttons which looked like a certain kenpou master going 「Aa~tatatatatatata-」 striking the secret points of the human body. It was like a clichéd template so much so that she looked pitiful. (TN: I guess this is a reference to Hokuto no Ken)

The girl clerk was looking for help from her coworkers and manager with a face that almost burst out crying, but they only clenched their fist to convey 「Do your best!」 without any sign of lending a hand. The other guests and the trio were, as expected, only giving support of 「Fight on!」 inside their hearts without any indication of giving assistance.

「……Haah」

「-!?」

Seeing the state of the clerk, Hajime sighed thinking whether this was his fault. Hearing that the clerk twitched and her body trembled, the girl clerk’s secret point strike (register machine only) was increasingly reaching further height.

Thereupon, on the hand of the girl clerk that was striking the secret point(register button) a lot, a small hand was piled up there. The clerk spontaneously screamed 「hih」, but when she understood that the hand came from the little girl Hajime was carrying she stared blankly in puzzlement.

Myuu smiled widely at that clerk.

「Clerk-san, it’s fine nano~」

「A, yes, my, my apologies.」

As expected from Myuu. It was with just one hit. The girl clerk who recovered her calm safely finished her divine fist training and typed on the register correctly.

Hajime who in a sense got his ass wiped for him patted on Myuu’s head with gratitude, admiration, and praise. Myuu was smiling “ehehe~” while embracing Hajime.

Settling the bill, the clerk prepared the change from the register and watched Myuu and Hajime who were like that, her gaze was attracted at Hajime’s unexpectedly gentle expression and gaze. And then, when Hajime whispered 「My bad for scaring you」 with a slightly troubled face while receiving the receipt, the clerk swung her head left and right energetically in denial.

Hajime exited the café while feeling the reproachful glare of the female camp on his back for some reason. The energetic voice of the clerk 「W, we are waiting, fo, for your next coming――!」 and the voice of the café manager that was trying to stop her from saying that echoed behind him.

「Hey, let’s go home already……I’m already, really at my limit in various meanings.」

「Yeah, me too. I want to go home.」

「The rumors were all true. I am convinced now. “That person” really had become a harem king to the greatest degree……」

A while after Hajime and group exited the café, the trio exited the café with a somewhat exhausted state. Their observation of Hajime’s group forced them to exhaustion in various meanings. At the same time, they also wordlessly convinced that it would be really bad if they stalked Hajime’s group any more than this.

And then, they turned the opposite direction from where Hajime and group were walking…… at that moment,

「Wapuh」

The face of one of the male student got covered by a paper that was carried by the wind with a plop. That male student cursed 「What the hell」 while taking that paper into his hand, he then dropped his gaze to that paper inadvertently……

――That young man stiffened as though he was frozen solid.

「Oi, what's wrong?」

「What are you stiffening for……」

The other two felt dubious while they were peeking from both sides at the flying paper the stiffened young man kept holding, and there on the paper,

――Not a bad moment that you choose to quit. From now on too, be moderate with your inquisitiveness, okay? From senpai.

Naturally, the other two also stiffened. Since when were they noticed? When was this written? Rather, how did it arrive here? Eh, in the first place, just now, the wind was blowing right……

Various questions circulated in their brain instantly, then the three moved their heads gigigi with crude movements like machines that were forgotten to be oiled and faced each other. And then, a beat later,

「「「NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO-!!!!」」」

Screaming like a girl, the trio dashed on the path towards their homes like a startled rabbit.

In the following week, it went without saying that additional anecdotes were added into the urban legend of that “you-know-who”.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Next, I’m thinking of giving a spot to another two people while touching the commotion regarding post-returning home.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday next week too.

Arifureta Chapter 184

Arifureta After – The Happy Road of a Certain Muscle Brain

AN: I'm sorry to those who are hoping for Aiko and Liliana, or the person with a faint shadow and the rabbit-eared onee-san, or perhaps the rabbit-eared 'hyahha' clan chief and the 'Shia-tan haa haa' perverted princess of the elves

Those are still in the middle of being written……

That place where tranquility was drifting as though separated from the outside world, was a graveyard at a certain outskirt of town. The main building of a temple could be seen a slight distance away, and several gravestones lining up regularly were in the surroundings.

In such a graveyard that was characteristically quiet, in addition to it being a holiday, unusually there was a figure of a young girl there. She was standing alone by herself. Her hair that was reaching her back was fluttering from the breeze. She wasn't stirring even for a bit as though her thoughts were running around in her head while staring fixedly at the family name engraved on the gravestone.

But, at that timing, a rough voice resounded along with heavy footsteps that broke the tranquility.

「Ou, Suzu. What a coincidence. So you also came here huh.」

「Ryutaro-kun!」

The girl――Suzu turned back in surprise. Ryutaro who had just arrived stamped his feet loudly on the gravel path of the graveyard while raising his hand and greeted 「Yo」 really nonchalantly.

「Ryutaro-kun. Why are you here……wait, there is only one thing to do here huh.」

「Yeah, today is the day everyone is gathering. ……So, for some reason, yeah. If we did not come here, then no one would come here.」

「That's not true you know? At least, there was already an offering when I came here.」

「Hm? Aa, by any chance, Kaori and Shizuku perhaps?」

「Maybe.」

In front of the gravestone, there were indeed some flowers decorating it there. There were also flowers decorating the spot other than the flowers that Suzu brought. Suzu was giving her agreement to Ryutaro's guess while opening her mouth with a wry smile.

「……Although, there is not really anything of Eri inside here.」

Saying that Suzu returned her gaze to the gravestone. There, the name of "Nakamura Eri" was engraved. Yes, the friend of Suzu that met her end in another world――Nakamura Eri's family tomb was located here. Of course, Eri had self-exploded in the [Holy Precincts], so, let alone her remains, there wasn't anything of her in this grave. There was nothing to prove that Eri was sleeping in here.

Even so, when she wished to lament over her best friend who devoted herself to evil due to her unstoppable madness and feelings, Suzu's feet would naturally bring herself to this place. After they returned from the other world, she had only visited this place once. On this day after a year passed, when the members who had gone through a unique experience would gather, before the promised time Suzu and also Ryutaro without even any planning beforehand…… including Kaori and Shizuku who came here beforehand, their feelings were as one.

For a while, the two stayed silent, they only continued to stare at the gravestone without any word, while recalling the Eri of before they were sent to the other side.

It was unknown how much time passed, but before long Suzu stretched her body with a groan 'uu~n', she floated a soft smile as though she had sorted out her feelings while asking Ryutaro.

「Come to think of it, as expected, Kouki won't come to the gathering today, will he?」

「Yeah. Especially because I didn't hear anything from Nagumo about opening the gate. Guess he won't participate. Well, even though we finally got a special class prepared for our sake after much effort, he went as far as leaving high school, going to Tortus saying "I'm going to atone". Something like the gathering for celebrating the one year of our return, even if that guy was on this side he absolutely wouldn't attend it, yeah.」

「I guess. Kouki-kun would say something like, 「I don’t have any qualification for that」, right?」

Ryutaro and Suzu smiled wryly at each other.

Exactly as they said, currently Kouki was on Tortus. Kouki had returned home to earth once together with Hajime and the others, but he was unable to make himself to go through normal high school life. It wasn’t like anyone was saying anything harsh to him, but it was his own heart, his guilty feelings, his will that wished for atonement, that rejected to spend his time with carefree feelings in school life even if it was just for one or two years.

Even with the disappearance of Ehitorujue who was toying around with people with his war game, it didn’t mean that the threat of monsters had decreased. Among the monsters that came out from 「Holy Precincts」, there should be some of them that succeeded in escaping. It seemed that removing those threats even for a bit was one kind of atonement for Kouki.

Naturally, it was widely known that Kouki, who should have been summoned as a hero, didn’t participate in the decisive battle. There was also Kouki’s personal declaration which made it highly known throughout Tortus how Kouki was on the enemy’s side. Therefore, that equally meant that there was no place for Kouki in that world.

But, even so, as a single adventurer, Kouki silently moved busily to be of assistance to someone.

「So there is still a little bit of time until the time, but what will Suzu do?」

「Hmm~. I don’t really have any plans though. Maybe just strolling around aimlessly, or meeting up with Kaorin and the others……no, I won’t meet up with them I guess. It’s impossible to spend my time normally inside that pink atmosphere. It would be absolutely tiresome.」

「Aa~, yeah. I guess so. Then, how about you kill time aimlessly. Together with me.」

「Yep. Let’s talk about various things, mixed with flashback scenes too for the readers.」

「……」

Suzu was receiving a bit of a wave signal while the two of them stared at the gravestone one more time, and then they left that place. (TN: What it means by the signal here is how Suzu is breaking the fourth wall a bit.)

The pair who were walking around aimlessly while making small talk, before long reached a cozy park. Without any particular confirmation about each other’s thoughts or any previous agreement, the pair naturally sat down on a bench. There they stared at the figures of children who were playing in the public park.

「Aa~, it’s so peacefuul~」

「Oi oi, what are you doing speaking like that. Are you a grandma?」

「That’s cruel. You really are a muscle brain without delicacy like usual, good grief. Even Ryutaro-kun, you would also impulsively think like that sometimes since we returned here, right? About how peaceful it is here. To think that until a year ago we were fighting a battle where it wouldn’t be strange to die anytime, this is a bit unbelievable even for myself.」

「……Yeah. When we first returned here we were busy with things, so I didn’t feel anything like that though. But indeed, recently, now that I have calmed down I often get thoughts like that.」

「……Isn’t that right.」

A year ago Hajime created a gate that connected the other world, Tortus, and earth, and the surviving classmates once more stepped their feet on this birthplace of theirs.

They landed on the rooftop of the school, then they looked around and raised a loud joyful voice at the moonlight night. Among them there were people who were overcome with emotions and broke out crying, there were also those who were consoling those people while crying in sympathy. At that time it was quite a hectic situation.

At that time, Hajime and the others also investigated the possibility, whether in the end, it would be possible to once again open the gate to Tortus, the other world, from here or not. Hajime had consumed an immense amount of magic power, but he used the magic crystals, where he stocked reserve magic power, and whipped up his tired body to immediately attempt it. The result was that they confirmed that, at the very least, even on earth they were able to use magic and artifacts.

Hearing that, the happiness of the classmates who realized that it was possible to once again meet with the people that they had created close ties with in the other world rose to a great extent. All of the classmates swooped down on Hajime and they even did the customary practice of tossing him into the air even though it was in the middle of the night.

After that, the calming down classmates rejoiced in each other’s survival and return before setting out to return to their homes. In the end, what happened with their houses and families……such anxiety was by no means nonexistence in their hearts, but even so, all of them were dashing through their school route with light footsteps and nostalgia,……with a super speed that would make an Olympic athlete go pale. 「You guys-, stop jumping over the rooftops!」 it went without saying that the angry voice of a certain worrier ponytail-san echoed in the middle of the night.

By the way, regarding how they should explain to their families and other people regarding the events during their disappearance, during the month after the decisive battle they all discussed it, and the conclusion they reached was to “tell it honestly”.

Even if they made lies that sounded realistic, surely if it got investigated by the police and so forth, the contradiction and the suspiciousness of their lies would be exposed. It was easily imaginable how popular the topic of a group disappearance at midday would become and how earnest the police would investigate it. There was no way that those police that were investigating it wouldn’t be able to see through their half-baked lies. To say nothing of how there were students who couldn’t come back. They couldn’t do this half-baked.

Having said that, if they tried to pretend to have amnesia, it would look like they really had something to hide and the police and mass media would surely not leave them alone. A blank period that the disappeared students were obstinately refusing to speak about……something like that was just the favorite of the mass media. Combined with the students who did not return, there would be many sides that would make a great fuss with the mixture of facts and truths.

If the situation would be like that, then wouldn’t it be better if they offered by themselves that kind of information instead, something that would make the surrounding spontaneously draw away in revulsion, or possibly make other people look at them with pitying gazes while secretly distancing themselves.

The information they offered would be,

——We fought monsters and an evil god, in a fantasy world of swords and magic!

Like that.

Of course, this was an idea from Hajime. There was not a single lie in that statement, that was why they could just act boldly saying that no matter how much they were pressed for information. In this way, even the classmates who weren’t as shameless as Hajime could weather the storm without amassing too much anxiety. And no matter what other people said to them, they could just speak back with “It depends on you whether you believe it or not”.

And then, regarding the people who would still pursue the matter deeply even then, or when some kind of problem occurred, Yue-san’s magic would be liberally used to get those problematic people to be “Dear me, what was I doing again just now?”

Also, the people who were applied with “Dear me, what was I doing again just now?” weren’t just the mass media whose tenacity status was at MAX count and the excessively sharp government officials or police. There were also suspicious organizations that seemed to be related with religion, or really suspicious people that seemed to be related with the government, or the absurdly suspicious sorcery——occultist group.

While the majority of their classmates were enjoying television or internet while nibbling at potato chips after so long, behind the scenes Hajime and the others (+ a person with a thin shadow) were doing this and that against the bunch who seemed to be living behind the scenes of the Earth but……that was another story.

「In the beginning, it was really hectic wasn't it. Especially the mass media people, they were really persistent huh.」

「Yeah, many calls were coming asking me to come out in a special program on television, or something like that. The times when I was asked about Eri or Hiyama, "Why is it only you all who came home?", or "Don't you feel any responsibility?", I seriously wanted to send them flying y'know.」

「About that huh. When Nakano-kun and Saitou-kun normally punched the reporter, they got an article 「As expected, is there any disorder in their minds!?」 in the news without any reservation at all you remember?」

「The delicacy of the reporter is also questionable though.」

Recalling the large wave in society at that time, Suzu and Ryutaro smiled wryly at each other. At that time, not only the mass media and police, even some of their acquaintances visited them to pry about just what really happened.

Especially the families of Hiyama, Kondo, and Shimizu. They were doggedly hounding the matter until the end.

The truth was also conveyed without anything hidden toward the families of the students who couldn't return. The ones who were doing the explanation were Aiko and Hajime. Actually Aiko tried to go to talk to those families by herself, but the topic about Hajime would be unavoidable anyway if the truth was going to be spoken, and above all, Hajime didn’t have the least bit of intention to bother Aiko or make Aiko bear the full brunt regarding the matter of Hiyama and the others, so Hajime forcefully accompanied Aiko in the end.

Naturally, after those families were made to believe the story of another world by showing them magic, the families of Hiyama and the others cursed and insulted Hajime and Aiko in unconcealed rage and hatred, some were even trying to act violent, but……

Giving a glance at Aiko who resigned herself to accept that anger and hatred from her feeling of responsibility of being unable to bring those students back home or reforming their conduct, Hajime who was the perpetrator that put the bullet on those students kept a cold expression and repelled all of that anger and hatred straight from the front.

Even if the families of those killed students were virtuous, no matter how much those families were looking forward to the return of their children, those things weren’t something that could erase the fact that they had bared their fang towards Hajime and Hajime’s important people. For the feeling of a parent, something like what their child did and Hajime’s circumstance were irrelevant. But similar to that, for Hajime, something like the feeling of his enemy’s parent was also something that had nothing to do with him.

——I don’t have any regret for what I did. I don’t even think that what I did was wrong. Therefore, I won’t even apologize. You can think of me however you like, but if you turn your hand at my relatives because of this case then you better prepare yourself.

Those were the words that Hajime spoke to those families. For Hajime who was skilled in subtle deception and speech, to the degree that he was said to possess talent as an agitator, those were really straight-forward words that could even be said to be tactless. To put it bluntly, those words could only be thought of as something that rubbed the nerves of the other party the wrong way.

But, Aiko who was beside him was able to understand that for Hajime those words were his greatest sincerity, those were his resolve. He didn't deceive the other party, and he was resolved that if the hatred that he caused would try to lay their wicked hands on his relatives, then he would face it anywhere, anytime, and eliminate them.

As the result, Hiyama's family acted rashly trying to get revenge on Hajime and the others. Hajime personally broke their hearts. The other families who knew of the state of Hiyama's family then protected their silence. Seen from the side, it was really a result that left a bad aftertaste in their mouth, but Hajime didn't care for it at all.

Now then, including those commotions too, there were also things like the raging journalism battle and whatever that was perpetrated regarding the 'returnees' but……one day, all of those suddenly died down like a drawing back sea wave. And it didn't stop there, all of the news was quietly dying down so unnaturally until it was like nothing had happened at all.

「About that, there is no doubt that was something Nagumo-kun and the others did, isn't it?」

「For sure. Problems like the family register of Yue-san and the others, or the recognition of the surroundings, those kinds of problems were also all easily cleared. It wasn't something strange at all if they actually did something somehow regarding the awareness of the society while they were at it, yeah. Not to mention how Ai-chan-sensei was made to bear the full brunt of the critic because she was the only adult involved. Ain’t no way that Nagumo was gonna just leave that going on.

Actually what happened was exactly like that. When magic is mixed with information society……something like the world becomes simple, huh, if it was asked who was the one that was saying such extremely terrifying things……it should be rather left unsaid.

Well, there were a lot of troubles, but if there is a small mercy from all that, is that no one got rejected by their families I think. My Otou-san and Okaa-san, also Taeko-san(the caretaker) too, right after I finished giving them the explanation, their faces turned grim and they tried to bring me to a hospital, but after I actually showed them magic and explained several times they somehow could accept it.

Yeah, me too. But, in my case, I showed them my Mode Werewolf so……they became really panicked at that time. My mother fainted, while my old man took out a bat that he swung around wildly, big sis wet herself, and Karashio(pet dog) howled like crazy, and my neighbor old man Fujii said things like It’s waaar~ while shooting out the fire extinguisher……

I don’t know about that old man you mentioned last, but most of it was Ryutaro-kun’s own fault, wasn’t it? Rather, your father who tried to face his son that suddenly transformed into a werewolf using a bat, I really respect him from my heart now.

Receiving Suzu’s exasperated gaze that came from the bottom of her heart, Ryutaro said「That was an accident, an accident」 while averting his gaze in embarrassment. By the way, Ryutaro who thought that he wouldn’t be able to calm the situation by himself at that time made his family and the neighbor old man Fujii to faint for the time being, and then by going all out with the instant movement of a werewolf, he intruded into the house of Kouki who was similarly in the middle of explaining the circumstances.

When a brutal werewolf of a fantasy world suddenly leaped into their house, Kouki’s father fainted, while the mother took out a kitchen knife and went into a rampage, and Kouki’s little sister peed herself. Kouki who immediately guessed the true identity of the werewolf and that his objective was to ask for help, at that time he suppressed his mother for the time being and made his little sister to sleep.

And then he punched Ryutaro, after that even while sighing deeply, thinking that it was just the right timing with all the chaos that had happened, he held a double family meeting along with Ryutaro’s family that had been wakened up and somehow obtained the understanding from both families.

By the way, at Shizuku’s home, there was also an emergency call that came from the Shirasaki family. At that time, the first voice that came from Kaori’s parent that was filled with confusion was「Shizuku-chan! As I thought, you have come home too then, I’m glad! By the way, my daughter is an angel now, do you know anything about it!?」, like that. It seemed that Kaori showed her parents her angel mode but……listening to it normally, that call could only be heard as a doting parent suddenly calling in the middle of the night boasting about his daughter.

On the other side of the phone, the voice of Kaori saying 「Geez-, Otou-san! Don’t make embarrassing calls like that!」 could be heard, then next came the voice 「But, but Kaoriii. Tha, that angel look……that’s just too lovely!」, such hectic conversation of parent and child could be heard noisily…… Shizuku silently put down the phone. While inside her heart, 「I’m also busy explaining over here, idiooot!」 she was cursing.

Like that, the classmates who accomplished returning home each went through different twists and turns to persuade their families, however, in the end, they were able to make their families believe their story about the other world, and together with their families, they dealt with the mass media as planned.

Although, it wasn’t like everything went as planned, or everything was still the same like before……

「Eh? Suzu-chan? Also Sakagami? What are you two doing in this kind of place?」

「Oh, it’s true. Suzu-chan, long time no see~! Wait, don’t tell me, this is a date!?」

「Eh? Lies!? With Sakagami!? Suzu-chan, are you being threatened!?」

Suddenly noisy voices called out to Ryutaro and Suzu who were talking on a park bench. When they looked, there were their former classmates standing there. There were three girls who on that day when they were summoned went to a different place during the lunch break. Because of that, they didn’t get dragged into the summoning. They were friends of Suzu who were relatively close to her.

The three of them saw Suzu spending time with only Ryutaro. It stirred up a bit of curiosity about the relationship between the two and great wariness towards Ryutaro inside their mind, but when Suzu replied that they had planned to join up with everyone else after this and currently they were killing time until the planned time, the expression of the three girls loosened in disappointment and relieve.

They talked noncommittally a bit about their recent condition, and then after exchanging the speech of let’s contact each other again next time~, they parted ways.

「As usual, your communication prowess is high, eh.」

「I guess.」

Ryutaro’s words that were mixed with praise was accepted by Suzu with a shrug, not looking like she was being humble or joking. As expected, it seemed that the decisive battle against Eri that Suzu went through caused a great change, or perhaps a great growth in Suzu’s mind.

Group disappearance——that fact also had a not so little, no, rather it had a big impact on the other students of the same school. The students’ attitudes and atmosphere towards the ‘returnee’ group were as though they were tumors that must not be touched and a group that they didn’t really want to have anything to do with, but in reverse, they were also lacking in delicacy with their curiosity.

Also, when the ‘returnees’ were attending school once more, there were a lot of families that contacted the school and voiced their anxiety about them.

During that one year of disappearance, there was no contact at all from the disappearing group. Other people didn’t understand where they were and what they were doing or what was done to them. The ‘returnees’ themselves only gave a story that didn’t sound realistic at all. Furthermore, there were also students who didn’t come back with them……sure enough, the families were concerned whether their child would be okay going to the same school together with such a mysterious group.

As a result, regardless of the return of the directly related people, the truth of the case was still not clear. There was also the matter of the students whose whereabouts were still unknown, so finally, the school administration moved.

In order to reduce situations where Hajime and the others got exposed to the inquisitive eyes of society, an exclusive curriculum was prepared in order for the ‘returnees’ to recover their falling behind in their studies, at the same time psychologist were stationed inside the school for supporting the smooth school life of the ‘returnees’……with that official stance, a special class that was separated from other students in order to avoid troublesome problems was prepared.

Because of that, currently, the ‘returnees’ weren’t studying in their original classroom but were now put in a fixed class until their graduation that was located on the top floor of the school. Furthermore, it was at the corner in an unused room.

Actually, a talk of changing the school of the ‘returnees’ itself was strongly raised but……with the opinion of someone that said 「It’s troublesome to change schools」 along with profoundly mysterious phenomena, the creation of this special class was pushed through. The class was formed unnoticed but very naturally. To the degree that it was unnatural……

Anyway, a physical sense of distance between the ‘returnees’ and the other students was created. Naturally, a sense of distance was also spreading between the ‘returnees’ and the students of different classes who they were friends with before the summoning, however, there were also a lot among them who managed to remake their friendly relationships but……even amidst those people, Suzu was the one who was the most adept in building back a relationship with the friends she already had before the summoning into a relationship that was the same like before, no, rather that relationship became even more intimate than before.

That relationship was to the degree that when Suzu met those friends accidentally on a holiday like this, those friends would call to her proactively. It was to the degree that they even glared at Ryutaro with gleaming eyes that were unbecoming for a girl, as though to say ‘If you do something strange to Suzu, don’t expect it to end well for you’.

「Haah, good grief, someone like you really is…… If Nagumo is excluded, surely the one who changed the most by going to the other world is Suzu. It’s an honor to be seen as a boyfriend even though it was only for a moment yeah.」

「Fu-fu-fu. Isn’t that right, isn’t that right. For Ryutaro-kun to be suspected of having a relationship with a beautiful woman like this, you happy man you~」

「……」

「……Oi, try to say the reason why you averted your eyes when I said the words beautiful woman. If you have an objection to my words then how about saying it loudly. Hmm?」

Taniguchi Suzu. Looking from her braided hair that stretched long and the atmosphere she was clad in, she was a girl that looked really adult like. However, the sad thing was……that her height didn’t stretch up for even a millimeter. And then, her breasts were also……. No matter how one looked at her, it was hard to call her a beautiful woman. However, surely she was a beautiful girl. Perhaps, undoubtedly.

Seeing Suzu who was indignant at his attitude, Ryutaro lifted up both his hands and showed a pose of surrendering. And then, seeing Suzu who expressed her displeasure with a huff, Ryutaro was thinking of what to do, what should he do in hesitation, wherein the end he showed an embarrassed gesture and averted his gaze quickly while opening his mouth.

「No, well, that’s……you are, charming enough y’know? No, really, I’m serious.」

「Thank you very much, for the faked follow up. Hmph, I’m not a super beauty like Yue-san and the others anyway.」

Suzu went 「keh」 with her lips pouted looking somewhat timid in an inferiority complex. But, Ryutaro’s words after that which were said with a shockingly serious voice to her, caused her to leak out a dumbfounded voice unintentionally.

「……That ain’t a mere follow up. Suzu is a good woman, who won’t lose to anyone.」

「Eh?」

When Suzu reflexively turned her gaze at Ryutaro, Ryutaro who was supposedly looking away until just now was staring straight at Suzu. The small sound of her heart jumping inside her chest resounded. Suzu understood how her neck and her face was turning feverish.

This time, it was Suzu who was looking aside. For some reason, she couldn’t let out any words. She could only barely let out the sound 「H, hm~m」 that sounded ambiguous even for herself.

A strangely stained atmosphere that Suzu had never really experienced before was flowing, she couldn’t say anything. Both of them were wordless, only the sounds of leaves rustling from the wind were entering their ears excessively clearly.

Stealing a glance, Suzu tried to peep at Ryutaro’s state. There he was looking really nervous, and yet his face was really serious and seemed to be troubled by something. That also caused Suzu’s nervous meter to climb up without stopping.

Before long, with a calm voice as though he had resolved himself, Ryutaro opened his mouth.

「About the matter after we graduate high school……」

「Eh!? Ah, um……」

「I, am thinking of going to Tortus again.」

「That’s……you mean not in the capacity of going there to play together with Nagumo-kun and the others?」

「Yeah. I’m thinking, of living in the world there.」

「……」

Suzu felt like she understood the reason for Ryutaro deciding that. In this one year, they had spent much time together. During that time they talked about various things that made her think about whether he would do something like that.

「I want to help Kouki there, I also want to be able to help guys in need. I have the power for that. Ain’t no way after this late I can become a salaryman or something with all this.」

「Didn’t you, also think about being a police officer before this?」

「Yeah. But see, as I thought, my nature suits the world over there more.」

「I see.」

It appeared that Ryutaro had genuinely decided his future path. Suzu felt like she was going to get left behind somehow, that her feelings turned a bit lonely.

Towards such Suzu, Ryutaro suddenly stood up, he then moved in front of Suzu and got down on his one knee. With his stance now, the large built Ryutaro was looking up at her. This was as though……

Suzu’s body temperature was rising. Her heart jumped from Ryutaro’s serious expression.

「Ryu, Ryutaro-kun……」

‘What are you doing?’ Suzu was about to voice that but, Ryutaro conferred all his feelings with his words faster than Suzu.

「Suzu. Won’t you, come together with me?」

「Tha, that is, are you asking me to form a party with you sometimes――」

「That ain't it. You got what I meant, right? What I am saying is, for "the whole life".」

「ts……」

Suzu gulped. That was exactly, a love confession. For the first time in her life, a confession with seriousness to the highest degree was right now said to her. The winding of great emotions that were welling up inside her made her voice get caught in her throat that she couldn't say anything. Ryutaro spoke his words further to such Suzu.

「I love Suzu. Rather than a future in this world, pick a future that is together with me. It won't be a calm future but I will treasure you with all my power. Let's go, together. Forever.」

Inside Suzu's heart, something like 「That's too straight!」, or 「Even though you had come to a clean break but even temporarily you once fell in love with Yue-san, do you have a preference for small girls!? You lolicon!」, or 「While saying you love me, you are asking me to fight together in another world, just what are you saying you muscle brain!」, those abusive languages were lining up inside Suzu's stormy heart but……

When she noticed, a reply of――

「……Mm. That's fine.」

That sentence came out naturally. The words came out so smoothly that it surprised even herself. Like that, she became aware.

「Even myself am surprised, but I too, seem to really like Ryutaro-kun.」

Suzu's face was already looking like a ripe apple. The time they ran around in another world, this one year since they came home, the things that she had piled up between her and Ryutaro seemed to have grown bigger than what Suzu was aware of.

Like that, Ryutaro who received a confession acceptance for the first time in his life, and obtained the word "like" from a girl was……

――UosSHAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA-

He howled grandly like that. The children who played in some distance jumped from shock and they looked at Ryutaro while shaking.

「Wai-, you are noisy, Ryutaro-kun! The small kids are making faces like a villager that is encountering an ogre there!」

「A-ha-ha-ha, then how about I use Mode Ogre then! If it's now then I'll give special service yeah!」

「Don't do that! A Monster Appeared at a Park in Broad Daylight! The front page of the evening paper today will be like that! Or rather, how happy are you? Your tension is too high!」

「Obviously I'm happy! It's about my first girlfriend in my life! Furthermore, it's Suzu! This is the best!」

「-, uu, idiottt~~」

After that, a muscle brain’s greatest happiness cheer was booming in the small public park for a while, together with the remonstrating voice of Suzu who even then couldn’t hide the happiness inside herself.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Even though I can imagine a ton of realistic problems waiting after returning home from another world, I cannot think of any stylish solution, and relied on magic in the end. Please forgive this poor brain of Shirakome.

However……something like the transmission of brainwashing magic through the internet using age of god magic, or transmission of subliminal effects using television……I think those are just plain terrifying.

Perhaps Shirakome is unable to leave the PC today too is because……

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday next week too.

Arifureta Chapter 185

Arifureta After – The Gathering of the Returnees

Inside the restaurant that was illuminated by a warm orange light, although the atmosphere wasn’t that of a high-class restaurant, it was filled by a chic and calming atmosphere.

That famous restaurant that would be almost fully occupied on the holiday when the evening came had not even a single guest today, it was completely empty.

「Yuuka, it will be time soon, right? Nana-chan and Taeko-chan too, it’s fine to stop already.」

「Is that so? Then let’s stop around here.」

One of the returnees, Sonobe Yuuka said that and took off her apron. Following her, Miyasaki Nana and Sugawara Taeko also took a breath ‘sigh’ while taking off their aprons.

The one who spoke to Yuuka was the owner of this restaurant, at the same time he was also the father of Yuuka, Sonobe Hiroshi. The mother, Sonobe Yuuri, was also standing at his side. Yes, this restaurant was the western style restaurant that the Sonobe family was managing.

Hiroshi was making her daughter and her two friends that were helping out to stop at this period of time around five o’clock in the evening that originally would be busy for the restaurant because this restaurant would be the gathering place for the one year anniversary of Hajime and the others’ return. Yuuka and her two friends were only helping until the appointed time.

There was around fifteen more minutes until the arranged time. ‘Somebody should be coming soon’, it was at that time when Yuuka was beginning to think that that the door of the restaurant opened with a good timing.

「Yo. By any chance, I’m the first one here?」

The one who was saying that while entering inside was Tamai Atsushi. Behind him, Aikawa Noboru and Nimura Akiro were also entering while giving a similar greeting.

「That’s right. For you three to arrive fifteen minutes early, how admirable.」

「Haha, my stomach is empty here from playing since the afternoon. Can you give me something like a snack or anything for the time being?」

「Look here, the party will start soon enough, so please be patient.」

It appeared that Atsushi and others were starving. It seemed they were playing through the afternoon until this time. Hearing what Yuuka said, they grumbled「Eee~」while going to sit at the reserved seat.

Thereupon,

「Excuse me……I think it’s me who came first though.」

「Uoo!? What the!?」

「E, Endo! So you are here!?」

「Eh, lies. Since when were you here!?」

「Even though I didn’t hear the bell clinking!」

In fact, it seemed the one who arrived first was the man with a shadow so thin even an apostle of god overlooked him——Endo Kousuke. Kousuke was responding「I came in normally, gave a normal greeting, and normally took a seat, that’s all you know?」with a faraway look, hearing that Yuuka and the others spoke words of apology and consolation with an awkward look.

Atsushi and the others took their seats while speaking to Kousuke.

「Nevertheless you are really early huh. You aren’t with Nagayama and the others today?」

「Recently I am not really together with them after all. It seems that Juugo and Kentaro are going out playing with Tsuji-san’s group but……as for me, I was studying.」

Yuuka nodded in understanding after hearing Kousuke’s answer.

「Now that you mentioned it, Endo-kun, you are aiming to become a doctor, isn’t it? And then when you graduate you are going to migrate to the other side, aren’t you?」

「The beastmen like Rana-san and the others of the Hauria clan cannot use healing magic, so it is for their sake you are learning modern medical techniques, aren’t you? Even though it’s not actually a long distance relationship, but you are really going that far huh.□

Exactly as Nana said, Kousuke who publicly got a rabbit ear onee-san lover in Tortus was studying hard aiming for a medical university, in order to learn the modern medical technique――that was to say, a healing technique that didn’t use magic medicine or healing magic, so that he could become a strength for the Hauria clan even for a bit in the future. Other than that, he was also learning various things extensively to polish his own assassination skills, like army hand-to-hand fighting technique or survival skills, and then also other knowledge like agriculture techniques to negotiating techniques, which made him greatly busy. He was doing all of that, for the sake of his beloved lover.

Although during this one year it felt like his character as a man with a thin shadow was crumbling, he got dragged into this and that behind the scenes of the world, chased after by troublesome people (several people among them were girls)……in a sense, he was the one who got totally immersed at the world behind the scene more than anyone of the returnee group, which made the person himself to be at his wits end.

Looking at Kousuke who was having a faraway look, with a lukewarm gaze Yuuka and the others sent a yell to their classmate who was doing his best day and night. While calling the name that was the proof of Kousuke being welcomed into the Hauria clan as a new family.

□□□□□□Kousuke E Abyssgate-kun, do your best.□□□□□□

□Stop it! I told you guys already to not use that name when there is no Hauria clan beside me, right!?□

The great shame caused Kousuke to suddenly cover his face with both hands and he fell prostrated on the table. It was a name that was given by a beautiful onee-san, so it was a wonder just where was the need of feeling shame from that. Even though he was the great man who was introducing himself with that name while earning the most kill points at the legendary great war with the apostles as the opponent.

「Oi oi, what's the matter, Abyssgate-san. Is your body feeling unwell, Abyssgate-san.」

「Doesn't Abyssgate sound cool, Abyssgate. Didn't the people of the Hauria clan welcome you greatly, Abyssgate.」

Atsushi and Yuuka were grinning widely while poking at Kousuke from both sides. Kousuke was holding his head while pleading「Stooop, stop it already!」, but

「Kousuke E Abyssgate, has arrived!」

「Fuh, so you cannot see me? Obviously. I who am lurking in darkness cannot be caught by anyone……」

「The name of Shippuu Kagetsume, engrave it in that body!」 (TN: Gale Shadow Claw)

When Noboru said that in high spirits, Nana continued after him in the same spirit, then next even Akito took a pose while reproducing how Kousuke once was. The health point of Kousuke's heart was plunging into the red zone. Taeko was earnestly shaking puru puru at the shoulders while averting his gaze.

But, at that timing, a voice that sounded as though it was shaking from Kousuke's disastrous condition, filled with sympathy from the bottom of the speaker's heart, such voice was resounding.

「You guys……doing something like that. There is a limit even in being nasty. Just what are you doing to Endo huh.」

「Na, Nagumooo! My kindred spirit! So you finally came!」

Looking at the direction of the voice, having entered the restaurant unnoticed, the group of Hajime's had approached until they were right beside Kousuke and the others. Kousuke energetically dashed at Hajime while half-crying. And then, he hid behind Hajime while raising a voice of counterattack at Atsushi and the others.

「You lot-, saying anything you like wretchedly like that! Just look, at this real harem man! And then recall it, the Nagumo of before! Just what do you think the Hauria clan is calling this guy! Don't you know that it overshadowed someone like!? No, I am not speaking about my naturally thin shadow here you know? Nagumo's chuunib――」 bechikon- A crack resounded, then Endo went through a triple mid-air spin until he crumbled down from both legs.

「……Just now, why did you hit me?」

「……Sorry. I wanted to do that for some reason.」

When Endo calmly asked with teary eyes, Hajime answered awkwardly while averting his eyes. Both of them had mutually received nicknames from the Hauria with gratitude(?), being equally a victim when those nicknames were spread grandly throughout the world, together with their activity at the world behind the scene in this one year, the two of them were actually in quite a good relationship. Feeling sympathy at each other's pain of heart and also their close affinity from both having lovers of a female of the Hauria clan was also the reason for that good relationship.

「Yuuka-san, thank you for lending your restaurant for today. Is there something that I can help with, like cooking or something?」

「It's fine Shia-san. Most of it is finished already with me and Nana and Tae, Otou-san and Okaa-san are also in high spirit.」

Yuuka shook her head at Shia's offer with a smile. And exactly as Yuuka said, Hiroshi who caught sight of Hajime's figure rested his hands and approached Hajime.

「Yaa, Hajime-kun. Welcome to my restaurant. I was thinking of inviting you all someday to here you know.」

「Much obliged for today. Letting us reserve the whole restaurant……that saved us some trouble. Even if we have the gathering at another place, if there are other people then we are going to become a target of curiosity.」

「No no, something like this is nothing much. ……You are the person who brought our daughter back home. Just something like this won't even be enough for thanks. The most that I can do is only to let you all enjoy our family's prided cooking to your fill, but I have put all my skill into this just so you know. Have fun to your heart's content.」

「Yes, I had also heard from Endo and Tamai how delicious the food here is, so I'll look forward to it.」

Seeing Hajime who was exchanging words really politely with Yuuka's father, Atsushi and the others whispered to each other things like「As I thought, hearing Nagumo use polite language really feels wrong ain't it」, or「Demon king-sama has also mellowed out huh」, or「Well, as expected, suddenly pulling out a gun in Japan is just impossible. Naturally, he is going to mellow out like that」, or「No no, Sugawara. We still don’t know that. If it’s Nagumo, something like hiding the evidence is as easy as turning his palm you know? The possibility that he has already killed several people is…….

The “Treasure Warehouse” that was fixed on Hajime’s left ring finger faintly shined. Sensing that Hajime was feeling like taking out something from the infinite armory, Atsushi and others instantly sat back in their chairs and drank their drinks with an atmosphere that was shamelessly relaxed. It seemed that they had been trained in the way of dealing with Hajime.

Nevertheless, the wives of Hajime-kun are really all beautiful isn’t it.

From behind Hiroshi, Yuuri approached while wiping her hand on her apron, she was saying such a thing and continued with a greetingWelcome for today. Feel free to relax here. Then Yue and others each gave her the greeting while expressing their thanks for lending the restaurant.

Yuuri floated a friendly smile at Yue and others, and then she nodded as though she had comprehended something before turning back her gaze at Hajime, and said a sentence,

So, I wonder, when will Hajime-kun take Yuuka as your wife too?

Wai-, Okaa-san!? What are you saying!?

The words of her mother that were suddenly let out caused Yuuka to spit out her drink bufu- while she raised her voice. Looking at that direction, Atsushi and co, Kaori, and also Shizuku were looking taken aback and they turned their gaze at Yuuri, and then their awareness turned toward Yuuka.

On the other hand, Yuuri who suddenly dropped that bomb was chuckling while saying thing like「Is that no good I wonder? Okaa-san is just thinking, that if it's Hajime-kun then there won't be any problem at all though~」.

The mother of Yuuka looked relatively gentle and calm, but it seemed that she was a type of person who would drop a bomb unconsciously. Yuuka ignored her mother that was like that and then she turned to Hajime in order to make an excuse……but her expression grandly cramped after seeing the widely smiling face of Kaori who was right before her eyes.

「E, err, Kaori-chan? You see, I――」

「It's fine, it's fine you know, Yuuka-chan. I pro~perly understand after all. Anyway, how about going to the seat at the back for the time being? Because if you want to be at Hajime-kun's side, then there will be various things that I want you to know beforehand, so I'm going to teach you slowly.」

「No no no no, I'll hold back from that! It's not like I really need to know that!」

「Muu, by that, are you saying that something like the matter of Hajime-kun is trivial I wonder? I wonder?」

「Troublesome-. I have thought this since before, but when it is related to Nagumo-kun, Kaori-chan is troublesome-」

「I won't get tricked even with you saying that! Now, Yuuka-chan, let's talk?」

Saying that Kaori dragged the resisting Yuuka with her hands gripping Yuuka's shoulders and she took her to the seat at the back. While being dragged, Yuuka sent a gaze that was asking for help at Atsushi and others, but with splendid synchronization, everyone averted their eyes. Yuuka was in despair!

「Haa, Hajime. I'm worried about Yuuka, that's why I too will be at the seat in the back for a while.」

「Yeah, I'll leave Kaori to you. Help Sonobe before her soul is slipping out from her mouth.」

「Roger.」

Even after a year passed since their return, Shizuku's worrying habit didn't change. Although, currently she had the lover who would give her the reward after her worrying, so it seemed that it wasn't a hardship for her at all. (TN: In the raw, the worrying habit implied that Shizuku was worrying for others, not herself, and she would go to great length to help the other party from their trouble even without them asking her. Anyone know a good word to express someone like this?)

Like that, while complicated noisiness could be heard from the back, the classmates of the returnee group were arriving one after another.

Nagayama Juugo and Nomura Kentarou, Tsuji Ayako, Yoshino Mao, the former Nagayama party. After that, with Nakano Shinji and Saitou Yoshiki as first on the list, almost all of the returnee students had gathered.

The ones who still hadn't arrived in the invitation today were Ryutaro and Suzu, and Aiko. Everyone knew about Kouki being in Tortus, so there was no need to wait for him. Also, Aiko would be late because of her work and she had let them knew beforehand, so in actuality, there were only Ryutaro and Suzu left.

「It’s already past the agreed time……」

Hajime looked at the clock and whispered that. The clock had certainly turned to five o’clock in the afternoon. On the table, there wasn’t only the standard western food, there were also small snacks like fried potato, karaage, mini pizza, and non-alcoholic drinks flooding the table.

Kaori was looking worried wondering whether something happened and took out her smartphone. She was thinking of trying to contact them. But, there was no need for Kaori to contact them.

「Whoops, my bad! We are late!」

「Sorry! Ryu-kun got high tensioned like an idiot, it took time until he calmed down!」

Like that, Suzu and Ryutaro rushed in while apologizing. Hajime and others were about to say「Don’t mind it」, but they reflexively swallowed back their words. And then, their gaze focused at one place.

……Their fingers were entangled with each other’s, that was to say, the hands of the two were holding each other’s hand in a lover holding.

The two noticed everyone’s gaze. Suzu raised her voice「ah」and tried to separate their hand in panic. However, due to it being a lover holding with their fingers interlocked, Ryutaro’s large hand was completely wrapping Suzu’s small hand, so if Ryutaro’s hand didn’t let go then their hand wouldn’t separate that easily.

「Come to think of it, Suzu-chi, just now, didn’t you called Sakagami with “Ryu-kun”?」

「……Seriously? No, or maybe I should say, finally. If it's Sakagami and Taniguchi then…」

Nana sharply didn't miss what Suzu said, how the way Suzu called Ryutaro changed (After receiving the confession, Suzu called Ryutaro as Ryu-kun because she wanted to show her affection even more compared to before the confession). Hearing what Nana mentioned, Atsushi leaked out his frustration of having been beaten to the punch, but then he showed an expression that was half purely shocked and half understanding.

「Hee, you two, since when did your relationship become like that?」

Hajime's mouth burst open in amusement while he was asking the two of them. Thereupon, Ryutaro, looking at the situation where it seemed that his relationship with Suzu had been immediately exposed by the classmates, he was growing embarrassed from that, but even so,

「An hour before!」

Saying that, he made a thumb up along with a lively laugh while informing the classmates. Immediately, Suzu's face became red, while the classmates raised an admiring voice of「Oo~~!!」. Right after that, the congratulating voice of 「Congratulations!」from the girls and「Sakagamiii, for a muscle brain like you to get a girlfriend……die!」「Just explode!」「I also want a lover! Someone, go out with me!」 the envious voices from the boys were sent to Ryutaro and Suzu.

By the way, the voice that was soliciting for a lover was smoothly ignored. Shinji was secretly crying after that.

The relationship of Suzu and Ryutaro that changed anew was grandly celebrated by the classmates with Shizuku and Kaori as the first in the list. After everyone had arrived, Hajime stood up and took a glass into his hand. The classmates, Yue and others too, they all took a glass into their hand.

□Now then, we have experienced something idiotic like having a trip to another world, but now, we are able to celebrate a year of our return to the land of our birthplace like this. That one year we spent in another world, and this one year after we returned home, those days were absurdly noisy and full of trouble……but, those days weren't bad. I think so from the bottom of my heart.□

Hajime's gentle gaze and expression that looked deep, calmly meshed into the feeling of all the classmates, including Yue and others, all of them then simultaneously nodded deeply.

There were also people who couldn't come home. But, even with that fact included, everyone certainly felt that "it wasn't bad".

□In the future from here on, it is unclear what kind of path any of us will walk, but, if it is us who know about the meaning of "fighting", then there won't be any problem or anything. Isn't that right?□

Everyone returned back a strong nod. To that, Hajime also nodded deeply.

□That's why, these words are going to be enough for our toast. ……To the two years that we have overcome, and to the hardships from here on! Cheers-!□

□□□□□Chee~~~~rs-!!!□□□□□

Like that the party started.

They talked to each other about their memories in the other world Tortus, they expressed their feelings of this one year since their return home, they jeered loudly at the couples of old and new, they bullied Kousuke, they made an uproar without any meaning, they ate and drank a lot, they lost sight of Kousuke, and they got really noisy.

In the middle, Aiko who finished her work joined them and unfolded a lovey-dovey flirting with Hajime quietly. There Yue nonchalantly cut in with her adult mode, then Shia and the others also crowded Hajime undauntedly and formed their usual pink space. Seeing that, the classmates went into an uproar once again, they felt for real the joy of living right now from their heart, and displayed great excitement in this first year return anniversary.

Before long, when the party was in full swing, without any particular feeling there were voices that began to state their wish of wanting to go to Tortus. Of course, the meaning of that wish wasn’t for living in the other side, those were only frivolous words of wanting to meet with their friends and acquaintances in Tortus.

While they were talking about their memories to each other, the want to meet Liliana and the maids at the palace, the war comrades they fought together with at the decisive battle, and the people they were cooperating with at the time of restoration steadily grew.

Hajime grinned widely to those classmates,

「Then, how about we go meet them for a bit right now?」

That sentence actually also sounded lighthearted.

To open a gate that crossed over the worlds, a vast amount of magic power was needed. When they returned to earth from Tortus, they had to do all kind of processes to capture the magic factor of mother nature into a pseudo-god crystal, then poured the magic power of the cheat group in full into it, and even so it took a month until the gate could be opened.

In the earth where there was almost no magic factor, to open a gate that crossed over the worlds, it should take at least five months at the fastest even with Hajime and others stocking all the magic power in their body.

Five months after they first returned to earth, they opened the gate once, and then after a further five months, they opened the gate again. And so, thinking normally it should take three more months before the gate could be opened.

「Oi, Nagumo. We ain’t going to get surprised by what you are doing after this late, we ain’t gonna start doubting you either. That’s why just spit it out right away. What are you gonna do?」

Ryutaro asked with an expression that was a mix of exasperation and admiration. The classmates were also focusing on Hajime, in the middle of that Hajime suddenly lifted his right hand and activated “Lightning Clad”, causing crimson sparks to crackle through him.

「This lightning clad is a characteristic magic that converts magic power into lightning strikes. Magic power can be converted into electricity……then, don’t you think that the reverse is also possible?」

「Please wait a second, Hajime-kun. I have a really bad premonition of this.」

Aiko’s cheeks convulsed from Hajime’s words. And then, with a small voice, she said something like「A month ago, there was a city that blacked out completely. The electricity was immediately restored but……if I remember correctly, it seemed that there was a nuclear power plant nearby that city」, hearing that the classmates also realized what Hajime had done and their cheeks convulsed greatly.

「Exactly as you imagined. I converted the electricity of a nuclear power plant into magic power, just for a bit. It took a bit of labor to create the exclusive artifact for establishing this conversion method, but finally, I succeeded in realizing it.」

「”Success”, that’s not it! Aa, what have you done when I took off my eyes of you for just a bit……」

Looking at the triumphant look of Hajime who sto——received the electricity of a nuclear power plant, Aiko held her head as though enduring a headache, while the other people were getting a faraway look.

By the way, the city getting blacked out was also something unexpected for Hajime, so he had fixed it so that right now he was able to do magic power conversion without affecting the power supply of the city.

Giving a glance to them who were being absentminded, Hajime took out “Crystal Key” and “Compass” from “Treasure Warehouse II”, he then stabbed the key without any hesitation whatsoever into an empty air and easily opened a gate to another world.

「What, you guys aren’t going?」

Even though he was guilty of something preposterous, as expected, Hajime was acting like there was nothing wrong.

The classmates thinking “ah, screw it” slipped through the gate while shouting.

The destination was a reception hall that was located at a corner of the new palace of Hairihi Kingdom.

Liliana and some other people were carrying artifacts that would inform them of Hajime and the others opening a gate, so surely their arrival had been noticed.

As expected, the footsteps of several people immediately became audible.

And then, at the other side of the door that was opened loudly, there was the figure of Liliana breathing hard. The moment Liliana caught sight of Hajime, daa———— she dashed.

Like that, everyone was thinking that she would embrace Hajime with a deeply moving expression just like usual but……

There, an unexpected sentence flew out from Liliana’s mouth.

「Big trouble-! It’s a really big trouble! ——Kouki-san, he seems to have been summoned to another world somewhere!」

「Ha?」

The classmates also went「Ha?」as though empathizing with Hajime’s idiotic sounding voice. That was only natural. Even with Liliana speaking about summoning, this was the world that summoned Kouki. It couldn’t be helped even if they tilted their head wondering what Liliana was speaking about.

To them who were like that,

"It's true! Suddenly there was a voice that came from the sky saying"I found you, hero-sama. I beg you, please save my beloved world", then a magic circle that I had never seen before spread below Kouki-san——then he vanished! It happened about a week ago!"

Hearing that, the situation finally penetrated the classmates' head.

In other words, it seemed that in this world where Kouki was summoned as the hero, Kouki was further summoned as the hero into another world somewhere……

"WHAT THE HEEEEEEEELLLLLLLL-"

Ryutaro who looked forward to meeting Kouki was the very first person that yelled up the tsukkomi that represented the voices of the heart of everyone here.

It appeared, that the world was still not intending to leave alone Hajime and the others.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Currently, the story of Kouki's second summoning hasn't been planned currently.

If I have to say, I’m thinking that ‘I want to write the story of Abyssgate-kun running around busily with teary eyes at the underworld sooon’.

From next time the chronological order will be all over the place too, I’m thinking of posting the after story and an extra story that I want to write little-by-little.

First of all, something like the story of Myuu that had grown to about ten years old.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday next week too.

Arifureta Chapter 186

Arifureta After – As the Daughter of Demon King Part 1

In the middle of the night, in a room inside the Nagumo household, tap tap the small sound of a keyboard being tapped and the light of the display that faintly illuminated the room were spreading.

With a notebook PC being placed beside the pillow, and a posture of lying down with both elbows supporting the upper body, the one who was moving her small legs backward and forward in the air while staying up late was, the princess of the Nagumo family——Myuu. It has already been five years since she arrived in this world. Currently, the ten-year-old Myuu was still small statured as usual, but it appeared that the factor of “beautiful” had slightly entered into her “cuteness”.

At the end of the sentences that she spoke there was still “~nano” attached, the person herself was aware of it and wanted to fix that habit, but even with that she had become a person of firm character that was like a big sister as could be seen from how she had been given an individual room like this.

Although her mother and big sisters seemed to still worry about her because of her similarity with her father that often stayed up late and forgot the time completely due to the subculture. (TN: The subculture here might be talking about the otaku culture, maybe.)

「Nn~. So, Na-chan will also participate in that ceremony nano?」

「That's right. I will sing a hymn as a member of the choir.」

When Myuu wrote a question by operating the keyboard tap tap, the chat partner Na-chan (real name, Natalia) replied back like that. This girl seemed to be a girl of the same age as Myuu, a ten-year-old that claimed she was living in America. The two of them got to know each other by chance through the heartwarming net game they played, and sometimes they even contacted each other like this outside the game. This girl was a friend of Myuu's.

By the way, Myuu's language capability was helped by Hajime's handmade artifact that was inserted with "Language Comprehension" (exclusive for Myuu, provided with voice recognition and letter projection), with this Myuu could not only comprehend languages all over the world, but she could even comprehend ancient languages. Even now she was actually chatting using English.

「Choir huuuh~. That's amazing nano.」

「Is that so? I think in my country there are a lot of children that enter the choir though.」

「Then, Na-chan's country will be fine even if the apostles attack anytime then nano. If the country people mobilize altogether and hit hard with the sacred song, you will be able to shave off the apostle's status by ninety percent. They will become just a mere wooden doll nano.」

「I’m sorry, Myuu. I don’t understand what Myuu saying here……」

Of course, it was natural that she didn’t understand.

Now then, according to their talk today, it appeared that on Sunday Natalia would accompany her parents (who seemed to be fairly high officials) to a large ceremony where government officials would be gathering. There, it seemed that a chorus of hymn would be done by a choir that was comprised of the ceremony participants’ children, so Natalia would also participate in the choir.

However, from Natalia’s viewpoint, there would be nothing that she could really do there other than sing the hymn. At the buffet party after the end of the ceremony, the children had to wait while their parents were having “adult talk (long time)”. Natalia didn’t have any friends there that she was particularly close to, and there was also her parents’ instruction to get along with the children of such-and-such families. It seemed it made her feel constrained and gloomy.

「A~a~, if only Myuu will also attend this party.」

「You can use this chance to become friends with the other children, right?」

「I don’t wanna. Even if I get along with them, if the person is actually a child of a family that is in opposition against father, it will be awkward……there is also some children among the older ones that will come to talk to me because of the instruction of their family, you know? I don’t want to become friends with those kinds of children.」

「Muu, you sound like a noble.」

「Ahaha, what are you saying? Myuu saying that makes it sound like you know some noble. By any chance, is Myuu from Britain?」

「No, Myuu is a sea dweller race.」

「Ahahaha, I always heard you say that, but, what kind of people are this sea dweller race~~」

「We are the women of the sea.」

「Ahahaha~」

Perhaps feeling that the way Myuu talked was amusing, words that expressed laughter were listed on the display screen. Natalia who seemed to calm down after a while wrote a sentence that seemed to be pleading with her unique friend who obviously had a different atmosphere and rhythm compared to her normal school friends.

「Hey, Myuu. I wonder, can you talk with me like this during the party?」

It seemed that the ceremony would be in the afternoon, so even thinking about the time zone difference Myuu would be able to become her talking partner. However, if seeing the figure of a young girl who didn’t properly participate in the party while earnestly playing with her smartphone in the corner, in the end just what would the family and also the surrounding think about Natalia……

However, even if only slightly, Natalia’s atmosphere that was really quite gloomy was conveyed through her sentence.

Seeing that, inside Myuu, the big sister soul was welling up!

「Muu, can’t be helped then.」

「Eh, is it fine? You said that recently you were scolded because you played on the internet too much though……it would be, really late, you know?」

「It’s fine. There is no problem. If it’s for the sake of a friend, then surely I will be allowed. That’s why, Na-chan, I won’t let you get bored and enjoy the party instead nano!」

「Ye, yes. What’s this, I’m happy but, for some reason, I have a bad premonition.」

That premonition of Natalia would splendidly come true during the weekend.

At a certain place in America, on that day, a certain ceremony was being held. At the ceremony that Natalia mentioned, where a lot of government officials were attending, mass media people were also going in and the situation of the ceremony was even broadcasted on the evening news in Japan.

Naturally, the hymn that was sung by the participating children, including Natalia, was also performed as one of the ceremony’s decoration, the figure of the children singing with their all was also broadcasted in the news.

After the ceremony program ended it was time for the standing buffet party. The ceremony was using a floor of a certain high-class hotel that was reserved, so the served cooking was also first class.

The adults were immediately involved in slightly difficult talks of this and that, and then Natalia, who was left alone just as expected, was now trying to become a wallflower and the heaven-sent child of the smartphone.

「Eh, I wonder if Myuu is still not online? By any chance, is it just as I thought, that she was stopped by her mother or her big sisters or someone?」

Natalia confirmed that Myuu wasn't logging in on the chat room that the two of them usually used. Looking disappointed, Natalia sighed due to the gloomy time she had to spend until the end of the party.

But, it was at that time,

「Young lady. If you sigh like that, then happiness will run away, you know?」

「Eh?」

Natalia was startled and turned her gaze toward the direction of the voice that suddenly came to her. There, the one who spoke a line like a certain skirt chaser was unexpectedly a cute girl about the same age as her.

No, it was a beautiful girl to the degree that the word of cute felt a little lacking for her.

Emerald blond hair that looked fluffy and smooth, and clear jade eyes that looked mystical. Faint pink lips and dreamy rose colored cheeks. That figure which was wearing a dress with a gentle green tone was like a fairy that came out of a fairytale. That faint mischievous smile which had a close resemblance with a Cheshire cat somewhere despite her gentle look also spurred on that imagination.

After a while being in a daze, or possibly being enraptured, Natalia who was staring at that emerald fairy girl saw how that girl was peering into her wonderingly「Nn~?」which caused her to return to her senses with a ‘hah’.

「E, err, you are, who?」

「Muu, that’s mean. Even though I came here because Na-chan said that you are lonely.」

「E, e? Na-chan? E?」

Although this was a wide world, the only one who called her with that pet name was only that amusing friend which was living in Japan.

However, yes, however, Natalia who was relatively clever for her age and parentage immediately rejected that possibility.

Well, of course she was. What was the chance of a friend in Japan to rush here to America just because she was saying that she was lonely? Furthermore, the two of them had the talk about this at three days ago before the ceremony. Myuu wouldn’t be able to make it in time if she didn’t depart immediately, thinking normally this was something impossible.

Even if, just for argument’s sake, Myuu was really coming here for her sake, just how did she enter this place? This was a place where several big shot officials were gathering. Naturally, anyone other than related people would be checked strictly before entering here. There was no way for people other than the invitee that had been registered beforehand could enter.

In that case, there could only be one possibility, that Myuu was actually a child of a family that was invited into the ceremony today just like her family, which meant she had been lying to her all this time. But fundamentally, the two of them had only been talking with internet chatting, or using their net game avatar, they didn’t know each other’s face. Then, as expected this girl in front of her eye was…

「That’s not it nano. Myuu is Myuu herself, the genuine one that is living in Japan you know?」

「-, y, you, as I thought you are Myuu? But how are……」

Myuu who seemed to guess Natalia’s thought talked looking like someone who succeeded in her prank. Myuu then approached Natalia who twitched in surprise and took her hand without hesitation. And then, Myuu brought her lips close to Natalia’s ear, and she whispered softly, as though she was blowing her breath on the ear, just as if she was exposing a secret.

「Myuu is the daughter of the demon king-sama, and also the top disciple of his wives so……」

「……」

「If it’s for a friend, then something like this is no problem nano.」

Myuu stared from really close at Natalia whose face was glowing red for some reason, and then, while smiling and looking slightly troubled,

「Or else, is it a bother for Myuu to come here?」

Myuu asked that.

Natalia’s head was swung left and right at high speed, to the degree that it felt like an afterimage could be seen from that movement. Her expression expressed her feelings more eloquently than anything.

Natalia, who was made to toss away the worthless minor details and felt like Myuu was somewhat forcefully having her way with her, became able to spend her time in this boring and gloomy party with her friend.

By the way, Myuu was here in this place because of Hajime who she asked to send her using the compass and crystal key.

Right now in Japan, the time was already night, so beforehand Myuu had explained about the circumstance and her destination to Hajime and the others. Papa Hajime couldn’t say anything toward his daughter’s global acquaintance and the lightness of her movement, but Yue and the others were feeling warm and fluffy seeing a Myuu that had grown to become completely tough and they sent her here gladly. The one who prepared Myuu’s dress was also Yue and the others.

Although, if they knew that Myuu was making her friend red-faced by her actions and speech that was similar to a handsome man from an otome game performing a wall sandwich to the female character then……there was no doubt that the Nagumo family emergency meeting would be held right away. (TN: Otome game, a game like your usual visual novel, but here the MC is a girl while the targets to be conquered were handsome men instead of beautiful girls. While wall sandwich is slamming one’s hand into the wall in front of somebody (e.g. to stop them from leaving; often viewed as romantic))

□Geez, I was really surprised there!□

「I won’t let you get bored――that was what Myuu said, Myuu is keeping Myuu’s own words.」

「Aah, this rhythm, you are unmistakably Myuu.」

Natalia dropped her shoulders while intensely accepting the situation after seeing Myuu, who was saying such a thing, with a stiff and crisp expression. She accepted that the beautiful girl in front of her eyes that could be mistaken for a fairy was exactly her friend Myuu.

「I won’t ask about the details, but you really came here huh.」

「Nn. If Natalia is lonely, Myuu will rush to your side even if you are in another world.」

「-, thank you Myuu. ……For some reason, I got the hunch that in the future Myuu will be someone that is really no good you know.」

「Strange……recently Myuu is often told of something like that. Even though Myuu is just imitating all the onee-chans and papa.」

「Those onee-chans and papa-san, aren’t they also getting called as no good people?」

「Hah!?」

Even while having idiotic talk like that, Natalia’s heart was beating livelily inside. Her heart was beating fast because if the existence of Myuu, that shouldn’t be listed on the invitation list, got found out, it would become a really great uproar. But even more than that nervousness, she was feeling really happy that she could unexpectedly meet her friend, which she had wanted to meet, like this.

Furthermore, her friend was cuter than what she imagined. Myuu was humorous and for some reason, Myuu also looked adult-like. Myuu was exactly a friend that made her want to boast about her to other people.

Their talk was naturally turning lively, both of them were turning into wallflowers, yet they were looking more animated and purely having more fun than anyone there.

But that enjoyable time was suddenly broken.

Along with a sound gashan, one middle-aged male knocked over his glass while collapsing down. The surrounding people rushed to that person in a panic to check the situation, and they found out that the person appeared to be sleeping. The people got exasperated and explained to the surrounding that this person surely drank too much alcohol, but in the middle of that, suddenly another person at a different spot also collapsed similarly like that.

With that as the beginning, the people at the party venue were crumbling down one after another and fainted at different intervals.

「Wha, what? What is going……a, u?」

「Natalia?」

Natalia was bewildered, but in the middle of speaking her words suddenly cut off. When Myuu turned her gaze to her, she found the figure of Natalia falling to her knee with her eyelids looking like they would close anytime. She was obviously being assaulted by unnatural sudden sleepiness.

Myuu immediately caught Natalia who looked like she was going to fall, and then she became aware that she was also getting sleepy.

「This is……by any chance the cooking is? Uu, even though this should be a normal party……is this also because Myuu is papa's daughter nano?」

While murmuring something that might damage Hajime relatively if he heard it, Myuu said「It's fine」to Natalia who looked like she would faint anytime. She then took out a magic medicine from her "Treasure Warehouse" and drank it. With that, the sleepiness was blown off immediately.

Myuu thought of giving Natalia the medicine too, but because she felt a doubt whether Natalia would be able to get a hold of herself in the event of what would occur from here on. In the end, Myuu didn't do that.

She then decided to send a mail to Hajime but noticed that the transmission was being jammed. At that point in time, she caught the sound of the footsteps of a group approaching.

Myuu groaned「Muu」while looking around. Most of the people seemed to have consumed the cooking that was laced with a sleeping drug, and they were all sound asleep or almost falling asleep. No, when Myuu saw that the security and the waiters were also falling asleep, it seemed that another method other than dosing the cooking was also used.

To do something like making all people in a strictly guarded party of politicians to faint without killing or wounding anyone was impossible with just average planning and organizational capability.

「Can't be helped nano.」

Myuu looked at Natalia with a troubled expression, and then she laid down in that spot snuggling close to Natalia. Then she pretended to sleep while opening her eyes only slightly so that no one would notice.

「Wake up, Na-chan. Come on, wake up.」

「Mmm-」

The squishy sensation that was gently touching her cheek, the sensation of her head getting patted slowly caused Natalia's consciousness to become half awake. On the other side of her faintly opened eyelids, there was the upside down figure of Myuu peering into her face.

「Myuu?」

「Yes, it's Myuu. Good morning, Na-chan.」

「Un, good morning. But, why is Myuu in my room?」

「Na-chan. If you are seriously mistaking this room that is surrounded by concrete and an iron door as your own room, then Myuu has to have a talk with Na-chan's family at once, you know?」

「E? .....-!?」

Natalia, who finally recovered from her sleepiness, rose her body suddenly and ran her gaze over the surroundings. She confirmed that the place she was in was exactly just as Myuu said, a room of dreary concrete and an iron door.

At the same time, she caught sight of children other than her and Myuu. Nearly ten children about the same age were huddling in the corner of the room where they were already awake. Looking at how everyone was wearing party outfits, it seemed that they were children that were also in that party venue. Several of the children had faces that she knew as members of the same choir with her.

Every one of them was sitting down looking scared. Natalia's gaze then turned back at Myuu who seemed to be giving her a lap pillow.

「Myu, Myuu. Just what in the world, how did this……where is here!? What happened to us!? Where is father!?」

Natalia was on the verge of panic. To that, Myuu closed their distance smoothly and embraced Natalia's head closely. And then, Myuu gently clapped Natalia's back several times while saying「It's fine, it's fine nano. Myuu is together with Na-chan here nano.」, this sentence was whispered to Natalia with an extraordinarily gentle tone.

Having those done to her, Natalia gradually relaxed 'funya' with her composure returning back.

Judging that Natalia had calmed down, Myuu separated their body, and then she also turned her gaze at the other children and opened her mouth.

「First, all of us were made to sleep by the drug that was laced on the cooking, and then we got kidnapped nano. After that, we were taken to this place by car after traveling for about forty minutes. The ones who are kidnapped are only the children that were in the venue, the adults were left alone in the venue.」

The word ‘kidnapped’ made the children almost cried, but before that happened Myuu continued her words.

「Not everyone is in this room but at the very least all the children that were taken away from that venue seem to be inside this building. According to the perpetrators’ conversation, it seems that they are making various demands just as expected. All of us are the hostages for that. The perpetrators are a really large organization, all their members are equipped with firearms. It looks like it will be some time before help will come for us nano. Anyway, the current situation is something like that. Are there any questions?」

「First, I want to ask just how can Myuu understand that much!」

Myuu’s well-reasoned explanation made everyone’s face turn into something like「Ah, yes」, but from among them, Natalia howled. In response to that, Myuu answered frankly.

「Because Myuu has been awake all along!」

「The sleeping drug!?」

「Detoxified!」

Natalia didn’t even ask about ‘how?’ or anything anymore. While her words got caught in her throat, Natalia exclaimed,

「Wh, why, are you this calm?」

She threw that natural question at Myuu. To that,

「Because Myuu has an abundance of experience of getting kidnapped nano.」

「Just what kind of life have you had!?」

「Getting made to cross a desert, getting locked in an underground prison, getting washed away in a sewer, getting displayed in an auction, getting kidnapped by a monstrous sister……」

「Stoooop, I don’t want, to hear more than thaaat!」

When Myuu explained this and that of the kidnapping cases she experienced while counting with her fingers, for some reason Natalia then hugged her while crying. Surely Natalia was getting the impression that Myuu was an unfortunate girl that had went through a gruesome life.

「Uu, but, then, why is Myuu here? If it’s Myuu, then shouldn’t you be able to escape?」

「Myu?」

While wiping her eyes roughly with her sleeve, Natalia asked a question that if it was Myuu she should be able to escape. Despite being the center of attention for the other children, due to the conversation of these two, Myuu was tilting her head as though to say「Just what are you talking about I wonder?」while answering.

「Even though Na-chan is getting taken away, just why would Myuu run away nano?」

「u」

Hearing Myuu’s answer that sounded like she was saying, ‘even though 1+1=2, why would you answer with 3?’, Natalia couldn’t say anything anymore. Myuu was just too much of a handsome guy, the young maiden Natalia-chan couldn’t say anything! Her face was that of a ripe apple!

In order to avert her mind, Natalia asked what they were going to do from here on.

「For the time being, Myuu will contact papa nano.」

Saying that Myuu took out her smartphone from under her dress's skirt. The boy hostages were whispering, 「Eh, weren't all the smartphones confiscated……」but……under the skirt of a girl was a grand mystery. Surely that was how it was.

The boys' face delicately blushed at the thighs of Myuu that they caught sight of from the flipped skirt, and they averted their gaze (it seemed that their tension and terror were softened from watching the exchange between Myuu and Natalia) while Myuu was trying to contact Hajime……

「!? Now I've done it, nano……」

Suddenly Myuu hung her head down while on all fours. On Myuu's hand, was a smartphone that displayed a lightless pitch black screen.

Actually, this smartphone was different from the normal smartphone that Myuu took out previously, it was a communication artifact that Hajime created. So that Myuu could use it, it was a type with a magic power storage loaded inside just like Myuu's other exclusive artifacts; but if it was asked what was its difference with a normal smartphone, then it was at how it was able to communicate with another world.

If one possessed this smartphone, at the very least it would be impossible for the owner to be unable to contact Hajime and others who possessed the same device no matter where they were on earth, so even if the normal smartphone was taken away then there would be no problem, was what Myuu was thinking but……

「I forgot, to recharge it nano……」

It would cost much energy if it was used to contact another world. Before this, Myuu, who was in that age, against her better judgment got too engrossed in talking with her friend, and she used up too much of the stored magic power and got scolded by papa Hajime. This time too she recently unconsciously used the phone too much. Fearing the scolding she avoided asking to recharge the phone, which caused the phone to be completely empty currently.

「E, err, Myuu?」

Natalia who somehow guessed the situation after seeing Myuu who kept feeling down on all fours, sent Myuu a faint smile. Myuu who noticed that raised her face all of a sudden, and opened her mouth while averting her gaze.

「For humans, it’s no good to pay attention only to the past nano. Looking to the future is exactly what is right nano. Isn’t that correct, Nataliaaa!!」

「Ee!? E, err……」

「This is not a failure nano. This is a discovery that this method is not working nano!」

「Ye, yes?」

「And so, let’s give up contacting papa.」

「……」

Myuu cheerfully stored the smartphone inside the skirt (was how it looked like, but it was actually stored inside her “Treasure Warehouse”). While Natalia and the others were staring at Myuu with an expression that couldn’t say anything, Myuu crossed her arms and begin to think while nodding ‘yup yup’ to herself.

(Eerr, promise number 1 to papa, don’t expose your true identity, and don’t show the artifact. Promise number 2 to papa, at the time it’s necessary, always discuss it first with someone, whether it’s papa or one of the onee-chan. Promise number 3, when there is no time to protect promise number 1 and 2, at the time that Myuu thinks that it’s necessary……)

――”Do as you like. As for the clearing up afterwards, I’ll do it”, papa said nano. Yup, right now is that time nano.

Myuu, who had reconfirmed her important promises with papa, was whispering Papa is just too cool nano. When Myuu recalled it Myuu got to fall in love all over again nano inside her head while deciding on her plan from here on precisely.

Anyway, she had told Hajime the time the party would end, so even without her contacting him, no, exactly because she wasn’t contacting him, Hajime should get suspicious and he would open a gate to the party venue to pick up Myuu. Combining the time that they were being kidnapped and the time she spent at the party, Hajime should notice the abnormality in less than an hour.

When that happened, Hajime possessed the “Compass of Guidance”, so he would be able to instantly search for Myuu’s whereabouts. With that, this kidnapping incident would be resolved.

In the case that, for example, the situation changed before Hajime noticed, Myuu would use all the power she was gifted with and settle the problem without holding back. She planned to fight for the sake of her life and her friend’s life while entrusting the information concealment after that to her papa who was the most reliable person in the world.

In the case that she was fighting she would recover her smartphone, that should be somewhere in this building, and contact Hajime. With that, all the problems would be resolved.

With that being the plan that she decided on, Myuu fired herself up with「Yosh-, nano!」while her speaking habit that she was usually being careful so that it wouldn’t come out was going out in full throttle. Natalia and the other children, who were staring fixedly at such a Myuu, saw Myuu turn around to them, and they spontaneously gulped at Myuu’s wide smile toward them.

「It’s okay to not be that worried. Because everything is fine nano.」

That sentence wasn’t a mere consolation, or a wishful thinking, or even a bluff. A strength that made anyone who listened to be convinced, existed in her words. The tension in the children’s bodies naturally lessened and their expressions slightly recovered their natural color.

Myuu nodded once at those children, and then while whispering「Just in case, Myuu will make preparation nano.」, Myuu gathered the children to the corner of the room, then she began to set up small crosses in their surrounding.

Perhaps there was no meaning to wonder about it anymore but for the time being, the children watched Myuu putting her hand under her skirt once more. Although she had shown for real how she was taking out crosses from there, the size and number of the crosses were obviously surpassing the range that was possible to be stored inside a children’s skirt. That profoundly mysterious phenomenon caused Natalia to have a faraway look while the other children’s eyes were sparkling brightly from watching Myuu’s every single move.

「You……who are you?」

One blond-haired young boy, who blushed from Myuu’s smile, leaked out that question in a small voice.

In response to that, Myuu, who was nodding in satisfaction after finishing setting up the crosses, then proclaimed with brimming confidence and a grandly triumphant look, as though it was exactly her pride.

「Myuu’s name is Myuu. The beloved daughter――of the god-slaying demon king-sama nano!」

It went without saying that the faces of the children went blank hearing that.

A little bit after that.

In just a few minutes Myuu was becoming the center of this imprisonment room. It was obvious that the children would gather under Myuu, who even in this situation was still smiling without even a single agitation. Everyone huddled together wanting to be at Myuu’s side.

Seeing that, for some reason, Natalia wasn’t feeling amused. Myuu had asked for all the children to introduce themselves, and after everyone finished their introductions Myuu stated that Natalia was “a close friend nano!”. If Myuu didn’t do that, then perhaps right now Natalia would be acting sullen regardless of the current situation.

(Besides, that guy, isn’t he being too close?)

Natalia was occupying one of Myuu’s sides while at the opposite side there was a blond young boy talking passionately to Myuu. The sharpness of Natalia’s gaze toward that boy was growing without end.

It was unclear whether the blond-haired boy noticed it, but the boy was continuing to talk to Myuu while sometimes feeling concerned of Natalia’s gaze.

「Err, I don’t really understand but……anyway, Myuu-chan’s papa is absurdly strong, and he will immediately locate us and then beat up those guys, is that true?」

The blond-haired young boy――he who had the name Emile asked Myuu. The children had sparkling eyes from hearing Myuu’s story about how strong her papa was, but Emile, who was comparatively calm, was thinking realistically during Myuu’s story and had noticed some things that should be impossible without using magic mixed in the story, so his impression became like that.

By the way, the total number of the children inside the room was nine. Every one of them were all children of the government officials that attended that party.

「Yup. If it’s papa, then against that kind of guys it would be instant kill nano. And if it is the onee-chans, then even if it’s just one of them then the bad guys will go splat or go boom, or go zap, or go pew.」

「I, I see. Yep, I see……」

For some reason, Emile felt like he was hearing excessively graphic sound effects, but he did his best in ignoring it.

「But, in that case then it seems that it will be all the better to not do anything uncalled for then. If within thirty more minutes our whereabouts will get find out, then let’s not do anything dangerous. Myuu-chan too, it seemed that you did something like pretending to sleep but it’s no good to do risky things, you know?」

「It will be fine. Nn~, Emile is kind nano.」

「-, no, no such thing, though……」

Myuu smiled sweetly at Emile who was worrying for her even in this kind of situation. The youth Emile noticed that something was shot through inside him. 「Aa~, Emile is getting red!」or「Emile, you actually like Myuu don’t you!」 and so on, jeering characteristic of children was breaking out from the others seeing Emile’s face.

Natalia’s gaze was rapidly growing sharper. It was to the level that made one doubt whether this girl was really a ten-year-old!

Emile’s face went bright red while he made his objection inside that atmosphere, but the more he got worked up and denied the jeering, the deeper he was digging the hole for himself. Natalia’s face was growing to resemble Hannya. The tragic feeling that enveloped the children at the beginning couldn’t be found anywhere anymore.

In exchange, the youth Emile had to taste the tragic feeling instead.

「I’m sorry nano. Myuu, cannot answer Emile’s feeling!」

「I got strongly rejected! Wh, why? No, it, it's not like, I like Myuu-chan or anything though. I'm asking here, because I'm just, feeling curious, or something……」

「Emile is not my type nano!」

「I got struck with a straight ball! The, then, what is your type……no, this is too, just because I'm curious, or something, it's not like I really want to he, he, hear though……」

「Myuu like papa!」

「That's an overly sharp curve ball! No, see here, Myuu-chan. It's fine that you like your papa but, you cannot actually marry him……also, that, that's different from liking a lover or something……」

「aAA?」

「Hii, I got threatened by a cute face that looked like a gangster! No, because, your papa, he is your father, you know?」

「We are not related by blood so there is no problem.」

「Unthinkable development! Lo, look here, Myuu-chan. Even though you two are not related by blood, he is your mother's beloved person, isn't he? Then, if Myuu-chan is feeling like that to your father, won't your mother feeling troubled?」

「Mama said, 'if there is an opening then take it!' to Myuu nano!」

「Unthinkable backup! Such a thing……just what kind of family is Myuu-chan's family……」

「There are mama and papa, then Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan, then in addition to papa's wife there are also seven more wives, it's a normal family.」

「There is something wrong with Myuu-chan's father, you know!?」

「aAA!?」

「Hii, I'm sorry! I beg you here, don't make a face like a mafia boss with that cute face!」

Emile-kun's first love was showered with blows.

The surrounding children cackled. Natalia was hugging Myuu's arm while making an expression of「Serves you right!!」. Natalia's character was in danger of crumbling.

Amidst that, a blond girl looking slightly older than Myuu was asking with sparkling bright eyes, as expected it seemed that love stories being the favorite food of any girl were a common point that was shared by all worlds.

「Hey hey, Myuu-chan. Then, when will you confess to your papa?」

「Nn~, confess? Nn~」

Myuu tilted her head a little, then after showing a thinking gesture「Nn~」, her eyes slowly narrowed.

「If it's confession then Myuu does it every day. Every day, Myuu says Myuu love papa nano.」

「Ee~, your papa won't get it like that you know, absolutely~」

「Nope. Papa is sharp so he understands. But, Myuu is still little, so papa is not thinking of Myuu like that nano…… that's why……」

「That's why?」

The girls' eyes were sparkling with their heart beating fast, Emile was being crushed under a tragic feeling, Natalia was staring at Myuu with a complicated expression, and the boys were directing their grin at such an Emile. Amidst all those, Myuu……

「That's why……eventually, Myuu will eat up Papa nano.」

Saying that Myuu licked her lips. She chuckled「Fufu」with faintly blushing cheeks and eyes that were moist from passion. It was a bewitching figure that closely resembled a certain vampire princess, to the degree that it made one want to retort「Eh, she is ten-years-old right?」.

Spontaneously, the girls were shaken「Hawawa-」, the boys were overcome with a surprise to the point that their souls almost flew away while Emile and Natalia pressed their hands on their heart as though they were shot through.

As expected, it seemed that Myuu had inherited properly even the things that didn't need to be inherited from her uncommon older sisters.

But, it was at that time, that the symbol of terror that was blown away thanks to Myuu became a footstep that resounded from the other side of the door. The children suddenly realized and they huddled close to the wall.

「Myu, Myuu……」

「Nn, it’s fine. I won’t let them touch even a single hair of Na-chan.」

「Un, I, believe in Myuu.」

The door opened with a creaking sound, and from the other side two men with their faces hidden by masks and something that seemed to be assault rifles hanging on their shoulders entered the room.

「Oi, which one we are going to take?」

「They are all the same, right? Anyway, other than that brat, these brats are all the kids of government or army officials. The effect will be the same no matter which one we kill. We also kidnapped a lot at other bases too anyway. It will be fine even if we used up all the brats here.」

「I see. It’s us two first for the time being huh. One will be killed right away as an example, right?」

The two who were exchanging in conversation, which could only be associated with a dark future no matter how you looked at it, were acting as though the lives of children were worth nothing. It caused the children’s bodies to shrink and shiver. And then, one of the men reached out his hand to a girl that he just happened to catch sight of——at Natalia who Myuu covered behind her. But, that hand was stopped by the surprisingly strong grip of a small hand.

「……in the end, the time limit came first nano.」

「You are in the way, brat.」

A cold gaze that robbed all warmth pierced Myuu from behind the mask. Myuu talked to that man without even hiding her atmosphere of ‘it’s impossible huh’.

「This is a warning. It’s better for you all to immediately release all of us without doing anything at all to us. Ojii-san, you all have no chance of winning nano.」(TN: Ojii-san=uncle)

「……fuh」

That unthinkable speech which came from a ten-year-old girl in this situation made the masked man to be lost for words spontaneously, but the moment his mind caught up, a snort came out from his nose. Thinking that the little existence before his eyes really didn’t know anything of what was called reality, caused ridicule to well up inside him.

At the same time, a color of sadism came into being inside his eyes. When he looked closer, it was a little girl with a very pretty look. This pretty little girl who didn’t know anything about reality, if he made her taste overwhelming violence, just what kind of voice would she be chirping with then, the man wondered.

Myuu who knew about the unreasonableness of reality understood what was in the mind of this kind of man like the back of her own hand. Therefore, while she was sighing in her heart that as expected, words wouldn’t do anything anymore now, at the moment when the masked man was about to strike Myuu, her lips curved up fearlessly.

「Enemy is to be killed nano!」

「-, wha!?」

Before he knew it, a small pistol for Myuu’s use was gripped in her hand and was pushed against the man’s stomach forcefully.

Just why a kidnapped child was holding a gun——even while feeling chaotic confusion from the incomprehensible situation, the man immediately twisted his body but,

pan-

A dry sound rang out, at the same time, the man received a fierce impact on his stomach, without even being able to scream the man turned in a somersault.

□Shit-, this brat-□

□……□

The other man aimed his assault rifle at Myuu——but, faster than the man, Myuu summoned a similar pistol in her other hand without even changing her posture or turning her sight. A bullet flew below Myuu's armpit and impacted the stomach of the man who was at the left behind Myuu.

Once more, a dry sound pan- resounded along with the man groaning with a small voice while crumbling down. And then, even with an unbelieving expression, the man was trying to pull the trigger of his assault rifle.

□Fly away you asshole nano!□

Before anyone realized, Myuu stepped in and in her hands was a comical hammer that was gripped——at the head of the hammer there was a rabbit character that looked like Mif○y attached colored in red and yellow——the pico pico hammer's full swing pummeled the head of the man mercilessly and sent him flying. (TN: Search in google using this word □□□□□□□□ to find the illustration of pico pico hammer)

The man crashed on the wall bekyo! before crumbling down powerlessly. Giving that man only a glance, Myuu shouldered the pico pico hammer while turning around, and then toward the first man who was trying to stand up somehow.

「Hey-, wai――」

「No waiting nano!」

The pico pico hammer struck violently in full power. The hammer that flew with a force that was unthinkable when coming from the strike of a ten-year-old girl hit directly at the man’s face. pikon-! Such comical sounds and star images were scattered while the man was sinking down.

「Myuu……」

「A, amazing……」

Natalia’s eyes opened wide while Emile was letting out a murmur of admiration. That expression and murmur represented the heart of everyone there. After all, two adult men armed with guns were instantly killed by a girl whose age was not that different from them. In addition, there was also the weapons that appeared one after another like a magic trick.

However, Myuu’s expression didn’t show any sense of accomplishment. Rather, with a grim expression from her wariness that was raising up further, she was staring at the other side of the door and gave an instruction to the dumbfounded children.

「Na-chan, everyone. Until I say that it’s fine, you all absolutely must not get out from behind those crosses. Understand?」

「Eh, Myuu, we are not going to escape even though those men have been defeated?」

「Yup, several people are heading here after hearing the commotion just now nano. Even if we want to escape, right now it's dangerous to go outside.」

「Go, got it.」

Natalia led the other children and they huddled against each other behind the crosses that Myuu had lined up. During that time, Myuu took out a new weapon. This time she chose something that would make as little sound as possible.

Right after that, three men stepped into the room. They were taken aback after seeing that two of their comrades were defeated before they aimed their rifle muzzle at the children. They were going to question the children what happened when, hyun hyun-

The sound of something cutting through wind entered their ears. At the same time, one of the men received a fierce impact on his head that blew his consciousness to the beyond.

「Wha-」

「This brat-」

Voices of shock and curses resounded. Right after that, Myuu, whose dress waved from her elegant twirling motion, directed the weapon in her hand to the enemies and launched it with that twirling motion and her wrist snap.

hyun the sound of something cutting apart the air resounded and pulverized the ankle of one of the men while wrapping around it at the same time.

――Myuu’s exclusive use Black Whip “This is Weapon Desu”

The emphasis in the naming was surely the consideration of the papa so that the perverted character of the whip art teacher wouldn’t be transferred to his beloved daughter even in the worst case. It was a caution toward the daughter so that the whip would never, ever be used for any other purpose other than as a weapon.

“This is Weapon Desu” crashed the man whose ankle was pulverized into the man at his side before letting go, and then it struck the wrist of the man whose balance was broken. Just with that the bone of the wrist was smashed and the man screamed while dropping his gun. The collapsed man tried to ready his rifle while the man whose wrist was broken tried to take out his pistol from his waist, but the tip of the whip bent and hit the head of the two men hard almost at the same time and robbed them of their consciousness.

「Mu-, there is still one more nano!」

「-, what the, you-」

The last man who was standing by outside the room showed his figure while pulling his rifle’s trigger toward the girl who instantly made the three men entering the room faint. da da da da da- Amidst the fiercely reverberating sound of a gun shooting Myuu threw away her black whip and took out the “Pikko Piko Hammeeer” once again and threw it forward.

Myuu, who was in the line of fire, was hiding in the shadow of the “Pikko Piko Hammeeer” so that the bullets didn’t hit her. The stray bullets that missed Myuu passed through to the back——toward the group of children behind.

【Kyaaah, wait, eee!?】

【Li, liees……】

Before the eyes of Natalia, Emile, and the others who spontaneously screamed, the bullets were stopping with ripples spreading throughout midair.

——Myuu’s exclusive use　Barrier Artifact “Don’t Touch, You Pervert!”

The lined up crosses were artifacts where a barrier would be deployed with those crosses as the base. So that bullets wouldn’t hit the children even in the worst case, Myuu made a simple safe zone inside the room beforehand. The naming made apparent just what kind of situation that the creator imagined this artifact would be used for.

And then, Myuu herself who had completely protected the children from the wicked bullets was……

【Sleep nano.】

【aAA!?】

The thrown “Pikko Piko Hammeeer” instantly blocked the sight of the enemy and within an instant Myuu circled to the back of the opponent with low steps as though she was crawling on the ground, and with two kodachi in her hands, she rotated while severing the tendons of the enemy’s two legs. At the same time, the head of the man who became unable to keep standing and crumbled down was hit and hit by two consecutive pommel strikes, causing the man to faint with the white of his eyes exposed.

――Myuu's exclusive use Twin Katana "Muuramasa-Kotetsuu"

This artifact would react to Myuu's image and could activate high-speed vibration-slash wave-impact generation, on top of that, just by holding it would cause Myuu's perception and physical ability to rise. These two kodachi were truly worthy to be called as "demon sword".

By the way, the twin sword art that Myuu learned was based from Kaori's twin large sword art combined with Shizuku's Yaegashi-style. Especially the combo of the rotating slash continued with a pommel strike just now was a technique that was just one step short of being the secret technique of the Yaegashi-style.

「For now we managed to endure through emergency, but reinforcements will surely come soon, so everyone, prepare to escape.」

Myuu twirled the two kodachi before like a magic trick, and the two swords disappeared somewhere. Looking at Myuu, the children finally raised their joyful voices and rushed out from behind the crosses. Their mouths sent Myuu words of praise like「Myuu-chan is amazing!」「So cool!」「Stro―ng!」.

「Myuu! Are you okay? You are not injured?」

「Myuu-chan! You are okay!?」

「Na-chan, Emile. Myuu is fine nano. Rather than that, the next enemy will come soon, so we are going to move to a place where it's easier to fight while we have time. It will be dangerous if they throw a grenade in a dead end closed room like this.

Even though Myuu had cut a swath through grown-up men like butter, she didn’t look particularly proud and instead calmly gave the children the next instruction. Witnessing this, Natalia and Emile raised an enraptured voice「Fuai」 sounding extremely stupid.

Myuu gave a glance at the two of them who were like that, and then she took an action that made Natalia want to scream while making the boys feel both really happy and embarrassed. After all, Myuu’s dress suddenly vanished.

「Fuwah」

「Wai-, hey-, you guys, don’t look-」

The dress was only stored inside the “Treasure Warehouse”, but from the point of view of the children who didn’t know about such a thing, it looked like Myuu was suddenly only wearing underwear. Furthermore, the undressed Myuu was wearing a green baby doll that wafted off an adult air which made one want to say ‘isn’t that a bit inappropriate for a ten-year-old?’

Myuu’s white skin that looked transparent was exposed generously, but there was no color of shame at Myuu’s serious expression. For Myuu who once went through an adventure in a world of sword and magic, something of this degree wasn’t worth feeling bothered about at all, to say nothing of how it was in the middle of a battle right now.

And then, in this battlefield, there was one reason why Myuu took off her dress.

Right after that, Myuu’s body was enveloped with a faint light, and then in the next moment, Myuu transformed into a new outfit.

A dress shirt that really resembled what Yue was wearing, and white-hot pants that resembled the one that Shia was wearing. White knee high socks that exposed the absolute territory of her legs, and cute frilly short boots. Her waist was wrapped with two gun belts like what Shizuku wore crossing each other.

A miniaturized “Picco Pico Hammeeer” was attached to the back of the gun belt on that waist while colorful gems were fitted on the countless slots that were usually for storing bullets. On Myuu’s two thighs at opposing sides were two gun holsters fitted with “Donneerr-Schlaaag” while on her back were “Muuramasa-Kotetsuu” attached crossing each other.

This was exactly the complete battle readiness of Myuu! She transformed instantly. That figure with an outfit change and weapon change was just like a magical girl somewhere!

In fact, all of the children that were directing yearning looks at Myuu said□Myuu-chan is a magical girl……□.

But, at that time, sounds of angry voices and many footsteps running to here entered Myuu’s ears. It appeared that she couldn’t expect the enemy to only send a small number of their forces anymore, and she also couldn’t hope to just wait-and-see. The enemy had clearly understood that they weren’t attacking but were receiving a counterattack, so they were sending their “battle force” to here.

Most likely, it would be thirty or forty more minutes before the time limit where Hajime would notice the strangeness. If Myuu was asked whether she could buy time until then by holing up, then as expected, no matter how many times she was reassessing the situation the answer that she came up with was doubtful.

Above all else, teachings like a nonaggressive defense of constantly being in defensive while kept being getting done in——was something that Myuu didn’t get taught with!

「You all are enemy nano. Enemy is to be pow-wowed nano!」

With her two beloved guns that were gifted to her by her beloved papa in two hands, click Myuu made a wide fearless grin.

Right now, the daughter of the demon king was starting to move.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

It feels like, I’m just doing whatever I like……

But, I’m not reflecting or regretting. Aa, I’m having fun writing.

About the trivial detail, I will be happy if everyone turns a blind eye with your usual tolerance of [Well, this is Shirakome after all].

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday next week too.

Arifureta Chapter 187

Arifureta After – Christmas Commemoration Santa-san's Present

To all the riajuu, and to the villagers of loneliness village too, to everyone.

Merry Christmas!

Part 1

People dressed in colorful costumes, mysterious creatures(mascots), shrieks that contained joy and excitement, sound effects and music that were resounding here and there.

That place, which looked unreal and extraordinary, was a certain famous theme park.

The season was winter. Furthermore, today was the day when the end of the year would soon arrive——it was Christmas.

It was natural that there were more lovers than usual, but there were also people who came with their family or fellow friends. They all came in droves to enjoy, to their heart’s content, this theme park that had been remodeled for only a limited time, dyed in the color of Christmas.

The theme park, which had amassed such a number of visitors that it made the face of the management to burst out in a chuckle, was visited by a group that was a little special. It was a group that consisted of one man and eight beautiful girls and women. On the shoulder of that man was a little girl with sparkling bright eyes. It went without saying that this group was Hajime and the wives (Yue, Shia, Tio, Kaori, Shizuku, Remia, Aiko, and Liliana). Shuu and Sumire had work. It also went without saying that the two of them were shedding tears because they couldn’t come.

By the way, in the current time, Liliana was still unable to separate herself from the kingdom, so normally she was staying in the kingdom. However, in this long-awaited holy night, it would be too cruel to leave Liliana alone, so Hajime opened a gate and kidnapped Liliana who was in the middle of work.

For the moment, by using the system to convert electricity into magic power (Hajime had built a personal geothermal electric power generator deep underground so he could convert magic power as he pleased), the number of times they could freely come and go between Tortus and earth had increased, so there was no particular problem with doing this.

「Papa, papa! There, let's go there nano! That one with shark-san going haup!」(TN: Seems Myuu is referring to a shark opening its jaw and then swallowing in a flash.)

「Yes yes. Even though it's cold here, but you intentionally chose water attraction huh. Is this because of Myuu's race trait?」

Myuu was given a ride on Hajime's shoulder, her legs were swinging back and forth while she was squealing merrily. Her head was covered with a fluffy Santa hat, and her appearance was that of a mini skirt Santa costume. Her legs were wrapped with white stockings, and her boots were white with a pompon attached, each time her legs moved they would flutter around.

With emerald blonde hair that flowed down from the Santa hat, her well ordered gentle features that were inherited from her mother, her innocent merriness, and her fawning over her papa with all her might made this little girl stand out despite all the onee-chan surrounding the papa. The gazes of the people in the surrounding were unconsciously pulled toward her, and when they caught sight of her they wouldn’t be able to help themselves from loosening up their expression warmly.

Just as Santa Myuu wished for, papa Hajime was heading toward the aquatic attraction where they would have an adventure on a river, where a giant shark was lurking.

While waiting, the other visitors kept stealing glances toward the beautiful appearance of Yue and the others…… however, there was no such thing happening. Due to an artifact that obstructed people’s recognizance, the surrounding wasn’t paying any attention to Yue and the others.

In exchange, it was Yue and the others whose gazes were wandering around restlessly. Especially Liliana whose familiarity with this world was still faint. She seemed to be receiving culture shocks from various things, and from behind the eyeglass of the recognizance obstruction, her gaze, that was possibly sparkling even brighter than Myuu’s, was running through the area.

They had entered the theme park in the morning, and by now the sun had gone down considerably, but Liliana’s excitement hadn’t settled down yet.

□……Really, Hajime-san’s world is just like a jack-in-the-box. They are building a facility like this only for the sake of amusement. The scale of this is just like a small city, you know? The sightseeing ward at Furen is also something, but this place is on a different level. No, should I perhaps call this as the difference in passion and seriousness toward amusement? Even though this is a large scale facility, I can see their fixation even on the minor details. It has surpassed

the rationality as a mere business, and I can feel the zeal of the people affecting the construction. I wonder about how much they spent in building this. And the profit? The number of visitors per year? The development in the future? The owner of this facility is a common merchant……no, the owner is a corporation, isn’t it? If this can be managed by the country instead……. No, if the substantial aspect is left to Furen while the country becomes the contract partner……

It seemed that Liliana was getting excited at a point that was slightly off. Even though she had arrived here in this rare chance to the world of dreams, furthermore, it was on the holy night, this princess of another world seemed to be curious about the selling point of the theme park instead. And what was mysterious from this was that the sparkling eyes of a dreaming maiden now strangely looked like the fiercely glaring eyes of someone aiming for money.

After Hajime returned to earth, it could be imagined just how hard Liliana. who was left behind, was working, so if it was asked if this couldn’t be helped then perhaps it really couldn’t be helped……but perhaps she had been neglected a bit too much. Hajime, Yue, and the others were sending lukewarm gazes mixed with pity toward Liliana.

While that happened, the turn for Hajime and the others had arrived. They boarded the boat that had drifted in in front of their eyes. The boat had a roof attached and could be boarded by around twenty people, with a vertical bench set up at the center so that the occupants could sit while facing the outside.

Myuu sat down on Hajime’s lap like it was only natural and was staring at the route looking thrilled.

Before long the boat slowly advanced. At the same time, an onee-san, looking like an adventurer with a rifle in one hand, was talking with a lot of realism about just how dangerous this adventure would be and how brutal the existence that was lurking at the bottom of the water was.

Just as could be expected from a worker at a large-scale theme park, her talking skill was first class. The adults were enjoying the atmosphere like an adult, and the children were looking at the water looking scared while their hand grasped their parents' hand tightly.

「Papa.」

「Hm? What is it Myuu?」

Hajime tilted his head at the call of Myuu above his lap who was looking up over her shoulder at Hajime while he was fixing the position of her Santa hat that had shifted. Myuu was asking her papa cheerfully.

「If the shark-san attacks, that onee-san will be the one who defeats it nano?」

「Yeah, I guess. She will shot it with that rifle to protect us.」

「Hm~mm」

When Myuu heard what Hajime said, she began to stare fixedly at the onee-san. The onee-san smiled pleasantly toward the gaze of the cute Santa-san, and she waved her hand a bit. As expected from an onee-san of a theme park. Her zero yen smile was also super first class.

But, if it was a normal child they would be a bit embarrassed before hiding in the shadow of their parent, or they would smile back normally, but in this scene Myuu’s reaction was……

「Fuh」

For some reason, Myuu sighed a little while she shrugged as though to say「Yare yare daze」. A crack entered the onee-san’s super smile! A cramp entered papa Hajime’s expression! (TN: Yare yare daze, I think in English it’s something like ‘oh dear, good grief’)

Using the indispensable technique for a theme park worker, the “Instant Switch”, the Onee-san immediately fixed her smiling face, but Hajime’s expression was still cramped while tapping Myuu’s head. And then, when he asked the reason of Myuu’s attitude just now, she answered「Because, that onee-san looks weak」. It appeared that just now was Myuu’s way of wanting to say「Don’t force yourself okay」.

While that was happening, an event began in the attraction. On the water’s surface, there was a fin that was beginning to appear. The onee-san then shot a warning shot with her rifle. It was a fake rifle without any bullets, but a water splash occurred with matching timing. From the viewpoint of the children, it looked like the onee-san was shooting her rifle and drove away something. In fact, the little kids were raising voices of joy.

However, the boat suddenly shook as though something had pushed it up from below, and wreckages of seriously damaged ships from shark attacks were beginning to appear. The expression of the children began to show nervousness and fear once more. And those feelings reached the peak when a giant shark with its giant jaw opened wide leaped out from the water’s surface.

‘waa—’ ‘kyaa—’ Amidst those resounding excited voices, the onee-san drove away the giant shark with her rifle. However, the shaking boat caused her to slip and fall down. It appeared that her ankle got twisted (of course it was the setting), then saying that she couldn’t shoot the rifle like this, she called to the crowd ‘someone work with me!’. Naturally, the one who would cooperate would be the little kids.

「Go on, Myuu. You too go there.」

「Yes nano.」

A group of little kids fired the rifle given to them by the onee-san looking nervous, or possibly excited. Myuu also joined into that group.

「……Uu~n, how unexpected desu. If it’s Myuu-chan, she should know already about more than the real thing, doesn’t she?」

Shia tilted her head even while pleasantly watching Myuu who was making merry at the imitation shark. Myuu was different from normal children because she knew about real monsters of the sea and also about the struggle for life. Yet Myuu’s figure, which was seriously looking excited with this regardless of all that, was a bit strange.

「Fufu. Of course Myuu understands what is going on. But, the strange amusement of a dangerous experience with guaranteed safety caused Myuu to feel that it’s something unusual and interesting instead.」

「……Nn. Recently she’s been getting engrossed in battle games, this is a little bit troubling.」

「There is also our training, and there art also her staying up late at night.」

「Lack of sleep for young children will cause a bad influence on their growth. Hajime-kun, it's not good unless you firmly warn her, you know?」

Papa Hajime was smiling wryly toward Aiko's warning while he nodded. That was also something that Hajime was worrying about recently.

「Ah, it's Myuu-chan's turn now.」

「Leave the camera to me. Myuu-chan fighting a giant shark, I'll catch it in the picture perfectly.」

Hearing what Kaori pointed out, Shizuku readied a single-lens reflex camera. The target of that lens was the figure of Myuu who was having a rifle handed to her right now.

Normally the onee-san would gently teach the kid the way of holding the rifle and also help prop up the kid. Then by aiming at the timing when the shark jumped out, she would say「It's now! Fire!」where sparks would scatter from the shark's body and mouth, giving a show as though the shark had been shot.

But, the small Santa who received the rifle was a super little girl that had become thoroughly familiar with gunpowder smoke, sparks, and firearms in another world. Furthermore, right now she was a trained little girl that had been forged by her all cheat onee-san and her demon king papa.

Therefore, the moment Myuu received the rifle, she twirled it with a familiar motion and shouldered it on her shoulder before turning her gaze to the water surface. The hands of the onee-san that were going to support the little child were wandering about in the air. That figure which was shouldering a long rifle was strangely looking appropriate on the miniskirt Santa little girl, which caused the eyes of the visitors to blink. Shizuku released the camera shutter. Consecutively.

「Err, I wonder, what is your name young miss~?」

With a professional spirit, the onee-san asked her name.

「It's Myuu. I am six years old. A woman of the sea.」

「……S, so it's Myuu-chan! Yoosh, Myuu-chan, if we advance just a little bit more we should be able to escape, so let's do our best and drive away the scary shark, okay?」

Onee-san is a pro! No matter what kind of tricky customer she faced she wouldn't waver!

She wouldn't waver, but Myuu, who heard onee-san's words of「drive away」, sent a glance at the onee-san as a fearless smile floated on her lips……

「Drive it away nano? That's also not bad but……no one will mind even if I do the shark in right?」

「No, that will be troubling.」

Onee-san plainly replied!

But, in the next moment, the giant shark jumped out all of a sudden while raising water with it. Myuu instantly readied her rifle. She placed the stock part on her shoulder, her left hand supported the barrel, and her sight lined up with the rear sight. She really looked the part.

The eyes of the onee-san were starting to get far away. The children were going ‘waa’ raising voices of admiration. The adults were directing complicated gazes at Hajime and the others who were Myuu’s guardian.

On that boat which was gradually turning chaotic, the small Santa’s lovely speech resounded.

「I’ll blow off your head nano!」

The sound effect of dopan resounded and sparks scattered inside the mouth of the giant shark. The giant shark vanished into the water. Light was also vanishing from the onee-san’s eyes. The voice of the adults cheering the children was already disappearing.

Amidst all that, Myuu, who twirled the rifle with an experienced gesture as expected before resting it on her shoulder, a beat later made a resolute thumbs up with 「Myu!」. (TN: Here she is not saying her own name, it was more like a peculiar voice that Myuu sometimes makes.)

On the boat, where various things had vanished, relentless sounds of shutter clicks were resounding.

Part 2

「Oh, it’s starting nano!」

The sun had already completely sunk, however, the dazzling light of the theme park that was spreading, as though to exterminate the darkness of night, was illuminating Myuu who was in a good mood. On Hajime’s shoulder, Myuu was pointing at the lead group of the parade.

A night parade was starting in the theme park. Tonight was also Christmas, so the parade was showier and more extravagant than usual. The people who were gathering on the streets were also crowding around until the place was jam-packed.

Hajime’s group were watching the parade that earned a full score in its entertainment, but after a while, suddenly Hajime lowered Myuu down from his shoulder. And then, Hajime put the puzzled Myuu on Tio’s shoulder. If it was Tio, whose height was only a bit shorter than Hajime, then Myuu would still be able to watch the parade.

Hajime exchanged a look with Yue and the others. For the sake of this day, he had prepared this and that and made arrangements with the others beforehand. Due to that, Hajime intended to go away from this spot.

「Myuu. Papa will go away for a bit to do some errands. I’ll come back soon, so wait for a bit here.」

「……Yes nano.」

Hajime felt like something was pulling him back looking at Myuu who made a bit of a lonely expression, but he somehow shook it off. Today was the first grand Christmas event for Myuu. They didn’t make it in time for the previous Christmas because they had only made it back to earth and there was no time, so they only did something like a small party for the family. That was why, no matter what papa Hajime wanted to do that for the sake of his beloved daughter.

Hajime slipped into the crowd of people and vanished. Myuu stared at his figure as he left but was urged by Yue and the others until her gaze returned to the parade. A joyful smile immediately returned to her face, but as expected, when her beloved papa wasn’t with her she seemed unable to go all out enjoying the event.

But, that gloominess too was immediately cleared up.

shan shan shan shan Clear bell sounds could be heard. Everyone seemed to think that it was a sound from the parade, but that sound was getting larger which caused the people to go「Hmm?」while tilting their head. Yes, the sound of the bells that were growing increasingly audible was coming from up above.

As though they were guided by an unknown source the people began to look above, and over there was,

「Ah, that’s Santa-san-」

A boy somewhere pointed while raising his voice. Following where the boy pointed the people looked up, and they raised their voices with「Eh, lies, it’s flying!?」, or「Re, reindeer? The real thing!?」「Ama~zing!!」and so on.

Yes, at where the boy was pointing, there was the appearance of reindeer pulling a sleigh that Santa Claus was riding, gliding through the sky.

The normally impossible supernatural phenomenon was something that should make anyone scream, but this place was a country of dreamers. A fantasy world decorated with the unreal and extraordinary. Therefore, everyone was thinking that it was the theme park’s production, their shock was gradually turning into cheers. The staff, whom were doing the parade, were looking up open-mouthed, but the people who were looking up were to busy to notice that.

Before long, Santa Claus, who was riding through the starry sky of the holy night, was swiveling down as though going down through a spiraling staircase that was drawn midair. And then, the sleigh slowly approached the crowd.

The approaching sleigh made the crowd part naturally. The destination of that sleigh was a small Santa-san.

「Merry Christmas, my small compatriot young lady.」

The Santa Claus who got down from the sleigh had a face that was difficult to understand with his white beard and round glasses. He then kneeled in front of Myuu who was put down from Tio’s shoulder.

In response, Myuu blinked her eyes and responded.

「Papa, what are you doing nano?」

「……It’s not papa. It’s Santa.」

「Eh, but……」

「It’s Santa.」

「Pa――」

「It’s Saaan, taaa-」

「Ah, yes.」

Myuu nodded repeatedly at the Santa that felt a little desperate. She was an obedient and good child.

Santa nodded in satisfaction at Myuu while ignoring to the utmost Yue and the others whose shoulders were shaking. He then put the large white bag that was piled on the sleigh in front of Myuu.

「Now then, for you who have been a really good kid through this year, here is this present from Santa.」

「Present?」

To Myuu who tilted her head, Santa took out a box that was inlaid with sparkling stones that looked like lovely pink colored gems from his bag. That box was a feminine box that could be presented as a treasure box by itself.

The people who were surrounding them and watching over the development began thinking that this must be an event of the theme park were also going「Ooo」with warm expressions. A voice of a girl somewhere begging to her father「I want that」could be heard.

Amidst all that, Myuu who was receiving the lovely box asked pa――Santa if it was okay to open it with her gaze. Santa nodded.

When the lid was opened……

「Ah」

Myuu unintentionally raised her voice, but that expression which looked perplexed became colored with joy right away. That smile was like a flower bud that bloomed all at once, it was such a full and beautiful smile like a blooming flower.

The present that was inserted into that box was surely a girly present, something like a children’s accessory or a good of some cartoon character. Everyone was thinking along those lines.

But, what was taken out by Myuu was……

「It’s Donner and Schlag nanooo-!!!!」

A pair of handguns…….

People falling down were heard here and there, one after another. There was no doubt that they were people from Osaka (TN: Seems like the custom of falling on their butt from shock came from Osaka). Other people also made tsukkomis from their mouth. However, Myuu herself was swinging around the two handguns going「Finally, Myuu could have this nano!」while expressing great happiness.

The figure of a little girl Santa dancing boisterously from receiving as present during the holy night, a pair of handguns that she seemed to have been begging for previously, could be seen there.

「Young lady, those aren’t Donner-Schlag. They are “Donneer-Schlaag”.」

「Donneer-Schlaag?」

「Yes, Donneer-Schlaag.」

After Santa corrected Myuu like that, he further fished into his white present bag with rummaging sounds.

「Also this, “Pikko Piko Hammeeer”」

「Pikko Piko Hammeeer!!!」

「”This is Weapon Desu”.」

「This is Weapon De~su!」

「We also cannot forget this one, “Muuramasa” and――」 「Muuramasa!!」

「”Kotetsuu”.」

「Kotetsuuuuu!!」

Myuu’s tension was breaking through the heavens (TN: Reference to Gurren Lagann)! She hopped up and down and swung around the weapons she received heartily!

From there Myuu received even more presents. One was a gun belt and another was a present that was named as Yue-oneechan’s love. Myuu then said「Pa――Santa-san! Thank you nano! I, I, I love you nano!!」and leaped into Santa’s chest.

After that, at the other side of the crowd of the dumbfounded people, figures that seemed to be the security staff appeared. Santa, who confirmed the appearance of those staff, immediately boarded his sleigh, and then he snapped the reins and returned to the sky once more. In the middle this everyone was having a question of「Just how in the world it is flying?」while Santa then made his next move so that Myuu and others wouldn’t be bothered by the security.

「Merry Christmas.」

Saying such thing, a lot of parachutes were dropped from the sleigh. The absurd amount of parachutes that were raining down from the sky were all attached with Christmas presents. Obviously, there were presents consisting of toys or stuffed animals, and even some accessories or game systems. Every kind of present was raining down from the sky.

When the bewildered people heard an awfully clear voice that said「They are meager presents from the park. Please help yourself to it.」, they raised a joyful voice of「Waa!!」and rushed toward the parachutes. Because the people were pushing and jostling against each other, Yue nonchalantly supported them with magic so that no accident would happen.

By the way, the number of presents was obviously too many to be loaded on the sleigh, but everyone ignored that in their excitement. They were presents from Santa who was riding on a sleigh driven by lovely reindeer. The atmosphere of the place might’ve caused their mind to feel ‘who cares about the trivial things’.

Although, if they knew that those reindeer were actually mechanical Grim Reapers that were fully loaded with weaponry inside……surely they would panic without a doubt. In this world, there were some things that were better to not know.

The next day, it went without saying that the unprecedented theme park was grandly reported in the news. It also went without saying that the sophisticated production and the generous treat of presents raised the selling point of the park while the higher-ups were searching ‘just who was that Santa!’ with bloodshot eyes.

The really happy expression of the small princess of the Nagumo family also naturally made everyone in the family to writhe from her cuteness. However, her figure that was sleeping together with handguns and a war hammer, whip, and kodachi, while rubbing her cheek on them was……

He was the one who gave her those presents, but now papa Hajime was having a complicated worry of「Is this really fine, for my daughter?」.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Even though today is Christmas, Shirakome that is a villager of loneliness village suddenly got an idea and wrote this.

If you like, please read it together with a Christmas cake by yourself.

Shirakome had chocolate cake.

Tomorrow too, I’ll update as usual you know~

Arifureta Chapter 188

Arifureta After – As the Daughter of Demon King Part 2

AN: I posted a Christmas commemoration chapter a page back.

If you came directly to this chapter, then if you'd like please take a look at the chapter before this too.

Part 1

A group carrying assault rifles and wearing masks were rushing through an underground corridor in a dark building. The place they were heading toward was the place where the children who were taken as hostage were imprisoned. Their comrades who were going there went out of contact one after another, so understanding that something strange had happened to them, this group rushed to that place in a panic.

In total there were nearly twenty people in this armed group. One of them, who was running at the very back, heard a sound like something jumping in a room the group was passing by so he came to a stop reflexively. His other comrades were gradually rushing ahead, but the comrades nearby him also stopped running and looked at him questioningly.

He made a gesture that conveyed to his comrades how he had heard a sound come from inside the room, and just in case, he proposed to investigate inside. The men who came to a stop were six in total, they nodded to each other and left behind two people in the corridor as they passed through the opened steel door and stepped inside the room.

Immediately after, kii the door was making a sound while it automatically, no, a small hand that wasn’t noticed by anyone was quietly reaching down from the ceiling and closing the door.

One of the men who was left in the corridor spontaneously charged at the door while the other man tried to let out a warning voice, but just before that, gunshots echoed inside the room.

□Gah!?□□Guah□Pained voices could be heard as bullets that flew from the ceiling granted a severe impact to the two men who exposed the back of their head defenselessly. Their consciouses were instantly blown away. The remaining two men turned around and sprayed bullets at the door from where they entered, but there was no scream from the enemy that resounded inside the room.

In exchange,

click

A sinister sound resounded from behind them. The two men moved only their eyes to look at each other. Then matching their breathing they turned around all at once. There――

□Slow nano.□

Dangling upside down from the ceiling, with a pair of handguns――”Donneer-Schlaag” aimed at the forehead of the two men, was a figure of a little girl. The two men were about to spit out some swear words, but before they could do that, the girl――Myuu―― pulled the trigger. The heads of the two snapped backward grandly.

gon Their heads crashed on the door and interrupted the intrusion of the two remaining men that tried to enter inside for an instant. That instant was a fatal opening against the beloved daughter who had received the teaching of a monster gunner.

The moment the door opened with a force that knocked back the bodies of their comrades, the dry sound of pan pan resounded, and at the same time, the two men crumbled down.

……The figure that was dangling from the ceiling, who had lured the enemy into the room before shooting them down, while still in an upside down posture――was truly like the hit man Le○n! (TN: A character from a French movie, ‘Leon’.)

「Now, everyone, before those guys come back, we are going out nano.」

When Myuu called out to the corner of the room, right after that, the corner of the room where there should be nothing suddenly distorted and the figures of the children appeared. Every single one of them was holding a large cross in their palm. Those crosses were the artifact “Don’t Touch, You Pervert”, but as a supplementary function, they also had the concealment ability that made use of light reflection.

「He, hey, Myuu. Just now, how did you stand up on the ceiling?」

While moving, Natalia became unable to endure and asked that. To that Myuu answered with one word「Guts」. Natalia’s shoulders dropped while saying「At least I want you to say that it’s magic……」. Of course, the cause that Myuu could be like Leo○ wasn’t because of guts, but because of the “gravity stone” and “Air Force” inserted into her boots.

But, at that time, the sound of an explosion came from quite a distance away.

「Myuu-chan, just now……I think that came from around the place where we were at earlier.」

「Myu. Perhaps they got caught up in the trap that Myuu set up there and went pyuu nano. Their weapons are excellent, but those criminal-san's movements are relatively rough.」

「Is, is that so……」

Emile's cheeks cramped from knowing that it appeared that Myuu had even done something like that by taking into account the movement of the enemy while they hadn't notice. Or rather, to listen to a ten-year-old girl finding fault in an armed group……it caused him to become bothered about Myuu's true identity all the more.

Myuu beautifully used gun kata with twin gun art, war hammer art, whip art, and two sword art to thoroughly take care of the enemies she encountered while moving. The children were sending sparkling eyes at Myuu as though they were looking at a hero while following behind her. Finally, they discovered a door that had the word "EXIT" written on it.

It was a door that connected to the outside.

While the expression of Natalia and the others burst bright in joy, Myuu's expression turned complicated instead. But, at the same time, she could hear the sound of a lot of footsteps from deep within the path they had just passed through, so while sighing deeply, she opened the door while telling Natalia and the others to hold onto the cross firmly.

There,

「So, you are the devil that slipped in among the children, huh.」

A masked group of nearly thirty people that was fully armed was lying in wait while aiming their rifle muzzles at the door.

Natalia and the others screamed「Hii」when witnessing that.

Myuu didn’t answer the question of the man who seemed to be the leader of the armed group, instead, she ran her gaze around the surroundings. The place they came out to appeared to be a huge warehouse. If it was normal, there should be a lot of material put in each container that was placed in here.

The nose of Myuu who was a sea dweller race sensed the smell of salt, from there she understood that this place was adjacent with a harbor (she understood that from the beginning already though). Yes, this place was a warehouse district to deposit the luggage of cargo ships.

Right now they were in a warehouse that was jointly established with the management building at the corner of that district. However, inside that warehouse was quite a good amount of strict security. Not to mention the dozens of armed people, there were also a lot of heavy weapons and a lot of computers for the command room lined up. In addition to that, there were also things like an armored vehicle that was in the middle of being camouflaged and a vehicle that looked like an ice cream truck on the outside but it had a gatling gun and so on attached on the inside.

「Uu~n, from the weaponry and the hostage-taking, I have imagined that by some chance it might be like this but…… as expected, you all are not mere kidnappers, but a terrorist group nano.」

「Just what the hell are you? A bodyguard prepared by the government?」

The terrorist leader was recalling a kid soldier of his own country in the back of his mind while speaking out his conjecture. Be that as it may, it was hard to believe the fact that a single girl like this was able to beat up his organization’s soldiers, and he was also concerned from where this girl got her weapon.

By all rights, this girl was an irregular existence, someone like Myuu whose identity they couldn’t confirm should be quickly killed, but her abnormality made this leader question her.

「Myuu’s smartphone, where is it nano?」

「……Answer my question.」

Even though it should be a checkmate with nearly thirty guns aimed at them, Myuu’s composed attitude didn’t break and she instead questioned back. This caused the leader’s voice to go lower.

「I want you to answer first nano. If you do that, then I’ll answer.」

「Do you think you are in the position where you can negotiate?」

Myuu’s way of speaking was retorted by the leader with the rise of one of his hands. Immediately, a gunshot resounded. One of his underlings had aimed at Natalia and fired. But, naturally, because Natalia’s hand was clutching “Don’t Touch, You Pervert”, the bullet was blocked by an invisible wall and stopped midair.

The terrorists became agitated and went noisy. Amidst all that, the leader was also looking in wonderment, but he then opened his mouth without losing his calm.

「……What is that? So America has even developed something like that.」

「Rather than that, where is the smartphone nano?」

The leader guessed that the cause of Myuu's composure was because of that invinsible shield, however, in the back his mind a solution appeared immediately, that they could just directly take away the shield if a gun didn't work. If they could steal that shield, it would be advantageous for their terrorist activities from here on. Thinking that he snickered in his heart.

Perhaps the leader felt whimsical from the composure that he had just obtained because he answered Myuu's question by moving his gaze. The place where his gaze pointed was a corner of the simple command room where there were a lot of computers gathered. Most likely the smartphones of the other children were also there.

「So, who are you?」

This time the leader questioned her. Because he had taught Myuu the smartphone's location, he felt that this time it was Myuu's turn to answer. In response to that, Myuu was making an exasperated expression.

「There is no way I will answer nano. You must have something wrong in your head if you are accepting what your enemy said seriously like that nano.」

The leader was wearing a mask, but surely right now a vein was throbbing visibly on his forehead. Really, he wanted to see the face of the parent that was raising this girl.

「Are you thinking that because you have that shield that all of you are absolutely safe? Something like that can just be wrestled off directly and taken away, and that's it. I thought that you were someone that had received special training, but you cannot even make a proper situation assessment.

Did I overestimate you? Or else, are you thinking that you can do something against this number of people with those tiny guns or those primitive weapons?」

「……」

The hand of the leader rose quietly. A man at his side guessed what the leader wanted and whispered something into a wireless earpiece, and then another group of armed men with more than ten people appeared from the door behind them. In addition to that, a group of thirty men flooded in from outside the warehouse and surrounded Myuu and the children.

「Don’t take up our time too much. We are going to be busy with our operation after this. There are still more than fifty men outside. There is no place for you all to escape. Go back to your prison obediently. Perhaps you kids will be able to return home alive depending on your parents’ attitude, you know?」

The leader slapped the children with despair. He showed them the overwhelming difference in battle strength and also dangled a slight hope in front of their eyes. Natalia clutched tightly to the sleeve of Myuu’s clothes. The other children were also snuggling Myuu with scared expressions.

Myuu looked over her shoulder to them while showing a smile that had not even a speck of despair. It was a fearless smile that would make anyone gulp. Her canine was exposed, her eyes were glaring with fierce atrocity, and her back was straight and imposing.

Myuu turned to the leader again, then stored “Donneer-Schlaag” in their holsters.

「That’s right, that’s how you――」

「Difference of strength? That’s too much even for a misunderstanding.」

The leader took a step forward thinking that Myuu had resigned herself, but his step reflexively stopped from Myuu’s words that interrupted his own words. At the same time, he saw the figure of Myuu quietly rising her hand straight up.

And then, the crimson jewel that was fixed on the ring finger of that left hand was beginning to shine for some reason. Noticing that, the leader gazed in astonishment.

Myuu fearlessly grinned while resounding her words boldly.

「Since when were you under the delusion that Myuu is alone?」

「Wh, at?」

Right after that, a crimson light burst out. The terrorists who pulled their triggers spontaneously witnessed it. The bullets they fired were blocked, not by an invisible shield, but by a physical obstruction.

Six metallic arms. Multiple legs like a spider. On the back, and on the front, were multiple weapons that looked brutal even from just a glance. Stylish heads, and eyes that suddenly flashed! Strange looking warriors with a metallic composition——there were seven of them.

Walling in Myuu and the children, those bodies that boasted the greatest hardness blocked all the bullets, yes, they were……

——Grave Sin Squadron Demon Rangeeeerrr!!!!

DOPAAN! Out of nowhere smoke screens of seven colors exploded, and the seven living golems took cool poses as they pleased.

Dumbfounded amazement.

Without distinction of enemy or ally, all the humans stiffened.

‘Because, this is impossible mon!’ It felt like such a tsukkomi of someone that had retrogressed into an infant could be heard from somewhere.

「If you want to stop Myuu, then at least prepare apostles of god in double digit numbers before speaking, nano.」

「Wwha-, wha-」

Myuu smiled fearlessly at the agitated leader while giving her order.

「Everyoneee~, kill them nano!」

“Aye aye, Ma’am–!!” As though saying something like that, the demon rangers saluted smartly with adoration, then in the next moment, gashun their weapons deployed with mechanical sounds.

The curbstomp began on the terrorist who was threatening their princess.

The two gatling guns that were attached to one body turned everything inside the warehouse into mere trash while the small missile pods attached on the shoulders rained down missiles like a meteor shower and turned the area into a sea of crimson all the way until it reached the outside of the warehouse.

Rushing around freely with high-speed movements as though they were gliding using the rollerblades attached on their multiple legs, the portable Acht Acht as their back weapon and the super electromagnetic cannon fired. The opponents who carried explosives launched suicide attacks with the resolve to explode themselves were instantly cut into pieces using the laser blade attached on their two arms and many legs. The person who tried to use the heavy weapon loaded on the camouflaged truck was pulverized and sent flying together with the truck body by the giant stake “Pile Bunker” fired by a Demon Ranger who showed a jump that didn’t suit its large body.

「Impossible, America has created even this kind of weapon-」

(I think, that’s absolutely not it……)

When the terrorist leader yelled that loudly while desperately commanding his comrades to fight back, Emile-kun whose father was actually a US army lieutenant general showed a dry smile while making such a retort inside his heart.

「It’s that brat-, kill that brat! They should stop if she is dead!」

“Lucifeeer” and “Mamon” and “Leviatan” were already rampaging outside the warehouse, screams and explosions echoed from outside. The leader who survived obstinately amidst all that glared at Myuu like a demon while shouldering a rocket launcher.

In response to that, Myuu took one of the jewels that were fitted on the gun belt on her waist. It was a jewel that shined yellow like a topaz. But, inside that bullet sized jewel, some kind of geometrical pattern――a magic circle was carved in.

Myuu held that jewel using her index and middle fingers, and thrust it toward the terrorist leader, as though to oppose the rocket launcher.

She then spun toward the leader while using the power of words to cause a supernatural phenomenon.

「Order(Myuu commands)! Syvil Aul Tonitors(Get shocked by the golden lizard)!!」

In the next moment, the topaz emitted a golden radiance, and then in a flash that light emitted an enormous spark while taking the shape of a huge dragon.

「Ah? Ha? Eh?」

While coiling above the head of the princess who had summoned itself, the dragon that was clad in golden lightning——the “Thunder Dragon”—— glared fiercely at the leader who was leaking out idiotic sounds. Right after that, the dragon raised an intense lightning roar.

「NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO-」

The leader raised a scream like a girl and tried to escape, but there was no way someone could escape the thunder dragon using human legs. The surrounding underlings were also dragged into the roar and the dragon’s mouth snapped them up.

——Myuu’s exclusive use jewel type magic invocation artifact “Yue-oneechan’s Love”

This artifact would react to Myuu’s soul and power of words. Where she would then be able to use the magic that Yue sealed into the specific jewel (one time use). The colorful jewels fitted into the gun belt in place of bullets were each charged by Yue’s handmade magic, and only Myuu could invoke them.

It was just like the magecraft that was used by a certain careless family some…… something like that surely couldn’t be said. Before, when Myuu was watching a certain anime, she was saying「Jewel magecraft is really cool nano. But, Yue-oneechan’s magic is more amazing nano」. Even though this artifact was the result of Yue’s affection that gushed out when she heard what Myuu said, if it was said that there was no connection with that then there was no connection!

「Myu-myu-myu-myu, Myuu! Just now! Just noww! Ma, magic, magiicc!」

Natalia was getting all flustered while asking for confirmation that ‘as expected, Myuu is a magician!’ with inarticulate words.

「Uh huh, that’s “Yue-oneechan’s Love” nano.」

「Eh? No, that was magic, wasn’t it?」

「Uh huh, that’s “Yue-oneechan’s Love” nano.」

「Eh? Huh? Love? No, but magic……」

「As expected, that’s “Yue-oneechan’s Love” nano.」

「……」

Natalia’s mind was in chaos! It seemed, that after guts, next Myuu was causing a supernatural phenomenon with love! ‘Geez, isn’t it fine already even if you confess that it’s magic!’ Natalia shouted in her heart.

A hand was put gently on the shoulder of Natalia. When Natalia looked back, there was the youth Emile beside her who spoke「Isn’t it fine, love」with an enlightened expression. The capacity of the youth Emile seemed to have met its permitted limit since long ago. It felt like he could accept whatever was spoken or did as it was if it was by Myuu. For the time being, Natalia shut up Emile with her fist.

The screams of the terrorists stopped less than five minutes after that.

Myuu left the liberation of the children who were imprisoned at another room to the Demon Rangers and she headed to the command room. There, she discovered her normal smartphone and sighed in relieve.

「Hey, Myuu-chan. This is……」

「Nmyu?」

The youth Emile was taking back his own smartphone while looking at the PC’s display which he pointed at Myuu. The PC was mostly broken, so what was projected in that display was only an image that stayed frozen but, what was reflected there, was the scene of a destroyed airport somewhere and a smoking stadium.

It appeared the terrorists not only did the kidnapping this time, but they also performed terrorist activities at other places somewhere.

Myuu nodded with「Fumu」and walked away tote tote briskly, and then she stood still beside the leader who was charred black while smoking up, though it seemed that the man was still barely breathing.

While Natalia and the others were watching over Myuu wondering what she was going to do, toward the leader who was lying upside down unmoving, Myuu……kicked his crotch.

「Ohooo!?」

「Quickly wake up nano.」

Leader-san opened his eyes while raising a queer shriek. He was writhing and rolling on the ground while pressing on his crotch. Myuu called “Satan” to pinion the arms of the leader to stop him from moving around. That figure who was limply restrained with his arms spread wide, looked as though he was being crucified.

「Yo, you, bast――」

「Don’t talk as you please, nano.」

Saying that, Myuu once more launched a splendid yakuza kick at the crotch of leader-san.「Hahiiiiii」leader-san raised a queer shriek once more from that. With the young Emile as the first, the other boys were also turning pale with their hands pressing on their own crotch while standing pigeon-toed.

「The thing that is happening right now. Your plan, your objective this time, spit out everything nano.」

「Who, who will――」

Myuu suddenly took some distance with brisk steps, then she took out the black whip “This is Weapon Desu” into her hand. And then, hyun hyun she made the whip move in a spiral around her that caused the sound of cutting air.

「I want you to talk nano.」

「Su, such, th, threat won――aa――!!?」

As expected, the crotch of leader-san who was refusing Myuu's demand while turning pale was whipped hard by the tip of the whip that was swung fiercely along with hyun the sound of cutting air. Leader-san who was shrieking, and the paling boys, and the girls who were staring fixedly jii at the event's development from between the gaps of their fingers that were covering their face.

「Now now, quickly speak nano! If you won't, then your son's life will be gone nano!」

「Thi, this, DEMON girl-――Aa――!!!」

「Riight, leeft, riight, leeft, nanoo!」

「Stoopp-, don't lay your hand on my son anymoreee-」

「Until, you talk-, the whip-, won't stop nanoo-」

「NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO-」

「Ora ora ora ora ora ora ora ora ora ora-, nano-」

pan- pan- bishiiii, bashi bashi supaaaaa-, the whip became a black storm, however, with a superb strength management, "This is Weapon Desu" was torturing leader-san's son. To left and then to the right, the son was tormented with hellish torture as though it was receiving Dempsey Roll!

The figure of a male terrorist shrieking from getting his crotch whipped hard by a ten-year-old beautiful girl was right there.

Before long, everything of the large-scale terror plan this time was spoken by the leader who was weeping his eyes out hics hics while pressing on his crotch with his body rounding up like a turtle. Myuu, who listened to him, then stored away “This is Weapon Desu” and walked toward the leader.

「I, I beg you. I’ve, talk already……that’s why, please――」

Leader-san was earnestly entreating. The brutal haki that he displayed at first couldn’t be felt in the slightest anymore. Toward such a frail leader-san, Myuu smiled sweetly like a fairy. Leader-san, and also Emile and the others, were forming a smile that was colored with relief thinking that Myuu’s forgiveness would be given……

「You can become a manly woman nano.」

「Wai-, do-, AAa――――――!!」

A single gunshot roared. On this day, leader-san’s son was called to heaven.

Blowing ‘fuh’ at the smoking gun muzzle, Myuu then turned on her heels while leaving a backward glance at the leader who didn’t even twitch anymore. It caused the boys to curl themselves thinking「That’s just too merciless」 while Natalia and the other girls were sending Myuu heated gazes with red cheeks thinking「Myuu, how lovely……」.

Myuu who returned back to those children then took out her smartphone.

「Myuu, what are we going to do?」

「Tha, that’s right. Terrorism is happening here and there, isn’t it? Quickly, we have to inform this.」

Natalia and Emile talked to Myuu, telling her that they had to inform their fathers what was happening right now to the government.

「Nn. That's also good, but I think that surely they won't be able to do anything about the places that have been blown up already, or the plane that is being hijacked right now, or all those besieged soldier-sans that are stationed at that foreign country nano. If it's normal.」

Indeed, it was just as Myuu said, the current situation was grave. There were already several airports and stadiums that were blown up, there were also several planes that were being hijacked. Near the coast, there was a ship loaded with missiles anchored where it would soon fire toward the city while the army that was being stationed at the country of the terrorists were currently even now being besieged and annihilated in an isolated situation.

In addition, the terrorists had another base other than this base. There were a lot of hostages that were being imprisoned there too, and it appeared that even an attack targeting the president was being carried out right now. It seemed that the president was attacked when he was in the middle of returning to the White House from his outdoor official business in order to deal with these terrorism cases.

Like this, it would surely be impossible to resolve everything without any problems. It was easily imaginable that from here on too, within a few hours, there would be a tremendous amount of damage that occurred.

Yes, it was just like Myuu said, that was if it was normally.

Natalia and the other children were showing anxious expressions, however, Myuu was ahem-ing proudly while puffing out her chest before making a declaration with a voice that was filled with absolute confidence and trust.

“I’ll call papa after this nano. That’s why everything is fine already nano!”

Part 2

jiriririririri, A ringtone of a black rotary-dial telephone ringing was reverberating in the living room of the Nagumo household.

「Hm? Is that from Myuu? I guess right now is about time that the party is over huh.」

The receiving phone was Hajime's smartphone. Hajime was smiling warmly by recalling his beloved daughter going out in high spirits all dressed up while taking his smartphone into his hand.

「Ou, Myuu. Is it the time to pick you――」

「Papaa! Right now, it seems that the world is in a pinch, so I want help nano!」

「……Yes?」

The first sentence of his daughter's that came out from the smartphone caused Hajime to spontaneously leak out an idiotic sounding voice. Yue, Shia, Tio, Remia, Kaori, Shizuku, Aiko, Liliana, Shuu, and then Sumire who were relaxing in the living room went「Oh?」and directed their attention to the conversation. Hajime turned the voice to speaker mode and then he asked just what she meant.

「Uu~n, see, when Myuu arrived at the party I was then kidnapped by terrorists. At the place where Myuu was kidnapped, Myuu acted rashly. As the result of Myuu having a talk with terrorist-san's son, it turned out that the world is in a pinch. Right now that's how it is nano.

I see, I can understand……not-! Just what were you doing that it became something like that……

Because Myuu is papa's daughter nano.

□□□□□□□□□□I see, I get it.□□□□□□□□□□

Yue and others nodded deeply at Myuu's words. While staring at them all with reproachful eyes, Hajime changed his expression quietly.

So? What do you want papa to do? I don't really get it, but Myuu had annihilated the kidnappers. right? Of course, I'll cover it up, but where do you want papa, papa and everyone else to go and what do you want us to do?

Ehehe~, as expected from Myuu's papa nano. Myuu loves papa nano.

Myuu hadn't given any satisfactory explanation, but Hajime comprehended only the important points and left behind the trivial circumstances while asking for Myuu's wish. Hearing that Myuu replied in a joyful voice. Since Myuu was an infant she had been straight with her expressions of love like this, but recently, perhaps it was just Hajime's feeling, it felt like there was a charm that was excessively filled into her voice.

When Hajime took a glance at "all the onee-san", for some reason, all of them gave him a thumbs up at once. Hajime could only smile faintly.

After that, Hajime used the compass and determined the locations of terrorism that were currently happening. He left the house sitting to Sumire and the others before using the crystal key to teleport to the locations all over the world.

Although it was unintentional, the terrorists had kidnapped Myuu and intended to publicly execute her important friend. The wish of his beloved daughter was to help with that……

For Hajime, the ideal or the sense of value or the objective of the terrorist organization was already something of no concern to him.

The one who indiscriminately scattered tragedy was them the terrorists. For the daughter of a monster to be included amongst those tragedies, it caused them to be exposed to irrationality because it was nothing more than reaping what they sowed.

And that would be proved to them within a few hours after this.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

This became the last update by the end of the year.

Throughout this year, there were various things, like the publication or the completion of the main story.

The real life is always like real lifee, and the work is always seriously like workk, but thanks to Narou, and thanks of being able to have fun with all of your readers too, there is no doubt that it has been a fun year.

Narou-san, thank you very much!

Thank you very much to everyone who comes here to read too!

Have a good new year!

And then, please take care of me next year too!

I think next week I can update for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 189

Arifureta After – New Year Commemoration Happy New Year

AN: Happy New Year.

I somehow wrote this chapter in the middle of the leisurely atmosphere of New Year's morning while being buried inside a kotatsu.

Recently, Yue's component was few so……

If you like, please read it leisurely.

---

hou hou White puffs of breath dissolved into air. The cold air of mid-winter pierced the skin keenly, dyeing the nose tip and ears of the people, who come and go, red. The fallen snow making the sounds shak shak when being stepped on and the icicles hanging down from the eaves of the buildings caused the people to feel the cold atmosphere of the few hours before the end of the year.

Although, if it was asked whether that coldness was also freezing the heart of the people who were coming and going through this place, then the answer would be no.

This place was a famous hot spring district. It was a tourist attraction that was colored with orange lighting and the white vapor of natural hot springs. Therefore, the people who were coming and going through the streets that were lined with street stalls and souvenir shops were mostly families or lovers who wished to welcome the end of the year in relaxation at this hot spring district.

No matter how low the temperature became, these people who were snuggling close to each other wouldn’t feel any coldness in their heart. When they came back to their inn, they could even warm their body in the hot spring.

Among those tourists, there were the figures of a pair, a male and a female.

「Yue, you don’t feel cold? If it’s necessary I’ll take out an artifact, you know?」

「……Nn. I’m fine. Winter is a time of cold. It’s fine too to feel this cold air.」

「I see. Yeah, I guess so.」

A pair of lovers closely snuggling with each other――it was Hajime and Yue.

Hajime was wearing a moss coat with fluffy fur attached to the collar while Yue was wearing a cute duffle coat that was cream colored. Hajime and Yue were putting their hands inside their pockets and walking through the main street of the hot spring district at their leisure. By the way, the pocket that one of Yue’s hands was entering was Hajime’s pocket, naturally, their fingers were entangled closely inside that pocket.

「……Is this fine with Shia and the others?」

「It’s fine to be only the two of us like this occasionally. Or else, is it better if it’s with everyone?」

Hajime shrugged his shoulders and answered like that toward Yue who was looking upward at him with her head tilted slightly. He strongly gripped the hand of Yue inside his pocket. He saw from the side that Yue’s cheek, which was facing down, was faintly colored scarlet.

There was no need for an answer. That gesture of Yue’s displayed her answer more eloquently than words. There was no way Hajime wouldn’t be able to comprehend Yue’s wordless answer, so their hands inside the pocket were tightly closing on each other’s.

By the way, all members of the Nagumo family came to this hot spring district. Unfortunately, Shizuku had a gathering with her family with all the disciples of the Yaegashi dojo that was a custom every year. Kaori’s father was crying 「Don’t go, my angel!」while clinging to Kaori, so she could only see off Hajime and the others tearfully without being able to participate this time.

In the afternoon the Nagumo family finished their sightseeing and entered the inn, then Sumire commanded ‘charge the hot spriiing!’ every one of the Nagumo family. Hajime used that chance to activate presence isolation at full power and secretly abducted Yue, and like this, the two of them were enjoying their only time alone after so long.

Currently, Shia and the others who had noticed the fade out of Hajime and Yue were thinking「Well, perhaps it’s fine occasionally~」while they were turning boneless from the magic of hot springs. Of course, they intended to ask for compensation from Hajime later on.

「Oh, hot spring egg. You want to eat that?」

「……Nn? Soft boiled egg?」

「No, it’s a bit different from soft boiled eggs. Its white egg part is also soft boiled. Well, it doesn’t really sound like a big deal, but it’s a standard good of a hot spring district.」

「I’ll eat♪」

Yue instantly answered. Yue was sensitive and also weak to things that were “standard” on earth. Her feelings of wanting to know about Hajime’s world even, just for a bit more, was making her to naturally lean toward that direction.

「……Hot spring egg, two of them. Please.」

The male worker of the stall petrified from seeing the soft smile of Yue who was humming cheerfully at the purchase of the hot spring eggs. There was no need to even mention the reason why he petrified. Currently, the two of them were more or less using magic to obstruct the recognition of other people, so the usual mass production of petrified people and people picking a fight that normally happened when they were walking didn’t happen anymore. But, as expected, when they were the one who was starting the conversation like this, that magic effect would get fainter, in addition to seeing that smile of Yue from really close range.

While smiling wryly, Hajime lightly emitted “Pressure” that he had fine-tuned. The male worker returned to his senses with a ‘hah’, and then with a bright red face, which looked like a boiled shrimp, he handed over two small cups and two hot spring eggs in a hurry. It seemed they could choose whether to crack the egg themselves or made the worker crack the egg for them, but Yue chose the option of doing it herself.

They moved near the trash box where they could throw away the eggshell, and there Yue tried to crack the hot spring egg on the cup that Hajime was holding with her fingertips trembling. Her expression was absurdly serious. Her spirit conveyed that she wouldn’t let even a single fragment of the shell fall off. The expression of Hajime, which was watching Yue, was actually looking warm.

「……Nn-. ……Jiggle jiggle.」

Yue stared fixedly at the hot spring egg that jiggled when it fell in the cup with a splat. Then Yue guided Hajime’s hand and made him present in front of her eyes the cup that he was holding on his other hand. It appeared that Yue would also crack the egg that was Hajime’s share for him.

Yue was staring at the hot spring egg challengingly with a seriousness that was even greater than previously. Hajime’s expression was increasingly slackening watching that.

「Nn-. The egg is splendidly cracked.」

「Thank you for the delicious material.」(TN: I don’t know what joke material Hajime is referring to here.)

Both of them cracked jokes at each other and then chuckled, then they ate the hot spring eggs with small spoons.

「……It’s syrupy. Also it’s really, thick.」

「Isn’t it. Looks like they are using an egg that is relatively good compared to its prices. If salt is sprinkled on this, then perhaps the taste will be locked and become tastier.」

Hajime immediately took out salt made from another world from “Treasure Warehouse” and sprinkled it on the egg. As the result, the expression of Hajime and Yue clearly turned into broad smiles.

The two of them looked satisfied after finishing eating, but when Hajime saw Yue, he slipped out a chuckle. Yue tilted her head slightly.

「At the corner of your mouth, there is egg yolk left.」

「……Embarrassing.」

Yue tried to wipe off the egg yolk with reddened cheeks, but Hajime's fingertip stretched faster than her. His index fingertip softly crept on Yue's lips. 「Nnu」For some reason Yue leaked out a captivating voice and before Hajime's finger could deal with the leftover egg yolk, that fingertip got nibbled with a snap.

The soft and warm sensation of a licking tongue on his fingertip caused Hajime to look troubled. Graphic sounds chupa chupa even began to be audible, so Hajime forcefully pulled out his finger.

「Muu, even though it was delicious……」

「Bear in mind about the TPO(time, place, occasion). We are smack dab in the middle of the hot spring district, on New Year's Eve. I don't want my lover to become an erotic terrorist in that kind of place. There are already victims over there, you know?」

When Hajime turned his gaze, there the worker-san of the hot spring egg stall before this, and the couples who were similarly enjoying hot spring eggs like Hajime and Yue nearby, were all simultaneously averting their eyes. While the male camp was strangely crouching a bit forward.

「……I’m sorry. Looks like I got too high spirited in this date with just the two of us after so long.」

「Those were really joyful words. Anyway, let’s move on. Let’s look around leisurely while eating. It’s New Year’s Eve after all, so there are a lot of stalls. Also, it looks like there will be fireworks matching with the countdown at the riverside ahead, surely we will be able to have fun there.」

「Nn-. ……Ah, but, the end of the year is――」

「Together with everyone, right? I got it. I will take Yue around only until before the countdown. As expected, if we neglected them alone until the change of the year, then Shia and the others would snap.」

Hajime shrugged, but he had already resolved himself to give compensation to Shia and the others. This was also the so-called duty of a real harem man. ……Though if other people were asked of their opinion about this kind of resolve that would make anyone speechless, then it felt like they would say things like「Get stabbed a hundred times over」or 「How about you try dying for once?」.

The two of them began to walk around the hot spring district leisurely once more.

For a bit they fed each other ‘aa~n’ with the foods of the stalls, relaxing in a footbath while snuggling closely to each other, taking commemoration pictures at places they got attracted to……Each time they were mass producing merlion that was spitting out sugar even while not particularly doing anything special, they were really passing their time leisurely.

And then, when it was about one hour before the changing of the year, both of them finally arrived at a bridge where they could have a good view of the fireworks. It was an arching wooden bridge with a romantic appearance. Its handrail was colored scarlet and it was maintained really well.

Yue was settled in Hajime’s bosom snugly with her back leaning on Hajime’s chest. Hajime’s hands were reversely put into Yue’s pockets this time, and then like it was only natural, their fingers entwined with each other inside.

「This is our first New Year’s Eve since coming to this world huh, Yue. So what do you think, not even a year has passed but this is more or less a turning point. Do you think you can get used to it in this world?」

「……? Getting used to or whatever, any place where Hajime is is the place where I belong. That is the best place for me. I have no feeling other than happiness here.」

「Aa~, that’s not what I mean.」

Hajime’s expression turned itchy from Yue’s words, then he placed his chin on Yue’s head and rubbed his chin there. While listening to Yue chuckling from feeling ticklish he asked again his question with the intention of asking whether she was simply forcing herself or not from the changed environment or if she felt any inconvenience.

「……Nn~. Not particularly. Regarding the returnees, the society is still in an uproar. It feels inconvenient in that kind of meaning, but everyone is also feeling it similarly. The prospect of resolving it can be seen, so it doesn’t feel like a problem. Rather than that, there are a lot of things here that don’t exist in the world over there, so there are a lot of times where I have fun.」

「I see. I’m glad hearing that. After all, I don’t want Yue to feel stressed or anything. It is the world that is bad if it causes you any stress. If you feel any inconvenience then I’ll reform it no matter what method I have to use, so just tell me anything without holding back, okay?」

「……Fufu. I won’t hold back at all toward Hajime. The time you are changing the world, let’s do it together?」

Maou and vampire princess was making terrifying talk nonchalantly. At this moment, surely world-san was feeling a chill and twitched without a doubt.

Time was flowing away gently for a while without any words. The stream of the small river, the snow that beautifully colored the blackness of the night sky, and the clear air were felt by the two of them. There were also other people in the surrounding, but it was like only the area around the two of them was a separate world that was cut off from everything else. Solemn and silent, sweet and warm, it was such a world.

But, at that time, from afar「Yue-san yaa~I, Hajime-san yaa~i」「Papa-san yaa~I, onee-chan-san yaa~i」, familiar voices that sounded a bit theatrical could be heard. Hajime shrugged「Looks like time’s up」toward Yue who was looking up at him from his chest.

While the two were like that, pata pata sounds of footsteps resounded. Shia, who was giving a ride to Myuu on her shoulders, was rushing toward the two of them while she was waving her hands around together with Myuu. From behind those two, Hajime and Yue could see Shuu, Sumire, Tio, and Remia walking toward here.

「I found you nano, phantom thief papa. Obediently get handcuffed nano!」

The moment Shia arrived at Hajime’s side, above Shia, Myuu pointed sharply while saying such a thing. That dramatic gesture of his beloved daughter caused Hajime to chuckle while tilting his head.

「Phantom thief papa? Just what are you accusing me of stealing?」

This time it was Shia who answered. Her finger pointed sharply just like Myuu.

「Phantom thief maou. You have stolen something really enormous. Yes, that is my Yue-san desu!」

「Yue, you, since when did you belong to Shia?」

「Since around a hundred million and two thousand years ago?」

「Thank you for the lovely material.」

As expected the whole Nagumo family was smeared with material. Shia and Myuu were bulging their cheeks while pleading that this time they wanted to be the one kidnapped.

「Oi oi, calling me kidnapper and so on, that sounds bad in people’s ear, you know. You don’t think that Yue was slipping out voluntarily with me?」

Hajime seriously in all seriousness used his presence isolation in full throttle and full power, he instantly carried Yue and escaped. Shia and the others should be unable to reject the possibility that Hajime and Yue were slipping away as accomplices. Hajime was thinking like that and asked with a mischievous expression, but Shia was looking blankly at Hajime.

「He? Because Hajime-san, didn’t you erase your presence, then carry Yue-san under your arm and jump out the window?」

「You, don’t you notice the contradiction in your own words? Even though you understand that I vanished, just how were you able to grasp the detail until that much?」

「About that, like this, it just suddenly came into my rabbit ears. The rest was by me confirming it myself with a sidelong glance, I think. Even though Hajime-san was fast but it wasn’t as fast as a railgun anyway, so it’s possible to confirm your escape using eyesight.」

「……Is that so. You are a bug character……」

Hajime was plainly feeling down from his super high-speed secret action that he performed with his all getting detected normally like that. And then, he recalled how at their recent training so that their skills wouldn’t dull, Shia was casually evading electromagnetically accelerated bullets with normal eyesight. Hajime once more sent Shia an exasperated gaze due to that bug character behavior.

Without change Hajime didn’t let go of Yue from his bosom, Myuu was clambering up on Hajime’s back and secured her designated place on Hajime’s shoulder, then Tio and the others who caught up snuggled close to Hajime. Shuu, who was looking forward to the naked socializing with his son after so long, sent a sulky gaze at Hajime who was feigning ignorance while Sumire was cackling from witnessing that. During all that the countdown to the New Year was finally beginning.

Facing the beginning of a new year, the vapor of the hot spring district was rising high.

Hajime and the others also let out their voices for counting down the seconds. This was the first New Year for the group members that originated from another world. Each second Myuu’s feet went taut, her toes were tensing straight while she was showing a wide smile, Shia was equipping the artifact of recognition disturbance while the illusion hiding her rabbit ears went off, showing her rabbit ears jumping around myon myon. Tio was looking up to the sky with a deeply moved expression and Remia was smiling from watching over her beloved daughter’s high spirit. Shuu and Sumire quietly linked their hands together and snuggled on each other watching over their son and daughters-in-law that were like that.

A beat later, the countdown reached zero.

□□□□□Happy Neeeeww Year!!!□□□□□

At the hot spring district, the yell of the people celebrating the new year reverberated. In the next moment, in the night sky of the hot spring district, dodon flowers of light bloomed along with reverberations that shook the bottom of one’s stomach.

□Papa, happy New Year! Nano!□

□Ou, happy New Year Myuu.□

Myuu tightly hugged Hajime’s head while saying that, and hearing that Hajime ruffled Myuu’s head with one hand while returning the congratulations.

□Very happy New Year, dear. From here on too, please take care of me along with my daughter, okay?□

□Yeah. Happy New Year Remia. Take care of me this year too.□

Remia gently touched her hand on Hajime’s back while sending those words to Hajime along with a calm smile, then Hajime also looked across his shoulder and replied to her calmly.

「Goshujin-sama. This year too I beg thou for a lot of puni――ehem, a lot of rewards.」

「Don’t try to varnish it over, you pervert. Later I’ll promptly give you the first punishment of this year, so prepare yourself.」

The pervert was shuddering all over.

「Happpy~ Nee~w Yeea~ar desu. Hajime-san. Let’s enjoy this year too, a lot, okay!」

「Looking at the result, you who in a sense is the one with the straightest common sense has helped with a lot since we returned to this world. Thanks. This year, I’ll take you to a lot of fun places more for sure.」

Hajime’s words caused Shia’s rabbit ears to happily flap up and down.

「Hajime, this year too you have perpetrated various things, but just spare me from you disappearing all of a sudden anymore, okay?」

「Right right. It’s fine for you to go anywhere, but at that time take us along too with you. Especially when you are going to Tortus okay! Okay! Over there is a treasure box of material! No need to even mention every one of the Hauria clan, but even Gahard-san is unexpectedly a material character isn’t he. Especially when he is in front of Hajime and Shizuku-chan. I want to meet him again~」

「Tou-san, I got it already. Also, Kaa-san. Stop toying with Gahart. Spare me from an aged middle-aged man clinging on me tearfully.」

Shuu was sending a gaze that was a mix of worry and anticipation, while at his side Sumire was speaking of something terrifying. The emperor of the empire seemed to be fated to getting thoroughly embarrassed by the whole Nagumo family. Already, once when Hajime went to Tortus while taking along Shuu and Sumire, it had become a famous story of how Gahart became a shut-in due to Sumire's persistent and tricky interview with him.

「……Hajime.」

Yue who was at Hajime's bosom looked up while calling on Hajime who was exchanging words with everyone. When Hajime turned his gaze to her, Yue's eyes stared fixedly at him. It was as though she was ascertaining something. As though she was thinking of something. Her eyes were like a movie film, it was as though memories were streaming in succession inside.

Before long, Yue returned her gaze to the fireworks. Then with a calm and mysterious voice, with the sound of the fireworks smoothly fading, she formed her words.

「……It might be too late for saying this, but it's somehow strange.」

「What is?」

「……Nn. At the bottom of the abyss, the journey with the resolve to turn the world into an enemy began. But, when I noticed, there were a lot of important people around me while I am celebrating a new year in a different world like this staring at the flowers of the night sky.」

「That’s right isn’t it.」

「……Seeing objectively, the bitter time in my life is overwhelmingly a lot. Getting saved by Hajime, meeting with everyone, knowing about the truth of Ojii-sama, and also spending time with my new family like this, looking at it from the entirety, all of those are equal to a blink of an eye. Like a dream.」

「……」

「……But, my feeling is the reverse. It feels like the long nightmare vanished instantly like a bubble, and like this, I am enveloped in happiness, as though this is how it has been all along.」

Hajime strongly embraced his lover inside his arms, who was mysteriously colored with the illumination of fireworks light.

Yue’s gaze, which was surely staring at somewhere different inside herself even while it was reflecting the fireworks, returned to Hajime once more.

「……The world is unreasonable, irrational, and absurdly malicious. But, surely at times, it will give a considerate arrangement to those who do their best. Meeting with Hajime, I came to think like that.」

「I see. ……I guess so. Surely, it’s just like you say. No matter what happens, if you struggle, then surely, anyone is able to reach this kind of place in due course.」

「Nn-」

Hajime softly dropped a kiss on the forehead of Yue who was looking up at him. Yue’s expression melted limply.

Even on earth, there was still a mountain of troubles. And surely in this new year, there would be a new unreasonable, irrational, and malicious fate lying in wait for them.

But, surely, the world would show its kindness to those who struggled. Yes, they believed in that, whether Hajime or Yue.

Yue was feeling the heat on her forehead while running her gaze toward Shia and the others too. And then, toward the family who responded to her gaze, toward her beloved people, Yue showed them her greatest smile and gifted them her words.

「……Thank you for everything. Please take care of me from here on too.」

AN: All of your honored readers, Narou-sama, and everyone else thank you very much for everything last year. Please take care of me this year too.

Tomorrow there will be an update too.

Arifureta Chapter 190

Arifureta After – As the Daughter of Demon King Part 3

AN: Update even at 6 P.M. on New Year’s Day……is nice isn’t ittt.

In a room of a certain building, the fierce sound of a gunshot reverberated. A man past his middle-ages with ruffled silver-gray hair was confirming his smartphone with an expression as though he had bitten something bitter.

「No good. As expected, there is interference. What about the others?」

「No, it’s no good. The transmission device is also not reacting.」

「Mine too……President.」

A black person clad in a black suit holding a hand gun shook his head while answering. It was as he said, the man with silver-gray hair was the President of America. He received a terrorist attack on the upper level of a skyscraper where he was undergoing some concealed official business, and he somehow managed to escape and survive thanks to the do-or-die spirit of the secret services.

However, they were unable to escape from the building itself, their communication was also being interfered with, and like this, they were hiding in one of the rooms. Although, their opponent was a few dozen terrorists that were fully armed. In this situation where they were unable to expect reinforcements, it was clear that it was only a matter of time until their fate ran its due course.

The President――Artold Schwarnenegger, could feel the sound of the god of death creeping up gradually from behind him.

「……The existence of the person who leaked out the information needs to be dealt with, but it looks like our lives will run out first before that, huh.」

「Something like that……」

「But, we ran out of bullets already, right? You all have done well. George, Chris, Bacchus, Keyes, Neil, Hank……you all have protected me well until now. It's an honor for me that I can fight together with all of you at the end.」

「President……no, we are the ones who are honored.」

The President smiled calmly while holding out one of his hand. The male secret service which was called George, instead of a handshake, he handed over his spare gun. It was because the gaze of Artold was demanding that.

It was exactly as he said; he was planning to fight until the very end. He was a former commando even with his age that was nearing fifty-years-old but seeing his body that was still clad in muscles that looked like armor; he wouldn't drag the others down. Not to mention this was the man who was once called the "End Bringer", a man who had amassed numerous legends behind. It was impossible for him just to sit around waiting to be killed.

Artold and George nodded to each other. But, right after that, 「Gaah」a pained voice was raised, and Bacchus somersaulted from the other side of the door and returned inside the room. Just by looking at him you'd notice that his stomach and shoulder were fiercely bleeding. Furthermore, 「Shit-」along with such cursing, Neil, who was shouldering Keyes, also entered. It seemed that Keyes also had his stomach shot and his consciousness was already hazy.

The front line holding back the armed group from the corridor outside had crumbled. In the next moment, kon- with a light sound a black object was thrown into the room.

「President-, get down-」

「tsk」

George threw his body in order to cover for the President. Chris covered the two of them further to turn his body into a shield.

In the next instant, explosive light and sound trampled inside the room. All the people inside the room were feeling a sensation of weightlessness, perhaps from having their body getting blown away, at the same time their breathing got blocked due to the impact from below toward their body.

「Gehoh, gehoh?」

「Guu, aa? We are alive?」

「-, what? How?」

Even though a grenade should’ve just exploded from a really close range, they survived while only feeling a dull impact and hearing an explosive sound. That situation caused Artold and the others to make dubious faces while looking up. And then, their eyes opened wide in astonishment for sure this time.

「The, the room is different?」

Yes, exactly like those words implied, what the eyes of Artold and the others were witnessing wasn’t the scene of a room that was trampled by an explosion, far from that the scenery of the room was completely different from the room they were in just before.

Suddenly, a clear voice called out to those who were being dumbfounded.

「I’m glad, looks like I made it in time.」

「-, yo, you are……」

The surprised Artold turned around, and there he witnessed a further unrealistic sight.

At the window, with beautiful black hair in a ponytail that was swaying due to the wind from outside, and a black katana that was held in one hand, there was a dignified female of orient——it went without saying, that this was Yaegashi Shizuku. (However, this was the recognition obstruction glasses equipped version)

「I had you all fell to the lower floor by directly cutting the ceiling. It was a rough method, but because this is an emergency, please forgive me, okay?」

「Ye, yeah. Eh? No, cutting the ceiling?」

「O, oi oi, this is a lie, right?」

Artold's mind was in chaos while George was at a loss for words when he looked up. Up above, there certainly was a ceiling that was cut up in a triangular shape. When he then turned his gaze under their feet in fluster, there was the fallen floor there, and when he further ran his gaze over the surroundings, there were also Neil and the others a bit of distance away who had also fallen into this lower floor with them.

「Just who in the world――」

「I'm sorry, but there is no time to explain. Go to the corner of the room, right now.」

The president was overpowered with that strong tone that didn't tolerate any question. But, at the same time, the hunch that it would be bad to stay where he stood pushed his back, and he dragged off Neil and the others to the corner of the room along with George. The swiftness of that decision was just as expected from the person who stood at the top of a country and his bodyguard.

Right after that, multiple masked men peeked down from the hole in the ceiling. They then saw Shizuku who was grinning, and they gazed with puzzlement for a moment before aiming their guns at her. But, before the triggers of those guns were pulled,

「――Sword Draw – "Flash Cut"」(TN: Battou – "Zendan")

The drawing hand couldn't be seen. The blade also couldn't be seen. There was just a small whisper as Shizuku's left hand that was clutching the sword hilt turned hazy. However, the result was an obvious phenomenon――it was displayed by the collapse of the ceiling.

With a thunderous roar, the terrorists who stepped into the room upstairs fell down, along with the ceiling. There was no way they could land properly, so the terrorists tumbled down unsightly. At the next moment, chin- a clear sound entered their ears, and like that their consciousness fell into the darkness.

「President. I heavily acknowledge about how you must be brimming with questions and how suspicious I look, but if you want to survive, then please believe in me. I will protect you.」

「……」

The situation was too absurd. Was this reality? The beautiful woman who appeared before his eyes, was she actually the personification of the devil, and she would demand an enormous compensation in exchange for her help? Such questions were running around in his mind. But, he had no option. If he was only looking at the fact that was currently happening, putting aside the impossible phenomenon, they were certainly being helped.

Then,

「Got it. I'll follow what you are saying.」

「How decisive. Then, give the people over there this――」

Shizuku's words cut off in the middle. She could hear a lot of footsteps from the corridor coming here.

「President, please give this medicine to them.」

Shizuku took out some magical recovery medicine from her "Treasure Warehouse" and threw them to Artold. Artold opened his mouth about to say something, but before he could do that, the door was knocked down, and bullets assaulted the inside of the room.

What he could hear next was gin gin gin gin-, such a hard sound. The jaw of Artold and the others dropped down comically. It was understandable. After all, countless beautiful curves were drawn in the air, and at the same time, remnants of bullets were getting scattered in the surrounding.

Consecutive god speed sword draws. From a glance, they could only see Shizuku standing still holding a sheathed katana, but when they looked carefully, Shizuku's right hand was blurring. That was exactly the proof that even right at this moment the small pebbles that were attacking her with speed surpassing sound were being slashed apart altogether.

There was no way the terrorists could comprehend the abnormal situation occurring inside the room, but even so, the terrorists who sensed that their target was still going strong inside the room kicked open the door and tried to charge inside.

But, within an instant, Shizuku drew out her katana with a large motion. She didn't immediately sheath the katana just like before, so the blade of the black katana that was being swung could be properly seen.

After that, what could be heard from outside the door was the thudding sound of collapsing bodies.

——Yeagashi-style Katana Art – Black Katana Kata Secret Technique "Zenith Severing – Soul Demolition" (TN: Shizetsu – Hakuhou)

By ignoring all the obstructions in the path of the blade, this technique cut only the target that was aimed for regardless whether it was the flesh or the consciousness. Against the current sword art of Shizuku, the option of blocking couldn’t be taken. People who couldn’t evade would have everything of theirs that were aimed by Shizuku to be cut apart by that one attack without harming anything else.

Shizuku quietly closed her eyes and searched for any presence. She captured a total of seven presences on the same floor as her.

「——”Zenith Severing – Soul Demolition”」

The sound of the drawn sword, which was like the ring of a bell, rang out once more. In every direction, the invisible sword flash penetrated every obstruction and severed the consciousness of the lurking terrorists. Surely they felt it, the sensation of a cold blade caressing their insides, just before their consciousness was severed. And then, they surely hallucinated it, the scene of their body being bisected into two.

「President. All the attackers on this floor have been suppressed. They won’t wake up for a few days, so when you have time send someone to apprehend them. Wait, just what are you doing! If you don’t make them drink the medicine quickly, they will be dead for real, you know! Now, don’t just stay dazed like that and move, move!」

「Ah, yes.」

It was an unbecoming response for a President. Artord made Keyes and the others drink the recovery medicine with a mechanical movement and expression that was still dumbfounded. After the medicine was taken, Keyes and the others bleeding stopped, and their complexion was clearly becoming better. Witnessing that, Artold couldn’t do anything anymore other than laugh dryly.

“Well then, let’s go. I will guide you all to the first floor like this. Right now there are terrorisms being carried out toward this country everywhere, so please quickly return to the White House.”

“Ah, yes. Thank you, very much.”

The man who was once called as the “End Bringer”, a former commando, and the one who stood at the top of this country, seemed to have become a mere yes-man.

After that, the terrorists who had half-occupied the skyscraper and were moving to murder the President were annihilated by Shizuku using a slash that penetrated the wall, or by a charge after cutting apart the wall and hitting them with the back of her blade, or by flying kick or slap, or after making them lose their spirits when they saw their bullets get cut apart. Then Shizuku succeeded in escorting Artold and the others safely to the White House.

It went without saying, that due to Artold, George, and all others of the surviving secret services, the black haired samurai girl became a hot topic not only in the White House but also all over the world through mass media.

At the same time as Shizuku was slashing apart through the terrorists attacking the president, in a certain airport.

That airport became the target of terrorists just like several other airports and was destroyed, so currently, the site had been transformed into a picture of hell in pandemonium. Here and there the fire was bursting, crying and yelling voices were reverberating, and the rescue squad was trying to rescue the people who were buried alive under the debris in desperation.

In that place, there was nothing but despair. There was not even a single factor that could be considered as salvation. Inside the destroyed airport there was a spreading hellish scene that could only be expressed by using the word tragedy. Everyone understood that.

"Aa, damn it……"

A young man from the rescue squad was desperately performing first aid on a heavily wounded infant before his eyes while cursing with a face that could break into tears anytime. The bleeding was not stopping. An arm was torn apart, and a deep wound was on its stomach……he couldn't stop the bleeding no matter how much he treated the injuries. The blood that was flowing out was the life of that young child, and the child's face was already colored by the shadow of death.

The child couldn't be saved. Such feelings beat down the young man from inside his body. Inside this maelstrom of a tragedy that was like the personification of hell, this young man was completely powerless. Just why the hell had he joined the rescue squad? Even these thoughts were passing through the back of his mind.

"I don't care who, someone, please help. Please, just help this child."

While talking to himself like that, only his hand was continuing to keep moving following his training. However, reality was ridiculing the result of the young man's effort.

Right now, in front of the eyes of the young man, the light of a small life was vanishing.

His hand stopped, the young man hung down his head crestfallen. His head understood that this wasn’t the time for this. Right now, there were still a lot of people waiting for help other than this scattered life. Even so, he couldn’t put strength into his four limbs.

The young man looked up to the sky, with an expression and tone that could be thought of as hatred, as a courtesy, as escapism, or as prayer.

「……God……I beg you. If this voice can reach you then, please save this child……」

He whispered.

At that moment,

Pure white light poured down from the sky. It was powerful like a flash. However, it was soft and gentle like a moonlight. Such light, all of a sudden, without any advance notice, was pouring down, enveloping the whole airport.

And then, right after everyone had looked up to the sky wondering what was happening,

「Wha-, th, the airport, is vanishing!」

「Ju, just what is, that!?」

「What!? Just what is happening!?」

People unanimously yelled. They pointed their fingers with a shocked state, and while getting half-panicked they turned their gaze, and there, indeed, just like those words were implying, an abnormal situation was occurring where the destroyed airport was vanishing into dust from the top as though it was going through an accelerated weathering.

The great mass of rubble that was touched by the pure white light was vanishing without effecting the surrounding people at all.

「O, oi, that-!」

「A person? No, but, he is floati……wait, wings?」

Someone noticed the silhouette that was descending slowly from the sky. But, they hesitated whether it was really okay to call that silhouette a person. Even though there was no parachute that could be seen, even though descending down slowly from the sky itself was already an extremely strange phenomenon, that silhouette was even witnessed having a pair of pure white wings.

The people were in a stupor from the disappearing mountain of rubble and the winged silhouette descending from the sky, and it was at that time,

「——The wind of blessing to the children far and wide, the light of salvation driving away the calamity——”Mighty Breeze of Turning World”」(TN: Kaiten no Ibuki)

Such a prayer was echoing with a voice that sounded like a ringing bell. Right after that, every single person was wrapped in pure white light. Without any reason, emotions of relieve and joy were welling up in the heart of the people. Without any reason, they understood. That currently, they were being aided by a large existence.

「Aa, good lord……」

The young man was trickling tears while his gaze turned toward the child that was already gone.

A miracle had occurred there.

The arm that should have been lost was returning to its former shape as though going through a rewind while the injury on the stomach was healing in the blink of an eye. The expression that showed the color of the shadow of death was changing into a gentle color with good complexion.

Right now, from the site where the rubble had been completely erased, the buried people who were lying down on the ground were showing their figures, and as expected they were being healed into perfectly good health from being enveloped in pure white light.

The airport site was flooded with the light of a miracle. The people were following the hard to describe great impulse that they couldn’t hold down and shed their tears.

Before long, all the wounded people were healed, by that time the space around the silhouette in the sky undulated and like that the figure was quietly vanishing along with space.

「Angel……」

「Oh god, my greatest gratitude to you.」

The people who were left behind were shedding tears that weren’t stopping while offering their feelings of gratitude with words or with the whispers inside their hearts toward the angel that caused the miracle and the god who sent her.

……Actually, that god, was the man that was called as the godslaying maou and so on, while the angel was the mistress of such maou……such a thing though, no one would even guess even in their dreams.

After that, the angel that was Kaori flew around to all the sites that became terrorist targets and healed absolutely all the victims.

Through the internet, a certain recording was being broadcasted to all over the world in real time. The place that was reflected in the recording was a large room that was painted pure white, with small children whose heads were covered with a cloth made to kneel. There were about forty children.

Surrounding the children, were masked terrorists holding rifles, they were staring at the scared children with cold eyes.

With those children and the armed group as the background, a terrorist was standing in front of the camera while unfolding a speech with a smooth tone. The contents of the speech were bullshit that wasn’t worth listening to. Something like the vested interests of the large country, or the god that they believed in, or the liberation of their compatriots that were being held in injustice, or the simultaneous terrorisms that were being carried out as the punishment of not recognizing their grievance, or the withdrawal of the stationed army, the contents were things like that.

And then, the people watching the recording began to harbor suspicion「This is, not a trick?」while the government officials were gritting their teeth watching the children of their country that were going to be publicly executed. In front of all of them, the terrorist speaker commanded his subordinate to drag one of the children in front of the camera.

「The judgment ceremony that will be carried out after this, everything, is the proof of the sin of you all. Carve it into your heart, you foolish people.」

The terrorist put a large knife on the neck of the kneeling child. If that knife was pulled back, then a tragedy that even the word tragic would be insufficient for would spread in front of the camera.

The common public reflexively covered their eyes while the government officials yelled「Stop-」even knowing that it was meaningless. Perhaps guessing those reactions, the terrorist's cloudy eyes shined darkly with unbearable joy, and he put strength into the knife his hand was gripping.

「Now, judgment's ti――」

「Time to stop, desuuu――!!」

The man was sent flying. The beautiful woman with faint blue hair that leaped into the room from the pulverized wall along with a thunderous sound made the man eat a jumping kneepad on the back of his head. The man was spinning in midair.

dokusha With such a graphic sound, the terrorist crashed into the wall at the opposite side. Blood was flowing like a river from his eyes, nose, ears, and mouth while his body was convulsing twitch, twitch.

The common public, and also the government officials, had the same feeling. That was, 「What the hell happened!?」.

「Hey hey, you criminals. This lovely rabbit ear onee-san will give you all a beating all over. Have you all resigned yourself desuu!?」

At that moment, rabbit ears appeared from the head of the beautiful woman with faint bluish-white hair, at the same time, a huge war hammer materialized from the empty air that caused a sudden gust when it was swung.

The gust toppled the camera down, and the recording went sideways with a blurred image but……

「GIIYAAAAAH」

「BUBERAH」

「GOBOSUH」

「KUPEH」

Such sounds that sounded like screams along with crash sounds resounded, and then, a masked man flopped down in front of the camera with the white of his eyes exposed. The people who were watching that recording guessed that the beauty with rabbit ears growing on her head just now was beating up the terrorists using that huge hammer.

Before long, when all sounds were dying down, the white eyed terrorist that was lying down in front of the camera got blown away with terrific force, and in place of that terrorist, a white slender, beautiful leg was projected.

「Ee~, I think that you all are likely to hear this, the people of the government? Anyway, all the criminals in this base have been all beaten up, for the time being, so please quickly safeguard the children. Very very please okaayy~」

With such words as the last, the recording cut off.

The people who were watching the recording were all dumbfounded while they sputtered out「What the hell?」

A few minutes after that, at another place, a different terrorist with a similar background of children hostages was about to recite out his principle and position「We are~」, but 「CHEEESTOOO——!!」as expected a rabbit eared beauty leapt and curb stomped that place.

Such a scene repeated for three more times in succession after that but……the government officials who narrowed down the places where the recordings were taking place were all greatly cocking their heads in puzzlement. After all, each of the terrorist bases were all separated by a great distance of more than a hundred kilometers. Thinking from how the recordings were all taken in real time, it was unimaginable that the same person could run around to all those places in such a short time.

「Just who in the world, is that woman……」

That was the honest feelings of all the people watching the terrorists' recordings.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Today I updated even at 6 P.M.

My writing brush is moving and moving by its own will writing the curb stomping drama. When I noticed it felt like it will easily surpass 20,000 characters……. If next time, I don’t make it in time by 6 P.M., I will split it further and post it even if it is between 8 and 9 P.M., and finish the compilation of the demon king’s daughter before the day is over.

It’s New Year’s after all, even updating in one sitting is okay isn’t it.

Arifureta Chapter 191

Arifureta After – As the Daughter of Demon King Part 4

AN: The second chapter for today.

There is a third. Pay attention.

Ten kilometers above the sky.

There was a jumbo airplane. With a sea of clouds below, while the powerful jet engines were rumbling loudly, the plane was heading straight for America.

But, the flight of that airplane was in a situation that wasn’t normal at all. It was because there were multiple fighter aircrafts following behind that airplane from a close distance. It wasn’t because there was a near miss between planes, or because this airplane was actually the exclusive airplane of the president. There was an entirely different reason why fully armed fighter aircrafts were flying behind a passenger airplane as if though they were keeping watch.

It was for the sake of shooting down the airplane in the worst case scenario before damage could be inflicted to the country because an airplane that was hijacked by terrorists wasn’t any different than a flying cannon shell possessing great mass.

Yes, that passenger plane was currently hijacked by terrorists. Due to the terrorists that somehow slipped handguns aboard the plane, the inside the plane was now being ruled by nervousness and fear.

「Oi, you……」

「?」

Everyone was staying quiet, and only waiting for this fearful time to leave. A passenger businessman stole a look at a patrolling terrorist before calling with a small voice to the young man across the aisle from him.

So that he wouldn’t be standing out, the young man only lifted up his hanging head slightly. When he directed a glance at the businessman that was calling him, immediately a small paper scrap was thrown on the lap of the young man.

The young man was startled, and he directed his gaze at the businessman, but at that time the businessman was already looking down and sitting quietly on his seat as though nothing had happened.

The young man was feeling a sensation of cold sweat going down his back while being careful of the patrolling terrorist; he spread open the folded paper scrap inside his palm.

——17:35

That was the only thing written on the paper. Normally such writing would be too cryptic, but the young man felt a shock as though electricity was running through his body. He guessed it. The written time, which was ten more minutes from the current time, was the time where the situation inside the plane might change greatly.

With a glance, the young man gazed at the businessman at his side. The businessman also moved his gaze without moving his face and gave a small nod. The will to rise in a counterattack in order to resolve this hijacking incident existed in that businessman.

Most likely this paper had gone not only to this young man but also to other people. It was unknown who was the one that started circulating this paper, but the person who dispatched this paper should be expecting for even more people to answer the call.

Surely it was because that person had vaguely guessed the objective of the terrorists that he decided to make a sink-or-swim gamble. In the recent news, there was an abundance of topics regarding suicide bombing. The features of the terrorists' faces obviously looked like the characteristic features of the people of the country where the famous terrorist organization that was reported every day in the news belonged. In that case, it was possible to imagine the worst case regarding the objective of this plane hijacking.

The young man, thinking that they would die anyway if this situation kept on, scolded his heart that was withering in fear and nodded briskly at the businessman. And then, in order to increase the number of courageous comrades even just by one, he secretly handed over the paper, where the time for the counterattack was written, to another person.

Before long, inside the plane where eerie silence was ruling, the watches of the passengers were about to reach the time that was written. The tension was suddenly rising. Beside the young man, the businessman was wiping the sweat on his forehead. The young man also understood really well that feeling. Their fate might be decided in a few minutes. The tension the businessman was feeling wasn't something average. The young man himself was feeling the sweat that was trickling down his back and neck and the feeling of his body growing cold.

But, at that time, the back of the plane suddenly became noisy. Angry yelling and screams, and then pan the sound of a gunshot resounded. The young man lost color. It finally began.

The young man and the businessman, and then several men——a father with a family, a middle aged male who seemed to be riding the plane with his wife, and so on, they were looking for a chance while their faces were straining with tension.

And then, the terrorists who noticed the strangeness at the back of the plane rushed from their posts while saying something. It was at that moment,

「UOOOOOOOOH」

「Hold them down-」

「Steal the gun-」

The passengers who had conspired beforehand simultaneously revolted. One of the terrorists who turned his back was tackled from behind; the tackler desperately held down the hand of the terrorist who hadn’t let go of his gun even when he fell. One other terrorist, when he turned his gaze at his tackled comrade, was also immediately wrestled by the father with a family who was right at the terrorist’s side and both of them fell on the floor.

It became noisy inside the plane. At the same time, the hope that perhaps at this rate they would be able to subdue the terrorists were beginning to spread between the passengers.

But,

pan-

A single gunshot resounded, at the same time, the businessman who was holding down a terrorist slumped down while groaning. And then one more shot. pan A gunshot resounded, and the father with a family, who was holding down another terrorist, screamed and fell.

Immediately, the terrorists punched away the other passengers, and then they further shot with their handguns while cursing and standing up. The young man who was similarly shot on his leg was making a pained voice while turning his gaze, and there he saw the figure of a flight attendant holding a small handgun.

「No way……why……」

The young man leaked out a bewildered voice. That was only natural. The flight attendant was a blonde haired Caucasian, no matter how he looked her nationality was different from the terrorists.

Due to the feature of the terrorists and the everyday news, the passengers were completely under the impression that the terrorist organization was made up of the race of that country only. But in fact, the terrorists had taken methods of abducting people of various countries, which they brainwashed, before they returned the people to their original country in order to cooperate with the terrorisms, so terrorists were not necessarily limited to the race of only that country.

「Father-, father-」

「Dear-, hang in there-」

Anxious voices mixed with screams reverberated. Looking there, a young girl and a mother were crying while clinging to the shot father.

The male terrorists who were swearing while venting their anger at the revolting passengers, the moment they saw those family crying, their expression changed into something ugly as though to say that they had found a good target to be made into a lesson. They then walked toward that family.

「The sin of treating with disdain our kindness of making you all accompanying us in an honorable death is heavy. Just die meaninglessly, along with your whole family.」

The terrorist aimed his handgun at the family. The shot father, even while his expression was growing pale from bleeding too much, desperately tried to cover his daughter and wife.

Everyone imagined the tragic end of the family. The fact that their revolt ended in complete failure would be planted inside the passengers with this public execution.

But, when the terrorist was about to pull the trigger, suddenly a gunshot thundered from the back of the plane. The terrorist’s hand stopped moving due to that sound. However, guessing that the same thing as here was happening at the back, he immediately put strength into his finger on the trigger.

Right after that, gunshot sounds in succession could be heard once more. The terrorist’s movement stopped once more while thinking that they were really flashy back there. At that time, the terrorists who were in this area were believing without a doubt, that their comrades were also making example back there.

After all, there was also a brainwashed conspirator from another country hiding back there too, so no matter what happened they could launch a surprise attack. There were also more terrorists that were stationed at the back compared to the front. Regarding the consecutive gunshots, there were a lot of hot-blooded guys amongst the terrorists, so the terrorists here thought that it was because of that.

「Oi oi, just what are those guys doing back there?」

「……Yeah. As expected they are shooting too much. Just what are they going to do if a stray bullet hits the window.」

The terrorists looked at each other's face dubiously. The cause of that was because of the intense shooting sound that was reverberating even now.

The objective of the terrorists was a suicide attack on the capital of America using the hijacked plane. They couldn't let the plane crash until then so they had to pay meticulous attention even when they were using guns. Yet regardless of that, right now, the gunshot sounds audible from the back of the plane made them think that the shooter wasn't making any consideration to that, and instead, it sounded like a shooting that was done in desperation to avert death.

「Oi, Nadim, Karim, what are you all doing? Report the situation.」

Because the front and the back areas of the plane were partitioned from each other and they couldn't see what was happening, they were unable to grasp the situation by eyesight. And so they used a communication device to contact the others, but what they could hear was only 「Impossible-! What, is that-」an incomprehensible voice that was a mix of terror, unease, and confusion.

「Oi, Nadim! Just what is going on! Report-」

「A woman is-, it’s impossible-! The gun doesn’t work-. The blonde woma――」

The voice of the man called Nadim cut off. At the same time, the fierce gunshot sounds also stopped.

An eerie silence enveloped inside the plane.

The terrorist who was staring at the communication device gave a signal using his gaze to the other man and the flight attendant. Both of them nodded and aimed their gun at the partition toward the back area.

「This is Yosef. Saeed. What happened to Nadim and the others? Just what is happening over there?」

A communication from the terrorist comrade that was occupying the cockpit came through. The door to the cockpit was solidly closed, and it had been arranged previously so that the door couldn’t be opened no matter what happened in the passenger area. And so, the terrorist who introduced himself as Yosef didn’t come out from the cockpit, but he could still communicate and asked for a report that the other terrorists couldn’t ignore.

Furthermore, Yosef was able to accomplish trespassing into the sturdy cockpit that normally couldn’t be opened by any mean in the middle of flight because beforehand the terrorists had taken the pilot’s family hostage. The pilot was pressed with a mortifying choice even while vaguely understanding that he would be killed anyway in the end, comprehending that this option would only worsen the situation, but when he was shown the image of his young son’s soft skin being pressed with a knife, he finally chose to obey the terrorists. The one who carried the guns inside the plane and opened the cockpit door was also the pilot.

「I don’t know. We will confirm it now.」

Saeed said that, and then he approached the partition to the back area while readying his gun.

But, before he reached the partition, the cause of the abnormality finally arrived from the other side. A slender finger peeked out from the edge of the partition, and then like that, the partition was casually opened wide.

「Oo」

「……」

For a moment, Saeed forgot the current situation and leaked out an admiring voice. The other male terrorist was also wordless, but his eyes opened wide in obvious shock.

The one who showed her figure from the back area, with smooth and fluffy golden hair fluttering and crimson eyes narrowing with a sleepy look, was a peerlessly beautiful girl that was like a bisque doll. It went without saying, that it was Yue in girl mode.

In order to trample all the schemes of the terrorists and make all of their actions become meaningless, she boarded the hijacked plane using space teleportation.

Yue’s eyes ran through the terrorists in turn. Saeed, whose gaze met Yue’s, felt his body temperature rising against a girl who could only be seen as a girl in the first half of her teens. Even though the appearance of this girl could only be seen as a small girl no matter how he observed her, the atmosphere she was clad with was the personification of bewitchment itself. It felt like he was an insect that was lured by an insect trap; if he let his guard down, then it felt like he would assault the girl while staggering on his feet.

Yue turned his gaze to the family who was trembling at Saeed’s feet. The family was also directing dumbfounded gazes at the beautiful girl who suddenly appeared.

「……It’s fine.」

Yue smiled at the little girl who was clinging to her father and gave her those words. And then, casually, without any wariness, she walked toward the family.

That extremely defenseless figure reversely caused Saeed to return to his senses, and then his gaze moved toward the back area through the opened partition. Over there was……

「-, What, are. What are you doing……Carlo-」

There, he saw a scene of his comrade on his knees, strangling his own neck by himself. It seemed that the man was already unconscious, the white of his eyes was exposed while foam was coming out of his mouth. It was really an abnormal scene.

「……I’m no match for Kaori, but this much is no problem.」

Saeed returned to his senses once more due to that voice which came from below him. With a ‘hah’ he lowered his gaze, there the figure of Yue holding her hand over the shot father, and the figure of the father being enveloped in a faint golden light could be seen. It was as though time was being rewound as the blood was flowing back into the wound of the father before the wound visible closed. The bullet that had entered the body was also pushed out from the wound and fell down with a ‘plop’. The mother and daughter were dazed, staring at that miraculous scenery.

Yue, who ascertained that the wound had been closed, quietly stood up. She was right in front of Saeed and perhaps because he had witnessed unimaginable scenes one after another, the inside of Saeed’s head was already all messed up.

Even so, his long years of training and experience of terrorism that he had moved his body on its own accord, telling him only that the too beautiful girl in front of his eyes was a threat for him and his comrades. His gun muzzle aimed at Yue’s head and his hand thrust forward the gun.

「Yo, you, just who in the――」

「……All of you too, it’s fine already.」

Even with the gun muzzle thrust at her, the girl didn’t show even a bit of agitation. Rather, Yue, who looked like she didn’t even acknowledge his existence, caused Saeed’s expression to cramp.

Yue acted as though she was not concerned of Saeed, and waved her fingertip like a baton and scattered golden light. After that, the businessman who was on the verge of death from the heavy wound, the young man, and the other passengers who participated in the revolt had their wounds healed similarly like the father just now. It didn’t stop there, even the people who had already lost their lives had their heartbeat brought back, and they recovered their consciousness.

For the passengers, that was exactly a scene of miracles.

But, for the terrorists, it was a scene of nightmares.

Therefore,

"Kuh, this monster-"

pan-, Saeed pulled the trigger, and the bullet flew toward Yue. It was a shot that was impossible to miss from this close range. Everyone's mind showed them the scene of death where the brain of the girl who manifested this miracle would be splattered from her head.

But,

"Such, thing……impossible."

The bullet stopped still at the space in front of Yue. In the air where there was nothing, as though something soft was blocking the way, without any change to the shape of the bullet it was floating still.

Yue's gaze was turned to Saeed once more. There was no emotion at all in those cold eyes. The moment Saeed saw that he was made to understand whether he wanted to or not. That for the girl before his eyes, he was something without value, just like a pebble on the side of the road. There was no meaning in him getting born; he brought nothing but harm by living, just a hindrance to be removed, he would vanish without anyone even lifting an eye of it…… that was the kind of existence he had.

"Uh, aaAAAAAAAA-"

His very existence was rejected. That terror and that humiliation caused Saeed to burst. From very close range, he continued to pull the trigger as though he was possessed. Following after him, the other terrorist and the flight attendant also aimed at Yue and fired.

The passengers screamed. However, that too happened only for a bit. When they saw that all few dozen bullets were floating still in midair around Yue, their screaming was gradually dying down.

Saeed and the others desperately changed their handgun’s magazine and continued to shoot until all the bullets that they had run out.

Like that, kachink such a transient sound echoed. The handgun that had its top slid back still, informed them of the end. Yue, who was completely unmoving during all this, slowly ran her gaze through Saeed and the others. The bullets floating around Yue fell on the floor all at once and scattered. And then, a word.

「……so?」

「-」

「Ua……」

「Hih」

Saeed and the others staggered backward. Their handguns fell on the floor with a thump. Already there was only fear that could be seen in their eyes.

「You are, you are, what are――」

「…….You have no need to know. For now, 「Shut up」.」

「-」

Saeed’s mouth opened and closed trying to ask Yue’s true identity. But the moment Yue told him「Shut up」, his voice couldn’t come out. While Saeed was staring in a daze, Yue’s words came out further.

□……□Kneel□□

Saeed and the others simultaneously kneeled. There, Yue let out the finishing——”Divine Statement”.

□……□Slowly strangle, your own neck□□

Until the end, Yue’s crimson eyes possessed no color of emotion at all toward them. That became the last sight that Saeed and the others saw.

Yue’s gaze moved toward the last enemy, toward the terrorist who was occupying the cockpit. And then, when she walked toward the solid door between her and the cockpit, as though such a thing was only something trivial.

DOGOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOON-

□-□

A fierce shock and thunderous sound assaulted the inside of the plane. Right after that, the plane tilted down with a jerk, and oxygen masks fell down from overhead all over the place. The passengers screamed. The passengers who were seated at the back area witnessed black smoke spouting out intensely from the two wings of the plane, and their face turned pale all at once.

It appeared that all four engines that were installed on the plane were destroyed. Perhaps it should be said that it was a miracle that the wings themselves were still intact. Or else, perhaps it had been calculated to end like that.

Yue’s gaze quietly narrowed toward the cockpit. The cause of this was obvious. The last terrorist judged that at this rate there was a high possibility that the suicide attack on America’s capital would fail due to the abnormality happening inside the plane, so he activated the set up explosive.

As a matter of fact, this was the third hijacked plane that Yue had boarded and suppressed. The judgment of Yosef, which was made with great resolve, was surely because of the thought that even if the plane he hijacked himself couldn’t fulfill the objective, there were still the other hijacked planes. Rather than having this plane completely suppressed and taken back, he would prefer to crash this plane down sacrificing the many American passengers, bringing as much tragedy as possibly for America. The fact that he didn’t directly destroy the body of the plane and instead only the engines were surely because of his thinking of making even greater damage by choosing the place where they plane would fall.

「……Nn, this is my error. I’ll correct this mistake.」

Right after Yue was talking to herself like that, she used “Heaven Existence” to erase her figure from the inside of the plane.

「Am I, dreaming?」

The one who muttered that in a daze was the pilot who was following after the passenger airplane. There was a voice demanding a situation report resounding from the radio, but the pilot didn’t have the composure to answer that.

But, surely it would be cruel for anyone to criticize the pilot for that. The reason was that at the end of his gaze, the smoking plane that had just been falling due to the sudden explosion, which was then enveloped by golden light in the next moment, continued to fly straight even now. It was because of this extremely absurd sight that caused the pilot to be like that.

And what caused the pilot’s gaze to be nailed in place, what forced him to be dumbfounded, was the figure of a girl standing on top of that airplane. A person was standing on top of a plane that was flying at a high altitude——even though just that was enough to make him doubt his own sanity, there was also how that girl was enveloped in the same golden light like the plane, and furthermore, a pair of shining wings were spread from her back.

Perhaps noticing the gaze of the pilot, the golden girl, Yue, turned her face in his direction. And then, she suddenly showed a smile. ——The fighter aircraft jerked violently. The pilot was pressing on his chest as though he had been shot through by something. He should quickly grasp the control stick instead of that.

Yue returned her gaze to the front, and then normally began to walk on the plane, as though the wind resistance and the temperature had no effect at all. She got down in front of the cockpit.

「A, a girl? No, but, eh?」

「Wha-, wha-, wha-wha-wha-wha-」

The pilot who was bleeding from his head and Yosef were making really funny faces. The copilot was lying down from being shot. It seemed that he was still barely breathing, but perhaps he could only keep his life for a mere few minutes more. Yue, while being enveloped in golden light, quietly pointed her fingertip at the copilot.

Immediately, a faint light enveloped the copilot and healed his wound.

「Yo, you are-. This, monster-」

Yosef guessed the reason why he couldn’t contact his comrades in the passenger areas and raised a trembling angry voice. And then, he aimed his handgun at Yue who was outside the cockpit and was about to pull the trigger. He planned to crash this plane anyway. After this far he wouldn’t even hesitate about something like breaking the window of the cockpit.

However,

「……「Don’t move」」

「-」

Naturally, his movement was easily stopped. The pilot was bewildered at Yosef whose movement hardened with a snap like a stone. But, in the next moment, Yosef’s figure vanished into thin air.

Yue teleported him. Yosef then appeared right above the plane at the blind spot from the cockpit. Yes, he appeared outside of the jumbo airplane flying at the altitude of eight kilometers with the speed of a few hundred kilometers per hour. Furthermore, he was looking up with his hands spread apart as though he was being crucified; he was completely attached to the top of the plane.

「……Die while freezing.」

Yosef opened his eyes wide. Normally a normal human would immediately lose consciousness in this condition, but savagely he was given protection against cold and an oxygen supply, so he wouldn’t die that easily.

Yue softly flew backward. She flapped her golden wings and then she was flying while matching her speed with the airplane speed. Looking from the point of view of the pilot and the copilot who had recovered his consciousness, it looked like there was a girl floating casually in front of a flying airplane.

Yue floated a smile at the two people who were staring at her in astonishment and added,

「……Do your best.」

After saying that, her figure vanished with a puff.

Even after Yue vanished, the plane was still enveloped in golden light. There was only one engine that was still operating, but the plane could still maintain its altitude. The difficulty of the piloting was going up, but mysteriously the two pilots didn’t feel any anxiety of the plane crashing.

「……William. I am a criminal.」

「Captain……」

The pilot was holding the control stick while squeezing out those words from his throat. Hearing that, the copilot William made a complicated expression that couldn’t say anything. From the conversation of the terrorists, he had guessed that the pilot’s family was kidnapped and he was threatened that his family would be hurt right in front of his eyes. Perhaps because he could see the expression of the pilot that was filled with bitterness, that even now after he had almost just died William was unable to say any word of vilification.

The pilot told to such William.

「But, god has told a criminal like me, to live. Do your best, deliver the passengers safely home. If you cannot agree with this, then I'll stay quiet and yield the control to you. But, if――」

「Captain. I too have a family. If my son meets the same experience as your son, a confidence that I can say that I'll prioritize the passengers still……is something that I don't have.」

The words of the pilot were cut off in the middle by William. And then, he nodded with a serious expression while returning to the copilot seat. That gesture indicated more eloquently than any words that he would leave this plane to the pilot one more time.

「……My thanks. This is my last flight. No matter what happens, I swear I'll land this plane safely.」

「It's going to be fine, captain. After all, the protection of the goddess is with us.」

「Yeah, you're right.」

The captain's face warped difficultly. That was a complicated expression that was a mix of relief and regret, gratitude and apology, and various other feelings.

(Goddess. Please, I beg you no matter how shameless this sound. My family…….please-)

The captain couldn't help but pray like that in front of the miracle that he witnessed.

Half a day later, the tattered airplane that was enveloped in golden light safely landed. In the middle of the airport that was in an uproar due to the unprecedented situation, the captain who was receiving questioning heard how his family was saved by a beautiful rabbit-eared woman. And then, he became a zealous believer of the golden goddess and the rabbit eared beauty.

AN: As I thought I need to split it.

I’ll update at 8 or 9 P.M.

Arifureta Chapter 192

Arifureta After – As the Daughter of Demon King Part 5

AN: This is the last for today.

I cannot write anymore……

So far as it goes, today I have posted 2 chapters before this chapter (Part 3, Part 4), so please pay attention.

Part 1

Off the shore of the America East Coast.

There a large cargo ship was anchored. It was an unregistered cargo ship, so the coast guard immediately rushed to the ship and called at it, but there was no reaction. The coast guard kept calling for a while, but not a single response was given. With no other way left the coast guard decided to board the ship.

Suddenly, several people appeared on the deck of the cargo ship. The coast guard spontaneously stopped moving and called to those men. However, those men didn’t respond at all and instead took off the sheet that was covering the cargo that was placed on the deck.

□-, those guys, are they sane-!?□

One of the coast guards turned pale while cursing. That was only natural. What appeared from behind the sheet was a missile launching pad. At the same time, the men——the terrorists——leaned their bodies forward from the deck. What was held in their hands were familiar weapons for the coast guard.

□-, Get back-□

As the coast guard captain yelled out those orders, the terrorists pulled the triggers. Violent bursting sounds rang consecutively, poshu- along with a stupid sounding sound; the grenade launcher that was attached to the rifle mercilessly lobbed an explosive onto the coast guard ship.

Several people got caught up in the explosion, and they fell to the deck of the coast guard ship while screaming. Next, the steering room erupted in flames.

Naturally, another coast guard ship returned fire, but the attack of the terrorists was fiercer than they imagined and caused the coast guard to be unable to get near. They called for reinforcements from the navy, but in the end, whether the navy would make it in time or not before the missiles were launched to the city was……

「Shit-, don’t-. Stop itt-」

Several of the coast guards yelled. Right at this time, their beloved birthplace, the coastal city, was about to be destroyed. Thinking about the range of the missile, it could aim at anywhere in the coastal city. The place the missiles landed could perhaps be where their acquaintance, friend, lover, or family was.

But, emotionlessly, a mechanical operating sound was reverberating while the missiles were aimed toward the coastal city, and then……they were launched.

From the multiple launching pads, a total of six missiles were sent flying toward the city.

「Aa……how can this be.」

Someone whispered in a tragic voice.

The missiles crossed above the coast and kept flying toward the center of the city; it was at that moment,

GOU-!!

A black flash cut through the sky. A very thick laser that no one had ever seen before, except in a SciFi movie, suddenly flew out from further behind the cargo ship.

The black laser instantly swallowed the missile that was at the very right, and then the laser kept moving horizontally and annihilated all the missiles.

The coast guard, and also the terrorists, felt the same astonishment from the unimaginable happening. As though they had made an arrangement beforehand, all of them similarly turned their heads to the direction from where the laser came with botchy movements gigigi that was similar to a machine that hadn’t been oiled.

There, ahead of their gaze, the sea was beginning to swell up as though a mountain was forming. Like that, what appeared from there was……

□GO, GOZIRA-!!□

A dragonified Tio. By no means was it Godzi○ but with that appearance, it couldn’t be helped even if they thought like that. Dragon eyes with vertical slits on its pupil and jet black scales. Sharp fangs lining up in a row. Such a monster was appearing while stirring up the sea!

Tio spread her wings and flew up and descended toward the terrorists who were staring vacantly with mouths wide open. And then, ignoring those who were screaming, Tio’s sharp claws pierced the hull of the cargo ship and lifted the ship up all at once.

The terrorists were screaming while firing bullets and grenades at Tio. Having the experience of fighting a giant monster was an experience that was too valuable in a sense; however, the fact that they couldn’t make a single scratch caused the terrorists to expose their expressions of terror.

“Foolish people. Thou can cool down thy head a bit.”

Suddenly a majestic voice came down from the sky; it was at that moment that the ship was powerfully thrown. The cargo ship fell on the coast while the terrorists were scattered out from the deck like snack scraps. The ship split into two with a thunderous sound.

“I guess these gentlemen will have questions, that’s why I will go easy on all of ye.”

The voice poured down once more, and then within an instant, thunder fell on the cargo ship from empty air. Thunderous roars and lightning trampled the coast. The terrorists inside the cargo ship were grandly electrocuted and collapsed without even a single exception.

Right after that, a slight sound was reverberating. It was something like the sound of something flying overhead that was created by an aircraft. When Tio turned around, she could see a large missile coming at her.

Actually, further offshore there was a ship that was loaded with long range missiles standing by. The cargo ship at the coast was also acting as a decoy in this attack on the coastal city.

“How lukewarm. Thou foolish people can perish.”

Such an attempt couldn’t even be considered as an attack. Tio, who proclaimed that, opened her jaw wide open. Inside, a black light of ruin was converging.

Right after that, a second dragon breath was fired. The breath instantly reached the missile and annihilated the missile without causing any explosion. It continued its path and impacted the ship that was anchored several dozen kilometers away.

Just before the breath impacted, the terrorists who were on board the ship saw the black wall approaching them. There wasn’t even time for them to pray to their god. Just as they were aware that an incomprehensible black shining wall was approaching near everything blew up altogether, along with their consciousness.

Tio, who finished firing her breath, gave a glance at the coast guard members who were unable to stand up due to fear before she used regeneration magic and healed the wounded. Even people who had stopped breathing were also similarly healed by soul magic’s resurrection.

The scene of their comrades being enveloped in black light before their wounds were closing up was truly far removed from reality.

In the eyes of the coast guard members, the pure terror began to be replaced by awe.

“O protectors, be strong.”

Tio left those words and began to dive into the sea once more.

The coast guard members sent their salutes while staring wholeheartedly at the greatness of that figure. No matter how separated from reality this happening was, no matter how atypical the existence of this figure was, it had protected, saved, and gifted them with valuable words.

There was not a single person who stopped saluting until Tio’s figure vanished from view.

And then, with awe and respect, they called that name.

「Thank you, Gozira.」

Currently, an American army was stationed in a ruined city in a certain country in the Middle East. The reason for their stationing there ranged from apprehending or killing the leadership of the terrorist organization to humanitarian aid to the vicinity.

If it was normal, the evening was supposed to be the time when the army would distribute food rations that were given out twice a day even while staying alert of terrorist attacks. The army garrison should be crowded with the local residents visiting in order to get water or food, or visiting the army medical facility to have their injury treated.

However, at present,

「Reinforcement request from east gate-. Many are injured. Delta and Zeta are almost isolated-」

「Take some men from the second division-」

「An enemy tank appeared at the west gate-. They are receiving concentrated fire-. Request for air support-」

「Someone-, three people got done in-. Send the medic-」

「South gate, they can’t hold on anymore-」

The bellows of the American soldiers, the fierce gunshot sounds, and the thunderous sounds of explosions were everywhere.

The America army base of this city right now was in the middle of receiving a large scale attack from the terrorist organization.

The base that was using several buildings of the city, surrounded with barbed wire, was now receiving simultaneous attacks from the east, west, south, and north of the city. Because the attack time was matched with the ration distribution time, there were already many citizens that had gotten involved and departed for the next world.

Although the American army immediately evacuated the people, who had barely gotten away from the disaster, into the base and the soldiers quickly fought back, the fierce attack which was to the degree that it made everyone wondering if this was actually the gathering of all the war potential of the terrorist organization, caused the American soldiers to fall behind and they were forced into a hard fight.

Shit-, are the reinforcements still not here-. At this rate……

The leader of this base, Armando Aston’s fist hit the desk in the command room loudly. Aerial bombing toward the enemy force was already impossible because the enemy’s distance to the base was too near. There was one other American base at the scale of one division in the neighboring city, but it would take them twenty minutes to reach this city. If they used a combat helicopter, then it would be even faster, but……without crushing the enemy’s anti-air weapon first, it would be too dangerous for the helicopter to give their support.

In the end, whether this base could hold out until the reinforcements came or not was……Armando scowled with impatience and roughly wiped the unpleasant sweat that trickled on his jaw.

But, at that time, a fierce impact sound assaulted the command room; clouds of dust were scattering down from the ceiling. Armando, who almost stumbled unintentionally, held onto the desk and braced himself while「What happened!?」yelling angrily at the communications officer.

A transmission that deepened the impatience of Armando further came from the radio.

「The enemy, they have a great number of unmanned attack aircraft-! Currently, the east gate is receiving aerial――」

「Impossible, just how far did those guys go to prepare their equipment-. There is no intelligence about that at all! Just what was the intelligence department doing!?」

After hearing the cut off the transmission, even while understanding that this wasn’t the time, Armando still spontaneously cursed. He immediately gave out instructions but……in the back of the mind of everyone in the command room, the word “annihilation” was floating.

Armando was considering whether he should abandon the citizens and instead escape from the city even if they had to bulldoze their way through. Despite understanding how low the success rate of doing such a thing, and the risk that they might lose their great cause for deploying their army in this foreign land, he was still about to make that decision. It was at that time, hyuuuuu an ominous sound of something cutting through the air entered his ear.

「-, all hands, get down-」

Armando’s immediate instruction made the surrounding soldiers’ faces grow pale while they dived to the floor. Right after that, a violent impact and thunderous roar assaulted all of them. Their consciousness was shaken as though they had been entered into a mixer and got whipped up.

「Guh, someone-, situation report-」

Armando was feeling a painful ringing in his ears as he was pressing his hand on his forehead. He somehow stood up and looked around him. And then, a part of the ceiling crumbled down, the sight of many of his subordinates being crushed under rubble, and the sight of the outside that was completely visible from the blown up external wall entered his eyes.

When he stepped outside with staggering steps, he could see many black smoke columns rising from the south gate. And then, he witnessed the enemy tank force advancing while crushing cars and humans on the street; they were flattening people underneath them as if they were bugs while forcing their way through.

The south gate had been breached. In the end, just what happened with the unit that was defending that spot……

「……To all hands, retreat by following the judgment of your own commanding officer while maintaining your force as much as possible. We are abandoning this base. Aim to link up with the third battalion that should be heading here.」

Armando, who was speaking into the communication device, was quietly watching the countless tanks that were approaching from the other side of the street while running over everything in their path. He made a bitter smile. He ridiculed himself, at how powerless and incompetent he was.

And then, he saw the tank that was running at the lead moving its turret toward him, or more accurately, at the command room behind him, and he discerned his end.

「……You demons. Even though I am incompetent, my country is different. Someday, the hammer of god will――」

DOGOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOON!!

A terrific impact rushed through, cutting off Armando's last words. The tank's shelling――wasn't the cause. Instead, it was the sound of that tank getting pierced by a jet black stake three meters long.

「Fue?」

A stupid voice leaked out from the middle-aged man named Armando.

His shock was only natural. The movement of the tank force belonging to the terrorist organization was also stopping.

While time on the battlefield had stopped, on top of that jet black stake, without anyone knowing just from where he could possibly have come from, a single young man landed down with a thud. With a face that looked oriental, it was a normal young man that seemed like could be found anywhere, if you didn't pay attention to the giant things on his two hands, which seemed to be weapons, that couldn't possibly be carried by flesh and blood human.

Everyone had already stopped moving. That young man――Hajime―― shouldered the pile bunker while his right hand casually lowered down the gatling gun, and then he opened his mouth with an expression that was like a yakuza.

「Now then, it will be a curb stomp after this, but is there anyone who wants to surrender? Good, there is none huh. Then, die.」

In this battlefield where sounds of gunshots and explosions were still knocking incessantly on the eardrum, for some reason, those words could be heard clearly as though they came right from the communication device. Hearing those words, Armando and several of the terrorists made a retort in their heart「Fast-, you've got no intention of listening right from the start, right!?」but……in the next moment, such voices of the heart were sent flying.

Along with the situation, where the tank force was literally sent flying.

DOU-DOU-DOU-DOU- Consecutive heavy bass sounds and DURURURURURURU peculiar rotation sounds sounded off. Those sounds were the indication of the pile bunker stakes that were fired rapidly and the crimson swarm of bullets cutting through the air becoming countless flashes that were like meteors.

The two ton stakes that were fired six times per second pierced through the tanks with a force that made the tanks look like toys and pulverized the tank crews inside one after another. The gatling railgun was instantly changing the buildings into scraps just like paper scraps while mercilessly changing the terrorists that were at the other side into meat lumps.

「We surrender-. Stop it-」

Several of the terrorists riding in the tanks came out with both their hands raised. This was honestly unexpected because he thought that these people were all having martyrdom mentality. And then, Hajime who received the surrender proclamation was,

「Eh? What did you say?」

While saying something that sounded like a deaf protagonist that came out in a gal-game somewhere, he fired his pile bunker as though he hadn’t heard anything at all. The tanks somersaulted in midair from the impact. The man who declared his surrender was squashed underneath as a red stain was slowly spreading.

「Wh, why-. You heard already that those guys are surrendering, right!?」

One of the terrorists raised his voice at Hajime’s unreasonableness. In response to that, as expected, Hajime without even replying properly……

「No negotiation with terrorists. This is international common sense. Don’t you know that?」

「A surrender declaration, is not negotiation, right!?」

If it was asked whether that statement was too much or not, then it was too much. However, the terrorist couldn’t even object for the second time as he received the strafing of the railgun and ended up as mere pieces of meat.

「Chih, they are like bugs huh. I don’t like those guys who only swarm in numbers. Annoyingg.」

The tank force that broke through the south gate, which should be called as the greatest land battle force of the terrorist organization, was literally instant killed. Hajime stored away his gatling railgun and pile bunker, and then he kicked on the building wall and jumped to the rooftop.

Following the rooftops, he reached the rooftop of the highest building in the city.

Armando who saw that sight with a faint smile,

「……It appears that salvation isn’t bestowed by god, but by a demon, huh.」

Whispered such thing.

Hajime fired a lot of missiles from the rooftop using “Agni-Orkan”; the fire trails of the missiles covered the sky of the city like a spider web. The unmanned aircrafts were easily shot down, and grand explosive sounds could be heard resounding from everywhere in the city.

After that, Hajime, who annihilated the large scale troops of the terrorist organization, next operated his smartphone to activate the satellite artifact “Bel Agarta” (By pouring down light exposure that had been enchanted with regeneration magic, it would regenerate the target at the above ground. Hajime developed it, so it was possible to immediately heal his friends and family even when they were far away) that he willfully launched in stealth mode using space magic until it settled above the satellite orbit before this, and healed the American soldiers.

Looking at his subordinates that should have died coming back to life (It was impossible for those who had died too long ago), at the enemy force that was easily turned to ash, and at Hajime who was interrogating several terrorists before leaving the battlefield like nothing had happened and vanished, Armando could do nothing except laugh.

Armando later returned home to his country. Even though he was a pious believer of god, his new tendencies, which were starting to have an excessive interest in demons, greatly worried his family and colleagues but……that was another story.

On the other hand, Hajime had asked about the current whereabouts of the leadership of the terrorist organization from several of the terrorists attacking the city and teleported there.

The location seemed to be in a suite at a high class hotel in the capital. Surely, the choice of this location came from the thinking that the possibility of aerial bombing was nonexistent in this location where there were a lot of common people, making it into a safe place.

It seemed that they were reserving the whole floor as their base; thinking about the extravagant terrorist force just now, it appeared that the terrorists were in possession of considerable financial clout. Actually, Hajime became curious about the connection of the terrorists with that area.

Hajime ignored the front desk, directly teleported to the floor, and advanced through the corridor with brisk steps. Then, men who seemed to be guards immediately pulled out their guns——faster than them, however, Hajime floored the guards with a double lariat.

While confirming that the presences inside the room suddenly became noisy, Hajime kicked open the splendorous door with a yakuza kick. Immediately, countless bullets rushed at Hajime. While carelessly warding off the bullets with his left hand, Hajime entered the room with a rude entrance and,

□Who the hell are-gobohaa-!?□

The first thing Hajime did was launch a yakuza kick at a middle aged old man that seemed to be the terrorist leader.

The man seemed like he was about to say something, but he was made to swallow his words back, so it was unknown what he was going to say. Even terrorists weren’t a match to the approaching of old age.

The people around the middle aged man were about to fire at Hajime further, but as expected, Hajime’s slap was overwhelmingly quicker. The guards were all artistically rotating twelve times in midair before getting floored, or getting buried into the wall, or breaking through the ceiling and losing consciousness.

「Now then, old man. You are the mastermind of the simultaneous terrorisms this time, huh?」

「Guh, gohoh, you bastard――」

The yakuza kick burst down on the middle aged man’s solar plexus for the second time today. Trampling on the middle aged man that was vomiting while screaming with a voice that normal people wouldn’t be able to endure, Hajime grinded his foot further as though to add on the pain.

「Well, it’s actually inconsequential whether you are the ring leader or not though. I’ll have you spit out the information about the shitty bastard financing you all here.」

The middle aged man who seemed about to prattle “Who will tell you huh!” got the muzzle of Donner pressed hard on his forehead by Hajime who searched for the company and person who was financing the terrorist organization.

「Wait, you, do you understand what the meaning of this revolution is? The exploitation by America is――」

「Aa, enough about that.」

DOPAN-

The head of the middle aged man that was about to start talking about something got blown away. That act of Hajime who seemed as though he didn’t know of the existence of the word mercy itself caused the remaining leaders to back away while shuddering.

Hajime turned toward those leaders while tapping Donner on his shoulder. The leaders were desperately begging for their lives, saying things like they would give him money, or they would prepare women or anything he liked, but,

「Oy, look here you guys, it seems you tried to execute my daughter and her friend publicly. I won’t let you guys get off with the excuse of not knowing, you know? Indiscriminate terrorism is something like that, isn’t it? You guys tried to push for your own conveniences, indiscriminately. And then among those people there was a relative of a monster. That’s why you guys die. That’s all there is to it. Think of these in your mind, ‘I have done something stupid huuh’, ‘I failed huuh’, and then die.」

Like that……on this day, one terrorist organization, which was once the biggest, was annihilated from this world. Just in case, it seemed that there were two or three people of the leaders who were thrown at a garrison of the US army in a state of beaten up black and blue, where they were safely(?) retrieved.

Part 2

In the living room of the Nagumo family, Hajime and the others were enjoying tea time while watching a special news report. If it was asked what kind of special news it was, then naturally, it was regarding the simultaneous terrorisms that occurred in America the other day and the many miracles at those attack sites.

The male presenter was moving the news report forward with a voice and expression that looked excited.

「Now then, there were existences that changed the many tragedies that were caused by the cowardly terrorists on that day into miracles that will remain in history. Many people killed and wounded were healed by holy light, a passenger plane that was protected by golden light just before it crashed, the hostages that were on the verge of execution were saved from the terrorists by flying kicks and a giant hammer, the president was protected by someone using a single katana……just what in the world were those women? No, just what in the world were those existences? Were they secret agents of the country? Such opinions also seem to exist, but no matter how, it was unimaginable that what they had done was the work of a human. It-was-truly, the work of god! Many people who witnessed them had spoken unanimously.」

There, the male presenter put a long pause before,

「They spoke that those women were exactly “goddesses” that descended to this world.」

Kaori and Shizuku fell prostrated on the table. Their ears were dyed bright red. When Hajime sniggered, the news report moved to the recording of the interview of the witnesses.

A young man of the rescue squad that was carrying out the rescue operation at a destroyed airport was answering the interview in an excited state.

□Eh? You are asking me what I think of the woman’s true identity? Such a thing is obvious. She is a goddess, a goddess that is overflowing with kindness. If possible, I want to know her name but, no, that is too disrespectful perhaps. At any rate, that person is too beautiful, noble, and warm. The light that rained down on those injured people, it was truly divine. That was——□

The interview cut off. Surely if that young man was allowed to keep talking, then he would keep at it even for several hours. The screen changed back to the male presenter.

□He was really excited, wasn’t he! But that too is only natural. Clad in whitely violet light, with a beautiful pair of wings, raining down the light of healing that resurrected even the dead. Furthermore, she appeared almost at the same time at multiple locations that were damaged by the terrorisms, protecting the people with warm light. This existence that cannot possibly be human has been called with a certain name by the people, and this program will recognize that given name. Now, everyone in the studio, and then, you who are in front of the television, let’s extol that great existence! Her name is——Angel of Kindness!□

□□□□□Angel of Kindneesss!!!□□□□□

Kaori sunk down. She crouched while plugging her ears and entered the posture of seeing no evil, hearing no evil, and speaking no evil. It appeared the limit meter of her shyness had already surpassed its max number.

Wasting no time, Yue was making a sadistic expression while she was trying to make Kaori stand up and watch the television. After giving a glance at Kaori who was saying ‘no no’ with her head shaking in refusal and Yue that kept pulling on her, Hajime and the others then paid their attention to the next interview in the news program.

The one who made the next appearance was the unit members that belonged to the coast guard of the West Coast (TN: I realize that at the beginning of the chapter it said East Coast. But it was written West Coast now here.).With body and hand gestures, they excitedly spoke about how tremendous the existence that saved them before protecting the city from the missiles.

And then, they said it. With their mouths in unison, they called that existence as——

□□□□□It was Gozira-!!□□□□□

Like that.

□Why——!! No matter where and how thou see it, it was a dragon, wasn’t it!? It was a legendary existence that everyone loved art not it!? What’s with this fictitious character treatment!!□

Tio went ‘UGAA—’ while standing up in protest. However, the coast guard members in the television were all greatly excited saying□Thank you Gozira!□□We won’t forget Gozira forever.□□Gozira-tan, haa haa□□Gozira, FOREVER□extolling Tio=Gozira.

「Oh maaan, who ever thought that Gozira really exists! And, it appeared at the same time as the angel, and saved the people……the world is just too lovely! Does everyone also think so!? It will come you know; it will absolutely come you knoow~. The GO-ZI-RA Boom is coming-!!」

The tension of the male announcer was already reaching ecstasy. And then, the tension of Hajime and Shuu who had anticipated the coming boom and had already bought a lot of the stock of the company that was selling Godzi○ goods were also in ecstasy.

The next interview subject was the army colonel that was stationed in the Middle East. When the colonel was asked, just what he thought about the kind of existence that had annihilated the large scale army of the terrorist organization attacking his garrison, the colonel floated a nihilistic smile while answering.

「Fuh. That's obvious. He was a demon――no, he was the demon king-sama.」

Hajime spurted out the black tea he was drinking. No, certainly he was called as demon king, but he had never imagined that of all thing he would also be called with that name here in earth too……his cheeks were cramping from that. The colonel inside the television was passionately speaking just how merciless, ruthless, unreasonable, and overwhelming Hajime was, how mere humans were like trash compared to that existence. It was as though the colonel was being possessed by a demon.

「Whoops, it feels like this program will be banned if we broadcasted more than this, so let's finish the interview with the colonel there. It's concerning what will become of the colonel from here on though, isn't it! Now then, it seems that this man who repelled an army of the terrorist organization by his lonesome has many female fans with their number rapidly increasing. For some reason, all recording of this man is blurry which caused us not to be clear about his appearance, but the girls all over the world are going heart-eyed from that mercilessness you know. It seems there is even a fan club formed up already!」

The high tensioned yell 「How enviouuus!」of the male presenter, and then the calm yet excessively cold gazes that were in contrast with that yell, were all stabbing Hajime. Hajime was pretending not to notice anything while he drank his black tea once more.

「But, his popularity among men is also not losing! The gays from all over the world also seem to go heart-eyed. Really, my condolences!」

「Buhoh」

Hajime spurted out his black tea. And then, he was sunk by the kisses and fierce winks that seemed like they were making bachikon sounds thrown at him from across the screen by the many “big sis” who were excessively wriggling and acting flirtatiously despite their muscular build. Hajime fell prostrated on the table with a gon- sound that sounded painful.

While Kaori, Tio, and Hajime were plainly receiving damage, the news continued with the interview of the pilot that witnessed Yue; he was making a statement that sounded like he was somewhat awakened to lolicon, the male presenter wasted no time to cut that off before moving onto the last interview with the president who was treating Shizuku as a Valkyrie. Furthermore, the male presenter mischievously disclosed how the bodyguards of the president had formed a fan club for the black haired Valkyrie, causing Shizuku to turn red greatly.

「I have done the information manipulation and recognition manipulation through the net on a world scale, so no one will know that those people are us but……in the end, we still received damage huh.」

Hajime's tired words were nodded by the people who had saved the world and now were drinking tea in the living room of the Nagumo house.

「Come to think of it, Myuu. After that, what happened to your friend? Just in case, at that time I took out Myuu from the recognition of the children that were in that place but……that child named Natalia is the only one whose recognition I didn't tamper with. Will it become a problem?」

On that day, Hajime applied the measure on the children that Myuu saved so they would only remember that a blond haired girl annihilated the terrorists while making them forgot that the girl was Myuu. Hajime used a silver tube artifact to go flash on the children. That thing which was exclusively used by the black suited agents who protected the earth from alien.

But, regarding Natalia, with Myuu's wish and the strong hope of the person herself, she was not given the recognition manipulation treatment. Natalia herself also promised that she wouldn't reveal anything about Myuu to other people no matter what. Just in case there was a situation where for example someone knew about Myuu and tried to do something to Natalia, Natalia was given an artifact to make other people believe the girl's deception as truth.

「Yep, no problem nano. But……」

「But? Is there something?」

「Uu~n, perhaps it's just Myuu's feeling but, it feels like the way Na-chan is looking at Myuu has changed……」

「……Like how?」

「It's like, Altina-san when she is looking at Shia-oneechan……」

「Myuu, cut off your relationship with Na-chan, right now.」

「It's fine nano. Because Na-chan's face looked satisfied when Myuu gently patted her, and she immediately returned to the usual Na-chan.」

「……I see.」

Hajime's expression turned into one where he couldn't say anything. Shia was directing a gaze that was shuddering at Myuu while saying「Myuu-chan, has she surpassed me before I realized it……」. It appeared that Myuu was steadily climbing the stairs of "wrong person".

「Ah, that's right, papa. Have you flashed Emile-kun too properly nano?」

「Hm? I don't know which one is this Emile that you refer, but all the children at that place other than Natalia, every one of them has been treated for sure. What's the matter?」

「……Emile-kun, for some reason, he remembers about Myuu nano. It looks like he doesn't know that the one who was fighting at that time was Myuu, but he remembered that Myuu was there as Na-chan's friend, and it looked like all this time he was contacting Na-chan saying that he wanted her to let him meet Myuu. Although Na-chan is refusing it all.

.....Hou.

It appeared, the youth Emile was unable to forget the battling fairy of that day. Strangely he was remembering Myuu and seemed to wish for a reunion. Surely it would be boorish to ask what kind of feeling that drove him to do so. After all, if it had to be said, then it was the case of ‘Boy meets girl”.

The doting parent papa Hajime who guessed that emitted a voice that sounded a level lower than usual. He was thinking, so there was one more pest that was approaching his beloved daughter. Since Myuu was advancing to elementary school, the number of pests that were approaching Myuu was increasing day by day.

Young Emile, now what to do about you, was what papa Hajime was beginning to ponder. Myuu who was seeing Hajime being like that looked excessively happy, and she cheerfully sat down on Hajime’s lap. And then, she looked up at Hajime with a wide smile while speaking.

Papa doesn’t need to be that worried. Myuu will forever be papa’s Myuu nano.

Mu, that’s, well, I don’t have any intention of doing anything about such a brat though.....

Papa, Myuu said that Myuu understands.

.....

Hajime was making a troubled face and turned his gaze at Yue and the others asking for help, but before his face could move, Myuu’s small hands caught Hajime’s cheeks from two sides and fixed Hajime’s gaze on herself.

And then, while she was showing a bewitching smile that reminded him of a certain someone somewhere,

「It’s better for papa to think, that you won’t be able to escape forever nano.」

「……」

She said such a thing.

Hajime thought. In this five years, Yue’s magic, Shia’s taijutsu and war hammer art, Tio’s whip art, Kaori’s twin swords art, Shizuku’s Yaegashi-style, and then, Hajime’s gun-kata were all learned by Myuu at a high level. Originally, the sea dweller race didn’t have a body that was particularly excellent in battle, yet regardless of that Myuu had achieved all those.

That was surely because all the cheat characters around her taught Myuu their essence to her without sparing anything, and Myuu who trusted and adored those girls from the bottom of her heart was seriously working hard, but even with those factors, Myuu’s learning rate could still be praised without reserve.

Perhaps because of that, Hajime hallucinated, of his own figure that was being held down by Myuu even after he used all the methods in his possession and yet he still got outdone……

(No, no way that could be……)

「Nmyu?」

With a surprising switching speed, her bewitching expression of just now had gone somewhere, Myuu had returned to the usual innocent Myuu with her tilting her head, that appearance……

For some reason, it caused Hajime to shudder with a sudden shaking.

AN: The New Year holiday will end soon too.

Let’s work hard throughout this year too!

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 193

Arifureta After – Nagumo Family's Bride Riot

AN: Attention, the timeline of this chapter is going back again. This chapter happens in between the return home and the one year anniversary gathering.

The after story is written as the author pleases (the main story was also haphazard though), so the chronological order is also all over the place. Perhaps it's hard to read, but please treat it well.

「I wonder……what to do about the marriage ceremony?」

In the living room that was illuminated by the bright sunlight, Sumire, who was drooping limply on the sofa, whispered to herself.

This day was a holiday for the society. However, Sumire was a famous manga artist from the beginning and didn't have a holiday. In order to sail across the time of judgment with the name of the deadline that was approaching her today too, she class changed into a zombie and headed to her workplace, but……in the end, Sumire, who ran out of material, couldn't advance, and instead of sulking in bed she was sulking in her house acting sluggishly.

At present, Hajime and Shuu weren't at home, only the female camp of Yue and the others were home. What was unusual was that despite Hajime going out he left behind Yue and the others.

Hajime and Shuu were going to a meeting regarding the new game that was being created by Shuu's company, but putting aside Hajime, who was recognized as an important battle strength even while he was still a student, for Yue and the others who only had meager knowledge about games, they couldn't participate in the meeting just with the reason of wanting to be together with their lover, that was the surface reason.

In addition, today Myuu was also going out. It appeared she was taking along her friends(underlings) in the kindergarten to make clear of their position with the kindergarteners from the neighboring town. When Myuu got out of the house entrance, Myuu said「Today is the decisive battle nano. Myuu will teach those pretentious kids, just where their place in society is nano」with a fearless smile; just who she was taking after……such a question didn't even need to be asked.

Because of that, Kaori and Shizuku were also invited into the house, and they spent a laid back holiday with only the females but……

That silent explosive which Sumire threw brought about a ripple that by no means was small among the females. Above their head, there was the "!?" mark floating like a certain soldier, who loved using cardboard boxes, when he was discovered by an enemy soldier, and they turned their gaze to Sumire with a momentum that seemed to give off the sound bat-. It was only Yue who was drinking black tea while directing a gaze at Sumire as though she was looking at a somewhat good-for-nothing person.

「E, err, Kaa-sama? What do you mean by just now?」

Shia represented everyone and asked the true meaning of Sumire's whisper. In response to that, Sumire sluggishly raised her face that was buried on the sofa and opened her mouth with a really uneasy expression.

「There is no deeper meaning to it, Shia-chan. Sooner or later, we intend to hold a grand wedding ceremony of Hajime with Shia-chan and the others, but as expected, it's impossible for all of you to do it, right? See, in this Japan, a country with a constitutional government, polygamy is prohibited by law.」

「Ce, certainly……」

Shia nodded up and down. Kaori and Shizuku went「Hm?」 and tilted their head, they were about to open their mouths to say something, but Sumire's words continued to forestall them.

「Everyone's parents should absolutely want to see their daughter in a wedding dress too. But, how sad, based on the law of Japan, there can only be one bride in the wedding ceremony……that is to say, there is only one person among you that can wear a wedding dress!」

zugaaan! While lighting was roaring behind her back, Sumire loudly yelled the shocking truth(?). Shia and Tio, and also Kaori and the rest made a face that seemed to say 「What did you say――!!」. Shizuku was about to make a retort at what Sumire pointed out but……

「Shizuku-chan……don't you want to wear a wedding dress?」

「Wh? N, no, Sumire-san. That is, that, of course, I want to wear it, but……」

Sumire firmly grasped Shizuku’s shoulder and asked that question to her while peering at her face from really close. After hearing that question, Shizuku’s body leaned back from the pressure and expressed her honest feeling. As though taking advantage of that opening, Sumire’s verbal attack was not stopping!

「Shizuku-chan. Also, Remia-chan who is acting ‘my my ufufu’ over there, and also Yue-chan who for some reason is staring at me with a lukewarm gaze as though I am a good-for-nothing person. Everyone too also wants to wear a wedding dress, don’t you? You want to walk along with Hajime on the wedding aisle wrapped in the ceremonial dress, don’t you?」

「That……yes.」

「……Nn. Of course, Okaa-sama.」

「I also feel the same here, Okaa-san.」

Sumire nodded with ‘yep yep’, however, immediately after, she looked up above with a gesture that was excessively dramatic.

「Isn’t that right. But, only one person can do that. And then, about the marriage registration, that is the notification for the sake of being seen by the people outside as Hajime’s wife, it’s also only one person who can have that……in this Japan, only one person can be formally recognized as Hajime’s wife.」

After saying that Sumire ran her gaze over Yue and the others with a sad expression. And then, Shia and the others, when they heard the words「There is only one person among these people here who will be Hajime’s formal wife」they sent each other gazes containing slight nervousness at each other. Amidst such an atmosphere, Sumire released those words that would push the Nagumo family down into chaos on this day.

「Now, I wonder, who among these women is truly worthy to be Hajime's wife? I wonder, as his mother, who should I choose? Hey, all of you, Hajime's "self-proclaimed" wives?」

「「「「!?」」」」

Shock ran through the body of Shia and the others!

Self-proclaimed――that word deeply, truly deeply, pierced their chest. Indeed, they hadn't submitted any marriage registration or even held the ceremony. No matter how much they insisted that they were husband and wife when seen from the eye of the society, there was no proof of that. The word "self-proclaimed", for some unknown reason, caused a violent discomfort to well up to the point that they couldn't negate it!

「Ka, Kaa-sama-! What, what should I do desu!?」

「Ah, Shia, that's unfair! Okaa-san! I will do my best for Hajime-kun's sake! That's why!」

「E, ee, me too, I'll do my best so……」

「Hmmm, I too, perhaps it wouldth be soon the time to show mine seriousness.」

Shia, Kaori, Shizuku, and Tio, who got all flustered and shook up, gathered around their mother-in-law and begged for her teachings. Even Yue and Remia, who had somehow guessed Sumire's ulterior motive, only slightly exchanged glances and troubled smiles before closing in on Sumire's side.

Sumire was smiling complacently inside her heart looking at her obedient(?) daughters-in-law. However, she didn’t show even a speck of the inside of her heart, and then with a force that seemed to make a sound zubishi- she thrust up her finger. And then, she proclaimed.

「Yue-chan, Shia-chan, Tio-chan, Kaori-chan, Remia-chan, Shizuku-chan! Do all of you want to wear a wedding costume at Hajime-sideee――!」

Naturally, the wives replied back「Oo~~~」in high spirits.

「Do you waaant, to be seen as Hajime’s wife by the neighbooors――!!」

Naturally, the wives replied back「Gung ho, gung ho, gung ho!!」in high spirits.

「Do you waaant~, to have your name written in the marriage registratiooon―――!!」

Naturally, the wives replied back「Uu~raaraaraaraa―――」in high spirits.

The trivial things already didn’t matter.

After that, with Sumire’s incitement, Yue and the others progressed the preparation for the sake of「The deciding match of who is the most worthy as the wife in the Nagumo Family!」.

In the evening, Hajime and Shuu finished their work and went home. They were passing through the house entrance while talking about this and that regarding the meeting today about the new game production, and they put their hand on the entryway’s door. And then,

「I’m home~」

「We’re back~」

They said the returning home greeting while opening the door……

「……Nn. Welcome home, dear, Otou-sama.」

「Welcome home desu!」

They were welcomed, by Yue and Shia who were only wearing frilly pure white small aprons. Shuu spoke「O, oo!?」from the side, but in the next instant, 「pugeh」a scream was raised, and he crumbled down. The swift inescapable attack from his son sent his consciousness flying.

「What are, you doing, Yue, Shia.」

Those figures of pure white, tight, beautiful legs and slender arms and shoulders, and then, the breasts that were bared by more than half, which was too lascivious, caused Hajime’s cheeks to cramp up while asking.

「……Of course, toward the husband who has just worked hard and returned home――」

「The wife welcomes him with her all desuu.」

「With a naked apron?」

「「With a naked apron.」」

Yue and Shia twirled on the spot. Their naked back and jiggling butts were shown to Hajime.

「You aren’t happy?」

「Is this a failure desu?」

Yue and Shia tilted their heads while confirming to Hajime. Naturally, Hajime bowed his head saying「Thank you very much」. It was the sad nature of man. Seeing such a Hajime, Yue and Shia asked him something strange「From 1 to 10, what is our score?」. Even while feeling suspicious, Hajime answered「Full score」without hesitation.

Yue and Shia took a guts pose「Yosh-」, then they took off Hajime’s coat and baggage before vanishing inside the room with their lovely butts exposed to him throughout.

「What is going on……」

While feeling as though he was watching a waking dream, Hajime shouldered his fainted father and opened the door to the living room.

There, this time it was,

「You guys too!?」

「uu, we, welcome, home, Hajime-kun.」

「We, we, welco——impossibleee, as expected I cannot endure this!!」

「My my, fufu. Welcome home, dear.」

「Yes, welcome home, Goshujin-sama.」

Kaori and Shizuku, also Remia and Tio were wearing naked aprons as expected while welcoming him home with a bow with their three fingers of each hand pressing on the floor. Hajime's spontaneous retort caused Shizuku's face to turn bright red from shame while she was rushing out of the room. However, it didn't change the fact that she was wearing a naked apron, so it went without saying that her captivating jiggling butt was exposed to him.

「Uu, what, suddenly an impact hit my jaw……hah!? What is this place, is this Shangri-la abeshih-」

Shuu, who Hajime had discarded on the sofa, appeared to be opening his eyes, but as expected he received a swift, unavoidable attack that made him collapse with the white of his eyes exposed.

While glancing at Shuu, as expected a question of「The score?」from the wives came at him. Hajime livelily told「2 points」only to Tio before he said to Kaori and Remia「Full points」. Ignoring Tio who twitched before starting to pant, Kaori and Remia made a guts pose, and as expected they disappeared into the kitchen with their butts exposed to him.

「So, Kaa-san. What are you making them do this time?」

Hajime was sighing while asking Sumire, who was grinning broadly while making a cool pose for some reason in the corner of the room.

「My, what's with that? You make me sound like I am a problem child. I am merely accompanying everyone in their homemaking training, you know?」

「This is the first time I heard that a naked apron is bride training.」

「Welcoming the husband home is also one of the creditable bride training. You see, Yue-chan and the others, right now they are competing with each other, you know? About who is the worthiest as the bride of the Nagumo family. As their husband, you have to watch them properly. The conclusion won't be reached if everyone gets full points, so you have to grade properly! Okay!?」

「……」

Hajime was sending the most reproachful gaze he could make to Sumire. Before, the girls had done training for housework, laundry, and cooking as bride training. And now they were competing with each other after this late with abnormal ways like naked aprons; no matter how he thought about it this must be a prank. And the mastermind of this prank could only be one person in this place.

Hajime was about to question Sumire further, but at that time, Yue approached him with small steps. Her clothing was still the same.

「……Hajime, the preparation for dinner and a bath is finished.」

「O, ou, I see.」

「……Nn. So……」

Yue tightly clutched the fringe of her apron while fidgeting. If she did something like that, then the apron that had already been in a risky length from the beginning would be further rolled up and become something dangerous. Naturally, Hajime's gaze was pulled to that territory like a monster who was being sucked into the mouth of a thunder dragon.

Toward such a Hajime, Yue mouthed that template speech.

「……Will you not take a bath, and do me? Or will you not take the dinner, and do me? Or else, will you do me, or do me?」

「……In the end, there is no option for me though……」

It was off by a bit from the template! As expected of Yue quality, but the matchless vampire princess wasn’t finished with just this level!

「Then, will you take a bath while doing me? Or else, will you have dinner while doing me?」

「What does that mean!?」

「……As expected, it will be embarrassing, doing it in front of Otou-sama and Okaa-sama. But, if Hajime wishes for it.」

「I don’t wish that! There is a limit even at being abnormal!」

「Myy, Hajime you! This pervert son!」

「Kaa-san, shut up a bit there!」

Hajime’s retort gushed out. On this occasion, he left alone Yue who was blushing while fidgeting with both her hands on her cheeks. For the time being, he should make her wear some clothes and recover the order in the Nagumo household. Hajime was about to act with that objective.

But, before he could do that,

「I, I cannot let, only Yue take the spotlight! Ha, Hajime-kun!」

「Ka, Kaori?」

Still in her naked apron, Kaori, who peeked out from the cover of the kitchen, leaped out as though she had been waiting for her turn. While she was fidgeting pigeon-toed looking embarrassed, she yelled with an expression that was filled with resolve.

「Won’t you eat me as dinner!?」

「What are you saying!?」

「What seasoning do you wanttt!?」

「Calm down-, what you are saying is just too lacking in common sense!」

「Myy, Hajime you! This Mr. gourmet master-」

「I’m going to throw you out of the house, Kaa-san!」

After that, Shia and the others similarly leapt out after that and were saying similar things which Hajime retorted back at severely. Sumire, who watched that, stirred up the place. Shuu, who recovered his consciousness with a ‘hah’, was made to sleep with a swift unavoidable attack, and in the end, it was one hour later before they could have dinner normally.

By the way, as expected everyone was wearing clothes when eating dinner. For some reason, everyone was wearing risqué cosplay appearances though……

In the middle of dinner, a young delivery service man was making a delivery, but he was startled by the blonde miniskirt police woman that came out from the house. He stepped back after seeing the miniskirt nurse that came out from behind the police woman saying「You forget the stamp heree」. Next, he sweated coldly due to the miniskirt shrine maiden that came in a panic saying「What are you two doing going out with that appearance!」. In the end, the young man expressed his gratitude「Tank ou hery much-————」that was filled with various meanings with a red face and also panic.

At any rate, the cooking showdown had everyone make one dish; which then got judged by Hajime, and it went mostly peacefully.

「Haa」

「Nmyu? What's the matter papa?」

In the bath, Hajime was washing the hair of Myuu who came home just before the dinner while unintentionally making a tired sigh. Myuu was tilting her head that was covered all over with bubbles.

「Myuu……grow up into a normal girl for me okay.」

「??」

「No, it doesn't matter. Just forget it.」

Looking at his beloved daughter that was tilting her head in incomprehension, Hajime was smiling wryly thinking 'just what am I saying' before rinsing off the bubbles on Myuu's hair.

But, at that time, Hajime's senses detected the presence of several people approaching the bathroom!

「Wait, Kaori and also Shizuku, those two haven't gone home yet?」

Before Hajime entered the bath, he had told the two of them that they should go back home soon. But regardless of that, Hajime could sense the presence of Kaori and Shizuku among the presences that were approaching; it made Hajime be at his wits' end. Immediately after, the door of the bathroom was opened loudly. Just as he expected, there were the stark naked figures of Yue and the others boldly standing imperiously! Not even a single string was covering their bodies; it was to the degree that Hajime wanted to tell them to at least use a towel to cover their front. (For the moment, it was only Shizuku who was using a towel to hide her body.)

「……Nn. Now-」

「Charge desuu!」

「I won't lose! The one who is the most skilled at washing Hajime-kun's body is meee!」

「Ufufu, today is the day I'm washing the front.」

「Haa haa, Goshujin-sama, haa haa」

「……Pardon me.」

It appeared this was a competition about who could wash the body of the husband the best. Hajime's eyes were twitching while he quickly headed to the bathtub and urged Myuu to follow. It was as though he was asking her if she could accompany him.

But,

「I won't let you!」

Along with those words, whoosh Yue instantly appeared before Hajime’s eyes.

「Wai-, don’t use “Heaven Existence” in this kind of place!」

「Level X–」

「Maximum body reinforcement!? Ah, idiot, let go, this pervert rabbit!」

「Even me-, Limit Break-」

「What kind of limit are you planning to break, huh!?」

Hajime was completely surrounded by the vampire princess, the bug rabbit, and the angel mode maiden! Using that opening, Remia secured Myuu while Tio used wind magic to form a barrier and shut out the voices from leaking outside by laying out a veil of air.

Like that, in the next moment, the bathroom was turned into a battlefield. A battlefield of carnivorous maidens.

「Kuh, who can stay in this kind of place where there are only beasts! I’m going back to my room!」

While holding up a strange flag, Hajime slapped Tio severely to the point that it made her pant while he attempted to rush out of the bathroom. There Yue teleported, and Kaori activated her God Speed and leapt at his back while Shia clung on to his waist with her greatest body reinforcement. Because of his wet feet and the polished floor, Hajime slipped and fell down.

There Yue and the others jumped further at that chance; even the revived Tio also got on top of Hajime.

At the corridor of the Nagumo household, there was the figure of Hajime who was lying upside down while being covered with beautiful women and girls.

At the same time,

There was the figure of Sumire, cackling loudly while rolling on the corridor holding her stomach from seeing that situation.

Somewhere, snap the sound of something snapping resounded.

Right after that, Yue and the others raised「Aahn」coquettish voice. Their weak spot was fondled by Hajime. Strength reflexively left their bodies~, using that opening Hajime stood up. Kaori was saying something foolish「Hau, Hajime-kun's Hajime-kun is in front of my eyes」, but he ignored that.

「Kaa-san, it seems that a family meeting is necessary between us. Also, it has to be an extraordinarily harsh meeting.」

「My, Hajime. I don't think that such meeting is necessary though?」

「No, it's necessary. ……The meeting for the sake of making Kaa-san reflect on yourself!」

Hajime's store of patience had run out from his mother's prank that was too much. He took a step forward. He intended to wrap his mother in a bamboo mat then hang her up for a night so she could reflect a little.

But, it seemed that Sumire had already predicted that action of Hajime's. While saying「I've thought that this will happen!□with a triumphant look, she took out a vacuum cleaner that was leaning in the shadow of the corridor.

——Cleaning Artifact “Sniper Mark II”

By any chance, do you have the experience of sucking even the thing that must not be sucked carelessly when cleaning using a vacuum cleaner? It can become a cause that broke the vacuum, but opening the lid to fish it out every single time is troublesome, isn’t it? In that kind of time, use this. The next generation vacuum cleaner “Sniper Mark II”.

If you have this, you can select the target that you want to suck and the target that you don’t want to suck! Furthermore! If you put this to practical use, it’s even possible to suck the soy sauce or the remote control that is far away into your hand, just with a single push of a button! The next generation vacuum cleaner is already not limited for just cleaning in its utility!

The absorption force will never fall. The era from here on is the era of multiple absorption forces that suck only the prey you aimed for!

The vacuum cleaner (exclusive for the Nagumo household) that Hajime developed with such a catchphrase was held in Sumire’s hand.

In front of the suspicious eyes of Hajime, Sumire took out the degraded version Crystal Key from her breast pocket. It was handed over to her so in the case that something happened to his parents because of the matter of Hajime and the others, they could immediately teleport away.

Before Hajime could say□What are you□, Sumire stabbed the degraded crystal key to the front. Immediately the space distorted, and a gate materialized. At the same time, Sumire pushed the max mode button on the vacuum cleaner. Naturally, the powerful absorption force pulled on the target from inside the gate.

「Wha, wha, what!? What is going on!? Nooo――, I’m being pulleeeeeeed-」

Like that, a familiar scream could be heard, then from the other side of the gate, a petite female figure in a suit tumbled out. Sumire turned off the switch at the same time when that figure came out, but following the law of inertia, the female that leaped out from the gate rolled into the corridor of the Nagumo house, the figure finally stopped when her face crashed munyu! on the obstacle in front of her.

「……」

「……」

The female that rolled out from the gate and plunged into a certain thing with her face――Hatayama Aiko-sensei, wordlessly, slowly, pulled her face away from that place where her face was buried into. And then, looking at that thing dangling in front of her eyes that seemed to be familiar, she tilted her head while saying……

「Hajime-kun?」

「Aiko, can you spare me from you calling my name while looking at my crotch?」

「Hah!? Awawawawawa, I, I’m sorry~」

Yes, the rolling out Aiko, due to the momentum, her face landed on the son of Hajime that was currently standing imposingly stark naked.

Aiko instantly blushed hard while her mind was in chaos thinking ‘I don’t understand the situation!’. Looking from her suited figure, perhaps she had work regardless of the holiday and she only just came home. Despite so, she was suddenly made to teleport, and on top of that she dived face first into the crotch of her lover that was hidden from society except to some people……it was only natural for her to be astonished.

「Yo, you are wanting me and are using this kind of forceful method!?」, or「No, it’s not like I hate it but……waiting naked like this is a bit……」, or「Pe, perhaps I cannot go home tonight……」, it also couldn’t be helped if she was talking to herself like that, perhaps.

Anyway, after Hajime wrapped a towel on his waist, he ran his gaze around once more, but Sumire’s figure had already disappeared; he could only see the door of the entrance that was closing and a piece of paper fluttering midair. It seemed her plan was to make Aiko a distraction while she escaped. It was a splendid escape.

Hajime picked up the memo paper that fell at his feet, and his gaze fell on it. There,

「I received enough material. Thank you, very much. Mama is going back to her work now!」

Such a thing was written.

「Haa, I thought it was something like this……Yue, you noticed it already, right?」

Hajime was sighing to his mother’s deed while questioning Yue who was standing at his side unnoticed. In response, Yue nodded. Hearing that, Shia who had similarly recovered tilted her head and asked what Hajime meant.

「Look here, whether the wedding ceremony will be done one by one, or with everyone all at once, either is fine, but there is no rule that only one person can do it. Besides, if need be, we can also just do the ceremony at Tortus.」

「Aa~, now that Hajime-san mentions it that's true isn't it.」

「Besides, even the marriage registration, I have already faked the official papers about you all itself, so fussing about the marriage registration for everyone right now is meaningless, isn't it? Something like the consistency of the data or whatever, it can be taken care of later as we please.」

「Now that you mention it, that's true. Then, why did Okaa-san do something like a Bride deciding battle……」

「That's obviously for her material collection. Just why do you think she was slacking off in the house this afternoon?」

In short, Sumire said whatever sounded appropriate to incite Shia and the others, and then the uproar that was caused due to that would be turned into the material for her manga that currently was reaching the limits. That was Sumire's scheme.

Shia and the others thought that it was also their own fault that they got caught into the provocation thoroughly like that, but Sumire's capability of letting out a flowing speech just by adlibbing like an agitator, it was just as expected from the mother of Hajime.

And then, Yue who noticed the intention of such Sumire still participated without really objecting was because,

「Today too was a fun day.」

「I see.」

That seemed to be the reason. For Yue, this kind of stupid uproar was also included in her lovely ordinary days. Something like boorish fair arguments could be tossed into the trash can. The satisfied expression of Yue made Hajime shrug「Well, then, it's fine」.

「Say~, I really don't understand what you are all taking about though……」

Aiko called timidly at Hajime and the others that were feeling warm and fluffy by themselves. Hajime glanced at Aiko and,

「My body got completely cold now……let's enter the bath again. With everyone this time.」

Saying that Hajime picked up Aiko in a princess carry. 「Eh? Eh?」Giving a glance at Aiko who was in confusion, Yue and the others raised an「Oo~」in harmony and returned to the large bathroom of the reconstructed Nagumo house.

After that, including Aiko who was stripped by Hajime's hand, Hajime and the wives relaxed and enjoyed the bath without particularly any competition.

……There was no one who paid any attention to Shuu who was still passed out in the living room.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 194

Arifureta After – Protector of Angel

AN: My nose won’t stop dripping……

Everyone too, please be very careful against the cold.

Part 1

A famous foreign manufactured car (Mercedes Benz) that was reputed to be the firmest in the world was gallantly driving on the road along the coast. The car’s exterior, which was shining silver, showed how well polished it was, making anyone who saw it understand how much the owner cherished it.

Inside that car, the sea breeze flowed in from the opened window and the classic song, which was the favorite of the car owner, was playing making the time of the people riding that car to pass in relaxation.

“This sea route still feels pleasant every time we come here.”

Yes, the refreshing voice that expressed the feeling of this drive, was the driver of this car and also its owner——Shirasaki Tomoichi. He had hair that was lightly flowing down his back, long slitted and gentle eyes, and a balanced body type while his age was only that of being in the middle of his forties; just from his appearance, he was a handsome man that could pass as a man that was still in his late twenties.

Sitting beside Tomoichi was a woman that nodded at Tomoichi’s words while saying“You’re right, no matter how many times we come here, this is a really good place.”, was Shirasaki Kaoruko. Looking at her straight black hair without any white hair, her droopy eyes, and the neat and clean atmosphere she was clad with, she was a woman that felt like a lady. She was the same as Tomoichi as her age was in the middle of her forties, but she still looked like a young woman in her late twenties.

Just like their family name showed, they were a married couple. Just from their atmosphere, it could be clearly seen how they had been building a satisfactory marital relationship.

But even while Tomoichi’s consciousness was concentrating on the driving, it didn’t seem like he was paying attention at his wife. Since before, he kept glancing at the rearview mirror and repeatedly paid attention to the rear seat. Even his impression of the drive just now seemed to be a bit forced if someone listened carefully, rather than saying that it was his true feeling it was more a lure for starting a conversation. And then, it was clear that the cause of that was the passenger in the rear seat.

Hearing no other response to his words other than from his wife, Tomoichi coughed「A, ahem」, this cough also seemed to be forced, and then he once again formed his words to try to attract the attention of the person in the rear seat. This happened while his wife beside him was giggling at him.

「O, Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan, their ages are already quite old, so how about we move here soon? A home near the sea is nice don’t you think? Hey, what do you think? Kaori?」

「……Absolutely, no.」

The cold voice and words that came back caused Tomoichi to let out a small groan「Uguu」. He once more began repeatedly glancing at the rearview mirror to look at his beloved daughter——Kaori’s expression who was sitting in the back.

Kaori was emitting an assertion「I am displeased desu!」from her whole body while staring fixedly on the outside as though to say that she absolutely wouldn’t meet Tomoichi’s eyes. But even with such a super displeased mode being turned on, her posture, without putting her elbow on the window or crossing her arms, of having her two hands were put on her lap with her back straight, was really Kaori like.

Tomoichi attempted to talk further with an expression that looked a little desperate at Kaori.

「I, is that so? In the past, each time we came to play here, wouldn’t you always say ‘I don’t want to go home!’. Remember Riko-chan who lived next door, or your cousin Sakura-chan, you always played together with them, right? I think moving here is not really ba――」

「Then, isn’t it fine if Otou-san moves here alone?」

「!? No way!? That’s too much you know, Kaoriii!」

With a snap, Tomoichi turned around to the back seat. The Benz of the Shirasaki family was zigzagging! A string slap landed on Tomoichi’s face! Tomoichi’s face was forcefully faced to the front!

A call「Dear?」from Kaoruko that made Tomoichi fell a small but intense chill resounded inside the car. 「Forgive me」 Tomoichi honestly apologized. Tomoichi knew really well that the true anger of his wife was like a production machine of trauma. In his dream, the Shiro Yasha-san was making an appearance! (TN: Shiro Yasha=white demon)

「Geez, dear you really……there is no way Kaori will accept that suggestion, right? There is Shizuku-chan, and also her friends at school back there.」

「Pe, perhaps that’s true but……」

Tomoichi’s eyes were swimming while he was still feeling the stinging pain on his cheek. Seeming very reluctant, he whispered「Even so, I think that idea is not bad though……」

Currently, the Shirasaki family was heading to the home of Tomoichi’s parents where both his parents and his older brother and his wife were living. Tomoichi’s elder brother and his wife had a daughter that was four years older than Kaori. That daughter was a really helpful daughter even though she could be a bit frank; she was an existence that was like a big sister to Kaori. The house was near the sea, so the two of them often played at sea together with Riko of the Ayasaki family who lived next door.

Kaori was an only child, and because of that she really idolized Sakura. When Kaori was little she often clung to Sakura while throwing tantrums and yelling「I don’t want to go home yet」. Due to that, Tomoichi was thinking, could Kaori possibly consider moving there even now……could she be distanced from that nasty shitty brat……and so on, but…….

Kaoruko, who seemed to grasp those thoughts dwelling inside of Tomoichi’s heart clearly, was giggling while speaking about the thing that Tomoichi didn’t want to hear the most. About the real reason why Kaori was displeased. About the young man that was the reason that Kaori absolutely wouldn’t accept moving from home.

「Besides, you see? There is no way that Kaori will leave the town where Hajime-kun is, don’t you think?」

「Stop it Kaoruko! This is our long-awaited family’s homecoming without any outsiders, you know!? Don’t say anything about that shitty brat who dares to make a pass at the cute angel of our family――

Otou-san?

Tomoichi felt a chill at his back and twitched. He understood even without looking. This was a presence that really resembled his wife's! It would be there if he looked back! The incarnation of fury that his daughter inherited from her mother before he noticed――the Hannya-san!

But, just with this much, Otou-san wouldn't lose. For the sake of his beloved daughter, the apple of his eye!

Ka, Kaori, calm down. My words just now were a bit poor. But, as expected Otou-san, about that bagwor――ahem-. That tras――ehem-. That shitty――

……I'm going home right now. I won't listen anymore to what Otou-san has to say.

Nooo! Kaori, listen to what I'm saying! Otou-san is thinking about what is best for Kaori's sake……(TN: Here Tomoichi is saying nooo in English.)

Otou-san is badmouthing Hajime-kun because Otou-san is thinking about what's best for me? I never thought that Otou-san is that kind of person.

You are wrong, Kaori! Even Otou-san doesn't want to say bad things about, Ha, Haji, Haji――about that guy. But, but still? While that bastard already has Kaori, he still made many other girls to serve him and open their legs for him; on top of that, instead of feeling guilty, he is acting defiant, you know? Do you think there is any father that can entrust his daughter to that kind of shitty bastard? No, such a father doesn’t exist! I’m telling this for your own good. Kaori, cut your relation with that cocky rubbish scum――

I hate someone like Otou-san so much!

Gahah!?

Tomoichi, who was hit by the speech that would empty the HP of any father in the whole country if it was said to them by their daughter, caused the car to zigzag once more. With tears gathering at the corner of his eye, Tomoichi was leaking out the voice No waaay, Kaorii, My Angeeeel~ looking really pathetic. (TN: The ‘my angel’ here is said in English.)

A few months after Kaori returned home from the other world, Tortus. Tomoichi and Kaoruko were already introduced to Hajime. From the beginning, before the summoning, Tomoichi and Kaoruko already knew that Kaori had a boy in her mind, but putting aside Kaoruko, from the start Tomoichi was already unable to stomach that boy――Hajime.

It wasn’t like Tomoichi had a clear reason. It was the feeling of a father whose treasured daughter might be taken from him, that feeling might even be called as a conditioned reflex. Tomoichi sometimes even bared his hostility toward Kouki and Ryutaro. If he acted like that even to the childhood friends of his daughter, then Hajime, who had started to live inside his daughter’s heart before he noticed, was already like his sworn enemy, that really couldn’t be helped.

Naturally, because this was Tomoichi, whose level as a doting parent had already reached the max value when Kaori disappeared, it was already a disaster for him. At that time, Kaoruko’s physical condition also worsened, but the Shirasaki family somehow held on by borrowing the help of the elder brother’s family and their parents, and also their whole relatives.

And then, his beloved daughter returned home like a miracle. They were told about the truth of the disappearance which scared them out of their wits from various things, and then they were shown many mystics in order to prove Kaori’s story, naturally all of those were a succession of astonishment for them but……there was a matter that was really hard to forgive, to the degree that all those absurdities seemed like trivial matter.

Yes, it was the matter about how his beloved daughter(My Angel) had made a lover.

Furthermore, that lover had several other lovers other than Kaori, he didn’t even have any intention to separate from any of those lovers, and in the end, he started talking about taking them all as wives. ‘Are you making a fool of me-, you bastard!’ Tomoichi roared angrily like that many times……

On top of that, the daughter in question was accepting of such a harem situation and making a really happy expression that even Tomoichi had never seen before. She was also saying things like ‘together with the other girls!’, and upon hearing that several times Tomoichi yelled angrily ‘You bastaaard, you are putting my daughter under some strange magic, aren’t you! No, it absolutely must be like that, you harmful pest-!’……

Furthermore, the speech that all the fathers in the whole country feared that someday might be said to them, no, the speech that the fathers had resolved they wouldn’t let any man say! ——「Father-in-law, please give your daughter to me!」, instead became「Father-in-law, I’ve received your daughter. Please take care of me from here on too」. When that curve ball was thrown to Tomoichi, he very naturally thought this, 「Yosh, let's kill this guy」.

Everything was for the sake of his beloved daughter, to protect her from a bad man. Yet despite so, when he was about to punch the bastard, the one who pinioned him from the back was the daughter herself. While Hajime, who was about to be punched, kept sitting calmly and composedly. That self-assured attitude (Hajime himself was aware that he had something that was considered the worst, so he was only waiting to be punched) was also something he couldn't stomach! Tomoichi was raging「This shitty bastarddd-, I'll beat you to deathhhhh!」like that, but in the end was stopped by Kaori「Otou-san, calm dooooown!」with a suplex. Because Tomoichi lost consciousness, the meeting at that time was dissolved just but……

After that, Tomoichi knew that actually, Kaori had already climbed the stair of adulthood, which caused Tomoichi's killing intent to climb without knowing a place to stop.

This time too, actually Kaori wanted to participate in the Nagumo family's little gathering. But Tomoichi who thought 'No way I'll let my daughter go to the devil's place' hurriedly scheduled a visit to his parents and took Kaori along half forcefully.

When Kaori was in the middle of talking to Hajime about the arrangement, Tomoichi took away Kaori's phone and said to the phone「Kaori has plans! She is going to spend her holiday with me! From here on too she won't have any openings in her plans! Don't call anymore, you scum bastard!」, and then he cut off the connection as he pleased.

Naturally, Kaori was getting angry at her father's doing, but Tomoichi only looked aside with a huff and turned a deaf ear to Kaori. While that was happening, Hajime used telepathy to Kaori to tell her 「You should spend time with your family this time. Actually, I really understand how your father is feeling.」with a wry smile, and so Kaori reluctantly acquiesced to visit her grandparents.

Although, Kaori's mood, who had her phone call taken over as it pleased on top of the fact that her lover had abusive language spouted at him, was at its lowest, so since they departed from their home, Tomoichi was desperate in currying favor to his daughter.

「Come on you two. Leave it at this; we are going to arrive soon, see?」

While smiling wryly at the cold war (one-sided) between father and daughter, Kaoruko intermediated between them. Just as she said before they realized it, they had entered a residential area, and in front of the car, a splendid house with two buildings that they were really familiar with began to become visible.

While being concerned about Kaori's state, Tomoichi stopped the car at the shoulder of the road, in front of the house. In the middle, garigari, an ominous scraping sound that should not come from a high class car could be heard, but such a thing was only a trivial matter for Tomoichi who was hopelessly bothered over his daughter's state. He left aside the expression of his wife that was looking like she had a headache.

Kaori immediately got out of the car without saying anything. Tomoichi also hurriedly got out of the car and took out the luggage from the car's trunk.

「Kaori. Otou-san will carry the luggage for you!」

They planned to stay for three or four days, so Kaori's luggage was in a Boston bag sized bag. Tomoichi carried the luggage while speaking smilingly, but Kaori walked briskly to him and tore off her luggage from him with a huff.

「It's only until the entrance, Otou-san is too exaggerating. ……If it's Hajime-kun, he will naturally bring the luggage without saying anything like that.」

「!? Is, is that so!? Ha, Haji……that bastard, earning a point in a petty way like that. (Hajime-kun, really is a considerate child isn't he~)」

「……Haah. Dear, your true feelings and surface attitude are reversed there you know.」

Kaori averted her face 'Puiihh!!' from Tomoichi who was plainly leaking out his true feelings without hiding it at all, and then she ignored Tomoichi and walked away briskly. Tomoichi fell to his knees at the entrance of the house. His figure that was on all fours with his head hanging down was really inviting pity……

「……Just when I thought that you all finally arrived. Oji-san, what are you doing in that kind of place? The neighbors are looking, so I want you to stop doing that though.」(TN: Oji-san=uncle)

When Kaori was about to ring the chime of the door, a resident of the house, that seemed to come from the backyard while circling the house to the front, called with a voice that sounded exasperated and astonished.

「Sakura-oneechan!」

「Welcome Kaori. As always, it looks like it's difficult for you involving various things, but I'm glad that you look energetic. Just relax slowly here.

Kaori smiled widely at the owner of that voice——her cousin Shirasaki Sakura and embraced her.

Sakura, who was a female college student, had straight brown hair. She was a beautiful woman with a well proportion body like a model (TN: The words used here have the meaning beautiful, well-proportioned woman (body 8 times longer than the head)). The features of her face itself vaguely resembled Kaori, but the atmosphere she was clad in was basically cool. She felt like the so-called frank girl. Her hand was holding a hose that was trickling water, so surely she was just watering the garden before this.

Sakura's cool gaze softened at her cousin that was like a little sister who leaped into her chest, and then she used her empty hand to caress Kaori's head gently.

When she heard that Kaori was involved in a group disappearance, she was really worried to the point that she felt lost. Naturally, when she was notified that Kaori had come home, she immediately went to meet her directly. And so, different from the other distant relatives, she had already met with Kaori several times since Kaori's return.

Even so, the society was still in commotion in regard to the topic of the returnees. The topic could be seen enough on the television, so as expected, it was something joyful to be able to see Kaori's energetic face directly like this.

Having the sharp words of his niece directed at him, Tomoichi hung his head down even lower. Kaoruko was dragging Tomoichi while entering together with Kaori and Sakura into the house where the grandparents and uncle were living.

Part 2

The sun had already gone down by this point. On the coastal street where the veil of night was beginning to fall, Kaori and Sakura were walking close to each other like true sisters.

「The live show was amazingly lively, wasn’t it? I don’t really go often to that kind of event, so I was really excited.」

「Is that so? Then that’s good. There were only local bands, so I wondered if it was strange for you.」

Kaori, who received a passionate welcoming at Sakura’s home, had passed a relaxing time there while talking to each other about their families’ recent state for a while. And then when it was evening, she was told that there was a live event of the local bands at the coastal venue starting at that time, so she was taken along by Sakura to attend at the live to kill time.

Sakura responded to her cheerfully smiling younger sister that she would be glad if Kaori was able to enjoy the show, however, Sakura’s expression was twitching a bit. The cause of that was one person. Sakura glanced over her shoulder behind them.

「Uu, Kaoriii. My angeeel. Can you make eye contact with Otou-san soon? Otou-san is going to die here from the loneliness.」

Yes, it was Tomoichi. For two women to go to a live show by themselves, they didn’t know what could happen to them. Giving that argument, Tomoichi went along with Kaori and Sakura, but the attitude of Kaori that treated him like he didn’t exist caused Tomoichi to make a contorted face that was about to cry. Furthermore, Kaori didn’t change her attitude at all even after looking at her father acting like that; instead, she was still smiling cheerfully, and looking at such a Kaori, honestly speaking, it was a bit scary.

The cold war between the father and daughter was definitely inflicting damage to Sakura’s stomach.

By the way, the reason Kaori was taking such an attitude wasn’t only because of the quarrel in the car, or Tomoichi’s accompaniment to the live show. Actually, when the families were talking at Sakura’s house, a topic about Hajime came up and urged by Sakura, Kaori made a call but……anyway what could be said was that Tomoichi bombed that phone call once more.

「……Hey, Kaori. How about you forgive Oji-san soon? Oji-san, he looks like he is seriously going to cry there. Honestly, having an uncle with a face that’s about to cry following behind you on the street at night, it’s scary.」

「Fufu, sheesh Sakura-oneechan. What are you saying? No matter where you look, there isn’t anyone like that here, you know?」

「Kaoriii! Otou-san is right here! Now, look here, please!」(TN: The ‘please’ is said in English.)

「See? There is no one, right?」

「Haa……」

Sakura’s stomach received further damage. For Sakura, if her cute little sister made a boyfriend, then she also wouldn’t be so accepting of that boyfriend. Therefore, it wasn’t like she couldn’t understand Tomoichi’s feeling. But, in reverse, to have a parent saying this and that about the person that she liked was……as a girl in the same position of being a daughter, she was also able to understand Kaori’s feelings. She was stuck between a rock and a hard place.

‘Geez, anything is fine, so won’t something happen that will end this father-daughter fight that has become quite troublesome’, when Sakura was running from reality by thinking that……

□Eehh? You girls there, you two were at the live show just now, right? What a coincidence! Want to talk a bit?□

It came. Inside her heart, Sakura held her head thinking □What kind of timing this is.□. Ahead of the gaze of Sakura, there was a group of youngsters with a really flashy atmosphere as though they were someone that really liked messing around. When judging from their similar appearances, there were about ten people. Sakura grandly made retorts, like why they were calling out to two girls when there were about ten people in their group, or whether they even saw the man who seemed to be the father behind the two of them. Of course, those were done inside her heart.

□My bad, but we have plans after this.□

□Plans? It’s plans to go play, right? Then, let’s go together yeah. The more, the merrier.□

Sakura politely refused, but the seducer group was grinning while surrounding Sakura and Kaori. No matter how they looked at this, it didn’t seem like they were planning to let the two of them go home merely. Because Sakura and Kaori were a beautiful woman and girl that really couldn’t be found that often in this area, these men wouldn’t give up that easily.

But, naturally, seeing his beloved daughter and cute nephew getting hit on, there was no way Tomoichi could just stay quiet.

「You all. My daughter just said that she doesn’t want to go with you. Now, open the way. We all just enjoyed a nice live show. Let both of our groups avoid any troublesome matter.」

「Aa, what is it, old man? Rather, your daughter? Eeh? By any chance, are you coming along with your daughter? Uwaa, that’s seriously disgusting.」

「Hey old man, being overprotective is no good. Is this what is called an over-demanding parent? Have some self-awareness. Seriously, how uncool.」

「Rather, the one harassing these two here is you old man. Seriously, realize that. Come on, you two too, let’s leave this stalker father and come play with us, yeah?」

The men who were trying to pick up the girls guffawed loudly from the words of Tomoichi who came to the front while verbally abusing Tomoichi. Hearing their words, Tomoichi didn’t even look particularly angry, far from that, he didn’t even show any fear being surrounded by more than ten people. He firmly said something more to stop the men from picking up girls more than anything but……

Perhaps feeling that Tomoichi, who was blocking their way, was irritating, one of the men passed beside Tomoichi and stretched his hand out toward Kaori.

「Can you not touch my daughter?」

「-, you really are noisy huh.」

Tomoichi suddenly gripped the man's hand, his almond eyes quietly narrowed and he gave words of restraint. Tomoichi wasn't particularly strong in a brawl. In his occupation, he was a first class architect, and there was no chance for his physical strength to be questioned in such an occupation. Even so, as an adult male who had piled up experience, furthermore, as a father who was witnessing someone trying to lay their hand on his daughter, the light of his eyes contained a considerable amount of pressure.

Therefore, the man was reflexively overpowered mentally. However, it seemed the man felt some shame from that fact, and his face immediately turned red indignantly. The man shook off the hand of Tomoichi that was grasping his hand, and at the same time, he hit Tomoichi.

Tomoichi let out a muffled voice, and something red oozed from the corner of his lips.

The man, driven by his indignation, swung his arm further, while the other men also stepped forward to further hurt Tomoichi who was a hindrance for them. Sakura was raising her voice to stop them while her fingers were gliding on her smartphone to contact the police, but it was at that moment,

「What are you all doing, I wonder? I wonder?」

Dread rushed through all the people in that place.

And then they noticed it. Before they even realized it, Kaori, who was already at Tomoichi's side, had stopped the fist of the man that was swinging downward with one hand.

A chill that was impossible to understand lathered on their skin causing bumps and the strange situation of a girl smiling while stopping the serious punch of an older man with just one hand caused everyone to stiffen. In the middle of that, Kaori let out words with a flat tone that was the opposite of her smiling face.

「I’m asking you here, just what are you doing to my Otou-san, I wonder?」

「Wha, what the hell, are you!? Aa!? The father of you bitch was screwing around, so I was only giving him a lesson!」

The intimidating air that Kaori emitted caused the man whose fist was stopped to go into a frenzy while ranting. And then, the man’s other hand tried to strike in order to “give a lesson” to Kaori.

「Otou-san was screwing around? I guess so. Indeed, he is a troubling Otou-san who is always screwing around. He is overprotective, treating me like I’m still a small child. He immediately sulks if he is not paid attention to, and he keeps badmouthing Hajime-kun.」

「hrk, wha, what the hell-. This stupid strength-」

Kaori was talking with a small voice in a murmur, leaving the dumbfounded surrounding to lurch.

All the while gripping the two wrists of a man with a build far larger than herself.

From a glance, it was clear that the man was trying to pull his hands away with all his strength, but the hands holding him didn’t even twitch, as though he was being shackled with iron to a wall. Kaori’s words reached toward the man who was half falling into a panic.

「But you see, Otou-san is kind you know? He always thinks of me, no matter how busy he is with his work he always tries to make time to speak with me, he always protects me even though he is not strong in a brawl. When I worked hard, he praised me a lot, and when I made mistakes, he scolded me a lot.」

Kaori lifted her face. However, that gaze wasn't directed at the man in front of her eyes. What she was looking at was Tomoichi at the side.

「……Otou-san, I'm sorry. I should have stopped it before you got hit. I recalled many things, so I was late to move. Thank you, for trying to protect me.」

「Kaori……」

Tomoichi only called Kaori's name while looking at her wry smile. He could do nothing else but that. The reason was that his daughter's figure was looking really grown-up for some reason. It was as though she was letting go of his hand; as if she had already left the nest since a long time ago. Even though they were in the middle of a situation like this, the loneliness that flooded his chest clogged up all his words.

Kaori moved his gaze from Tomoichi toward the men surrounding them, and then she let out her words along with an icy gaze.

「My father is the greatest father in the world. Don't you dare, humans at the level of you all, make fun of him!」

「You bitch, let go of me alre――bugeh!?」

A kick that pointed to the sky was launched immediately after the angry yell. That kick impacted the jaw of the man whose both hands were gripped, and like that, that man was blown away like a joke in a parabolic arc.

The air returned to dead silence.

「If you all disappear right now, then I'll overlook this.」

Kaori's words resounded dignifiedly. A dainty girl was sending a young man with good physique flying with one kick——normally, the group of men would surely sense the abnormality of the situation; however, the difference in number between both sides and the common sense that said there was no way ten men could lose against a high school girl caused them to mistake their choice for the sake of their tiny pride.

The men were breathing roughly in agitation, their mouths hurled out unrestrained abusive language, and they adjusted their stance in preparation to attack.

「Yep, I guess it can only be like this. People like you all surprisingly all have the same pattern.」

Kaori lightly waved both her hands. Immediately, kyakin! a satisfying sound resounded, and two metallic poles appeared in both her hands. Those were extendable batons.

Kaori was wearing short sleeve clothes, which made anyone want to retort just where she hid those batons, but those who knew knew that it was great that what came out were only extendable batons, wasn't it. Inside the ring that was attached with a crimson jewel dangling on Kaori's neck, there were even brutal large swords that could easily split a great rock into two; those swords were exactly Kaori's specialized weapon.

In the end, the two sword style using the extendable batons (Adamantium made-Lightning Clad enchantment) flashed on the coastal street at night; it became a fierce society study for the young men. Along with a trauma that wouldn’t disappear.

「Oji-san. It’s great, isn’t it? Kaori got angry like this for Oji-san’s sake. See, she is just like Oba-san. Please look at this goosebumps. It’s also like this when Oba-san is angry.」(TN: Oba-san=aunt)

「……Yo, you are right. Also, is, is it just my feeling? It feels like I can see “something” on Kaori’s back just like Kaoruko though.」

The last man ate a fierce blow at his butt that would make even a Thai kick look like mere child’s play; that man screamed「Aaa――――!!」while flying through the air. Sakura and Tomoichi were looking at that scene with a distant look and raised a dry laugh.

After that, Kaori tampered with the memory of the seducers with her own soul magic before she returned toward Tomoichi and Sakura with a really nice smile. It went without saying how Tomoichi and Sakura shivered altogether.

After that, seeing Kaori getting all fidgety looking like she wanted to talk with Tomoichi, Sakura read the mood and went back home first. Currently, Tomoichi and Kaori were walking silently with just the two of them on the path home.

「Otou-san, it doesn’t hurt anymore?」

「Yeah, it’s fine already Kaori. ……Magic is really amazing huh. You have shown it to me many times, so it feels too late saying this, but even now it still makes me feel admiration witnessing it.」

The wound on his lips had been healed by Kaori’s healing magic. Tomoichi said his thanks to Kaori with admiration just like he said. Feeling relieved hearing that, Kaori’s expression softened. And then, her gaze began wandering as though she was searching for words.

Seeing that state of his daughter, Tomoichi half-guessed just what she wanted to speak about and sighed inside his heart, then he urged Kaori to speak.

「Kaori, if there is something you want to say, then you can just say it as it is within your mind. After all, I’m the best father in the world. No matter what is it, I’ll listen to what you have to say.」

Kaori chuckled at the way her father spoke, and she opened her mouth.

「Say, I noticed this just now but……Hajime-kun, he resembles Otou-san doesn’t he-, that’s what I think.」

「……Can you pause there, Kaori? Even Otou-san has this thing called limit to what I can and cannot accept, you know? I’m similar to that harem man that is like a walking and talking haughty arrogance? I wonder, can Otou-san go out for a little bit of a journey? It’s okay; I think after finding myself for about a year, Otou-san will be able to stand up again.」

「Ahaha, that’s not what I meant. What I mean is not the current Hajime-kun, but the previous Hajime-kun.」

「The previous?」

Kaori nodded toward Tomoichi who showed a questioning face. And then, she narrowed her eyes in nostalgia and began to talk.

「Yes, previously. He couldn’t fight or anything at all, but when he thought that it was necessary, then he would step out without hesitation, that kind of weak but strong person. Yep, surely, that was why I became curious about Hajime-kun. Because, if I can be with a person that is similar with Otou-san, then I will be happy, I know that from looking at Kaa-san.」

「Kaori……. Right now, Otou-san’s feelings are really complicated. I’m happy but perhaps not happy……. However, that’s really hard to believe huh. That him, and the him of the past that Kaori talked about, I really cannot connect the two of them……」

「Isn’t that right. I too, when I reunited with Hajime-kun I was really shaken then. That was how much he changed. It was really terrible for him, to the degree that it was absolutely necessary for him to change. But, even so, deep inside he didn’t change. That’s why there are people that love Hajime-kun that much. A person who is merely insincere and like women, it would be strange if that kind of person is surrounded by that many people, isn’t it?」

「……Perhaps it’s just as you say. But, even so, as expected as a father it’s hard for me to consent. No matter who, if it is a father who has a daughter, then he will surely want to entrust his daughter to a person who will treasure her the most and only her.」

Tomoichi scratched his head looking troubled. Kaori took Tomoichi’s arm and then hugged him happily.

「Thank you, Otou-san. But, I have confidence. Indeed, it’s not just me alone that is with him, and I might not be the number one, even so, I’m confident that I can have happiness that won’t lose to anyone. Even though there are many people that are walking together with him, even so, I can puff up my chest and say I am cherished. Because, the person who had crawled up from the bottom of the abyss just with the thought that he wanted to go home to his important family, and defeated even god just because he wanted to take back his important person, such a person is the one who gave his promise to me, you know?」

Kaori showed Tomoichi the ring that was dangling from her neck. Different from the treasure warehouse, it was just a ring, but it was the eternal ring that was filled with the oath of her loved one.

After seeing that ring, Tomoichi's expression turned extremely bitter.

「Otou-san. Hajime-kun, he is a person that will treasure every aspect of his important people, even the treasured people of that treasured people. That's why he said that he wouldn't give up no matter how much Otou-san hates him. He told me that he would treasure Otou-san and Okaa-san too.」

「……」

「That's why, I understand that this is not normal, that this is something outlandish, but it's fine even if it will take time. I want Otou-san to treasure Hajime-kun too. I want Otou-san to treasure my treasured person too.」

Kaori's words rode the flowing night wind that carried the aroma of salt and vanished. Tomoichi's expression was still bitter without any reply. If anyone looked at his eyes, they would be able to see a horrible discord whirling inside.

The long silence was continuing. Only the sounds of footsteps and sea waves were resounding in the ears of the two.

It was unknown how much time had passed, but before long Tomoichi deeply and grandly sighed. Toward Kaori who was staring at Tomoichi anxiously, his shoulders dropped while one of his hands held out to Kaori.

「Kaori. Can you contact that guy……Hajime-kun for me?」

「Otou-san……yes, wait a little bit.」

Kaori took her smartphone and called Hajime with a few rings. Hajime, who answered the phone, was told by Kaori that Tomoichi wanted to talk. Hajime consented readily without sounding particularly worked up. Hajime's attitude that sounded composed caused Tomoichi's face to turn bitter once more. Kaori handed over the smartphone while smiling wryly at that expression of his father.

「……It's me.」

「It has been a long time.」(TN: Hajime used extremely polite language here.)

「Hmph! We just met around two months ago. Saying it has been a long time from that……it appears that within you, the matter of me is just like a mere stone at the roadside, huh.」

「No, that's unthinkable. The family of Kaori is as important as a jewel for me.」

「Hmph! As always, it's only your mouth that keeps spouting out pretty words, isn't it? Is that how you trick my daughter?」

「Never. If pushed to say, then I think it is me who got caught.」

「Hmph!! Is this that? 「Not really, I am not really feeling anything here, but Kaori said that she wants this no matter what sooo, I'll just give it a try」That's what you think huh! Just what in the world are you――」

「Otou-san?」

「I'm sorry.」

When Tomoichi heard Hajime's voice, his hostility flooded out like a conditioned reflex. At the same time, when he heard*「Otou-san?」*from his daughter, he also let out words of apology from a conditioned reflex. He wasn't a mere father. He was a trained father.

While keenly feeling the gaze of Hannya-san from the side, Tomoichi cleared his throat while trickling cold sweat and opened his mouth once more.

「Ahem-. That, see, today, I called because……well, I too have various things in my mind. A father that has a daughter, no matter what, he cannot be gentle toward the man who is the partner of said daughter.」

「I understand. After all, I too have a daughter that makes me resolved to be a father. If I am in your position, and my daughter brings along a man like me, then there is no doubt that I will break all the bones in his body and bury him inside concrete, and in the end, I will throw him in the middle of Pacific Ocean.」

「Eh? Ah, yeah, tha, that's it. I, I too, am thinking of doing at least that much, yup, to such a man, you know?」

「Yes. That's why I understand how your blood must be seething. So much, that you must be thinking that you want to drop a nuclear bomb on me right now even if it drags the surroundings into it; that you want to dye everything in dark red, isn’t that right?」

「……Yo, you really got it huh!」

This time Tomoichi was trickling cold sweat from a different meaning. Hajime’s hostility was too extreme that far surpassed him. Furthermore, just by imagining the imaginary loved one of that daughter who might appear in the future, Japan might fall into a pinch in the future. Tomoichi was thinking, 「Ee? Isn’t the scale of hostility a bit too different from mine?」, which caused him to succumb to a complicated sense of defeat.

「Ahem-. It feels like I somehow came to understand really well how you are thinking, so let’s put this matter aside for a bit. More than that, I want to confirm something with you.」

「Yes.」

「You don’t have any intention to separate with Kaori. Conversely, you also don’t have any intention to separate from the other girls. You are planning to remain married with them all for life, and you don’t have the intention to bend that will. Isn’t that right?」

「It’s just as you say. I understand how such a thing is outlandish, how it goes against ethics, and how there are people like you who think unpleasantly of such a thing. But even knowing that, let me say it once more. Everyone, they all are my wives. That will of mine won’t bend. No matter what can possibly happen from here on, I won’t yield that will at all. My deepest apologies, but I will stick to this will for my whole life until you can possibly accept it.」

「tsk, you are brazenly acting defiant huh.」

「I will do everything in my power so that someday, you can possibly accept this as sincerity and determination of my own way.」(TN: The way Hajime used you to call Tomoichi here is also done in the politest way.)

Tomoichi's hand that was holding the smartphone tightened. His fury was welling up hearing that nonsensical thing being spoken so brazenly. However, he saw the eyes of his daughter that was staring fixedly at him from the side, and then Tomoichi sighed once more to let out the heavy thing inside his chest.

「I really want to punch you flying right now, you know? The ideal future for me is that I won't see your face anymore with my daughter, completely forgetting you once and for all.」

「I guess so. The troubling thing is, I understand your feelings painfully well. I also understand how it must be irritating for you that I am acting sympathetic like this. This is really a highly difficult problem, even more than adventuring in another world that was filled with death and absurdity.」

「I don't know about the absurdity of another world, but there is not even a single doubt in me that this is the greatest trial that I have ever faced in my whole life. Aah, really, just why did my daughter encounter you in the past?」

「Surely, that's because there is no one who can stand superior to this mean world.」

「No doubt about that. Good grief, this world really makes me go through something uncalled for. ……However, what is really, reall~y unfortunate is……my daughter, is happy with this, with an expression so lovely that I have never seen before.」

「……」

Tomoichi stood still there. His parent’s house had come into view. But he couldn’t muster any will to enter the house like this. First, there was something that he had to ask, for the sake of the words and wish of his daughter that he had heard in this night, and above that, for the sake of producing a conclusion inside himself.

「Let me ask this to you, the shitty bastard who is trying to have your own way for a screwy future. Can you vow, that you will able to make, my daughter, my Kaori, to keep having that kind of expression forever? Can you vow, that she will be able to throw out her chest, and declare without hesitation that she is happy, can you make her continue to be that kind of girl forever?」

On the other side of the phone, Tomichi felt that the atmosphere suddenly changed. It was something that made Tomoichi feel Hajime’s serious feelings beyond any doubt before even hearing his next words……

「If it’s that vow, I have vowed it since a long time ago. This life is for that sake. It will never change, no matter what.」

「……」

Standing still in place, Tomoichi looked up to the sky. While feeling the gaze of his daughter that was looking up at him, he repressed the excessive urge to yell 「BASTAAARDD————!!」inside him. And then, breaking the silence, he formed the words while feeling a strange sense of defeat; he summoned up all his strength to the limit, in order to grant the earnest wish of his daughter.

「……Next time, come to my home. You can have dinner there.」

「……Thank you very much. I will surely visit to trouble your hospitality.」

An impact run through Tomoichi's arm. When he looked there, Kaori was hugging Tomoichi's arm with a full smile. With a small voice,「Otou-san, thank you. I love you!」she sent him the greatest words for a father. His feeling that almost made him scatter bloody vomit from working up the sentence just now, and also his murky feeling, all those feelings were somewhat cleared up if he could receive such words.

At the same time, when he thought that he received those words due to Haijme's existence, as expected, he couldn't help but feel a sense of defeat.

「Do, don't you misunderstand! It's not like I recognize you or anything! Until the end, I'm just thinking of keeping an eye on you for a bit, that's all there is to it, don't you dare make Kaori sad even for a bit! If you dare do that, then it will be that, that! It will be concrete and the Pacific Ocean and Nuclear I tell you!」

「Haha, that's really terrifying. I will engrave those words deep in my heart.」

Tomoichi's speech that was just like a tsundere caused Hajime and also Kaori to leak out chuckles reflexively.

It was at that timing when the talk almost end with a good feeling,

「Goshujin-samaaa~. Thy beloved servant has returned~. For the reward, please, chastise mine butt a lot toniiight!」

From the other side of the phone, some kind of voice that was filled with a mix of excitement and charm resounded.

The moment that voice became audible, the atmosphere of Hajime changing into astonishment could be felt transmitted through the phone receiver.

「Tio, you, how did you come back!? Even though as the punishment of making merry in front of my Jii-chan and others before this I had wrapped you in a bamboo mat and tied you up to a missile before launching it……」(TN: Jii-chan=grandfather)

「Of course, it's obviously by crawling back without untangling Goshujin-sama's love(rope)! The kindness of not exploding the missile……if I didn't answer that kindness, how could I be Goshujin-sama's servant!」

「That's a lie right……I sent you flying until the other side of the mountain; you shouldn't be able to come back without crossing through the downtown……」

「Yes! When the people saw this crawling figure, that art like a caterpillar, cheers(screams) were raised everywhere. As expected even I felt shy. Furthermore, the authorities came out, so I traveled with a higher speed; everyone was already loudly cheering(pandemonium) then.」

「You are making a new urban legend in the city where my Jii-chan is living……」

「Now, grant the prize to me who hath worked hard in coming back. Specifically, a reward using that black, hard, and large thing, to chastise mine butt! Recently, Goshujin-sama didn't do it much, so it feels lonely!」

「You stupid idiot! What kind of thing are you running your mouth about with that loud voice!」

Of course, the perverted exchanges that were done with loud voice were properly transmitted through the phone, to the father and daughter with cleared feelings.

「……Oi, perverted bastard.」

「! ……This is a misunderstanding desu. Give me a chance for explaining――」

「You think I'll give you a chance? You think I'll let you? Fufu, isn't it strange? Aa, you are really, a strange man. Fufufufu.」

An eerie chuckle came out from Tomoichi. At his side, Kaori was holding her head while murmuring「Tio you idiooot」. And then, she tried to cover for Hajime and tried to talk to Tomoichi, but before she could do that, Tomoichi exploded.

「I take back my words-. You shitty bastaaaaarrrdd-! I absolute won't hand over my daughter to a perverted bastard like you! I prohibit you from approaching her until the end of the world-! Someone like you, just explode with a nuclear bomb in the Pacific Oceaaaannnnnnnnnn――――!!!」

「Wai-, ple-――」

Hajime tried to make an excuse, but before he could do that, Tomoichi swung up his hand holding the smartphone, and then he threw the phone to the ground. A grievous scream 「My smartphone――――!!」could be heard from the side, but such a voice didn't reach Tomoichi who had transformed into a warrior that was a father protecting his daughter.

Far from that, as though the smartphone was a nemesis that couldn't be allowed to live under the same sky, or possibly so that the hateful scum wouldn't be able to call from the other side of the phone anymore, he stepped on the smartphone and grinded it many times.

Naturally, Kaori’s smartphone was invited into heaven.

「O, Otou-san! What are you doing!?」

「I am severing ties with that maggot-, with all my strength here! Kaori, don’t meet with that perverted bastard, until the end of the world! This is a promise with Otou-san!」

Indeed, if there was a father who would still entrust the daughter after hearing that kind of dialogue from the other side of the phone, then it would be better not to waste time to take such a father to a hospital. To a hospital for the brain.

However, from the point of view of Kaori, who had thoroughly witnessed Hajime’s unique relationship with Tio in the other world, she had already accepted it as an ordinary happening. Although she could understand her father’s feelings perfectly, witnessing her smartphone trampled and heard the person she loved being called a maggot caused her to want to object against her better judgment……

Tomoichi sensed his daughter’s atmosphere that obviously didn’t seem to obey him even after hearing that kind of exchange on the phone, and on top of that, even after he told her that she must not meet that man anymore. Tomoichi was trembling all over while declaring with all his strength in the residential area at night.

「Otou-san! Is abso~~~~~-lutely! Not appro————————ving-!!!」

「Ah, wait, Otou-san! Where are you going————!!」

Tomoichi suddenly started to run. ……To the direction that was the opposite of the house. And then, in the blink of an eye, he disappeared toward the residential area.

If he went back to the house, then he would be talked to by his daughter about that hateful shitty bastard again. That was why he wouldn’t go home anymore. Until Kaori understood, Otou-san will run away from home! It was such a thing.

The shoulders of Kaori, who somehow guessed her father’s intention, slumped down.

□Normally, the one who runs away from home because they are not being understood should be the daughter, isn’t it?□

After whispering that, Kaori then chased after Tomoichi.

The father who absolutely didn’t want to approve the person that his daughter loved, and the daughter who wanted her father to approve no matter what; both of them began to race at night.

After that, whether Hajime could be accepted or not by Tomoichi……

Anyway, let’s just say that Hajime worked even harder than even god slaying for that.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Everyone, do you know about [Aozora no Kishi] series on Ni○ Dou? (TN: This refer to Nico Douga)

I found it recently, and it was totally enthralling.

Watching that, my hand reached out to Ace Combat again (it makes me have misgivings about the update next week……)

I want to try writing a light novel with an idiot and cool fellows like that as the characters someday.

Uploader-sama, thank you for making my holiday lovely.

Perhaps, surely, maybeee, I think I’ll update by 6 P.M Saturday next week.

Arifureta Chapter 195

Arifureta After – Secret of Yaegashi-style

AN: Yaegashi-style……how did it come to be?

It was just before the sun approached the zenith of its climb. Hajime was walking expressionlessly through the residential area on a certain riverside.

It wasn’t like he was in a bad mood, but when he thought about the location he would be visiting after this, it made him feel somewhat melancholic. On top of all that, it also caused him to rack his brain about this and that when it came to how to deal with it, so his expression was naturally stiff.

Although, no matter how much Hajime worried about it since he had no intention of yielding the status quo or his will, resolving this was extremely difficult and finding a solution that could work in one go was next to impossible. Compared to this difficult problem, conquering a great labyrinth was something really simple.

「Well, that’s obvious, it can’t be helped, huh?」

He let out a small sigh while staring at his destination that came into view on the path ahead.

It was a spacious ground that was surrounded by splendid hedges with a large Japanese house inside of it, or rather than a house it was an estate. History could be felt from its appearance alone.

With a glance at that hedge and estate, Hajime finally arrived in front of the entrance. The front gate was also a heavy and splendid structure. The wood and iron were clearly conveying the months and years they had been piling up until now. If an ordinary person visited this place for the first time, they would unconsciously straighten themselves up.

The family name written beside the front gate was——”Yaegashi”.

Yes, this place was Shizuku’s house, and adjacent to the house was the long-established dojo of the Yaegashi-style.

For some reason Hajime looked at the nameplate where the name “Yaegashi” was carved while pushing on the button of the interphone installed beside the gate; the only piece that approached the modern age here.

「Yes, who could this be?」

A female voice immediately responded. It sounded young, with a pleasant tone that sounded calm, a voice that gave the feeling of maturity. The owner of that voice——if his memory from when he met her the last time was correct, then it was the voice of Shizuku’s mother, Kirino. She was the one who responded to Hajime.

「I received the invitation. This is Nagumo Hajime.」

「You are right on time, Hajime-san. Welcome. The gate is not locked, so please come inside as you are.」

「Excuse me for disturbing.」

Hajime put his hand on the gate. And then he pushed it open while sighing once more at “that” which he felt when he was walking the path that was facing the hedge.

Immediately after that, hyu- a sound of cutting wind!

「As expected huh……」

He carelessly lifted his hand in front of his forehead. Between the gaps of his fingers were several spheres held in place. Those things flew the instant Hajime opened the gate which he caught between his fingers. When he put a little strength into his fingers, those balls split with a cracking sound, and from inside them, colorful powder came out.

When he brought his nose near, the aroma of multiple spices like pepper or cayenne pierced his nasal cavity severely. If the spheres hit the forehead and their content scattered out, then a normal person would shed tears grandly while writhing in an unstoppable sneezing attack.

「I want to make a retort about just what kind of period this is but……really this house. Besides, if I am told this is reaping what I sow then that…..can’t be helped.」

Hajime strode across the threshold of the Yaegashi residence while smiling wryly.

First, the scenery of a considerably wide garden, which extended all the way to the entrance of the main building, entered his eyes. It wasn’t something like a Japanese-style garden where one could enjoy the sight, but a garden with normal weeds and gravel spread evenly throughout that looked well maintained. The path from the front gate to the main building’s entranceway was shown by stone paving; there was also a small pond distanced in between. Next, there were also garden lanterns hung irregularly and relatively big trees growing.

There was another independent one-story house a slight distance away, that place had become the dojo of the Yaegashi-style. But, on this holiday normally there should be the zealous voices of a lot of disciples practicing coming from there, instead, eerily there was no sound.

Hajime, who spontaneously wanted to sigh after guessing the reason of that silence, advanced on the stone paving, approaching a spot where a tree nearby with dense leaves had one of its branches extending out until it reached above the stone paving. It was at that time,

A killing intent was suddenly-!!

When Hajime looked up, there was a figure of an old man jumping down from the branch above his head, the hakama of the old man was fluttering while his hands were holding a wooden sword aloft! The sword ki the old man was clad with wasn’t something normal, a determination of sure defeat with one hit was residing in his eyes! That figure which swooped down from the sky, swinging down a mighty attack, was just like the technique of a certain wandering swordsman!

But, toward that sudden attack,

「It has been a long time, Shuuzou-san.」

Hajime, who stopped still with one hand the attack which looked like it could pulverize at least a boulder, lowered his head normally and gave a greeting. The opponent in front of his eyes that looked like he was around 80 with a deeply wrinkled face and white hair, was an instructor of the Yaegashi-style and the grandfather of Shizuku, so Hajime must show manners to him.

「Yes, long time no see, Hajime-kun. Nice of you to come. You can relax here.」

「Thank you very much.」

Shuuzou was speaking words of welcome normally as though nothing special happened while looking completely expressionless with his hands pushing down the wooden sword to the very limit. In response to that, Hajime too also returned the greeting familiarly.

Hajime and Shuuzou stared at each other wordlessly for a while, but as expected Shuuzou then quietly pulled back his wooden sword as though nothing happened and he turned on his heels.

「I think Shizuku is in her room. But, it’s a little unacceptable for you two who are still students to seclude yourself inside the same room. There are also delicious tea cakes, so come to the living room.」

「Aa~, yes, thank you-」

Shuuzou turned his back on Hajime and returned toward the dojo while talking. But, in the middle of that conversation, in an awkward timing, a new killing intent attacked Hajime!

Hajime quickly crouched, and over his head, a sharp, violent gale blew past. Furthermore, a cuff of a hakama was reflected at the edge of the sight of the crouching Hajime. A low kick aiming for Hajime’s head was rapidly approaching.

While evading that by leaping aside, Hajime used one of his hands in a handstand posture to roll before landing. Ahead of his gaze, there was the figure of the attacker still in continued alertness.

「Yaa, Hajime-kun. Nice of you to come. You can relax here.」

「……Thank you, Koichi-san. Excuse me for my intrusion.」

Yaegashi Koichi. He was the father of Shizuku and an instructor of the Yaegashi-style. He was a handsome middle-aged man with a rather harsh look, which was due to the gash in his cheek that he got from somewhere that was his trademark. While saying a speech that was the same with his father Shuuzou, and also with the same expressionless look as expected, he put his wooden sword on his waist as though nothing happened.

At that moment, a wooden sword was thrown at great speed from the side! Hajime, who quickly turned his head and evaded it clearly, heard a clicking tongue echoing from behind the nearby lantern basket.

Even furthermore, from behind the evading Hajime, a zapaa- sound resounded. The moment he heard that one of the pupils who seemed to be lurking inside the pond threw countless iron rods the size of a palm from a pose that looked like a wild falcon!

Hajime evaded that with a flowing feet movement like a fish swimming in the air, but right after that, he noticed something and back flipped highly from that place. When he did that, in the next moment, a young pupil smeared with soil leapt out from under the ground in the garden holding a wooden sword. The pupil was whispering「Chiih, so I failed in bringing him down-」with a small voice.

Hajime, who landed while smiling faintly to those words, quickly lifted his hand and grasped something that flew toward him. An arrow was caught by that hand. When he followed the trajectory, above the roof of the main building was a figure of someone that seemed to be a pupil holding a bow.

「I'm thinking this every time but……Yaegashi-style is absolutely not a kenjutsu dojo, right? Rather I think this place is a ninjutsu dojo instead.」(TN: Kenjutsu=sword art, ninjutsu=ninja art)

「What are you saying, Hajime-kun. Something like shinobi cannot possibly exist. Are you reading too much manga? It's troubling that someone trying to become Shizuku's partner is doing something like that.」

Hajime whispered his conjecture while staring fixedly at the pupils who were returning to the dojo quickly while likewise also acting as though nothing happened. Hearing that, Shuuzou said something like that with a tone that sounded really stumped.

The soaking wet pupil, who was lurking in the pond, quickly took off his dougi uniform and underneath it, there were black clothes, but……his face looked as though saying「So what?」. Surely, even though the iron bars thrown at him looked similar to shuriken that he previously saw at museum, or even though the pupil who climbed down from the main building's rooftop was using a special descending tool where the tip of the rope had something shaped like a rake to be fixed onto the roof's edge, or that one of them wasn't making any footsteps while running, surely, everything was just Hajime's misunderstanding.

Even if right now, in front of Hajime's eyes a pupil was quickly running with a forward-bent posture――the so-called ninja run right past him, surely that was just his misunderstanding!

「Hajime, welcome!」

But, at that moment, a slightly lively voice called out to Hajime who was seeing off the back of the figures of the people of the Yaegashi dojo with a complicated expression. When he turned toward the voice, he could see the figure of Shizuku dressed in a gorgeous kimono waving her hand at him from the porch of the main building.

Hajime lifted his hand with a greeting of「Yo」while approaching her. Shizuku's expression burst brighter the closer he got. Looking from up close, it seemed that she was wearing a cosmetic even if just for a bit. It appeared that she was dressing up a little with Hajime coming here from being invited.

Shizuku, who was lovable as usual in the small things, quickly cleared up his gloomy feeling that had been piling up due to this and that since he stepped past the gate of the Yaegashi house, which he couldn't retort at even when he wanted to.

「As expected, Shizuku is more suited to Japanese clothes. Though it doesn't look like a pure yukata……」

「Ye, yes. I received this as a sample of a prototype that Tio designed. It seems that this is a combination of the Dragonoid race's clothing with Japanese clothes.」

「I see, she is a pervert, but she has good sense. It's like it was order-made for Shizuku. Besides, the sakura color also suit you.」

「-……thank you」

Shizuku looked shy while she quietly touched her lips. She couldn’t hide her happiness from Hajime noticing and praising her. The person who was there wasn’t the usual gallant knightly Shizuku, but a normal girl in love that could be found anywhere.

Instantly, Hajime put his hand into his breast pocket and summoned a mini Donner that had a silencer attached. Without even showing a drawing motion, he rapid-fired to the right side with the gun barrel hidden under his arm! Right away, countless sparks and metallic sounds scattered in midair!

Shizuku came to her senses with a ‘hah’. When she turned her gaze there she found a bulge on the ground so small that no one would notice it was there without paying attention to it; from there several small things that looked like bamboo pipes peeked out……

It seemed, there were still several pupils hiding underground. Most likely there was a tunnel that could be entered by a person under the surface, by slightly lifting up the lid that was camouflaged as the ground, they sniped at Hajime using blowpipes.

「He, hey-, you all! You all are doing something like that again! Come out here!」

Shizuku raised an angry yell with a bright red face. But, they didn’t respond to Shizuku’s words, the ground was making slightly lumpy moves, and they vanished away somewhere.

Shizuku was trembling all over. Hajime was sending her a slightly sympathizing gaze while trying to ask her about the matter that bothered him as expected.

「Hey, Shizuku. Your family, just as I thought, they are the descendants of ninjas or something, right? It's true, isn't it?」

「……There is no way that's true, I think. Before we were summoned, there was nothing like this. It's only been like this since Hajime came to my house. Even I didn't know that kind of technique existed in the Yaegashi-style. In reality, I was only taught the katana, martial art, and throwing art.」

「I don't think that's at the level of "only" though……. Or, how should I put it, you didn't ask them? Like, 「Did I receive kunoichi training while I do not realize it myself?」」

「I questioned them already. I asked, what is the Yaegashi-style? Like that.」

「And the answer?」

「It's commonplace kenjutsu and a little bit of acrobatics. That was what they told me.」

「So they concealed it from even their daughter ……」

Shizuku was whispering「This family of mine……」with a faraway look, to which Hajime was sending her an increasingly sympathetic gaze while to the Yaegashi family's mystery——not only were they not hiding it at all even though they were obviously ninja-like, even their deception was so noncommittal it made him want to retort 'do you all even have the motivation to hide it huh'——he was smiling dryly.

After that, Shizuku, who knew about her grandfather and father's assaults, apologized to Hajime with teary eyes while heading to her room for the time being. However, even during their walk there, spears stabbed at them from the gap between walls, a pitfall suddenly appeared on the corridor floor, the wall in the middle abruptly turned, and an expressionless Koichi came at Hajime with a kodachi swinging, and when they thought they heard someone say 「Muh, my hand slipped」, from the corner of the corridor a chain scythe flew making a pillar as its fulcrum which altered its trajectory using the centrifugal force toward Hajime……

「Shizuku……just accept it. Your house is a ninja's residence. Your family are ninjas.」

「I, who didn't know until this year that my own house had these kind of contraptions, am…….I mean, Ojii-chan! A chain scythe is no good! Look, it got stuck into the wall! That's obviously the real thing, isn't it!? Just where are you keeping that kind of weapon!」

Shizuku angrily went to the corner of the corridor while waving her yukata's cuff, but there was already no one there. Shizuku crumbled down on all fours. This was the first time she saw the other side of her family since she returned from another world. It appeared Shizuku was burdened with the fate to go through hardships even inside her family.

「Hey, Shizuku. As expected should we go to the living room instead of your room? Shuuzou-san also told me that. Like this, I don't know what kind of contraption will activate the moment I entered your room. It won't be a problem for me, but your treasured collection(plush dolls) might be in danger you know.」

「……Uu. There is nothing like these odd contraptions in my room, supposedly. There is undoubtedly something in the living room……or rather, I'm already terribly angry by the fact that Hajime was attacked! I'll have Hajime together with me in my room until the meal timeee! If anyone becomes a nuisance, I aa~bsolutely won’t forgive them you hear!

Surely, Shizuku was raising her voice loudly toward her family who must be lurking behind the ceiling and on the other side of the wall.

They finally arrived at Shizuku’s room. Inside, there were many plush dolls placed around that it made the room cramped. There was a lovely animal and cat calendar, pink curtains, a cushion attached with fluffy rabbit ears, the whole room was enveloped in a soft atmosphere with a faintly sweet fragrance wafting off. It was a really sly girly room.

Shizuku put the sitting cushion of a droopy raccoon in front of a small round table made of glass. When Hajime sat on the cushion, it made a pukyu sound. The figure of the demon king of another world sitting down on a mascot cushion that made that type of voice, if it was seen by the classmates and the fellows of the other world (especially someone like the emperor) surely it would be a foregone conclusion for them to burst out in laughter.

Wait there. I’ll prepare tea and snacks right now.

No, you don’t really need to do that. Rather, I don’t want to be left alone in this house……

Uu. I, it will be fine. Because my room is a safe zone.

Even while faltering in her words, Shizuku guaranteed that ‘my room is safe!’, immediately following that, however, Hajime-san, welcome. This is a sweet bean jelly from a long-standing shop. Please have some.

Shizuku’s mother——Kirino appeared carrying tea and snacks.

——From the ceiling sucha-! she jumped down.

「Okaa-san!? Where did you come down from just now!? Wait, the ceiling board is out of place!? No way……even though I should have properly investigated my room when I knew that the house was a residence with contraptions……」

Kirino was smiling friendly as though nothing happened with a sidelong glance at Shizuku who was dumbfounded while looking up at the ceiling. That figure which was gentle and calm exactly like a Yamato Nadeshiko, yet with an atmosphere where a straight core could be felt from her caused Hajime to comprehend something ‘I see’; that she was indeed the mother of Shizuku. She was a woman that made him think or even made him anticipate that when Shizuku aged beautifully, surely she would become a woman like this.

However, the fact that she jumped down from the ceiling while properly wearing kimono, with a tray in one hand that had tea and snacks on it, with not only her clothes unruffled but not even a drop of tea was spilled, she wasn’t someone normal at all.

「He, hey, Okaa-san. Let me ask this, putting aside the matter regarding my room’s ceiling for later; it’s just as I thought, that Okaa-san is a kunoichi? Hey, is that true?」

Since she returned home up till today, different from her father and grandfather, her mother didn’t show that kind of sign at all. Shizuku was asking her mother with a really complicated feeling that was half「Say that this is not true, mama」, and half「Okaa-san, so you too」.

Toward such Shizuku, Kirino was,

「My, Shizuku. You are too much in high spirits just because Hajime-san is here……. Forgive her okay, Hajime-san. Geez, this child, surely she is trying her best to make a joke that is in line with Hajime-san's hobby but……by nature, she is a serious person, so like this, her joke is not really funny, isn't it? A joke like「You are a kunoichi?」toward her mother of all things, see? She is a child like this, but please don't desert her no matter what.」

「……Please rest assured. I don't think that it's not funny, or anything, even for a little bit. Rather, I'm greatly in sympathy with her. ——Are you okay, Shizuku?」

「I cannot do this anymore, Hajime. I want to become the child of Hajime's family already……」

Hajime did his best to console Shizuku who was hanging her head down with an expression that was like a tired old man with a 'there-there' gesture. Seeing that harmonious(?) figure of her daughter and Hajime, Kirino said「My, geez Shizuku, acting like that in front of your parent. Yes yes, Okaa-san will leave right away」and left the room.

Of course, hyupa-! she jumped up to the ceiling.

Seeing the ceiling board that was returned back to normal soundlessly, Shizuku then looked at Hajime with an expression that could break into tears at any moment.

「We, well, what……like this Shizuku is also taught the secret of your family little by little yes? I don't know if that's because you returned from another world, or because you were able to make a lover like me but……good for you.」

「In this world, I wonder if there is a matter that is better off not to be known……. I feel like the thing they are doing is gradually escalating……」

Shizuku was comforted while being caressed by Hajime.

Hajime thought while looking at Shizuku who was like that. It was normally hard to imagine that she wouldn’t know about her family and the house’s contraptions until she entered high school. But, there was no way that Shizuku was lying, in that case, that meant that Shuuzou and the others were seriously hiding it from Shizuku.

Furthermore, before the summoning, in other words, even when she became a high school student this matter hadn’t been told to her. That could possibly mean that Shizuku wouldn’t be told any of this for her whole life; such a possibility couldn’t be discarded.

Then, why did a matter about one’s own family be hidden from their only daughter or granddaughter?

At the great labyrinth of another world, Shizuku’s true feelings were exposed. After that, Hajime became aware of the things that Shizuku was harboring from the story that he heard from Shizuku herself. About how happy her stern grandfather was when Shizuku displayed the talent for kenjutsu. About how much the people around her were putting their expectations on her.

And also about how as a result, just how much of Shizuku’s true feelings were suppressed because of those.

Hajime recalled the words that were said to him the first time Hajime first faced Shuuzou and Koichi.

——I see, so Shizuku, is fine already.

——My thanks, for letting Shizuku be a girl.

It seemed that rather than the return from another world, the two of them were feeling gratitude from the bottom of their heart at the fact that Shizuku fell in love with her own true feelings, at that growth of her. Relief also exuded out from them.

Hajime didn’t ask much at that time, but he was able to guess.

By some chance, Shuuzou and the others might be regretting that they made Shizuku studying the Yaegashi-style. It was impossible to tell a grandfather not to be happy when his granddaughter had a lot of talent for the family style, and that a parent having expectations for their children was also something natural.

That was why they got too passionate against their better judgment, and like that when they noticed, Shizuku already couldn’t even make a complaint to her family, creating a Shizuku who killed so many parts of herself.

Seeing such a Shizuku, surely Shuuzou and the others didn’t teach her anything more than kenjutsu so that she wouldn’t kill a part of herself any more than that. They thoroughly concealed the family secret.

This was just his guess, but Hajime was convinced that it was the truth.

Hajime spoke with a gentle tone while caressing Shizuku’s head.

「Perhaps they are a troubling family, but……you are treasured by them, right?」

「……I don’t deny that.」

It appeared that Shizuku also guessed that somehow. Though she couldn’t help but unintentionally look sour because it was hidden from her, and how extremely troubling the absurdity of that secret was.

「Now then, putting aside for the time being how one of my wives became a kunoichi」

「I didn’t become a kunoichi, don’t put that aside.」

Shizuku’s look grew increasingly sour with Hajime’s words, but when she noticed the presence of many people that were spreading out little by little in the surroundings, her cheeks cramped.

「Well, there is also Shizuku getting taught about your family I think, but……more than half of this is a test for me I guess. This must be something like revenge for a harem man who dared put his hand on their important daughter. Even Kirino-san was merciless, even though her face was smiling like that.」

「Okaa-san? As far as I know, Okaa-san didn’t do anything to Hajime though……」

「No, she is taking action even now you know. ……This tea and sweet bean jelly, something was put inside. Poison doesn’t work on me, but from the sensation, it’s something like a paralyzing drug I guess. Perhaps they intend to attack while I cannot move.」

「OKAAA-SAAA————————N!!! WHAT ARE YOU GIVING TO YOUR DAUGHTER’S LOVER!!! STOP SCREWING AROUND; I’LL CUT DOWN ALL OF YOU TOGETHEEEERR-」

Inside the Yaegashi residence during midday, the angry yell of an infuriated Shizuku reverberated. She jumped out of the room with a black katana in one hand.

Hajime, who was left alone in the room, properly tasted the last piece of the sweet bean jelly before he whispered.

「Well, compared to the father of Kaori's place, this brute force approach saved me the trouble.」

From the garden, sounds of「Ojii-chan and Otou-chan, and Okaa-saaan-, kneel seiza over there!」, the sound of something being blown away, or「Ojou, she is going mad! Send reinforcements!」, or「Muu, Shizuku, your skill's improved!」, or「Don't think that the current Shizuku can be stopped normally! Form formation! Prepare the Four Cardinal Thousand Execution formation-」, or「We are going to separate Ojou from that brat for sure! White Tiger squad, kill that guy now!」; sounds with that kind of impression could be heard coming from here and there.

Hajime was feeling the multiple presences who were approaching him while spitting out words「Whether, at earth or another world, there is really not much change huh……」 really emptily.

After that, whether Shizuku finally knew all the secrets of her family, and then whether Hajime was recognized by Shizuku's family or not……

For now, let's just say that the pupils of the Yaegashi-style (hidden school) got along really well with the rabbit ears of another world.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

I seriously don’t have time to write.

Even so, when I wrote following my whim, the Yaegashi-style became like this……

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 196

Arifureta After – Aiko-sensei's Worry

AN: This time too, why did it become like this……

Bu, but, well, I think that it's fine if there is at least one of this kind of troublesome person isn't iiit.

Sporadically growing weeds, old stone walls, and a blue sky that looked discolored were spread out. Things other than those which entered the field of vision were only the laundry stand, a rusty drum can with uncertain usefulness, and also the granny bike with a punctured tire leaned listlessly on the stone wall.

(Nothing has changed other than Okaa-san's bicycle huuh~)

On the porch, with the cry of cicadas and the refreshing sound of the wind chime as BGM, the one who was kicking her legs back and forth while staring into nothing in a daze 'bohee~' was the eldest daughter of this household——Hatayama Aiko.

That day, Aiko, who had managed to return from another world, received interrogations not just from police and mass media, but also by school officials and government officials that spanned many days. After all, she was the only adult among the group disappearance. Even if the students were talking about fantastical stories they had experienced, the ratio of sympathy toward them was high, but for Aiko who was a working adult, she was seen with a sterner gaze by the society.

Having said that, all of them had talked about it beforehand and the conclusion that they reached was to talk about the events in the other world Tortus as it was without changing anything; also, Aiko herself didn't have the confidence that she could fabricate "a really convincing story" that could convince the surrounding. So in the end, she could only give an explanation with content that was the same as what the students were talking about, which made her feel really ashamed as a working adult.

Naturally, in regard to her inability to bring back some of her students and how the students became obsessed with "wild delusions", even though in reality those weren't Aiko's responsibility at all, but a flow which was pressing the responsibility to Aiko was starting to appear.

That flow was powerful. Furthermore, even idiotic opinions which said that perhaps the disappearance itself was actually the full responsibility of Aiko was also beginning to appear.

It was an incident with too many mysteries. The culprit was unknown. Some students didn't return. The returnee's wild delusions. Because all these affairs wouldn't settle down without someone taking responsibility, a scapegoat so to speak, it was Aiko who was chosen to hold that role.

Aiko, who was completely exhausted with various things every day, was carried away by the flow of the surrounding, and she tried to respond to the demand of the surrounding and wore the stigma as the person responsible for the group disappearance incident. She accepted the severe bashing and the end of her job as a teacher——no, the end of her social life. Seeing this, the parents of Aiko, who couldn’t bear to witness the figure of their daughter that was reported every day in the news, also came to persuade her to return home. That was also one of the primary factors that affected Aiko.

But, just when Aiko resolved to distance herself from her students’ side, suddenly the topic was going toward its end surprisingly and unnaturally; however, bizarrely no one thought that nothing was strange with this development.

The culprit of that was of course Hajime.

Using the internet and media, he manufactured a super large scale awareness manipulation artifact, and he forcefully and powerfully, without letting anyone complain, interfered with the consciousness of the people all over the world.

Aiko, who knew that, made a grandly convulsing expression and leaked out「What have you done……」. After all, what Hajime did was brainwashing on a world scale. An evil deed that would make even an evil organization of a story go ghastly pale.

But Hajime shrugged toward Aiko who was haggard in various senses.

「The world who put false accusations on you and made their own interpretation as they pleased is the bad one. Returning tit for tat at them is only the matter of course, isn’t it?」

In other words, the flow of society, who had laid their hands on Aiko, was Hajime’s enemy. He didn’t kill them, so at least they could obediently get brainwashed, was his reasoning. They tormented his relatives with their curiosity, irresponsible remarks, and so on, so it was a punishment they deserved.

As for Aiko, she couldn’t say anything anymore having those things said to her. It’s unforgivable for you to leave my side because of the irresponsible flow of society. The person she fell in love with said that to her. Because of that, he made the consciousness of the world into his own.

A demon king-sama to the extreme was here.

No matter what she said, it wouldn’t stop Hajime anymore.

Aiko’s shoulders dropped limply, even so, inside her heart she felt flattered, she felt light as though she was floating, yet inside her chest, she also felt so tiiiiight that she writhed.

And so, in the end, Aiko managed to get reinstated in the school where Hajime and the others were attending. Furthermore, there was also the administration’s plan that wanted the returnees to be lumped together, which even caused her to be employed as the homeroom teacher of the special class of Hajime and the others, the returnees. Thinking of how before the summoning she was just a teacher without a class in charge with, in a sense, she could have said to have risen up in life.

Now then, through this Aiko safely managed to get reinstated as a teacher without getting separated from her students who were more important than anything since they had entrusted their lives to each other in another world, but here, a dilemma arose.

That dilemma was,

——I am a teacher. Hajime-kun is a student……It’s too late already but-

Yes, now she clearly remembered the relationship between her and Hajime. Of course, after the legendary decisive battle, she had already spent many passionate nights together with Hajime, so that thinking was reaa~lly something too late already.

Still, however, now that they were here on earth and in Japan, when she actually returned to her teaching job and stood on the teaching podium, from there she saw the figure of the student Hajime in his seat……

——Me, what have you doneeeeeeeee-. You laid your hand on a studenttttttt-

Like that, she rolled around on the floor when she was alone. Her personality that was too serious by nature, and her extraordinary sincerity toward the teaching profession, when she had returned to the normal everyday life and calmed down, those two aspects mercilessly pierced Aiko’s mind all over gussa gussa with spikes and gouged it chiku chiku with marking pens.

Naturally, she was starting to avoid Hajime, however, looking at him flirting with Yue and the others exacerbated her heartrending, but as expected her guilty feeling, and whatever else, became an obstacle that made her avoid Hajime completely……like that, a really troublesome person had arrived here.

These past few months, far from spending time with Hajime, she didn’t even properly talk with him. Hajime being Hajime, he was running around fighting the government officials of the world, manufacturing artifacts to make it easier to open the gate to the other world Tortus, opening a business in order to provide for Yue and the others with his own hands, and so on. Spending busy days like that, he didn’t even go to meet Aiko.

——Lonely

That was the true feeling of Aiko without any falsehood in it.

——But, a teacher and a student, it’s just……as expected……

That too was the true feeling of a troublesome person.

——As expected, Hajime-kun and I are……uu, there is also the difference in age……there is also my social standing……

That was the true feeling of a very troublesome person.

While worrying endlessly like that, ‘There are thoroughly charming girls already around Hajime, perhaps a middle-aged woman like me should withdraw away……’ she was getting closer to such a conclusion while using the summer holiday to return home, and she became a no-good human like this on the porch.

「Hey, Aiko. You are making a very stupid face there. Isn’t your soul leaking out from your mouth?」

「Even if it leaks out, it can be returned back to its place you know, Okaa-san.」

Indeed, something like that wasn’t any problem if the age of god magic was used, though it was a different story whether her mother could comprehend that or not.

While making an exasperated expression at her daughter’s dazed reply, Aiko’s mother——Akiko asked「You want some watermelon?. Aiko rolled over lazily and without stopping she kept rolling to the table. It was a wordless answer of I want.

Aiko waited for a bit while bathing in the wind of the electric fan. Akiko arrived carrying a watermelon that had been cut into beautiful triangle shapes. It was cold, juicy, and looking delicious just from a glance. Aiko was messing with the watermelon seeds with the provided toothpick before she bit into the edge.

The gentle sweetness spreading inside her mouth slackened the expression of Aiko loosely. Her appearance was completely an elementary student……an extreme of being child faced. She really couldn't be seen as an adult woman at the age of 26. Her awakening to magic power also, for some reason, put her skin condition in an extremely excellent condition, surely that was also a factor that showed a childish look in Aiko.

……When you are like this, I cannot see at all that child whose face was shown a lot on TV who was involving herself with various tragic resolutions.

Mass media is scary. Government officials are scary. Board of Education is scary……fighting god's apostle was still better.

Indeed, perhaps rather than magic, the flow of the society that cannot be seen by eyes is more frightening isn't it. But, isn't that fine. You have the strongest prince, don't you?

……Not prince Okaa-san. He is the devil. Rather, he is the demon king-sama.

Anything is fine, but stop delaying already, let Okaa-san meet with my daughter's benefactor soon. Otou-san, and

Ojii-chan, and the others too, they are totally curious, you know?」

「U, uu~m……well, I'll think about it.」

Aiko's halfhearted attitude caused Akiko to sigh exaggeratedly.

The composition of Aiko's family was her two parents and the grandparents from the mother side. Her family was fruit farmers, with her father marrying into the family. Even now, that father was telling his daughter who came home for the summer holiday 'if you are free then help out here~', going out to work hard in the farm energetically.

Currently, or rather recently, such Hatayama family had a matter that they were really concerned about.

That was regarding Aiko's "lover".

That day, the day their daughter who disappeared together with students unexpectedly came home, naturally the members of Hatayama family who received the explanation of the situation didn't believe Aiko at first, but when Aiko's magic extremely improved the farmland of the Hatayama family, and their crops also became the highest class product, they believed in Aiko while saying 'well whatever!' to the trivial matter.

In the middle of their talk, although Aiko didn't make any declaration, they understood that somehow their daughter seemed to have made a lover. That she was able to return back to Japan was also thanks to that "he", and the unthinkable pacification of the kangaroo court which tried to denounce Aiko previously was also "his" doing.

If this person was their daughter’s benefactor and the person who her heart had decided on, then they wished to be introduced to him by all means, but, for some reason, Aiko was evasively avoiding that and didn’t listen to them.

They were suspicious that this person could possibly be a horrible person, but seeing the figure of their disappointing daughter who grinned from seeing the ring that was always dangling on her neck, smiling cheerfully when she looked at her smartphone, talking to someone on the phone with her feet kicking back and forth and her face love-struck, holding her red face between her hands while shaking her head when she suddenly recalled something while doing nothing, they could understand that she was thinking of the other party from the bottom of her heart.

The family of Aiko was worried in their own way about the future of their daughter whose growth stopped completely when she was in middle school for some reason and had no romantic story at all. Because of that, they were, even more, looking forward to being introduced to the person who was chosen by their daughter.

But, as expected, no matter how long, Aiko kept acting elusive……

「Good grief, if you are like this, then “he” will get away from you eventually, you know?」

「Uguh!?」

Hearing the terrifying warning that was given by her mother regarding her relationship with him that she was currently worrying about, caused Aiko to spontaneously press her hand on her chest while a moan slipped out from her mouth.

「Even though you finally came home, you are just in a daze the whole day without even helping around the home. After all, you are worrying endlessly about “him” and ran away using going home as an excuse, right? Ah, or else, perhaps “he” actually already got away from you and you returned here because of heartbreak……」

「What are you saying, Okaa-san? That, I, don’t really have a, lo, lover or anything……」

Aiko averted her gaze, her volume turned smaller, and she toyed with the watermelon seed in high speed.

For Aiko, she understood her family’s wishes for her to introduce “him” ——Hajime. But, as expected, their relationship of teacher and student made it difficult to speak about even toward her family. No, it was extremely difficult exactly because they were family……

Inside her heart she was whispering「He is not my lover, I’m already treated as his wife, so I’m not lying……」which sounded like an excuse, making her have a vivid resemblance with someone somewhere.

「……Well, that’s fine. I guess you also have various things on your mind, and you are not a kid anymore. But, just remember that no matter what kind of person “he” is, we will welcome him warmly any time.」

「……yes.」

In the end, Akiko backed down, and the hand of Aiko that was playing with the seed slackened a bit. Akiko was smiling wryly at her daughter who was oozing out a relieved air while changing the topic.

「Speaking of, there is a festival this year too. It's good timing, how about you try to change into yukata? You haven't gone there anymore for these last few years, right? You loved Yamashiro-ojiisan's cotton candy, didn't you?」

「Yeah, now that Okaa-san mentions it, it's this time……wait, Yamashiro-ojiichan, he is still alive……」

「You are really rude.」

「Because, when I was in high school if I remember correctly, he was already past 90 years old, right?」

「Yes, this year he will be 102 years old you know.」

「At, at that age, he is still opening a festival stand? Is he okay? He won't ascend to heaven while making cotton candy?」

「You are really rude. Even now he is still lively. Even the person himself said that he would live for thirty more years.」

「He is planning to challenge even the Guinness record?」

Despite the silly talk, in the end, Aiko decided to participate in the nostalgic local festival, also for relaxing the gloominess inside her chest.

In the evening, when the beautiful sunset was about to disappear behind the mountains on the other side of the river, Aiko was at the front door with her body wrapped in a pink yukata. In her hand was a small and cute pouch, with her feet wearing refreshing Japanese sandals. When she was wearing a yukata, to some extent, a unique charm could be felt from her usual childish figure; perhaps that was because she was a Japanese.

「You are really going alone?」

Akiko asked while tilting her head.

「Yep. I'll just aimlessly wander there. Otou-san and the others are also helping there, so I'll show my face at their place for a bit.」

「I see……even if this place is in the sticks that doesn't mean that there aren't idiots, so be careful. Especially because on the day of the festival there are also people who cut loose too much.」

「I understand. Rather, after everything that happens, the likes of hoodlums really won't matter much.」

「Don't be conceited. If you like, should I call Taichi-kun to go with you?」

「Geez-, I'm really fine. Besides, Taichi-kun will be angry if he is called for something like this, you know?」

The one called Furukawa Taichi was a young man who, as it were, was Aiko's childhood friend. In the past, the houses of the Furukawa family and the Hatayama family were close to each other. Since their farms were next to each other, the two families were closely associated. Taichi and Aiko also went to the same school all the time from kindergarten up to high school, so he was her trusted friend.

There was also a time when they temporarily distanced themselves from each other because of this and that at the puberty period. When they grew into adults they also never became a couple, but their relationship after that was friendly enough that met when they both came back here in an extended vacation where they would have a chat.

Taichi graduated from a university in another prefecture, and he immediately got a job at a company. But his father was hospitalized for a time, and he resigned from his job where he then succeeded his family’s farm about a year and a half ago. And so, in the festival this time around he was recruited as one of the young peoples’ group to help around……

「Is that so? I think that if it’s Taichi-kun, he will rush here happily though. Well, asking him to do that is too harsh perhaps.」

「That’s right. Taichi-kun is good-natured, but, as expected, he will get angry if he is taken advantage of too much.」

「That’s not what I mean though……well, that’s not where a parent should stick her nose into.」

「??」

Aiko tilted her head at her mother’s suggestive words, but Akiko didn’t look like she planned to talk more than that, so Aiko turned around and departed toward the festival.

She walked calmly on the familiar country road. Compared to the city, this place was accompanied with colors like the stars of the night sky, which were exceptionally visible, illuminating the path at night, the frogs staying on the fields, and the chorus of the cicadas burning their life on the trees.

(Although, as expected, the clearness of the air cannot compare with Tortus……)

What was revolving in the back of her mind while she was muttering to herself was her days in another world. Even amidst those memories, the one that she recalled vividly due to how dramatic it was, was……that reunion, that undesired result, and then the kiss that saved her life.

(Uu……)

There was also when she was imprisoned by god’s apostle Nointo. For her to be captured at the top of a tall tower, it was as though she was a princess in a tale. And then, he came for her who was in depression from anxiety and impatience, and that battle at the altitude of 8 kilometers.

She exposed her unsightly appearance after the result that she caused, and not only was that shameful figure of her seen, she was even looked after by him.

(Hau……)

After that, the words that he conferred to her beside the cenotaph was something that Aiko surely wouldn’t forget for her whole life. If the rescue drama before that was a salvation for her physical body, then the event in front of the cenotaph that evening was unmistakably the salvation for her heart. Thinking back, she was captured by an ardor that she couldn’t deceive herself from anymore since that time.

(Au……)

And then, with the battle at the devil king’s castle, and going through the legendary decisive battle……the gifted object. As the result of her attack after she let loose all her restraints, he let out a smile that looked as though he gave up, or possibly it was a troubled smile; and then to prove that Aiko was his——that she belonged to the demon king, he gifted her with a ring.

Aiko crawled her fingers on the thing behind her yukata, at the ring that was connected with a chain dangling behind the chest part of the yukata.

And then what she remembered was, the this and that of the night, that she thought might be staying unrelated with herself for her whole life, with how herself was a shorty. Just by remembering it she was still getting bright red. That was, that was……done too much.

「Awawawa-」

On the night path, Aiko fidgeted around while getting red-faced by herself. Seen from the side, she looked just like a suspicious person.

Even though she was getting like this so much, with her head suddenly getting full with Hajime even without anything particular happening, but the person herself was still harboring conflict (lol) inside her heart, worrying whether it was okay to continue this relationship. That was why if the wives' group heard this they would undoubtedly get exasperated.

In the other world, she was titled a goddess and splendidly incited the people, this female teacher, who stood up against even the kingdom and the pope of the biggest religion for the sake of her students, was, in fact, a troublesome person that was super awkward when it came to love.

「Ai? What are you doing?」

「Ohee!?」

Suddenly a voice called out to her which caused Aiko to hop up pyon for real. Complete with a strange voice. Her face turned bright red in a different meaning this time while she turned her gaze toward the direction of the voice. There, she found a tall and sturdy young man, wearing a T-shirt with short sleeves in which the sleeves were further rolled up to his shoulder.

「Ta, Taichi-kun……don’t shock me like that.」

「No, Ai who was making a hundred comical faces alone in the road at night was the one who shocked me there……」

This young man, who was scratching on his cheek while calling Aiko with the pet name “Ai”, was just as Aiko called him, the person named Furukawa Taichi.

「Forget that……rather than that, Taichi-kun yourself, what are you doing in this kind of place? Aren’t you helping with the festival?」

「Aa~, no, I was but……because Ai said that you were coming. See, stupid bunches are also coming out in this kind of day yeah.」

「By any chance, you are intentionally coming here to pick me up?」

「We, well yeah.」

「Is that so, fufu, thank you.」

Aiko felt somewhat warm with Taichi’s nonchalant “good person act” that she knew from the past, and she smiled while expressing her thanks. Seeing that, for some reason, the young man Taichi quickly turned aside his face while his hand covered his mouth. When Aiko got curious「Oh? What’s the matter?」and circled around to look at his face, Taichi turned around hastily, and he walked toward the festival while urging Aiko ahead.

「Co, come to think of it, yukata. You are wearing it, huh?」

It was a somewhat sudden change of topic, but Aiko responded to the talk without being particularly bothered by it.

「Yep. The atmosphere is important in this kind of event. This is also the festival after so long that I rarely attended.」

「I see, you are right. ……That, what to say, it suits you.」

「Is that so? Thank you.」

Aiko responded to Taichi's praise frankly, a little bit too frankly, by saying a normal thanks. She wasn't at the age where she would be greatly concerned with words like that. ……Although that also depended on who was the one saying it.

Taichi felt a bit down, even so, he continued making trifling talk with his trusted friend, including reminiscent talk. Those two finally entered the busy festival and crowd of people.

There, the neighborhood uncle and aunt that knew the two of them since they were young bantered with them. Aiko clearly declared that the two of them were not in that kind of relationship even while responding calmly. Seeing such an Aiko caused Taichi's cheeks to cramp. Seeing that situation, his comrades from the young persons' association sent him a gaze that was mixed with sympathy……

Old man Yamashiro displayed his artistic skill that was pointlessly polished by making a Michaelangelo statue using cotton candy. Then the two of them encountered a female classmate of Aiko, who also brought along a child. Seeing that caused Aiko to hold a really complicated feeling, and when that classmate told Aiko that if she also married then~ half teasingly. The matter of Hajime floated inside her head which caused Aiko to turn a bit red though, and she didn’t speak any denial, which in turn caused Taichi to get pointlessly fired up……

And, with various things like that Aiko enjoyed a lot the festival that she hadn’t attended for a while.

With the festival, which was still lively, in the background, Aiko sat down on the porch of the shrine ground to rest while she was at it. Beside her there was Taichi who even though he was supposed to be a member of young persons’ association, he had been following Aiko all the time while she was walking around the festival; even now, he showed no sign of going to help at the festival.

In the silent atmosphere, Aiko was dangling her legs back and forth while listening to the bustling of the festival and looking up to the night sky. It was in the height of summer, but the shrine ground had a nice open space for wind, in which the night breeze felt pleasant on her skin which was damp from sweat.

Taichi was looking at Aiko, who had narrowed her eyes due to feeling good from the wind, with a dazed gaze……a beat later, he returned to his senses suddenly, and he slapped his own cheek. pan- That nice dry sound made Aiko startled, and she turned her gaze there.

Taichi opened his mouth, looking somewhat nervous toward such Aiko.

「Hey, Ai. Recently, are you okay? See, just a bit before there were various things that happened, right?」

「Yep, I’m fine. It’s over already. Right now, I’m a teacher normally.」

「I see. But, the class that Ai is in charge of, it's that class, isn't it? Then, won't there still be a time when Ai would have to take the full brunt of the trouble?」

「……What do you want to say?」

Taichi's gaze wandered from the dubious Aiko; however, right after that, he looked at Aiko with firm eyes and spoke.

「Isn't it, enough already? You have, already, worked hard enough for your students' sake, don't you think so?」

「……」

「That's why, just like Obaa-san and the others were saying before……come back home here already.」

「……」

Aiko didn't answer, as though she didn't want to respond to that topic, and then she stood up and started to walk toward the festival. Toward such Aiko, Taichi added on to his words looking impatient.

「It's not like, you need to be at that place if you want to be a teacher, right? You can also try to find a job here.」

「That's not why. I also have a responsibility, and above all, I myself, want to be at the side of those children.」

「Then, when those children graduate, what then?」

「That's……but, even though that kind of incident happened, the school still trusted me enough to take charge of the class. I'm indebted to them.」

「That's only because they want to gather the returnees in one place, right? Rather, if the current children graduate, you won’t know whether you can continue to stay there, don’t you? If it’s Ai, your face is widely known here, it’s convenient if you live here, and you also have connections to a certain degree that can help you.」

「Perhaps that is so but……that’s, still in the future.」

Aiko’s complicated attitude finally made Taichi irritated, and he stood up vigorously.

「……What Ai is concerned about, is actually not something like your duty to the school, or your responsibility to your students, am I right?」

「Eh?」

「What Ai is concerned about……is actually the matter of your lover, isn’t it?」

「Wai-, what are you saying……I, something like a lover is……」

「The one who thinks that it’s a secret is just Ai. Obaa-san and the others, me, we all know. That in the middle of your disappearance Ai made a lover. And also, how that lover is……your student.」

「!!!!?」

Aiko went「How do you!?」, an action that was really easy to understand. Seeing that act of Aiko’s, which was too honest in a sense, Taichi continued his words while his expression turned complicated.

「There is no way we wouldn’t know. Since the past, Ai is just too poor at hiding a secret. It immediately comes out in your behavior. Besides, even after you returned back you frequently contacted someone, you made a lover while you disappeared, yet it wasn’t a relationship that you could introduce to your parents, it must be a relationship that stimulates your guilt or morality by continuing it……When you searched for the answer that satisfies all those requirements, then it can be nothing but a student.」

「……Taichi-kun. Since when did you become a detective?」

Taichi said「I told you, it’s not just me, Obaa-san and the others also know that」toward Aiko who was stunned. When Aiko realized that the secret was actually exposed to her mother too, she was finally at her wits end with her hands holding her head.

Seeing such Aiko, Taichi resolved himself and spoke.

「A relationship between a student and teacher……you understand, don’t you Ai?」

「tsu」

「Ai yourself, you are feeling tortured like that. I don’t know what happened in the middle of your disappearance, but surely that was just how much of an abnormal situation it was, right? Then, that was just your momentary loss of judgment. I don’t care about that.」

「Taichi-kun?」

Taichi approached Aiko, and he stared at her fixedly with a serious gaze. Aiko took a step back from being overwhelmed, but when Aiko drew away, then Taichi would also close the distance accordingly.

「Ai, let’s stop that kind of impure relationship already, and come back here and start from zero. At first, it might feel lonely, but……I will be at your side from here on.」

「Taichi-kun, what are you saying……」

「I told you that I returned here because of my father's sickness, but actually that wasn't it. My father's sickness was healed in one week……the truth is, when Ai disappeared, I felt uneasy, I couldn't even focus on my work, and so, I resigned from my work to search for you full time.」

「Was, was that why?」

Aiko's eyes turned round from this truth she didn't know. And then, now that Taichi had spoken that far, then even the dull Aiko could guess just with what kind of feeling Taichi had been speaking about until now. That fact made Aiko astonished precisely because she had never thought of that possibility for even a bit until now.

「When I heard that Ai was gone, I thought that my heart got crushed. At that time, I noticed it. For me, Ai is, an existence that is that important to me.」

「Ta, Taichi-kun, fo, for now, let's calm down a bit?」

「I am calm. Ai, come home. And then, marry me. I will treasure you, so be together with me forever!」

「No no, wait a bit! That's too sudden! I, am not thinking of Taichi-kun like――」

「You relationship with your lover, it's not going well, right?」

「Uguh」

「There is no way it's going well. The other party is just a student. There is no way he can make Ai happy. If it's me, I have seceded my house and also have resourcefulness, even my age matches yours. It will absolutely go well between us.」

Aiko's back was already glued closely to a pillar of the shrine ground. The approaching Taichi suddenly tightly grasped the shoulders of Aiko. Taichi's eyes had a seriousness that Aiko had never seen in them until now; they were overflowing with sincerity, including passion, so hot it was scalding.

If Aiko didn't have a lover, yes, if this was before she was summoned to the other world, depending on the situation, her heart might be stolen even if she thought nothing of him until now except as someone like a brother. That was just how much of a "man" her childhood friend, who she thought she knew, was to her. As for his speech, she couldn't help but feel that it was somewhat hurting but……or rather, now that she thought calmly, it was a bit, but it felt like a somewhat dangerous pick-up line……

But, even now when that much feeling was expressed to her, what floated in the back of Aiko's mind was, the matter of him……

「Hajime-kun……」

「Ai-」

The name that unintentionally leaked out in a small murmur caused Taichi to frown, but in the next moment, he tried to close his distance with Aiko in one go. Perhaps he intended to return his beloved woman to her sanity from the impure relationship she was imprisoned in, even if he had to take a little forceful method……or perhaps, it might be simple jealousy……

The shocking situations that happened in succession, and her mind that was split between her feelings toward him, caused Aiko to react late. She immediately tried to twist her body, but…..behind her was a pillar, both her shoulders were pinned down, it wasn’t that she couldn’t shake herself free but, it was unclear whether she would be able to avoid from injuring Taichi!

Therefore, even while she was putting on strength to the level that was a bit dangerous for normal people, spontaneously, inside her heart, she yelled asking for help.

(Hajime-kun!)

「What is it Aiko?」

「Eh?」

「Eh?」

Taichi and Aiko leaked out similar voices, and then before Taichi’s approach could reach Aiko, or rather before he could get blown away by Aiko, he stopped. No, he was stopped. His neck was grabbed tightly from behind.

meri- An unpleasant sound could be heard.

「-, who, who are you-. What are you doing-」

「Oi oi, that’s my line you know? Just what are you doing to my woman?」

Right after that, Taichi’s figure vanished. No, he was sent flying backward with a force to the degree that it looked like he vanished. It seemed that his neck didn’t bend a strange direction or anything due to the superb moderation of power. But, he was fiercely sent flying to the ground where he rolled many times, the impact made him cough fiercely.

With a sidelong glance at such Taichi, Aiko was flustered while she stared at the person before her eyes feeling dumbfounded.

「Ha, Hajime-kun?」

「Yeah, it’s me.」

「Wh, why, are you here?」

「Because, Aiko is here?」

「No, even if you are saying something like a mountain climber somewhere with a question mark like that……」

Hajime smiled wryly seeing Aiko at a loss.

「Recently, you looked like you were thinking too much about various things. We also didn’t really have time to talk, on top of that you came home here. I thought it would be troublesome if you were persuaded by your parents to make an annoying decision, and because of that so I planned to visit here. And, when I used the compass to move here, you were in the middle of some kind of festival, right? I thought that by some chance, you were going around the festival feeling lonely by yourself, so I flew here but……the result turned out all right in the end.」

Hajime’s eyes narrowed dangerously toward Taichi who was standing up and glaring at Hajime even while coughing. Seeing that, even while feeling happiness welling up inside from understanding that Hajime was worried for her and he rushed here to spend some festival time with her, she also felt intense shame and fretfulness because her figure that was approached by someone else just now was seen by Hajime.

「U, um, that’s not what you think! There is, nothing like that going on between Taichi-kun and me! I don’t, have any intention like that at all!」

「Aa~, yeah, I see……」

Taichi, who was walking toward them, went「Gahah」with his hand pressing on his chest. Seeing that figure caused Hajime to make an expression where he was unsure of what to say. The woman he liked denied him with all her strength——indeed, hearing that would make anyone press on their chest spontaneously.

「But, recently you were worried a lot about your relationship with me, right? Perhaps you were worrying endlessly when we became student and teacher once more……it’s already really too late to think like that.」

「Hau!?」

This time, Aiko was the one who pressed her chest. Her gesture really resembled her childhood friend. That fact made Hajime’s wry smile deepen while he suddenly circled behind Aiko and embraced her. 「Ha, Hajime-kun!?」or「You-」could be heard, but Hajime ignored it.

Hajime kept embracing Aiko while he talked with a voice that was oozing a bit of exasperation into her ear.

「Even this relationship that Aiko is worried about will resolve itself not even two years later. Even so, if you are bothered with that two years, then both of us just need to hold back until that time arrives, right? If Aiko wishes for it, then I won’t mind something that small.」

「A, u, that's……bu, but, I, am far older than you……」

「……Aiko, I'm telling you this for your own good. Just absolutely don't say those words in front of Yue. You don't want to have air travel ten kilometers high with your flesh body, do you?」

「Aa……」

Thinking really really carefully, something like a difference of age……above the sky there was still sky. It was something that she must not speak of no matter what.

「Good grief. Humans are a living thing that will think of various stupid things the moment they calm down, and Aiko is the very model of that kind of human huh. On top of it already being too late for that, it's a problem that can be resolved easily. For you to become irresolute due to that…… if you are that much fixated on "being a teacher", then you at least have to be like how you were once before, where you remonstrate even me.」

「Uu, I have nothing I can say……」

「Or rather……just who do you think I am, huh? When I accepted Aiko, I should have declared it already.」

Aiko recalled. One month after the legendary decisive battle, when she wished that she also wanted to be loved by Hajime. There, she was accepted, on top of what was presented——the term of demon king-sama.

——When I decide to accept you, there won't be any getting away.

There was no concept of "parting" for the woman of the demon king. Even if Aiko herself hated it, Hajime wouldn't let her get away, no matter what kind of situation there was. It was impossible for him to accept any woman other than his beloved while there was any possibility of parting. That was the minimum distinction of Hajime who was someone preposterous and the worst from keeping relationships with multiple women.

The only one he could accept was only a partner who could offer her whole life to him and vice versa.

Therefore, it was meaningless for Aiko to worry about ethics, common sense, or whatever because Aiko had already offered that body and heart of hers to the demon king.

And the consequence was, that she couldn’t get away from demon king-sama.

「You understand?」

「……yes.」

Just with a sentence, when Hajime questioned her, Aiko easily surrendered. She nodded up and down repeatedly with her face bright red.

There, Taichi directed a severe gaze at Hajime who was still embracing Aiko from behind and opened his mouth.

「……You. Get away from Ai. You are, if I’m right, you are Ai’s student, aren’t you? I guess you don’t understand because you are still a student, but your existence is hurting Ai. This world is not so sweet that you can make it somehow with just feeling――」

「Thanks for the warning. But, You have mistaken the process too much to put on air as an adult with good sense. Your persuasiveness is nonexistent at the point of time you are reaching out your hand toward someone else’s woman. If you weren’t Aiko’s childhood friend, then I’d do the Inugami family to you but……well, this time I’ll magnanimously overlook it. Give up on Aiko and search for another suitable wife.」(TN: About Inugami family. I tried to google it, but the only thing I can find is a mystery novel about serial killing.)

Having a man that was younger, furthermore, someone that was still a student, talking back to him so frankly caused Taichi’s mouth to open and close wordlessly. And then, with a complexion that was busily turning blue and red intermittently, he was about to yell angrily at Hajime,

「Yaahn」

「tsu!?」

Yet he turned speechless due to the coquettish voice that Aiko raised and the spectacle happening in front of his eyes. Of all things, Hajime was thrusting his hand behind the chest part of Aiko’s yukata before his hand started to grope around! What an act! It was truly like a demon!

Then Hajime casually took out a ring that had been turned into a necklace from Aiko’s chest. Aiko, who had something embarrassing done to her in front of her childhood friend that was already like family to her, glared at Hajime with teary eyes + upward glance, but Hajime warded off something like that like a willow swaying in the wind.

「Understand that we are already at a stage where words won’t do anything. Just as you see, rather than my lover, Aiko is already my wife. Her body, her heart, I have received them all.」

「Yo, you-」

Hajime’s speech was completely like the villain. No matter how anyone looked at this, this was a composition of a gentle and sincere young man having his childhood friend snatched away by a bad man. The speech that Aiko could say in this kind of time should be「Stop-, don’t fight each other because of meee!」as expected. Although, the moment Aiko said such a thing, she would surely receive Hajime’s iron claw of love.

Taichi was about to condemn Hajime along with his emotion that felt like erupting, but before that could happen Hajime threw his words at him with a cold expression.

「You reap what you sow.」

「What-」

「You should have a powerful weapon that I don’t have. You have time and the same living environment that you spent together with Aiko since childhood, and even after you two became adults you must have met her many times too since then, isn’t that right? You should have had so many chances to exchange your feelings with Aiko, but you passed up all those chances. Don’t make any excuses now. You couldn’t even become a “reason to go home” for Aiko to give no place in her heart to go toward me. You didn’t try. The result of that is this. That’s all there is to it.」

That was a sound argument. Snatched away——such a thing was a serious case of barking up the wrong tree. While Taichi was in a position that was closer to Aiko than anyone, he didn’t fight so that he could walk together with her. That was why, before he realized it, Aiko had been at a place so far that his hand couldn’t reach. That was all there was to it.

Talking like this was strangely remonstrating considering it was Hajime. He crushed his enemy mercilessly, and if it was someone who he couldn’t stomach, then he would ignore that person without speaking too much. When that person couldn’t be ignored, then, as expected, he would crush them. That was Hajime. It was unusual for him to speak like this to someone who had tried to place their hand on Aiko.

Looking carefully, even though Taichi got thrown away that showily just now, there was no wound on him which looked that serious.

(Because he is my childhood friend……)

That must be the reason.

Aiko changed her embarrassed expression and raised a tightly stiffened face. And then, she softly untangled from Hajime’s hand that was hugging her tightly. Hajime didn’t oppose her.

Aiko took a step forward and calmly opened her mouth.

「Taichi-kun, thank you for worrying about me a lot. Thank you, that you think of me so strongly.」

「Ai……」

「But, I cannot answer Taichi-kun’s feeling. I, cannot look at Taichi-kun like that.」

「……Because of that, you are with that guy――」

「Yes. Because the one I have feelings for is Hajime-kun. I was worried about a lot of things but……yes, it’s really too late already for that. I even think to myself just what in the world I am doing worrying like that.」

「……Society won’t tolerate it. That’s something that must not be done.」

「Yes, I know. But, I cannot help it. Because the person I fell in love with is hopelessly like a demon, let alone the society, even the world or the god are no match for him. I too am a wicked woman huh.」

「……Wicked woman. Those words don’t suit Ai the most.」

「But, I think that’s not bad.」

「Haa, is that so. So it’s just like that guy said, from the beginning, it’s “too late” already for me.」

Aiko smiled wryly as though to state her agreement.

Taichi glared fiercely at Hajime. Hajime accepted it with an unruffled face. Understanding that something like his glare wouldn’t shake this guy even a little, and then, having the painful sound argument thrown at him just now, on top of how his body was thrown before this, showed him that he couldn’t even possibly match this guy in physical strength. Strength abruptly left his shoulders after glaring at Hajime for a while.

And then, he wordlessly turned around and left the shrine ground.

「My bad. Perhaps your relationship with your childhood friend will be bad after this……」

「No, it’s fine. Perhaps, it will take a bit of time, but we will be able to return back to our brother-sister relationship again.」

「Then that’s fine……but, as expected, if he reaches his hand to Aiko one more time, then I won’t have the confidence to not do the Inugami family to him.」

「……Why, are you that obsessed with the Inugami family?」

Aiko smiled wryly at Hajime's manner of speaking, then a beat later, she faced straight at Hajime once again. And then, she bowed her head.

「I'm sorry that I made you worry because of me worrying irresolutely about strange things. Thank you for coming to meet me today.」

「Yeah, I definitely had received both your gratitude and apology. But, don't mind it too much. I said it before too, but I really like that part of Aiko.」

「Hee? Tha, that part?」

The unexpected word of "like" made Aiko become red once more. Toward such Aiko, Hajime said that before in front of the cenotaph of the Hairihi Kingdom, he thought that Aiko who was worrying there looked dazzling to him, and then he asked her whether she remembered what they talked about there. That was what Aiko remembered just not long ago. It was clearly etched in her memory; surely it was an important memory when her feeling toward Hajime became definite.

「You who was running forward swiftly with all your might, and then you who was holding your head when you failed or when you noticed your contradiction; but even so you endured it and found a conclusion in your own way which you tried to carry through. I found those parts of Aiko dazzling; those parts look really lovely to me. That's why Aiko, you can stay just as you are.」

「……I think it's foul play for you to say something like that.」

Aiko turned around with her back toward him, her face looking down so Hajime couldn’t see it. But even without seeing that face, it was easily imaginable that her face was becoming complicated with shame and delight.

Perhaps because he understood that Hajime made an expression that was delicately holding back his laugh. Really what a bad guy.

「Now then, let’s go to Aiko’s house. I have to give my greeting to your parents.」

「Eh?」

Those sudden words that were said aloud so suddenly with a light tone as though asking her to go to some convenience store for a bit caused Aiko to go ‘hah’ and she turned around toward Hajime.

「It looks like your worry is resolved already, so there is no more reason that you cannot introduce me, right? If I have to greet them sooner or later, then I’ll at least show my face to them while also sending you home. It is late already, so I’ll do the formal greeting once more tomorrow.」

「A, as always, what proactiveness……n, no, you know, the greeting can be done next time……I too need to prepare my heart……」

「Hmm, Aiko’s house is over there……oh? So your father and the others are going out to the festival. They are right nearby. Yosh, let’s spend some money while greeting them at the same time.」

「Ah, wait, don’t use something like the compass for this! Wait, please don’t ignore me and go off like that! Just what in the world are you planning to say to Otou-san and the others!?

Of course, I'll say "Otou-san, I accept your daughter. I won't accept any objection or refusal". That's the standard speech, right?

The standard where-!?

Or rather, Aiko. I'm bothered, just why are you speaking using polite language to me while you spoke casually to that bastard? Isn't that cruel?(TN: Aiko has been using polite language all this time with Hajime while using peer language when she talked to Taichi.)

Eh? That's, it's about the atmosphere or something…… wait, don't change the subject! There is a lot of my acquaintances here from the paaast! If you are saying something like that to Otou-san in this kind of place…… tomorrow all the neighbors will know it!

If you properly talk casually with me too then I'll think about it. ……Well, the time extension won't even be one minute for you to decide though. Oh, that's your father, isn't it? The first impression is important. First of all, let's binge shop the stall's goods.

Please wait! Wait, wait……I get it! I get it already! I'll properly talk to you without polite language so don't keep walking rapidlyyy!(TN: Here finally Aiko didn't use polite language.)

Aiko who was making racket 'gyaa gyaa', and Hajime was handling her unseriously while charging toward the direction of her family with a fearless smile on his face. Naturally, Aiko was clinging to Hajime's arm while Hajime was advancing while carrying such Aiko in his arm, and coupled with their noisiness the degree of attention to them was at MAX!

The madams of the neighborhood, and the old people who were affectionate to Aiko, they all went□Oh my!□seeing the two’s situation.

And then, finally, the father of Aiko, who noticed Hajime walking toward him with his daughter in his arms, opened his eyes widely, expressing his shock, then he smiled wryly as though he had comprehended something.

After that, Hajime, who loudly proclaimed that he was Aiko’s boyfriend right in the middle of the festival that was overflowing with Aiko’s acquaintances, was awarded clapping and the cheering of hooray. Hajime kept restraining Aiko, who was trying to run away from shame, with a princess carry and was causing cheers to be raised.

Furthermore, it was supposed to be only Hajime showing his face, but with Aiko’s father and grandfather inviting him to come to their house no matter what, Hajime visited the Hatayama house and also met with Akiko and the grandmother. Then he talked to them about his wives other than Aiko and his intention.

With everything that happened at the Shirasaki family and the Yaegashi family, Hajime had resolved himself to be slapped with rejection and rage for sure, but unexpectedly both Aiko’s parents, and even her grandparents, all the people of the Hatayama family accepted Hajime. Of course, it wasn’t like they weren’t frowning, but with the feeling of wanting to respect the will of their daughter who was already an adult, and above all, their debt of gratitude to Hajime because he had saved their daughter from danger many times, it seemed that it led to their trust for Hajime.

In the end, due to the kindness of the Hatayama family, it became a course of event where Hajime stayed for the night, and by using gate the next day, the people of the Nagumo family also visited the Hatayama family, where the words of Yue and the others which said “together with Aiko” promoted the trust to grow even deeper.

After that, it was as though the Hatayama family and the Nagumo family became like a family group but……

As a result, Aiko’s hometown became well-known as the “Land of Miracle” where every kind of crop could bear fruit regardless of the soil quality or the season. Surely that was due to the mixing of the family of “Goddess of Harvest” and the family of “Demon King of Another World”……

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Actually, I also planned to write the reason why Aiko is fixated on being a teacher, but there wasn’t any time, and I couldn’t think of any idea. Despite so, when I began to write thinking [Anyway if I just write then perhaps I’ll think of something…], this kind of Aiko was created……

Well, continuing from before, Shirakome’s condition is a bit bad, so I’m thinking of getting a change of pace.

Even though I say that I’m writing a bit of a longer extra story.

I’m thinking ‘Should I promote him to a main character I wondeeer~’.

Remember, it’s him you know, him. Come on, his name is……eh?

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 197

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Prologue

AN: This is extra story where that guy is the leading actor.

It’s totally undecided just how far this will go!

Anyway, here’s the prologue.

Caution

- This is a work of fiction. The appearing character, organization, and everything else is different from in reality!

(Shirakome’s excuse=>When making the earth in reality as the stage, various names and settings cannot tamper around as I pleased. What if it’s actually different from the actual condition because of my lack of knowledge……then, it’s similar, but actually, it’s different from the actual earth! That’s why, things like organization names, country names, or weapon names, it will be okay even if they are subtly different!)

And so because of that, please take care of me.

Part 1

It shouldn’t be like this.

Everyone, without exception, surely must have said that in their life. Or even, if not, then surely they must have thought those words in their mind.

Looking at an ideal, setting a target, making a resolve, with seriousness, one pushes forwards toward the future that they wish to have.

But, what was called life, and what was called the world, were extremely malicious. As though it was the norm, matters went left when one wanted them to go right, and then it went right when one thought it would be left, and in the critical times it would go “right outside the expectation”. That’s impossible, absurd, it’s unreasonable, etc., even if one was thinking those they would still be toyed around by the raging stream of absurdity as though they were swallowed and washed away by a flash flood, and then thrown out onto a beach(reality) somewhere like driftwood.

People with their dreams destroyed and their hearts broken, just like a scrap of wood, would stand up and start walking once more, or else, they would keep being buried under the sand(reality) and vanish……It depended on the person. Although, in most cases, there would be salvation from somewhere else for them. While someone might come to clear away the sand, there was also a possibility of someone pulling at their hand to drag their buried body out. Perhaps there would also be someone who would stay by their side waiting for them until their wound was healed.

But……

(Surely, there will be no salvation for me. It’s beyond hope for me to meet someone like that. Aa, I, just what have I done……)

They were inside an equipment storeroom that was overflowing with iron shelves and crammed with cardboard box and fixtures. The place wasn’t that spacious, but it was a place to temporarily deposit fixtures that were taken out from the large storehouse for the time being. There a girl was sitting down while hugging her knees.

That girl’s body twitched from the sudden large impact sound, and she froze from fear. gan-gan-gan The impact reverberated consecutively. Someone was hitting the storeroom door from the outside. The girl lifted her face fearfully.

She was a cute——or more accurately, a beautiful girl. Her age looked around 16, 17 years old. She had blonde hair that was tied into a side tail using a scrunchie. Her almond-shaped eyes that resembled a mischievous cat was colored with jade pupils and long eyelashes. On the whole, she had a slender body type while her legs that were stretching out from her skirt were long and slender, wrapped in black stockings. She was a girl that could even pass as a model.

But, this girl was not a model by any means, and that was shown by her clothes that a normal girl wouldn’t wear in the first place. Yes, the girl was putting on “lab coat” over her blouse.

She wasn’t wearing a lab coat because she was forced to wear it due to some kind of event, or because of some particular hobby which could be obviously seen from the lab coat’s worn out state and her appearance that looked familiar wearing the coat, which for some reason could be thought of as “fitting”.

That girl dressed in a particular look screamed「hii-」when a strong impact sound gan- reverberated once more, and she held her head with both her hands. She shrunk her body really small; you could tell that she was in a state of fear. However, it seemed that fear wasn’t because the ringing impact sound outside the storeroom was unknown for her, rather she was scared because she knew the true form of that impact sound.

Because despite the girl’s scared expression, at the same time colors of pity, sadness, and guilt were coloring her face.

「I’m sorry, I’m sorry, I’m sorry……」

The girl in the lab coat was repeating words of repentance with a voice so small that it could melt into the air and become nothing. Just what was that apology referring to……

But at that time, the resounding impact sound stopped completely. The lab coat girl thought 「What is going on?」 with tears gathering in the corner of her eyes. The behavioral principle of “them” that the lab coat girl created was extremely instinctual. Therefore, they shouldn’t be leaving that easily from the storeroom where the “prey”, which was the girl, was inside. Then, perhaps something different that attracted the interest of “them” had appeared.

The girl wiped her eyes roughly with the sleeve of her lab coat and advanced through the space between the shelves slowly and quietly on all fours. And then, the girl finally arrived like a scared cat until beside a shelf in the inner part, where it became a blind spot from the door of the storeroom, and quietly peeked out from the cover of the shelf; her gaze moving toward the door that stopped making a sound.

「Hiu」

She raised a strange scream that normally she wouldn’t let out. The inside of her throat reflexively tightened from looking at the state of the door. Ahead of the girl’s gaze, the door of the storeroom was——dented all over to the point that it was on the verge of breaking down.

It was a storeroom to deposit items temporarily, so the door was made from iron and fitted with a lock. Regardless, a large number of dents were created on the door as though it had received abnormal and concentrated impacts which distorted it terribly. The outside corridor could be seen from the edge of the door. If the door received one more impact, then it would collapse inside the room.

「……」

Killing her breathing, the girl stared fixedly at the door for a while; before long strength suddenly left her shoulders. It seemed “they” had gone away somewhere just before the door broke……

But, it seemed it was a bit too fast to think that.

GOGAANNN The door was blown away inside the room at the same time as that terrific impact sound.「Hih」The girl screamed, and her body froze. In the next moment, the door that flew inside with fierce momentum cut a swath through the shelves near the girl.

The girl fell on her butt, and then, perhaps because it was her habit when she was surprised, she hugged her head with both her hands once more, tears gathered in the corner of her eyes while she fearfully opened her shut eyes.

「Fuuh――, fuuh――」

「a, ua」

Ahead of the girl’s gaze was a man. It was a young man in the middle of his twenties wearing a lab coat similarly like the girl.

「Se, senpai……」

A whisper leaked out from the girl. The young man seemed to be a “senpai” that the girl knew. But, if a person that didn’t know the situation was in this place, surely they would be unable to comprehend the girl’s words at all.

Because, no matter how anyone saw it, for someone who was called a “senpai” by this girl whose intellectual eyes weren’t clouded even with her scared expression, he didn’t look like that type of person, no, in the first place he didn’t even look like a human.

The man’s eyes didn’t have a fixed focus, those were abnormal eyes that sometimes fully bared the white of the eyes, his face and arms had blood vessels rising to the surface, despite how his body should have slim figure originally, his flesh was swelling bizarrely like a bodybuilder, his breathing was rough and saliva was dripping down from his mouth, and he was raising a low growl like a beast. There was no reasoning that could be seen from him. While he was wearing a similar lab coat with the girl, that appearance was truly out of place.

What was even stranger was that his fists were tightly clenched. Those fists were likely continuously hitting the iron door until it was broken just now, their skin was peeled, the flesh gouged, bones were jutting out, and they were soaked in blood, but those fists were rapidly returning back to normal in a speed that was obvious in a glance. No, perhaps to say more accurately, the flesh was swelling up, the bones that were cracked were connected back, and the fist was repaired to the shape of a fist that was still warped.

「uUUa-」

「A, a……」

The girl backed down while still on her butt slowly. The abnormal young man kept growling while heavily pursuing after her. The storeroom wasn’t that big. Therefore, the back of the girl was immediately blocked by a wall.

The man was standing like a mindless beast in front of the cornered girl. Something warm was flowing out from between the legs of the girl who was holding her head. It was something that she did because of the extreme fear, but the girl herself had no composure to care about that.

Toward such a girl, the fist of the young man, which destroyed a door made from iron, was raised without even a shred of hesitation.

(I’m, sorry……. If only I didn’t do that kind of research……. I’m sorry, senpai……everyone……)

While trembling toward her death that would surely arrive a few beats later, the girl repeated her repentance inside her heart.

Like that, the fist that could easily crush the face of the girl was swung do——

「Doctor Grant!」

An angry voice of a young woman and a dry bursting sound reverberated. The fist of the “senpai” stopped. And then, slowly he turned around while growling. The lab coat girl also directed her gaze toward the door from the shadow of the “senpai”.

There, was the figure of a tall woman wearing a black suit with both her hands readying a handgun.

「Doctor Grant, please get down!」

「tsu」

Hearing the sharp instruction that shook the air like an electric shock, Doctor Grant——Emily Grant reflexively flopped her body low on the floor.

Right after that was the sound of a gun discharging resounding consecutively. And then, a beast’s roar. Footsteps that were like an earthquake was heading away from Emily. When Emily moved her gaze while lying low on the ground, she could see the figures of the black suit woman firing toward the “senpai” and “senpai” who charged ahead without caring about that.

At first, it seemed the woman was aiming at the shoulders and legs of “senpai”, but then she clicked her tongue after seeing that he didn’t even seem to itch when the bullets hit. The next moment, with an astounding speed that it wouldn’t be an exaggeration even if it was said that it was nearly instantly, the “senpai” closed the distance and he pushed out his fist toward the woman while screaming.

In no time, it seemed that the woman would become a mere lump of meat just like that, but in the next instant, it was proven that the woman wasn’t an ordinary person.

「Haa-」

Along with short breathing, the woman stepped forward. Like that, she weaved through the approaching fist and stepped inside the bosom of the “senpai” and grasped at his collar, and turned around. Without stopping she performed a splendid shoulder throw.

The “senpai”, who’s charging momentum was used for a throwing technique, had his posture turned upside down and thrown onto the wall on the opposite side. Even so, as expected, it was like he didn’t feel any pain but……

「……Forgive me.」

That sentence was audible. At the same time, a dry bursting sound rang. The fired 9mm bullet penetrated an eye of the “senpai” and mercilessly pulverized the brain. The body of the “senpai” twitched, and before long he stopped moving as though all strength had left him.

The woman held her handgun with both hands while observing the body with a fixed stare for a while. Then with a sigh, strength left her shoulders, it seemed she had judged that the “senpai” wouldn’t move anymore. She then exchanged the gun’s magazine with a trained motion while making contact using her communication device to somewhere, with her quite expressionless face moving toward Emily that was sitting dumbfounded inside the storeroom.

「Doctor Grant, it’s great that you are safe. I am Vanessa Paradis of state security. I came to pick you up. I will guard you until we arrive at a safe place from here on.

The woman who introduced herself as Vanessa quickly approached Emily's side and calmly held out her hand. The girl who saw her from nearby comprehended it that this woman had an appearance and air where it could be glimpsed that she was used to these rough scenes. Long slit and sharp eyes, with very short hair that was colored between grey and beige. Her height seemed to surpass 179 centimeters easily. Her whole body was emitting a cold presence that was sharp like a knife.

Surely it was because of that that Emily wrinkled her eyebrows in vigilance.

.....I have grasped the gist of your circumstance. It's natural for you to be cautious. However, we don't have any leeway time wise. This facility is filled with the infected personnel. My colleagues are attracting their attention, but even so, they cannot hold for long. That's why, please believe me for now and come with me.

.....senpai is.....

.....Forgive me. My priority protection target is you. I had no leeway to leave him as it was. Also, it was already too late when he became like that, that matter——

Yes. I am the one who knows that the best.

Emily stared for a while at the mere shadow of "senpai's" former self-sinking in the sea of blood behind Vanessa. After that, she moved her gaze to Vanessa. She still had a cold atmosphere around her and looked expressionless, but in her eyes, which were so close Emily's figure was reflected in them, sympathy and apology toward her could be seen somehow.

Emily stared fixedly at those eyes; then she took the hand of Vanessa that was still held out toward her.

「This doesn’t mean I trust you but……I still, cannot die.」

「Yes, I don’t mind that. Don’t separate from me no matter what, please follow me.」

Emily roughly wiped the tears gathering at the corner of her almond-shaped eyes that looked like a cat’s with her lab coat, and then she sternly raised the corner of her eyes. Vanessa who saw that nodded briskly. And then she exited the room while leading Emily.

「……Senpai, I’m sorry. I swear, that I’ll stop this.」

「……」

Emily left behind her words for the “senpai” at the end.

Emily, who was still young and unfamiliar with the world, even though she was called a genius was always alone in the university that she was enrolled into by skipping a grade. Her personality that hated losing by nature caused her to use speech and conduct that seemed to say ‘I’m totally okay!’ even in such an environment, but as expected for Emily, who was still very young, it was something tough……

What let Emily, who was pretending to be tough, to be a researcher in the true meaning, was the professor and the students of the laboratory where she was currently attached to. If the professor who she was indebted to for anything and everything was like her father, then the seniors were like her big brothers and sisters. They were affectionate to her like she was their little sister, and yet they treated her more than an equal as a researcher.

Even amidst those people, the completely changed “senpai” whose breathing stopped atrociously in front of her eyes was a benefactor who especially helped Emily warmly.

The silent prayer of Emily that went for less than a beat was filled with really, really strong feelings that couldn’t be expressed with words.

Even while staying vigilant of the surrounding, Vanessa sent a glance without emotion at such Emily. No, there was a slight tremor in that gaze. It was something like sympathy, or possibly worry……

However, the moment Emily finished her short silent prayer, Vanessa’s gaze returned to its former expressionless look where her emotion couldn’t be discerned.

「Let’s go.」

「Yes.」

Inside the facility where faint gunshots could be heard, while staying vigilant toward the mindless super humans infesting it, or possibly, fearing the worst reunion with the completely changed substitute father, big brothers, and big sisters, the two vanished inside the gloomy corridor.

Part 2

「Oo, so that’s the famous clock tower. Yep, as expected something like this is best seen with your own eyes.」

There was a young Japanese man making click-clack sounds with his smartphone while making a satisfied voice. Shouldering a largish rucksack, this young man wearing plain clothes with a blackish tone didn’t have any particular trait in his appearance.

That blackish young man took photos for a while, and then while confirming the resulting picture, he lifted his face suddenly in realization.

「Crap, this is not the time to keep sightseeing. I’ve got to accomplish the instruction from my demon king-sama.」

The clock taken inside the photo was already showing the closing of the day. The surrounding scenery was already becoming quite dark with cloudy weather although it wasn’t as far as snow.

The young man put away his smartphone and shouldered his rucksack before he turned around while breathing out ‘haa’ white breath.

「Even though this doubled with my private business, but this is still a rough way of using someone. Well, I too am his relative more or less……there is no way I can refuse. Let’s do my best.」

The young man vanished between the people hurrying to return home while talking to himself like that. Before long, his figure was completely buried in the surrounding scenery, and he couldn’t be seen anymore.

Although, before that young man slipped into the crowd, there was not even a single person who sent their gaze toward him. He was too much normal, and too much without presence.

Someone who was able to notice that abnormality, of course, didn’t exist there.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

This might make me sound obstinate, but one more time.

This is different from the real earth! That’s why, if you want to retort ‘What the hell is state security bureau, somehow various things are seriously wrong here!’, I beg you to do it only inside your heart.

……Really, sorry.

Ah, also, I uploaded my activity report. I also placed a cover image and special illustration there.

If you don’t mind, please look over there too.

The next update will be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 198

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Fuh, who am I you ask? I am——

The London outskirts were wrapped in a thin mist. In a corner of a retro street, where it felt like some old fairy-tale or folklore might be hiding, there was a splendid residence where history could be felt from it conspicuously.

It appeared to be prudently maintained as it didn’t look worn out. The garden that was spreading out in the front, the small path made from spread out white gravel, the flower bed where seasonal flowers were blooming, and a small fountain where a beautiful goddess was sitting, all of those were first class work that gave an elegant impression. From those, it could be understood that a good amount of labor, expense, and time was spent on the appearance of the house.

And that was how it should be since the master of this residence——Jefferson Allgrey was a famous, wealthy person even in Britain. He was from a family lineage that was titled as the so-called “Real Estate King” that for generations possessed countless plots of land and buildings, buying and selling them.

Jefferson, who was the current master of this generation of the Allgrey family, also properly inherited the business talent from his ancestors. Not only did he also seem to possess political talent, but he was a capable human that raised definite results while engaging in two trades, the political world and real estate magnate, at the same time.

The residence of Jefferson was normally visited by many people. The type of people visiting varied. If there were people from the same political world visiting, then there were also people from real estate companies who visited; there were also a lot of people visiting who were his personal friends.

Anyway, it was a house where the flow of people visiting it never ceased, and that was a well-known fact for the people in the surrounding area.

Today too, a few hours had already passed since the sunset, and there was also the shrouding mist that signaled that it was a time where darkness had completely descended. The principal residence of Allgrey was illuminated with brilliant lights. Several high-class cars were parked nearby the main gate; showing how there were many guests visiting.

Although each of the visitors today was definitely well-known characters, it seemed they weren’t friends that were invited for a simple dinner. They also didn’t appear to be guests who came for work-related matters to speak about politics or business.

Now then, chief. Don’t you think that we should get down to business soon? For you to assemble more than half of the society’s upper echelons……it must be something really considerable, isn’t it? My guess is that it must be a matter about them.

A middle-aged man whose body was wrapped in a suit that was obviously high quality, with a splendid mustache and belly meat, addressed Jefferson as “chief”.

Even though Jefferson was called with that designation that wasn’t used that often in general, he still behaved naturally. By looking at that attitude of his, it could be understood that it was only the matter of course for him to be called like that by the people who were called to this place today.

Jefferson slowly ran his gaze over the surrounding. It seemed that he had finished his meal since there was only wine in front of him. Other than them, there were several servants of the Allgrey family and the respective bodyguards that were brought by each guest.

Tonight there were nine guests gathered. Every one of them was prominent figures that owned phenomenal results in their respective fields, but the fields they participated in were completely scattered. Seen from the side, this was a gathering that really couldn’t be seen as normal. The biggest possibility was that these people were personal friends of Jefferson. Even if there was an outsider who knew of this meeting, then surely they would only be able to think of this as a meeting of fellow friends all the same.

But, from how Jefferson was sitting at the seat of honor while the others were sitting around a long table, it seemed that there was a clear pecking order here. And that became even clearer from the atmosphere they were clad in.

「……They are the real thing.」

A short sentence. For people who didn’t know the circumstance, they would tilt their head wondering what he was speaking about. But, all the people at the dining table were instantly going astir from that sentence that was said by Jefferson with an oppressive tone.

「Is that……is that, really true?」

「Wasn’t that just a mere group kidnapping……」

「Certainly it was an inexplicable case, but……」

「A case of that degree is not that rare. Chief, do you have any basis saying that?」

While their mouths were speaking words where confusion and expectation were mixing together, their gazes were concentrating on Jefferson.

「There is still only circumstantial evidence. But, I have no doubt about it. ……I have confirmed that all the people who were sent to investigate returned to their daily life without getting any information. Far from investigating, they forget even the society.」

「No way……」

「However, just with that……. It’s not as though the method to induce such a situation doesn’t exist, you know?」

「Yeah, I know. Of course, I didn’t make my conclusion just with that. ……This is the situation that can be currently confirmed. I judged that it is already at the level where there would be no problem calling it as supernatural.」

Saying that, Jefferson urged a servant with his gaze to distribute a written report; the upper echelons set their eyes on it. After they did that, they went astir once more.

The contents that were written in that written report was as follows.

——The house of the target group that had been confirmed once before, for some reason, couldn’t be approached a second time. Even when they walked following a map, by the time they noticed something was amiss they were walking in a circle at a completely different place.

——The observer was observing from a distance of 800 meters, but regardless of that their gaze would meet without fail.

——The family register of the target that shouldn’t exist until a few days ago was registered before they knew it.

——That abnormality wasn’t noticed by anyone in the administration side. They didn’t even feel that anything was out of place.

——Every day, their partners were disappearing one by one.

And then,

——The people who were tasked to investigate, without exception all of them would have a blank period in their memory after a while. Even the matter that was being reported right now, whether it was really true or not……was unknown.

Surely everyone was scanning the report up to the very last sentence. Silence descended on the dining table. Everyone was fixated on the content of the report.

But, after a while……

「Fu, fuha, fuhahahahahaha-」

One person raised a laughing voice looking like he couldn’t hold it down. It was a hideously distorted laughter that was composed of joy and madness. However, such laughter, which would grant discomfort to anyone hearing it whether one wanted to or not, was gradually spreading to the other upper echelons too.

"Finally, we found the real thing! Magnificent! I wonder just what kind of supernatural ability they know!"

"At the very least, it seems they have the skill to interfere with the human brain. That's something beyond the position of mere students."

"It cannot stay like this. Chief! We have to immediately send an assault force and secure one or two samples!"

Excitement was ruling over the place. It was a mad excitement, just like how when someone who was lost in a desert finally found an oasis, that feeling of insane arousal before their craving could be fulfilled.

Perhaps this was only natural for them because these people had been secretly maneuvering and searching for "that" through so many years and months that they couldn't keep count anymore.

"Calm down……well telling all of you that is impossible I guess. I understand well everyone's feelings. Then, everyone agrees to the plan to move with the purpose of obtaining a sample? There will be many troublesome things if we kidnap all of them……"

"What, they are people who have gone through the group disappearance once you know, chief. Even if it happened a second time, surely there will be no one who thinks it strange. Not to mention, there are also those among them who didn't return previously."

"The ability possessed by the samples are a concerning matter but……they are just children after all. It shows how they are content with being students while possessing such power. We can do whatever we like if we involve their family in it. I will immediately begin to prepare the experiment site.

The returnees, they obtained supernatural abilities while they disappeared……I’m bothered with the whereabouts of those that didn’t return. Perhaps, they are still in the place that had to do with the supernatural? If we grasped that, even us……

The upper echelons let out their opinions after Jefferson’s words. The meeting tonight was obviously filled with a passion that was never seen before.

When they finished deciding most of their plan from here on, Jefferson opened his mouth.

Then, all of you, proceed with the matter at hand by paying meticulous attention to details for the sake of accomplishing our dearest wish. The priority target will be the girl who is called as “Yue” as she is the first on the list——

About that, I think it’s better if you stop with that though.

And also the girls who aren’t Japanese that are around the returnees——Jefferson was about to say that, but his words were suddenly cut off.

For a moment Jefferson thought that it was someone among the upper echelon who cut him off, but he immediately discards that idea as impossible. The returnees from the group disappearance in the middle of the day that agitated the society——if it was asked what the aspect that was clearly different in them compared to before was, then the first thing that would attract the attention was the existence of the non-Japanese girls who suddenly appeared.

Thinking about how their family register was created before anyone noticed too, then it would be valid to think of them as “visitors from the supernatural side”. Then it was natural to prioritize securing them as samples.

That was the common understanding between Jefferson and the other upper echelons that they obtained from continuously investigating the series of turmoil of the returnees that started from the group disappearance. For that reason, it was impossible for anyone to object here. And above all, the voice of the young man that cut him off was a voice he wasn’t familiar with!

Jefferson felt something cold running through his spine while raising an angry voice that questioned the identity of the person.

「Who! Where are you!?」

「No, I’ve been right in front of you from some time ago. I was eating a normal meal here.」

A voice that contained resignation resounded. At that moment, not only Jefferson, but the upper echelons, the servants, and then the bodyguards too, they all were finally aware.

「Yo」

With a really light mood, at the chair that was positioned on the opposite side of Jefferson, with his mouth stuffed with the same cooking that Jefferson and the others were eating just now, was a young Japanese man greeting with his hand lightly raised!

「You bastard……where did you enter from? What is the guard at the entrance doing?」

The upper echelons and the servants were greatly shaken, the bodyguards were in the middle of taking out their handguns in order to recover from their disgrace while Jefferson was restraining them from firing before he opened his mouth calmly. It seemed that he was also shaken, but the speed of him rallying back his mind ought to be said just as expected from an authority of the political-real estate world that managed this meeting.

Right after he took back his calm, a dominating aura overflowed from Jefferson. That aura was something so intense that if an ordinary person felt it, then not only would they wither down without being able to say anything, they would undoubtedly trickle cold sweat while getting all flustered.

But, that young man warded off such a dominating aura like a swaying willow……or rather, in the first place the young man didn’t even pay attention to that aura, he kept eating the cooking of the Allgrey residence with gusto while talking.

「Nguh. You asked me from where, I entered normally from the door you know. Mugu mugu, I even said excuse me. …… Though I was normally ignored.」

「……That, seems to be the cooking of my residence, right?」

「It’s awfully delicious, as expected from the place of a big shot politician and the real estate king. There were leftovers in the kitchen, so I loaded it onto a plate by myself. ……I, I pretty much asked, okay? I took the silence to mean OK, but I properly asked, okay? I’m not stealing, you know?」

For some reason the young man kept reminding them with something like「It’s true, you know?」. Jefferson knitted his eyebrows at the young man. The more he looked, the more this young man looked like a normal youth. No, in a sense, he was too normal in presence and appearance that if he didn’t concentrate it felt like he would naturally forget him, perhaps he should say that this young man wasn’t normal in that sense……

「Who are you……or perhaps it’s too unsophisticated for me to ask that? That remark of yours just now in this situation. And then that ability that managed to infiltrate here without anyone able to notice. You are……a returnee, huh?」

Jefferson spoke his conjecture with conviction, but for some reason, the young man who heard his words frowned and his face looked a little sad. While Jefferson was perplexed by that inexplicable reaction, the young man asked with a voice that also sounded sad.

「’A returnee, huh?’ you ask. If you investigated about us, then shouldn’t you know about me too? I expected a reaction like「You bastard-, you are a returnee, huh!?」, but……」

「What? A report of you is not……」

Jefferson was perplexed. He had looked over all the reports of the returnees; he had driven into his head all the information of the returnees’ profiles from their family up to their relatives. If the young man before his eyes was a returnee that had been reported, then there was no way he couldn’t recall him.

But, when one of his servants excitedly showed to him the returnees written report that had been converted into digital data on a tablet……

「……Returnee list No. 28——Endo Kousuke?
……ah」

「Yep, you forgot, didn’t you? Isn’t that right? That’s fine, I understand. Hehe, I’m used to it. Although my shadow is thin even in digital data, I’m not co, concerned at all, you know? I am a riajuu, you know? That’s why, I’m really, really not concerned at all, okay?」

A strange silence descended in that place. The young man――Kousuke, who seemed to have a thin shadow even when inside digital data, was making kacha kacha sounds with the spoon and fork. Only that sound was resounding with clarity inside that room. The word 「Delish-」that he was whispering until just now was changing into「It’s salty huh」.

「S, so this is the supernatural ability that you possess.」

「……I had this since birth. Even my mum, she often forgets to do things like picking me up from kindergarten……」

「……I, I see. That, you know, must be hard for you huh.」

For some reason, Kousuke received gentle words and sympathy from the man who was aiming at him and his friends. The salt content of the high-class cooking was increasing! A female servant was wiping her eyes with a handkerchief. The eyes of the bodyguards who were readying their guns until just now were turning lukewarm!

While spouting a complaint「If you sympathize than give me some presence」inside his heart, Kousuke cleared his throat cough, he stopped eating and opened his mouth.

「So, about the reason I came here.」

「Mu, that’s right. Certainly, I’ve never thought that a returnee would directly march into here. It appears that your side has also investigated us to a certain degree. ……You, don’t tell me, you came here alone?」

「Well, yeah. Actually, I was in the middle of some personal travel though. But suddenly you guys started making a conspiracy, so I was told to go here for a bit to crush all of you.」

Kousuke was looking at his smartphone while saying「In front of Rana, I cannot refuse that guy's request」with his shoulders dropping down. Seeing that Jefferson exchanged look with the upper echelons and the bodyguards while his expression turned ridiculously.

「Crushing us, is it? It looks like you are growing impudent after obtaining a supernatural ability, huh. It is overwhelmingly faster to shoot your four limbs with lead bullets at this range. It seems that you have the technique to interfere with your opponent's awareness, but in this limited space, can you crush us faster than a bullet?」

gacha Hard ominous sounds resounded countless time. The bodyguards were focusing their gun muzzles toward Kousuke. They numbered a little less than twenty people. The place was a large dining room where sixty people could enter with room to spare, but certainly, in this limited space, it was equivalent to not having any way to escape from twenty gun muzzles.

Jefferson, who thought that this young man was showing composure because he was a child who was drunk on his own power, reversely showed a composed attitude. He crossed his arms above the table, and then while hiding his mouth behind his conjoined hands, his sharp gaze was striking toward Kousuke.

「Young man. Won't you come to our side? According to the report, it seems that the livelihood of all of you didn't change much before and after obtaining supernatural abilities. It’s worthy of praise that not one of you is running wild, but surely that’s only because you all don’t understand the way to use the power you obtained. Then, we will teach you what the right way to use that power is. This Jefferson Allgrey can promise you a life that is filled with riches and fame that is beyond your imagination.」

「……You really can say that with a straight face after calling humans as samples, huh. They said that the skin of a politician’s face is thick, but that’s really true. Scaryyy.」

Kousuke didn’t look like he was particularly moved by Jefferson’s persuading words, rather he showed a creeped out look. While raising one of his eyebrows over the fact that money and fame didn’t resound in Kousuke’s heart, Jefferson continued his words.

「Then what about women? You are ――」

「I have a girlfriend; I’m fine in that regard. Rather, my girlfriend is a super beauty already. She is already the best-, yep.」

Having his words cut off and hearing Kousuke suddenly speaking fondly of his girlfriend in front of him caused Jefferson’s gaze to become something severe.

「……It’s natural for you to feel almighty if you have a special power. But, what is called reality is something that is more heartless then what all of you are thinking. Perhaps if it’s just you, or possibly if it’s just all of you returnees, then you all might make it work out somehow. But, what about the people around you? Your family, your friends who are not returnees, relatives. Can you protect all of them? Our society is not just about violence, you know?」

Jefferson looked over his surroundings. Ahead of his gaze were the upper echelons of their society ——every one of them were successful people who possessed social power. And then, the gaze of Jefferson spoke more eloquently than anything.

That this wasn’t everything their society possessed.

In other words, even in the one in a million chance that all the people here died, their society itself wouldn’t be finished. There were still other people with power gathering in their society.

「I’ll recognize your ability to gather information this far, and your guts to infiltrate into here alone. But, for you to be under the impression that the situation before your eyes is everything there is, you are still just a child. We had sought the supernatural from long ago when the society had first been laid out; it now stretches its roots everywhere in the world, we are——」

「Hydra, right?」

Jefferson, who implicitly pressed for obedience under the name of cooperation to Kousuke with a condescending attitude, was about to disclose the name of their society with plenty of emotion, but right before he could, Kousuke easily revealed that name.

Jefferson twitched in reaction and was about to open his mouth further, but ignoring him, Kousuke ate the last of his food and operated his smartphone with one hand, then he spoke out the content that was displayed there.

「Abduction, murder, robbery, human experimentation, and on top of that even inducing war, a group of supernatural fanatics that will do anything——Hydra. Certainly, it looks like you guys have a long history. The origin of the name is because no matter how many upper echelons and parts of the organization are crushed, the survivor of the organization that is hiding somewhere will restore the organization back. The organization has existed since before the colonial period. Historically the organization has been crushed several times, but before one knows it, the organization is revived. The current chief is you……

After that, Kousuke read out loud the internal conditions of the secret society Hydra. And then the information of the upper echelon bunches which were here like their name, surface information, family, friends, work relatives, and on top of that even the name of their illegitimate child or relationship with another organization that they kept secret from even inside the organization. He didn’t stop with just that, the concealed upper echelons who weren’t here and the location of bases, and even further and further, things like the innermost thoughts of the upper echelons toward each other and so on, Kousuke disclosed everything.

It was clear that what was disclosed wasn’t nonsense because the upper echelons opened their mouths so wide it looked like their jaw might come off and their expression which turned completely pale.

Everything that they had done was impossible to be known by the information network of children or even by ordinary adults. The color of Jefferson’s face, who had that fact thrust right back at his face not just by two-fold but by ten thousand fold, clearly showed how the capacity of his trained mind had completely gone over capacity.

When you peer into the abyss, the abyss will also peer back at you——su~ch a famous expression, if it’s you guys who love the supernatural, then surely you have heard it before.

We are standing in the superior position. Just how are you guys able to blindly believe such a thing without any basis at all?」

「You, you bastard……」

「Well, you guys, you all are veteran through many adversities in the surface world huh. You guys must have never even dreamt that the children who are going through school life without a care in the world after getting their hands on magic would be able to overwhelm you even in information volume……」

「Why……just how, do you know that much……」

「That's, if we know that there are some guys aiming for us, to say nothing of us, there is no way our demon king-sama will stay silent. Because despite that guy looking like a cruel and heartless savage bastard, he actually totally spoils the important people around him.」

「Demon king, you say?」

「Yeah. A god-slaying demon king. That guy even killed a god for the sake of a woman, and now you guys try to lay your hands on that exact woman.」

Kousuke's gaze was continuously filling with limitless sympathy. Jefferson's expression was grandly convulsing. There was no more dominating aura of a big-shot that could overpower an ordinary person coming from him. Because he was a veteran manager and a politician, who had piled up many experiences of going through adversity, that he was able to understand Kousuke's experience and felt a sense of danger welling up inside him.

That was――they had touched something that should not be touched.

But, however, the people who were still relatively young among the upper echelons didn’t have enough of that intuition.

「What is, what is, what demon king-. Just, what god-slaying! Even nonsense has a limit!」

「Tha, that’s right! As expected, you are just a kid. It seems that you don’t even know how to bluff. Something like god-slaying, as expected, you have exaggerated too much.」

「Chief, no more words are necessary! Let’s make this brat pay the compensation for looking down on the society! You guys, just keep him alive! Do it!」

They started a reckless action without waiting for the order of the chief which was normally impossible. Jefferson immediately tried to raise his voice to stop them, but faster than he could, several of the black-suited bodyguards, because of the strange atmosphere and the mysterious uneasy feeling they had, as though aroused by their impulse were aiming their gun toward Kousuke’s limbs while jumping forward.

「……Haa. I had more or less tried it, even though I thought of doing this and getting spared from releasing the shackle.」

Inside the situation that was moving all at once, there was only that whisper resounding.

「Wha-. Where is-」

「Shit-, what is going on!? Where did that guy go!?」

「No way, he vanished!?」

The jumping forward black-suited bodyguards were surrounding a chair that had no one on it feeling dumbfounded. The chair should have had Kousuke sitting on it until just a moment ago. From the beginning until the end they didn't take their gaze off him for even an instant.

He was certainly there. Right in front of their eyes. They would grip him up, pull him down from the chair, and hold him down. They reached out their hands without leaving any place to escape while even imaging how he would counterattack; they were certainly aware of him until the moment they could touch him. Yet despite so, their hands moved through empty air and "when they noticed" the target had vanished. It was as though he wasn't there right from the start.

「-, our mind has been interfered with already!? Be careful; our awareness is being manipulated!」

Jefferson, thinking that it couldn't be helped now that it had come to this, pushed on the emergency button at the other side of the table to summon the bodyguards standing by everywhere inside the residence while giving a warning. And then, he himself also took out a handgun from his breast pocket; at that time Kousuke's voice resounded once more. However, it was a voice with a slightly different air than until just now.

「Interference to awareness? Fuh, what exaggeration……. My Ground Shrinker was beyond the pale of your perception ability, isn't that's all there is to it?」

「Wha-, impossible, standing on the ceiling!?」

Jefferson and the others who were staying on guard against the most likely possibility of Kousuke sliding under the table was thinking in the corner of their mind ‘doesn’t it feel like his tone is a little strange?’ while they looked up in surprise, and then they exposed a really stupid expression from shock.

Although, surely such reaction was something that couldn’t be helped if they saw a human standing really naturally on the ceiling as though to say ‘Gravity? What’s that?’.

Furthermore,

(Why, why, is he making a strange pose!?)

Yes, Kousuke was standing upside down on the ceiling while covering his face with one hand with his eyes glaring down at Jefferson and the others from between his finger gaps! On top of that, before they knew it his body was already in an appearance of totally black clothes, on his eyes were a pair of sunglasses that were a one-lens type, and his other hand was holding a black knife in a position that was crossed with the hand that was covering his face! Surely if the rabbit-eared assassination group of another world saw this, they would undoubtedly clap and cheer while giving high praise of□What a cool pose!!□!

□Fools who fell into the abyss of selfish desires and fanaticism. I’ll teach into your body, that in this world, there are things that you ought not to know.□

For some reason, while rotating once before displaying a chuuni pose (version 24) again, Kousuke, no, the assassin of the strongest class who was awakened in various meaning in the other world, threw a declaration of war toward the fanatic occult group. Together with that chuuni self-introduction!!

「The shadow of the demon king, the vanguard of the dark rabbit ear family――Rapid Fang Shadow Claw, Kousuke E Abyssgate. Has arrived!!」

What does rabbit ear mean…….. Abyssgate, gate to where……. Those retorts of Jefferson and the others didn't form into loud words.

Because right after that, the peerless one even against the god's apostles in another world, the one with the thinnest shadow in the world, the best assassin in the world, bared his fang.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Everyone's review that it is like it has been planned beforehand blew away Shirakome.

Like, Endo-kun, you are loved huuh. ……He is loved, right?

I properly got his name out this time, so please remember it properly.

He is Endo Abyssgate-kun, okay.

PS-

I placed the information about the special SS for each bookstore-sama in my activity report.

Please confirm it if you please.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 199

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Foreign Country is Scaryyyy

Haaaa~~~~~

It was past noon, and the warm sunlight was showering down. In the corner of a certain city, at a lovely café with a wooden entrance and terrace, a groan of a zombie was resounding. People who got startled from that groan that sounded like it was reverberating from the realm of the dead was nonexistent.

Whether it was the couple that was feeding each other cute cakes on the terrace, the male customer with a businessman appearance operating his tablet alone, or the old man walking his dog who just passed through in front of the terrace, none of them showed any sign of being bothered by that groan. Or rather, they didn’t even look like they noticed the groan.

aaa~~~~~~

The groan resounded once more. As expected, no one noticed, but the owner of the groan who wasn’t being paid attention to also seemed to be used to not being paid attention to, so he groaned without any reservation regardless of him being in a public space.

To say more while on this topic that zombie imitation had his face pressed down on the café’s table with both his hands holding his head. He looked like someone who had made a mistake that couldn’t be taken back and lamented his very life.

Just to make sure, this wasn’t a zombie that escaped a research facility somewhere and slipped into the street, as made evident by the glass with the logo of the café filled with a beverage placed in front of him and the sandwich that still wasn’t touched but had already been properly ordered.

But, at that time, the smartphone that was placed on top of the table of the zombie imitation was starting to play the BGM of a certain epic RPG’s demon king battle. That ringtone caused the zombie imitation to twitch in reaction, and his hand crawled on the table, with his face still pressed on the table, to pick up the smartphone.

He then put the phone to his ear and took the call with his face still pressed against the table.

「……hai」

「What’s with that voice? That voice sounds like you are going to drop dead anytime.」

「Yeah, I feel like dying. I caused my shame to overflow……」

「……I guessed it already. So you’ve done it again huh, Endo.」

「I’ve done it……I’ve really done it, Nagumo. Perhaps, I’m no good already.」

「Endo……」

From the other side of the phone receiver, the conversation partner——the one who requested for the annihilation of the occult fanatic group Hydra, Nagumo Hajime guessed the mental damage of Kousuke and seemed to be exasperated, or perhaps it was sympathy in his voice that called Kousuke’s name.

And then,

「Well, that doesn’t matter——」

「It does matter! Don’t put it aside that simply! Give me more sympathy here! Have some more care! You are my kindred-spirit who knows the same pain as me, right!?」

Having his problem simply put aside like that, the excessive sadness caused Kousuke to succeed in coming back from a zombie. Gabacho! His face that was pressed on the table flew up as he raised a scream from his soul as though he was willing it to reach the other side of the sea.

「Even if you say that, in my case, I have a strong position as the victim of Hauria, but in your case, recently it came from yourself, right? Not long ago you were still okay if it was just a little scuffle. Or was the case this time that difficult?」

「Uguu. Stabbing me right where it hurts……. That’s, it wasn’t really that bad, yeah, but……when I entered battle, unconsciously I……. Maybe this is because of before when I asked you to open the gate, and I spent a while with Hauria. Somehow, it feels like the more time I spend with them, the more easily I “become” that……」

「Becoming Lord Abyssgate, huh.」

「Don’t say that nameee!」

gon- Kousuke’s face pressed down on the table once more, along with that painful sounding sound.

——Endo Kousuke

The one with the scouting role in the former hero party. At the legendary decisive battle which was carved into the history of the other world Tortus, he was the strongest assassin that boasted peerless performance against the apostles of god. ……Though such a thing couldn’t be imagined at all from the figure writhing in shame while groaning with his face pressed on a café’s table.

The reason for him, who casually had a status of strongest, turning into a hopeless person like this at a café in the middle of the day was needless to say because of the battle last night. Yes, that thing which was manifested at the battle, that chuuni conduct which was just too painful to look at and listen to.

Just why was he performing that kind of chuuni conduct in full drive even while understanding that later on, he would receive mental damage like this, where it felt like he wanted to bash his head at the corner of a block of tofu and die? There were some unavoidable reasons.

One of the reasons was this.

==========
==========
==========

Endo Kousuke 17 Years Old Male Level:92

Vocation: Assassin

Physical Strength: 800

Stamina: 940

Endurance: 450

Agility: 1700

Magic Power: 560

Magic Resistance: 560

Skill: Assassination Technique [+ Dagger Art] [+ Concealment] [+ Tracking] [+ Throwing Art] [+ Hidden Weapon Art] [+ Transmission Wave] [+ Escape Art] [+ Abyss Lord] – Presence Manipulation [+ Presence Isolation] [+ Phantom Step] [+ Dream Illusion III] [+ Clarity Phantom] [+ Minimum Mind] – Shadow Dance [+ Water Dance] [+ Leave Dance] – Gravity Magic – Language Comprehension

==========

As for the detail of those skills, [+ Dagger Art] to [+ Hidden Weapon Art] had the meaning exactly as the name implied, [+ Transmission Wave] was an ability to strain one's ear to pick up vibrations in the air, or in the wall, to listen to conversations from someplace a good distance away, and [+ Escape Art] was a skill that gave aptitude correction to magic if it was used for escape.

[+ Phantom Step] was a skill that left behind a presence with an afterimage piled up on oneself to blur one's own figure, [+ Dream Illusion III] was a skill that produced up to three illusionary clones of oneself, and then [+ Clarity Phantom] was a skill that gave substance to the clone. [+ Minimum Mind] was an invisibility assistance skill, while the user was invisible this skill would make the user's breathing, heartbeat, presence, and even the fluctuation of the mind, and so on, to be in a flat state.

“Shadow Dance” was a skill that Kousuke often used which allowed him to run on walls. It couldn’t let him stand still on a wall, but as long as he had momentum, he could continue to run on walls. Its derivation [+Water Dance] was the water version while [+Leaf Dance] was a skill that let him use things like leaves that were falling in the air as instant footholds for jumping.

Now then, have you all noticed? Nonchalantly there was a skill of a different disposition that could be seen just from its name mixing in among all those skills. Probably, that skill was exactly the one that awakened at that legendary decisive battle as the end derivation of the assassination skill. The cause of which made Kousuke’s shame rocket into Mach speed.

——Abyss Lord (Abyssgate Lord)

The explanation from the status plate was like this.

Effect: In the middle of the bloody battle, the Abyssgate Lord arrived from the dark bottom that is even darker than darkness. Now, o veil of darkness, o the dead of darkness, offer thy strength to the abyss! That is, the infinite power of dreams……

The moment Kousuke saw this explanation needless to say he threw his status plate on the ground with all his strength. It was also needless to say that he also ground the plate with his foot while he was at it.

First, the effect explanation was something cryptic that didn’t resemble an explanation. In the first place, a nickname (?) that was given to him by chance at a battlefield becoming a skill name just like that was also cryptic, or rather, the explanation text was just too painful. He didn’t want to believe that this was really the final secret skill of his vocation.

However, just because of that that didn’t mean that he could neglect a power that he finally obtained without knowing its effect, and above all, there was a reason why Kousuke had to know it no matter what, and so he ascertained the effect while his SAN (TN: sanity) value was being shaved off grindingly. And the result that he came to understand was that it appeared that this skill had the effect of a gradual Limit Break. It didn’t raise his strength explosively like Limit Break, but a skill that strengthened all his specs little by little while the skill was activated.

Furthermore, while being different from Limit Break, this skill didn’t have the side effect of strong lethargy after use. It could really be said as an extraordinary ability.

However, if it was asked whether it really had no demerit at all……the world wasn’t that sweet.

The demerit of [+Abyss Lord]. That was……

While it was activated, the user’s speech and conduct would be forcefully be made into a flawless chuuni(Abyssgate Lord)!

Furthermore, what was troubling was that the activation of the skill was essentially possible by the user’s discretionary, but there was a time when this skill activated on its own without the user’s discretion. Perhaps the cause of that was merely because of Kousuke’s inexperience in handling this skill, or possibly there was another factor……

Just like Kousuke said himself, it seemed that the ratio of the forced activations was increasing in proportion with the time he spent with the members of the Hauria clan, so most likely the cause was due to the latter……perhaps.

「I had recommended this to you before but try a skill sealing artifact. Do you really not need it?」

「Uu. Tha, that's……I want it, but….」

Hearing Hajime's words, Kousuke's expression turned bitter while his speech sounded hesitant.

Previously, when Hajime saw Kousuke, who because of his speech and conduct was looking too much like he was really going to sink into the abyss, said「I cannot watch this anymore……」 and offered to Kousuke that he would manufacture a skill sealing artifact for him. Just seeing him made even Hajime feel like his chest was struck with a pile bunker.

Kousuke's eyes turned bright right after he heard that offer, but his expression immediately changed as though he had recalled something and refused the offer with an expression that was oozing out bitterness. The reason for that was,

「……Rana, she will be dejected then.」

「Really someone like you is……」

That.

Rana——Rapid Shadow, Ranainferna Hauria (Real name: Rana, just Rana. This is important, so I'll say it for the third time, it's just Rana).

At the legendary decisive battle, Kousuke used his ability——including his skill and also his nonexistent presence that he had by nature——with all his power, and with all his seriousness to stay invisible, yet regardless of that this rabbit ear lady of Hauria clan found him normally. She was the woman who stole Kousuke’s heart. She was also the perpetrator who brought forth the Abyssgate Lord to this world.

Above all else, Kousuke feared that if he sealed Abyssgate Lord, then she would fall out of love with him.

「Well, you went through many hardships to go out with her. No, that’s already crossed over the level of hardship. I think that you are the most amazing guy among our classmates you know, in various meanings. Or rather, I can even say that I’m holding respect for you.」

「I, is that so? It’s not really something that much……」

「Don’t be ridiculous. Just what is this guy who conquered the『Raisen Great Labyrinth』by himself only for the sake of getting recognized by the woman he fell in love with saying huh.」

「A, hahaha……yeah. I thought I was going to die that time. No, if I didn’t use Abyssgate Lord state 24 hours that time, enduring that black history that made me dying in shame, I’d normally die there.」

Yes, just as shown by that skill which was casually written on the status plate, Kousuke had actually conquered the 『Raisen Great Labyrinth』. Furthermore, he did it alone. At the battle against the occult group Hydra his act of standing normally on the ceiling wasn’t because of his skill to wall run, or because of Hajime’s artifact, but by using his own gravity magic.

Even though the master of the「Raisen Great Labyrinth」, Miledy Raisen was already gone, even though there was nothing but the half-automatic type interceptor golems that she left behind, the labyrinth's trap and the situation where magic was unusable there were still going strong. Also, even though the golems were half-automatic types, they only lost the tactical capability like when Miledy controlled them, but their battle ability didn't decline even for a bit.

And Kousuke conquered such a labyrinth by himself in a week and returned alive. Because he was always in a state of Abyssgate Lord, his physical ability and willpower, and then his chuuni speech and conduct, in various meanings they all broke the limit even more than Limit Break. Because he challenged his limit like that, his body and his heart, especially his heart!, were all tattered, but even so, he returned alive with all his limbs intact. It was only natural that Hajime and others were shocked by that.

「Really, you did well to survive. That was a savage condition that made even princess Kaguya look cute. You, just how much do you love that woman, huh?」

「That's, so much that I'd challenge even Nagumo!」

「That so huh……」

Yes, Kousuke was challenging the great labyrinth with even more preparedness for death than at the decisive battle when it was already completed the epilogue scene if it was a story where the final battle had ended. That was because of the lovely rabbit ear onee-san Ranainfe……Rana gave a condition to Kousuke.

Since that day of the decisive battle, during the one month before they returned to earth, Kousuke was making his approach to Rana with great vigor.

However, Ranai……Rana was a Hauria clan, and all members of Hauria clan worshipped Hajime without a single exception. It was to the degree that if Hajime wished it, then any female of the Hauria would instantly offer their body to him.

Of course, Hajime had the strongest hitting type bug character Shia Hauria who was the same Hauria clan like them, so there was no hero among them who would proactively try from themselves to obtain Hajime's affection. But even so, they made their "Boss" Hajime, the "demon king-sama that slaughters even god" as their standard for men, so……to speak the unvarnished truth, their ideal was absurdly high.

And so, naturally, Kousuke's approach also didn't sway Rana.

「Fuh, I am a shadow that is serving "that person". A shadow doesn't need love……」

Like that,

「You too have a strange taste, don't you? Know that you won't get away with just a scalding if you touch me, for you to pursue a dangerous woman like me……」

Or like that,

「Stop it already. A resolve to continue to walk together with me, in the bottom of the darkness that is even deeper than the abyss, there is none of that inside you, am I right?」

Or like that. Those sentences were told to Kousuke with a fearless, or possibly a bewitching, smile on her face.

No matter how many times he confessed, Kousuke was shot down with a speech that was undeniably excessive. Kousuke was seen by Hajime with a gaze as though he was witnessing a hero while Shia was staring with intensely reproachful eyes (at Rana).

Even so, Kousuke didn't get discouraged; he kept approaching her repeatedly seeing that, as expected, even Rana seemed to be moved just a little by his persistence. In the end, it became like this.

「……Uu, do, do you want me that much? Not that, cough-. If you wish for this cursed body to that degree……. But, I belong to boss……not that, cough-. It's unfortunate, however, my body already belongs to "that person". That's why, okay? Give up……not that, cough-. Shadows live in shadows, and light in light, that is the law. Bu, but, well, if you conquer a great labyrinth or something like boss……or maybe, if you can make even a scratch on boss……it's not like I won't think about it, maybe? Not that-, cough-. Fuh, if you still wish for this body even then, then try to challenge the king of the abyss and splendidly exert yourself and win.」

The beautiful rabbit-eared onee-san said such a thing while fidgeting and looking restless. It went without saying that seeing that caused the inside of Kousuke's chest to contain an explosive heat that was equivalent to the eruption of the 「Guryuen Grand Volcano」before.

Yes, the condition that Rana gave him was to conquer a great labyrinth as well as landing an attack on the demon king Hajime…….

Just as Hajime said, it was a savage condition that might have made even princess Kaguya to go「Wai-, you-」.

However, Kousuke, who was blazing with the pathos of a feverish love that could burn him to ash, didn't even listen to the voices of the surrounding that tried to stop him. His figure vanished while no one noticed. He picked the「Raisen Great Labyrinth」because it had the highest possibility for him to conquer, and also because the age of god magic that he could obtain from there suited him the most, and then he jumped right into it.

After that, a week passed by. As expected, Nagayama Juugo and Nomura Kentarou were anxious because Kousuke hadn’t come back. They discussed it with Hajime and the others when the person concerned, Rana, was also acting ‘perhaps I have said a little bit too much……’ with her gaze swimming around, so Shia who was already familiar with conquering that dungeon was about to go out searching (by no means that they finally noticed that Kousuke wasn’t there only after a week passed), it was at that time, Kousuke returned.

He was tattered all over, but he properly obtained the age of god magic——the gravity magic. And then, while making the surrounding dumbfounded with his incomprehensible behavior of obtaining a new power after the final battle, for some reason, Kousuke made a declaration. He pointed his finger with a snap, and then boldly, with a fearless smile on his face,

「Demon king Nagumo Hajime-. Fight me!」

He said.

Naturally, Juugo yelled「Kousukeee, come back to your sanityyy! Stop doing something like suicideee!」, Kentarou begged「Shirasaki-san-, Ayakoo, anyone is fine! Quickly a recovery magic-. I beg you treat his head carefully!」, Aiko-sensei clung to Hajime while pleading「Hajime-kun, don’t be hasty-. Endo-kun is, that, he is just a little tired! His head is-」, and then Kouki, Ryutaro, and Suzu stood in the way between Endo and Hajime. They were trying to buy time for Kousuke to escape while getting drenched in cold sweat with the preparedness of death.

All those caused Hajime to say「You guys, just what do you think I am……」with his cheeks cramping, but he was reaping what he sowed, so no one consoled him.

In that place that was filled with chaos, Kousuke completely ignored his friends who were stopping him, his gaze turned toward Rana, and then he proclaimed with a loud voice, willing it to reach into her heart.

「Rana-san-. I love you! The condition that you gave me――if you can put even a wound on boss, then it's not like I won't think about it, those words, I believe in them! In front of Rana-san's eyes, I'll put a wound on Nagumo, clearly and distinctly-!!!」

Hearing that proclamation, the classmates who didn't know that Rana's condition was just her hiding her embarrassment finally guessed the reason of Kousuke conquering a great labyrinth and his war declaration to Hajime which could only be thought as a suicide wish, and they thought.

――So it's Hauria again-!!!!!

Everyone simultaneously directed criticizing gazes of「What the hell have you said to him!」to Rana. Rana, who received those gazes, was drenched in cold sweat while her gaze was swimming around as expected. Her cheeks reddened a bit from Kousuke's declaration while the Hauria females in the surrounding were giving her broad grins and teasing.

Now then, Hajime who received the challenge because of all that felt some sympathy to the scenario of a boy challenging a powerful enemy for the sake of the woman he loved and accepted that challenge.

Of course, he had no plan to get done in that easily. Even he had women that he loved, doing something like an unsightly fight in front of those women, was something that wouldn’t do no matter what kind of circumstances it was, and above all, Kousuke himself would ask to be excused from “being gifted a merciful win”.

And so, Hajime and Kousuke carried out a duel, and the result was――

The fact that currently, Rana was accepting Kousuke’s feeling was the clearest proof there was. The strongest assassin character, + full power Abyssgate Lord state, the combination of those weren’t just for show.

It was a grand battle in various meanings but……that would be told in another chance.

Kousuke who accomplished the great feat of conquering the 『Raisen Great Labyrinth』solo, as well as dealing a blow to the godslaying demon king, splendidly shot down Rana’s heart with that challenge that put his life at stake.

But, naturally, although Rana had entrusted her to Kousuke, the fact that Rana was a Hauria didn’t change, the time that he spent together with her, and also the time when he was welcomed by Kam and others as family, all of those times were basically spent as a chuuni. Naturally, because of that, his Abyssgate Lord time was also increasing……

『Nagumoo, perhaps, I cannot go back anymore……. Perhaps, I should just go until the very end just like this instead.』

「You are really driven to the wall, huuh. But, even if you stop being Abys――chuuni, I don’t think that girl Rana will fall out of love from you though. The fact is that you broke through that girl’s savage condition right from the front. That is something that nobody else will be able to do. No matter even if you are chuuni or not, there is no way she will abandon you who have gone that far for her sake after this late.」

「Perhaps, that’s so. But try to think from the opposite. From here on too I’ll spend time together with the Hauria clan as a relative. If I act normally among them by myself……won’t the away game feeling get bad like that? See, it will be like a guy that cannot read the mood who will make a realistic retort like「This kind of thing is impossible in the real world」 when you are playing a fantasy game.」

「Wha, what a difficult guy……. Well, that’s an example that is easy to understand though. Indeed, doing that will dampen the mood.」

「Right? This guy, he can’t read the mood, huh, or what a boring guy, or he is not fun huh……if Rana thinks of me like that, I don’t have the confidence that I can keep living even then.」

「Don’t assert so surely like that geez. Rather, you cannot be helped anymore, in the end, Endo, you have already found the answer inside yourself, right? That’s why I too just tried to put it aside casually……」

「Listen to me here! I too know that I’m just complaining! But I want someone to listen to me still! Recently when I talked about this to Juugo or Kentarou, both of them would just act ‘saying this again huh~’ and won’t listen to me at all! You are my kindred-spirit that knows the same pain, aren’t you!?」

「Aa, got it, got it. That’s why don’t scream like that into the phone.」

In the end, it seemed that Kousuke had the resolve to shoulder by himself (?) his shame or his mental damage, the point was that he just wanted Hajime to listen to him grumbling. Because Hajime understood that, which at first he tried to put it aside, it seemed that Kousuke wanted him to keep him company in him letting out his stress.

Hajime who was faithfully keeping company with Kousuke was also completely different from the time when he was at Tortus; perhaps it should be said that he had mellowed. Though perhaps there was also the feeling of sympathy in him as a comrade who knew the same pain of heart just like Kousuke said.

After that, for a while Kousuke spoke his grumbling at length, between times he also asked for love consultation (?) like a way to progress his relationship with Rana, before Kousuke’s mind was recovered, it was at that time that Hajime finally spoke the main topic of why he called――the detailed story of the occult group Hydra.

「So? I don’t think that you will make any mistake, but was the treatment to those guys well?」

「Yeah, no problem with that. Hydra has become a charity group inside those guys. I think they will direct the funds of their society to unfortunate children from here on. I didn’t do anything to the bunches that weren’t at that place though.」

「I don’t mind that. After all, they are a big organization. It seems that they have members everywhere, I’ll deal with those. Well, perhaps I'll ask you to do something like this again if you happen to be nearby the target location while you are in your private business like this time.

No, I wasn't really close to this place. I was in North America, you know? You, isn't your sense of distance getting weird because you can use gate?

Kousuke glared with reproachful eyes while understanding that Hajime couldn't see him, which wasn't surprising. In the first place, Kousuke leaving Japan wasn't to purposefully respond to Hajime's request. If that was the case, then no matter how extremely busy Hajime was, it would be faster if he opened a gate and directly marched into the enemy base.

This time Hajime requested Kousuke to deal with the antagonistic organization because the timing was just right when Kousuke was overseas in a private business using his winter vacation. And then, the private business of Kousuke was to observe battlefield medical treatment in practice boldly. Therefore, the destination of Kousuke was a country with inadequate medical systems, where he learned directly on the spot, and by the time he thought 'well, perhaps I should go back soon?', an imperial command came down from the demon king-sama to him.

By the way, for the moment Kousuke was a student preparing for examinations to enter the medical university he wished for, but perhaps it was a present for doing his best at another world, his skill "Language Comprehension" also could be used for all languages on earth; he was already like a native speaker right from the start of the foreign language subject, and the other students preparing for examination were in the state of teary eyes in that subject, so Kousuke had relatively more leeway there.

Also, Kousuke wanted to enter a medical university not because he wanted a doctor’s license, or that he wanted to become an elite doctor, but only because he wanted the knowledge and technique that could be put to use in Tortus someday, so there was no need for him to enter into a university with that high of a standard. Sometimes he would go around like this relaxing while also observing real practice of medical treatment.

The base of the occult group Hydra which was the Allgrey residence was located in Britain, so thinking with common sense, it couldn’t be said that it was a place that was close to the place that Kousuke visited this time. It wasn’t like Kousuke had a gate, so he made use of a commercial airplane (he had quite a lot of request fees transferred to his account from Hajime though) to travel until here which made it even farther.

「I told you before that if it’s you, I’ll at least make a degraded crystal key for you, didn’t I?」

「……I’ll refrain from that. Nagumo’s artifact is too convenient. If I grow to rely on it like it’s only natural, then it feels like I’ll think of normal life as inconvenient, that’s scary. If I’m traveling, then I’ll limit myself to my own feet and public transportation.」

「You, even though you have a thin shadow, you sometimes say something with depth huh.」

「You don’t need to add the thin shadow-. Just the request fee you transferred is enough. About this much is just right for a timid person like me.」

Kousuke could feel Hajime smiling wryly on the other side of the phone from his words. Kousuke didn’t receive a really high assessment from the surrounding because of the thinness of his shadow and fundamentally had low self-esteem. Even though he always produced an outrageous result “when he noticed”, he wasn’t evaluated by others, and that was why he wasn’t aware that what he had done was amazing.

「Well, anyway, you saved me the trouble there. I planned to crush them sooner or later, but recently I’m seriously busy. If those guys start to move all out it will be really troublesome, but now their heads are crushed before that happened, so I guess they won’t move for a while. Now I can devote myself to what I want to do with this spare time.」

「That’s great. If I remember right, you are doing various things like making it easier to open the gate to Tortus, right? If that works, then I’ll be able to meet with Rana more casually.」

Leaving aside Kousuke’s low self-esteem, their talk came to a finish after Hajime heard about what he wanted to ask. Kousuke earnestly reminded Hajime that he would cooperate with this kind of odd jobs, so he should hurry with establishing a way to make it easier to come and go to Tortus, after that he was about to hang up the phone.

「Then, later. Nagu――」

It was at that time.

Suddenly, gyagyagyagya-!! such a sound of something slipping fiercely resounded.

「Wha, what is!?」

「Oi, Endo, what――」

The shocked Endo turned his gaze toward the street where the sound of slipping and screams of people were reverberating from. Right after that a thunderous sound that drowned the words of Hajime came, a car was drifting through the street corner rushing out toward here.

The thunderous roar was the sound of that car running wild coming into contact with the car parked on the street. The parked car that was hit had its mirror blown away and its tail lamp popping off. However, while it clearly caused such an incident, the car that made its entrance with a drift didn’t show any sign of stopping at all, far from that it accelerated further.

Toward the café where Kousuke was.

「Wha-, wa-――!?」

The couple, businessman, and then the beautiful waitress who were also on the terrace screamed while tumbling over trying to escape inside the café. The next moment, the black car that looked tough pulled its emergency brake just before it charged into the terrace and its rear part mowed the terrace heartily.

Wreckage of the terrace danced midair, and then tableware and cooking……

「Uoh. That’s a waste!」

Kousuke was evading the wreckages of the terrace by jumping into the air, and with hyupapapa- caught the sandwich that he still hadn’t touched! In his hand was a plate that he secured unnoticed while the sandwich was put on it before it was blown away still beautifully untouched due to Kousuke’s exquisite skill. While he was at it, he had put away his smartphone into his pocket unnoticed and in exchange used his hand to use the glass that he had secured to secure the blown away beverage to a certain degree skillfully.

And then, he caught midair the last piece of the sandwich with his mouth and lightly landed on top of the café's signboard that was placed on the walkway.

「Mugumuguh, puhah. Good grief, a car suddenly came charging, just what in the world――」

Kousuke swallowed the sandwich that he caught in his mouth and he spoke his complaint with his two hands holding the plate and glass, there his gaze suddenly met someone.

The black car that was temporarily stopping after crashing into the terrace. From the window of that car's passenger seat, there was a blond haired girl with her mouth opened wide looking as though 'I had seen something unbelievable!', her gaze staring fixedly at Kousuke.

Beside the girl who had pretty blonde hair that was tied into side tail and almond-shaped eyes with an unyielding spirit that reminded one of a cat, was also a beauty with a crisp appearance and very short hairstyle who was the perpetrator of this reckless driving. That very short hair lady was also staring fixedly at Kousuke.

「A, aa~, he, hello? Are you two, injured?」

Kousuke was making a bit awkward expression from the stares of the two that was too straightforward while he tried to say such thing for the moment. Perhaps reacting to that, the cat eye side-tail girl was opening her mouth to say something but,

「Eh, wai-, again!?」

A fierce slipping sound that suddenly could be heard made Kousuke's cheeks convulsed, and he turned his gaze there. Ahead of his gaze, there was the scene of similar black cars, two, three of them drifting while rushing out from the street corner.

The woman with very short hair also seemed to notice that, she recovered her time that stopped from witnessing Kousuke's absurd movement. She immediately moved the steering wheel, stepped on the accelerator and rapidly took off right away. The cat eye side-tail girl passionately kissed 「Mugyuu-!?」the side glass due to the centrifugal force.

The black car boarded by two females seemed to, no, they were really running away from the black cars that came from behind, their car was driving dangerously once more while vanishing to the other side of the road. After that, the three black cars passed through in pursuit.

It was a scene that happened out of nowhere. In a hair's breadth, the couple and businessman that had escaped from the terrace into the café fearfully peaked outside, while Kousuke was drinking up his beverage with zugo-——— sound.

「Oo~i, Endo. What happened?」

Actually, the call was still connected all this time, the voice of Hajime resounded from the smartphone.

Kousuke jumped down from the signboard and gently put down the glass that he had just drained on that signboard. His gaze was moving to the other side of the road where the cars were disappearing while he took out his smartphone, and then he responded to Hajime seriously.

「Nagumo, as expected, foreign countries are scaryyy.」

「……You, what are you saying?」

Hajime’s retort drifted lightly into the blowing wind and vanished completely.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Now then, about the custom (?) heroine attribute.

Blonde side-tail + Lab coat girl + unyielding cat-eyes + ○○ + ○○

Something will surely be entered into those ○○. Please use your imagination if you like.

By the way, the model for her is Akita Neru. Tda-style is goddess. (TN: Tda-style is a character model that is used at Miku Miku Dance, Vocaloid)

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 200

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Wai-, It’s Misunderstanding! Misunderstanding I Told You-

Inside the room that was merely old rather than retro, orange light of a fluorescent lamp illuminated the place. The wall was wooden and looked thin, only the synthetic leather sofa with a fading coloration and the bed looked excessively big, but the sheets and curtains with the same color gave a vaguely worn out impression.

“As expected from a cheap hotel. It really gives the atmosphere of a hotel in a movie where the fugitive will take refuge.”

Even the floor creaked. Kousuke threw his body on the bed while was smiling wryly and speaking to himself a sentence that sounded like a flag. The springs of the ancient bed were making creaking sounds as though to protest to the one treating it roughly.

Because Kousuke had a need to stay for one night due to his plane’s schedule, he rented a hotel room like this. And why was he intentionally choosing this kind of dilapidated hotel when he had just received a considerable amount of request fee from Hajime, which someone with the social status of a student wouldn’t be able to obtain normally? That was merely because of Kousuke’s poor person’s mentality.

Even if he stayed in a high-class hotel without any particular necessity just because he had a lot of money, Kousuke would definitely be unable to calm down, coupled with the gaudiness of the room. Staying in a capsule hotel……isn’t it strangely calming? Those were the words that Kousuke once said to his parents when they were going on a family trip.

The parents of Kousuke at that time were, as expected, a little bit solemn at their son’s sense that was somewhat too small as a person. At the very least he should be demanding for a business hotel or pension.

「But well, I at least splurged a little and rented the upper floor. This has nice scenery.」

The reason Kousuke picked this hotel was because this hotel had fifteen floors despite its oldness. The higher the floor, the more expensive the cost for just a smidgen, but after thoroughly worrying, Kousuke finally decided「A, around floor ten, this is a rare chance so it should be fine……」so that he could enjoy the scenery. If his classmates or his family knew that, then they would surely be looking at him with a lukewarm gaze.

When he opened the worn-out curtains, the lighting of the city was like stars that were spread on the ground; they were sparkling with glitters. It was quite a night scenery that he could be satisfied with, just like what he expected and hoped for.

「……Next time, let’s look at this with Rana for sure, yup.」

Kousuke spoke to himself once more. Inside his mind, the imagination of him doing romantic this and that with his older rabbit ear lover were rushing about. ……If Juugo and Kentarou were at his side, they would surely give a retort that before things like a night scenery and so on, he should at least raise the hotel’s grade a little bit higher.

He was enjoying the night scenery for a while having a wild delusion inside his brain about rendezvousing with Rana. During that time he took out his smartphone and smiled cheerfully while looking at his photo with Rana that they took the last time the gate was opened to Tortus. He repeated this kind of things for several hours.

Kousuke headed toward the bathroom, thinking that he should take a shower soon and retire to bed.

The bathroom also had an antique structure as there was a shower nozzle that could be directly taken out off the wall with several handles below it. For the time being, he would first ascertain the knack of the old shower. When he rotated the handle which played a kiko-kiko sound, water gushed out rapidly. While saying「Naïve-, you think I’ll get my head drenched just like the cliché huh!」by himself futilely, he adjusted the handle kiko-kiko so that the warmth would be the optimum temperature.

He ascertained the warmth with his hand while whispering ‘This temperature is enough I guess’, it was at that time――

Noisy hustling, bustling, and fierce shaking came from the upper floor. The troubling thing was that dust fluttered down in sprinkles from the ceiling.

「Kehoh. What’s this, don’t make a racket in this kind of worn-out hotel you there. ……The ceiling wouldn’t be thin like the wall, right?」

He had finished confirming the thinness of the wall. He wanted to believe that this building wouldn’t go as far as having even its ceiling selling a fight right from the front toward the law regarding construction standard. Kousuke’s expression was turning slightly anxious while he was looking up at the ceiling that was energetically spraying down dust.

There was no way that the people in the upper floor were intensely making love, where the excessive intensity would cause the ceiling to come off and fall down, where Kousuke would face the couple――ain’t no way such thing would…… While Kousuke was having wild delusions that would make him red-faced if his acquaintance asked him about it, for some reason, a bad premonition was welling up inside his chest. He shook his head like a dog in order to shake off the dust raining down on his head.

Instantly, pan-pan-pan bursting sounds that he was familiar with struck Kousuke’s eardrum.

「E, ee? Wai-, just now was that gunshot? Isn’t that too intense for lovemaking!?」

Kousuke looked up at the ceiling again from being startled. Even during that time, the gunshot continued to sound without pause. No matter how he thought about it, the guest on the upper floor was having a fierce gunfight with someone else. Moreover, papapapapa from how the consecutive bursting sounds like that could be heard, one of the sides, or possibly both sides, were even coming there equipped with a machine gun type.

「I, I just witnessed a car chase in the afternoon, you know? Just how dangerous can a foreign country be, huh? Or else, is it Japan that is too peaceful!?」

Thinking that it would be unbearable if bullets pierced the ceiling and rained down at him, Kousuke made his body smaller while exiting the bathroom. And then, just to be sure, he should look at the situation of his own room’s floor whether it was safe or not, so he quietly opened the room toward the corridor. His face peeked out a bit, and he ran his gaze to the left and right of the corridor, but for now, it seemed that there was no one in the corridor.

Kousuke went『Who can stay longer than this in a hotel that has guys having a gunfight like that!』, he was raising a weird flag while deciding to start running away.

But, before he could do that, from the direction of the window, there was a flash that was too intense bursting out. It appeared that the guest upstairs was even using a flashbang. Right after that,

『Doctor Grant-, hold on! We are jumping!』

『We, we’ll really do it!? Ya, wait, wait I told youuuuuuu~~~』

Just when he heard the loud voice and screaming coming from the window, right after that, pan-pan-pan the window of Kousuke’s room had several holes opened in it and it cracked in spider web shape. In the next moment, gashaaan- the window glass was blown away inside along with that pulverization sound.

——Along with a woman in a black suit, and a blonde haired side tail girl that was being held by that woman.

『Are you injured, Doctor Grant?』

『Uu, I’m fine here Vanessa. But, my lifespan is shrinking.』

The tall woman wearing a black suit——an agent of the State Security Bureau Vanessa Paradis helped the blonde haired side tail girl wearing a lab coat——Emily Grant to stand up.

Emily was making a pale face while shaking her head around as Vanessa was giving that a glance while quickly replacing the magazine of the automatic gun she was holding with her gaze moving to the entrance.

「Let’s hurry Doctor Grant. We will be surrounded soon.」

「Yes, I understand. Even so, I’m glad that there is no one in the room below.」

「Yes. Thinking of their method, they will be willing to involve even civilians after all……」

Both of them were jumping down with a comparatively reckless method of using bed sheets as an extempore rope to leap down from the upper floor to a lower floor, but they stroke their chest in a relieved sigh that there was no one in that lower floor room.

Whether it was with the car chase this afternoon and also the attack before that, the pursuer of Emily and Vanessa was gradually growing to not choose their method carefully anymore. If there was a civilian not in a public place but in an inconspicuous place like this room of a dilapidated hotel, those guys would undoubtedly remove that person without any second thought.

(……No, well, this happens every time, so it’s not like I’m bothered. But I entered your field of vision right in front of you here, and it’s not like I’m putting on invisibility or anything you know?)

The sudden situation caused a certain someone with thin shadow somewhere who stiffened while half opening the door’s room to slip out grumble while his cheeks were convulsing. And then, he thought that instead, it was better like this that he wasn’t noticed by this two females who were intensely smelling of troublesome thing, perhaps he ought to plan to flee right away without delay.

However, Kousuke’s luggage——although there was nothing really valuable in it, he couldn’t leave behind his passport and wallet that were in there.

Besides,

(……These two, aren’t they the two at the car chase this afternoon?)

Yes, Kousuke remembered. These two were the females who witnessed his beautiful midair sandwich catch and ginger ale catch, and then they exposed the silliness of getting dazed with mouths wide open regardless that they were in the middle of a car chase.

They gave off an intense smell of trouble as one of them was obviously not a person with a respectable position; while the other one, even though she was around the same age as Kousuke, she was wearing a worn-out lab coat. But even so, for some reason, Kousuke was paying attention to these two who were in a desperate situation.

That was perhaps because he had seen the figure of these two feeling relieved that no unrelated person was getting dragged into their situation even while they were confronting an outrageous situation like a gunfight in an intense action movie.

(But, I won’t be moved. Even though this is a coincidence that looks like there is even some kind of compelling force working in it, but a coincidence is a coincidence. These two look like they are good people, and they are beautiful, they are beautiful! But I who is a riajuu and have Rana as a lover won’t be swayed! I will also have a summer cram school short course the day after tomorrow. And so, I’m going home!)

Kousuke proclaimed this inside his heart while using stealthy footsteps, stealthy footsteps, sloo~wly and quii~etly he returned inside the room. It wasn’t like he had a callous sense of value which would cast away everything unrelated to him like Hajime when he was on Tortus.

However, Kousuke who was on Earth was a man of valor at a supernatural level who could annihilate the main base of a secret society that possessed a history of several hundred years by his lonesome. Someone who possessed such power could do almost anything. And then, in this world, everywhere there were troubled people asking for help, and someone like Kousuke who was traveling around here and there would witness that to a “frequent” degree whether he wanted to or not.

If he moved just because of his emotions to all of those with the only reason being “because they are in trouble”, then there wouldn’t be an end to it. Something like pursuing his own dream would become secondary or tertiary.

And above all, Kousuke also wasn’t someone like Hajime who possessed the strength to the degree that was almost almighty. In addition, he didn’t happen to have a sense of value of relying upon others just for his own objective that would let him say□Something that can make me almighty□ and request an artifact from Hajime.

There were several times until now where he had had a bad aftertaste from turning a blind eye or feeling ashamed due to his action, but, even so, what was the thing that ought to be prioritized, and where he should draw the line……the importance of those had been carved into his heart by his days in the other world, the way of the demon king that guided them, and the time that he spent with Rana and the family of the Hauria.

Like that, Kousuke decided not to get involved with Emily and Vanessa. Right at that time, the two females were being on guard while moving toward the entrance――in other words, toward Kousuke’s direction, the two sides passed each other, and it was at that time, a situation arose as though to ridicule that decision of Kousuke.

「VANESSAAAAA-!!!」

「-!?」

An angry voice was thrown toward Vanessa. The origin of that voice was the window with nice ventilation that Vanessa and Emily had just jumped through. Looking in that direction, there was a man who was wrapping his hand with a bed sheet as a rope replacement similarly to Vanessa, using centrifugal force to leap into the room.

Vanessa reflexively aimed her gun to shot at the man, but the gun muzzle of the handgun that the man’s other hand was holding was aimed not at herself but toward Emily. Seeing that, Vanessa immediately jumped and pushed Emily down.

The man grinned widely at that reaction of Vanessa as in the end he didn’t even pull the trigger and rushed into the room agilely. With a forward roll, he killed his momentum while his gun was thrust out with a flowing motion right toward Vanessa who had just lifted her face.

「……Tsk. So you are faster even in this situation. As always, it's only your technique that is first class.」

The man dropped his gaze toward his own chest along with a click of his tongue. There he found Vanessa's gun silently propped.

「That word "only" is saying too much, Kimberly. I'm also planning on having the sincerity to not betray my comrade unlike you.」

「Hah. That is not called "sincerity". That's called "naivety". Just like how you covered that missy just now even while you understood that I wouldn't shot.」

The man called Kimberly lambasted Vanessa with a tone that sounded as though spit would spittle out. Brown short hair and a toned body that was obvious even behind the suit he wore. Eyes that looked like a bird of prey and lips with their corner raised cynically. Looking at it objectively, he had a well-ordered feature of a wild-type that could even pass off as an actor.

Judging from their way of speaking, it was obvious that Vanessa and Kimberly knew each other, no, that they were coworkers. At the same time, Kimberly, who seemed to be the pursuer of Emily and Vanessa, could also be seen to have a turbulent background of having betrayed Vanessa.

(Waiiit! What the hell, things keep happening one after another here! Is this a movie-, am I in the middle of an action movie that excited all of America, huh-! Are you two aiming for this scene where you point a gun at each other while cracking jokes, huh! Aren't you two cool, huh!)

Vanessa and Kimberly both slowly stood up while aiming their guns at each other. Right around the middle of them was a man with a thin shadow who was furiously making a retort even though he didn’t say it out loud. He should be inside their field of vision normally but……

「Give up already Vanessa. Hand over the doctor. You two, come with me. You can get a lot of money that will still have change left even if you used it for playing your whole life, you know? That’s far better than eating a lead bullet in this kind of place, right?」

「Did you kill everyone on the team for that kind of reason? Just because of money? There is no way I’ll be swayed by that kind of vulgar reason. I’ll accomplish my duty. I won’t let you lay a hand on the doctor.」

Kimberly clicked his tongue once again in irritation. Behind Vanessa, Emily, whose face was stiffened in nervousness, was directing her gaze at Vanessa with a face that looked like she wanted to cry.

「Uhah, this woman is so cool……. If this is a movie filming, then you must be the protagonist for sure, yep.」

Someone somewhere spontaneously let out his impression.

Kimberly glanced at Emily while continuing his words with a mocking tone.

「Duty is it? Hah, do you seriously think that something like that is still valid?」

「……What do you mean?」

「Who knows? Just what does that mean I wonder? Won’t you get it if you return to headquarters?」

「Don’t tell me……」

Vanessa, whose expression was scarce in variation even after these chain of events, opened her eyes slightly wider at this point. The words of Kimberly gave light to the possibility that perhaps they were already falling into a hopeless and isolated situation. Even though it was already hopeless to break through the current situation, if she lost her backing, then would be the same as being placed in a check.

Were Kimberly’s words the truth? Who was her ally and who was her enemy? Who could she believe?

In contrast with Vanessa’s scarce expression, inside she was wracking her brain. It was at that time that sounds of footsteps running down the corridor reverberated like a time limit ticking down. While Kimberly was obstructing them here, the other pursuers were using the stairs to come here.

「tsu」

「This is the end, Vanessa. I understand you know? Normally, you wouldn’t follow along with this kind of pointless task and would try to suppress me swiftly. You didn’t do that because you are injured somewhere, aren’t you? My surprise attack at the research lab——seems like you didn’t manage to deal with that completely, huh. Your driving this afternoon too, you were continuously making mistakes that are unlike you.」

Kimberly quickly ran his gaze all over Vanessa’s body, then he said「Is it your side?」while laughing. Vanessa didn’t show any reaction, but in exchange, Emily’s sorrowful expression completely exposed the truth in Kimberly’s words.

「Aa, then that accident this afternoon, so that wasn’t simply because she is unskillful in driving, huh.」

Inside that strained situation, a certain someone with a thin shadow, which was sneakily and quietly collecting his luggage, was whispering in a small voice. As expected, surely someone would noti……

「Even so, you aren’t pulling the trigger, is that because you don’t think that you will win for sure even against the wounded me?」

「……I wish you’d say that I’m careful instead. There is no need for me to intentionally brave more danger even though it will be checkmate already soon.」

「No, that attitude of yours isn’t what is called “careful”, but “cowardice”.」

Perhaps that was her payback for before. Kimberly ate a splendid word counter and narrowed his eyes looking daunting. 「That’s really an excellent payback. You’re doing great, do it more! Get humiliated, you’re handsome!」Such a small voice that cheered Vanessa and cursed Kimberly resounded, but the voice was normally passing into the right ear and came out the left ear unnoticed.

Right after that, six armed men rushed into the room with noisy footsteps. Vanessa frowned, and Emily turned pale while huddling close to Vanessa. Kimberly’s expression became completely filled with joy, and the young man with the thin shadow had shouldered his baggage unnoticed while looking back from nearby the door with an awkward expression.

「Now then, this is the end of the road of your meaningless escape drama. Sorry, but I won’t ask you already whether you will join me or not. I’ll kill you here and take away the missy. You spat on your last chance just now. You stupid woman.」

「Vanessaa!」

「tsu, Doctor-」

When Kimberly signaled with his eyes, a man with a solid build wearing a leather jacket caught Emily’s arm and tore her away from Vanessa. Vanessa gritted her teeth and then took a deep breath as though resolving herself.

「Doctor Grant, my apologies. It seems that I cannot protect you until the end. But, that doesn’t mean I have run out of cards. Please don’t give up.」

Saying that she smiled faintly while taking off her gaze completely off Kimberly as she defenselessly turned around toward Emily. She casually slid out something from her pocket while――

「Do you think, how many times have I teamed up with you?」

「tsk, guh」

Instantly a gunshot echoed, at the same time Kimberly’s kick stabbed onto Vanessa’s flank. The gunshot came from Vanessa. She pretended to avert her attention toward Emily while firing at Kimberly; then she tried to use her last flashbang.

But, Kimberly appeared to have predicted that as he brushed off Vanessa’s gun with his gun that he pointed at her and simultaneously he launched a fierce kick at her flank.

Vanessa fell on her knee due to the intense pain, and a red stain seeped out on her flank. At her side clonk a small flashbang with its pin still attached rolled. Vanessa was drenched in sweat, but even so, she tried to aim her gun muzzle toward Kimberly but her arm was kicked once again, and her arm let go of the gun.

And then, Kimberly's gun muzzle pushed heavily on Vanessa's forehead as though to show that it was checkmate for sure this time.

「I got no carelessness and openings. That's my respect to you.」

「……」

Kimberly looked down at Vanessa with a gaze that contained no more emotion. Emily was being pinioned from behind while desperately raising her voice to stop him, but Kimberly didn't even spare a glance at her. His unwavering gaze that informed her of the checkmate glared at Vanessa's long slit eyes that reflected no despair which also glared back at him.

In a moment, Kimberly narrowed his eyes in displeasure, and his finger on the trigger tightened. There was no more margin between the on and off of the trigger. With a click, the internal mechanism's operating sound rang.

「Stooop! Vanessa! Run away-!」

Emily's scream reverberated. 'No matter what happens', the woman who had said that to her and protected her just as those words meant, was going to have her head blown up in front of her eyes. Even though she had already had a lot of her important people die, fate was still going to expose another tragedy in front of her eyes again. Emily's heart creaked.

「See ya, Vanessa.」

「Fall to hell, ugly man.」

A betrayer, and a knight of a girl, they exchanged the last words.

Someone, anyone is fine. Anyone is fine. She is expressionless, blunt, but this really good natured and sincere woman, please save her. Just like how this person saved me, please save her-!

Emily screamed. She wished for salvation that her wish would reach a miracle, that surely should exist somewhere in this world.

「Someone-, save――――!!」

「Aaa, geez-. Come on, don’t say something like that!」

Instantly, a single gunshot echoed. It was the small embodiment of death that scattered human’s life easily, however, the room wasn’t dyed red.

Sprinkles of woodchips fell from the ceiling.

「He?」

「Ha?」

「Wha, what is……」

Vanessa leaked out a stupid voice that was unlike the clever beauty that she was, Kimberly raised an astonished voice that was unable to understand the situation, and Emily unconsciously slipped out a question. The man who was restraining Emily, and the other men too, they were dumbfounded with their eyes turned into dots at the strangeness that suddenly happened inside this room.

「Haah, I did it. But, a man, or rather a human that doesn't react in this situation, they are just no good huh.」

「tsu, yo, you-. Just where in the world, did you come from――」

Kimberly stepped back. But he couldn't step back further than that. The reason was that while everyone in that room was focusing their attention, he――Kousuke suddenly appeared and grasped the arm that was holding the gun and moved it to aim at the ceiling.

Just where in the world did you come from, those words that expressed the agitation of Kimberly caused Kousuke to smile wryly.

「From where you ask? This place is my room. I was here right from the start. Can you spare me from using another person's room for a Hollywood scene as you please?」

「Chih, so you hid somewhere-」

Kimberly tried to shake off Kousuke's hand, but even though he had the appearance of a Japanese boy who wasn't even a young man yet, the trained arm of Kimberly felt like it was being constricted tightly by a vise that he couldn't move even for a bit.

The other men who returned to their senses with a 'hah' aimed their gun at Kousuke in panic, but at that time, Kousuke smoothly moved behind Kimberly and turned him into a shield. With that, the men hesitated to pull their trigger.

Using that opening, Kousuke twisted Kimberly’s wrist and restrained his hand to the back. Kimberly grimaced from the pain at his wrist while raising his voice to ask the identity of this intruder.

「You-, who are you! Your movement just now……you aren’t a civilian, huh!?」

「No no, I am a normal student that you can find anywhere――」

Kousuke took Kimberly hostage for the time being while his gaze urged Vanessa to take Emily and escape quickly.

However, the Vanessa in question, right after she received Kousuke’s gaze, her expressionless face crumbled for some reason to be replaced with relieve. And then, she cut off Kousuke’s words and said something like this.

「Fuh. So it seems you made it in time didn’t you, Mr. K.」

Her way of speaking was as though she knew from the start that support would arrive. Now that she mentioned it, just now she said something like she still hadn’t run out of card yet, however, there was no way she was referring to Kousuke. Kousuke being here was a coincidence, there should be no way for her to recognize Kousuke’s existence, in various meanings.

For some reason, there was this unpleasant coincidence where she called him with just his initial even though it was the correct one……

「Eh? No no, you are absolutely mistaking――」

「What-!? Mr. K, you said!? You are that person!?」

Kousuke’s words were cut off once more by Kimberly who was shocked and got taken aback for some reason.

「Wait a second! You guys are absolutely misunderstanding here! Indeed, my initial is K but――」

「Just as I thought, you are really Mr. K!? It’s no wonder that I got taken by surprise……. This way of killing your presence, I have never seen something like this before. Shit-, Vanessa. I detected that you were making contact somewhere while you were fleeing this afternoon, but who’d ever thought that you were bringing in support like this man-」

Unstoppable misunderstanding. Kousuke’s words were easily treated like passing wind similar to how thin his presence was. Inside his heart he went「Or rather, just who is this Mr. K!?」, screaming at the situation that was showing him with this unexpected development.

「The freelance hitman that won’t show his figure no matter what……. He will accept a hit for anyone depending on the reward. Honestly, I hesitated until the end whether to request assistance or not from someone that has been blacklisted by the security bureau. But, to protect Doctor Grant, this is unavoidable. ……Although, I never thought that Mr. K is a Japanese and he is someone this young, it shocked me.」

Kousuke thought. Thank you for the explanation.

It appeared this Mr. K was a hitman that was put on the blacklist of the government.

For Vanessa who wouldn’t desert Emily no matter what, this was a really difficult situation that she would even rely on this option although it pained her. Most likely she was thinking that this person who would kill anyone depending on the reward, someone who absolutely wouldn’t betray his client, and would accomplish the request without fail, would be someone that was relatively easier to request from compared to other characters that were put on the blacklist.

「Oi, notice already the inconsistency inside your own words. You said that this Mr. K wouldn’t show his figure, but here he is showing himself normally see. A Japanese this young, this kind of Japanese youngster, I don’t know from which organization he came from, but there is no way he is a hit man that is put on the black――」

「I, I remember! He, at the café that Vanessa crashed into this afternoon, he is the person who caught sandwiches and a drink in midair!」

「From this afternoon, you say? Shit, so even the escape route was predicted, and you were observing us! We were planning to pursue, but actually, we are the one that was being pursued here huh.」

The misunderstanding was accelerating. Emily-chan, what an exquisite interruption in unbelievable timing. Kimberly gritted his teeth, and Kousuke’s cheeks were grandly convulsing.

「Excuse me; I beg you, please listen to my sto――」

「Kimberly. I requested Mr. K to murder the attackers who come in the middle of Doctor Grant’s protection. You understand what the meaning of that, don’t you? Although he is a young hitman that rose to prominence in this two, three years, it’s already proven that his skill is the real deal. In front of this cruel and heartless person, I cannot recommend you to do anything rash.」

Kousuke was a cruel and heartless young hitman……. Something shiny was starting to gather faintly at the corner of Kousuke’s eyes. The hand that was restraining Kimberly was shaking as though expressing the inside of his heart.

Seeing that, the armed men went「Kuh, this is bad. That guy, he is desperately holding back his urge to kill」etc., they were making an expression that shuddered with fear and whispered to each other. Kimberly too, the shaking that he felt was starting to make him flustered while saying「Kuh, what a crazy guy-」.

「Vanessa. Just what is different between you and me? You are insane, using this kind of a fiend for the sake of your objective. In the end, you are going to do anything if it’s for your objective, aren’t you?」

「Wai-, calling me fiend is rud――」

「Indeed perhaps that is so. But, I plan to discern at least the line that shouldn’t be crossed. If he is really a fiend in the true meaning, and he directed that killing intent to Doctor Grant or people who are not related at all, at that time I’ll stake my life to stop him.」

「Listen here, can you stop so naturally calling me a fiend, a fiend like――」

「Don’t lump Vanessa together with someone like you! Someone like you, after all, is just a wretched petty scoundrel whose eyes are blinded by money! That devilish homicide -san over there is still better than you!」

「Oy you, I’m going to cry here. Do you think that if you add “-san” it’s okay to call other people devilish homici――」

「Hmph, those are words of a kid who doesn’t know the value of money. But, do you forget? The one who created that devil medicine is no other than you missy. If you are talking about fiends, then it’s you yourself who――」

Beautifully ignoring a certain someone somewhere. Kimberly’s words became an unseen blade that hurt Emily. Emily’s expression distorted in pain and guilt and her hand unconsciously gripped on her chest……but, at that time, suddenly Kimberly’s words stopped and in exchange a scream of「Ouchh-」was raised.

Finally, everyone noticed with that scream, the figure of Kousuke behind Kimberly with his eyes getting teary while his hand was carrying a glittery object that he was holding before anyone noticed.

「I don’t know the circumstances of you all? I am an outsider. That’s why, I was thinking to let these two escape without harming both sides with my all, yet for some reason, I got normally left behind? No, it’s not like I’m bothered though. I am used to it. I am not bothered at all. I’m totally fine. But, because I think that communication is important, I say that ignoring someone is no good, yep.」

「Mr, Mr. K?」

「tsu, calm down Mr. K. We didn’t mean to make light of――」

Somehow feeling the atmosphere that seemed to be dangerous, Vanessa spoke with halted words while Kimberly was spinning his words with cold sweat trickling down his body. The gaze of these two were looking in the same direction as Emily and the armed men. All of their attention was poured toward the thing that was being carried by Kousuke while he was trembling all over as though to display the emotion inside his heart.

Amidst the running nervousness, the lips of Kousuke who finally obtained everyone’s attention burst out in a smile looking just a smidgen happy. Seeing that, Kimberly and the others showed a faint relieved express——

「And so, eat this-! The insane lethal weapon that produced fire ash——Ashtray Assault!」

「What do you mean ‘and so’, wai-, wait a-——goheeh!?」

The sparkling object——the excessively heavy glass ashtray that for some reason was put inside the room even though this was a worn out hotel was swung down by Kousuke whose expression was still smiling broadly toward Kimberly’s head.

gochin- Such a painful sound echoed, at the same time stars floated in front of Kimberly’s eyes. Like that Kimberly slumped down hard to the floor powerlessly. Seeing how the white of his eyes were fully exposed, it seemed that everyone’s beloved lethal weapon of Tuesday had properly accomplished its role. (TN: The Tuesday is some kind of wordplay I think. Tuesday in Japan is written with the kanji of fire, maybe that’s why it was related with ashtray here.)

The gazes of the armed men were lured toward Kimberly, right after that, they re-aimed their gun nuzzle with the intention of turning the intruder who had lost his shield into Swiss cheese for sure this time.

But, a small object lightly danced at the height of their gaze.

「You two-, we are running away now!」

The moment Kousuke yelled that the object midair exploded with a flash. An intense flash that burned the retina trampled the inside of the room. Yes, that was the brightness of the flashbang grenade. The thing which Kousuke nonchalantly picked up was tossed at the same time as when he gave a blow to Kimberly.

The armed men screamed「Not again-」while covering their eyes. During that time goin- a painful sounding sound and 「buberah」a short scream became audible once more. Kousuke's Tuesday lethal weapon sent the men who were nearby Emily flying.

「Mr. K! Take Doctor Grant-」

「Yes yes, I know. Also, don't call me Mr. K.」

「Fuwah, wh, who!? Mr. K!?」

「……」

While the light was trampling the inside of the room, it seemed Emily was flinching from having her eyesight stolen because her eyes got done in by the flashbang that was thrown without any advance arrangement this time. She made her body as small as possible by squatting with both of her hands holding her head. Somehow it was a defensive posture that made anyone looking at her feel a hint of charm without reason.

Kousuke cursed while carrying her on his shoulder. The truth was he yelled at them with a plan of having the two protect their eyes from the flash just like they had done the first time; using that opening he would quickly mask their whereabouts, but it seemed that his plan couldn't proceed that well.

Vanessa also had her eyesight robbed, but it appeared that she had memorized the position of all the people inside the room and their distances from her accurately using the measurement of the number of her steps. That she was able to move even while having her eyesight crushed quickly, it was to be expected from her.

The armed men, even while being unable to see, immediately aimed their guns toward the direction of the voice, but there would be no meaning if they didn’t capture Emily alive. Therefore they could only move about in confusion without pulling their triggers. Seeing how they were unable to immediately chase these two to this room from the upper floor like Kimberly, and how their eyesight was easily crushed for the second time like this, it appeared that they weren’t at the level where they could introduce themselves as agents.

「Go outside. There is a car at the street one block from here.」

「Roger. Or rather, you can run really well, huh. Aren’t you still unable to see?」

「E, excuse me, M, Mr. K-. Can you, stop your shoulder-, from bumping my stomaaach!? M, mhy schomach is-, heguh」

「I can see a little, and I have grasped the approximate number of steps. Please guide me in the case that I make a mistake.」

「Got it.」

「Tha, that, that’s why-, my schomach is-, heguu. Before, I missed, going to the toileeet-. I’m in a bad situation hereee.」

It seemed that Emily’s stomach was in a pinch, but in the case they encountered the enemy, Vanessa who wasn’t carrying a gun couldn’t really be counted as battle strength nor did Kousuke want to, so there was a need for him to keep one of his hands empty. And so, he couldn’t carry Emily on his back when she could slip off anytime or carry her in his arms which would make both his hands full.

That was why, even though Emily who was attacked just on the verge of her going to the toilet now had her bladder screaming, there was no way he could listen to her request. In no way at all was it because his words were ignored or Emily brought up the subject of him at the café this afternoon with miraculous timing that he was doing this for meager revenge. If he said it was not then it was not.

「Muh, just as I thought there are some more. Eat this-, sure kill, Tuesday’s unpredictable attaaack!」

While Emily-chan was in the middle of a desperate battle which concerned the protection of her dignity, Kousuke threw the lethal weapon of Tuesday toward the armed man that appeared from the door that connected to the stairwell. The Tues——ashtray that soared while displaying a splendid rotation like a boomerang splendidly made a clean hit on the nose of the man who had just peeked his face out.

docha- The ashtray fell beside the man who was collapsing in a heap with blood spurting out grandly from his nose. The ashtray was already dyed red from absorbing the blood of several people. It was worrying whether that would cause it to become like a cursed katana or rather a cursed ashtray.

Vanessa casually stepped on the crotch of the collapsed man and approached the staircase. For an instant, Kousuke thought of giving a warning toward the woman whose eyesight was declining, but Vanessa was descending down the stair with a lightness that made him doubt whether she was really unable to see.

□M, Mr. K? I vaguely guessed it. I’m begging you here; please let me do――□

□I’m not Mr. K.□

□Do, don’t! The staircase is no good I told youuu! I beg younyaaAAAAAAAAA-□

Kousuke ran down the stairs by skipping steps. That movement was truly nimble, chasing Vanessa from behind gallantly as though he was performing dance steps. It must be remembered that he was rushing like this only to match Vanessa’s pace, he had no ulterior motive, not in the least.

Even though hearing Emily-chan’s sorrowful voice like □Stoooop-~□, or□Fo, forgive me alreadyyyy~□, or□My schomach, stop tapping thereeee~□, or□It’s comiiiing, it’s coming alreadyyyyy-□, or□Mr. Kee, I’ll kill you after thiiiiiis□, or□Ah, that’s a lie, I’m not seriouuuss! I’m sorryyyyy-□caused his heart to flutter for a bit, but he had no ulterior motive at all, and that was that!

□Doctor Grant, please lower your voice a little. Perhaps there is still enemy around.□

□Tha, that’s what you are saying, in this kind of situation!?□

□It’s okay. The situation is like this so……there is nothing to be ashamed of at all.□

□Right now, I understand! I have no ally at all hereeee~~~□

Emily-chan’s sorrowful voice knew no end. This was concerning the dignity of a girl. Although right now was an emergency situation, but in a sense, this was a critical moment for the inexperienced Emily.

As expected, even for Kousuke it would be unbearable if Emily really did that while she was still on his shoulder, so he was thinking of changing the posture into carrying her under his arm soon. Kousuke was very much a normal person. Although Emily was a beautiful girl, he didn’t happen to have a fetish of feeling happy if she was peep-ing on him at all.

However, regardless of Kousuke having an ulterior motive or not, that decision of his seemed to be just a bit late.

「Hm? Wait a second lab coat miss? Can you release me? I’ll carry you under my arm now okay.」

「I, impossible……if I move……it will come out.」

「Wait wait wait, there is no shaking anymore, right? I’m properly descending the staircase softly here.」

「Impossible……I, I’m sorry, father, mother……Emily is……a bad daughter.」

Emily was clinging onto Kousuke tiiiiiightly while staying unmoving without even a twitch. Seeing it from Kousuke’s viewpoint, her eyes were empty while her lips were making a dry smile.

Emily who was suddenly whispering repentance to her parents caused Kousuke to make a flustered expression that said「Shit, I overdid it!?」. He had even used his skill so that no vibration was transmitted to Emily in the middle, but it seemed that Emily had been comparatively in her limit from the beginning.

「Do, do your best lab coat miss! Don’t give up-, if you give up, that will be the end of your dignity!」

「……(shiver shiver)」

「You cannot even speak anymore!? Wait the person in the suit over there! This child is seriously at her limit here! Stop for a bit! Let’s stop at the corner over――」

「There is no time for that. Mr. K. If you are a man, then please shut up and accept it like one.」

「You, what are you saying!? Eei, lab coat miss! I’ll put you down right now so――」

「――a」

「Wai――」

Escape drama that happened late at night in a worn-out hotel.

Kousuke and the others who splendidly escaped were pursued by Kimberly and others who regained their consciousness.

……while following the water trail that stood out with its pungent smell.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Now then, this is a quiz about the heroine attribute from previously, you already know the correct answer, right?

The correct answer is,

Blonde side-tail + Lab coat girl + unyielding cat eyes + peeing + charisma guard (however defense power is zero) (TN: Search □□□□□□□ at google to look at the image. The term came from a fighting game of Touhou where the guard pose of Remilia is called as charisma guard.)

Like that. How was it? Was it just as you imagined?

I'll be happy if you readers have fun.

Now then, a bit of a report, the third volume was released.

This too is thanks to the people who kindly picked up the book (probably it's especially with the power of the reader from Narou-san).

'The extra story is terrible (lol)', that is something that I and others are recognizing, but if you readers can have fun with it then it will make me happy.

Please take care of me from here on too.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 201

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

You, Well Then Ota—

Part 1

“I’ll kill you, Mr. K, kill. What virtuoso hitman. Don’t make light of researcher? I’ll absolutely, kill you dead.”

With the occasional lamp in the street and the light of the car coming from the opposite lane as the only sources of light, from the back seat of the quiet car interior, words that sounded like a curse were spun in whispers.

Vanessa, who was driving, was sending her glances at the rearview mirror repeatedly while looking alternately at the figure of Emily who made herself tiny in the back seat by holding her knees together, her eyes looking like dead fish’s with her mouth continuously spouting out resentment and bitterness, and the figure of Kousuke beside Emily, drenched in cold sweat while taking as much distance as possible from her.

Looking at Kousuke’s coat, that was placed at his feet and the window that was opened regardless of the cold air flowing into the car, as though to disperse some smell from inside the car, it could be understood that the cause of this situation should be rather left unsaid.

The gaze of Kousuke and Vanessa met through the rearview mirror. Kousuke was shaking his head while trembling with teary eyes; his gaze was directed toward Vanessa as though seeking help.

Vanessa quietly averted her gaze. gon- From behind, there was a sound echoing that sounded like a head knocking into the glass window.

(……Nevertheless, Mr. K. He is, really……a mysterious person isn’t he.)

While feeling the gaze from the back seat that was sending an SOS signal stabbing her cheek, Vanessa talked to herself like that inside her heart.

——Mr. K

He was a hitman with an unknown history and appearance that appeared around two years ago, assassinating big shots with strict security one after another. It seemed that he wasn’t attached to any organization; if someone made a request to him using the specified method, then he would carry out any kind of murder no matter how difficult it was, depending on the amount of the reward.

Even the security bureau that Vanessa belonged to put him on a blacklist as a dangerous person starting around one year ago. His skill in killing was without question, but in addition, even when the state’s intelligence agency investigated him the information grasped was always dummy information. Full-scale investigations had been started since half a year ago and were still continuing now, but his true identity still hadn’t come to light. It was enough to comprehend how dangerous this person was just from that fact.

However, while Mr. K was in possession of that much skill, even when his description was analyzed and compared to all the people registered in the existing blacklist, there was not even a single person who could be thought of as him there. The intelligence department was now putting their attention on Mr. K, considering him to be a wholly big rookie.

By the way, the national security bureau possessed the right to investigate and the right to arrest in a wide area regarding a serious crime that concerned the state’s security; furthermore, the national intelligence department, which was an agency that carried out things like the protection of important personal, was literally a secret service. Each department was further divided into subdivisions, but let’s omit that for now.

For a time, Vanessa joined an investigation team that investigated an assassination case that was caused by this Mr. K. The modus operandi of the murder was exceedingly simple, and traces of him playing around in his work was nonexistent, two bullets to the vitals killing the target with accurate shots. He left no message that seemed like a killer who took delight in murder or made any declaration of his crime. And then, after he accepted a request and agreed to it, no matter how difficult it was, or even when the contract detail was mistaken and the difficulty level jumped up, he would never stop until he succeeded. His professional policy could be seen from that.

Mr. K was undoubtedly an atrocious killer. However, no matter how much of a coldhearted and inhuman person he was, he was a professional who would comply only with his contract no matter what happened.

She was betrayed by Kimberly, her comrades were annihilated, and before she was able to link up with reinforcements from headquarters, continuous attacks came without pause from the enemy that had found her. She was forced to flee, unable to break out from the isolated and helpless situation. In order to protect Emily in such a situation, there was a need to spend a trump card even for just one more moment.

Permitting murder in the process of guarding——it was a choice that Vanessa made with bitterness. When this case was over, disciplinary action would surely await her.

In the first place, she didn’t know whether her request would reach Mr. K, or even if it reached him, would he accept it and be within the range where he would be able to link up with them immediately. Would he who was hiding his true identity respond to the contract? By that point in time, this choice of hers was already a gamble.

After all, the content of her request was a guard mission. Naturally, in such a mission the protector had to be nearby the protection target, and that meant that Mr. K would inevitably need to expose his true identity. Mr. K was also known to be an expert in disguise, but it was still a risk nevertheless for him to expose himself in the open.

To say nothing of how if Mr. K investigated for even a little bit, then for him who was strong in the information war he would surely notice that the client was a person related with the government right away.

Therefore, Vanessa made contact under the faint hope of luring Mr. K somehow with the reward amount, but unexpectedly the reply from Mr. K was “I accept.” Vanessa was suspicious, but Mr. K demanded a large amount of money and explained that his protection would be done fundamentally while hiding, so Vanessa accepted it for the time being and tied a contract with him.

(Yet despite so, he exposed his figure in that place. I never even imagined that he is Japanese of the age that can still be considered a teenager though……. Is he in disguise? Still, I cannot spot any disguise even from this range that face looks like his natural face……. If that is his natural face, then, just what in the world is he thinking about?)

It was difficult to guard someone indoors from a distance. There was no way someone could protect someone indoors from outside using a sniping method and the like. Mr. K should have understood that from the start. That was why Vanessa thought that maybe she was just deceived by Mr. K and made the preparation and advance arrangement with Emily about using a flashbang and jumped to the room downstairs.

Inside her heart she thought that her profiling of Mr. K was mistaken, it was possible that he was a devilish homicide who was just greedy for money. Vanessa didn't discard the possibility that Mr. K might bare his fangs on them.

(Even now, looking at his personality there is the possibility that he is in disguise……)

When Vanessa glanced once more at the rearview mirror, Kousuke's expression was visibly getting brighter in a flash, as though it was saying「Finally you look here!」. And then, he was sending eye signals to Vanessa while sending brief glances at Emily.

……A virtuoso hitman who was greatly perplexed against a single girl and looking for help desperately.

(I don't understand……)

From the back seat a small voice of「Oy you, just now, your eyes met me, right? Why are you averting your eyes!」was calling at her. The Mr. K that she had imagined before, and the figure of the teenage Japanese male who was whispering 「Heey, wait-. Don't ignore me. ……Don't tell me, even though we are riding the same car I'm already out of your awareness……?」with teary eyes, those two images couldn't be connected inside Vanessa no matter how long she pondered about it.

「Excuse me, Mr. K.」

「! I'm not Mr. K but, what?」

Seeing Kousuke who leaned his body forward, looking a bit happy when he was addressed, Vanessa once again made the request that she had already made and rejected just now.

「My apologies, but can I ask you to replace me and drive the car? As expected, it has become a bit hard for me.」

「Eh? No, I told you already just now, but I cannot drive, I have never even drive until now. I haven't taken my driver's license test yet. Or rather, even if I have taken the license test in Japan, is it okay for me to drive a car in a foreign country?」

「……You really have never driven a car before?」

「Never. I have never even driven a scooter. That's why it's impossible. Sorry to make you drive while you're injured but……」

「No, it's not like there is any problem with my consciousness, and I was also able to stop the bleeding.」

After they escaped from the worn-out hotel, Vanessa and the others arrived at their car. At that time, Vanessa was injured, although it wasn't a big problem, in preparation for pursuers, she asked Kousuke to drive, but at that time he refused with the same reason as now.

At first, Vanessa thought that he was joking or he was keeping himself free in case of battle, but when she saw Kousuke frowning and even now looking apologetic, she came to think that it was the truth that he really couldn’t drive.

Mr. K who carried out assassinations of important people not just in Britain, but all over the world, there was no way he was unable to drive a car but……

(Or rather, why is he still obstinately denying that he is Mr. K even in this situation……. By some chance, is he thinking that he can hide his true identity like that? No no, no way that’s true……)

Inside Vanessa, Mr. K was increasingly turning into a stupid person.

For just a little bit, a thought that said『Perhaps, he is really not Mr. K?』just like Kousuke told her floated inside her mind, but that terrific concealment to the degree that no one noticed him, his experienced aura that didn’t flinch even when a gun was pointed at him, and then his skill that enabled them to escape without firing a single shot while instead using only the hotel’s ashtray……no matter how she looked, it was unthinkable that this person could possibly be an “ordinary person”.

Therefore, inside Vanessa, her impressions of Kousuke couldn’t mesh at all into a complete picture, and her evaluation of him was going in the direction of “mysterious” or “bizarre”.

There was no way for Vanessa to think even in her wildest imagination that the concealment ability was the sorrowful ability that he possessed from birth, or that there was a person close to him that fired a railgun, so he was used to guns. Also, it wasn’t that Kousuke didn’t fire a gun, but he simply didn’t have a gun, and he couldn’t fire a gun or anything. As expected, Vanessa wouldn’t even think of such a possibility……

Mr. K was a hitman. Kousuke was certainly a virtuoso hitman, but he wasn’t Mr. K. He was unable to do the feats that could be done ordinarily by Earth’s hitmen. But, he had plenty of experience when it came to killing and carnage.

Vanessa’s impression of Kousuke’s character spurred her confusion.

「He, hey, this topic has been left alone until now but, this girl, what do we do with her? It looks like her grudge toward me has already reached a level that can only be considered as a curse. Even though her eyes are dead, it looks like she is starting to make a faint smile. Ah, just now, she was chuckling『kekeke』you hear that!? That is absolutely bad news somehow!」

Kousuke glanced at Emily with a convulsing expression and shivering body. Vanessa looked at the figure of Emily who even now looked like she could fall into the dark side anytime, so she put aside her discomfort that she felt toward Kousuke for the time being and she finally talked to Emily.

「Doctor Grant. Please cheer up. I told you already at that time that the situation was as it was. It’s not something to be ashamed for.」

「……Vanessa.」

Inside Emily’s empty eyes, a smidgen of light was lit and she lifted her face. Vanessa’s gaze met Emily’s through the rearview mirror, and her expressionless face crumbled a little as her eyes loosened up. She then formed more words of consolation for her.

「Besides, didn’t you also pee when you met me? At this late hour――」

「Uwaaaaaaaan-, I’m just a peeing girl after allllllll」

Correction, she formed words of a finishing blow. Kousuke put a retort out「What are you doing adding a blow like that!?」. Emily buried her face in her knees once more, and this time she was holding her head with both her hands while turning even smaller than before.

The chaos in the backseat was making Vanessa’s expression to become somewhat flustered, and she did her best to recover the situation somehow.

「It, it’s fine you know, Doctor Grant. If I and Mr. K stay silent, then nobody will know. Something not known is the same as though it doesn’t exist.」

It was a really forceful line of argument. It gently reached Emily’s stormy heart like a refreshing breeze. Although, maybe that reasoning would work if it was just Vanessa, but as expected, if it was known by someone of a different gender, in addition, it was a different gender whose age was close to her’s, the damage to her mind was just that great. She couldn’t be convinced that simply.

「Bu, but……」

Emily’s gaze repeatedly glanced at Kousuke. But, as though to say that she had already calculated that factor too, Vanessa spoke comforting words to Emily with an expression that could be seen as a self-satisfied look this time.

「Doctor Grant. Please rest assured. Mr. K is Japanese.」

「A, and?」

「In Japan, there is this kind of phrase. ——”Rather that is a reward”.」

「Wha. what is the meaning of that?」

Kousuke’s pleading words of「I told you already, I’m not Mr. K. I’m Kousuke.」were beautifully ignored like passing air. Emily was tilting her head at Vanessa’s words. And then, Kousuke who guessed the meaning of Vanessa’s words tried to hold her back「Wait a secoooond!」but……

「It means, if it is done by a beautiful girl, then whatever it is will bring joy, a side benefit. Yes, if the other party is a beautiful girl, then even if they get their crotch stepped on, even if they get punched in the face, even if they are abused with harsh words, and then, even if they are peed on! Rather that will be a reward for them!」

「Wha wha wha wha wha, what did you saaaay!?」

The world that was unknown to the genius girl Emily Grant, just how deep ran the karma of the Japanese. A shudder ran through Emily’s expression. Kousuke yelled「Stoooop! Don’t lump together all Japanese into one category!」, but such a thing was beautifully ignored, and Vanessa’s words continued.

「Doctor Grant. You are a beautiful girl, and Mr. K is Japanese. In other words, Mr. K who was peed on by Doctor Grant is dancing madly with joy inside his heart!」

Truly, a perfect logic. There was no chink on it! Vanessa unusually snorted mofufun- proudly and concluded her consolation words.

「Therefore, Doctor Grant, even though you had grandly peed while being carried by Mr. K, even though because of that he became completely drenched, for him that was an unanticipated reward. He owes you one. If you use that as a pretext and tell him to keep his silence, he will surely agree to it happily. No, rather he will even be happy with that comma――」

「You shut up alreadyyy! Or rather, why do you know about that kind of subculture――」

「Thi thi thi thi this, pervert-. How can you be happy having m, my, pe, pee――something like that getting on you! Just what kind of nerve you have there!」

Kousuke cut off Vanessa's words, but immediately after, Emily whose face was bright red grasped Kousuke's collar and began to shake him back and forth, causing Kousuke to groan「gueh」and to get his words got caught up in his throat. Emily was yelling「Forget it! Forgeeet it! Just forget it alreadyy!!」while rocking Kousuke desperately.

It seemed that after catching a glimpse of the abnormal world, Emily's mental state that was already at the limit finally entered the half-deranged state. The back of Kousuke's head banged gon-gon- on the door, but Emily didn't show any sign of noticing that.

Furthermore,

「……Doctor Grant.」

「What!」

「It’s not like I don’t understand your attempt to send Mr. K’s memory flying but……」

「That’s why what!」

「No, if you take a mounting position like that……Doctor Grant, you haven’t even taken off your stockings right now, so Mr. K’s clothes, it’s now soaked even further by Doctor Grant’s “that”, I think.」

「!?」

「Mr. K, won’t he become even happier?」

「You, it seems you want to frame me as a pervert to the end huh-. Bring it on then; if you are picking a fight, then I’ll take you on! Come outside! I’ll beat you up black and blue!」

Emily who jumped in a panic hit the back of her head on the door due to her overenthusiasm and held her head while writhing in pain. By doing that, her skirt got flipped up, the black stocking enveloping her slender legs was exposed, its color was strangely changed, but it was fortunate that Kousuke’s mind was now like a warrior who had just met his bitter enemy and was directed at Vanessa, so he didn’t notice.

However, just as Vanessa warned, “that” was firmly soaked into Kousuke’s trousers……

The groaning voice of Emily who felt pain at the back of her head and her shame entering mach speed due to her soaking the other once more, and the angry yelling of Kousuke toward Vanessa, caused Vanessa to tilt her head wondering「Just what in the world is he getting angry about?」……

Inside the fleeing car deep at night, it was the continuation of the time at the worn-out hotel—— chaos.

Part 2

It was a motel along the highway, with a dazzling billboard lit up by showy and stale neon. Inside one of the rooms there, there were the figures of Vanessa, whose upper body was only in underwear, and Kousuke right beside her with his face strangely blushing.

「Nn-」

「Oops, sorry. Does it hurt?」

「No, there is no problem. Rather than that……you are skilled.」

「Well, it’s just this much. I have had a lot of chances to practice.」

「Indeed, your movements seem experienced.」

It wasn’t like the two of them were doing anything indecent. After they entered the motel and calmed down for the moment, Kousuke treated Vanessa’s flank with the emergency kit that he happened to have.

In the first place, he was taught first-aid treatment to a certain degree in Tortus (they were taught that in the case that they ran out of magic power and couldn’t use healing magic), and after returning to Earth he also learned by self-education and going around to the medical treatment spots in battlefields, so Kousuke’s first-aid skill was high. His personal trips seem to be already paying off.

He spread the haemostatic agent, pressed a clean gauze on the wound, and a wrapped bandage around it. During that time he also stimulated her healing just a little with a method that didn’t exist in this world.

「Yosh, something like this I guess. It missed your vitals, and the important vein is also uninjured. The bullet, you treated that yourself huh. I guess you will be fine because your first aid, in the beginning, was done properly. But, there is the risk of infection, and it’s not a light wound by any means. You need to receive medical treatment soon.」

「I understand. However, right now is not the time to say that. Although you have come for us, it can be said that we are still in an isolated and helpless situation……at the very least until reinforcements can take over the protection of Doctor Grant, there is no way I can rest.」

「That’s, well, perhaps that’s so.」

Vanessa wore her shirt while showing a grave expression; however, next, she showed a wry smile while turning her gaze to Kousuke.

「Having said that I don’t think that I can even operate at my original 50%, so from here on, it seems that Mr. K, you will be considerably burdened.」

「……No, look here, I’ve said this many times, but I’m not Mr. K. I’m Kousuke. I’m a student in Japan. In this kind of situation, isn’t it better to contact that real Mr. K one more time――」

Kousuke didn’t admit that he was Mr. K no matter what causing Vanessa to think of speaking the doubt that she was harboring. Her penetrating gaze was attempting to grope around for Mr. K’s true intention.

But, before she could start, the shaaaa water sound that Kousuke tried to ignore to the best of his ability stopped at the same time with the kyu-kyu- sound of handle turned. Kousuke twitched in reaction, and he suddenly became quiet. For some reason, his expression was turning strangely nervous, but……that couldn’t be helped. Because he was a boy.

A vivid rustling sound from the other side of the thin glass door slightly leaked out and became audible……

「……What’s the matter you two, staying silent like that?」

From the door that was only half-opened, only half of Emily’s face peeked out dubiously. Her eyes were containing a clear wariness. Especially toward Kousuke.

Kousuke settled on the figure of Emily who had just finished taking a shower for only a moment, and then he quickly averted his face to the side. The sight was relatively brutal for him.

Emily was undoubtedly a beautiful girl. Such a girl was showing an appearance that was only wearing a blouse, and a short skirt with her damp hair let down. Two buttons around her chest were unbuttoned, and her beautiful nape was exposed. Her black stockings were dirty, so naturally, she didn’t wear them. In other words, the bare slender and supple legs of Emily were being exposed with nothing to spare.

「Doctor Grant, it’s nothing. Right now, I have just received treatment.」

「I see. Vanessa, are you okay? You were shot you know? Are you really okay?」

「Yes, perhaps it should be called a small mercy. I'm still not feeling at my limit currently. It's not a wound that can threaten my life.」

Emily rushed at Vanessa while still barefooted and climbed on the bed while looking worriedly at Vanessa's wound.

At that time, Kousuke's gaze that was similarly returning to Vanessa sharply noticed the skirt of Emily who was on all fours peering at Vanessa's flank. The light bulb of the room had a warm color type, so the room was dim, "that part" became dark and couldn't be seen but……

(Oy wait, the dirty stocking was thrown away but, then, the dirty underwear……what happened to it?)

Electricity ran through Kousuke's muscles. No way, no way……

「You are……not wearing it?」

「!?」

Emily pressed down on her skirt with a force that seemed like it could make a hyuba- sound while taking a girls sitting posture. Her face was dyed bright red, and her almond-shaped eyes glared up with shame and rage.

「Ah, no, just now……」

「I can't help it! It's still not dry right now!」

「Ah, yes.」

「Mr. K, as expected, just now is too lacking in delicacy.」

「Yes, I'm ashamed.」

The person who she had just grandly peed on now pointed out her no-panty state; however, for the moment it was someone who had saved them so she also couldn’t frankly throw her anger at him, the peeing no-panty Emily-chan crawled into the bed and turned small while holding her head.

As expected, Kousuke was also aware that he had made a verbal slip, so he apologized to Emily who was trembling purupuru beneath the blanket while leaking out his impression「This girl, she is a girl that often turns small huh」. Of course, that one was said inside his heart.

「I want to talk about what we will do from now on, is it fine?」

Seeing Emily who heard Kousuke’s apology and peeked out her face from inside the blanket like a cat with its wariness in full alert, Vanessa opened her mouth with a serious expression.

In contrast with the nodding Emily, Kousuke lifted up his hand to hold them for a bit.

「Before that, can you teach me something first? Can’t you contact people who can help you two right away? Since we’ve arrived here, I’ve seen no sign of Vanessa-san contacting anyone……I guessed it somehow but, Vanessa-san, you are a member of a state organization, right? Why don’t you report and request for reinforcements from your organization?」

That was the major premise needed to let their talk progress. Kousuke saved the two of them was because Vanessa was almost killed and also because Emily sought for help. As expected, Kousuke couldn’t draw a line from other people to the degree that he could pretend not to see someone else getting killed in front of his eyes.

But, at the same time, he also couldn’t continue helping Emily and Vanessa and judge Kimberly and his group as evil without grasping the situation. He chose to flee with these two at that scene, but if Vanessa contacted her comrades and arranged a force that could oppose Kimberly and others, Kousuke planned to vanish right away then.

For that reason, before he heard about the details of the circumstance, he asked Vanessa to quickly contact her comrades but……

「Doctor Grant, I will talk about that matter――about 『Berserk』. Is it fine?」

「……Yes. In any case, we have passed the stage where it can be hidden. I don’t mind.」

「Oi you. What are you doing ignoring me so naturally like that? Just quickly contact your comrades already.」

Vanessa asked Emily(ignoring Kousuke) with a serious air, Emily looked down while agreeing(ignoring Kousuke) with a voice that was vanishing down. Her expression was shaded with a dark shadow that was darker than the shadow created by the room’s coarse light bulb. Kousuke’s shadow was getting thinner.

Kousuke who until now only saw the figure of Emily flustered, or shaking all over, or snapping in anger was feeling concerned that such a girl was covered with this much deep shadow. Even so, he demanded an explanation from Vanessa「Heey, why aren’t you contacting your comrades? Heey, come on tell mee-」.

「The start of this matter is the medicine that is the byproduct created during the course of Doctor Grant's research――「Berserk」getting out to the outside.」

「I cannot hear-. I cannot hear anything! Something like that medicine with a naming that sounds chuuni, I don't know any――」

「「Berserk」――it is the root word of berserker, the powerful warrior of god that rampaged in the battlefield without differentiating enemy or ally. It's unknown who named it with that word, but it's a naming that's really to the point. After all, 「Berserk」is the worst medicine with the effect of "Berserkerification". Just as the name implies, the victim cannot return to a normal human for a second time.」

「……」

Besides Emily who was holding her knees with a dark expression, Kousuke was also sitting down with the same posture while blocking his ears and shaking his head in refusal. The sound of the talking Vanessa was piercing the ears of Kousuke, as though the sounds were forcefully being screwed in.

「Doctor Grant is being targeted by the people who are pursuing that knowledge. This is a serious incident that's concerned with the country's safety, so, for her protection, we, the national security bureau moved but……Kimberly's betrayal annihilated the whole team except me.」

Perhaps thinking of her comrades, Vanessa slightly narrowed her eyes while adding more words.

「At first, I thought that it was only Kimberly's betrayal but……thinking back now, I couldn't link up with the reinforcements. That is also the reason that I contracted with you in the preparation of the worst case scenario……

Anyway, this situation is enough to make me think of a “possibility” toward headquarters. Until I can be clear about this matter, I cannot make contact with headquarters that easily.」

「Aa, yes. You more or less answered my question. But, there were a lot of unnecessary things included there……」

Kousuke was turning over the content of what he heard inside his head while hanging his head down crestfallenly, and then he slowly looked up at the ceiling.

Ahead of his gaze was the ceiling that was blotted with stains in various spots, and the electric light bulb that was earnestly driving off the night’s darkness. The deep black stains that represented ill will, and the night’s darkness that was trying to swallow the light of hope……it was as though those things were representing the current situation of Emily and Vanessa.

He accidentally came to this country due to the demon king-sama’s instructions to him, he accidentally encountered these two at the café that he stopped by at, he accidentally needed to wait for the airplane schedule, and he accidentally entered the hotel where these two were at.

What a prank of fate.

Even though he was burdened with the unpleasant title of the man with the world’s thinnest shadow, the world discovered him only at this kind of time.

Even so,

「It was already too late by the time I got summoned to another world huh.」

Yes, for the demon king party who survived that rigorous world, getting involved with this kind of case was certainly, something too late.

□? Mr. K?□

□What’s the matter?□

Vanessa and Emily tilted their head, unable to understand the meaning of Kousuke’s whisper.

Shaking his head saying□It’s nothing□while smiling wryly to those two, thinking that it was hard for his conscience to just run away from this matter without hearing their story, for the time being, Kousuke decided to lend his ear to these two’s explanation.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Above the bookshelves fully loaded with light novels (area fill type), coffee splashed……

The light novels dyed black. Shirakome’s heart is also dyed black.

The world, is always full of things that shouldn’t be like so……

The march of self-destruction, will also be at 6pm Saturday too. Perhaps, surely, if I revived.

Arifureta Chapter 202

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Emily Grant’s Recollection

AN: This is an exposition chapter that reminisces over what happened before the prologue’s scene.

Part 1

"Why……why is that……how……"

While whispering under her breath, Emily Grant was walking on the path that was leading to the research building of the university with quick steps that raised a loud clopping sound. Her blue eyes were swimming around without composure due to her mind that was thinking in a hectic pace, as though to display the impatience and irritation inside her heart, her mouth was busily biting on the nail of her thumb repeatedly.

——Emily Grant

A girl with blonde hair tied into a side tail and almond-shaped eyes like a cat with a white lab coat as her trademark. A genius that in her eleven years of age managed to enroll into Percival University which has a prominent research facility of medicine even in this Britain. She was a first-class researcher that had already published several theses which were highly evaluated.

At first, when she enrolled, due to her age and examination results that were outstanding, she received a lot of attention, which contained traces of jealousy, and was treated like a tumor. Therefore, the girl who was still young laid out a defensive wall using bluffs, stubbornness, and composed expressions while making a habit of not letting what inside her heart come out in her expression.

Because she was a girl like that, her current situation gave no leeway to hide the agitation and impatience inside her heart which was something unusual; it caused several students that could be seen scattered inside the campus to blink in surprise.

The surrounding students sent Emily puzzled or curious gazes; however, Emily didn’t notice them at all seeing how immersed she was inside her mind. Despite being immersed in her thoughts like that, she suddenly returned to her senses due to the melody that abruptly echoed from her small feminine pouch.

Emily stopped still without even being bothered by her shaking side tail and frantically searched in her bag before she finally took out her smartphone.

“Ye, yes, this is Emily. Is this, teacher?”

“Aa, it’s me Emily. Where are you now? Are you still in your place? Have you seen the news this morning?”

Teacher——Professor Reginald Down was someone who normally gave off an atmosphere of a good-natured old man in contrast with his age, which was only in the fifties, but he was now asking questions rapidly with a voice that was a mix of impatience and bewilderment that was similar to how Emily was until just now.

Professor Down was a professor in this Percival University and the person in charge of the laboratory Emily belonged to. He had a habitual “professor” appearance with short black hair that had white hair mixed among it, a body that was slightly widening to the side, thick glasses, and he carried a tobacco pipe. In fact, if someone merely spoke “professor” in this Percival University, most students would be reminded of Professor Down.

His appearance that was “really” like a professor was also the cause, but more than that it was because he was someone that was very excellent as an educator. It wasn’t like Professor Down himself had any great achievements, but many of his pupils were first class researchers who made great contributions to society; every one of them spoke unanimously that “Professor Reginald Down is the teacher that they were indebted to”.

Even though he didn’t leave behind any particular results in scientific society, looking at his professor status, the fact that he was given a laboratory, and how all the other professors would take off their hats to him at the university’s faculty meeting, it was clear just how high his ability as an educator was.

「No, I will arrive at the lab soon. What about teacher?」

「I too will be at the lab soon. From your voice, it seems you have seen the news then.」

「Yes, I saw it together with Hendricks-senpai and Lizzie-senpai. Both of them are contacting all the other senpais. I left home ahead of them.」

「I see……. Then, everyone will come to the lab won’t they?」

「Yes, after meeting Rod-senpai and others, Hendricks-senpai and the rest will also head toward the lab right away.」

「Got it. Then, let’s talk in detail at the lab. ……Emily, sorry. Surely you are really anxious right now. Although I had that conference, I’m sorry that I didn’t return home yesterday.」

Professor Down’s caring words that seemed like it came right from his heart almost caused Emily’s gaze to burst into tears for a moment.

Emily’s home was really far from this university. In order to make her dream come true she left her parents at the age of eleven, and then she entered the dormitory at the same time as her enrollment to the university.

At first, Emily who received inquisitive gazes, thoughtless whispers, jealousy, and treated like a tumor, put up a bluff and obstinacy□I came here to study! I’m-, totally fine-□, but such a bluff from a little girl who felt loneliness from being distanced from family, and with her heart exhausted from solitude every day of just coming and going between the university and dormitory, couldn’t be sustained for long.

Because she had an intellect that towered above the rest, to a certain degree, she was used to excessive expectations and special treatment from the surroundings. So that her heart wouldn’t be warped due to such an environment, both her parents endeavored toward an education policy that allowed Emily to live a life that wasn’t any different from normal children. Their deep love also raised Emily to have the same sensitivity as a normal girl.

Because of that, Emily’s heart that was only being supported by the letter from her parents that would surely reach her once a week with not only writing but also with pocket money……was close to the limit.

Such a scream from a young heart, suddenly stopped on a certain day.

——If you like, how about doing a homestay in my house?

The one who called her with that offer was Professor Down. As someone who had the reputation as Percival University’s greatest educator, he had a relatively large residence located in a quiet residential area as his house. Professor Down, whose wife died early due to sickness and with no child of his own, often explained with a wry smile that it was lonely to live in a spacious house by himself, so he offered homestay to students with circumstances that had no financial surplus.

It just so happened that there was a vacant room, and at the time, a young researcher in the making who attended his lecture looked like she was going to be crushed at any moment. Professor Down couldn’t bear to see that and spoke such an offer while holding out his hand toward Emily.

There were a lot of elder brothers and sisters at the house. Rather than calling it a homestay, they were mostly like a family. They ate meals together, they studied together, and they made memories of university students together.

Those words of Professor Down’s was an irreplaceable treasure for Emily.

「Emily? What’s the matter? Are you okay?」

「……I’m fine teacher. Thank you very much.」

Four years after her homestay began. As always, even now in this situation, he racked his brain for her sake as though she was his own daughter. For Emily, he was like one more father. To the degree that her real father Carl Grant was plainly feeling vexed「My father role is stolen-」.

She felt her heart that was disarrayed by the shocking news that she saw this morning with Hendricks and Lizzie was slowly calming down.

Emily said that she was okay one more time to Professor Down who was worried for her and cut the phone; she then started walking toward the laboratory, this time with firm steps.

Part 2

A large facility located inside Percival University——Research facility building C. Inside one of the rooms there, an oppressive atmosphere was hanging in the air.

The people here were the person in charge of this laboratory, Professor Down, Emily, and then the students of Professor Down’s, who like Emily, were having their homestay at Professor Down’s house——Hendricks Wesk and Lizzie Ashton. In addition, there were Rod Hurst and Dennis Litton who were also Professor Down’s students.

「Tha, that’s just coincidence, right? Right? Isn’t that so?」

Rod who was handsome but had a frivolous air about him was speaking wishful thoughts with an unusually stiff expression.

He was a self-styled feminist who had a personality just how his appearance suggested, someone who couldn’t help to call out if he saw a girl, but at the same time, he was also the mood-maker of the class. In a serious mood like this, he would be the first one who cracked jokes to melt the atmosphere.

But, even someone like him, when he saw the PC monitor displaying the news this morning that was picked out from the internet, as expected, even his usual talkativeness was lacking in luster.

「The “cause” that caused this phenomenon, do you think there are that many of them? Furthermore, in this kind of timing?」

Dennis tilted up his glasses with his middle finger while rebutting without even hiding his bitter expression. His hair was cut short, his shirt was buttoned properly up to his neck, and then his glasses. He who was the most serious in Down’s classroom, just like his appearance, often quarreled tit for tat with Rod, but his rebuttal this time was obviously different than his usual war opening signal.

Because Rod understood it, he too closed his mouth with the same expression as Dennis.

「Rapid muscle swelling, abnormal recovery power, behavior without reasoning in it……I don’t know any sickness or medicine that gives those kinds of symptoms. Except “that”……」

Hendricks stiff words caused Emily at the side to twitch and tremble. Hendricks was a senior who started his homestay in Down’s house since before Emily came, an existence that was already like a real big brother for Emily who supported her both at home and also at the university.

Hendricks himself also didn’t understand at first how to approach a young genius girl and only looked at her from afar, but with the homestay as the impetus, he knew that other than her intellect Emily was a girl with really normal emotions, and since then he took care of her like she was his real little sister.

It was a common knowledge between the members of the Down classroom and close friends that when Emily simply spoke “senpai” that she was referring to Hendricks.

The words that came from the senior that Emily trusted and loved dearly from her heart caused Emily, the creator of “that” to shake like a kitten. Hendricks immediately noticed that and patted Emily’s head with a gentle motion while saying「Sorry Emily. I didn’t mean to blame you.」.

「Hendricks. Pay attention to what you say. After all, my little sister is delicate.」

「No, Lizzie. It’s not like she is your little si――」

「Shut up! Or rather, you’ve pat her too much already! Come on, Emily, come to big sis here?」

Emily who was obediently receiving the pats of Hendricks was stolen in a flash by Lizzie who hugged her into her breasts. She then said「It will be okay you know~, big sis is with you after all~」while consoling her like a little child with ‘good girl, good girl’.

As expected, that treatment was embarrassing for a girl who had turned sixteen which caused Emily to forget the serious atmosphere and ran away from Lizzie’s breast saying「Wait, Lizzie-nee! I told you to stop treating me like a child! It’s embarrassing!」.

Lizzie had long red hair that was tied with a scrunchie dangling from her shoulder to the front loosely. Although her attitude was strict, she was actually an extremely helpful woman with deep emotions. She was in the same year as Hendricks and a homestay at Down’s house from the same period. The truth was she had feelings of love toward Hendricks.

At first, with how Hendricks was taking care of Emily, Lizzie’s relationship with Emily was strained, but Emily’s figure that was chasing her dream with her all gradually moved Lizzie and now she was completely Emily’s big sis.

Emily too knew about Lizzie’s love, so sometimes she teasingly said「You should just marry him already」and so on, but each time Emily teased her like that, Lizzie’s face would blush bright red, and she would be fidgeting. That appearance was that of a lovely woman that even Emily, who was the same gender, would feel something.

Currently, the scrunchie that had also become Emily’s trademark just like her lab coat, although she had never said it to anyone, was something that she imitated from her prayer of wanting to become a kind and lovely woman just like Lizzie. However, it was somewhat embarrassing to imitate exactly the same appearance, so Emily didn’t dangle her hair to the front over her shoulder but to the side instead.

Inside the room, the mood softened slightly from the dialogue of the two sisters. Professor Down smiled slightly at that and made a small cough. Just with that Emily and the others immediately focused their attention on him. Even though they had a harmonious relationship, they wouldn’t make light of the words of Professor Down whom they respected. His cough was the signal for them to switch their relaxing minds.

「Just as Hendricks said, there is only one phenomenon that can turn a human into this. I won’t say that there is nothing else that can do this, but even so, this kind of radical transformation——is impossible. In all probability, this is「H3-α4」.」

Professor Down declared that while his gaze turned to the monitor once more. There, the figure of a man with a big build covered in an armor of muscle was projected; the man was rampaging like a beast without reasoning.

That man didn’t even show any reaction to the voice of the police telling him to stop. Far from that, he slammed his body toward the nearby street lamp and unbelievably broke it, then swung the broken street lamp around with one hand and turned the two police cars surrounding him into scrap.

That violence made the police start shooting all at once, but the man roared, and without even paying attention to the bullets gouging his body, he charged toward the police with unbelievable speed and routed them. The struck police were thrown into the air like a joke with a parabolic trajectory. The sight of that was just like a scene in a B-movie.

The person who filmed the video was a passerby who was at that place by chance; the video seemed to be taken using a smartphone because the person ran away as fast as his legs could carry him after the police were sent flying, causing the video to be greatly blurred. Before long, the video taker who had taken enough distance was frequently saying□Oh my god-□while directing his smartphone’s camera toward the scene once more.

Screams and angry roars were raised from everywhere. The police were desperately fighting back, which was proven by the resounding sound of gunshots, and amidst all that, that time came before long.

Suddenly the rampaging man stood still then fell on his knees as though it was a machine that had ran out of electricity. And then, at that place which was in an uproar, a faint sound of anguish could be heard coming from the large man, it was a sound as though his neck was being strangled.

Right after that, a transformation appeared in the large man. His muscles that could be mistaken as armor were visibly starting to shrink. No, perhaps it would be more appropriate to express the phenomenon as “withering” instead. In the middle of being observed by the dumbfounded people in the surroundings, the large man covered his face with both his hands and moaned in anguish; his body withered until it was the size of a normal adult male, and then his hands parted from his face while his body was convulsing in small shivers.

The face of the man that became visible from there was completely different from the brutal face without reasoning that he showed until now, it was the face of a young man that looked ordinary, which could be found anywhere, no, rather than that kindness could even be seen from that face. That young man made an expression that almost burst into tears for a moment——but in the next moment, he raised an anguished voice once more while he collapsed down with both his hands covering his face.

The body of the collapsed young man withered in the blink of an eye, it lost moisture, deep wrinkles were carved onto his skin, and bone that lost the flesh was starting to stand out. After that, the young man didn’t move anymore.

The police looked at each other then nodded, and then they carefully approached the young man. When they didn’t receive any response even after calling out to him, to make sure a policeman used his foot to move the hand of the young man who was still stiffened, and then the police screamed and backed away.

That couldn’t be helped. The face of the young man that they caught a glimpse of just now was completely desiccated like a mummy, reduced into a tragic state.

The news announcer was speaking about this abnormal incident with a grave expression, speculating whether the cause was a new virus or a drug.

"But, but teacher. How can that have gone outside……. In the first place, the only ones who know about that's existence are only us……even though the data and the deposited part are scattered and managed strictly, yet…"

Emily's doubt came out with a voice that sounded strangled. Hearing that, the truth that the members of the laboratory tried to not think about reared its head.

——"H3-α4"

That was the name of the byproduct medicine that was created by accident from Emily's research.

Emily's research was to create a specific medicine for the Alzheimer's disease. That disease was the cause that was changing Emily's kind and gentle, beloved grandmother little by little. She was the reason that Emily was determined to enroll in a university at the age of eleven. It was a problem in the territory that a lot of researchers hadn't reached yet, and it was also the life work of Emily.

That research which obtained the cooperation of Professor Down and Hendricks and co who were research students was something that put its linchpin on the point that was the regeneration of destroyed neurons. It was also a path that a lot of researchers in the past had tried their hand at.

What was born from that research process was"H3-α4". If it was used, the muscle would break down and regenerate repeatedly and swell up in the blink of an eye; every kind of external injury would instantly recover due to the cells' superactivity.

Of course, it had demerits. As the compensation for the drastic muscle strengthening, the user would lose their reasoning and life. If someone was injected with a small dose, then they might hold out for around a week to ten days; however, in the case that someone was injected until it was just before the limit of the cells self-destructing from being unable to endure the drastic stimulation, they would die in less than an hour in exchange of obtaining regeneration power that couldn’t even be compared to with the former case.

At first, Emily and co thought that they might be able to possibly cut open a path of creating a wonder drug after witnessing the dramatic result of this「H3-α4」, but after seeing the lab rats transforming brutally without being able to stop the drastic stimulation and the breaking down of the reasoning, they thoroughly hid this drug as something that was too dangerous.

They dispersed the data, even disguised the chemicals used, deposited each data at different places, and put them under strict control.

Therefore, it should be impossible for the medicine to be stolen. Because in the first place, the people who knew about the existence of「H3-α4」were only the members of the Down laboratory. They were all in this place right now, except several people who couldn’t assemble here because they couldn’t immediately come.

「……Hey, what about Jessica, Sam, and Milo? Even those guys should know about the news, right? Why aren’t they coming? By any chance, those guys――」

「Stop that Rod. We cannot doubt our friends at this kind of time.」

Rod was about to say “that possibility” that everyone was intentionally avoiding, but Professor Down stopped him. Everyone was looking at Professor Down with anxious expressions.

「There is many other possibilities. We are the “Down Laboratory”, aren’t we? Emily’s genius is resounding not just in this university but even throughout the scientific society. It is a well-known fact that all of my prided students are really excellent. It’s possible that perhaps someone who came here to steal something else accidentally realized the existence of『H3-α4』and stole it. A researcher cannot ignore any possibility no matter what situation they are in.」

The words of Professor Down caused Rod to scratch his face awkwardly. When Dennis spoke sarcastically to Rod, he lashed back saying「What did you say」. However, their exchange was done with their usual atmosphere without any sign of paranoia against each other.

「Then……teacher. We, what should we do from here on……. As expected, is it better if we go to the police?」

Hendricks asked for advice from Professor Down to get back to the topic. Professor Down crossed his arms and groaned 「Hmm」while pondering for a while, then before long he suddenly lifted up his face.

「This is my suggestion but, for the time being, I think we should keep this matter a secret.」

「We aren’t going to talk to the police?」

「Yes. No, sooner or later we will have to talk no matter what. However, I believe that right now what we should prioritize is making the antidote for『H3-α4』even for a second faster. Surely it would take much time if there was an investigation about that kind of uncommon drug. It would be a waste of time.

Bu, but, teacher. H3-α4is……

I guess. Indeed, we haven’t found a way to stop the stimulation……. However, there are still several approaches that we haven’t tested yet. We have talked about destroying the research data and also the materials, but it won’t be too late to do that even after we’ve tested those approaches. This research has leaked outside already; there is no guarantee that the second or third victim won’t appear. At that time, the scope of the damage will change depending on whether there is an antidote or not.

Hearing Professor Down’s suggestion made Emily desperately restrain her impulse that wished to destroy the research data and product as fast as possible. Hendricks and the others were also nodding Certainly, even if we do that after trying out those approaches……

Emily. I understand really well your feeling of wanting to make it gone from this world quickly. I also feel the same. But, the responsibility of creating that lies in us. Then, before we succumb to our terror and erase everything, we should do what we can. Am I wrong?

……Teacher. Yes, no, you aren’t wrong. I think that the possibility is almost none……but, if we are just trying it……

Seeing Emily’s pained expression, Professor Down’s expression also distorted slightly, then he caressed Emily’s head with his usual gentleness.

In the end, they decided that their policy from now on was to try the approaches for making an antidote of the leaked out H3-α4, keeping the whole matter secret from the outside, and also forbidding the members of the Down Laboratory that weren’t here from speaking. With that decided, each member of the Down laboratory began to move to do what they could.

Part 3

"And? I want to ask about the detailed story soon though. Can I ask you to talk?"

Two days after the day where the members of the Down laboratory decided to keep quiet about the drug and continue their research, there were currently two suited men in front of Emily and others. Both of them were police officers that came here to investigate about the"Berserk case"——the case that was caused by the person who consumed"H3-α4"was called that by the news——that happened two days ago.

If it was asked how the police were able to arrive where Emily and the others were after only two days, then that must be because someone had squealed to the police. For Emily and the others, this was a sudden visit that was completely unexpected. Just what was the meaning of that decision that even made them feel guilty if it turned out like this anyway……

Emily sent her gaze toward Professor Down looking for help. Professor Down was crossing his arms while making a complicated expression, but then,

"Well, we can also get a warrant and then search the place whether there is really such a drug here or not you know? In the case that we do find the drug, well, I think nine out of ten we'll find it though, as it is perhaps the professor and others here will be arrested as mad scientists that dragged unrelated people into their experiment for the sake of their own research.

Give me a break! There is no way we will do something like that!

Emily finally snapped hearing the words of the police officer and yelled. The eyes of the middle-aged police officer instantly shined fiercely.

In other words, you are admitting that the drug itself exists?

-, tha, that’s……

Emily immediately flustered from that. Professor Down who was beside her shook his head seeing that and feeling that it couldn’t be helped told the police about the existence of H3-α4. He also told them about how it was stolen and that they didn’t contact the police because they were hurrying to make its antidote.

……Whether that story is the truth or not, well, how about we listen to the details at the police station to make the judgment?

We didn’t report this because we thought that it would be like that. Detective, I beg you even knowing that it’s unreasonable. Can you wait just a week more? At least until the approach we are trying out right now is showing preliminary results. It’s possible that perhaps we will be able to make an antidote.

Please don’t say something so unreasonable professor. No matter how high your position or how prestigious of a teacher you are, you are still the most important witness of a case with a lot of casualties you know? As you can see we are not even calling you a suspect here, we are even giving you an option whether you will come with us or not. I hope you can guess just how much consideration we have given you already.」

「That's……」

Professor Down's expression looked like he was chewing up a hundred bitter bugs all at once. Seeing Professor Down like that, for some reason, the middle-aged police officer made a faint smile on his lips. And then, that gaze moved toward Professor Down's side, at Emily who looked anxious with her gaze wandering around. And then he said it was fine if it was here, but he wanted to speak with just Emily alone.

When Professor Down suspiciously asked why the middle-aged police officer answered that he wanted to hear the story of the girl who was the linchpin of the drug development in a place without her guardian.

「I……what harm will there be even if she is with her guardian?」

「Let me ask you the opposite, what harm will there be even if the professor is not with her?」

After getting told that, the side of Professor Down who claimed that they only got the drug stolen from them couldn't even refuse. When Emily also bravely said「It's fine teacher」, Professor Down could only acquiesce even if he was worried.

Emily and the two police faced each other inside the room Professor Down had exited from.

「Now then, I find it a little hard to believe but, is it true that you young lady are the developer of that monster transforming drug?

Right after the professor was gone, the attitude until now that more or less paid attention to decorum completely vanished. The middle-aged police officer suddenly took out a shabby cigarette while asking. The appearance of his swept-back hair, loose necktie, and kinked suit really made other people feel unpleasant. The man that seemed to be his partner looking a bit younger sitting quietly at the side while taking memo was also sending an appraising gaze at Emily.

Emily was feeling somewhat scared at the two men who suddenly changed their atmosphere, even so, she somehow feigned calmness using the bluff she had learned whether she wanted to or not when she first enrolled into the university.

That's, right. I, developed it. Or rather, perhaps I should say, that it was by accident, that that drug got created.

H~mm. How shocking. See here, isn't it completely like in a movie? For a drug that can make a human into that kind of monster to really exist, I have been a detective for a long time, but I've never heard of anything like that.

……Just, what do you want to say?

The middle-aged police officer that was making a broad grin for some reason was causing Emily's discomfort index to climb up rapidly. Perhaps it was because the police officer was having fun reading inside the heart of Emily, that in the next moment he said something unbelievable.

The data of that drug, how about you hand it over to us, all of it.

「Ha?」

Emily's pupil turned to dots, wondering just what this person was saying. Seeing Emily's expression, the middle-aged police officer whispered「Even though you are called a genius or something, you are really slow huh」as though he found it troublesome while continuing on.

「Surely there will be a lot of people interested in that kind of abnormally lovely drug. It will be good money. That's why, I'm telling you to hand over all the data.」

「Wha-, what are you saying!? You, you are police, right!? Do you know what you are saying!?」

「What a noisy missy that can only go 'gyaa gyaa' huh. When you have become a police officer as long as me, you will meet a lot of delicious stories by chance. Missy, do you know how much a policeman's salary is? It's laughable y'know? That's why I'll bet my life for something that will make that much money. You've got to treasure connections with money that you meet by chance. Just this much side benefits is forgivable, isn't it?」

There was no way that was forgivable. She didn't know how much the salary of a policeman was, but even so, there was no way they who were burdened with the mission to safeguard the people and apprehended the criminal would be all the same as the men before her eyes. These guys were the so-called dirty cops or immoral cops! Like that, Emily realized their true nature from her knowledge of drama movies.

「There is no way that's forgivable. I, I'll tell, this matter to other police! I absolutely won't hand over the data! Just go away right now!」

Seeing Emily who stood up right away with the corner of her eyes raised like a threatening cat, the middle-aged police officer shrugged as though he was facing a child that couldn’t be reasoned with.

“Then, the professor and the other research students, I wonder, perhaps all of them should take on the sin of a killer.”

“Eh……”

“I said it before, right? I hope you can guess just how much consideration we have given you already, remember?”

“-, yo, you coward-”

Emily yelled angrily when she heard the middle-aged police officer implicitly threatening that if she didn’t want Professor Down and Hendricks and the others to be arrested with a false charge then……. There was even emotion of hatred welling up inside her toward the scoundrels who were putting on the skin of police officers taking hostage of her important people that were like family to her.

The middle-aged police officer shrugged without even caring about Emily’s reaction and stood up with the talk ended.

“Decide quickly, okay? Will it be your important family, or the drug, yeah?”

“……”

Leaving behind Emily who couldn’t say anything, the police officers exited the room. In exchange, Professor Down and Hendricks and others entered inside with worried expressions.

Professor Down noticed Emily’s unusual state and asked her if something happened. Like that, he showed a shocked expression at the answer that Emily gave him.

「What the hell, just what the hell with that! They are police, aren’t they!? Why the hell are they threatening us! I don’t get it!」

「Calm down Rod.」

「You think I can calm down like this! Dennis-, aren’t you irritated huh!?」

「Obviously I am you idiot Rod. But, what are we going to do if we don’t calm down? Even though our important little sister was threatened, if we are all shaken up like that then that will be just what they want.」

「-, that’s, you are, right, but……」

Rod whose fist was shaking from frustration, and Dennis who was desperately suppressing the rage in his heart even while sighing.

The unbelievable situation with this threat from the police also visibly shook up Hendricks and the others. Amidst that situation, Professor Down, who was wracking his brain with his eyes closed, opened his mouth.

「There is also the option to report this to other police but……right now we don’t know how many comrades they have, so I cannot say that it’s a good option. In the worst case scenario, there is also the possibility that they will arrest just us and take Emily away. Right now, we cannot possibly leave Emily alone.」

「That’s, right. But, then, what to do……they will soon come back to hear our reply you know?」

Hendricks asked Professor Down with tormented feelings. But, perhaps it was as expected from an adult with the wisdom of age, the professor seemed to have the answer.

「Let’s contact the national security bureau. Now that the case this time has been exposed this far, then it’s not the level where we can keep hiding it or anything. Given how dangerous「H3-α4」is, there is a high possibility we can make the security bureau move.」

「I see……. Their system is different than the police. If we receive protection from the security bureau, then the police won’t be able to meddle.」

Hendricks nodded in understanding. Lizzie and Dennis and the others were also nodding to each other, thinking that there was no other way than that. However, only Emily was still looking down with a complicated expression.

「Emily, it’s fine. No matter what happens, I, we will absolutely do something about it.」

「Lizzie-nee……yes, thank you.」

Hearing the words of Lizzie who hugged her to give her assurance, Emily buried her face to Lizzie’s chest while returning words of gratitude.

However, the anxiety whirling inside Emily’s chest, rather than lessening from her trusted big sister’s words, it seemed that it was getting thicker instead. She couldn’t help but feel something, like a great bad premonition coiling around her heart, as though something fatal was approaching with loud footsteps.

Emily was staring at the back of Professor Down who was going to contact the security bureau without knowing yet that this ominous creeping feeling would become a reality.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

About the drug’s name, I wanted to check up a bit more and write it properly with a name that sounded likely, but……

It was impossible. There ain’t any time. Seriously. The update for next week is also in a dangerous state.

And so, well, this is a spin-off, please pardon the flighty explanation.

PS

At Overlap-sama’s homepage, the first part of the comic’s first chapter was updated.

Really dangerous. Kaori and Shizuku are just too cute.

For those who haven’t seen it, please take a look without fail.

PS 2

Thank you very much for a lot of ‘don’t mind’ comments.

Thanks to that, I was able to update somehow.

The mysterious sense of unity that the honored readers of Narou show sometimes, Shirakome loves it.

The next update will be for 6 P.M Saturday if possible, desu.

Arifureta Chapter 203

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

The Beginning of the Tragedy 1

Part 1

That day, an investigator of the security bureau’s dangerous drug countermeasure section, Vanessa Paradis, was in a bad mood. Usually she was someone with limited expressions, but right now anyone who looked at her walking through the bureau corridors would immediately understand that her expression was sullen.

“You look like you’re in a really bad mood huh, Paradis.”

When Vanessa shifted her gaze toward the voice that suddenly addressed her, she saw a man with a goatee around his early forties, clad in a sharp atmosphere.

“Hughes-san. No, not really, I’m not in a bad mood……”

“Don’t lie. You carried a secret investigation for half a year, and just when it will be time soon, you got taken off the team. It can’t be helped if even you get in a bad mood. If it was me, then there is no doubt that I’d be in a bad mood.”

“That’s……it’s”

Vanessa stuttered, feeling lost to what she should say and her gaze wandered.

Davy Hughes. He was a senior investigator in the same security bureau’s dangerous drug countermeasure section as Vanessa, a veteran senior who would soon reach his twentieth year in this career. He was also an eccentric that was fixated with his current post to the degree that he refused the chair of the section head regardless of his numerous achievements.

「Well, the one pulling you out was me though.」

「……」

Hearing Hughes exposing his own deed without looking the slightest bit sorry caused Vanessa to be truly wordless this time. She was also staring fixedly at him at the same time.

Hughes made a wry smile at Vanessa who was in such a state. He urged Vanessa to continue her walk toward the bureau chief's office that was her destination before he started his explanation while walking at her side.

「Don't glare at me like that. My team is in need of you right now. I got squad leader Ahmed to reassign you to me while enduring a storm of sarcasm from him just so you know.」

「……If I remember correctly, Hughes-san became the leader of the 「Berserk Case」investigation team, right? Not even two days should have passed since the team's formation…… but, is there some development already?」

「Yeah. The situation is confusing in various aspects. From the beginning, this case was something unrealistic, so it also can be said that it cannot be helped. There was a report right from the origin themselves. It's likely that they will use the protection program, but……the protection target is a girl that is still 16 years old.」

「I see. So an agent of the same gender is necessary then.」

「Right. I'll let the chief tell you the details. I'm also going there now. I'm sorry that I'm asking unreasonable things from you, but there is no female agent stronger than Paradis for protection duty. I’m relying on you.」

「If Hughes-san is evaluating me that high; then I also won’t throw a tantrum. Please take care of me.」

Hughes chuckled from Vanessa’s words while replying「Take care of me too」. Regardless of how veteran he was, he wasn’t putting on air against Vanessa who still hadn’t graduated from newbie territory. Perhaps this too was one of the reasons he was able to leave behind his numerous accomplishments. For a senior investigator leading a team, it was important how one treated their subordinates.

Vanessa’s mood that was falling to the bottom just moments before taking a sudden climb with a gyuin! sound from hearing the words that were highly evaluating her by a respected veteran investigator. Unexpectedly, this Vanessa was easy to handle.

Although Vanessa’s expression didn’t change at all from receiving the sharp glint of the gaze of the national security bureau chief, Sharon Magdanese, inside her heart she was tasting a nervousness as though she was made to do a tightrope walk.

Chief Magdanese was a woman with age that looked like she was in her sixties, but she had been entrusted with the seat of national security bureau chief far before Vanessa even entered the bureau. Her pressure and dominating aura that pushed those who faced her into a crucible of nervousness didn’t seem to weaken throughout her age but polished even more instead.

□Agent Paradis that is the current state of the□Berserk Case□. You understand, don’t you?□

□Yes.□

It wasn’t “Do you understand?” but it was as though she was saying “You understand, don’t you? Don’t you? I won’t let you say you don’t”, Vanessa responded back□Yes□while thinking that if she gave any other reply than that, then she might get fired.

Hearing her reply, Chief Magdanese nodded with a single word□Good□really naturally; then her gaze moved to Hughes.

□Senior Agent Hughes.□

□Ma’am.□

□I will recognize the application of the protection program for Emily Grant and her relatives, as well as the people connected with the development of□H3-α4□headed by Professor Reginald Down. However, make Emily Grant as the prioritized protection target. You get it, don’t you?□

□Roger. Are we going to head there right away? If possible, I want to have a briefing session beforehand with my team first.□

□……I don’t mind. It would be conspicuous if several agents of the security bureau visited while the sun is still high. Do it late at night. I’ll let you know later about the time. If Kimberly is among the current bodyguards, then I don’t think there will be any problems, but just in case, place some of our men among the university’s security and janitors.□

「Understood.」

There was no worry of any complication with Hughes's responsive reply. While Vanessa was staying quiet, Chief Magdanese and Hughes did two, three more exchanges, and in the end, Chief Magdanese asked「Are there any questions?」.

Vanessa who noticed that the gaze was directed to her gave a nod.

「Chief, in the case that we encountered someone that took that「H3-α4」and became the alias「Berserk」, what will be the method to deal with it and the order of priority?」

「Silence the target. I won't question the method.」

It was an immediate answer. Vanessa who asked the question was spontaneously lost for words. The chief telling her to silence the target without questioning her method meant that "it was okay to kill".

「……Is there any method to save the people that are affected by the drug――」

「Agent Paradis.」

「-, Yes.」

「According to Doctor Emily Grant, currently there is no medicine that can return people who turned Berserk back to normal. It's not like I don't understand your feelings of wanting to apprehend this drug's victim with the hope that someday a cure will be developed. However, that is the role of the enforcement section, at the very least, that's not your job. I won't let you say that you don't understand, you know?」

□Of course, chief. My apologies.□

Vanessa lightly lowered her head while feeling Hughes smiling wryly at her side before she asked one more question.

□Just now, there was the explanation that the culprit that leaked out the drug's data is unclear, but how much of the progress of the analysis about that is currently available?□

□Let's see. Analyst Parker, explain.□

□Yes, chief.□

In response to Vanessa's question, Chief Magdanese addressed the man standing by beside her who looked like was still in his twenties. The slender young man was wearing glasses and looked timid, and for some reason, his eyebrows were constantly forming the figure '□' looking troubled, which further strengthened his timid impression.

Analyst Allen Parker who became the chief's direct subordinate after his excellence was highly evaluated around three years ago, operated the note PC on his hand while starting to explain.

□To inform you first, currently, we still haven't obtained information to the degree that we can analyze. After all, it's only been two days since the□Berserk Case□, and the notification from the university only came several hours ago so……. Currently, rather than an analysis, please think of it as conjecture instead.□

Allen confirmed that Vanessa and Hughes had nodded and projected the content of the note PC he operated into a large display. There, the profiles of Emily, Professor Down,

Hendricks and the others that were obtained from who knows where, complete with their photos, were projected.

From there, there was a brief explanation of the background of Emily and others, and it was reported there that「H3-α4」——nicknamed「Berserk」(it was named so from the media's naming of the previous incident as「Berserk Case」) was kept secret until the incident.

「Based on the present situation, it appears that the highest possibility is that someone among Down's laboratory team that leaked out the data. The motive is unknown. Grudge, craving for fame, destructive wish, stress venting, or possibly……playfulness, perhaps?」

Allen said something like that while winking, perhaps with a joking intention. Vanessa's intensely chilly gaze pierced into him. From behind, the tundra gaze of Chief Magdanese stabbed him. It was only Hughes who sent Allen a praising face that said「You, are you a hero」as though he had changed his evaluation of Allen.

「Hn, hn, cough-. E, ee, next possibility, is the case where outside people, or perhaps an organization was involved with this. Those with the high possibility to be able to know about the existence of「Berserk」, even if just a fragment of it, we included them and the people related to them——for example, friends, family, the staff of the laboratory, the shop they went to, scientific society, part-time workplace, et cetera~——into the list. And then we eliminated the unlikely possibilities by investigation. Next, we added various conditions like who wouldn't be able to bring out the data without anyone knowing and produced the rough list of the suspects like this.」

The data on display was switched between roughly ten enterprises, people, organizations, and so on. Each suspect’s display was also accompanied with their respective possible motive and also the conjecture of the method of stealing.

Vanessa came to a comprehension. Certainly, this person was at the level that was worthy to be working directly at the side of Chief Magdanese. The person himself said things like「It’s not in the level of analysis」or「There is too little time」, but the average analyst would surely be unable to form a logical conjecture to this degree.

「……I see. Thank you very much for the easy to understand explanation, Analyst Parker.」

「Ahaha. I said it before that this isn’t in the level of analysis or anything. Please don’t have something like strange preconceptions, okay? But, if you are giving me thanks, then please, by any means don’t be so unfamiliar and call me “Allen”――」

「Hughes-san. Looking at this, even if the protection program is applied to them, there is no way we can let them stay together, isn’t it?」

「……Yeah, you’re right. There is enough possibility of an inside job, and it’s unthinkable that the culprit is sane seeing they released「Berserk」in the middle of the city. At the very least, Doctor Grant has to be placed separately from the others. But in that case, I’m worried that the girl’s mental state would be increasingly burdened. Paradis, I’m really relying on you here.」

「Please leave it to me.」

Analyst Allen’s face was twitching from being ignored as though nothing happened. Hughes made a sidelong glance at him with a thought「What a guy……」, his gaze was as though he was looking at a hero as expected. Chief Magdanese was covering her eyes.

Chief Magdanese glared at Allen at the side; then she asked whether Hughes or Vanessa had any other questions, to which the two shook their heads, and she commanded them to leave. After lightly bowing their heads, the two exited the office; Chief Magdanese saw them off before turning her gaze to Allen who was plainly feeling down.

「Allen.」

「Haa, just why am I having no luck with women like this? Just what is not good about me? I think my face isn't that bad, and I'm always paying attention to being humorous and friendly, yet――chief, is it okay for me to focus myself in analyzing the method to be a bit more popular among women?」

「……It's fine. You don't even need to come anymore tomorrow.」

「Eh!? Why is the talk suddenly about firing me!?」

As I thought, perhaps I'm mistaken with the personnel selection――Chief Magdanese recalled the thought that she had been thinking about all this time since three years ago while restraining her feeling that was wanting to fill Allen who was vehemently objecting「No way……chief. If you take even my paying job from me, then how will I become popular!?」with lead bullets. She then gave her command.

「Stop joking around that much. You get it, don't you?」

「No, I'm not joking here……no, nothing at all. I totally understood.」

When Allen was about to object, he was pierced by the serious eye glint of Chief Magdanese which made him to tensely salute in panic. Chief Magdanese sighed seeing Allen who was like that.

Part 2

A heavy atmosphere was hanging in the air inside a room of Percival University’s research building. Emily was looking down with a pale face while her eyes were shaking, Professor Down was holding the girl’s hand tightly in kind consideration, and at their opposite side was Lizzie who was patting Emily’s head.

In this place right now, other than Hendricks, Dennis, and Rod, there were also the remaining members of the Down Laboratory whose names were Jessica Cubit, Sam Redman, and Milo Yenny.

Jessica was a female student with a relatively light attitude who recently poured her energy into fashion rather than research, but her normally light atmosphere was now quietened down, and her expression looked grim.

Even Sam who was often told「You are absolutely more suited to be a martial artist rather than researcher」by Dennis and Rod with his muscular body that was taller than 190 cm, and also Milo who was black and came from America as a transfer student, normally they were youths with bright atmospheres, but now their expressions were turning grave.

Inside that heavy air that was catching them into a quagmire, a light voice that couldn’t read the mood, or perhaps it dared to ignore it entirely instead, was resounding.

"Well, that's how it is. Missy, you just focus yourself on the research for the antidote alone without worrying about anything. You can look forward to a flawless facility and security there."

The owner of the voice was an investigator of the national security bureau's dangerous drugs countermeasure section——Kimberly Warren.

In the afternoon, he and Hughes came here after receiving the report from Professor Down and questioned everyone about the situation. After that, Kimberly remained here in order to guard Emily and others while Hughes finished his report and preparation to lead a team back here.

And then, while Kimberly made arrangements with the dispatched undercover agents and waited for the decision of the concrete planning from here on, finally a communication came from Hughes just now.

According to the communication, the adoption of the protection program was recognized, and the team would wait till late at night before coming to pick them up. Regarding the protection program, in consideration of the possibility that there was someone among the Down classroom aiming for Emily's research, Emily would be protected at another place that had an environment that could be used for research, where she would be asked to endeavor at researching the antidote there. The communication also mentioned that until the antidote was completed, don't mention the members of the Down classroom; even her parents wouldn't be able to meet her.

"Agent Warren. Is it possible for even just one person, whether it's me or someone among the students to accompany Emily?"

Professor Down argued vehemently at Kimberly who looked like he wasn’t mindful at all about Emily’s state. However, Kimberly was making an expression as though he was facing an unreasonable kid while saying「Haa?」and curtly rejected the request.

「I’m troubled here if you are saying a stupid question like that, professor. In this situation where the culprit is unclear, even all of you are included among the suspects; you should understand that, right? There is no way the missy――the doctor can be left together with you.」

「Then, at least, her parents can――」

「Please spare me from your begging. This is the decision from above; it’s not something I can do anything about.」

Kimberly scowled feeling that it was really troublesome and looked away while cutting off Professor Down’s words.

「Why-. Emily’s parents are not related to this! Then――」

「Teacher, it’s okay. I’ll be okay! I’ll finish right away if it’s just making something like the antidote!」

Emily stopped Professor Down who stood up with a menacing face looking as though he would grip Kimberly’s collar. Emily puffed up her chest while chuckling「Fufufu」to show that she was okay just like she said, but looking at her from the viewpoint of the Down classroom’s members who had accompanied her like family until now, it was obvious that she was forcing herself.

The lonely time when Emily first enrolled at the university became a little trauma for her. That little girl in an environment where not only she didn’t have any acquaintance, on the contrary, everyone around her was all far older than her, causing her to be cornered.

That was why, if she was told that in this kind of urgent situation she would be separated not only from her substitute father and her substitute older siblings, and she also wouldn’t be able to contact her parents, then even if she understood that it was only for a limited time until she managed to make the antidote, she couldn’t help but feel the great tightening in her heart.

「Well, no matter how much you protest here, the decision stands. Just resign yourself and make the antidote right away. You are a genius, right? Then you will be able to meet them again before long.」

「Someone like you is……the person with you before, Hughes-san, wasn’t it? Don’t you think you should learn a bit from your superior?」

Professor Down shook his head while sighing hearing the careless remark of Kimberly’s who irresponsibly made light of Emily’s brave bluffing. Kimberly grinned broadly in amusement to that and only shrugged at the fierce glare of the professor.

However, as expected, when he was glared at not just by Professor Down but also by Hendricks and others, he seemed to feel uncomfortable and lifted both his hands as though he was surrendering before exiting the room right away.

「Perhaps the investigator’s quality of the country’s organization has been really falling these days.」

Professor Down whispered while sighing.

「But, teacher. Didn’t Hughes-san who came with that person earlier look like a sincere person? He said that he would also assign a female agent for me.」

「But still, Emily. Agent Warren said it, right? It’s “the decision from above”. The one that decided that Emily is alone is that Agent Hughes. Or perhaps, it’s a person even more above, you know?」

「That’s……」

The expression of Emily’s who earlier bluffed by saying「It’s okay!」slightly clouded from anxiety from the words of Professor Down.

Even Hendricks, Lizzie, and others were also making dark expressions. Amidst them, Professor Down closed his eyes in worry before he moved his gaze to Emily with a determined expression.

「Emily. I have a really bad premonition. No matter how I think about it, it’s strange that they are trying to separate you from even your parents. By any chance, perhaps the security bureau has some other objective, something more than merely protecting Emily to have you create the antidote.」

「Teacher……. But, we have already reported to them……」

Finally, Emily’s bluffing expression fell off and she displayed a face where anxiety was mixed with bewilderment. Professor Down spoke more words to her.

「We can just deny that. Even so, if they still try to take away Emily alone even after that, then that will be proof enough that they have no good thoughts in their mind.」

Professor Down then cut off his words, he crossed his arms and closed his eyes. After falling silent for a while, he opened his mouth slowly.

「……Emily, I have an acquaintance that has a research facility.」

「Research facility?」

「Yes. He also has a high social position, and he is reliable too. He should be able to give us shelter while lending us his research facility until we finish making the antidote. What do you think? Though as expected, it's impossible for everyone to go, but if it's there, then it's possible for your parents and me to come along. Besides, you will also be able to contact Hendricks and the others. That's why, before we are separated from each other before you are isolated alone, won't you evacuate there for the present?」

Emily stared at Professor Down without moving after he made an unexpected proposal with a serious expression. Hendricks and the others were also sending shocked gazes at Professor Down.

「I know it's strange coming from me who was the one that suggested to report to the security bureau. But it seems that the government cannot be trusted at all. There is no way I can entrust Emily who is already like my important daughter to that kind of place. To say nothing of how you will be alone there……」

「Teacher……」

Emily's gaze wandered around in hesitation. She could be together with everyone——that plan rang really nicely in her ears, it was a tempting proposal for her……however, it was unthinkable for her that the security bureau would overlook them in this abnormal situation where a drug could change a human into a berserker, and it was urgent for its antidote to be developed. Furthermore, it was themselves who reported it.

Naturally, there was a possibility that she would cause much trouble for Professor Down who said he would shelter her, and also his acquaintance that would be the one actually sheltering her. Perhaps all of their social statuses and prestige could be destroyed because of that.

However, Professor Down who seemed to guess what Emily was thinking grasped the trembling hand of Emily tightly, and then he sent her a gentle gaze just like when he reached out to her the first time.

"Emily, you don't need to worry needlessly. You are a first-class researcher, but at the same time, you are also still a sixteen-year-old child. It's mistaken for a good child like you to shoulder everything in this kind of emergency. That's why it's okay for you to depend on others. No, rather I beg you as someone that is like family to you. Please, I want you to depend on me."

Emily looked down to hide her expression. It wasn't because she was hesitating, but because if she didn't look down, then her welling up emotion would become flowing drops of tears.

"Emily, let's depend on teacher's kindness here. Even we are also unable to let Emily be alone in this current situation."

"That's right……. If it's Emily, then surely you will be able to make the antidote right away. That's why, let's agree with teacher's proposal, okay?"

Starting with Hendricks and Lizzie, the other members also raised voices of agreement with Professor Down’s proposal.

Every one of them was worried about Emily without exception; they were wracking their brains to look for the best possible future for Emily.

She was really blessed. Emily was thinking that from the bottom of her heart while taking a deep breath, then she nodded while firmly looking at Professor Down.

“Great, it’s decided then. Everyone, please cooperate with me. Even if we talk to Agent Warren about this, he would only stop us. Then, let’s ask for his approval only after it’s done. Emily and I will head to my acquaintance’s place ahead, so can you all distract Agent Warren’s attention for us?”

“Got it. This is for Emily. We will do it somehow.”

After Hendricks nodded strongly, the other members also nodded with resolve in their face.

“Hahah, who’d ever thought that a time will come where we will think about outrageous things like outwitting the security bureau agents in active duty like this. Isn’t this like in a movie?”

“Rod. Don’t get too optimistic. After all, you are the one with the highest possibility of making a mistake here.”

“What did you say-, Dennis! Ain’t you the one who is always getting cold feet at critical times and causing blunders?”

“It’s the cliché that normally the guy who is spouting big words is actually the one getting cold feet. Rod that refers to you.”

「Okay, I rea~lly get it that you are picking a fight with me. Let's go outside Dennis. I'll make that glasses get sticky all over with my finger's sweat.」

「Bring it on. I'll perfectly stitch your slovenly chest so that you won't be able to expose it for the second time.」

A small giggle echoed inside the room that had its atmosphere lightened up with Dennis and Rod's usual swearing. When Dennis and Rod turned their gaze there even while their hands were still grasping each other's collar, they found the figure of Emily who leaked out that chuckle from being unable to endure the scene.

Lured by that, Hendricks, Lizzie, Jessica, Sam, Milo, and the Professor Down began to laugh.

Emily made an amazing smile while tears were gathering on the corner of her eyes. With a really lovely smile that was like a blooming flower she said……

「Thank you, Dennis-oniichan, Rod-onii-chan.」

「」……「」

Dennis and Rod who were given the greatest present with the designation that was seldom used for them silently tidied up their clothes and made a fake cough. And then they sat back quietly with their face dyed red up their ears.

「Now then, with the return of Dennis, Rod, and Emily's smiling face, let's focus on the detail of how we will outwit the security bureau.」

Professor Down's command, as usual, it instantly made the students renew their focus. For the sake of their cute little sister's future, they talked about their opinions to each other with an expression that was even more serious than usual when they were at research or lecture.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The chapter is short, and on top of that it doesn’t progress, I’m sorry.

The writing time is, already……

Forgive me for keeping all of you in suspense but, one thing, it will be a bit more time until that guy crawls from the abyss, so I wish that all of you readers can possibly wait for it.

The next update will be for 6 P.M Saturday too. There will be no stopping midway next time!

Arifureta Chapter 204

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Beginning of Tragedy 2

"Good grief, it feels like I am an actor in a B-class movie here."

While Emily and others were in the middle of their discussion, Kimberly, who was leaning on the wall in the corridor while staring at his smartphone, was letting out a chuckle that he couldn't keep restrained inside himself any longer. It seemed that what he was watching on the smartphone was something that really pleased him.

Kimberly moved his fingers quickly across the display several times. Then the display displayed Kimberly's bank account. When he saw the amount of money that was displayed there, he let out his chuckle once more. When seen from the side, he really looked like a dangerous character. How his expression was dyed with greed that was unthinkable coming from an agent of the security bureau also encouraged such atmosphere.

"This much just from acting a little as an agent. Really, this makes me feel that risking my life fighting criminals is really stupid."

Kimberly put his smartphone back in his pocket while saying that to himself. At the same time, he recalled his schedule from here on inside his head. ——Due to his real employer's request, it would be a schedule where he would risk his life kidnapping Emily Grant and then bet his life to pull the carpet from under the security bureau.

Kimberly was making a show of standing guard outside the room where Emily and others were inside while actually, he was confirming his betrayal toward his comrades and his criminal act. It was at that time, kii the door’s room made a sound and opened.

Dennis and Rod came out.

“Hm? What’s the matter? It will still be a while until the pick-up time you know?”

“We are thinking of making the final check of the things we are going to bring.”

“Sheesh, you guys already made that check a lot, haven’t you?”

“That’s just our nature. This kind of confirmation won’t be enough no matter how many times you do it.”

Dennis shrugged while pushing up his glasses sharply. Kimberly nodded“Is that so……”to that before he turned his gaze to Rod at the side and asked“And you?”.

“It’s this for me.”

“Smoking huh……. Well, fine. But, don’t move away too far, okay? After all, you guys are also protection targets here.”

“Yes sir—”

Rod jokingly returned a salute while lazily dangling the cigar he grasped in his fingertips. Like that, he and Dennis disappeared together further in the corridor while receiving Kimberly’s gaze.

Of course, Dennis and Rod’s words to Kimberly were lies. They were planning on raising a commotion after this so that it would be easier for Emily and Professor Down to escape. The specific plan was to raise a commotion nearby the laboratory where「Berserk」was in safekeeping by taking other harmful chemicals before yelling「We made a mistake, and it got scattered~」.

Of course, what they would scatter was harmless chemicals, but if they made a commotion saying that ‘It will affect your life if you don’t take medicine right away!’, then the agents of the security bureau that couldn’t confirm the authenticity should be panicked. The others would use that opening to try escaping from the research facility.

Surely, the bodyguards from the security bureau would never think that the people who requested protection for themselves would actually escape by their own decision. On top of that, this research building was already like the back garden for the researchers who often spent the majority of their day inside of. There was a high possibility they would be able to escape.

And, at that time, the door of the room opened once more. Who came out next were Sam and Jessica. Jessica was leaning coquettishly on Sam’s arm, generously pressing her voluptuous body that peeked out from her clothes that had an intense exposure.

「So you guys too……what’s your business?」

Kimberly talked to them while still leaning on the wall.

「Ee~, you understand just by looking, right~? We are going to where it will be just the two of us~. It seems like it will be difficult in various things after this~, so while we still can~」

「Ye, yeah, that's right. Si, sir, it's fine, just for a bit, right?」

Jessica was leaning even more on Sam while her way of talking was stretching even longer. Sam's eyes were swimming around, but he somehow responded to Kimberly.

In reality, Jessica and Sam were just friends, they weren't lovers or anything, but they were just getting out of the room to be a distraction like Dennis and Rod. They pretended to be lovers with the motive of trying to find an agent somewhere and trick him into something like a blackmail scene using a beautiful girl.

However, for Sam, it was unexpected how passionate (?) the acting of Jessica was. His unrest was fierce from her way of talking that was completely different from usual and the soft sensation that his arm was feeling.

「……Yes, yes. Do whatever you like.」

「Ye~s, we will do whatever we li~ke. Rather, I'll be made to do whatever Sam li~kes.」

「……」

Jessica grinned widely while waving her hand at Kimberly who gave his permission with an exasperated expression. Sam was feeling a bit of terror from Jessica's acting while nodding wordlessly.

Like that, Jessica and Sam's figure vanished at the turn of the corridor.

Kimberly kept leaning on the wall with his arms crossed while waiting silently until the time came.

Sometime after that, when Kimberly was starting to crave for a cup of coffee, an abnormal event happened.

Bii—, bii—, bii—, bii—!!

A warning sound suddenly echoed. Kimberly made a faint smile, and then he brought his mouth closer to the communication device attached to his sleeve.

「This is Warren. All members, situation report.」

Kimberly wasn’t shaken. Everything was just as planned. He had already seen through the ulterior motive of the students exiting the room. Therefore, he expected for the report that reached him from each bodyguard to be「Nothing strange」or 「The students are~」.

Yes, everything was just as planned——was how it should be.

「? Oi, Clayton, Muller. Respond. Oi, what’s wrong?」

All bodyguards that reported to him said there was nothing strange. Kimberly thought that there would be reports coming from at least two places telling him that some kind of commotion happened, but he got doubtful when in the end all the reports that he got told him nothing strange happened.

Furthermore, there was no report at all coming from the last two people he called. There was no reaction no matter how much he called into their communication device.

「……Oi oi. Don’t tell me they got caught off guard by mere students.」

Kimberly’s cheeks convulsed from imagining the unimaginable development. But, the moment he noticed that the place that the two bodyguards he lost contact with was where「Berserk」was deposited, his face complexion changed right away.

「-, Dickson! Russell! Come here right away! Take over for me for guarding the missy!」

「Haa? Warren, what are you saying? Just now two of the kids came here. They are surprised by the alarm but――」

「Just leave that alone! A different lot might be coming! 「Berserk」is being stolen right now!」

「Wha-, wait a second! Something like that is not in the pla――」

「There ain’t any time for chatter! I’m going to take a look at the place where Clayton and Muller were! Just in case of the worst case, you mustn’t let the missy get snatched away!」

Kimberly roared angrily. Right after that, the door of the room opened slightly, and Professor Down’s face appeared from there.

「Did something happen? We――」

「There might be someone infiltrating. I’m putting two guards here, so don’t come out of the room.」

「No, but――」

Kimberly turned his back toward Professor Down who was going to object while saying this.

「Someone is aiming for「Berserk」!」

□!? Co, could it be, Dennis and others□

□No! Those guys are confirmed to be in another place! That’s why I’m panicked here. Just listen, stay quietly inside the room!□

□Go, got it.□

Professor Down returned inside the room while feeling shaken. Right after that, two bodyguards dressed as garbage men came running.

Kimberly entrusted them to be the guards in that place before running through the corridor with fierce momentum.

□Dammit all. Please let it be just some kind of mistake. My livelihood depends on this plan here!□

Kimberly was cursing while rushing up the emergency staircase. □Berserk□was four floors above——inside the chemicals vault that was strictly managed on the tenth floor, but if there was an intruder, then there was a high possibility they would use the emergency staircase. This staircase was also simply the closest to Kimberly’s position.

The vault on the tenth floor could only be opened using an ID card, fingerprint confirmation, twelve digit password, and voice recognition, those four locks. In addition, there was also a security camera.

Therefore, it was unthinkable that the drug could be stolen in so short a time but……

Although they weren’t agents that received training, the men standing guard there were muscular and armed; however, they might’ve already been neutralized without even given time for calling for help.

If this wasn’t some kind of mistake, and there was really an intruder, then that intruder must be a considerably skilled one.

Kimberly was feeling cold sweat down his back while rushing through three floors in one go and stepped on the staircase landing between the ninth and tenth floor. It was at that moment,

“Oops”

“A? You……”

Ahead of the gaze of the shaken Kimberly, was a man that was just about to go down the staircase from the tenth floor. It was a man without any peculiar traits. He looked like he was in his twenties, or even in his forties. He looked flat, had a medium build body, and brown hair that wasn’t long or short. His suit didn’t look high-class or cheap. And then, a doctor’s robe.

The man raised a really light voice when he saw Kimberly. If they met in a normal situation, then Kimberly would surely think that this man was a researcher here, he might even say“Excuse me”while passing through the man and like that he wouldn’t even recall the man for the second time in the future.

But,

“You, what is inside that suitcase?”

The lack of any peculiarity, the handy suitcase, and then Kimberly’s instinct as an agent, made him be conscious of the man.

"It's just a research document though? Rather, I should be the one asking who you are? I have never seen your face here, and you also don't look like a researcher……eh, don't tell me you are related with this alarm? Could it be, I'm in a pinch here?"

The man's face was convulsing while he took a step back on the stair without turning around. Looking at the man's speech and gesture, in a glance he looked like a simple researcher encountering someone suspicious.

"I am an agent from the security bureau. There is a possibility that an important medicine was stolen. Sorry, but I'll have to confirm the contents of that case."

"No, no, it's impossible to let outside people to see research data I tell you. How suspicious, are you really someone from the security bureau?"

If Kimberly took a step forward, the man would also take a step back. Kimberly narrowed his eyes slightly at the man's attitude, then he said"I'll show you my badge then"while his hand moved to take out his proof of identification as a security bureau agent from his breast pocket……

In order to take out and fire a gun.

"Ah maan, this person is sharp. You are really a dangerous man, trying to shoot someone so suddenly like that."

"……You yourself, you bastard ain't normal. Who and where are you from?"

Kimberly's gun muzzle was pointed at the temple of the man from point-blank range. At the same time, the neck of Kimberly, who had the distance closed, instantly got a knife pressed on it.

Yes, the man in the doctor’s robe closed the distance faster than Kimberly could take out his gun and shoot on an unstable place like the staircase. Furthermore, surprisingly that knife flew out from the man’s sleeve, it was obviously a knife with a launching mechanism.

Kimberly felt cold sweat drenching him. He planned to be a wanted man in this case anyway, so he wouldn’t shirk from cleaning up one or two researchers that might be unrelated rather than having his important money tree be stolen. But, when the lid was opened, what he was confronting was actually someone far more skilled than him.

‘This is bad, bad, bad’ His instincts were ringing the alarm bell loudly.

In an instant,

「Warren!」

「Kimberly-」

Voices called Kimberly’s name, and gunshots roared. Bodyguard agents had gathered below. The man said 「Whoops」still with a light tone while instantly pulling his body back. The bullets hit the wall a slight distance away. The shooters didn’t plan to hit right from the start; they fired only to separate the man away from Kimberly.

The man seemed to give up going down the staircase and tried to climb up.

「I won’t let you-!」

Kimberly pulled his gun trigger continuously. The fired bullets passed through nearby the man who twisted his body right away and opened up holes on the wall.

□Are you sane!? You are firing at someone carrying a case filled with a hazardous substance here!□

□That thing cannot infect through the air! Even if anyone gets hit with droplets, if it’s just a little then it cannot cause secondary infection! It’s better to destroy it rather than have it stolen!□

Indeed, □Berserk□wouldn’t infect someone without injection or contact regarding secondary infection from a person that had□Berserkification□. If the intake amount was only a little, then even if another person came into contact with body fluids of the victim, then they wouldn’t get infected.

Even so, Kimberly who dared to brave the danger of scattering around the extremely dangerous chemicals caused the man’s expression to cramp a bit while he finally took out a gun from his breast pocket and returned fire. While Kimberly leaped aside, two bodyguard agents that had climbed up the stairs got their legs shot through, and they crumbled down.

Kimberly cursed while aiming his gun muzzle at the man, but right after that, his eyes opened wide.

□Are you bastard a ninja!?□

The man unexpectedly jumped off the stairs, then kicked on the handrail and leapt further and passed through above Kimberly’s head. Furthermore, he then kicked on the wall to turn around and attacked Kimberly.

Kimberly changed the direction of his gun, but the man’s flying kick hit his chest faster. An impact that caused him to hallucinate his ribs breaking made the air in his lungs to be forcefully ejected out. Kimberly groaned□Gahah□and got blown away.

In no time, Kimberly was sent flying and would be struck by the stairs behind him where he would then be neutralized, was how it appeared it would turn out……, but Kimberly was formerly military and an expert at military hand-to-hand combat. He immediately discarded his gun and caught the kicking leg, dragging the opponent into the momentum that sent him flying.

「Guah」

「-kh!?」

That man made Kimberly as his stepping stool and somehow evaded being struck by the stairs, but his balance was broken, and he fell.

Even so, Kimberly still received the bigger amount of damage, and different from the man who immediately stood up, Kimberly became unable to move from the impact.

The man shrugged as though to say ‘oh dear’ before trying to leave that place.

It was at that time, an incident that could only be said to be the devil’s work happened in succession, which would lead to tragedy.

「Agent Warren!」

「This bastard! That’s Emily’s! Return it!」

Dennis and Rod appeared. They heard the alarm and saw the agents going off somewhere. They became worried that 「Berserk」would be stolen again and came here to look at the situation. By using the elevator, they came to the tenth floor and there they listened to the gunshots from the staircase. And then, the two caught sight of the man’s figure and guessed the situation. When they saw Kimberly and the other agents get defeated, their sense of justice came out. It came out fiercely.

The hot-blooded Rod leaped at the man while Dennis threw the harmless but smelly chemical they had prepared.

Naturally, the man easily kicked away Rod, but the chemical vial accurately hit the ceiling and broke apart, throwing out its offensive smell. Naturally, the liquid fell like a shower at the man below, Kimberly, and the agents.

The man immediately lifted his suitcase over his head to protect his body from the unknown chemical.

Instantly, along with a single gunshot, the suitcase was shot and sent flying from his hand. The one firing was one of the agents that was shot in the leg and fell. That agent was crawling slowly toward his gun that was sent flying before his hand finally reached it, and he aimed at the head of the man whose attention was taken by Rod and Dennis.

Therefore, it was a coincidence that it was the suitcase that was hit. Rather, it was because the man was holding the suitcase with his hand lowered that the agent aimed at the man’s head. But, the unexpected situation where a chemical was thrown at the ceiling caused the man to make an unforeseen move.

And then, there was one more devilish coincidence. The bullet hit the lock of the suitcase with pinpoint accuracy.

As a result, the suitcase that had its lock broken flew away from the man’s hand and crashed on the wall which caused the suitcase to be opened.

Yes, the vial of【Berserk】that was put inside the suitcase, was exposed to the open.

The people in that place sent their gaze at the falling suitcase in slow motion. Obeying gravity, 【Berserk】flew out from the suitcase that fell on the ground. There were two vials in the suitcase.

One vial flew out from the impact and broke at the center of the landing stair. The content scattered out.

【Don’t get hit!】

【tsu】

Kimberly roared angrily. Ahead of his gaze was the figure of the other agent that was still lying on the floor.

The agent covered his face with his arms right away but…… he was too late.

【a, a? Gii! aAAAAA————!!】

The splash of【Berserk】flew into the agent’s eyes and mouth, and a beat later, the agent screamed thunderously, beki baki goki his body began to transform along with raw sounds.

【Now that it’s like this, he is beyond help, eh.】

The man, with an expression as though he was chewing something bitter aimed his gun muzzle at the head of the enlarging agent. And then, he fired without hesitation and blew away the head. If the person only came into contact with a small amount of the splash, then there would be no problem if he was killed before transforming.

The agent easily crumbled down.

Dennis and Rod were greatly shaken seeing a person die before their eyes, but even so, they felt relieved, the same as Kimberly and the man, that the Berserkification was stopped.

It was at that moment,

——aAAAAAAAAAH!!!!!

The first cry of birth came from downstairs. The birth cry of Berserk.

-, the other one!?

Not here……shit-, it fell down! We got too distracted with this one!

Yes, the other vial wasn’t anywhere here.

The other vial had fallen downstairs from the gap between the handrail’s railings. And then, midway it crashed on the railing, and its content was thrown out. If it was just that, then there would have been no problem. However, in a stroke of bad luck, no, perhaps in a sense that it ought to be said as an inevitability, downstairs there were a lot of people that stuck out their heads from the handrail to look upstairs.

The alarm and the gunshots that came from upstairs. There was no way that those would go unnoticed by the students and professors who were staying behind in the research building, the security guards, and others.

That was why, the drug that gave birth to berserker, raining down from upstairs, showered them plenty. It wasn’t at the level of a splash anymore. It was the whole contents of a bottle. Even though, it actually didn’t even take a full injection at the time of the「Berserk Case」.

「Aa, geez-. This is really an awful failure-. The luck of me today is undoubtedly the worst!」

The man cursed out like that while jumping down the stairs.

「Guh, fuck-. Stop damnit!」

Kimberly’s face distorted due to the damage that was still remaining in his body while standing up somehow. He then chased after the man by rushing down the stairs.

「Rod! We are going back!」

「Eh? A, Dennis? But, something like this……」

「Get a hold of yourself! We have to let everyone know! Besides, that man might be going to where Emily is!」

「ts. Tha, that’s right.」

Dennis scolded the greatly shaken Rod and made him stand up.

And then, they turned a pained expression at the agent’s remain that got his head blown off before they rushed out toward the room where Emily and others were waiting

While listening to the countless roars and continuous gunfire resounding downstairs.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Even though I planned to finish the reminiscence in two chapters……

Seriously I got no time for writing. This time it stopped at an incomplete point too.

It will be a bit harsh for the update for next Saturday.

Arifureta Chapter 205

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

I’m Not Mr. K, But I’ll Become Your Strength

AN: It’s a little bit late.

Sorry.

Part 1

When Kimberly finally arrived downstairs where screams, bellows, and beastly roars were flying past each other, he witnessed the manifestation of the picture of hell there.

Men and women were enlarged atrociously without distinction. The strengthened monsters were trampling down everything in the surrounding following their instincts.

At first, there were only several people that had been splashed with【Berserk】, but the body fluids that were scattered along with the roar, the biting, the scattering of blood due to the security guard’s gunshot, all of those were increasing the number of the infected like rats multiplying.

If it was only a small amount of【Berserk】, then surely there wouldn’t be anyone in the surrounding that would get infected just like when that young man rampaged in the middle of the city a few days ago. However, this time, the people that got infected at first were absorbing a lot of the undiluted solution of【Berserk】. The ability of【Berserk】 should be lower if it was by indirect infection, so at this level, there would be no worry of an explosive contagion happening.

Even so, there was the need to be resigned to at least tertiary infection or quaternary infection. And above all else, the people who got hit at the beginning with the undiluted solution were now scattered about somewhere and kept producing the secondary infection.

The hell was only starting just now.

「Fuck-. It’s really a B-class movie like this.」

Kimberly was cursing while aiming his gun muzzle at a berserker that was just now snapping the waist of a small statured female student in the opposite direction. He consecutively fired life-reaping bullets within an instant.

The former student that was Berserkified carelessly tossed away the female students who died in a way that was beyond imagination by getting snapped right in half, and then it covered its head using its arms that were like logs while rapidly rushing at Kimberly.

Kimberly’s bullets that flew straight to the berserker’s head were easily stopped by that muscular armor. Its flesh was gouged, and blood was flying, but that was all. The wound was immediately starting to regenerate, and its charging momentum didn’t decline at all.

「Nine milli is just like a peashooter huh-」

Kimberly immediately jumped forward into a head-sliding. A strong wind of death and madness passed through above his head. He evaded by slipping through between its legs.

Kimberly was sliding while instantly rolling face-up, and then he aimed at the back of the head of the berserker and pulled his trigger. Inside the corridor that had turned dim due to the broken lamps, muzzle flashes flickered along with consecutive gunshot sounds.

At the same time, skin, flesh, and blood scattered from the back of the berserker’s head. The berserker that got hit with the fierce impact on the back of the head while in the middle of charging pitched forward and fell on the corridor with a slide.

「I heard that it doesn’t have a weak point other than the head, but……it’s more troublesome than I thought.」

Kimberly stood up while smoothly replacing his gun’s magazine. He whispered with an expression as though he was chewing something bitter.

Right after that,

「aAAAAAAAH」

「-!? Shit-, it’s infected!?」

Behind Kimberly, the female student who was snapped into two just now shrieked while standing up. When he looked there, the girl’s face was really wet. Probably when she was caught, she was also covered with a lot of salivae that was scattered together with the berserker’s roar.

Kimberly aimed his gun to deal the finishing blow before it could finish its transformation. But, before he could pull the trigger, the presence of death blew from behind him.

「-!?」

He obeyed his instinct’s order and jumped to the side, an instant later, a war hammer was swung down. The fist attack was so fierce that he mistakenly thought that. Cracks in the shape of a spider’s web were created on the floor by that fist.

「So I failed to finish it off-」

Yes, the attacker from behind was the berserker from just now. Actually, the angle of Kimberly’s bullets was too bad to pierce the skull; they could only slide on the skull’s surface and shaved the skin.

And then, the worst thing was that the second berserker finished transforming in front of Kimberly who lost his chance.

“This is bad……”

He muttered those words unconsciously. Cold sweat trickled down the temple of Kimberly. He was sandwiched between two berserkers from behind and in front, in a corridor that wasn’t that wide. Kimberly’s cheeks were twitching in this dangerous situation.

But, at that time, a severe earthquake suddenly came. The corridor wall slightly away from him was blown away along with an intense thunderous roar, and from there a berserker came out. However, it appeared that the berserker wasn’t intentionally smashing the wall. The berserker flew out with a somersault, and its head struck uncouthly at the corridor’s opposite side with a tumble.

It was as though its charging momentum was made use of to send it flying and crashed into the wall. That conjecture was proven to be correct by the man in the white doctor’s robe that jumped out from the broken wall right after that.

“My stomach got cold inside here because I need to imitate a matador against that berserker.”

The man made such frivolous talk while kicking the berserker’s arm that was trying to stand up. When its balance broke, the man drilled its head with point-blank range shooting and finished it off with certainty. The berserker fell down like a puppet with its string cut, and then it withered up while spewing white smoke. The man in the white doctor’s robe attentively put in a bullet toward the heart’s location from the back.

「GAAAAAAAH!」

「Oops. Spare me from any more chicken races, okay.」

One of the berserkers aiming at Kimberly roared and charged toward the man in the white doctor’s robe. Immediately following that, a black object lightly flew in the air.

「Wai-, you stupid bastard-」

Kimberly got down in a panic. The next moment, the dim corridor was overrun by an intense flash. The white-robed man was using a flashbang.

Kimberly was sweating coldly that he was crouching defenselessly right beside a berserker while desperately covering his eyes, then gunshots roared four times in the corridor that was filled with a flash. At the same time, a heavy crashing sound resounded for the second time.

(He sniped in this kind of situation!?)

Kimberly shuddered in his heart while sweating coldly at the white-robed man’s skill. However, he still jumped out by relying on the slight presence that he felt.

「Uwah, that’s dangerous-」

「Chih, I missed-」

The flash was already settling down, and the dim corridor came back into view. The two people crossed through each other among the falling bodies of berserkers, and now they were opposite each other. The white-robed man that easily slaughtered three berserkers tried to cross in front of Kimberly to go down the corridor, but Kimberly assaulted him with the knife that he was secretly carrying.

Kimberly already perceived that it was impossible to catch this man for interrogation due to the difference in strength between the two of them, but rather than letting him escape just like this, he thought that he would instead kill the man and search for even a scrap of information about who this man was from his dead body.

However, the attack that was filled with that killing intent was easily dodged. Kimberly reflexively clicked his tongue.

Although, as expected, perhaps the man in the white robe didn’t expect Kimberly to attack using his instincts when his eyes were burned to some extent by the flashbang and he kept them closed, the man exposed a slightly pained expression.

「ts, ……you, that face」

「……Geh, this is bad!? Aa, can you pretend not seeing anything?」

The white-robed man still talked with a light tone. The place on his face that was grazed by Kimberly’s knife had something dangling down. However, it wasn’t blood. There was unharmed skin that could be seen from under the peeled off skin.

It was obviously a disguise mask that was using advanced technology. It was something on the level that couldn’t be prepared by a low-level organization.

(Wait, wait a second. He is using a disguise of this level just for sneaking into a university’s research facility? He is extremely vigilant toward having his face known? In addition, he knew about Berserk’s existence and acted in this timing. Also, an organization that has a skilled member above my level?)

Kimberly stared fixedly at the white-robed man who was holding his head in exaggeration while saying「Ooh my, goddd!」because of his failure of exposing the fact that he was in disguise. And then, with the information that he had as the premise, and the speech and conduct of the man that he felt déjà vu from……

「You……don’t tell me……」

The eyes of Kimberly, who guessed the true identity of the white-robed man, turned round. The man was flustered even more at Kimberly’s state that was like that. The man muttered in small voice「Even though I’m already at risk of getting fired from making this great failure, seriously spare me from more than this!」before turning on his heel.

「Wait-」

「I’m not waiting! This is out of control already! I have taken care of all the first berserkers already, take care of the rest, please! This is what you call collective responsibility!」

「Don’t screw-――――」

Kimberly tried to chase after the man, but the white-robed man vanished in the blink of an eye deep in the corridor ahead. Furthermore, with some bad timing, more berserkers showed their figures from the opposite side of the corridor that Kimberly was forced to stop running in.

"This is really a shitty B-class movie. This one and that one are just doing whatever they please."

With a pained expression, Kimberly gave a sidelong glance at the berserkers charging at him while roaring. He then dashed up the stairs to the floor above.

At the very least, he had to secure his money tree, the girl that was the creator of "Berserk".

Part 2

On the other side, when the berserkers were starting to scream for the first time, Emily and others were tormented by bewilderment, anxiety, and fretfulness while hesitating on what to do, whether they should go out to look at the situation or not, or was this the diversion caused by Rod and the others, or if they should get out of the research building right away.

At the very least, this surely wasn’t the diversion that they planned when the noticed Kimberly’s state before this and from how the two agents that came to be the guard replacing him suddenly dashed away in a panic and abandoned their guard duty.

「……Everyone, let’s escape.」

Professor Down made his decision in the middle of the oppressive atmosphere. Hendricks was about to make an objection reflexively, but Professor Down continued his words before Hendricks could form his words.

「This feels too strange to be something caused by Rod and the others. Perhaps something else is happening right now. However, it’s certain that the agents are directing their attention elsewhere. I think we shouldn’t let go of this chance.」

Those words caused everyone to look at each other’s face. And then, they nodded at Professor Down’s suggestion even while feeling anxious.

They slowly and quietly opened the door, and after confirming that there was nothing strange going on outside, Emily and the others came out. Violent sounds of clatters and impacts resounded from the corridor. Emily’s body spontaneously froze from that. Hendricks showed his usual kind smile at Emily who was showing a small fear while her body stooped a little, their eyes met each other.

「It’s fine Emily. We are with you. Surely everything will go smoothly.」

「Senpai……」

Emily looked anxious, but she obediently nodded. Hendricks then tousled her head in encouragement.

「Wait Rick. Don’t tousle Emily’s hair like that. Good grief, you just don’t understand how to treat a girl.」

「Oi oi, Lizzie. If Hendricks understood how a woman’s heart worked, then you two would’ve already been married a long time――」

「Stupid Milo-, close that mouth of yours!」

The cheerful overseas student Milo ate Lizzie’s slap with a ‘hebuu’ and his body half-rotated. But he kept rotating for a half more and returned to face the front and sent Lizzie a wide grin. A vein emerged on Lizzie’s forehead.

Seeing the exchange between the seniors――no, her big brothers and big sisters who were always jovial, Emily’s anxiety was also eliminated a bit. She said「Thank you」inside her heart while returning back a powerful smile in place of words of gratitude.

Emily and the others arrived in front of the staircase.

「Then, Hendricks, Lizzie, Milo. We'll rely on you to recover the research data and the drugs. Emily and I will leave from here. Let's meet again at the meeting place.」

「Yes, teacher.」

Hendricks replied with a determined expression at Professor Down's instruction. Lizzie and Milo also nodded.

Like that, Hendricks and the others went upstairs while Emily and Professor Down went downstairs. However, just before they could do that, zushin-, zushin- a sound that was like something heavy hitting the floor resounded from downstairs.

「What?」

Hendricks and Milo looked at each other's face, and they peeked downstairs hesitatingly. Even while they were doing that, the heavy sound was gradually getting louder while transmitting vibration regularly.

「He, hey, Hendricks. You see, I, feel like I have seen this kind of scene, in a movie before……」

「He, hee? What, coincidence. I, I also recall something like that.」

The two were feeling cold sweats drenching their body while they couldn't take their gaze away from downstairs. However, they muttered in a small volume simultaneously.

——Juras○c Park

They said.

「This ain't a joke. Why, the hell. Why, are those guys……」

「Ha, haha. I wonder, if this is still better, than a T-Rex……」

Milo stepped back while shuddering in fear from that――the berserker that finally showed its appearance. Hendricks also stepped back while making a dry laugh.

Right after that, a scream that pierced the air was raised.

「ts, RUN-」

Hendricks’s voice warned so loud that it felt like his throat would tear. Milo came back to his senses as though he just got punched while Emily and the others who were similarly stiffened also turned on their heels and started running through the corridor.

「Go down from the other staircase!」

「No, use the elevator! Get into that!」

Lizzie mentioned the other staircase at the end of the research building. But midway, Hendricks saw the floor display of the elevator and wasted no time to tell the others about the change of plan.

Emily jumped forward and pushed the elevator button. The elevator was currently on a floor above them. The sound of the elevator operating sounded a beat later after the button was pushed. Emily and the others would be able to ride the elevator in just a few more seconds. But, right now, those seconds felt like an eternity to them.

「Quick-, quick-!!」

Emily spoke impatiently while pushing the button repeatedly.

A roar reverberated. The berserker climbed the stairs and arrived at the floor where Emily and the others were at right now. The figure of Emily and the others were reflected in its bloodshot eyes. And then, it screamed once more. However, this time the sound was accompanied by the shaking of the floor from its forward charge.

At the same time, the elevator door opened. They all rushed inside and pushed the button with all their might. Seeing the door slowly began to close was really frustrating. However, it closed just in time.

Just before the door closed, the wicked look of the berserker peeked in from between the door’s gap and a fist approached, but the door closed completely. A thunderous sound and impact ran through the door. Milo and Hendricks fell on their butt seeing the door now became greatly dented.

Lizzie was covering her mouth with her hands; her expression showed how she couldn’t believe what had happened. And then, Professor Down was dumbfounded while muttering「Impossible. This……what happened……」.

While the floor display of the elevator was slowly heading to the lower floor, Emily let out her words using a voice that was filled with uneasiness.

「We, we have to contact the police. After that the security bureau too. After that, after that, the research building needs to be sealed……but, the way to seal it is……」

That voice caused Hendricks and the others to return to their senses quickly. Their little sister was desperately thinking even while they were in a stupor. That fact made them recover some part of their composure.

「We don’t know what happened but, it’s unthinkable that Rod and the others were the one scattering「H3-α4」——no, 「Berserk」. Anyway, let’s get outside for the moment and then contact the police. If they don’t send armed men here……」

「……Yeah. We don’t know how much「Berserk」is scattered, but it will be a disaster if it gets outside.」

「Are Dennis and the others safe……. As for the security bureau, surely Agent Warren has contacted them though.」

Hendricks and the others desperately calmed down themselves while talking to each other. Before long the elevator arrived on the first floor. The door opened, and then they caught sight of armed men in janitor uniforms a slight distance away. Those must be the bodyguard agents from the security bureau.

With that conclusion, Milo felt a slight relieve, and then he rushed out of the elevator in order to seek help from them.

「You guys! Help us! Upstairs there is berse——」

Milo’s figure disappeared.

「Eh?」

It was unknown who whispered that. Hendricks came out of the elevator with shaky footsteps and turned his gaze to the right.

He already knew. Right after Milo got outside, something big nabbed Milo from the side. He knew——that this something was a berserker.

「A, a, aah」

Hendricks trembling voice echoed. His eyes opened widely and he sunk down on the floor as though strength left his waist. He didn’t avert his gaze away. He couldn’t.

He couldn’t avert his gaze from the figure of his friend that got his head crushed. He couldn’t avert his gaze, from the monster straddling his friend while madly punching with its fist that was like a rock.

The roar of the berserker that easily snatched Milo’s life reverberated. It sounded like the war cry of victory.

The agents fired. From the direction they fired at, a further two, three more berserkers appeared.

“Senpai!”

“Rick-”

The agents fired blindly in a panic. Several of the bullets hit near the elevator, but even so, Hendricks kept standing stock still without being able to avert his eyes from the tragic appearance of his friend. Emily and Lizzie jumped at Hendricks who was like that. And then, both of them dragged him back into the elevator.

“Milo is, Milo is-”

“Rick-, get a hold of yourself!”

Lizzie scolded Hendricks who was holding his head in panic. A painful slap flew onto Hendricks’s cheek. Hendricks returned to his senses due to the pain running through his cheek and the expression of Lizzie before his eyes that looked like it would burst into tears at any moment.

「Right now……that’s no good. You still, cannot break down yet. Live, search for help, after that…….protect our little sister! Think just those for now! You are a big brother, right?!」

「Lizzie……yeah, you’re right. Sorry.」

Hendricks stood up and turned his gaze at the little sister who was standing still in the elevator’s corner.

(She looks like a corpse. Shit-, it’s just as Lizzie said. I’ve got to pull myself together-)

The look of Emily’s expression that lost color was certainly like a corpse inside a coffin. Hendricks who treated her like family all this time understood really clearly that Emily now was getting crushed by guilt.

The drug that she created turned a lot of people into monsters. And then, those monsters finally killed a person that she loved like a brother. That was really no different than Emily herself getting killed……

Of course, from the viewpoint of Hendricks and the others, that was nothing more than barking up the wrong tree. But, surely, even if they said「This isn’t Emily’s fault」, their words wouldn’t reach the heart of Emily who was drowning in guilt.

That was why,

「Emily, I want you to lend us your strength.」

「Eh?」

Hendricks entreated to Emily.

□It’s only Emily who can stop □Berserk□. There is no doubt that we will be unable to make the antidote. It’s only you who had grasped the whole thing and possess the insight that we won’t even be able to imagine, that can stop the monster that we created.□

□Senpai……□

□Please, Emily. Save us, save everyone. Lend us, your power.□

There was no time for them to stop still. There wasn’t any time to drown in guilt. Exert Emily Grant’s whole strength. Hendricks who pleaded like that made Emily notice his true intention.

Emily’s almond-shaped eyes sharpened even more fiercely. She wiped her eyes with the sleeve of her kinked lab coat and slapped her own cheeks so hard that it made a sound. And then, she gave a sharp nod at Hendricks.

Hendricks looked fondly at Emily’s gaze, and he nodded back, and then he suggested that they took a look at their own laboratory. He was thinking of the possibility that perhaps Dennis and the others or Agent Warren returned there.

Of course, there was the possibility that the berserker before this was still there. Therefore, they had to stay on guard so that they could evacuate back into the elevator anytime.

However, when they peeked out of the elevator, what entered their eyes was——a disastrous sight.

□Sa, m?□

□A, e, a……this is, lies, right?□

There was the figure of Sam who had been reduced into a berserker, and then the figure of Jessica who was dangled in midair with her neck broken. And then, there was the figure of Dennis soaked in a sea of blood at the side, and the figure of Rod sitting down while leaning on the wall. ——It was really, a nightmare.

Right after that, the elevator that had its button being pushed by Emily so that they could escape anytime was suddenly assaulted by an impact. zuhin- Something fell on the elevator from above. The elevator was making an unpleasant sound while sinking below.

At the same time, a roar and an impact struck the elevator's ceiling. The elevator was dented with each roar. It was clear that a berserker was invading from above the ceiling.

-, Emily! Teacher! Get out quickly!

Hendricks and Lizzie stretched their hands out to Emily and Professor Down in panic. The elevator entrance had turned narrow like a guillotine. Emily and Professor Down crawled out from there desperately.

The next moment, the elevator finally surpassed its endurance limit and fell below with a screech. The berserker that was on its ceiling reached out its hand and grasped the edge of the elevator entrance that was still opened.

Emily and the others moved away from the entrance in panic, but there was no way that such a commotion wouldn't attract the attention of the berserker that was once Sam.

Sam threw away Jessica like a doll and raised a groan. And then, a berserker crept up from the elevator.

In this hopelessly deathly situation, a gunshot suddenly rang.

□DAMN ITTTTTTTTT-□

The one who yelled in a frenzy like that while pulling the trigger toward Sam——was Rod. He kept leaning on the wall while still sitting down, perhaps he had no strength to stand up anymore, yet he was still pulling the trigger of the gun that he likely borrowed from a dead agent.

It seemed that Sam whose attention was taken by Emily and the others got taken unaware by this surprise attack. The moment he was about to turn toward Rod, one of the fired bullets pierced the side of his head, and he fell down. His body was smoking white while rapidly withering.

Hendricks and the others had no word toward the figure of their important companion that was so miserable it was painful to look at, and then, Rod who was the one that did that was crying while muttering□Damn it……□one more time.

□Rod-oniichan!□

□-, Rod!□

Emily rushed ahead. She dashed toward Rod who was dropping the handgun powerlessly. Hendricks and the others were also sprinting to Rod’s side in a panic.

Midway, Hendricks took a look at the condition of the fallen Dennis but……there was a single shot in his temple. He had already expired. And then, looking at Dennis’s figure that was smoking even though it was only a little, Hendricks guessed how Dennis was already infected.

「……Den, nis, he did it, by himself. He got splashed, by Sam's blood……, midway here, he picked……the gun…… that was why, he said, he didn't want to become a monster……and he」

The gasping Rod was sending his gaze at Dennis with a hollow look. It seemed that it was Dennis who dealt with himself. Dennis and Rod always quarreled when they met each other, they weren't compatible with each other at all, but even so, they were "buddies". Surely the feeling inside Rod's chest was something that couldn't be expressed by words at all.

「You idiot Dennis. ……When I go to the other side……I'll yell at……you again. ……I'm going, to beat you……up」

「Enough already-, don't talk, Rod!」

「Rod-oniichan! Don't, please don't! You must not die!」

「Stupid Rod! Get a hold of yourself!」

Emily and the others clung to Rod. 'Gofuh' Rod vomited out blood while making a wry smile. The shadow of death was emerging on his face. Looking at his caved-in chest and his stomach that looked discolored, it was clear that his internal organs had received fatal damage.

No matter how they looked at it, Rod was already beyond help.

Surely even Rod himself understood that. His gaze was calm in acceptance while his trembling hand patted Emily's head.

「……Sorry, yeah, Emily. This is, our fault…..because, we did……something, unnecessary……but, we wanted to do something……really, sorry」

「No-. This isn’t Rod-oniichan’s fault! I, I-」

Rod’s hand fell down limply.

――Youu, live on

Those were Rod’s last words.

Emily and the others were dumbfounded. Their companions who were like family, who were laughing with each other only just now, were gone already. That fact, that reality, they couldn’t accept it.

But, reality wouldn’t give any consideration to their feelings.

The berserker that crawled up from the elevator showed up. Its bloodshot eye glint captured Emily and the others as its prey without any room for hesitation.

Hendricks stood up. And then, he slowly pulled out the handgun that Dennis’s hand was still holding, and he ascertained its magazine. Hendricks sent only his words to Emily and the others without looking back.

「I’ll lure that guy away somehow. During that time, you guys escape.」

Emily and Lizzie reflexively were going to shout just what was he talking about, but Hendricks didn’t allow any objection.

「Go-. I’ll meet up with you guys again for sure!」

Saying that Hendricks charged at the berserker alone. Emily yelled「Senpai-」and she was going to rush out, but Professor Down pinioned her from behind. Emily struggled, but when she was yelled at with「Don’t waste Hendricks’s feelings here!」, strength left her.

「……We are going!」

「Wha-, Lizzie-nee!?」

At the corridor ahead, Hendricks was shooting while he passed through the berserker’s side with a slide. And then he fired again to attract the berserker’s attention. The berserker turned on its heel and determined Hendricks as its target. During that time, with the monster between them, Hendricks and Lizzie’s gaze crossed each other.

That was enough.

Lizzie grasped Emily’s hand, and she turned around. Emily made an expression that was unable to believe the actions of Lizzie who should be harboring feelings for Hendricks, but she shut up when she saw the blood flowing from Lizzie’s lips and her bitten lips.

Emily and the others ran off with the figure of Hendricks running to the other side of the corridor behind them.

「Let’s use the emergency staircase. The first floor is dangerous, so let’s use the plumbing pipe from the second floor to go down.」

Lizzie wordlessly nodded at Professor Down’s words, and she pulled Emily’s hand.

They opened the door to the emergency staircase and ran down toward the second floor. But, right now the research building was a berserker nest. Their developed sense of hearing could sense the prey’s existence even across walls.

「GAAAAAAAAH!!」

「KYAAAH」

「UWAH」

The door of the emergency stair was blown away together with a roar. The steel door that was flown together with its clasp became a brutal weapon, and in a stroke of bad luck, it separated them from each other. Professor Down fell on his butt on the stairs that connected the upper floor, while Lizzie and Emily fell on the staircase landing because they embraced each other.

The eye glint of the berserker caught Professor Down.

「Do, don’t come-」

Professor Down stood up with a yell and escaped by climbing up the stairs. Lizzie and Emily also stood up desperately, but because the steel door stood in their way and they couldn’t pass through, they had no other choice but to run down the stairs.

The berserker seemed to choose the group with more prey. He sent a crushing blow in the direction of Lizzie and Emily.

「Emily-. Don’t stop no matter what!」

「Lizzie-nee-」

The two somehow escaped from the range the fist could reach and immediately stood up again even though they were entangled with each other due to the impact. However, the berserker immediately caught up to them. It really looked unlikely that they would be able to escape to the second floor.

Lizzie instantly made an expression that was filled with resolve. Emily who noticed that was caught by a bad premonition. Lizzie pulled at Emily’s hand and wasted no time to open the door right below them and ran through it. The berserker destroyed the steel door again and entered the floor to chase after Emily and Lizzie.

Lizzie who was pulling Emily’s hand continued to run without hesitation as though she had a destination in mind.

「Lizzie-nee!」

「It will be fine! I swear I’ll protect you!」

Lizzie turned the corner several times to shake off the footsteps resounding behind them before she came to a stop in front of a certain door. And then, she desperately suppressed her fingers that were trembling from tension and fear while she entered the password into the electronic lock that was installed beside the door.

The door opened accompanied by small mechanical sound. Lizzie pushed in Emily inside. Emily who had no doubt that they would be hiding together inside turned pale seeing Lizzie didn’t enter. She guessed what Lizzie’s intention was.

Toward such Emily, Lizzie showed her a gentle smile even with a stiff face while opening her mouth in persuasion.

「Emily, hide here. You absolutely must not go out.」

「Wa, wait, Lizzie-nee-. We can――」

「The door here is sturdier than any other room, that’s why it won’t be broken down that easily. The security bureau people should arrive soon, that’s why you need to do your best to endure until that time.」

□If that’s the case then Lizzie-nee too, quickly get in!□

□I’m sorry, that guy has to be lured away. There are no more places to escape to inside here, so in the worst case scenario that that guy notices then that will be the end. That’s why, okay?□

□Who cares about that! It doesn’t matter, just come in quickly!□

Emily desperately pulled at Lizzie’s hand, but Lizzie smiled sweetly and pushed her down on her butt.

□It’s okay. I’ll find that idiot Rick and teacher, and we will return here together. So believe in your big sis.□

□Lizzie-nee-□

Emily reached out her hand. But the steel door obstructed that. Emily’s small fist desperately punched on the steel door, but of course, it didn’t even twitch. Yet even while losing composure, Emily recalled in a flash that the door could be opened from inside too, and her hand reached out to the door button but,

□Emily-!□

□-□

Lizzie’s angry voice resounded from behind her. Emily’s body spontaneously stiffened. This time a gentle voice reached her.

□No matter what happens, never give up. If it’s Emily, then it absolutely will be fine, I, we all believe that.□

□Lizzie-nee……□

Those words of her big sister that came from across the steel door made Emily’s hand that was reaching to the button to fall powerlessly. Hot tears were falling along her cheeks without end.

“I love you, Emily. Don’t forget that. No matter what happens, you are the little sister that we are proud of.”

“Lizzie-nee-”

A roar reverberated. Lizzie’s presence was getting farther away. A beat later, heavy footsteps were passing through in front of the door.

Emily backed off unsteadily before she powerlessly sank down on the floor helplessly. And then, she hugged her knees and buried her face in it, both her hands held her head, and she turned small.

Emily waited, obeying the command of her beloved big sister.

However, what returned was only the completely transformed Hendricks.

Emily’s important people, in the end, not a single one of them came back.

Part 3

(This is baadd……. Heavy. This is just awfully heavy. Honestly, that’s too heavy that I want to run away right now……)

After she finished recalling the past, Emily hugged her knees once more, buried her face, and turned small. Kousuke was sighing inside his heart while looking at Emily. Honestly speaking, he couldn’t help but feel sympathy for Emily’s circumstance. Emily had even forgotten that she wasn’t wearing anything down there that it felt like her secret place down there could be visible with her current sitting position, but right now Kousuke was in the middle of much regret after hearing the story that he didn’t even have the composure to be aware of such thing.

“When we arrived, there was almost no survivors anywhere inside the research building. We met up with Kimberly who ran out of bullets and went into hiding; then after we shared information, we split up to search for Doctor Grant, I managed to secure her but……”

“That handsome bastard betrayed you then.”

“Yes. It was when we met up with our comrades and gathered on the first floor to escape. We were surrounded by berserkers and put up a fight, and when we somehow managed to secure an escape route, we were gunned down by Kimberly and an armed group from somewhere that had replaced the bodyguard agents.”

Because of the attack at that time, the agents who came for the pick-up were annihilated. Vanessa was able to survive even while getting wounded on her side because she was immediately covered by Hughes. But in exchange, he was also lethally wounded. Even so, he fought hard in order to let Vanessa and Emily escape.

As a result, due to Hughes's last stand, Vanessa and Emily managed to escape.

There, Kousuke spoke his doubt.

「Hm? After that, you didn't contact the security bureau right away?」

Kousuke witnessed the car chase this afternoon. From the story that he heard, the incident occurred at midnight. That meant that Vanessa and Emily were fighting alone for more than half a day.

「My smartphone that can connect with the private line was broken when we were ambushed……. Doctor Grant's phone also seemed to break somewhere in the middle of our escape.」

「You can just use a public phone, right?」

「That's true. I also tried to do that. However, that……it's embarrassing but, after I performed first aid on my wound, I fainted.」

It appeared that Vanessa ran out of strength because she even performed the bullet extraction inside the car. After that Emily nursed Vanessa for the whole night.

And then, the next morning, Vanessa who woke up from her fainting finally made contact with the headquarters, but right after, perhaps they were detected or something, they were assaulted by Kimberly and his group then.

After that, they were chased around relentlessly without any time to meet up with the people from headquarters. Also, the meeting site that was decided beforehand was also known by Kimberly so it couldn’t be used, and that was why they were doing nothing but running away.

「I see. ……Then, what are you going to do from here? The security bureau seems to be suspicious too, right?」

「That’s right. However, it’s also the fact that we won’t be able to do anything by ourselves. It’s only in a movie when an individual can oppose an organization as their opponent. ……We have to determine, the true intention of the chief.」

In this situation, even though the security bureau seemed suspicious, it was unthinkable that the whole place was pitch black. If it was just as Kimberly insinuated, that the security bureau was pulling the strings of the attack, then Chief Magdanese was exceedingly close with “black”. In that case, then Vanessa would ask for help from bureau members listed up inside her head that seem to be trustworthy, and also from other places like the intelligence department and so on.

But if it was the opposite, that Chief Magdanese was “white”, they would be able to get a rescue from the most direct place.

In any case, in order to investigate the organization behind Kimberly and further, to oppose them, Vanessa would need to obtain the power of an organization too. Because of that, no matter what, it was essential to clearly determine the position of Chief Magdanese, whether she was white or black.

「First, it’s important to classify which is the enemy and which is an ally. I plan to move with that direction, so during that time, I want Mr. K to protect Doctor Grant.」

Kousuke scratched his cheek with a troubled look after listening to Vanessa’s plan. And then, he was about to open his mouth to say something. However, his voice that was going to sing an objection was interrupted.

「I’m not looking for protection or anything.」

「Doctor Grant?」

Vanessa turned her gaze in surprise. There, Emily, who had turned small, was slowly lifting up her face and looked back. The dark flame dwelling inside those eyes, which contradicted her frail atmosphere before this, caused Vanessa to gulp unconsciously.

「That drug,『Berserk』, it’s something that mustn’t exist in this world. It has to be erased from this world, all of it without leaving anything behind. I who created it, have to erase it no matter what.」

「That’s……」

「I absolutely don’t want to be just protected, only waiting for the situation to end without understanding anything. That’s why, Vanessa. Please, bring me along. I want to ascertain with my own eyes, who was the one that spread around『Berserk』, and, what will happen from now on.」

「……My apologies but, Doctor Grant. You are――」

「A burden? I don’t think so. 『Berserk』is a defective merchandise that was created by chance. Whether it’s to improve it or to make its antidote, those are out of the question without me. In other words, I am the best shield you can ask for.

Vanessa was greatly troubled by Emily’s point. Indeed, for the people who were seeking Emily’s knowledge and ability, Emily’s life was something they had to absolutely protect. To put it another way, if she turned Emily into a shield, then they wouldn’t be able to pull the trigger.

If Vanessa said that she would search for information against an organization in this isolated situation, then indeed it could be said to be a useful card. However, even though she was fighting to protect Emily by nature, if she made her into something like a shield than that would mean putting the cart before the horse.

Besides, there was nothing absolute in a battlefield, on top of that, an “accident” could possibly happen. And even if those didn’t happen, the enemy had no reason not to make the decision “it’s fine if she is at least alive”.

For Vanessa, taking Emily together with her from here on was something that couldn’t be permitted. However, even with all those reasons, why she was unable to simply reject and leave her was surely because of Emily’s eyes. If she forced her to stay behind, then she would run off by herself. That risk was something possible with the current Emily.

How should she persuade her……Vanessa was at a loss, but before Vanessa could say something, the one who spoke to Emily who said rash things, was Kousuke who was being reserved.

Look here……as I thought, something like this, I think it’s better if we leave it to the pro, you know? Emily is a researcher, right? A researcher has their own battlefield that can only be fought by a researcher, isn’t it? If Vanessa-san finds an ally and they prepare a place for you to research 「Berserk」, then Emily’s battle would be from there on, isn’t that right?」

For Kousuke, it would be the best for him if Vanessa could quickly find an ally organization that could give heavy protection to Emily. Because at that point in time, Kousuke would become unnecessary and he could leave. Thinking so, Kousuke tried to back up Vanessa, but

「No.」

His opinion was rejected with one word. Emily didn’t even meet his gaze.

「Saying no like that, are you a child throwing a tantrum, huh? You understand, right? You said you are going to become a shield or whatever, but you are virtually still a burden. There is no way Vanessa-san will be able to use Emily as a shield. That’s why here you shou――」

「If I said no then no-!」

Hearing Kousuke’s words, this time Emily’s almond-shaped eyes glared fiercely while saying a rejection that sounded completely childish. As expected, Kousuke was irritated hearing Emily’s words that weren’t even an objection but simply selfishness.

「Seriously, this isn’t the time to throw a tantrum. How about you understand your own position a bit more? You are genius, right? Then at least understand that much.」

「……」

Kousuke’s obviously pathetic atmosphere until now faded, and in its place, he replied with an expression and tone that were visibly irritated. Emily trembled in shock from that. However, the flame dwelling in her eyes didn’t die down for even a bit. She couldn’t say any rebuttal and tears were oozing out slightly from her eyes, but even so, she still radiated a rebellion to Kousuke.

Kousuke continued his words while holding down his irritated feelings toward the unreasonable Emily.

「Look here……if you keep being obstinate, and Vanessa-san get hurt again because of that――」

「What’s wrong with being obstinate, huh!」

Emily interrupted Kousuke’s words and exploded.「OoU」 Kousuke raised a strange voice in shock. Emily approached Kousuke who was like that and gripped his collar.

「I know already! It’s better for Vanessa-san to move by herself! That I won’t be useful if I’m with her! I know that! But, I still cannot help it! Because, because-」

「Ca, calm do――」

Kousuke caught Emily’s shoulders to try to calm her down, but right after that, he tasted an impact that shot through his heart from the words that Emily yelled next.

「Everyone, they died!」

「-」

Emily who was shedding tears with her emotion exploding kept yelling without noticing Kousuke’s condition.

「Everyone, everyone died there! In order to let me get away! In order to let me stay alive! Everyone died! They died there……

——I told you they died! Captain Meld and Alan-san and the others, all of them! All the knights that entered the labyrinth died! In order to let me get away! Because of my fault! They died! They all died there!

The wailing that he once raised was resurrected in his head.

I was entrusted. Everyone, they entrusted me with their hope. I, I cannot stop. Or else, or else everyone……

He was entrusted. At that time, Kousuke was entrusted with his comrade's hope. The knights, they entrusted their hope to Kousuke. They kept him alive and let him escape, just him——

As a result, he could save his friends but, Emily……

Kousuke stared at Emily. She was hanging her head down, clinging onto Kousuke while sobbing. At the side, Vanessa's hand reached out to stop Emily, but when she saw Kousuke's face, her breath got caught unconsciously. Vanessa didn't understand how to describe it; it was a mysteriously transparent expression.

Kousuke gently caressed Emily's head. And then, to the surprised Emily, he spoke with a voice that was calm, and yet it mysteriously penetrated deep in her heart.

I'll become your strength.

……Eh?

Emily slowly lifted up her disheveled face. Kousuke scooped the tear trickling down her cheek with his finger, and then he smiled with a troubled look.

「I’ll become your strength. I’m not Mr. K though. But, surely, it will turn out well.」

「Mis, ter K――」

「It’s Kousuke. Emily. I’m Kousuke.」

The tear on her cheek was gently wiped. It was like, the warmth of her brothers and sisters.

Emily was half in a daze while she repeated Kousuke’s name 「Kou, suke?」just like how she heard it.

Even Vanessa at the side was wide-eyed. Kousuke showed a grin that was full of confidence and declared.

「It will be okay, Emily. After all I’m――」

――The right-hand man of the demon king-sama, yeah?

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 206

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Just a Second-Hand Telling From a Friend

Part 1

The time was early in the morning where the sun still hadn’t ascent to the peak. The cool and clear air felt pleasant on the skin, and the eastern sky that was starting to grow light was gentle to the eyes. The sound of human activity began to be audible from the townscape of old alleys that were made from brickwork here and there.

Although, as expected, there was almost nobody walking outside. The only living thing outside was only a dog with its head plunging into a fast-food bag thrown near the garbage bin that looked like an old drum can.

That dog suddenly lifted its head with a snap. The paper bag attached to its snout looked like a mask that covered its head. The dog hurriedly shook its head left and right to shake off the paper bag.

Right after that, the thing that made the dog react——a single car stopped right beside the dog with intense breaking. It made a kikit- sound from its break which caused the dog to twitch and run away at full speed.

「Doctor Grant, Mr. K. This way.」

The one who got down from the driving seat was Vanessa. Her movement had a sharpness in it that was unthinkable coming from a person who had a gunshot in her side even if it had been given first-aid already. Actually, medicine from another world was smeared on her gauze which displayed quite the restorative strength……but the person herself didn’t know that. She was only thinking that『Oh my, me. I am more sturdy than I thought……』, like so.

『……Heey, is that stubbornness or something? Or else is that harassment to me? How many times do I need to tell you that I’m not Mr. K until you get it?』

Kousuke was piercing Vanessa with an extraordinarily reproachful gaze while getting down from the backseat. Mysteriously, no matter how much he appealed that ‘I’m not that up-and-coming assassin-san you know!’, Vanessa still addressed Kousuke as Mr. K.

In her own way, Vanessa also thought『By any chance, is this seriously the wrong person?』just a smidgen but……last night, from Kousuke’s behavior, that said『I’ll become your strength』, she then changed her mind that ‘just as I thought he is really Mr. K.’ Surely he simply hated that nickname Mr. K, but there was no doubt that he was a virtuoso hitman, she thought.

And so, she unconsciously called him Mr. K. But unexpectedly, words that backed-up Kousuke against Vanessa who was like that were spoken out.

『That’s right, Vanessa. After all, Mr. K has finally taught us his name. Let’s properly call him, Ko, Ko Ko, Kousuke okay.』

Emily, who was also in the back seat with Kousuke, got down, but for some reason, she looked shy. She advised Vanessa to call Kousuke with his name while stuttering. Emily also had the same thinking as Vanessa, that Kousuke wasn’t an average civilian. She thought that Kousuke had taught them his name that was concealed by the initial. That was why she thought that they should call him by his name after he had finally told them.

Emily had strangely taken a distance from Kousuke since last night. Kousuke himself was thinking「……Now I’ve really done it. Just what is the right-hand man of the demon king? She must be creeped out. That was just nonsense there. The Lord inside of me, it peeked out its damned face randomly like that……」, he believed that Emily was surely thinking him creepy and put some distance between them, so he was a bit shocked with this cover fire of Emily’s, and he smiled widely in joy.

Seeing that, Emily behaved in a strange way. Her gaze was intensely wandering to empty air. And then, perhaps something in her heart had reached its limit, her cheeks reddened, and her almond-shaped eyes glared fiercely while she threatened「Don’t look here!」. Her hairs stood on end fusha— as though she was the great haughty cat itself. Her trademark side ponytail turned unruly.

Kousuke felt down. On top of having a younger girl putting distance between their heart (Kousuke was thinking so), he was also told「Wait, can the chuuni bastard not look at me like that? It’s seriously gross!」(That was how Kousuke heard it). The mini Kousuke inside his heart was already going ‘orz’. (TN: orz = Watch the shape, it’s like someone on all fours.)

「Excuse me, our situation is comparatively urgent here, so if you two can put off your youth’s springtime for later……」

「The, there is no youth’s springtime here! What are you saying!」

Vanessa was sending a lukewarm gaze at Emily even while she scratched on her cheek looking troubled. The redness of Emily’s face turned a deeper red. Her fusha— ratio also rose up. She might let fly her cat punch before long like this.

As though to say that she couldn’t associate more than this with the other two, Emily flapped her white lab coat that she still didn’t take off even now and entered the alley with loud and fast steps.

「Doctor Grant.」

「What now!」

「It’s not that way, but the next alley.」

「……」

Emily came to an abrupt stop. And then she backed up without turning around before starting to walk with loud stomps to the left while she went red up to her ears.

「Doctor Grant!」

「What now!」

「Not the left one, it’s the right alley.」

「……」

A high-speed turn. Her lab coat stylishly flapped! However, the shame of the person was already at max.

Vanessa and Kousuke looked at each other’s face and smiled wryly at each other before following behind Emily.

By the way, this was one of Vanessa’s personal hideouts, so Emily wasn’t familiar with the area. And so, Emily who was leading in the front set off into an unknown place three times after that.

In the end, when she finally noticed that she could just follow behind Vanessa, Emily had become a white ghost with her lab coat covering her whole body from the head. ……It appeared that the lab coat had this kind of use too.

Part 2

The wooden door opened slowly while making a small sound kii. Vanessa’s face peeked inside fully on guard. There was no sign of anyone inside the room.

Kousuke and Emily also entered the room after Vanessa urged them. Inside the room, there were signs of someone living there quite often for a hideout. There was a table and a leather sofa that looked like they were often used, and magazines were scattered randomly on the table.

「It seems my friend is away. Well, she is often going outside, so perhaps this is natural.」

Vanessa who had just taken a quick look at the other rooms and bathroom returned to the living room while saying that. It appeared that this hideout hadn’t been discovered by the enemy.

「This is the room of Vanessa’s friend? Isn’t this a personal hideout that you created by tacit misunderstanding from the security bureau?」

Emily tilted her head while recalling the explanation that she was given before this. Vanessa had lost her weapon. She was unarmed. After this, she would need to do various things like contacting headquarters and probe about the true intentions of Chief Magdanese, but regardless of what she would do, first things first, she needed to procure a weapon.

For that, they made their way to a hideout that Vanessa didn’t report about to even the bureau which she prepared based on the tacit understanding among the security bureau’s staff.

「I am sharing this with my friend. She is a freelancer cameraman that is bustling about everywhere around the clock. We are sharing the duty for maintaining the room, so it works out just right that both of us are similarly out often.」

「H~m」

While Emily nodded in understanding, Kousuke took a magazine off the table with his expression strangely convulsing.

「……I see. So the source of the prejudiced knowledge of Vanessa-san about Japan is that friend is it.」

The magazine in Kousuke’s hand who was whispering something like that, if it was a magazine that young woman read, then normally it would be something like a fashion magazine. However, this magazine had this name written along with a picture of a girl that had colorful hair.

――Anim○e (TN: Animage)

When his gaze dropped further, every single one of the scattered magazines were things that were fully loaded with information of Japanese anime and manga he was familiar with. Inside the room, there were several large bookshelves that were decorated with pretty cloth covers, but Kousuke obeyed his hunch and checked one of them.

As he expected, the content was packed full with Japanese comics, light novels, and anime DVDs.

「What do you think, Mr. K. My friend’s collection is quite something, right? By the way, the three bookshelves over there are my collection.」

「What are you hiding in your hideout……」

Emily passed with a small run in front of the exasperated Kousuke and brushed open the cover of Vanessa’s collection shelves. And then while saying「Hee, so this is Japan’s subculture……」, she took a Japanese manga into her hand with deep interest. It seemed this was her first time seeing something like that.

However, it was an excessively thin book.

「Hinyaah. What’s this!?」

Emily screamed, her face was bright red, and she held the book away as far as possible from her face. The book’s front cover, it should be said that it was immodest, or that it actually easily surpassed such an expression, anyway the picture’s skin exposure rate was too high, and on top of that, there was the illustration of a girl making an outrageous posture drawn on it.

「Aa, Doctor Grant. Please don’t handle it so roughly like that. That’s a treasure you know.」

「Wh, who cares about that-, pervert Vanessa!」

「Why do you even have doujin huh…..」

Emily swung around the thin book with her hand stretched out with all her might while moaning「Uu—」, doing her best so that it wouldn’t enter her sight, but she didn’t show any sign of letting it go. It was unclear whether she was simply handling it more or less carefully because it was Vanessa’s collection, or perhaps there was some reason that made it hard for her to let go of it……

From how she was sending glances at the front cover, surely it was because of the latter. When she noticed Kousuke's awkward gaze, Emily made the excuse「Tha, that's not it! I, I'm not someone like that!」while returning the book in a panic to the bookshelves.

「Doctor Grant. If you have an interest to it, then after we take care of this case, I will lend it to you, so please be patient for now.」

「I'm not impatient or anything! I'm not a pervert! It's true, okay? Kousuke, I'm really, really not like that, okay?」

「Aa, yep.」

Kousuke who didn't know how to react when a younger girl was pleading to him「I'm not a pervert! Believe it!」could only nodded vaguely.

Vanessa sent a glance at Emily who was desperately making an excuse for some reason before she suddenly approached one of the bookshelves. And then, she sent brief glances at Kousuke. She looked like a child that was going to show the toy she took pride in to her parents while saying「Look! Look!」.

Kousuke tilted his head while turning his gaze in that direction. After confirming that, Vanessa pulled out one book from inside the bookshelves, a book titled「Chupacabra Encyclopedia」.

Right after that, the bookshelves started sliding. It made a half-rotation, showed its backside and returned to its original position.

「Se, secret bookshelves?」

Emily also turned her gaze to the bookshelves when she heard Kousuke's whisper. And then, her jaw fell down. There, many firearms were lined up orderly.

「Fufu, surprised, aren't you? But, still not yet. It's still not over with just this.」

The very short haired beauty wearing a black suit was making a triumphant look. While Emily and Kousuke felt some complicated irritation to that face, Vanessa walked toward a bed that was inside a room, and this time she twisted the lampshade of the lamp beside it.

Right after that, the back of the bed sprang up and exposed the firearms stored behind it.

「What do you think? All these hidden armories were made DIY(Do-It-Yourselfer). I spent most of my holidays on this. I threw away all of the summer and winter bonus pay to prepare this prided arrangement of mine. Don't you two feel something seeing this?」

「Holy cow……. Vanessa-san, you, are really something.」

It was settled with this. Inside Vanessa-san's heart, there was a burning soul similar to Kousuke! The "Lord" inside Kousuke suddenly made a nihilistic smile. It came out a bit to the surface at Kousuke's act and speech, which Vanessa nodded at, her face looked like she understood what he felt for some reason. Emily was getting creeped out at the two of them!

Vanessa quickly chose her equipment and stuffed them into her holster and rucksack when she suddenly noticed something.

「……Come to think of it, Mr. K. Are you okay with your gun? Like your bullets or the spare gun……」

That question came because thinking back really carefully, until now, Kousuke didn't show any kind of firearm even once. Far from that, Vanessa who was able to decide whether someone was bringing a weapon or not just from looking at the clothes' surface couldn't sense any presence of arms from Kousuke at all no matter how hard she observed. She thought that he was hiding his weapon really skillfully but……

「? No, I didn't bring anything like a gun though.」

「……Mr. K. Didn't you say that you will become Dr. Grant's strength? It's necessary for us to grasp each other's equipment. It's troubling that you are hiding your capability.」

「No, no, I'm not hiding anything. I'm really not carrying anything like a gun here. Or rather, I told you already that I'm a student in Japan. Please listen to what people say seriously. I'm not an assassin, that's why I didn't bring any guns!」

Mr. K was an assassin that would corner all his targets into death with one shot to the head and one shot to the heart no matter who they were……. Vanessa was making a complicated expression, and not just her but Emily too.

Vanessa wordlessly approached Kousuke and began to pat all over his body. It seemed that she was performing a body check to confirm that he really wasn't carrying a gun. Kousuke felt flurried inside his heart with the body touch that came from a pretty onee-san. For some reason, Emily was hiding her eyes with both her hands saying「A, a, you even touch that kind of place!?」while in a clichéd act she was peeking from her finger gaps.

「……You are really not bringing anything.」

「That's why, I told you that already.」

Vanessa took a step back while looking somewhat astonished. She made a difficult expression for some reason then she shook her head.

「I understand. You must have some kind of circumstance. I won't pursue it any deeper.」

「Oi, you. What are you doing convincing yourself like that as though assuming that I'm usually carrying it? I'm telling you that I'm never carrying something like that.」

「However, thinking of from here on, you also cannot be unarmed like that. I don't know what you are usually using, but please carry mine if you don't mind something like this.」

「……Like that it suddenly appeared, this unnaturally natural disregard like I'm not here. I know it. That on Earth there is also an evil god like Ehito, and I caught his eyes when I was born.」

Kousuke made a dry smile at Vanessa who was giving him a recommendation 「Would you like a Glock? Or would you like a Beretta? Or else, would you like a Desert Eagle?」while he averted his gaze.

「No, I don't need a gun. It's meaningless even if I carry one. Firing them, well, I got to experience it before, but I couldn't hit anything at all with it. It's also dangerous. Seriously, that guy, just what kind of skill does he have.」

It went without saying just who “that guy” referred to. Kousuke recalled the time when he asked to be allowed to shoot a gun half playing around, and he shook his head from the bad memory. After all, at that time, he got his face struck by the gun due to recoil, then the bullet that should be flying forward miraculously ricocheted and pierced his own buttocks. The used cartridge that flew out in a piping hot state entered into his clothes, and then when he tried to fire again and pulled the trigger, the trigger couldn’t be pulled, but the moment he released his shooting stance to look for the cause, the gun discharged accidentally, and it almost blew away his son on his crotch……

If there was a god of guns, then there was no doubt that he hated Kousuke as though Kousuke had killed his parents. Even that demon king warned him，You, don’t carry a gun anymore. ……You are going to die, by self-explosion，with an expression that was a mix of fear and pity.

The confusion of Emily and Vanessa who didn’t know about that circumstance was increasingly getting deeper. An assassin that wasn’t carrying a gun and made a disgusted expression from the bottom of his heart when he saw a gun……. The words of Kousuke，I’m not Mr. K，raised its head high inside the two. However, at the same time, his confident words，I’ll become your strength，and his accomplishment of enabling them to escape before this forcefully pressed down that raising head with a single push.

Perhaps in the subconscious level they simply weren’t thinking that Kousuke wasn’t Mr. K. If Kousuke wasn’t Mr. K, then that meant that at that time, there didn’t appear anyone that could save Vanessa and Emily who were surrounded by Kimberly’s group, and that meant that they didn’t obtain the cooperation of the real Mr. K.

No matter how skilled Vanessa was, she was someone who was still in the realm of a newcomer. On top of that, she lost all her reliable allies because of another ally’s betrayal. And in this situation where the organization she should rely on itself was suspicious, she was also being chased by an organization of an unknown scale. If in this kind of time what she thought as a trump card was actually just a throwaway card, then there was no way she would want to recognize that even though she understood that being optimistic was taboo in this line of work.

Kousuke put aside the bewilderment of Vanessa and Emily who were like that and spoke indifferently.

「Well, it will be fine. No matter what happens, I’ll manage somehow. Rather than that, let’s get going if you are finished with the preparation. Emily’s house is really far from here, right?」

Emily and Vanessa looked at each other’s face after that urging from Kousuke to depart. Their bafflement still hadn’t disappeared, but seeing Kousuke who declared that he had no problem being unarmed even though he understood that their opponent was an armed group, they decided to postpone their question for the moment. Or rather, it could also be said that they had no choice other than betting that Kousuke was the real Mr. K.

They had talked with each other last night, and they concluded that first, they would head toward Emily’s parents first. Securing and sheltering Emily’s parents who were her weak point was an indispensable matter that had to be prioritized first.

However, Emily’s home was a long way from their current position. It would take more than half a day by car. They would have to evade places with a high possibility of being monitored like highways and so on. In that case, they would reach the destination around the evening if they took taking a rest into consideration even if they were taking their meal inside the car.

「……You're right. My equipment is in order. Let's depart.」

「Okay. ……But, before that, tell me. Vanessa, why are you bringing those comics along?」

Vanessa excitedly finished her preparation, and then she returned the lovely secret bookshelves and secret bed back to normal. While she was at it, she nonchalantly pulled out several volumes of comics from the bookshelves. One she put in her suit's inside pocket, and the others were stored in the rucksack. Seeing that, Emily asked with her eyes twitching.

Vanessa's expression went puzzled as though to say「Eh? You don't get it?」. Both Kousuke and Emily got plainly irritated.

「Even if you asked me why……. After this, we will challenge an extremely difficult situation. So to speak, it's like a soldier heading to the front line.」

「Well, perhaps it's something like that……」

「Isn't that right? Then, it's normal to bring along comics, right?」

「Why does it become like that!? I don't understand your thought process!」

Emily made a splendid retort at that incomprehensible logic. Seeing Emily like that, Vanessa made an expression that irritated Emily, as though she was a teacher facing a dim-witted student, and then she explained carefully and thoroughly.

「Listen, Doctor Grant. In a movie or film, have you seen a scene where a soldier heading to the battlefield inside a car or helicopter, they will take out a bible and pray?」

「Ri, right. I've seen something like that before. ……Wait a second, in other words, those comics……」

「Yes. They are my bible.」

「Apologize to god! Apologize to the believer of Christianity!」

Emily howled. Grant's family was also a believer more or less. And so, she couldn't help making a retort when someone talked as though the bible and a comic had the same status.

Vanessa snorted「Fuh」at that retort mixed with protest from Emily and ignored it.「Why did you snort just now!?」Emily's cat eyes glared fiercely once more while she raised her voice, but Vanessa who was in perfect form left the room without breaking her attitude that seemed to say「The doctor is also still young, huh」.

「……Shura no ○, Gra○ler Ba○, and then Na○to, to treat them as bible like that. In a sense, perhaps this is also Japan's karma.」(TN: Shura no Mon, Grappler Baki, Naruto)

Emily rushed after Vanessa with her side tail swinging wildly while saying「Hey wait-」. Kousuke was getting a bit of faraway look when he saw the title the comics that Vanessa brought before he followed behind them.

Part 3

The sun went down in the west. By the time the sky was starting to be colored vibrantly orange, the car Vanessa was driving was running through a road that was extending straightforward as though the car was gliding.

Inside the car, Emily and Kousuke satisfied their stomachs with burgers and fried potatoes that they had purchased from a certain famous restaurant that they visited midway.

「……Emily, what's the matter?」

Kousuke suddenly asked. Emily was eating her fried potato bit by bit like a hamster while her gaze was directed outside the window. She then turned her gaze at Kousuke.

「What do you mean?」

「No, it looks like you are getting a faraway look there. You are tired?」

「Aa~, no. I'm fine. It's just, I'm really familiar, with this area. Seeing this, it feels that I really have come home. But, even though I had a lot of stories to share when I went home before, but this time……something like that.」

It seemed that when she compared the current situation with the time when she went home previously, it caused a deep and heavy emotion to stir up her heart. Just like how the orange color of the setting sun aroused loneliness in people without reason, it seemed that Emily's heart was also aroused with an indescribable feeling by the scenery of her hometown and the orange color of the burning sky.

Kousuke who knew about the gruesome circumstances Emily went through in these few days, hesitated about what to say back. He thought that he should say something, but he could only let his gaze wander unable to find any good words. At this time, he became envious of a certain agitator who could spin words smoothly.

Emily made a faint smile at Kousuke who was in such a state. She then gulped up the drink in her hand in one go before she said one more time「I'm fine」.

Vanessa who was watching through the rearview mirror at the exchange between the two in the back seat, opened her mouth tactfully, as though to be the replacement of Kousuke.

「Excuse me, Doctor Grant……」

「Geez. Vanessa too, don't worry about me. I told you I'm fine.」

「No, I really cannot believe that. Doctor Grant. What is called limit, is something that will come faster than what we thought.」

Vanessa's unexpectedly serious expression could be seen through the rearview mirror. Emily's words unconsciously got caught in her throat. Kousuke was thinking「As expected from an agent of the security bureau. She also knows various things about how to care for a person who is dragged into a case」while sending her an admiring gaze――

「Is your urinary bladder, really okay?」

「What kind of thing you are worrying about there!?」

Of course, it was a worry about the dignity of the peeing girl Emily-chan.

「At the restaurant just now, and also at the gasoline station before that, I noticed that Doctor Grant didn’t go to the toilet. And yet, you were drinking two large size cokes and coffee. I’m extremely worried whether you will get more wounded like this.」

「Tha, tha tha tha, that’s-」

「However, I cannot believe that Doctor Grant who has already had a severe failure twice already will be so easy-going to take an optimistic action like this. Doctor Grant……」

「Wha, whattt」

Emily was already turning small into half her original size while her wariness and shame were on full display. Vanessa’s eyes shined glaringly through the rearview mirror at such Emily.

「By any chance, were you awakened?」

「Wha, what does that mean?」

The pure Emily-chan couldn’t grasp the meaning of that question. Of course, the young man beside her grasped the meaning. Vanessa asked with determination.

「To the pleasure of urination.」

「ARE YOU AN IDIOTTT————!! There is no way I’m awakened to something like that!! Do you want to make me into a pervert!?

World Unknown to Emily Part 2. There was no way anyone would feel good from wetting their pants in public! If there was anyone like that, then that person was a pervert without a doubt!

Of course, there was no way Emily had awakened to an overly special pleasure like that. And so, Emily turned to Kousuke with a fretful expression and pleaded That's wrong! That's completely wrong! I'm not that kind of pervert! Believe me, Kousuke-.

Ca, calm down. It, it's not like I'm thinking that you are a pervert or anything.

Really? Really, really? Kousuke is——

Emily was about to say something. However, carrying out a beautiful intercept at that timing was how Vanessa Paradis rolls.

So Doctor Grant isn't awakened to that……it's unfortunate for Mr. K, isn't it?

There ain't no way that's true! Don't make me into a pervert so naturally like that!

Ko, Ko Ko, Kousuke!? Yo, you are aiming for my "that"? You are happier if I'm a pervert!? That……that's troubling for me!

There is no way that's true! Why are you feeling a bit troubled like that!? What do you mean troubling!? You need to deny strongly there at all cost!

Chaos maker Vanessa. She displayed that ability of hers without sparing any effort, driving Kousuke and Emily into the crucible of bewilderment!

「Fumu. Great difficulty is waiting ahead for us. It’s better to be energetic like this. Both of you are full of fighting spirit there.」

「You, just shut up already!!」

「You, shut up already!!」

The retort of Kousuke and Emily burst out in harmony. Vanessa made an expression that seemed to say 「Incomprehensible」by herself.

Giving up on Vanessa who was scattering word bombs so naturally like that, Emily was making a justification desperately to Kousuke while Kousuke was desperately soothing Emily. During that time, the scenery of the surrounding was starting to change entirely.

They entered the town. There was some high construction, but most buildings were giving off a retro atmosphere.

「Vanessa. Follow this path to go across the town center and head to the north. A river will come into view after some time. There is also a restaurant that makes delicious pie nearby there. You will understand right away because they have a cute signboard.」

「Roger. This is the first time I’ve come here, but……this is quite the beautiful townscape.」

There was a chic building with brick color, and there was also a glass building. But, those two types of buildings didn’t mutually harm the scenery. It was as though the new thing and the old thing accepted each other, giving anyone who watched a gentle impression.

In this downtown, at the time where the sun was mostly sinking, the local people had calm expressions. They were strolling with a relaxed pace on the stone paving while holding a bag that was stuffed with food. The sight had a comfortable impression where they could slowly feel the flow of time.

And that impression became even more striking when they left the town center and entered the suburb. There was more greenery, houses of the same color and same style lined up in order, forming similar shapes of shadows. Somehow, it felt like even the light of sunset also became gentle.

Vanessa ran the car following Emily’s direction. In contrast with Emily, who was somewhat restless with this long time homecoming, Kousuke was tensing his body in moderation. Of course, he was considering the possibility of an ambush by another force waiting for them.

But, in contrast to his expectation, he couldn’t find anything like a black car or the like parking nearby. They could see children noisily playing with lots of energy, and the figures of fathers and mothers urging them to return home soon with wry smiles. There weren’t any signs of conflict; the area really looked peaceful.

Ah, over there. That house with the white van parked! The light is on. It looks like father and others are home.

Emily leaked out a relieved sigh. The white van was the car Emily’s father, Carl owned. It was a car that was bought as a replacement a few years ago so that the grandmother, Syla, who was using a wheelchair, could also ride in. They still hadn’t finished paying the loan for this car. There was also a light blue motor vehicle parked beside it. That was the car of the mother, Sophie.

Vanessa stopped the car in front of the house. Emily was going to rush out right away, but Vanessa halted her back. And then, Vanessa observed the surrounding's situation carefully from inside the car while sliding out her gun from her breast pocket.

「Let's be careful. I'll stress this to you, Doctor Grant, please don't separate from me no matter what.」

「Ye, yes. I understand.」

Vanessa's hand reached the engine key, and she glanced at Kousuke. Kousuke's usual light atmosphere disappeared, and he looked around with a serious gaze, but before long his expression turned perplexed.

「Mr. K. What's the matter? Do you see any sign of something wrong?」

「.....No, there is nothing wrong. There is none but..... that's exactly why it feels wrong.」

「? What do you mean by that?」

Kousuke didn't answer right away at Vanessa's question. He stared for a while at the direction of the house. Emily's expression was tinged with a shadow of anxiety seeing Kousuke who didn't seem normal. Endo shook his head, and then he spoke with reservation in consideration of Emily.

「.....Inside the house, there is no sign of people.」

「Eh?」

Emily tilted her head. Her parents’ cars were parked, the lighting inside the house was also turned on. Those were the proof that the family was home. Despite so, there wasn’t anyone inside. A bad premonition bloated up inside her heart.

On the other hand, Vanessa raised one of her eyebrows, and her expression turned dubious. The “sign” that Vanessa mentioned before was something like any traces of fighting, or if there was anyone peeking at them from the cover of a building somewhere, or parked cars that looked out of place with this neighborhood, she meant about “human traces” that was visible to the eye like that.

Just how did he know about the inside of the house that was out of sight…….

「Anyway, we cannot do anything from here. Let’s try to enter. Perhaps they are only going outside a bit in the neighborhood.」

「Ri, right. Surely, it’s like that.」

Kousuke noticed the anxious expression of Emily, and so he urged them to act quickly. And then, he hurriedly got out of the car to move in the lead. Vanessa buried her doubt inside her chest from that action of Kousuke.

They crossed the lawn that was well maintained, went up the slope that still looked like new from the renovation so that it could be passed through using a wheelchair, and they arrived in front of the entrance.

Emily sounded the chime. And then she called「Father! Mother! Grandma! This is Emily! You there?」. However, as though to prove the correctness of Kousuke’s words, there wasn’t any reply coming from inside the house.

Emily took out a key of the house from her pouch, thinking that the door was surely locked if there wasn’t anyone home. And then, she put in the key and was about to open the door……

「E, eh?」

The door wasn’t locked right from the start. Even though this was a quiet neighborhood, it was impossible for the whole family to be out leaving the house not locked. Emily’s cheeks spasmed.

「Father! Mother! This is me! You aren’t here!? Grandma! Where are you!?」

「Doctor Grant! Calm down!」

Emily opened the door loudly and stepped into the house without being unable to contain herself. Vanessa hurriedly stopped Emily who was like that.

However, Vanessa’s warning didn’t enter Emily’s ears. Her heart that was thinking of her family was in disarray from the abnormal condition of the house. She desperately supported her heart that felt like it would be crushed under unease and terror while running around the house. She did that while calling for her family. She wanted to say her usual “I’m home.” She wanted to hear “Welcome home.”

However, whether it was in the bright living room, in the kitchen where her mother was usually standing wearing her apron, in the bathroom, in the second floor’s bedroom, or even in Emily’s room, there wasn’t anyone at all.

「It, it must be a mistake. Everyone, they must be going out for a bit right now. Tha, that’s right. Surely, they are going to Mr. McBurney’s place, or at Aunt Hannah’s place.」

「Emily.」

「Wait, okay. I'll call them back right away. And then, I'll properly introduce Vanessa and Kousuke to them――」

「Emily Grant!」

「-」

Emily was about to go out of the house with a dry smile. But Kousuke called her name with a strong tone to stop her. Emily twitched and stood still before turning around with a stiff movement like a machine that hadn't been oiled.

Emily's eyes were catching sight of Kousuke picking up a tablet that was put on the living room's table. It was something that Emily overlooked before. But, that item was definitely not Grant family's property.

The reason was,

「It's addressed, to me……」

Yes, the name of Vanessa Paradis was displayed on the screen of the tablet that was left turned on. There was no way Emily's family who didn't know about Vanessa's existence could prepare something like that.

In other words, this home was visited just a few hours ago, by someone other than Grant family members, someone who knew about Vanessa……

Emily's face went white. Her body unconsciously staggered unsteadily. Kousuke swiftly supported her.

Urged by Kousuke's gaze, Vanessa touched the tablet.

Then, the table projected the image of a room somewhere. The room didn’t look particularly desolate; it was a normal room. There was a sofa with a cloth cover and a wooden table. There was no one there. It seemed that the tablet was just put in place to take video.

But, a beat later, the door in the corner of the camera opened. What entered from that door was a wheelchair, and an elderly woman sitting on it. And then, a man past his forties that looked somewhat weak-willed was pushing that wheelchair. A woman about the same age was holding the hand of that man while looking around restlessly.

-, grandma-, father-, mother-

Emily’s voice echoed like a shout.

The people in the video didn’t look like they would be harmed. However, from their expression and gesture, it seemed that were taken away without really knowing anything. However, even so, it still couldn’t make Emily who was watching the video to have a peace of mind. Emily looked at her kidnapped family and powerlessly fell down.

And then, the video cut off and the display became pure black. And yet when they thought that was it, slowly an image of a clock that displayed the time of a few hours from now appeared, next, a map from an aerial photograph was starting to get displayed. It was a show that was like the embodiment of the bad taste of the maker.

That place……looks like a warehouse district. They are screwing around.

Vanessa spat out those words. Beside her, Emily was turning small by hugging her knees and head. She was getting flashbacks of the chain of events that should be called as her trauma, where she lost her important people.

Perhaps, she would also lose her family……that terror pushed aside the mission she was entrusted with by her big brothers and sisters and pushed her off into an abyss of terror and despair. She wanted to cry while begging, that she would listen to whatever they say, so please don’t hurt my family.

A voice spoke to such Emily. That voice was soft yet harsh, warm yet sharp, that kind of voice.

「Emily, it will be fine. I don’t know who did this, but there is no sign of a struggle in your house, and there is no sign of violence on your family. Those guys want Emily’s cooperation, so even though they can use your family to threaten you, they cannot hurt them that easily. That’s because they understand, doing that will only push Emily past despair and into hostility.」

「Kousu, ke.」

Kousuke gently took the hand of Emily who was holding her head and softly pushed it down.

「Emily knows the pain of being kept alive and left to escape alone, and having something entrusted to you. If you stop here, then, surely the same thing will happen again.」

「No, I don’t want that! Something like that, again-」

Emily raised her voice with her expression distorted in tears. Kousuke nodded「Right?」, then this time he pulled up her hand and made her stand.

「——”If there is a time where you must muster your all for once in your life, then now is exactly that time. Right now, in this time, blaze your soul”」

「Eh?」

「That’s a second-hand telling from a friend. But, in the past, when I was going through a crushing defeat, I was able to stand up one more time from these words. I was able to risk my whole body and soul against bunches of monsters as my opponent. Thanks to that, I can be here right now.」

「Kousuke……」

Emily lost her words. That was just how “heavy” the words of Kousuke just now were. They reverberated at the deepest depth of her weak heart profoundly.

Kousuke’s sharp eye glint that looked like a veteran warrior pierced straight through Emily.

「For Emily Grant, surely right now is exactly the time to blaze your soul. Brace your legs, grit your teeth, and then yell until your lungs burst. “Who is going to do anything that you say! Don’t look down on me, you shitty bastard!” Like that.」

Those were passionate words like boiling magma. Kousuke’s gleaming eyes were still piercing through Emily.

Therefore, there was only one reply Emily could make.

「Yeah. Yeah!」

Her soul that almost sunk into the swamp of despair, now, it blazed up once more. Emily strongly clasped back the hand of Kousuke that was clasping her hand.

「Kousuke, will also lend me your strength, right?」

「Yeah. That was what I told you. I'll become your strength. Emily's family, let's save them for sure.」

Emily's eyes shined like a starry sky. The distance between the two was so close they could feel each other's breathing. It was as though that was the current distance between their hearts――

「……Should I read the mood and go outside? Or else, should I cut in saying "Don't forget me, pleazeee"? That is the question.」

Vanessa muttered.

It went without saying how Emily leapt back from Kousuke like a nimble cat. And then, it also went without saying how she turned small from shame when she recalled how she was super close with a boy just now.

Part 4

In a time when the curtain of night had fallen completely, the darkness of the night of a warehouse district on the outskirt of the town was cut apart by a car’s headlight. The car that was carefully advancing slowly and quietly soon entered a spot that was surrounded from four directions by tall buildings.

The headlights illuminated a black car ahead.

Vanessa, Emily, and then Kousuke got out from the car with the headlights still turned on. Vanessa walked to the front with Kousuke and Emily following behind. Emily was clutching the sleeve of Kousuke’s clothes tightly.

The black car at the opposite side turned on its headlights as though to oppose their side. A person got out from the black car in front of the vigilant Vanessa. The person’s figure wasn’t clear due to the headlights’ backlighting, but Vanessa could make it out vaguely.

And then she thought. 「Aa, so it’s like that just as expected」. At the same time, she also thought「It would still be better if it’s Kimberly」.

「Agent Paradis. You really have put us into much trouble. By all rights you should get a disciplinary discharge, you know?」

That figure walked with clopping footsteps and showed themselves. It was a reality that if possible Vanessa wanted to deny.

Chief of the national security bureau——Sharon Magdanese, it was this person who appeared.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too, desu.

Arifureta Chapter 207

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Are You Prepared?

"How do you do, Doctor Grant. I am Sharon Magdanese, the person who is entrusted with the chief position of the national security bureau. I will bring you into a safe, protected place. Now, this way."

Chief Magdanese prompted as though it was only natural that the situation went like that. In the middle of where the headlights of the two cars collided against each other in rivalry, the door of the black car for the backseat opened, from there the analyst Allen Parker and one other male agent climbed out.

Allen was spreading both his hands wide in an exaggerated posture, as though to say"Now, you were scared, right? Jump into my chest!". Although for some reason, the tip of his nose had a large gauze affixed there, he cut a really painful figure or a stupid one.

"What do you mean "protection"! How dare you brazenly say that after kidnapping my family-"

The gesture that was too impudent caused Emily's boiling point to be reached instantly. By all rights, she should behave modestly in consideration of her family's well-being, but right now, she could depend on a reliable boy regarding that. Emily was able to honestly raise her voice in anger that even surprised herself.

Chief Magdanese showed a really troubled bitter smile at Emily who was like that.

"Doctor Grant, it seems that you are under a really great misunderstanding. There is no way that we, the people of the security bureau, will do anything like a kidnapping. We are only safeguarding every one of the Grant family."

Chief Magdanese talked with a tone and attitude as though she was admonishing a child that was throwing a tantrum toward Emily who reflexively was going to object.

She meant to say, that they secured Grant family in order to protect them from the organization that annihilated Hughes and the other agents of the security bureau. The tablet that they left behind would only react to Vanessa's fingerprint, without her other people wouldn't be able to grasp the information in it. It was valid for them to be at the side of the Grant family to make contact with Vanessa and Emily who cut off contact with the bureau. In the first place, the bureau had approved the adoption of the protection program, so they had planned to move in order to take them into protection since the beginning.

"Bu, but……"

Emily was at a loss for words after receiving the logical explanation. Vanessa took a step forward in place of Emily.

"Chief, can I ask a question?"

"Refrain yourself Agent Paradis. Your skill in protecting Doctor Grant by yourself is worthy of evaluation, but you are acting too arbitrarily on your own. Even though there was the attack of Warren and others, you should be able to get in contact with us more frequently."

The knife-like words of Chief Magdanese cut off any argument with a single stroke. Her eye glint was also pressuring with several times the intensity compared to the usual. However, Vanessa, who normally would falter in a panic inside her heart against this, instead took a further step forward and displayed her will with action.

「……Do you understand, what are you doing right now?」

「Yes. I understand very well. Until my question is answered, I won't lower down this gun.」

Yes, Vanessa was aiming a gun at Chief Magdanese. Her gaze was sharp and showed that she wouldn't draw back even against Chief Magdanese. Her will of determination was emitted from her whole body. Allen whistled「Hyuu~」behind Chief Magdanese in admiration. The other agent also gulped down his saliva.

「This won't end with just disciplinary dismissal.」

「I'm resolved for that.」

Chief Magdanese stared fixedly at Vanessa for a while, and then she sighed a bit. It was unclear what kind of meaning that sigh had……. A complicated expression flashed briefly on Chief Magdanese's face while she urged Vanessa to continue with her gaze.

Vanessa opened her mouth with her gun still aimed vigilantly.

「Why are you, the chief herself, in this kind of place?」

「I lost five agents that I sent to execute the protection program, where one of them was that Hughes. And then, the culprit is also an agent from the security bureau……if this is leaked outside, surely the media will be jumping wildly in joy. Furthermore, seeing how this is related to the『Berserk』 case that greatly agitated the world then it will be all the truer. This case is already the biggest case even amongst the cases that the security bureau is currently facing.』

『Are you saying that it’s not strange for you yourself to come out?』

『Naturally. To say nothing of how we currently don’t know how many people there are inside the bureau that are like Warren, or more accurately, those under the patronage of the organization behind Warren. The optimal solution is for me to move.』

That explanation had consistency. There was a double agent coming out from the bureau, and on top of that, there wasn’t any time to clean up the organization right now. Under such situations, it could rather be said that it was a heroic decision for the top herself to take action accompanied by her few trusted subordinates.

Chief Magdanese sent Vanessa a cold gaze that said 『Finished already?』, however, Vanessa didn’t avert her gun even now.

『Then, one more question. What caused『Berserk』to be scattered in the research building was because of the dispute between Kimberly and someone to contest the possession of『Berserk』. According to what Kimberly said, that someone was a skilled person on a level that even he couldn’t match.』

『……And?』

『An organization that possesses an operator skilled enough to handle Kimberly whose combat ability is high even in the security bureau, it knows about the existence of『Berserk』, and the operator came to steal it at that timing. And then, naturally, that operator belongs to an organization that is different from Kimberly's. There is only one organization that I know of that fulfills all those conditions.』

『Are you insinuating that I ordered for『Berserk』's usurpation?』

『Am I wrong? Kimberly who attacked me hinted of that possibility.』

Chief Magdanese shrugged with an expression that seemed to say how worthless this talk was.

『Don't tell me that you are accepting the words of a betrayer seriously? If that's actually the case, then I can only doubt your qualification as an agent.』

『Putting aside my qualification, there is no doubt that you chief are under suspicion of ordering the attack. Please answer. Was it you chief, the one that gave the order to steal 『Berserk』?』

Vanessa's gaze pierced Chief Magdanese through her gun's aim. From the beginning, Vanessa didn't think that she would receive an honest answer. Therefore, with the determination to challenge her superior who should be regarded as a monster that had shouldered a bureau of Britain for many years until now, she concentrated to fathom the truth or lies.

But, as expected from the living legend who shouldered the national security, she wasn't someone common. Her face didn't change a single color even against Vanessa's sharp gaze and the fact that a gun muzzle was pointed at her. To the end she opened her mouth with naturalness, it even made anyone who heard her voice to feel her exasperation as though she was facing a problem child that wasn’t obedient.

「The answer, is No.」

「……Is that, the truth?」

「Proving something that I haven’t done is like proving that the devil exists. If you are telling me to show the proof, then you have no more qualifications to introduce yourself as the bureau agent. In the first place, why do you think that I have to order to steal『Berserk』?」

Certainly, for the security bureau that didn’t know how Emily and others planned to escape, it was a done deal that Emily and others would come to them. Even if the chief didn’t intentionally order the stealing, the security bureau should be able to obtain everything, whether it was 『Berserk』, the creator Emily, or the antidote that Emily would create.

Therefore, it could be said that Chief Magdanese had no need to secure『Berserk』at that kind of timing.

The sources of Vanessa’s doubt were all circumstantial evidence; her own instinct was also playing a large part in it. In the end, Vanessa, who was self-aware of that, could only attempt to thrust all those facts before the chief to try to shake her and then see through the chief with her own eyes.

Vanessa couldn’t say anything back. She focused her eyes to try to see through the truth, but Chief Magdanese wasn’t shaken even for a bit. Vanessa was starting to doubt her own instinct……could it be, that the first attack was really caused by a completely different organization?

「Are you finished with your question? Then, Vanessa Paradis, you will need to be restrained. Don’t tell me that you are thinking you will be able to continue in your post after pointing a gun like that at me?」

「That’s……」

Chief Magdanese raised one of her hands. The agent that was standing by beside the black car walked forward wordlessly. It appeared that he planned to restrain Vanessa.

Emily raised her voice seeing that.

「Wait! Vanessa did that only for my sake! Even until now, she has been protecting me all this time! That’s why――」

However, that pleading was silenced forcefully by Chief Magdanese’s eye glint.

「……Doctor Grant. I wish that you would stop with your childish selfishness too. Have you thought about how many sacrifices have appeared in this case that you are involved with?」

「-, that’s……」

「You are a prodigy, aren’t you? Well, perhaps that is only limited to a specific field but……I wish you can have the discernment to know right from wrong when it’s actually necessary. I have the authority to have you restrained as the person who created『Berserk』and make you create the antidote. After all, this is a situation that threatens the security of the country. But, in that case, the protection of your family won’t be included in it, you know?」

「Such a thing-. Didn’t you say, that you are giving safeguarding them properly――」

“Yes, that’s because of our goodwill.”

In other words, she meant that if Emily planned to complicate this case, then the security bureau wouldn’t safeguard the Grant family. And then, Chief Magdanese would restrain Emily with the authority possessed by the national security bureau and force her to research the antidote. Most likely, even if Emily took this matter to court, it wouldn’t go through. After all, this was a case that threatened the national security just like Chief Magdanese said. And Emily wasn’t a third party in this; she was literally the origin of the case.

Vanessa lowered her gun. Her instinct was still ringing the alarm bell loudly in doubt of the security bureau. However, there wasn’t any hole in Chief Magdanese’s logic. She also couldn’t detect any sign of lying. And then, even Emily was also feeling that she was only being outrageously selfish after hearing Chief Magdanese’s words, her shoulders dropped. Her anger deflated when she was told that her family wasn’t kidnapped or anything.

Chief Magdanese sighed as though to say how troublesome all of this was, and she was about to turn around. In her place, the agent walked forward to restrain Vanessa and take Emily into custody.

Then, a voice suddenly came into hearing.

“Don’t you think it’s better for you if you read up what the meaning of the words goodwill is in the dictionary?”

It was an aloof voice that didn’t match the place. Even though the voice wasn’t raised too loudly, it resounded with extreme clarity.

Every single people in that place were taken aback without exception. Vanessa and Emily, who was emotionally standing beside her, quickly turned around so fast that their momentum could make a whoosh sound.

「……That reaction. That hurts you know. Why are you all looking like『WHO-!?』like that? Even Emily, even though you were holding on to my sleeve until just now.」

Kousuke twisted his lips into the shape of '「' in dissatisfaction. Vanessa and Emily averted their gaze awkwardly. There was no way they could say that they had completely taken off their mind from Kousuke who was right behind them and they were plainly shocked just now. Kousuke had already completely seen through that already from their reaction.

「……Who are you? It seems that you were hiding inside the car?」

『No, no, I got out of the car together with Emily there! When you were questioned by Vanessa-san, I was also standing normally behind her!』

「……」

Chief Magdanese's dubious expression! Kousuke was wounded further! But, he was used to it, so he was fine!

『Answer the question.』

For now, Chief Magdanese ignored Kousuke's retort and repeated her question. Kousuke simply ignored her order and replied back with a really "nice smile (complete with a vein on the forehead)".

「It doesn’t matter who I am right? Rather than that, stop lining up pretentious statements and bring Emily’s family here right away. No matter what you are going to talk about, everything will only start after you do that, right?」

「A foreigner boy like you, do you know who you are talking――」

A cold air that was incomparable with before struck out from Chief Magdanese. But, even when Vanessa was reflexively sweating coldly from that, Kousuke only deflected it away in stride. So what if she was an authoritative figure of a country. Compared to the god’s apostles that were smeared with inhuman killing intent, or the pressure of the demon king that was lacking even a speck of mercy, this woman looked like a puppy making a menacing look.

「Something like the words of someone who was behaving worthlessly to fan up the talking partner’s anxiety, no matter how consistent it sounded like, it cannot be trusted at all.」

「Fanning up anxiety?」

Chief Magdanese tilted her head as though she didn’t know what he was talking about. Seeing that caused Kousuke to replace his expression into a cold one.

「Wasn’t that what you did? What the hell was with that message in the tablet? Don’t tell me that it was just for keeping it a secret from other people. Stop it already with the stupid excuse. After all, if you want to make contact with Vanessa-san, then there are so many other ways to do that.」

They could simply leave behind a single cellphone that was filled with only one contact number to call. There were many ways to make Vanessa make contact with the bureau. Even if the one that made contact wasn’t Vanessa, then that could also be a chance to investigate just who they were facing against. There wasn’t any need to expressly leave behind the video recording of Emily’s family in that way.

They were leaving that kind of message using that kind of method in order to carve a message into Emily’s subconscious. That if they felt like it, then they could do anything they liked to her family. That they were still safe, for now. All of that was to make it easier for the scale in Emily’s heart to tilt to one way when she was approached with the option that was putting on the face of protection. To instill into her what the pecking order was in their relationship.

Kousuke understood that, he understood just how much Emily was worrying for her family. He had already heard from her of her feelings that didn’t want to lose her important people for the second time.

Those were why the voltage of Kousuke’s anger was rising up without stopping.

「Even now you are acting like that. You dare put on air as though everything is Emily’s fault. The ones that caused this case in the first place, and then everything after that, all those, they are all the fault of the stupid idiots who got their eyes blinded by greed. The scramble for that thing that was created accidentally, and even dragged in the important people of this child, are the doings of some other stupid idiots somewhere. Don’t get mistaken here. This child is the victim, not the perpetrator.」

Of course, she had the responsibility as the creator of 「Berserk」. That was why Emily was here. She even had the option to hold her head down, turn small, and wait until everything was over. But she resolved herself that there were things entrusted to her, that there were things that she had to do no matter what, and so she was standing here.

「She is still sixteen, you know? And yet, she lost the important people that were like family to her, and she was also not allowed to meet her blood-related family……and against a child like that, here you are fanning up her anxiety and guilt. I absolutely cannot trust someone like that.」

「……」

Kousuke's aloof words were mixed with anger. It was unthinkable that this was the man that was forgotten even by Vanessa and Emily until just now. Something that couldn't be ignored by any means was oozing out from him. Chief Magdanese was staying quiet; however, her body was facing straight toward Kousuke. That attitude of hers was the proof of the existence of that unidentified pressure.

Kousuke walked forward passing through Vanessa and Emily. And then, he stopped walking when he was in-between Chief Magdanese and Vanessa, and then he asked without looking back.

「Hey, Vanessa-san, what is your instinct telling you? Who cares about logic. Your heart that has been protecting Emily wholeheartedly until now in any kind of situation no matter what anyone said to you, what is it telling you now about that woman?」

Vanessa's gaze wandered around. However, even that was only for a moment. She responded with a cold expression, as though to cut off her hesitation.

「My instinct says that she is black.」

「Isn’t that right. I also think so.」

Kousuke’s gaze shifted quietly from Chief Magdanese, and then he cast his gaze to behind her.

「In the first place, just what is the woman who was sending her shitty subordinate, the one that pointed his gun at Vanessa when we escaped from the hotel, saying at this late hour?」

Kousuke’s gaze flowed smoothly toward Allen.

「Eh, m, me? What are you, saying so suddenly……I’m just a humble analyst――」

「Don’t play dumb, gauze man. Is that your true face? Your disguise is pretty good. But, the scar from my ashtray attack isn’t something that can be treated somehow right away, isn’t it?」

「I really don’t understand what are you talking……」

「I’m not merely bluffing or just guessing. I remembered your presence. That’s why, the hoodlum standing in our way that time, was unmistakably you.」

The analyst with gauze on his nose, Allen Parker’s gaze was wandering around in bewilderment. He was muttering「Oh maann, really, what is this about……」, but Kousuke lost interest already, and he took his gaze off of Allen. Behind Kousuke, Vanessa believed Kousuke’s words, and now she was making a questioning face about why was a mere analyst was present in that hotel.

Chief Magdanese sighed once more.

「……And, you cannot believe me, so then what will you do? As you know, the organization of Kimberly's will be chasing after Doctor Grant mercilessly. They won't even care how many sacrifices will turn up from the surrounding.」

She implicitly declared that in the end, they had no choice but to obey the security bureau. Normally, that was how it would be. An organization could only be opposed by another organization. That was the reason why Vanessa was trying to ascertain the true motive of the chief.

Just what could one agent and one foreigner boy do only by valiantly speaking sharply?

「I'll protect her then.」

「……What did you say?」

Chief Magdanese reflexively asked back after she heard those words that were said really casually. That was so natural. Even though the speaker was a boy from Japan that was often said to be peace loving idiot country, that big talk was really far away from reality. There was a limit even in being out of place.

However, Kousuke didn't show even a speck of shame or looking like he was drunk with the situation, he continued his words matter-of-factly.

「I said that there isn't any problem. It's fine if Emily carried out her duty through the path that she decided herself. Together with her family. Of course, the best thing would be if the security bureau "respectably" give her protection without doing any messing around. Even if we cannot obtain the backing of you guys, there will be no problem. It doesn't matter, I won't let anyone be a nuisance. Whether it's Emily or her family, I'll protect them with my all.」

「……It seems that you are getting a little high spirited after experiencing boy-meets-girl. I wonder if you have been watching too many movies?」

Behind Kousuke, a girl was pressing on her chest saying 「hauu-」as though she was shot through by something. Chief Magdanese gave that a passing glance with an exasperated look on her face. Seeing that, Vanessa objected with a self-assured gait.

「Chief, he isn't a normal boy, you know? At the very least, if he becomes serious, then the likes of one analyst and one agent won't be his match. In addition, he excels in the information war and can assassinate any kind of opponent. Chief, you are not an exception.」

「……It looks like you evaluate him really highly, Paradis. And so? This boy who no matter how I see it is nothing more than a dreaming boy that misunderstands himself as a main character, who are you saying he is?」

Vanessa made a smile that while small was clearly a fearless smile, and then spoke of her greatest trump card.

「He is the one, who got his name recorded on the blacklist of the security bureau just from a few years of activity――Mr. K.」

'That's why, don't do anything imprudent. Protect Emily and her family properly. And when she finishes the antidote, dispose of all the「Berserk」that currently exists. Promise us that.' Vanessa conveyed that. 'I don't know what kind of ulterior motive the chief has, but concentrate only on resolving this case.' She meant.

Vanessa returned threatening words in response to Chief Magdanese's similarly threatening words. For a moment,

Chief Magdanese showed an expression as though she was looking at a surprising scene, but in the next moment, she sniggered.

「……What is so funny?」

Vanessa's gaze sharpened in irritation. Chief Magdanese's shoulders trembled seeing that.

「No, you headed toward the house of Grant family on your own accord, you pointed your gun at me, and there are many of your actions that were really self-assured. I was wondering just what was up with that, but to think that the basis of that confidence is "Mr. K" of all things. Well, though certainly, you were contacting Mr. K, so perhaps it's understandable for you to mistaken that boy like him.」

「What are you saying――」

「He is not Mr. K.」

Her trump card was laughed at, and in the end, it was denied decisively like that. Vanessa became speechless. She was about to argue back just what was the basis of her saying that.

Chief Magdanese showed a gesture as though she was thinking of something for a moment, and then she answered with a gaze as though she was looking at something pitiful.

「Paradis. You see, Mr. K is a member of the security bureau.」

「……Eh?」

Vanessa's eyes turned into dots in incomprehension. Toward such Vanessa, Chief Magdanese continued her words slowly and thoroughly as though to grind her hope into dust.

"It's natural that you don't know. He is a staff that is outside the law. ——"JD(John Doe) Agency". Intelligence bureau and security bureau, these two large organizations of our country oppose the dangerous and disturbing people and organizations inside and outside the country. But JD Agency is a non-existent organization that extends over these two organizations. The members are all called with alphabets or numbers."

"Bu, but, Mr. K, he is an assassin——"

"Yes, that's why I told you didn't I? That it's outside the law, and non-existent."

Vanessa was speechless. Of course, she would be. After all, the organization she belonged to was carrying out murder outside the boundary of law. It was truly like the world in a movie. How darkness was an unavoidable part of a huge organization.

And then, this information that was originally known only to the highest class of leadership other than the chief was now disclosed here; it was in order to break the heart of Vanessa and Emily. In order to convey to the two of them that the bureau wouldn't pull back, they wouldn't let them get away. In order to display the mightiness of the state organization.

"It was a surprise that you made contact with Mr. K and separated your contact to the headquarters. Because it was an unthinkable method to be taken by you who are still young with a sense of duty and justice more than others even if you usually endeavor to be cool-headed. Although, even though I dispatched him to give back-up to the two of you, for him to be taken out by a passing ashtray……I wonder if your ability ought to be reassessed, what do you think, Allen——no, agent "K"?"

Chief Magdanese looked behind and stared with a pressuring gaze that even emitted killing intent. Ahead of her gaze, was analyst Allen.

Yes, just as Kousuke said, the man that fainted due to the ashtray throw when they escaped the hotel, and furthermore, got his crotch stepped on by Vanessa, was Allen in disguise. At the same time, he was actually Mr. K who received Vanessa's request for back-up. The reason that Mr. K, who was supposed to be an assassin, agreed to receive the work of being Emily's bodyguard was now said here.

"The, then, Kousuke, is……"

Beside Vanessa who was astonished from catching a glimpse of the organization's darkness, Emily muttered with trembling eyes.

Allen was walking forward with a tablet in hand while shivering from Chief Magdanese's gaze. He had been operating that tablet all along right after he confirmed Kousuke's presence here, and the result of that seemed to be the answer to Emily's question.

"Chi, chief? Certainly, I have been continuously committing failure in these few days, but that's because I'm an assassin, everything other than that is like outside of my specialty, can you see……that's why, what I want to say is, please don't be so angry……"

"Shut up, incompetent."

"Yes, Ma'am."

Allen who got the tablet snatched from him dropped his shoulders dejectedly. Chief Magdanese's gaze moved toward the information Allen gathered. There, the face photo of Kousuke that was taken from who knows since when and his photo in the airport a few days ago was projected. And then, Kousuke’s age and nationality were calculated based from the passenger list, and Kousuke’s true identity was pinned down.

Even though Allen was calling himself an assassination specialist, his skill as an analyst was super first class. He was famous as an assassin that was strong in the information war, but it seemed that fame wasn’t merely because he was backed by the security bureau.

「Kousuke Endou. Japanese, 18 years old. Born from a really normal family, and goes to a really normal high school student. Are you traveling abroad using your winter vacation? ……My, you are one of those ”returnees” that agitated the world previously. I see, so you aimlessly traveled like this and poked your nose into this case. That baseless confidence of yours, I wonder if that is because of your optimistic thought that you will be okay this time too because you had come back once from that disappearance?」

Vanessa and Emily were shocked. Sometimes they got the thinking「Is he really a virtuoso hitman?」. He couldn’t drive a car. He didn’t bring a gun, and far from that he even said that he couldn’t shoot properly. And above all else, the atmosphere he was clad in was too light. To the degree that saying that he was really a student from Japan fit him to a tee.

Even so, they thought that he was Mr. K because they could cut their way through the assault in that hotel thanks to him. And then, the expression that he sometimes showed them made them get the expectation that “as expected he really is the one”.

But, it turned out he was really just a student from Japan.

「That's why I told you two many times already. I'm not Mr. K. You two didn't believe me at all……」

Kousuke looked behind with a wry smile. Chief Magdanese announced to such Kousuke.

「Mr. Endou. I'll consider that nothing happened if you just go home now.」

「Hee. You don't think that I will blabber about JD Agency or that various other things?」

「Just who will believe that kind of story when it's a Japanese boy who is telling it? Stop putting on air like you are a main character in a tale already.」

Right after that, a single gunshot rang, and a bullet gouged the ground near Kousuke's feet. Allen said「Sorry, okay」while firing so fast his gun drawing movement was unseen. That was the last warning. If Kousuke didn't turn around and run away with his tail between his legs here, then there would be a news report about how a Japanese boy met an unfortunate accident in his travel.

That was conveyed to Kousuke really clearly. But,

「Well, I cannot go home though.」

「Are you still unable to look at reality?」

「No, I'm aware of it. ——There are thirty-two armed men. They are lurking inside the buildings around us and completely surrounded this spot. I know at least that much.」

Chief Magdanese’s expression changed for the first time since coming here. Her eyes opened really wide with her shock laid bare. Even while she was like that, Kousuke’s gaze ran through places like a building’s window, the shadow of a street corner, behind a pillar, and so on. ——All those places were the spots where the special squad of the security bureau’s assault section was hiding based on Chief Magdanese’s arrangement.

“You are moving personally, bringing only those two because you have no one you can trust. That was what you say, but it looks like you are really bringing a lot despite that.”

“You are……”

Chief Magdanese’s words got caught in her throat when she saw the piercing eyes of the person that should be just a student. Her preparation for the worst case scenario backfired on her. A faint indication of agitation leaked out from the surrounding. Allen, who was standing at the side, narrowed his eyes slowly with his frivolous act thinning down.

The night breeze felt like it was growing warmer and damp. Even after seeing through the squad’s position, Kousuke was still not showing even a fragment of agitation; his hands were still inserted inside his pockets with composure. He then said.

“I’ll say it one more time okay. You cannot be trusted. And then, in this three-way fight, the enemy of the enemy actually can be trusted more than you. After all, that hint from Kimberly is spot-on. The shitty bastard that infiltrated the research building and dragged this child’s important people into their death, it’s that Mr. K over there. Just now, he said that he already failed continuously.

……I also said this before. There is no need for me to do something like――

The talk about motive? Something like that is not important. If it’s a reason, then I can imagine many. It can be to use it as a weapon, or for pursuing profit, or because of the country’s decision, or maybe it’s for your own greed……

Chief Magdanese stared at Kousuke for a while. And then, she suddenly lifted up her hand.

Right after that, the members of the special squad showed their figures all at once. The muzzles of their machine guns that could shoot in full-auto were aimed at Kousuke. At the same time, Chief Magdanese gave an order through the wireless on her collar. Her command was to bring the people of the Grant family here.

In order to protect the large ship that is the country, there is a time when evil is necessary. There are opponents that the law or negotiations cannot do anything against, and yet something still has to be done against them to protect the large ship that is the country. The incarnation of that necessary evil is the JD Agency, this Mr. K. Berserk is also like that.

The gaze of Chief Magdanese caught Emily.

I wonder if you know how many personnel, how many soldiers died in the battle against terrorists each year? If we can turn captured terrorists into mad monsters to send them in as the substitute of those noble people……just how useful that will be. How can we save the noble life of our country without paying a sacrifice? However, surely Doctor Grant won’t be able to understand that.

That’s why you tried to steal Berserk itself while making her create the antidote?

Correct. Because Doctor Grant seems to hate Berserk, there is a possibility that she would build some kind of bug in the data through the process of researching the antidote. It’s necessary to secure the original drug. There is a necessity to have on hand the antidote that the girl creates voluntarily and the unaltered Berserk. Next, if the girl disposes of Berserk by herself, we can just advance the improvement of the drug by ourselves using the stolen data.

But, even that farce would end here. Now, they would force Emily to improve Berserk for the sake of the country. Rather than making an antidote, she should make the control drug for Berserk. And then, what would be used to motivate Emily was her family that was taken hostage.

Emily’s face turned pale. She must be imagining the future where Berserk was put to use as a weapon. And then, she also imagined one other thing at the same time. The reason why Chief Magdanese was starting to talk like this.

Chief Magdanese’s gaze returned to Kousuke as though to prove that.

This too is a necessary evil. You know too much about this case. This is incomparable with something like gossip about a state organization that doesn’t exist. It will be a little troublesome if you talk about Berserk to the media that is currently heated up. The cost of getting carried away with boy-meets-girl like this is a costly one. This time, you cannot be a “returnee” anymore, you know?

「Run away Kousuke! I’m sorry! I’m sorry to drag you into this! Quickly run away!」

「Kousuke-san……my apologies.」

Emily yelled. Even while she understood that it was already impossible, even so, she couldn’t help herself from yelling. Vanessa tried to rush at once, but she saw the red lights of laser pointers showering her body and her movement stopped reflexively. And then, when she saw Kousuke who was similarly covered with red points of death like her, she spoke her apology with an expression that was colored by regret and guilt.

Seeing the two who were like that, Kousuke who had death thrust before himself was,

「Don’t be so worried like that. I told you right, I’m not Mr. K, but……I’m the right-hand man of the demon king.」

Kousuke’s face couldn’t be seen. His face that was slightly looking down was hidden by his forelocks. Like that, it even looked like he was assaulted by fear of the fate that would happen to him after this, where he looked like he would crumble down anytime. But, even while he looked like that, his voice that spoke back to Emily and Vanessa resounded pleasantly like a gentle breeze.

And then, hearing Kousuke saying something like “right-hand man of the demon king” now that the event had reached this point, Chief Magdanese sighed thinking that this was a pitiful boy who was living in a world of delusion while she was about to give the signal for the execution.

「Hey, chief-san.」

Her attention was diverted for a moment from Kousuke addressing her. And then, she noticed how her own arms were getting goosebumps without her noticing it. Toward Chief Magdanese who was feeling doubt about her own state, those words softly reached her.

——Emily’s family, they still haven’t arrived yet?

Feeling taken aback, Chief Magdanese spoke into her wireless, questioning just what her men were doing. zaa-zaa- After listening carefully to the grating sound from the wireless that felt excessively eerie for some reason, an impossible voice replied back.

「Just now, they resigned from their duty. For the chief who has business with them, please do over your life again from the beginning after the beep sound.」

She understood even through the wireless. That voice was unmistakably the voice of the person who had been talking with her until just now. It was impossible. How could the voice of the young man that was here in this place come from the communication device of the personnel that she was sending to monitor the Grant family?

She couldn’t comprehend it. A chill was creeping up her spine like a worm. Chief Magdanese was slowly raising her gaze from the wireless on her collar while feeling terror——and then, she saw.

With his expression still hidden by his forelocks, only Kousuke’s mouth was splitting wiiiidely. It was as though she was looking at the crescent moon shining in the sky tonight.

「You dogs of the state that sing the praises of a necessary evil. Are you prepared? Are you resolved? If not then you better hurry. The abyss is already here.」

Chief Magdanese was feeling a terror that was like a black ink painting out her whole consciousness while swinging down her arm half unconsciously.

It happened at the same time with the appearance of “that guy”.

Now, it’s showtime.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

He is coming, that guy, he is cominggg.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 208

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Showtime Beginning Part

AN: This chapter became long, so I split it into beginning and end parts.

I will upload the later part in one more hour.

「Do it!」

Chief Magdanese’s command that unusually sounded like a shriek was handed down. The elites lurking in the shadows showed their loyalty without even the slightest lag even though they were agitated from having their existence discovered.

A storm of death swept from all directions along with a thunderous roar. Muzzle flashes flickered in the darkness of the night as though to color the victim’s journey to the next world. Bullets cut through the air mercilessly and arrived at their target through the shortest distance.

「KOUSUKEEEEEE-」

Emily’s shriek resounded along with the thunderous roar. Her eyes reflected the figure of Kousuke whose body was rocked by overwhelming violence like a badly made marionette. His body was pierced countless times, and when the body was going to fall down, the storm of lead from the opposite direction would strike and make it stand up.

There was not the slightest ground for doubt, Kousuke was definitely pierced by several hundred bullets in front of everyone at that place.

However,

「He, doesn’t fall?」

「Aha, haha, this is really a harsh joke. ……Why, is there no blood flowing?」

Vanessa murmured in astonishment while Allen’s expression was twitching grandly. Just as they said, Kousuke was still standing in the middle of the ground that had been desolated and pierced by bullets.

The shooting was finished. Was it stopped because the loaded bullets ran out? Or else, was it because the elites who shouldered the country’s safety shrank back from the manifested bizarreness? In any case, silence filled the area, as though all living things were holding their breath.

A beat later,

「It’s over already? Then, next is my turn.」

The mutter that came from Kousuke who was hanging his head destroyed the silence. And then, the moment everyone opened their eyes wide thinking「Impossible」, an even further irrationality assaulted their brain nerves and common sense.

pon- Such a light voice that could be called as stupid sounded, and Kousuke’s figure vanished along with a slight smoke!

「Where are you looking at?」

「Gueh!?」

Everyone in that place directed their gaze toward the direction of those words and the shocked voice raised by Allen that was mixed with pain.

There, they saw Allen, who without anyone noticing, was lying on his face, his body stepped on by Kousuke above him. One of his hands was inside his pocket with his upper body slightly turning away, while the middle finger of his other hand was pinning down the sunglasses that had been on his face without anyone noticing when he put them on. Sunglasses, even though it was night! Sunglasses, even though it was night!

「What coolness!」

「Vanessa!?」

A shout of joy that sounded out of place was spontaneously raised. The side tail-san beside the voice owner goggled in surprise!

「You-」

Perhaps it should be said that it was just as expected from the real Mr. K. Even in this situation, the shadow of the country that was bestowed with a license of killing still showed a movement that would make anyone who saw that have a chill on their back. He pulled out a small gun hidden inside his sleeve with his wrist’s motion and fired at Kousuke while still lying face down.

What was terrifying was that the fired bullet was soaring toward Kousuke’s head accurately even though it was shot from that kind of posture. Normally, if someone was abruptly fired at from that close, that person would immediately travel into the next world, but……

「Oops, you are really energetic there.」

Kousuke smoothly tilted his head while saying those words and the bullet rushed through toward the sky in vain. Allen didn't show even the slightest bit of agitation of having his attack evaded and wasted no time in pulling his trigger in succession.

However, the bullets didn't even graze Kousuke. He only tilted his upper body slightly and evaded all the bullets with a paper-thin difference. His figure that even looked blurred in double and triple layers was just like the agent in Matr○x!

「Don't tell me, your sight can follow the bullets!?」

「Naturally. As long as this "Heavenly Eye" given by my friend is with me, any kind of attack won't be able to escape from my perception.」

kaclick- That kind of sound rang from the trigger. Allen's bullets ran out. Kousuke sharply pushed up the sunglass artifact that was enchanted with "Lightspeed" and "Foresight".

……By the way, the creator of this artifact didn't give it a name like "Heavenly Eye" or anything.

The agent and Chief Magdanese returned to their senses and fired toward Kousuke. Kousuke magnificently danced in the air. Using a somersault with a form that could even be called as beautiful, the bullets from the two passed through below Kousuke in vain.

「Don't just stare stupidly like that! Finish him off quickly!」

Chief Magdanese’s order released the squad members from their petrified mind. They attacked Kousuke from all directions once more with a barrage of bullets that was similar to heavy rain.

「Fuh. Nice killing intent. But, it’s not enough. It’s not enough at all to catch this abyss without form!」

Kousuke said such a thing while speedily evading the approaching bullets smoothly. He then finally took out a weapon. Before anyone noticed, his hand was holding a jet black short sword that was unknown just from where he took it out from.

「Don’t take your eyes off, from mine power of the abyss! ――Purr, “Demon Sword of Destroyer Calamity Crawling the Earth”.」

Kousuke called out some kind of chuuni name while leisurely caressing the blade of his short sword. When he did that, black light that could be mistaken as the night was starting to envelop the jet black short sword! And then Kousuke stabbed that short sword into the ground.

In a moment, the ground instantly bulged out and covered Kousuke completely. The surrounding ground became an omnidirectional protection that blocked the bullets.

「――”Doton – Saryuu no Shiro(There is No Hope of Touching the Abyss)”」(TN: Earth Escape – Castle of Sand Bump)

Kousuke’s words resounded the moment the ground bulge completely closed. Those words had no meaning; this was important, so it needed to be said twice, those words had no meaning. If it had to be said further, the name of the short sword and the gesture of caressing the blade were also meaningless. So far as it went, the magic circle of the short sword artifact wouldn’t activate without chanting, so it was necessary to say something, but if the user had to chant the name of the short sword and the skill name each time, they would be turned into Swiss cheese by the enemy.

And so, the ground already started bulging by the time Kousuke said “Pu” from the “Purr!”.

Then, why did Kousuke chant the meaningless skill name……

Of course, because it was cool!

「Do, Do Do Do Do, Doctor Grant! Did you hear!? Just now, he said “Doton” you heard that!? What to do!?」

「What to do is my line there! That’s not what you should be surprised with! The ground was suddenly moving you know!?」

「That was a Doton skill, so the ground moving is only natural, isn’t it!? Just what are you talking about! Rather than that, Kousuke-san was using “Tonjutsu” (TN: Ninja art of escape)! Aa, how can this be! He is, he is――a Japanese ninja!」

「I don’t get what you mean!」

Vanessa was so excited that it seemed her character was breaking down, and Emily was desperately making retorts back. The members of the special squad were giving them a glance while losing their patience to how the bullets weren’t working. They then took out grenades.

The grenades directly hit the mass of rock while at the same time making stupid sounds poshu. Fierce thunderous roar resounded, and the mass of rock was instantly pulverized, its fragments were scattering everywhere showily.

「He isn’t there!?」

「Watch your surroundings. This is a trick! That guy is using trick! Don’t get lead astray!」

The person who seemed to be the captain of the special squad spoke loudly and gave words of warning. The squad members whose minds were painted white by the supernatural phenomenon that was repeatedly happening were recovering their calmness from the word「trick」that the captain said as a temporary explanation.

Although, when they collected themselves, it didn’t change that what happened before their eyes wasn’t any trick or mechanism, it was a genuine “mystery” where any explanation was futile. Therefore,

「Gaa!?」

「Gueh」

One of the soldiers hiding on the third floor near the window whirled in the air. It was as though he was run over by a truck from behind. He cleared through the window and was blown away outside. That was how it seemed, but in the next moment, from the fourth floor of the opposite building, the soldier that threw the grenades just now shot out like a human bullet in a spiraling motion and crashed into the opposite soldier whirling in the air with a graphic sound.

The two crashed into each other mid-air and fell toward the ground. Right underneath them was the figure of Allen who was pulling himself back together. Allen tried to dodge right away. But,

「From the bottom of the earth, the dead captures――”Doton – Naraku no Jigoku(The abyss seize thee)”」(TN: Naraku no Jigoku = Prison of hell.)

「Wha-」

Allen’s ankle was caught. The hand thrusting out suddenly from the ground was seizing Allen. The abnormal situation that was like a horror movie caused him to feel shaken. Even so, he immediately attempted to shake off the hand, but he only felt pain from being caught tightly as though by a vise and the hand didn’t even twitch.

And then, right after that, Allen was dragged into the ground just like the words of the resounding voice. The ground wasn’t paved by asphalt or anything, but it was a hard ground that couldn’t be easily dug by human strength, yet regardless of that, he was buried from his waist below into the ground without any resistance, as though he was swallowed into a smooth quicksand.

「Shit-, what is this――gueh!?」

Allen thought that his whole body might be completely swallowed under the ground like this, but unexpectedly he was dragged only until his waist before the pulling strength was gone. At the same time, the surrounding ground also recovered its former hardness. Allen struggled and hit the ground, but in the next moment, he was crushed under the falling two fully armed men, and he shrieked like a flattened frog.

「Serves you right! Mr. K, serves you right! Doton rulez!」

「I beg you, please come back Vanessa! I really like the usual cool you!」

Vanessa turned toward Allen who vanished from view due to being squashed by the two soldiers that appeared to have fainted; then she pointed while going ‘hyahhaa—’. While Emily was making a retort with teary eyes, chaos and screams resounded from inside the buildings surrounding the open space from four directions.

「Shit, what is going on!?」

「Just where is he aiming from!」

「Be careful of friendly fire——gua!?」

The soldiers of the special squad were cursing while their gun muzzles were wandering about in doubt. But, they were unable to catch sight of their formless enemy(Kousuke). They sometimes caught something like a black shadow in the corner of their eyes and at the nook of their mind, but the moment they turned their gaze there, the splash of their comrade’s blood would fly from a completely different direction; or they would get blown away like a joke.

「The stillness of the dark night is splendid. Don’t you think that something like the sound of explosives is boorish for it?」

「Wha-——gih!?」

hyuu- Wind blew, and right after that a soldier got the tendons of his hands and feet cut, and he collapsed.

「You feel it don’t you? The cold yet gentle arm of darkness.」

「DAMN YOUUUUUU-!?」

The smooth sensation of being caressed on the nape of the neck caused a soldier to have goosebumps throughout his spine. He cursed while drawing out a handgun without delay and shot behind him, but what he felt was a hot touch caressing his four limbs instantly.

「Don’t you know, there are things in this world that you ought to not know. Do you know what I mean? Yes, it’s me.」

「This-, monster――」

His partner should be beside him shooting his gun desperately. Yet, what was standing there was only a black shadow. Where did his partner go? Why, didn’t his comrade back him up? Without even any time to speak out such doubts, one more soldier had his consciousness fall into the bottom of the darkness together with the hot touch that he felt on his limbs.

「What is this……just, what is happening……」

Chief Magdanese muttered in blank amazement. The thunderous sound of shooting in full-auto, consecutive muzzle flashes, and then screams and angry roars reverberated from all the surrounding buildings. Her gaze ran through the buildings around her as though she was a country bumpkin looking up at a skyscraper. She took a few steps back with shaky footsteps.

This was impossible. Even if Kousuke was skilled, this was strange.

How could soldiers get blown away from her right and behind at the same time when a soldier was thrown out from the building on her left? Was the enemy removal being carried out in all the four buildings surrounding this place?

Kousuke was alone. The enemy should be one person. Even if the enemy possessed a strange fighting technique using tricks, it was only this fact that should be certain.

「Who in the world are you all fighting!? The enemy number!? All teams-, report!」

Chief Magdanese raised an angry voice. Normally, there should be concise and swift replies coming back to her.

The moonlight was hidden behind a small cloud, and darkness swept the area. The headlights illuminated her as though she was an actress standing alone on the stage. Replies returned to Chief Magdanese who was sweating coldly.

「This is Beta 2. The enemy's identity is unclear. The shadow, the shadow is attacki――」

「This is Delta 4! I don't know! I don't know anything! Shit-, my partners are disappearing!」

「Alpha 3-. The enemy is a Japanese young man! That guy is a monster-! The bullets-, the bullets cannot hit-. I can see him-, yet it's not hitting!」

Reports were screamed from the communication device. DADADADDADADA- The voice of the soldiers that were dyed with panic mixed in the interval between the unceasing sounds of gunshots. Not a single one gave a clear report that Chief Magdanese could comprehend.

「All troops, get outside! Form a circle!」

A harsh voice that was tinged with a dominating aura resounded from the communication device. That was the command from the captain of the special squad. The soldiers obeyed that voice as though it was their lifeline. They all jumped out from the windows simultaneously without even a glance, without even thinking of the consequence, wishing only to take some distance as far as possible from the terrifying something that was lurking in the darkness inside the room.

The soldiers that jumped out from the second floor took skillful landing postures that were expected from trained operatives, and then they sprang up to their feet and rushed to Chief Magdanese’s side. The soldiers who were on the third floor and higher descended down to the ground by using the stair’s handrail, window frame, and so on to decrease their speed, but the dread filling their chest threw their limbs out of kilter, and more than half of them struck the ground and writhed there.

Even so, they were dragged by their comrades to gather around Chief Magdanese and formed a circle formation around her. They aimed their guns at the surrounding buildings with desperate looks. They strained their eyes toward the windows they jumped through just a moment ago while desperately holding down their rough breathing that was unrelated to the exhaustion of their stamina.

Inside the windows, it was as dark as though all light was being sucked in. Surely, even if they were told that it was a hole that connected to the realm of the dead, the troops would easily believe it right now. Their gun muzzles were busily wandering around searching for the enemy, which displayed the state of their hearts. Surely. in their hearts, there was also the ashamed feeling that they had left behind many of their comrades inside that darkness with whom they had shared joys and sorrows with.

The personnel of the special squad that was at first more than thirty people were already decreased to seventeen people, including Allen who somehow managed to crawl out from the ground and the agent that was standing by beside Chief Magdanese.

It hadn’t even been five minutes since Kousuke vanished. In just that much time, a platoon of the special assault squad owned by the state’s organization was pushed into a partially destructed state.

The sound of breathing that couldn’t be pushed down resounded. The sound of rustling clothes from the rough wiping of sweat that was flowing from some other reason other than heat resounded. No one was making a sound. Even Allen who often joked around was desperately searching for the enemy’s position with his wandering eyes. Even Chief Magdanese was also feeling cold sweat trickling from the tip of her jaw while her gaze looked around from the center of the circular formation.

Then, a strange sound resounded.

——clop, clop

It was footsteps. Footsteps were echoing in the world of night that was ruled by silence.

——clop, clop

But, there wasn’t anyone that could react to those footsteps. No, to be more accurate they were reacting. However, aiming their guns when they learned the enemy’s position by hearing——wasn’t the reaction they made.

——clop, clop

The expression of everyone was twitching because the sound of those footsteps resounding in their ears right now was coming from an impossible place. Their gun muzzles were clattering. It wasn’t because they didn’t understand who they should aim at. The assaulting terror finally caused the tough elite squad soldiers to be unable to repress the trembling of their fingertips.

——clop, clop

Slowly, teasingly, the footsteps reverberated in the dark night. gulp- Sounds of swallowing saliva pierced the ears clearly.

Chief Magdanese sighed deeply. And then, she slowly lifted up her face toward the place where those footsteps resounded from, to the place where the owner of the footsteps seemed to be at.

「——Impossible.」

That mutter where it felt like the soul of the speaker also came out at the same time with it, made the other soldiers, and Allen, and then Vanessa and Emily to lift up their gaze too.

「Once again, good evening, ladies and gentlemen. Don’t you think that tonight is a really good night?」

There, a man in black was standing.

That black outfit was darker than even the darkness of night as though it gave anyone who saw it a hallucination that the black of night was melting into the outfit. A mask hid the mouth, completed with sunglasses of the one-lens type. In one hand was a mysterious black short sword that gave anyone chills.

His voice resounded with an echo that conveyed the night of night, and the darkness of darkness. Absolute confidence and a domineering aura dwelled inside it; however, at the same time, it contained dread that tightly held the entrails of the heart.

In midair, footsteps echoed on invisible stairs, like a ruler that was descending from his throne. Behind his back, was a beautiful crescent moon that looked like the sneer of the devil. A step, a step. That figure that descended from the night sky to the lower world while making darkness colored ripples under his feet was truly an existence of myth.

「I like the crescent moon better than the full moon. It's not so bright that it will drive away the darkness of night; however, it garnishes this wonderful darkness with color. Its shape that draws an arc looks like the smile of the goddess of night.」

He——Kousuke was looking down on everything, with an exaggerated gesture like a stage actor. He spread his hands as though to embrace the whole night; however, seeing no one replying back he shrugged his shoulders. And then, he slowly made a rotation, placed his hand that was holding the short sword behind his back, and his other hand propped up his sunglasses; he then drew back his left foot a bit.

By the way, that rotation, and also his chuuni pose, of course, they were all meaningless.

「You……you, just what in the world, are you?」

As expected from the chief of the security bureau. Chief Magdanese asked Kousuke's true identity while everyone was at a loss of words and fell into a stupor seeing the impossible situation. The situation was too abnormal to be dismissed as a trick. In the end, was it really okay to classify the man that was making that pose in midair even now as mankind……

That question came from such doubt.

In regard to that, Kousuke’s answer was,

「”What are you”――I believe that question ought to be asked to all of you instead.」

「What, do you mean by that?」

Chief Magdanese returned a sharp gaze even while feeling perplexed. To that, Kousuke twirled in rotation once more, and then, he pushed up his sunglasses with one hand while at the same time he threw his head back a bit with the tip of his short sword pointed in a sharp motion.

「O guardian of the country. It’s exactly as you said before, there are few things that can be protected using beautiful ideals. Without the resolve to dirty oneself, what is waiting ahead will be a trampling.」

The eyes of Chief Magdanese turned round from Kousuke’s words. She didn’t even imagine that he would make a statement that affirmed her own words. It seemed that Vanessa and Emily were also similarly shocked by that. Emily was still wholly shook up without being able to get back on her feet from her agitation, and Vanessa opened her eyes widely from the shock that she received.

「Just feeling is insufficient. Nothing can be done without resolve. Trying to resist fate without dirtying one’s self, something like that cannot even become a funny story.」

Those were heavy words. Even though they didn’t know anything about this young man, they understood that he had gone through a tremendous experience. They understood, how it had been engraved into his flesh and bones.

「One has to choose what they ought to protect. One has to persist in carrying their own will, surpassing the distinction between good and evil. To wish for everything, that is only possible for someone who transcends the extremity of that will.」

To protect the great ship that was the country from the ill will and hostility that lurked all over the world, was impossible with just law. It was impossible to resist with only the right conduct and beautiful ideals. By the point in time when someone cursed that the other was cowardly or the worst, what they lost wouldn’t come back.

To “protect”, was a next to impossible undertaking more than humans could imagine.

Therefore, Kousuke didn’t deny the hidden face of this country. The act of the non-existent organization that was called the JD Agency. If there were things that couldn’t be protected without such an existence, then that was inevitable.

However, still, however.

「Even so, there are things that one mustn’t throw away.」

Yes, that was why Kousuke was here. He was here, with his blade unsheathed. He unleashed the technique and strength that he obtained at the end of the deadly combats, along with a bitter experience, in another world.

「The humanity and justice in one’s soul.」

Those must not be forgotten. Even if the body was dirtied with a necessary evil, the soul must not get rotten together with it. If not, then the necessary evil would someday be degraded into mere evil.

「The faith in one’s heart.」

The people had faith in them that they would protect the safety of this country. That faith must not be betrayed. If that was betrayed, then the whole foundation would be shaken.

「The sincerity in one’s resolve.」

Their established resolve, their oath, those must be carried on faithfully. The moment they made a compromise, that resolve would run wild and bare its fang even toward those that it ought to protect.

Just like the current situation.

「O guardian. Is Emily Grant not someone that you also ought to protect?」

「……」

Chief Magdanese didn’t answer. Or possibly, she couldn’t answer.

「She was born in this country, raised in this country, lived in this country. A girl like her, isn’t she someone that you ought to protect? Necessary evil——I won’t reject that. But, in the end, is Emily someone that ought to have such a thing pointed at her? Cornering someone who is desperately doing her best, a girl who wishes to create a remedy of an incurable disease, is that the national safety you are talking about?」

Hearing Kousuke’s question, there were people who made complicated expressions among the special squad troops; there were even people who were obviously looking guilty. The expression of Chief Magdanese didn’t change. Right now, she was staring straight at Kousuke without any discomposure.

Kousuke also stared back at Chief Magdanese as though to wait for her answer. Still in his chuuni pose.

Just how long were they like that? Before long, Chief Magdanese sighed, and quietly opened her mouth.

「I too, am the dog of my country. I feel no self-depreciation or regret of that. Not to mention hesitation, I have none of that. ……I have made my determination already.」

That was her answer.

Allen sent a sharp gaze that only lasted for a moment at the captain of the special squad and the agent. The captain of the special squad tensed his jaw slightly, and at the same time, the agent slightly moved back.

Kousuke sensed it. They were planning to make Allen and the special squad into a disposable pawn, in order to evacuate Chief Magdanese from this place. The agent intended to rush to the car to allow Chief Magdanese to escape.

Should that be admired, or be exasperated at? What made Kousuke hesitate in making a conclusion, was how lacking Allen and the special squad’s soldiers were in hesitation. In order to let their boss get away, they accepted their end without even a moment of hesitation.

「Is that the resolve and sincerity of you guys?」

They would coerce a girl from their own country, in order to protect the people of the country. Despite Kousuke’s opinion that it was putting the cart before the horse, that was the answer of the security bureau. They knew only too well of that, even so, if that was what their homeland decided, then they wouldn’t hesitate. For that, they had made the resolve to put their lives on the line a long time ago.

Chief Magdanese spoke.

“About the research building, that was a sorrowful miss on our part. We were also unable to detect the betrayal of Kimberly, and also how the students of the Down classroom were going to raise a commotion. ……It was my misjudgment to make Allen infiltrate by himself.”

She had never expected that the bodyguards safeguarding “Berserk”had been replaced by Kimberly’s accomplices. At that time, Allen caused the alarm to sound because of the reaction of the bodyguards that was different from the usual trained agent, and he completely got taken by surprise by the unexpected conduct of the fake bodyguard agents.

“I have no excuse for that.”

“Such a thing, even if you say that-”

Emily was enraged hearing that apology which was directed at her. She questioned whether this woman planned to beg for forgiveness only with that one sentence. Did she not understand just how great of a loss she suffered due to her actions?

But, it seemed that in contrast with her sentence, Chief Magdanese didn’t have even a speck of intention to ask for forgiveness. Her eyes were still cold even while receiving Emily’s rage right from the front.

“All of you, this is an order. Carry out your duty.”

□□□□□Yes, Ma’am-!!□□□□□

Chief Magdanese drew back. At the same time, Allen rushed out from the circle toward Emily while the agent turned around toward the car. The eyes of the troops shined with their last killing intent, and they were about to pull the trigger at Kousuke midair.

It happened at that moment.

tan-, tan-

Two gunshot sounds resounded faintly.

□Muh□

□-!?□

Those didn’t come from the special squad. It also didn’t come from Allen.

One shot splendidly drilled into Kousuke’s flesh, and the other shot pierced through one of the troops while gouging Chief Magdanese’s left shoulder.

Chief Magdanese collapsed from the impact with a splash of blood scattering. And then, Kousuke fell to the ground in an arc trajectory.

□KOUSUKEEEEEEE-□

□KOUSUKE-SAN-□

Emily and Vanessa screamed loudly.

□Chief-□

□-, protect the chief!□

The sprinting Allen made a turn that disregarded the human’s body structure while raising a voice that exposed his agitation and uneasiness for the first time. With the command of the captain of the special squad, several of the soldiers used their bodies to cover Chief Magdanese like a shield and dragged her body toward the wall.

Emily and Vanessa dashed toward where Kousuke was falling. Emily embraced Kousuke with an expression that could break into tears anytime, and together with Vanessa, she pulled his body to the cover of a car.

The second wave of attack didn’t come. It seemed that the sniper became unable to take a line of fire. Even so, everyone there stayed still while staying on guard to the surrounding. Kousuke’s body was limp without any movement.

It was unclear how long time passed. Perhaps it was about a few dozen seconds. The captain of the special squad gave a glance and saw that the first-aid to Chief Magdanese was finished, and he was about to order them to move out, but several lights cut through the area.

Those were lights from car headlights. And they didn’t come from merely one or two cars. More than ten cars were rushing at them with fierce speed.

Several of the cars arrived with a drift before stopping and took a position that encircled the people of the security bureau and Emily’s group. The cars were all stopped horizontally and blocked any path of escape.

Vanessa and Chief Magdanese scowled their face from having a certain person coming to their mind from seeing this method that was repulsive yet cunning.

It seemed that their expectation was right on the mark.

「Yoo, honored Chief Magdanese. How envious for you to have a clandestine meeting outside the city at night. Let me join in too, okay.」

「Kimberly.」

The one who got out from one of the cars was Kimberly who was sporting a really disgusting smile. With that as the start, dozens of armed men also got out from the other cars. They didn't look trained like the special squad soldiers. They looked more degenerate and violent; if it had to be said, then they were fellows that looked like mafia members.

Allen and Vanessa tried to move nonchalantly. But, as expected, Kimberly gave no opening and sharply noticed them.

「Whoops, both of you, don't move from there. Especially the analyst-kun. You are bad news after all. Just try it. If you move even for just a bit, then I'll slaughter everyone without mercy.」

Kimberly commanded his men to release their weapon's safety. Although the people who had resolved to die just now wouldn't obey that instruction that easily, both of them glared with their gun muzzles raised even with that overwhelming difference in battle strength.

「Well, guess so. There is no way the chief will comply that simply. No matter what, you are the "cornerstone of Britain's protection" or "the iron woman that married Britain" huh. What's more, you also got strong bad luck.」

Kimberly shrugged while watching Chief Magdanese's left arm that was oozing blood. And then, he turned his gaze to the reason why he didn’t kill Chief Magdanese and everyone else here right away.

「So, chief-sama. Just what the hell is that?」

At the end of his gaze was the limp Kousuke who only looked like an unmoving corpse even now, and the figure of Emily who was embracing Kousuke.

「The elites of the security bureau assault section were half-destroyed under a few minutes. What’s more, he unveiled an amazing technique similar to floating in the air. When I heard the sniper’s report and watched the recorded video, I thought my eyes were gonna pop out of their sockets y’know.」

Kimberly’s gaze left Kousuke and wandered to the air. 「Well, there must be a wire or something place in the air」It seemed that he thought what Kousuke did was a trick from those words that he said.

Although, even though he was a traitor, he was formerly a member of that security bureau, and because of that Kimberly knew how powerful the assault section was. It seemed he wanted to know the reason to how a group like them could be cornered into devastation helplessly like that. That was the reason why he let the troops stay alive even now.

Chief Magdanese distorted her expression cynically at such Kimberly.

「There is no way I know what that is. That is……yes, it’s “something” that human knowledge doesn’t reach. According to that thing’s words——he is the right-hand man of the demon king, something like that.」

「Demon King’s, what? Just what kind of joke that is huh. That’s――」 ――Calling me “that”, “that” from some time ago, that’s a little bit impolite, isn’t it?

A voice suddenly reverberated echoingly. Kimberly and his groups were taken aback, and they looked around the surrounding. Chief Magdanese shook her head with an expression that looked a bit tired while saying「Aa, just as I thought」.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The later part will be uploaded in one more hour.

Arifureta Chapter 209

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Showtime End Part

AN: This is the later part of two parts.

For those who came here directly from the bookmark, please pay attention.

---

kii kii Such a small sound resounded. That was the sound of a wheel. At the same time, multiple footsteps also echoed.

The sound came from the building behind where the car of Chief Magdanese was parked. Everyone focused on the steel door of that building.

And then,

「Fumu, Mr. Carl. About the wheelchair of Syla-dono, don't you think it needs some maintenance? It's making this kind of sound each time it moves. It's causing various anxieties hearing it.」

「A, aa, no, I planned to bring it in to give it maintenance just today you know? I, isn't that right, honey?」

「Yes, tha, that's right. But, just when we were about to go out, the people of the security bureau came so……」

「I see. That's impolite of me. I have acted impertinently there.」

The people that came out from the opened door while making normal talk were a middle-aged man and woman who were making twitching expressions. There was also a woman who was definitely passed her seventies sitting in a wheelchair that was being pushed by the man. It went without saying that these were Emily’s family. And then, a man wearing sunglasses and a black outfit was leading them.

「Father! Mother! Grandma!」

「-, Emily!?」

「Emily-」

Hearing the shout of Emily’s that was filled with joy, the father, Carl, and the mother, Sophie, called back the name of their beloved daughter without being unable to hide their happiness. It seemed that the grandma Syla was sound asleep. Perhaps Kousuke had done something to her. Surely he had judged that this hectic situation would be harmful for her who was afflicted with Alzheimer.

The two parents had been told about their daughter’s current situation to a certain degree. And so, they were about to rush toward Emily driven by their worry and the joy of reunion.

But, because of the pressure of the armed men that was standing between them and their daughter, and the ominous sound kaclick that came at the same time with the gun muzzles moving toward them immediately, they stumbled and came to a stop. And then, blood was leaving their expression when they saw the scene of the men that really resembled mafia, the personnel of the security bureau who looked cornered near the wall, and then, the collapsed person whom their daughter was holding in her arms.

They now painfully understood the situation. The terrifying situation their daughter was confronting, it was different from the explanation of the security bureau that was a mix of truth and falsehood. They grasped just how dangerous the situation their only beloved daughter had been placed in.

It was in the middle of that that a dumbfounded voice resounded.

「Thi, this is a joke, right? He, should have been sniped……」

It was Kimberly. At the same time, what he spoke represented what was in the mind of everyone there.

But, the right-hand of the demon king exaggeratedly shrugged his shoulders saying「Good grief」to the crowd that was a hindrance to the family reunion, completely unconcerned with that kind of question of bewilderment. And then, he suddenly formed a hand seal with both his hands. Yes, he formed a hand seal! As though, just like a NINJA! Just like a NINJA!

It was unknown just where the expression that was worried for Kousuke just now had gone. The female investigator that might be beyond hope already yelled「Handseals come-————!!」while she desperately tried to copy it. It seemed that she was trying to memorize the hand seals. But, the girl lacked a certain bloodline eye, on top of that, Kousuke's hand seals that were super complicated and super-fast due to its lack of meaning weren't something that could be copied just from a glance.

'Your level is insufficient!'The hand seals didn't really have any meaning, but with a glance, those words were whispered toward Vanessa-san who was grinding her teeth.

「To disturb the family reunion like this, what a really boorish bunch. ――”Kuuton – Banji Saikuu(I exist, in the desired spot)”」(TN: Air Escape – Air Reside in the Whole Earth)

Something like black mist instantly whirled around Kousuke, but in the next instant, Kousuke disappeared, and not just him, but the whole Grant family too. In their place, the corpse of Kousuke that was inside Emily’s arms until just now appeared! And then, right after that, the corpse vanished with a pon- sound as though it had accomplished its role!

「Thi, thi thi thi thi, this iiis!? Mikawari no Jutsu!? Isn’t this Mikawari no Jutsu, Kousuke-san!」(TN: Mikawari no Jutsu = Kawarimi no Jutsu/Substitute Technique)

「It’s a little bit different. Naturally, I can also use Mikawari no Jutsu, but Banji Saikuu is something that is not limited to just myself. It designates things within a certain range around me and replaces them all with my clone body along with the space. Fufu, this is a more advanced technique.」

In response to the yell of Vanessa who was in a state of ‘Excitement Climax!’, Kousuke answered while brushing up his hair with a ‘fuh’. Kimberly and the bureau staffs came back to their senses from hearing the exchange of the two, and when they turned their gaze in that direction, there were the figures of Kousuke and the Grant family that had teleported to Emily’s side unnoticed.

「Wha wha wha, what happened? Thank god Emily! You are safe!」

「Emily, you are not hurt. Just what happened!?」

「Ca ca, calm down mother, father! You two are safe, but I am also confused here!」

The Grant family was in a state of ‘Bewilderment Climax!’. The parents and daughter hugged each other while showing quite the skill where they were rejoicing with their reunion while acting bewildered at the same time. The grandma opened her eyes a tiny bit saying「My? Is it morning already?」, but she soon went ‘munya munya’ and went to sleep again. What a grandma.

「Impossible, what kind of trick is that. Was that thing just now a puppet!?」

Kimberly raised an angry voice in half-panic, trying to find an explanation that his understanding could accept.

Toward such Kimberly, and then also toward the armed men and Chief Magdanese’s group, Kousuke suddenly lifted up his right hand to the sky and opened his mouth.

「Puppet? Ku-ku-ku-. Certainly, you can call it that. Isn’t that right――right me?」

Kousuke waved his lifted up right hand elegantly as though he was an orchestra conductor while making a finger snap pachin- and pointed at the right building. There,

「Or, you can also say that it is a dream, or an illusion, or even darkness. ――front me」

At the window in the right building’s second floor, a man in exactly the same appearance appeared as though he was oozing out from the darkness. The Kousuke that was called as “right me” then stepped out to the empty air without any hesitation and walked down in the air while spreading ripples that looked like black miasma.

「At the same time, it’s a reality, a counterfeit, and also a real thing. Right, ――left me.」

Kimberly and the others turned unbelieving gaze at the right building, but right after that, the same voice resounded from behind them this time. When they turned around in a panic, as expected, there was also the figure of a man in sunglasses and a black outfit showing his appearance, oozing out from the darkness of the building over there, as though he was born from the darkness itself.

「Although, there is no need for you all to understand. After all, understanding the true abyss with a human body, is something that cannot be done.」

The same voice entered their ears once more. When Kimberly and the others turned to the left as though they were being toyed around with, there, on the roof of a car that was parked horizontally to block the path, was the same man standing elegantly with his arms crossed and one of his feet drawn back slightly. Leaving aside a female investigator who was being greatly noisy「Real clone! Real clone!」in high spirits, everyone was lost for words feeling dumbfounded and astonished.

「Ko, Kousuke is, Kousuke is, four people……」

Emily’s whisper echoed faintly at the place where silence had descended. Right after that, the four Kousuke smoothly unsheathed their jet black short sword and made a cross shape with their arms.「Camera-, where is the camera-」 Leaving aside the female investigator looking around with a desperate look who was surely beyond hope already, the right-hand man of the demon king chuckled at the words of the girl who he had promised to protect while he called out to her.

「Emily.」

「Ye, yhesh」

Emily’s voice spontaneously squeaked because she didn’t think that she would be addressed here. Seeing the girl like that, the nearest Kousuke chuckled while asking her.

「I’m not an ally of justice. If those who don’t balk from harming others for the sake of their own will are called evil, then without a doubt, I am extraordinarily evil.」

「E, err……」

Emily-san was bewildered. She didn’t understand the meaning of those words, and she also totally didn’t understand Kousuke’s speech and behavior! But Kousuke didn’t pay that any attention to that because the one who was here wasn’t Kousuke anymore.

「But, I plan to at least bear in mind the moral code that I should stick to. Therefore, I will protect you. I will protect my promise to protect you. That’s why will you believe in me, and let me protect you?」

「……Ye, yes. I believe you, Kousuke.」

It didn’t seem like she wasn’t a little bit creeped out, but even so, the cheeks of Emily reddened when she was told: “I’ll protect you”. She joined her hands in front of her chest and returned back her trust as though in prayer. Toward her who was like that, Kousuke went「fuh」for who knew how many times today, and then lastly he spoke.

「Emily. And then, everyone here in this place. Listen-」

Each of the four Kousukes displayed diverse chuuni pose’s different from their original arm-cross pose that even left behind afterimages, while he raised a voice that echoed in the dark night!

And then, Kimberly and his group went ‘twitch!’ from witnessing that somehow amazing movement while they came back to their senses and aimed their guns toward the four Kousukes. Toward them, Kousuke declared! With a voice that was loud, proud, and echoed from the bottom of the abyss.

「I, am the shadow! The right-hand man of the godslaying demon king that was born from the bottom of the abyss! I came from the deep abyss, from the darkness that is deeper than even darkness! Now, engrave into your soul, this taboo name!」

The jet black short sword was swept, and the empty-handed left hand spread open its five fingers while covering the right eye. The left eye that sharply glared over everything emitted a penetrating light!

Kimberly gave his order「Fire! I don’t really get it but, anyway, fire!」. The armed group broke out of the bizarre atmosphere that restrained them, and they pulled their triggers simultaneously. In the space that was blanketed with a thunderous roar and muzzle flashes, “his” introduction rang out clearly.

「——Rapid Fang Shadow Claw, Kousuke E Abyssgate. I have arrived!」

The bullets that were fired without thinking of leaving behind any reserve, all of them cut through the empty air in vain. shu- Together with such a sound, Kousuke——no, Lord Abyssgate’s figure vanished!

Right after that,

「Crawl on the ground. Embrace the infinite hellfire! ——”Katon – Kouen no Ryuu(The flame of the abyss extinguishes all creation)!”(TN: Fire Escape – Prominence Dragon)

Lord Abyssgate appeared behind the armed group and stabbed his short sword on the ground while saying such a thing. Instantly, vividly crimson blazes gou- were spreading out in a radial shape like a great snake crawling on the ground.

Uwah-, what!?

Hot!? Shit-, the fire, the fire is coiling around me-

The flame was crawling below the armed group coiled on the men and twined around them burning them mercilessly.

——Short sword “Heaven Destroying Sword of Brilliant Lightning Flame”

It was one of the treasures bestowed to him by the demon king. Originally, it would create a flame snake that randomly ran around to make the area fall into chaos. It was an item that was enchanted with a sublimated flame element magic circle to assist in escape. Just as the name showed, it was also possible to do the lightning version of the attack, not just the flame version. It was possible to instantly activate two elements of magic for escaping or assisting in battle.

By the way, he thought up the naming himself. Together with a rabbit-eared woman of another world.

Some of the men were about to rush out reflexively, perhaps to help their comrades to put out the fire, but a black shadow slowly appeared right beside them, and they turned their guns with great reflexes. However, ton Lord Abyssgate’s palm lightly touched the man’s chest, and at that moment the man was blown away like a joke, as though he had been hit by a truck.

「The surge of darkness, corrode everything――”Rasetsu no Mashu(It is beyond your means to touch the abyss)”」(TN: Rakshasa’s Evil Hand)

「Ugoh!?」

――Fingerless glove “Rakshasa Black Hand of Second Advent and Rejection”

This artifact was inserted with “Magic Shockwave” that converted magic power into a shockwave――”Rasetsu no Mashu(It is beyond your means to touch the abyss)”, and regeneration magic “Daten no Ote(There is no end to the abyss)” that could regenerate what it touched to a certain degree. (TN: Daten no Ote = August Hand of Fallen Heaven)

By the way, the chief of the rabbit-ears thought and groaned for three days to come up with the naming.

「Die-, die-, this damned monster-」

Several men who fell into a panic and were brandishing their guns indiscriminately. The bullets that flew out randomly were something dangerous that might drag Emily and others, which they originally should’ve secured, into danger instead.

「How could you guys appeal to Emily and others while ignoring me. I feel lonely――”Zekkou Senjin – Shin’en no Kaina”」(TN: Light Severance Thousand Blades – Abyss’s Arm)

Lord Abyssgate had jumped to the sky unnoticed by anyone, and in midair, he swept his arm in a large motion. With that, four kunais appeared from empty air. Those kunais flew as though they had their own will; three of them stabbed the ground around Emily and the others ka-ka-ka- while the remaining one came to a stop still above them.

And, just before the stray bullets reached Emily and the others, they were obstructed by an invisible wall that had manifested in the space slightly ahead.

——Offense and defense dual-use gravity control kunai “Zekkou Senjin”

This artifact’s ability was almost the same as the demon king’s bit weapons. It would lay out space isolation defensive walls by making each other as a fulcrum. It flew freely using gravity control and could accomplish space teleportation by replacing their position with the user.

By the way, Kousuke didn’t have a thousand of these kunais. He had twelve. The one who named it as thousand blades was the rabbit-eared sniper boy. It seemed that the naming reason was「Heheh, stylish, right?」

「Don’t screw around-」

Kimberly howled. Lord Abyssgate was about to land on the ground with several kunais orbiting around him like satellites. Kimberly aimed for the moment when he would land and pulled the trigger. It was superb timing. Even while he was in a panic and confused, that was still an amazing judgment and technique. Furthermore, foreseeing that as a chance, even Allen also gave support fire to make it, so there was no place of escape. Perhaps this was the so-called the enemy of my enemy is my friend.

Lord Abyssgate smiled wryly. He fired a single kunai to the ground while falling and his body made a single rotation midair.

Invite to the abyss――”Doton – Shin’en Ryuusa”(TN: Abyss Quicksand)

Instantly, the ground undulated like a whirlpool, Lord Abyssgate slipped through the bullets and then smoothly dived into the ground. The true worth of Doton, IT COMES-――――!!The frenzied voice of the female investigator who was already beyond hope, startled Kimberly. At the same time,CALM DOWN VANESSAAAA-every one of Grant family was also startled from their beloved daughter’s shriek.

That became an opening where Kimberly was made to pay a painful compensation.

――Bulge, breaking wave. “Doton – Raiton Combination Art – Raika Hourai” (TN: Raiton = Lightning Escape, Raika Hourai = Lightning Flower Phoenix Arrival)

Such words were propagated from the whole darkness of night. Right after that, the ground underneath Kimberly bulged up with explosive momentum. And then, a roaring lightning attack burst out, like a roaring dragon climbing up to the sky.

-, gah!?

Kimberly was hit hard by hard rocks that came at him like a buckshot while an intense lightning attack showered him. Kimberly who couldn’t even make a proper scream was launched into the sky like in a cartoon.

For a moment, everyone’s eyes were fixed on that sight. In the middle of that,

「Be aware of your own sinfulness, o shadow of the country.」

「Wha-, the ground is again――」

Before he could finish speaking, Allen turned his head from the fright that attacked his spine. There, he saw the figure of Kousuke who flew out from the ground with a momentum similar to him being launched out. His figure, with both his hands spread and his legs lightly folded, was truly the pose of a savage eagle!

But, Allen also didn’t lose. Even while his eyes opened wide in surprise, he aimed the gun in his right hand with an amazing reflex and pulled the trigger.

But, Lord Abyssgate who floated in midair, with his body that could be said to be exposed to death, went「fuh」, something he had done a lot today, and dodged the bullet with a stylish midair spin.

And then, he kicked and sent flying Allen’s gun with a midair spinning kick fully filled with centrifugal force. In the next instant, Allen’s left arm moved. Of all things, a hidden gun came out from his left sleeve too.

「Got you-」

「No, that’s your illusion.」

Lord Abyssgate’s other leg cut through the air. Using the centrifugal force of the midair spinning kick; it was a second leg attack that wasn’t unlike a second sword. Allen’s hidden card was sent flying too quickly. Even so, the movement of the shadow of the country didn’t stop; he fluttered the sleeve of his coat and his right hand that should be snapped away reached toward his waist. There, a revolver for a quick draw was stored.

However, that out of the norm movement was already a step late in front of Lord Abyssgate.

「Shih-」

「Wha!? Gah」

A third kick attack. By twisting the upper body after the second spinning kick, it further connected to the third spinning midair kick. The right kick that returned to its original position after a rotation cleaved through the wind gou- while hitting hard the jaw of Allen who immediately tried to pull back.

Allen's body was blown away, and his body danced in midair while making a triple spin. The white of his eyes was exposed as he bounced on the ground. At the same time, Lord Abyssgate's feet also touched the ground.

「.....Abyss-style assassination martial art – kicking form.....”Hien Renkyaku(The bird of the abyss chirped three times)”」(TN: Flying Abyss Tempered Leg)

That unnaturally long pause was of course because he only thought up that name just now!

Putting aside the former investiga——the mere otaku who said「Aa, not just ninja art, but even martial art.....it's lovely」and the father-daughter who conversed「Emily, i, is this person alright?」「No, it's already too late for her, father」, the battlefield where the abyss lord had descended was filled with screams of chaos and despair where everything was merely trampled helplessly by the darkness that he brought about.

「I didn’t hear anything about this! What the hell is that guy-」

「Damn it-, don’t come here!」

A barrage of bullets surged along with thunderous sounds. But, Lord Abyssgate that was the target wasn’t even grazed. No, to be more accurate, the bullets actually hit. To the double or triple layers of afterimages following him every time he moved. It was as though the bullets were sucked in, shifted slightly from Lord Abyssgate’s body, and drifted toward the afterimages.

「――”Juuton – Keishi no Kage”. No one is able to seize the abyss.」(TN: Gravity Escape – Shadow of Unusual Death)

The combination technique from the skill “Phantom Step” and gravity magic――”Keishi no Kage”. While generating afterimages using “Phantom Step”, those afterimages were enchanted with gravity magic that averted every attack.

「……This is like, a B-class movie.」

Kimberly cursed like that while somehow raising up his body that was finally freed from the numbness. He vomited blood ‘gahah’. He looked at his surroundings while on all fours and made a dry smile.

The incarnation of death boasting overwhelming force that surpassed the speed of sound couldn’t even graze the existence before his eyes. Even though they were able to see him, even though they could perceive him, they were unable to grasp his real state. Even though they were fully observing him like this; yet when they noticed they would suddenly lose sight of his existence, and the next time they noticed would be when they were on the verge of having their consciousness swallowed by the darkness along with intense pain. And only the back figure of the lord that was in unrelaxed alertness.

Flames crawled on the ground, lightning flew wildly about, wind blades raised up blood splashes, and the ground swallowed everything. The shadow ran whether it was on the ground or the sky, vanishing and disappearing, while cloning itself into several bodies and sent kunais rushing through the sky ignoring gravity.

「Aa, shit. I really cannot go along with this-」

「That too, is the consequence of your choice, isn't it?」

「-」

Kimberly whispered once more while somehow crawling toward the nearest car, but right after that, a cool voice replied to him from right behind him.

When Kimberly looked back, there was the figure of Lord Abyssgate looking down on him. At the same time, dosha- a body of his comrade fell with a raw sound beside Kimberly. That body's neck was clearly twisted into a direction that a neck mustn't go.

「This, monster」

「You who prey on humans, who doesn't feel any hesitation at involving unrelated people, and slaughter your comrades for money, aren't you the monster?」

It was a scathing reply. Kimberly faced Lord Abyssgate with his body falling on his backside. When he noticed, he couldn’t hear any gunshots anymore. He looked around with just his gaze, but there was already no one standing on this battlefield.

No, there were barely some people. The soldiers of the special squad. With their backs facing the wall, they formed a half-circle to become the shield of Chief Magdanese. They were standing even while trickling cold sweat. Beside them was a clone body of Lord Abyssgate, they weren’t allowed to run away, but even so, they didn’t seem like fighting each other.

On the other hand, the organization members that Kimberly led here seemed to have passed on already without even any time to feel pain. There wasn’t anyone with a showy wound. A single stab in the heart, an internal organ destroyed using impact, the stopping of a heart with electricity, or the severing of an artery using a wind blade. Even the people that were enveloped in flames had their life severed by a single attack of the flying kunai before they died by the fire.

「Oi oi, what the hell. You overlook them, but slaughter us all? Just what is the difference between those guys and us huh?」

Kimberly cracked jokes even with his cheeks twitching while his body was sweating from pain and unease. Lord Abyssgate changed his hold on his short sword into a reverse grip while shrugging his shoulders at Kimberly.

「Evil with conviction, and a mere fiend. Is it fine to consider that both will meet the same end as a result? The answer, is no. ……Well, there is also the difference at the level of troublesomeness for the cleaning up afterward though.」

Lord Abyssgate was Lord Abyssgate. He wasn’t that demon king. A method of annihilating anything and everything when hostility was directed to oneself, was a method that he couldn’t take based from his sense of value and also his lack of means to clean up afterward, nor did he want to take it. Not to mention how this was Earth.

But, the experience that he had gone through was also not so sweet that he would let alone fiends scattering around malice for their own selfish desires, for their own pleasure. Therefore, he made his choice. That was all there was to it.

From the slight movement of Kimberly’s gaze, Lord Abyssgate guessed that he was wracking his brain for some kind of solution to escape from this situation. He unhurriedly walked toward Kimberly. And then, he violently grasped Kimberly’s collar and lifted him up with one hand easily.

「Uoh. Wait-, just wait! What happened wasn’t my real intention-. Even I have a circumstance; I cannot help it! Listen to me!」

Kimberly desperately beat at the arm of Lord Abyssgate that lifted him up from behind while speaking an excuse that would overshadow even the word unsightly. Lord Abyssgate lifted him up as he was like that, like a criminal that was crucified on a cross.

At the same time,

「Uh. I, I was……aa, if I’m not mistaken, I fainted!? Why am I lifted up!?」

Allen who fainted until now with the white of his eyes showing was lifted up similarly like Kimberly by a clone body and carried near.

The special squad soldiers starting from Chief Magdanese, and then Vanessa who was sending Kousuke a strangely sparkling gaze, Emily who was completely creeped out by such Vanessa, and the Grant husband and wife who were turning pale from the surrounding situations in a silent panic where they couldn’t even hide their bewilderment, were all paying full attention.

Amidst that, the lord drew back and recovered the kunais protecting Emily and the others while raising his voice.

「Emily Grant! Vanessa Paradis!」

「Fua, fhyes!」

「Yes, what is it my god?」

Emily who was suddenly called by her full name responded with a shaken stutter. As for Vanessa at her side, for some reason, she wasn’t shaken at all. Instead, she fell on one of her knees sucha-! right away, and replied with reverence as though she was kneeling before her lord. The end of her sentence caused Emily to goggle at her in shock.

But, even that no-good investigator Vanessa who wrecked the serious atmosphere like that immediately corrected her expression from the next words.

「I have captured the perpetrator that snatched away your precious family, your precious comrades.」

Yes. Kimberly snatched them away. Her esteemed superior Hughes. And also the life of her colleagues.

Yes. Allen snatched them away. Even indirectly, the lives of her substitute father, of her big brothers and big sisters.

「Can you two stay quiet?」

There was no way they could. Their hearts that had been paralyzed by the unusual situations started to move again. The scorching rage they had been holding in all this time started to blaze again like a fire that was put into a fireplace.

Emily stood up. The figure of her family floated around her mind. Because it was a command? He didn't directly do it? So what. It was beyond doubt, that what was scattered by the man in front of her eyes, had snatched away the life of her important people.

Vanessa stood up. What filled her mind, was the figure of the superior that she should aim for. And then, the figures of the comrades with whom she entrusted her life to and vice versa. Who was the one that shot at them from behind with a reason like "for the sake of money"? Who was the one who snorted at the offered trust while trampling on it? It was the shitty bastard before her eyes.

「O, oi, Vanessa. Wait, just calm down! I――」

「Silence.」

Vanessa slowly stepped forward.

「A, aa~, young miss? That, it was my bad that I blundered――」

「Shut up.」

Emily stomped forward loudly.

Both of them, the two woman who had survived to this point, walked forward side by side. Their expressions couldn't be seen from the shadow covering their face. But, their lips that were tightly pursed into a line spoke of their emotions more eloquently than anything.

They clenched their fists. Both of them broke into a run. The two men who became the origin of calamity imagined the future that would befall them and sighed. In their actions, there was contempt that could be seen, after all, what they faced were just females; furthermore, one of them was nothing more than a girl. Getting punched wasn’t really a big deal.

But, that contempt too disappeared right after that.

——There is no end to the abyss. The deep darkness envelops everything.(Now, beloved children. Let’s bestow the protection of the abyss to you.)

The moment that whisper was uttered, the night suddenly coiled about on the greatly clenched fist of the two. The blackly whirling light that gave such an illusion was increasing in strength with pulses each time the two took a step forward! Yes, it was as though, the abyss lord was increasing that strength with each passing of time!

Unease ran through the expression of Kimberly and Allen. Both of them didn’t understand what phenomenon that was. But, their soul understood this much. ‘That’s bad news-!’ Following that impulse, they raised their voice to stop the two.

□Wai——□

□Sto——□

□□No more discussion-□□

But, at that time the two were already right in front of them. Their hidden expression became exposed. What was there was a wicked look that even resembled evil Rakshasa.

ZUDAN- An impossibly loud footstep resounded. Cracks in the shape of a spider web ran through the ground! And then, it was unleashed. It was like a cannonball that blasted through the air, the fist clad in the abyss!

□FLY AWAY-□

□DIE-□

Emily’s fist at Allen, and Vanessa’s fist at Kimberly. Both of them put their whole feelings and their billions of rage, they spit out everything, and struck!

□□THIS SHITTY BASTARD-!!□□

GOU-!! The thunderous sound of hitting flesh and, □GUPEE!?□□GEHAH!?□such screams resounded. In the eyes of the lord that had the perception ability raised by “Heavenly Eye”, the sight of Kimberly and Allen’s cheeks getting ran through by a fist, their cheekbones were broken, their teeth pulverized, and their flesh squashed in undulation, was projected.

When the lord timely released his hand, Kimberly and Allen were blown away in a tailspin as though to prove that might and they bounced together on the ground. And then without any lessening in their momentum, they crashed into the car behind. Both of them cordially plunged through the windshield head first together, and in the end, only their butts were sticking out without even a twitch.

The sound of someone gulping their saliva gulp echoed. The soldiers of the special squad were making an expression that was shuddering in fear as though to say「Those fists are really damned bad news」.

Amidst that atmosphere, Emily and Vanessa who were standing still with their fist still outstretched slowly relaxed their tension. And then, they lifted their faces and gazed at the lord.

There on their faces floated a smile. Just by looking at their smiles, it could be clearly understood that even though it wasn't wholly, at least their expression had cleared up a bit.

「Both of you. ……That attack felt like it would make me fall in love.」

The lord gave words of praise while once more going「fuh」 that he had lavishly displayed throughout this day.

Emily and Vanessa looked at each other's face, and then, they turned their face to the lord one more time. Wordlessly, they both fixed a thumb up resolutely.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

This is not over you know? It's still continuing you know~.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 210

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Please Kill Me Instantly Instead……

AN: This one is short. There is a big possibility it will be rewritten, or added to.

"Now then, here we are o guardian. I'll grant you the chance to choose."

After Emily and Vanessa made their settlement with a fist of all their might (plus abyss), the lord that was observing Chief Magdanese and her group said such thing with his eyes shining.

In the silent night where the tumult of death and strife had passed, leaving behind the heaps of corpses of armed men all around, the voice of the lord resounded clearly. Emily and Vanessa, and also the Grant husband and wife duo who were a slight distance away, they all went 'hah' as their gazes turned toward that voice.

Even the special squad soldiers whose awareness had slackened slightly from the extermination of the enemy and the observing act from the lord began to put on a tense air once again.

"Choose?"

Chief Magdanese was pressing on her arm that was soaked in blood while standing up with the help of the agent beside her. Her cheek was dirtied by blood and painted her gruesomely, but she responded at the lord with a straight, calm gaze without even a grimace on her face.

「Yes, choose. Will you be exterminated in this place? Or will you take the second option?」

「What nonsense……I already told you my, no, the security bureau's will. If you want to kill us, then kill. Even if the country loses a pawn like me, it won't affect this country's system.」

She had made her resolve. Her cold gaze without any emotion in it discarded the lord's proposal as nonsense.

But, the lord wasn't making a "proposal" here.

「Certainly, I don't think that your death will affect this country's decision considerably. But, I believe that the influence of the living you is powerful, isn't that correct? Don't you think that influence ought to be used for the sake of the country's safety?」

「? What are you……-, such thing. That's a contemptible threatening isn't it.」

Yes, this was the "ultimatum" that was only dressed up as a "proposal".

Even if Chief Magdanese died, it would be impossible for the upper brasses of this country who knew about the appeal of 「Berserk」to retract back their hand. There would be some remaining that would keep trying. The successor of Chief Magdanese would succeed her duty or else that duty would simply be moved toward another organization.

But, if this great woman who could even be said to be a living legend used her position and all her influence to insist that【Berserk】was unneeded, or even dangerous, what would happen then? Chief Magdanese said that she was nothing more than a dog of the country, but sure enough, could the upper brasses ignore her full report?

From the lord’s conjecture, there would be no way for them to ignore her.

For the lord who was lacking in the means of cleaning up the aftermath with the country as his opponent, the method of bringing over Chief Magdanese to his side and make her revoke the【Berserk】case could be said to be the most realistic means.

Of course, the lord also had the means to make the top brasses of this country forget everything regarding 【Berserk】. He could make a request to that demon king. If he did that, the whole case would be settled without leaving any loose end.

But, the lord didn’t choose that. The dignity of the lord wouldn’t forgive him if he left this case’s resolving to other people wholesale even though he was the one that poked his nose into his case by his own. Above all, he thought of that person as a friend, and so there was no way he could treat him as a convenient existence. If he did something like that, then the lord wouldn’t be able to say that he was the friend of that demon king while raising his head high.

Therefore, for the lord, it would be for the best if Chief Magdanese herself put an end to this【Berserk】incident.

And in the case this option couldn’t be practiced, then it would be a war against the new security bureau without Chief Magdanese, no, against the country itself that was backing the bureau.

「This is different from threatening. This is a declaration. If your side wishes for a fight to the bitter end, then I will fight until this body is reduced into a worthless thing. Now, guardian. You can imagine using that sagacious mind of yours. In the end, just how many sacrifices will be necessary to stop this abyss lord.」

「……」

Chief Magdanese stayed silent. Her gaze surveyed the surroundings slightly without even speaking any words. What entered her gaze was the mere shadow of the armed men's former self. In contrast, the man before her eyes had not even a single wrinkle on his outfit.

In front of this person who utilized supernatural techniques that surpassed the realm of understanding, even the special squad of the security bureau would be powerless. His conduct and speech were also beyond comprehension.

Although, it was by no means that the winning percentage was zero inside Chief Magdanese's thoughts. No matter how much irrational strength this person had, as long as he was only an individual, he would be in a losing battle against an organization. Inside her head, she had already pictured several routes of killing the lord by using the "strength of organization".

But,

「Haa……」

She let out a deep sigh. From how the agent standing by beside Chief Magdanese was blinking his eyes, perhaps it was really rare for her to act like that.

But, if that agent knew about what was inside Chief Magdanese's heart, then surely he would feel that it couldn't be helped for her to make that deep sigh from the overwhelming fatigue drowning her heart, he would even feel sympathy to that.

(The right-hand man of the demon king……what's more, the "returnees", is it.)

Yes, the lord had proclaimed before. That he was the "right-hand man of the demon king". In other words, this embodiment of irrationality before her eyes was nothing more than a subordinate. In the end, was that existence which was referred to as a demon king, an existence that was even more powerful than this lord? That was something that Chief Magdanese didn't understand.

But, here, for some reason, her mind was naturally under the impression that this information was nothing significant——from that, and when the keyword "returnees" emerged in her mind, terrifying possibilities were welling out from inside her, one after another.

The returnee incident had shaken the society for a period. Naturally, the intelligence department of Britain also didn't ignore that incident. But rather than the boys and girls who were called "returnees", the intelligence department focused more in observing and dealing with the disturbing elements who were sniffing at the occult aspect of these "returnees". Even so, there was no doubt that Britain was paying attention to the『Returnees Incident』.

But, at one point in time, the heated up media and suspicious organizations that were showing disturbing movements suddenly stopped showing any movement. It happened so quickly, like the tide that was drawing back.

(Yes, that incident came to an end so naturally that it was unnatural. And then, I, and also the intelligence department, didn’t feel that it was unnatural!)

The existence of the lord and the few keywords that he put before her eyes opened up Chief Magdanese’s eyes.

——This person wielding supernatural power, is a “returnee”.

——The “returnees”, numbered thirty people in total.

——At the very least, there is an existence that this person looked up as above him.

——The recognition toward the “returnees” is weak and much less in their own country, but almost the whole world was like that.

——Even now, she doesn’t feel that it was unnatural about how weak this recognition is.

‘Just what’s with this situation’, Chief Magdanese thought. ‘The opponent is an individual’, such an assumption was an excessively hopeful conjecture.

「Let me, ask a question. Among all of you, how high are you in comparison?」

When that question left her mouth, she thought that there was really no meaning in asking that, even so, Chief Magdanese couldn’t help but asking the question. She wanted to know even if just a part, about “they” who managed to hide from the whole world even after having the attention from all over the world gathered on them at once.

Hearing the question from Chief Magdanese, the lord hummed「fumu」while touching his chin. He showed a gesture of thinking for a bit, and then he shrugged his shoulders in overreaction and answered.

「I can boast that I’m top class even among my friends. However……」

「However?」

The lord was putting on airs; however, Chief Magdanese only asked back quietly without showing any irritation. Toward her, the lord held his head high, and then he spoke in pride.

「Compared to our demon king and his ladies, I cannot hold a candle to them. Even in a one-on-one, using my whole body and soul, where I take out all of the trump cards that I have……dealing a scratch is the best that I can do.」

「……I see.」

The special squad soldiers were going slightly astir. An opponent that cornered them until they were in a half-destroyed state, and on his back there was still someone else waiting, someone that this person could do nothing except put a scratch on. What’s more, there were several such people. What’s more, he said ladies. Ladies-! The fingertips of the soldiers that were on the triggers were trembling! How envio——terrifying!

「Although, perhaps it won’t even become a fight against you guys, to begin with.」

The detail that was added like an additional blow convinced Chief Magdanese. It was just as she thought, even their awareness was being guided. That conviction caused a sigh to leak out from Chief Magdanese’s mouth once more.

And then, she asked the scale on her heart, and a bitter smile emerged on her mouth.

「Indeed, it's not worth it to continue this just for the merit of turning『Berserk』into a weapon. By the way, I wonder if there is any room for negotiation?」

「None.」

「Is it fine for you to say that even without asking that demon king-sama you respected?」

「Of course.」

A curt response. Chief Magdanese sighed for the third time.

「The effect and usefulness of『Berserk』are already known by the top brass. I cannot assert that this case will be resolved by me advocating for the opposing argument. It's my specialty to make an argument armed with theoretical backing; however, I cannot guarantee anything with certainty if I have to omit your existence in my argument.」

「Are you implicitly telling me to expose the information about me and the one behind me? Know this, guardian. In this world, there are things that shouldn't be known. ……Or rather, if I told you about them then it will be seriously bad news for me and for you too. Especially if anyone tries anything to the wive~s it seriously will be the end. It will be totally over for this country. If this is known, then there will absolutely be some fellow coming out to do a stupid thing, and this country will disappear from the map yea——cough-. Anyway, I have no intention of telling you anything about us.」

「……」

For some reason, it was as though the bare face came out from Lord Abyssgate. It was a momentary shiver that was obvious even through the sunglasses and black costume. Other than Chief Magdanese, even the soldiers were horrified. Just what kind of existence could make this aberrant existence to return to his bare face unconsciously!?

"Hhn, a, and, what is your answer?"

The lord cough unnaturally as though to pull himself together, and then he pressed the choices once more on them. The mind of Chief Magdanese was groping frantically for the best solution to her country even now at this moment, but she was aware that the answer had already come out from inside herself since some time ago.

The country's safety was everything for Sharon Magdanese.

Then, if what was waiting at the end of the path of pursuing that goal would be a war against an unknown, and furthermore, a powerful organization without equal that could even possibly overthrow this country, then that would really just be putting the cart before the horse. At the very least, she knew that in the current time she was overwhelmed in the information aspect and battle strength.

A long silence descended. The cold gaze of Chief Magdanese pierced straight at the lord.

The lord was also staring straight back at Chief Magdanese while crossing his arms.

Just how much time passed? Before anyone realized, Emily and Vanessa were already standing close to the lord; the soldiers were nervously gazing alternately between Chief Magdanese and the lord. It was at that time that the words that would decide their fate was finally spoken.

「……Fine then.」Berserk」is uncontrollable. Refinement of the wonder drug for it is impossible. At this rate, there is a high possibility of it adapting to the environment and starting an air-borne infection, the damage, in that case, will be vast. ……What do you think about that? Of course, I will put seasoning on that story sufficiently.」

「Wonderful. With this, there will also be no need for a joke like all the upper brasses of Emily's country showing the same symptoms as Alzheimer, despite that being the illness that she is fighting against. My greatest respect for your decisive judgment.」

「I don't need your respect or anything; however, I think that it's a silver lining that you are someone rational. ……Though honestly, I think there is something wrong with your speech and act.」

The words that were muttered in a whisper by Chief Magdanese in the end there, surely those words came half from being a sore loser, and half came from her heart.

The lord pretended not to hear that while his gaze moved to Emily beside him. By sending flying one of the causes that cornered her important people to death, her feeling had been diverted somewhat, but as expected, the flames of her hatred were still directed at Chief Magdanese who was the ringleader without weakening in the slightest.

「Emily. Just as you heard, we have procured a method to end this case. But, I know that this method is not something that you can really agree with.」

「……right」

Emily clutched the sleeve of the lord tightly. Her tightly pressed lips looked like she would bite on her lips anytime.

That look of hers eloquently exposed the inside of her heart that was yelling「These kind of people, it’s better if they all just die!」.

The lord questioned such Emily.

「I was the one who said that I would become your strength. That’s why, if Emily wishes for revenge, I’ll draw my blade against them. Emily, what do you want to do?」

Those words of the lord that came this late in the game caused the soldiers who were breathing a sigh of relief to make a tense expression just when they thought the talk was concluded already. It was only Chief Magdanese who was sending a calm gaze at Emily, as a criminal waiting for judgment.

The strength of Emily’s hand that was clutching the lord’s sleeve became stronger. Her figure that was looking down while trembling a bit as though she was holding down a great emotion looked even more painful to look at. But, the first words that were let out from such Emily was strong, it resounded with a dignity that made everyone there to be taken aback.

「Don’t look down on me.」

The gaze of Emily who lifted up her face stared straight from the shoulder of the lord. In that distance where they could feel each other’s breathing, there was a light other than hatred shining in those eyes of Emily.

「You are asking me that kind of question after finishing the talk, are you testing me? I’ll say it one more time. Don’t look down on me, Kousuke. I decided to walk this path because I wanted to become the strength of someone who is suffering from sickness because I want to keep alive even just one person more. There is no way I will trample on the best path you have grasped for me!」

Her voice resounded clearly. That will spread like a ripple. Surely, that will was something that wouldn’t lose even against the will to safeguard the country that Chief Magdanese displayed.

「Besides, I don’t happen to have a shamelessness that allows me to entrust others with killing people for my own sake. Vanessa that has been helping me all this time, and Kousuke who told me that you would become my strength, even though you are not related to this I absolutely won’t make that kind of horrible request to the two of you!」

Her cat eyes glared intensely. She was holding a blazing hatred in her chest; however, she didn’t mistake her path. This girl would immediately turn small in a crisis, she was a scaredy cat, and obstinate; however, it was obvious that inside this awfully straightforward girl, there was a strength that couldn’t be mistaken.

A faint smile emerged on the lips of the lord. Different from the fearless smile that he showed before this, it was a smile that was vaguely fleeting, and gentle. The lord’s hand reached toward Emily’s head in a natural motion. pon pon Light touches were conveyed to Emily.

「Emily. As I thought, you are a good woman.」

「.....Boe!?」

Instant petrification. Next, she turned into a completely ripe tomato when she comprehended what was said to her. The garnish was a weird shocked voice. And then, she noticed how their faces had approached each other’s until they were at a super close range where her lips would be able to touch if she stretched herself up a little, and how she was tightly clutching the lord’s arm. She went ‘awawa, hawawa’ while backing off in shaky footsteps.

And then, she noticed Vanessa who was giving her a thumb up, for some reason, while Chief Magdanese and the soldiers who were making complicated expressions, and then her family that was sending her a strangely lukewarm gaze……
「Do, don’t looook!」she said while turning small. She crouched and held her head with both her hands as her body was trembling from shame. That figure was truly that of a small animal.

The lord made a pleasant smile at Emily before his gaze returned to Chief Magdanese.

「That’s how it is. Guardian-dono, please, for the sake of this country’s safety too, persuade this country with desperation. There is no worth in effort. Results are everything. If anything is going to harm this child and the people in her surroundings, no matter what kind of shape that is――then know this, the abyss swallows everything without exception.」

「……I know.」

Chief Magdanese nodded quietly at the abnormal killing intent and pressure that was filling the last sentence. And then, she proposed that she would like to dispatch personnel to clean up this place and prepare a place to talk to each other regarding the organization behind Kimberly.

Indeed, they couldn’t just neglect the heaps of corpses, and it was essential to know about the organization behind Kimberly to save Emily completely. And so, the lord accepted that proposal while teaching them one fact.

That fact was that the number of body bags they needed to prepare was only for Kimberly’s comrades. Yes, actually the soldiers of the special squad, although they were all seriously wounded with their limbs’ tendons severed, or their internal organs terribly damaged, not a single one among them received lethal damage, none of them had died.

Thinking from the beginning that bringing over the security bureau to his side was one of the methods to end this case, the lord left them alive so as not to leave behind a seed of future trouble as much as possible. Although, even though the soldiers felt joy that their comrades survived, at the same time, their mind felt down from the terror that they were partially annihilated even when the opponent was holding back that much……but that was just a trivial matter for the lord.

Now then, for the moment, a relationship of cooperation was built with the security bureau, and the matter had reached a point where they could pause. It was at this time.

The lord, no, Kousuke heard. The sound of saa—. It came from inside his body. It seemed that he could hear for real, the sound of blood leaving his face.

Kousuke’s hand was moving toward his sunglasses with small shivers. And then he slowly took off his sunglasses with the item clattering rattle rattle.

What appeared from behind the sunglasses was a grandly convulsing expression.

Other than the agent who received Chief Magdanese’s instruction and made contact for personnel dispatch, everyone there noticed Kousuke’s pale expression that was obvious to see even under the faint moonlight. His eccentric atmosphere until just now was vanishing.

Kousuke turned on his heels wordlessly; however, everyone could clearly see his dead eyes. He started to walk unsteadily, and totteringly. Before long he reached the gap between the wall and stairs on the building, he flattened himself into the gap and turned small. Just like Emily-chan.

In front of the people whose eyes turned round in wonder, Kousuke buried his face in his knees and whispered in small but clear voice.

「Someone, please kill me instantly instead……」

He wished to be beheaded in the middle of the warehouse district.

It seemed that the compensation to become peerless was great.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Actually, I wanted to write more about the entanglement when Kousuke returned, yet the time wasss~.

Four months of work is seriously bad news.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 211

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

No More, I Want to Go Home……

AN: I’m sorry.

In the end, just posting the next chapter is the best that I can do.

Just what is golden week I wonder? Does it mean a week of demonic work?

Haha-

Because of that, I’m thinking of putting aside the rewriting and improving the previous chapter for the time being.

If there is anyone holding hope for that, my apologies.

「Hold on! Get a hold of yourself, Kousuke!」

Emily’s tragic call that didn’t suit the warehouse district at night echoed. Kousuke sat on the floor while hugging his knees; he was staring at empty air with the eyes of a dead fish, and a dry smile pasted on his lips. Emily was holding the collar of Kousuke while desperately jolting his body back and forth.

Everyone of the Grant family was staring at the situation with a bewildered feeling in wonder of what was going on while Vanessa was also throwing a doubtful gaze at Kousuke who suddenly became useless. Even so, she was running her gaze over the surroundings vigilantly in his place.

And then, at the end of her gaze were several bureau staff members and the surviving soldiers.

Yes, currently there were many bureau staff members in this place. When Chief Magdanese finished her talk with Lord Abyssgate, Kousuke suddenly turned into a state as though he was a stain on the wall. After that, Chief Magdanese called in bureau staff members to clean up the aftermath.

After all, the phrase of heaps of corpses all around perfectly suited this place right now. They couldn’t just leave the corpses like that, and the cars Kimberly and his group rode in to this place needed to be confiscated too. They needed extra hands for dealing with all those.

In addition, they needed to share information between the two sides regarding the organization behind Kimberly and also interrogate him. It was for that reason that Chief Magdanese and her group, and also Kousuke and others, were remaining here.

Both Kimberly and Allen now looked as though their former handsome look was only an illusion. Their caved-in faces were too tragic to look at, and they were still unconscious without even a twitch, and the white of their eyes was exposed. Several soldiers were watching over Kimberly, but he looked so atrocious that they questioned□Is there really a need to be guarded?□.

And so, they were still unable to hold the interrogation. Or rather, Kousuke’s heart was hurled to far beyond as though he was on the verge of being swallowed into the abyss, so currently, they couldn’t even exchange information with Chief Magdanese. Emily was doing her best, so Kousuke would return to his sanity but……the damage to Kousuke-san was deep.

Chief Magdanese received treatment on her arm that was drilled by a rifle bullet beside a car that was equipped with first-aid facilities, mixed among the injured troops. She was narrowing her eyes at Kousuke who was in such a state.

Although they had reconciled, or rather, formed a cease-fire agreement for the moment, but the other party was the great woman who carried both good and evil in her method. With Kousuke's state where he was currently murmuring in a broken language「I'm, fine. I'm, working hard. I'm, fine」, Vanessa also needed to endure various things and kept a watchful eye on the other side.

However, she wished that Kousuke would return to his sanity soon already. And so, looking at Emily who was desperately calling at Kousuke while her arms were circling on his head as though she was going to embrace him. Toward such Emily who was starting to reduce the sense of distance into one where it was hard to claim that they were just mere friends, Vanessa gave her advice.

「Doctor Grant. Can I say one thing?」

「Whaaat. Right now I have no free time to look after mere otaku heree!」

「That's impolite to call me a mere otaku. I'm not just an otaku. Even if I'm an otaku, I'm an otaku that is an agent——no, I'm the SOUSAKAN.」(TN: Sousakan means investigator in Japanese. All this time when I referred to some people from the security bureau as agent, the raw was actually calling them as sousakan or investigator. I changed them to agent in the translation though.)

「I don’t get it!」

For some reason, Vanessa and Emily pulled a smooth, funny man and straight man routine a little bit like a comedy duo. Emily went ‘fusha—’ like a cat while her gaze insisted「Be quiet a little!」. Of course, Vanessa-san was unstoppable.

「About my god, it appears that state of his that was overflowing with awesomeness not long ago, for some reason that I don’t understand it, put a burden on his mental state. And so, how about trying something that will make my god’s feeling to lighten up? Something that will make him happy.」

「That’s some good advice you have there……but you see, let me point out at just one thing! What’s with that “my god”!」

Emily Grant didn’t fail to notice that opening to be the straight man.

Vanessa showed a really irritating face that seemed to question「Just now, is that really something important?」, even so, she explained with the sense of values of good old Japan.

「Doctor Grant. The origin of why I call Kousuke-san as my god comes from the tradition and culture of Japan, that is the correct way of displaying respect, because that is a title of honor.」

「Wha, what do you mean?」

「In Japan, people who display transcendental skill, producing a result that cannot be matched by any other and ought to be given high praise, they would be called “~is god” (TN: Kami in Japan can mean god, but can also mean incredible or fantastic) in praise. Therefore, I’m praising “Kousuke-san is a god!”, or “Kousuke-san’s awesome style is seriously godly!!” is something that is really natural and par for the course!

I, I didn’t know that……

Vanessa’s finger snapped out powerfully and pointed to emphasize her claim. Emily’s expression changed just like when she received new knowledge from a university lecturer. ……She didn’t even notice how inside her arms, Kousuke was shot by Vanessa’s word bullets and he convulsed twitch twitch twitch.

It seemed that the SOUSAKAN’s mood became pleased looking at Emily’s attitude. Her tongue moved even more fluently.

Doctor Grant. This is a digression, but in Japan, every day new gods are being born.

Li, lies……in Japan, there are a lot of people like Kousuke!?

Emily showed a frightened expression. Her side-tail stood on end. Beside her, the expression of everyone in the Grant Family was grandly twitching. The eyes of Chief Magdanese narrowed so thin it looked like string now, and the soldiers’ expression turned grim as though to say Despair!.

……It seemed that the people of the security bureau were also pricking up their ears and listening really attentively.

Whether she actually knew that or not, Vanessa shrugged her shoulders with an overreaction that looked like a certain someone somewhere and said No no, how can that be and denied Emily’s words.

「As expected, even Japan(the country of fantasy) won't have anyone that is on the level of my god. However, it's the fact that gods endowed with technique and zeal which shake the soul exist there. ……Doctor Grant. Even you should've at least heard about it before. The other popular name of that country. Bringing forth gods into existence day after day, this alias displays that essence!」

「I, I don't know, I don't know what it is, Vanessa!」

It seemed that the strange switch inside Emily-chan was turned on. Or perhaps, she was simply someone that got easily swept away by the place's atmosphere. Speaking in terms of a story's tale, then she was definitely in the category of easy heroine. (TN: Easy heroine is those heroines in the story that easily fall to the main character just because of a few kind words or gesture, or sometimes without any clear reason at all)

Vanessa, who obtained an amazingly excellent audience, was showered by the supporting light that was the moonlight while she raised one hand to her chest, her other hand was spread widely, and with an air as though she was an actress on stage, she made the alias of the country she would forever love to resound.

「People call that country like this. ——The country where eight million gods are born.」

「That's not it-. Apologize to the sense of values of the good old Japan! You representative of a misunderstood foreigner!」

That statement of Vanessa was really too much this time, which caused Kousuke to flew out from the bottom of the abyss like a launched missile. He reflexively stood up while roaring angrily. Emily also got carried up to a standing position by his momentum, she said「Standing! Kousuke is standing!」which sounded like a joke material while revealing her joy.

「Congratulations of your revival, my go――」

Vanessa immediately fell on her knee with a thud and bowed like a retainer revering her lord, but her words were cut off in the middle. By hyu- the sound of cutting wind and the wind pressure grazing her cheek.

「Oi, Danessa. The next time you call me “my god” again……I won’t miss.」(TN: Danessa, in the raw, the katakana of ‘Va’ here is replaced with the kanji of ‘da’ which could mean, worthless, hopeless, useless, etc. Sorry, but I cannot think of any fitting translation to English for this)

A cold sweat smoothly trickled down Vanessa’s temple while she quietly looked across her shoulder. There, she could see a jet black kunai stabbed deeply in the ground. But, she wouldn’t get discouraged by something of that level. Such a thing didn’t fit for this SOUSAKAN!

「……Then, I’ll call you master.」

「Why!? Isn’t it fine if you keep calling me “Kousuke-san” the same as always!?」

「No, there is no way I can do that. As a person begging for teaching, I wish to take up an attitude that adequately expresses that!」

「Somehow I’m feeling an amazing spirit from you though. Somehow it feels a bit scary though. Or rather, begging for teaching?」

「Yes. Please accept me as your pupil by any means!」

「This development, is unexpected!」

The spirit of Danessa-san was full to the brim. After a total of five minutes of explanation that hit Kousuke like a surging wave……in short, she was awfully moved by Kousuke's strength, so please accept me as a pupil by any means, something like that it seemed.

To expand further, Vanessa was giving her explanation with an enthusiasm that was at the peak of the peak, so it went without saying that a lethal wound was dealt once more on Kousuke's shame.

She said how magnificent the pose of Lord Abyssgate was while reproducing it with a perfectly copied motion; she also chuckled 'fuh' while saying「The moon tonight is wonderful!」……. Kousuke was covering his face with both hands while shaking his head screaming「Stooop! Please, stop it alreadyyy!」.

「Why a pupil huh. I don't get how your thought process is working anymore.」

「I think that if anyone witnesses those numerous techniques which look like a Japanese ninja, it's only natural that they will want to receive teachings though……」

「Have some self-awareness. The natural that Vanessa is saying is generally unnatural you know. Or rather, you are an agent of the security bureau, right? What are you going to do about that, huh?」

Kousuke averted his face looking rather unpleasant after seeing Vanessa's fierily sparkling gaze while gently giving his refusal.

Vanessa glanced at Chief Magdanese before, for some reason, she went□fuh□with a smile that looked really irritating. Chief Magdanese's eyes twitched in reaction.

□In the first place, I entered the security bureau because I thought that□Isn't something like an agent that fights against evil really cool?□□

□That motive is like an elementary student huh……□

□Even after I safely became an agent, my heart was throbbing from thinking□Won't I get dragged into a national conspiracy, I wonder?□while I went through the days.□

□Your way of thinking is seriously like an elementary student.□

Chief Magdanese covered her eyes with one hand. Her emotion could be easily guessed. There were several of the soldiers that averted their eyes a bit and others that sent Vanessa a lukewarm gaze. Surely, they were the same kind as this Danessa.

□I was moved when I met with the chief the first time. She is the living legend that handed down swift yet cool-headed judgment. When I actually met her and felt her atmosphere on my skin, I thought□Eh, what, isn't this a real-life M!□. I instantly decided then. □Yosh, I'll become a real ○07□□

□Oo~i, chief-sa~n! It seems that this otaku SOUSAKAN wanted to become your 0○7!□

Chief Magdanese whispered□……The Paradis that I knew, was just an illusion□with a tired expression. And then, when she averted her gaze away as though to say that she couldn't bear to see any more than this, ahead of her gaze she witnessed the soldiers and bureau staff who were giving out an air that said「Yep yep, I get that~」. Her cheeks were twitching grandly.

「However, yes, However! I had seen it! I had known it! That there are things in this world that not ought to be known! Yes, it’s you!」

「Guhah. I, I let my guard down. It all came back at once.」

「Compared to master’s awesomeness, this M wannabe chief is just too shabby. What I should aim for is right here! Master, I beg you. Please, accept me as your pupil.」

Saying that Danessa-san bowed her head. As for the chief-san, after getting arbitrarily treated as a fictional character, getting an expectation arbitrarily put on her, and in the end, she was called shabby, she pulled out her handgun with a gaze that was like a tundra. Seeing that, the squad captain beside her holding her from behind while saying「Ca, calm down-, chieef!」to stop her.

While sending a glance to that commotion, Kousuke, who was given a petition from someone to be his pupil for the first time in his life, sighed loudly while saying a word.

「Rejected.」

He cut down the request resolutely.

However, it seemed that Vanessa had predicted that from the beginning. She nodded once without particularly losing her composure. And then, she spoke a request that she seemed to have been prepared beforehand, or rather, this one seemed to be her heart’s actual desire.

「Then, please sleep with me.」

「Your crypticness just knows no bound there! What are you saying!? Just what the hell you are saying!?」

「Vanessa!? Wha wha wha wha, what is your intention!?」

Kousuke was greatly shaken while Emily, who was previously in a daze from the exchange between Vanessa and Kousuke, was revived in a single shot.

Vanessa was explaining with her gaze staring at Kousuke without any trace of shame in it, or rather, her gaze was like a hunter aiming at a prey. According to her explanation, the point was that if it was impossible for her to become his pupil then ‘I will become your woman!’, something like that. If she received the privilege to stay by his side like that, then later she would steal his technique by herself, she said.

「Impure! That’s impure-, Vanessa! So, something like that, if it’s not properly between two people who love each other――」

「No, Doctor Grant. I wish that you won’t misunderstand me like that. I won’t offer this body just for the sake of my objective whatever it is. I have fallen in love normally. Or rather, I have gotten wet.」

「W, we, weeet――」

Emily-chan buried her face in Kousuke’s shoulder. Her face went bright red until not only her ears but even down her neck. And then, the confession that was too much of a straight ball caused Kousuke to forget the hopelessness of his talking partner temporarily, and he unconsciously turned red.

「Please don’t worry, Kousuke-san. Perhaps I don’t look like it, but actually, I’m a devoted woman.」

「N, no, even if you appeal to me like that. In the first place, you see, I actually――」

「Tha, that's right! For Kousuke and Vanessa, such thing a is……no good! It's absolutely no good!」

Kousuke was about to say「have a lover」, but Emily-chan, who was at her absolute limit, pulled tightly on Kousuke. She embraced him as though to cover him, or possibly to claim that she wouldn't let him get taken away while her almond-shaped eyes glared really threateningly.

「Please don't worry, Doctor Grant. I'm completely okay even just as a mistress.」

「Thi, this is not that kind of problem!」

Vanessa-san's freedom was unstoppable. The bureau staff who were working hard at dealing with the corpses laying all over the place without getting any late night overtime pay already stopped still. They were gazing fixedly at the conversation of Kousuke and co. With bloodshot eyes, shaking fist, and then curses that were leaking out unintelligibly.

「E, excuse me. Can I interrupt a little?」

In the middle of the growing pandemonium, a timid voice called out to them. Looking toward that voice, Emily's father Carl was staring at Kousuke, Emily, and Vanessa with a really complicated expression feeling unsure of what to say.

「That, Abyssgate-san, should I call you that?」

「It's Kousuke. Are you listening? My name is Kousuke.」

Carl’s natural mentioning of Abyssgate caused the mini Kousuke inside his heart to vomit out blood. Even while he was plainly eating damage, Kousuke vigorously pressed on to correct Carl. Carl nodded obediently at that even while he was feeling creeped out.

“Err, Kousuke-san. First, let me say my gratitude. You are the benefactor of the Grant family. If it’s something that I can possibly do, then please ask anything from me so I can express my thanks to you. I won’t inquire about that mysterious power of yours. Surely, there are various circumstances about that……. But, there is one thing that I want you to tell me no matter what. ……Just what is your relationship with my daughter? You two look really intimate with each other……”

A color of awkwardness was residing inside the gaze of Emily’s father, Carl. That gaze was seeing the figure of his beloved daughter who was hugging Kousuke firmly even now.

There, it seemed that Emily finally noticed how she was clinging all over Kousuke. She raised her voice“Awah!?” while backing away with her hands going banzai. (TN: Like when people yell banzai, they will raise their hands high)

“Aa~, no, it’s not, our relationship is not like what Carl-san is thinking. I am just her bodyguard, just a friend.”

“Friend, is it……”

Carl’s gaze was directed to his daughter once again. He could see the vision of a dark cloud with the sound effect doyoo~n behind Emily. She was obviously feeling down when she heard “just a friend” said so easily. Even if he wasn’t her father, it was completely clear that Emily wasn’t thinking of Kousuke as just a mere friend anymore.

Carl made a complicated expression at that condition of his beloved daughter. And then, the one that threw a stone and caused ripples there was obviously this person.

「Kousuke-san. The way you are saying that is just too much. Even though Doctor Grant had already offered her precious thing(peeing)……」

「Offering her precious thing!? E, Emily! What is the meaning of this!? Explain it to your father!」

「Yo, you are wrong, father! That, isn't something like that……that was because Kousuke was mean to me, it couldn't be helped at all!」

「Wha-. You are saying that your precious thing was stolen because you got bullied!? Su, such thing……」

Emily's cheeks were dyed red from shame, and she turned small. It was her usual style, but right now, in this place, it also could be seen as a girl who crouched down because she got hurt. Actually, even Emily's mama Sophia went「Emily! Aa, you are trembling like this, how pitiful!」and hugged her tightly with a tragic expression.

As for Kousuke,「"Being mean" and "bullying" has a really different nuance there!」he made a retort inside his heart, but it was the fact that he acted mean and shamed Emily because of that, so he was hesitant of what to say. He absolutely didn't do an atrocious thing like what Carl and Sophia were imagining but……. Or rather, it was him who got dirtied that time…….

The Carl's gaze, who was desperately holding down his rage, was cornering mini Kousuke inside his heart.

□Abyssgate-san. You are my family’s benefactor. My words that I want to repay you with anything that I can possibly do aren’t a lie. But, but-, please spare just my daughter! Like this-! Please, I beg you don’t shame my daughter more than this-!□(TN: The word shame here can also mean rape or violate in Japanese)

□You are wrong! It’s a misunderstanding! I’m telling you I’m not that kind of brute!□

Starting from Chief Magdanese, the bureau staff were all giving Kousuke a cold gaze. It was as though they were looking at a criminal.

After that, the misunderstanding was resolved somehow by Kousuke’s desperate justification and the flustered words of Emily who noticed that an outrageous misunderstanding had been generated.

Although, because of the fault of Danessa who put in a timely interruption with mistaken good intentions, the misunderstanding that Japan was overflowing with boys who hungered for a “reward” from a beautiful girl permeated not just the Grant family, but even the bureau staff. In the end, Emily’s blunder of wetting her pants became known far and wide, and her soul embarked on a journey. When Kousuke consoled her, seeing that and thinking that the two would go into a relationship by themselves, Danessa casually added in her mistress application. Kousuke was flustered by himself with□This isn’t an affair! This isn’t an affair at all!□……

Through this and that kind of ruckus, the cleaning up of the site somehow finished, and finally, really finally, the discussion between Kousuke and co with Chief Magdanese’s group could start. It was at that time, one of the bureau staff that was holding a communication device rushed toward Chief Magdanese.

From the condition of that staff member who had a tense expression on his face, it seemed that some kind of uncommon situation was occurring.

The staff handed over the communication device that seemed to be connected to somewhere to Chief Magdanese who was looking doubtful.

「Chief. This is the smartphone recovered from Kimberly. …… The caller said to hand it over to you.」

「……I see. The preparation?」

「All okay. But, it’s likely the other side is taking countermeasures. Please prolong the talk as much as possible.」

「I know. Everyone, don’t make any sound. I’ll put it on speaker.」

Chief Magdanese accepted the smartphone that was put on hold and quickly gave out instructions. Nervousness spread between the staff and soldiers. From the situation, it seemed that the organization behind Kimberly was attempting to contact them. The call was put on speaker so that Kousuke and the others could grasp the situation too.

The one on the other side of the call most likely was the organization that was the ringleader of everything. Perhaps they finally contacted the phone because there was no result report from Kimberly or because he failed to make contact regularly.

Emily’s expression vanished, Danessa returned to Vanessa, and Kousuke’s eyes quietly narrowed.

Inside the back of the car that was loaded with specialized equipment, one of the staff wearing a headset made the OK sign. Chief Magdanese nodded once and pushed the call button.

「This is Sharon Magdanese, the chief of the national security bureau. You are?」

「How do you do, chief-dono. Although it’s only through a phone, it’s an honor that I can talk with a living legend like you. I, let’s see……can I ask you to call me Odin?」

「……Pretending to be the chief god of Norse Mythology? It’s really painful listening to you trying to match your theme with Berserk’s naming like that.」

For some reason, Kousuke pressed on his chest. Vanessa’s lips grinned broadly just for an instant. But, right now was a serious time, so everyone cordially ignored them.

「How biting. As expected from the iron woman who has shouldered the country’s safety for many years until now. Even though I granted Kimberly-kun quite a lot of manpower, as expected, it seems that it’s too heavy of a burden for him to be your opponent.」

「Enough with the idle talk. Get straight to the point.」

「It’s really sad that you are lacking in playfulness……well, I guess it’s fine. I only have one demand. Hand over Emily Grant that the security bureau is sheltering.」

Emily’s shoulders shook from shock. Seeing that, Carl and Sophia nestled close to her and gave her a hug to support her.

"Do you think, that I'll comply with that demand?"

"You have no choice but to comply. If not, berserkers will raise the first cry of their birth in the middle of city. Just like this."

Right after that,

"a, Ga, aAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!!"

A shriek resounded in the warehouse district at night. Everyone was startled, and their gaze moved toward the source of the roar.

Over there was the figure of Kimberly convulsing fiercely with the whites of his eyes still exposed. The handcuffs restraining his hands on his back were raising a creaking sound, displaying how great the pressure that was being put on it.

"Get back! Everyone get back! Take distance and surround him in a half-circle!"

The chief's order resounded, and the soldiers moved simultaneously. The staff was also moving quickly even with an uneasy look emerging on their face so that they wouldn't be a hindrance to the special squad.

Everyone understood. The abnormal state of Kimberly's was the symptom of him transforming into a berserker. But their expression was overflowing with bewilderment and doubt. That couldn't be helped. Kimberly wasn't seen consuming the drug of"Berserk". If someone was dashed with the drug, then they would turn into a berserker in a matter of seconds.

The question was how could Kimberly, who was in restraints until just now, display this kind of symptom at this time.

Kousuke and Vanessa shifted their position to protect Emily and the Grant family while taking a wait-and-see stance. During that time, Kimberly finally tore off the metallic shackle using his enlarged body and reinforced muscle.

「oOOOOOOOOOOOO!!」

Kimberly, whose looks now had overreached a little bit too much from being a wild-type, glared at the surrounding with bloodshot eyes. No one understood how Kimberly suddenly turned into a berserker, but even so, it didn’t change the situation that there was a threat before them.

Therefore, the captain was about to give the shooting order.

「Kimberly-kun. Thank you for the great demonstration. …… You can die already now.」

「Gih, gah!?」

The voice of the man who introduced himself as Odin streamed out from the phone speaker. It was a death sentence that sounded really light. In the next moment, Kimberly, who even now was deciding on which prey to attack, suddenly twitched and convulsed, and then began to writhe in agony while raising an anguished voice.

While everyone was feeling baffled, white smoke was rising from the whole body of Kimberly, and his body was enlarged even further while an unpleasant sound book book could be heard. And then, the moment when his body height reached three meters, he dried up and shriveled all at once like a balloon that was leaking out air.

□……This is……Berserk overdose?□

Emily whispered in a daze. The symptom occurring in Kimberly’s body was exactly as Emily diagnosed. It was indeed due to a□Berserk□overdose.

□What, did you do?□

With an expressionless gaze, Chief Magdanese was staring at her former subordinate who was meeting his end in an excessively gruesome fashion while she threw a question at the smartphone she was holding.

□You can guess, can’t you? It’s not something that is especially difficult. A capsule filled with a normal dose of □Berserk□, and another capsule made from concentrated □Berserk□that is three times the amount for an overdose; those capsules were set so they would break using a remote control, and then I made Kimberly-kun swallow them. Even without the antidote, I can dispose of him using the overdose, that’s how it is.□

Odin’s words caused most people to be speechless. Even calling this man as inhuman still felt lacking. This act should be called as fiendish among the fiendish. But, Odin continued his speech as though to say that there was no need to even pay attention to something like that.

□Now then, I think you understand already, but if you refuse to hand over Emily Grant, perhaps a berserker will suddenly appear in a city somewhere. You know, I have faith that you who is shouldering the safety of this country will not commit any foolish action that will lead to that.□

□No negotiation with terrorists. That is the international practice.□

「Terrorist? Let’s not make a joke. I am a businessman. I’m merely doing the best I can for the sake of profit. This is a transaction. I think it’s only common sense for the side that makes the proposal to obtain an advantage in the negotiation.」

「……」

Chief Magdanese fell silent. This man didn’t think anything of murder. No matter how many sacrifices it would result in, if it was for his own profit, then he would surely discard everything. Her abundant experience told her that Odin’s warped and broken sense of values was the real thing.

She felt a slight hesitation. The figure of Kousuke was reflected in Chief Magdanese’s quietly opened eyes. He was staring straight back at Chief Magdanese.

Next, Chief Magdanese looked at the Grant family. Carl and Sophia who were hugging Emily close were looking so pale they looked like they could faint at any point; their expressions were grievous ones. But, as for the daughter in question Emily,

「……」

「……」

There was no word. For a moment, Emily’s gaze moved away from Chief Magdanese toward Kousuke at her side. And then, within a moment, a small smile emerged on her lips. Like that, a flame was blazing within the eyes that returned toward Chief Magdanese. It was the flame of rage and resolve. That passion was certainly conveyed toward Chief Magdanese.

「Fine. I’ll hand over Emily Grant.」

Carl and Sophia were about to protest loudly with despairing expression, but Emily herself stopped them.

「That’s a heroic decision, chief-dono.」

Odin’s voice turned slightly lively. His superiority complex oozed out from being put on an overwhelmingly dominant position.

After that, Odin told them the delivery place and the method of delivery before cutting off the communication.

「How is it?」

「……I’m sorry. We were led astray by a dummy.」

Chief Magdanese returned a brief『I see』to the vexed staff. It seemed she really didn’t expect much from that venue. In exchange, her gaze captured Kousuke.

「And? What will you do?」

Kousuke shrugged. He looked back across his shoulder at Emily. No word was exchanged between the two. But, when Kousuke nodded with a grin, Emily smiled softly without even a speck of unease there.

Kousuke who turned toward Chief Magdanese again then smiled fearlessly while replying.

「The other side expressly showed their tail to us. There is no reason to stay quiet, isn’t there? This is where both sides alternate the offense and defense turn. I am the hunting dog, and they are the prey. It’s time to punish them grandly.」

Chief Magdanese sent a brief glance at the shivering Vanessa before making a deep sigh, and then she whispered with a faint smile.

「Hunting dog? Call yourself Fenrir instead. I’m feeling like going along with that god make-believe, just for a bit.」

The soldiers who seemed to catch that whisper were smiling wryly while nodding. Vanessa-san was sending Chief Magdanese a gaze that seemed to say「Even the chief can also speak a really excellent line huh」.

……For some reason, Chief Magdanese felt like she wanted to go home very much.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Postscript

I also wrote this on my activity report, but the latest chapter of the comic version was updated.

I put up the activity report late at night, so just to be sure, I reported it here too.

Kaorin is a superheroine, so if you have interest, please try to have a look at Overlap-sama’s homepage without fail.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 212

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Salmon Sandwich is Justice

Part 1

The sun was just reaching its peak, when the warmth could be felt even in this chilly air.

It was also time for an afternoon break. Places like cafés in the downtown area were bustling as they began to fill with housewives and company employees.

In one such café, the wooden building, complemented with furniture, tables, and chairs that were similarly made of wood, brought out a chic, calm atmosphere. It was an old shop that was locally famous. Kousuke was also there.

The inside of the café was spacious. Even the second floor was usable, which was rare for an old shop. About a third of the café, starting from the entrance, was used as an atrium, so someone standing near the banister on the second floor could observe the situation on the first floor. Kousuke and co were sitting around the table near the banister on that second floor.

「Britain has a strong image of bad food, but a delicious shop is normally delicious, isn’t it?」

「Kousuke……it’s not like I’m saying that it’s bad, but what are you doing eating normally like that? Even though this is a place that the enemy designated……」

Kousuke was stuffing his cheeks enthusiastically with a salmon sandwich, one of the specialties of this café. Seeing that, Emily made a troubled expression while she took a sip of her own tea that had been mixed with a lot of milk.

「Isn’t it fine, Doctor Grant. He doesn’t lose his presence of mind even in moments like these. As expected from Kousuke-san. I’m getting wet.」

「Paradis, please bear the TPO in mind. I’ll arrest you for public obscenity.」

Vanessa, who at a glance looked serious with her crisp expression, ran her mouth saying such obscene things. Before her partner, Emily could make a retort as the straight man, an intensely chilly warning was given. It was Chief Magdanese, who was drinking black tea with a composed atmosphere.

Yesterday, after they received contact from the mastermind who introduced himself as Odin, an email that detailed the time and place to hand over Emily Grant was sent to the smartphone Kimberly left behind.

It was this place. It was a bit unexpected for the delivery to be done in this café in the afternoon when it was overflowing with people, but when an additional instruction that stated that Chief Magdanese would be the one doing the handing over at that place, this method could be said to be very clever.

The habitual practice for something like this would be for Emily alone to be present at the designated place, but naturally, the enemy would be on guard against tracking. And then, what they would be worried about the most was in a case that a countermeasure that was beyond mere tracking was applied.

Yes, they feared that the security bureau would take a step to erase Emily. It was hard to imagine that the security bureau would let go of Emily under their very nose to the hand of the enemy after they knew the value of「Berserk」. In this situation, such last measures had to be kept in mind.

Emily going alone to the designated place where she then got retrieved by the enemy, if she wasn't attached with a tracking device but an explosive instead……. Honestly, that would be unbearable. Even the enemy was a creature that belonged in darkness, which was why they knew about how lacking in mercy Chief Magdanese was.

But, if they designated a place that was crowded like this, and furthermore, they also made Chief Magdanese attend, then as expected, even Chief Magdanese wouldn't be able to take that kind of measure without a doubt. And then, they would ascertain that Emily really didn't carry anything unnecessary at the scene.

By the way, Kousuke and Vanessa attending the handing over were due to Chief Magdanese's instruction. Naturally, the enemy instructed for Chief Magdanese to do the handing over alone, but it seemed that she would take a stance of「I brought them by mistake. It can't be helped that they are here, right?」.

Kousuke wasn't even hiding himself but from the perspective of the enemy who was desiring Emily so much so that a hand could reach out from their throat. It seemed that they wouldn't be able to do anything other than complain about the violation of instruction of this level. Leaving that aside, it was better for Kousuke and Vanessa to be at Emily's side to show that they weren't yes-mans, and also to support Emily's heart.

Although, honestly, putting aside Kousuke, perhaps it was a bit of a failure to let Vanessa attend too. That was what Chief Magdanese was thinking.

「And, it’s okay that you are entranced by the salmon sandwich, but what about the state of the surroundings, Mr. Abyssgate?」

「It’s Kousuke. Are you listening? My name is Kousuke, okay, chief-san.」

「Yes, I understand Mr. Abyssgate. And? There aren’t any reports about something suspicious from the deployed personnel, but I wonder if there is anyone suspicious slipping in the crowd?」

「……The plump middle-aged man in the grey suit entering the café just now, and the emaciated middle-aged female arriving right now. It’s vague, but they are looking strangely nervous for someone who only arrived for lunch.」

Chief-san didn’t change the way she called him no matter how many times he said it. Perhaps she was unexpectedly bearing a grudge from getting her prided squad half-destroyed. She gave no damn at the reproachful gaze of Kousuke. While pretending to drink her black tea, using a receiver attached to her arm cuff, she called the attention of the personnel that were standing by without showing off any unnatural movement, or sign.

Emily, who was smiling faintly seeing that exchange, then sighed a bit. It was as though she was unraveling her breathing that she didn’t realize was tense. Kousuke, who sharply noticed that, moved his reproachful gaze from Chief Magdanese toward Emily.

「What’s the matter, Emily? As I thought, are you feeling scared?」

It seemed Emily was happy that Kousuke noticed the small change in herself. She returned a soft smile at Kousuke’s worried gaze. Inside that smile, there was a heat that was unmistakably filled with immense trust and an even more immense special feeling that could be seen in a glance.

「I’m fine Kousuke. I was a bit tense, but I’m not scared or anything. Because Kousuke is staying by my side. Surely this spot is the safest place in the world.」

「Uh huh.」

Kousuke replied curtly. However, that wasn’t because he was apathetic, but because he was shy from the trust and goodwill that a beautiful girl was sending to him without any doubt. His faintly red ears showed that more eloquently than anything.

By the way, the Grant family was currently being safeguarded in the truest meaning at a facility of the security bureau. The elites of the security bureau and Kousuke’s clone body were standing on guard there, so it could be said to be completely safe. That too made it, so no unease and fear existed in Emily’s heart.

「I’m also not scared you know, Kousuke-san. I believe in you. I love you.」

「Wait Vanessa! What are you saying out of nowhere! It’s no good if you say something like that so lightly!」

Vanessa-san nonchalantly confessed her love with an extremely serious expression. Emily’s cheeks turned red while she retorted, or rather, she intimidated. The voice of her heart「Get your hands away from my Kousuke!」felt like it was audible somehow.

Kousuke, who got goodwill directed at him from two women, was troubled. Should he convey the truth that he couldn't properly say since last night due to the all the mess――that he actually had a beloved lover who his heart had decided on? No, he definitely should tell them about it, but the problem was choosing the timing.

Just what kind of change would occur in Emily's mental state if Rana's existence was shed light on during this series of events that showed no sign of stopping……. It was a matter that ought to be informed to her quickly, but in the worst case, it would bring about a bad influence during the situation from here on.

Even while Kousuke kept worrying 'uu~n', he saw how the straightforward (?) confession of Vanessa, who knew no shame, was causing Emily's face to turn red before she shook her head with her side-tail shaking left and right, her mind worriedly thinking「Uu, is it better if I properly speak out too? But, that's really embarrassing!」. That caused him to determine himself that it was better to say it clearly with urgency.

「He, hey, Emily.」

「Whaaat, Kousuke.」

Emily-chan's cheeks loosened up broadly in a smile, as though she was happy only from getting called. There was a theory that it was easy for a man and woman who were sharing a dangerous situation to convert the nervousness they felt at that time into the emotion of love, but in Emily's case, it seemed that theory was spot on. As expected from an easy heroine.

Seeing how Emily was like that, Kousuke went「Uuh」as his words got hitched inside his throat. From Emily who was waiting for Kousuke's words, he could see the vision of dog ears on Emily's head and a dog tail on Emily's lower back. Those visions were shaken to the left and right energetically. She looked like a loyal dog that was waiting for her owner's word.

――Genius girl wearing a lab coat, cat eyes, blond hair, side-tail, charisma guard, peeing girl, straight-man attribute, easy heroine. And then, loyal dog attribute toward someone she liked.

Just how many attributes was she planning on adding……

Honestly speaking, the figure of Emily waiting for his words with a wide smile was really lovely and charming. But, exactly because of that, Kousuke resolved himself and opened his mouth.

「Yo, you see, I, actually――」

「They are coming. Stop with the youthful scene there, focus yourself.」

Chief Magdanese's cool voice interrupted him decisively. Kousuke's cheeks were twitching. Emily's expression turned puzzled, but she immediately tensed her expression.

Chief Magdanese and Vanessa were looking downstairs. There were three men wrapped in black suits and coats. Their expressions couldn't be read because of the sunglasses they were wearing, but their atmosphere was obviously different from a civilian's. Those who understood would understand. These three had a heavy air coiling around them, the air of someone used to immorality and violence.

The three men were slowly looking over the inside of the café, and then they noticed the gaze of Chief Magdanese looking down at them from the second floor, and they lifted the corner of their lips. And then, they climbed the stairs that connected to the second floor.

"Hmph? Chief-san, what is the meaning of this?"

"Is there any problem?"

One of the men stood still and shifted his sunglasses while glaring at Vanessa. But, Chief Magdanese calmly replied to the question, so the man only snorted before sitting down on an empty chair. The other two were sitting on chairs at the neighboring table.

The moment the man sat down, his gaze crawled all over Emily without any reservation. Emily looked aside without even hiding her disgusted look. And then, perhaps because it was his habit, the man snorted again. And then without even asking permission, he took the ginger ale Kousuke ordered and drank the content in one gulp.

"Well, no matter. Our side won't make any complaints if you hand over Emily Grant to us. I think you understand, but don't have any stupid ideas. Including tracking."

The man lightly lifted his hand. In response, one of the men took out a small device from his breast pocket. And then, he pointed that device at Emily. It seemed that it was something to search for transmitters.

At the same time, the man took out something square from his breast pocket. It looked like a Zippo lighter which made a kin- sound when its lid was opened. Inside it wasn't anything like incendiary apparatus, but a button.

"It's interesting, isn't it? Just by scattering a little bait to cornered people, they will do anything you want. Just with a single cheque, they will believe shady words like being a test subject for new nutrients and swallow an unknown thing. They will even obediently follow sudden cryptic instructions to go into this café for example."

The speech of the man who was putting on a warped smile caused Emily to grit her teeth audibly and Vanessa to glare wrathfully. Needless to say, the man meant that people who had taken the capsule-type "Berserk" were inside this café. And then, the detonator that looked like a lighter that the man was holding could destroy the capsule and transform those people into berserker that wouldn't be able to go back to normal. In the middle of this crowded café with the sun high in the sky.

The man pretended to tremble at Emily's and Vanessa's wrath.

"It doesn't seem like you are that Odin. And then, what are you going to do after taking away Doctor Grant? Will you make her create the antidote, cause a pandemic of "Berserk" to outbreak, and then make a killing in profit……by that point in time you will be tracked down you know? It will be the same even if you sell it to some organization somewhere in the underworld. Do you think you will be able to get away from the security bureau?"

"Who knows. That's not something that a lowly bunch like us will know. That will be the boss's decision. Now then, we also cannot keep making pointless talk. How about we excuse ourselves soon?"

The man directed his gaze at the man who was checking for a tracking device. The man who seemed to finish his checking already shook his head and reported that he found nothing. The first man nodded in satisfaction hearing that and put his hand on Emily’s shoulder. twitch Emily’s body trembled, not from shock or fear, but simply from disgust.

Vanessa was about to reflexively drive off that hand, but then the man showed off the lighter detonator.

He showed――

【Kufuh】

【Puh】

【Fufuh】

Vanessa spontaneously snorted. Emily also averted her face with her shoulders shaking. And in a very rare occasion, even Chief Magdanese had a small smile on her lips.

That couldn’t be helped. After all, what the man was lifting with an expression of contempt that was full of a sense of superiority as though to say ‘you cannot do anything can’t you huh’ was……

A salmon sandwich.

Furthermore, it was the remains of one that had been eaten to a size that was about the same as the lighter, a bite-sized salmon sandwich. It was accompanied by a lot of splendid bite marks.

【!?】

The man raised a soundless voice of shock and threw that salmon sandwich to the ground. And then, he stood up while kicking down the chair before taking one, two steps away from Chief Magdanese and co.

「You bitches, screwing around with me!」

The man immediately guessed that the detonator had been replaced when he didn’t notice and that the perpetrator must be Vanessa who was attending here for some reason. He was about to take out something from his breast pocket. Most likely it was a spare detonator.

The man quickly took that out and thrust it forward threateningly.

Yes, it was another bite-sized salmon sandwich.

「What the hell!?」

Emily, Vanessa, and Chief Magdanese burst out「pufuh」once again. Hearing that, the man turned beet red from shame and confusion.

「Oi-! Take out the spare! Blow up the first and the second!」

The man ordered the third man. It seemed that the third man was also in possession of the detonator. A spare on top of a spare. They were really prepared.

Although, there was no response from the third man toward the first man’s order. The reason was…

「Oi-. You listening!? Quickly——wait, why the hell are you bastard stuffing your mouth with a salmon sandwich, huh!?」

Yes, the third man had his mouth stuffed full with a salmon sandwich. The first man was enraged, and he gripped the shoulder of his subordinate who had the sauce of the salmon sandwich trickling down from the corner of his mouth, and he pulled him up forcefully.

Then, with a shake the third man fell face-up limply, exposing his face, the white of his eyes were laid bare with the salmon sandwich still filling his mouth. The man unconsciously raised his voice「Oo!?」in shock and backed away. thud A sound came from behind him, and he turned around in reaction.

Over there was,

「You got a salmon sandwich too!?」

There he saw another of his subordinates fainted with a salmon sandwich stuffing his mouth and the white of his eyes exposed. In addition, both of his hands were joined together on his chest for some reason, like a corpse that was put inside a coffin.

「What, what is happe――」

「Isn’t it simple? The salmon sandwich of this café is just too delicious. So much so that the moment they ate it, they ascended to heaven. That’s all.」

「-!?」

Hearing the unknown voice resounding from right behind him, the man twitched while turning around. Over there he saw Kousuke stuffing his mouth elegantly (?) with a salmon sandwich. He might be transformed halfway to Lord Abyssgate because even though his attire was still the same, he was wearing sunglasses.

While the man stiffened seeing the unfamiliar Japanese young man with the strange atmosphere, Kousuke called 「Isn’t that right?」to a young female waitress stiffening a slight distance away due to the commotion, looking for agreement.

The waitress who suddenly got the attention directed at her shook her head left and right forcefully while strongly denying「Our salmon sandwich is not that delicious!」. Surely she meant to imply that ‘No one will want to eat a sandwich that can send people to heaven!’……

The voice of the waitress that unexpectedly resounded really well reached the first floor. A middle-aged man that seemed to be the shop manager looked up in wonder about what was going on there. Seeing the beautiful vein emerging on that man’s head, it seemed that the waitress’s implication wasn’t conveyed correctly to him. The future of the girl’s employment in this café from here on was in doubt.

「Yo, you think you can get away by doing something like this? We are not the only ones carrying a detonator you know? Even now, in this place――」

「Are you talking about the five men who are monitoring*ed* this place? Or perhaps, about the people who were watching the image being sent by the hidden camera set up inside the café? If it’s them, then right now they should be heading to a special hotel escorted by the kindly considerate soldiers I think. Everyone is sound asleep. It seems they cannot stand their everyday exhausting work. Don’t you think that your company is too black?」(TN: Black company = a company that exploits its employees too much)

「I, impossible……」

The man tried to take out a communication device from his pocket in panic.

……What came out was a salmon sandwich.

Also, the one that made the enemy observing this café from outside to faint was of course Kousuke. The hidden cameras inside the café were searched around by Kousuke in full invisibility last night while the bureau staff traced the communication channel and determined the location of the observers.

During the time Kousuke was searching for the hidden camera, the enemy force that was observing the café in case the bureau was setting up something in the building sometimes witnessed a black shadow displayed in the camera out of nowhere. They all shrieked in complete chaos yelling things like「Tha, that's Shadowman! This is the first time I saw it!」or「Lies……even though I shouldn't have any supernatural sense」or「AMEN-, AMEEEN-!」.

Even when Kousuke normally entered their room, they were replaying the recorded video while,

「Don't you think this will be big money if we bring it to a TV station?」

「Wa, wait. This is the real Shadowman you know? I, heard something before. That there are dangerous guys researching something like this.」

「Aa, I also heard that from mummy. In this world, there is an occultist group who is extremely fond of something like this, so be careful she said. She also said, that even if you see it, just pretend you never saw anything. If not, you are going to get kidnapped somewhere, and turned into a sacrifice for a black magician.」

「Seriously……it's scary, this underworld organization……」

They said things like that to each other while making a fuss. It went without saying that Kousuke made a retort「No, your color is different, but you guys are also members of an underworld organization」.

And then, Kousuke, who was suddenly driven up by his mischievous heart, took how he was unnoticed as a good opportunity and tried to cause several bizarre phenomenon. For example, he made the door open and close on its own accord; then he made a knocking sound from outside the window. He then kidnapped them one by one unnoticed, and wrote「next is you」using magic on the monitor while the panicked people didn’t notice, and so on; in the end, he twined a steel thread on the legs of one of them, and pulled that person out from the room……

The expression of the remaining people who were witnessing the figure of their comrade screaming while reaching out his hand to them, however, went in vain and he was pulled by something unseen and disappeared deep in the corridor…… those were expressions that had trauma completely planted in it.

And then, the bureau staff that was watching that from the side exploded in laughter all at once. It also went without saying that Chief Magdanese covered her face with both hands while sighing.

All the enemies fell into the bottom of terror, in addition, they were perfectly apprehended. Kousuke, who had accomplished that, was welcomed by all the bureau staff with a high five and「Iyahha—!」. Seeing that, Chief Magdanese whispered「I should just go home already」. It could be seen how tired she was from that.

Now then, putting aside Chief Magdanese who was having a faraway look from remembering the event that gave her a headache last night, the man who possessed nothing but a salmon sandwich and whose comrades were annihilated without him noticing was drenched with cold sweat while he tried to turn around.

「Well, don't be in such a hurry. I'm thinking of making you as our guide. That's why it will be troubling if you go home by yourself.」

「Gu, guide you say? To the boss's place? Hah, that's pointless. I'm not going to say anything yeah. I know really well the boss's scariness. If I betray him, just what kind of hell I'll taste then……it's better to die.」

「I see. You will surely guide us gladly after this. I'm convinced of that. Anyway, we will become a nuisance by staying here. Let's have a slow talk over there, okay?」

Kousuke stood up from his chair and put a smile on his face. Seeing that, the man yelled「Shit-」while trying to jump out from the terrace of the second floor. Because Kousuke was blocking the stairs, he thought that he would be able to escape somehow if it was just from the second floor.

But, there was no way Kousuke could be taken by surprise from just that much.

「Abyss-style Martial Art's Secret Technique――"Inconsiderable Banquet of Gluttony(Salmon Sandwich Got No Match!)"」

「Mugah!?」

Kousuke circled behind the man and instantly stuffed his mouth with a salmon sandwich. The writhing man was completely pinioned from behind with his mouth being pressed down, unable to run away or spit out the sandwich.

The man became half-panicked, and for a while, he kept struggling and kicking around, but before long, his eyes rolled up and exposed the whites of his eyes, and he fainted powerlessly. A scrap of salmon slipped out from the mouth of the limply falling man.

「Yep, as I thought, the salmon sandwich of this café is amazing. It instantly sends people to heaven.」

Kousuke nodded in satisfaction while looking at the fainting man. Everyone inside the café thought this. 「No, you just made him suffocate normally there」. But they didn’t say it out loud because it was scary.

Chief Magdanese, whose sighs remarkably increased in number these past few days, was sighing even deeper while sending a sign to her subordinates. The rushing subordinates quickly apprehended the three men and furthermore, they also politely led away several of the guests that seemed to have「Berserk」administered into them.

The café fell into uproar from the sudden arrest. In the middle of that, Emily was making a complicated expression while asking Kousuke who was going to leave the café following behind Chief Magdanese.

「Hey, Kousuke. Why are you so fixated with the salmon sandwich like that? Do you love it?」

「Yep, I love it.」

「I, is that so……」

Of course, Kousuke answered that he loved the salmon sandwich. But, Emily’s face turned red from seeing Kousuke saying ‘love’ with a serious face that was staring straight at her. With a glance toward Emily who was like that, Kousuke climbed down the stairs while he started to explain with an exposition that was at the same level as a certain gourmet reporter whose catchphrase was ‘jewel box of taste ya~’, about just how amazing the salmon sandwich of this store was. (TN: In Japan there is this famous gourmet reporter named Hikomaru, with a catchphrase of ‘jewel box of (insert food name here) ya~’. It seems this guy’s cheerful personality and impactful comment made him the face of the present era gourmet program)

After Kousuke left the café, it went without saying that the sale of this café’s salmon sandwich increased explosively.

Part 2

That night the moon was completely hidden by the clouds. In this dark world without light from the night sky, there was a high-rise building illuminated brilliantly by artificial light. For a normal company, at this time most of the employees would be home already, and there would be few lights, but it was only this building that was leaking out light from all of its floors.

The entrance of that high-rise building, and the outer wall near the highest floor, were drawn with the company name and emblem. The company name was「Gamma Pharmaceutical」.

A car's headlights were illuminating the back road of that 「Gamma Pharmaceutical」. The car was stopped by the guard in front of the gate of iron bars. The man behind the car's steering wheel showed his face to that guard and also his identification card.

It seemed that the guard knew the face of the driver. The guard showed a wry smile while giving words of appreciation 「Must be hard work to come at this kind of time even though you aren't even a researcher」. He then took the identification card to the guard room and used a card reader to read the card to open the gate.

The man behind the driving seat shrugged his shoulders, and said「It's the superior's command. I cannot go against it」while receiving his identification card. At that time, the guard saw the person sitting in the back seat, and he raised his eyebrows questioningly.

When the driver told the guard，This person is a genius doctor even though she looks like this. It seems she will be our company’s hidden ace you know，, it seemed the person in the backseat noticed that they were talking about her. The girl wearing a lab coat with her hair tied into a side-tail then faced toward the guard and smiled friendlily.

Being smiled at by an amiably beautiful girl, the middle-aged guard slackened down, and he smiled broadly. And then he said，Even though you are still young, you mustn’t force yourself too hard to work until this kind of time you know，while drawing back.

The car then passed through the gate and kept running until its figure vanished into a rear entrance for the underground parking area.

The car parked in a corner of the underground parking area before the driver and the girl in a lab coat——Emily got out.

，Is this place really where the mastermind is staying? This is a large company that can even be counted amongst the top 5 even in Britain.，

，So you don’t believe it, Miss? I said already that I am the direct subordinate of this place’s president——Kaysis Wentworks.，

，Shut up. I won’t talk to you.，

，……Ou.，

The man who received that really piercing reply got sullen. Even so, he obediently backed down. He, the man who fainted after eating Kousuke’s secret technique——Woody, urged Emily to move with a pouting face.

Following Woody’s guidance, they rode an exclusive elevator that would only move using an employee ID card. This high-rise building had 66 floors in total, with a height that surpassed 200 meters. They could see the night view of the city from the high-speed elevator that was attached to the outside. The higher the elevator got, the wider the view that could be seen.

「It’s beautiful……」

「Yeah, this scenery——」

「I’m not talking to you.」

「……Got it.」

Woody’s feeling was hurt from that second piercing reply. A beautiful girl with sparkling eyes clinging to the scenery outside, and a tough man exposing a pouting face beside her. The scene was really surreal.

Before long, ting along with such sound, the elevator’s floor display showed they were on the highest floor. Emily, who came back to her senses from that sound, turned around and followed Woody who had exited the elevator first. They passed by several corners and rooms, through several electronic locks, and in the end, reached a heavy door that was engraved with the company’s emblem.

Woody walked toward the display installed beside the two-leaf door and pressed a button.

「Boss, this is Woody. Just like my message, I arrived just now. I’m bringing Doctor Grant.」

「Finally. I’m opening the door now.」

The door of the president’s office was constructed so it could only be opened from inside. Because of that, Woody and Emily waited for the room’s owner, Kaysis, to open the door.

pushu With the sound of air spurting out, the two-leaf door opened. The two of them entered with Woody in the lead. The door immediately closed behind them. Emily looked at that across her shoulder, and inside her heart, she evaluated that the enemy was really cautious.

When her gaze returned to the front, she saw a man in his early thirties sitting deeply on a luxurious chair. He was a slender and blond man. His narrow eyes that looked like a fox’s and his loose and slovenly smile gave a frivolous impression that didn’t suit a president of a large company.

But, the moment that man saw the figure of Emily behind Woody, Emily saw inside the man’s slightly opened eyes and unconsciously felt goosebumps up her spine.

She thought that this man was like a snake. His gaze was that of a snake catching sight of a mouse that would be the prey. She must not be deceived by this man’s external frivolous impression. Cunning and malice were compressed inside this man. Yes, a detestable aura that made her unconditionally believe that was expressed in this man’s eyes.

Emily unconsciously stopped walking all of a sudden. Seeing that caused Kaysis’s smile to deepen further. His evil smile that gave no hint of humanity made Emily to spontaneously gulp loudly. Even Woody that was slightly in front of her also gulped loudly like her. Surely, he understood just how evil that smile was.

「Hey, Emily-chan. Nice of you to come. My company welcomes you with open arms.」

Kaysis stood up and detoured around his large desk while spreading his hands open in a welcoming gesture. Emily almost shrank back from the approaching mass of malice; however, she suddenly noticed what she was about to do and she gritted her teeth.

And then, she returned her drawing back foot to its former spot and glared back threateningly with piercing cat-eyes.

Kaysis displayed an emotion of surprise for a moment, but he soon started to stare with a gaze of unconcealed sadism.

「How nice, that aroused me. A girl making that kind of eye is just my favorite. How about it Emily-chan? Won't you become mine instead of just being a researcher in my company? You will be able to obtain anything you wish by doing that you know?」

「And you will torment me who naturally is going to refuse, and then want to make me say that with my own mouth, isn't that right? Anyway, go through plastic surgery first. The vulgarity of your character is coming out on your face you know?」

Even while Emily was still shaking a bit, she threw back a scathing reply boldly. Woody looked back at her with a slightly shocked expression. Kaysis's expression was increasingly changing as though there was a delicious fruit put in front of him.

「That's a hurtful way of speaking. But, it arouses me instead. Just how long can you continue with that kind of attitude, aa, I'm really looking forward to it more and more.」

「Your disgusting behavior doesn't matter. Rather than that, are you Odin?」

While nodding, Kaysis approached until he was a short distance from Emily, who was asking that to him with undisguised revulsion.

「Indeed, that's correct. I am Odin. Well, that name is just for jest though. My real name is Kaysis Wentworks.」

「You were……the one that stole『Berserk』? The one that released the infected person in the middle of the city?」

Kaysis's fingertip stroked Emily's cheek. Even while feeling nausea from that touch, Emily asked for confirmation from him. She wanted to confirm, 'are you the main culprit of everything?', like that.

「You can say that, but you can also say that it's not so.」

「What do you mean? Answer me!」

「Fufu, you are really strong-willed. Just like a cute cat.」

Kaysis dodged Emily's questioning noncommittally. His snake-like eyes shined while his hand touched Emily's slender neck. Of course, just with that, it would be impossible to choke the neck and kill a person. But, most likely he just wanted to see Emily's suffering face for fun.

Emily's face slightly grimaced when that hand jerked with strength. Kaysis's expression was increasingly filled with joy by that but……

「……What are you doing?」

"I cannot just stay quiet watching more than this. Can I ask you to take off that hand from the miss?"

The one that grasped Kaysis's hand and forcefully jerked it away from Emily's neck was the man at her side——Woody. Kaysis sent him a dangerous gaze. Kaysis's eyes were tinged with a dangerous light from how his subordinate had shown an unforeseen rebellious attitude, and from how he called Emily as "miss".

"I wonder if you understand just who you are opening your mouth to. Or else, don't tell me you are cajoled by this child? No matter how unlikely I think that is."

"No way, such a thing is unimaginable to happen between miss and me. Besides, I'm doing this with a full preparedness for everything."

Kaysis shook off Woody's arm roughly, then he took out a handgun offhandedly from his breast pocket and pointed it at Woody. At the same time, he snapped his finger pachin and armed men appeared from hidden doors set up everywhere inside the room. They pointed their gun muzzles toward Woody.

However, Woody who knew about the existence of the guards standing by inside the room naturally wasn't perturbed.

"Full preparedness? I really don't get you. Just what in the world happened?"

"Nothing special. If I'm forced to say, then it's because I found a place with a better employment term than here I guess. Any humble salaryman will change their job to a place with a better condition, right?"

「Hou. I see, so you were cajoled by the security bureau. Just how much can you receive from them? Aa, just to be clear, I'm not planning to ask you to come back by offering you more than their offer. Your fate is decided already here.」

「Even if you told me to come back, I absolutely won't. After all, it's remuneration that you cannot possibly prepare.」

「……It's that much money? Answer, how much did you get?」

So much remuneration to the degree that a president of a large company that was in the top five in Britain couldn't match it. Kaysis's expression was slightly colored with interest when he was told something like that. He was wondering, just what kind of world the security bureau used to steal his subordinate.

Seeing Kaysis like that, the corner of Woody's lips rose up in a wide grin. And then with a boastful, elated, and joyful expression that couldn't be suppressed!!, he spoke the detail of the remuneration he obtained.

「Kukuh, listen and be astonished! My reward iiis, the finest quality of salmon sandwich, FOR A YEARRRR-!」

「……hm?」

Kaysis-san was confused. His heinous air was unconsciously scattered apart, and he tilted his head plainly thinking「Am I mishearing?」. The other guards were also the same as him.

Amidst such confusion, Emily, who knew about the circumstance, made a complicated expression. And then, for the second time, she asked the same question as before in the café.

「Hey, Kousuke. Why is it a salmon sandwich? Do you like it that much?」

Hearing Emily calling a name of a person he had never heard before, Kaysis sent a suspicious gaze at her.

But, at the next moment, he turned around in shock.

「Aa, yeah. Honestly, even I myself am thinking that perhaps this hypnotist is wrong.」

The guards also turned around.

Over there, before anyone knew it, a young man in black clothes was sitting on the president's chair while scratching his cheek with a wry smile.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

About the salmon sandwich pressuring of this chapter.

If I have to say why, then that's because the author is getting fixated with it.

Salmon sandwich that is unexpectedly off-the-shelf.

If I made a handmade one, it was doubtful that the chapter posting would've made it in time……

I'm sorry.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 213

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Become……A Splendid Villager

Part 1

With a magnificent night sky as the background, a young man in black clothes was sitting on the president chair.

Such a sight made even Kaysis to be struck dumb and lost for words. The guards in the surrounding too, they were guards that were under the direct control of the president, usually no matter what the situation was they wouldn’t be shaken and be able to react swiftly, but it was only at this time that they exposed a stupid expression without being able to aim their gun.

「Emily, over here.」

「Yes!」

Kousuke beckoned with his hand, and Emily rushed toward him with an excited voice. Even though her external appearance was like a haughty cat, dog ears and a dog tail could be hallucinated to be attached to her. That energetically shaking ears and tail truly made her fit to be doggy Emily-chan……

Emily circled around the large desk with a cute sound of footsteps pata-pata without stopping she until she was right beside Kousuke.

After that, ‘Don’t leave me behind!’ with such a feeling, Woody followed behind in a hurry while his footsteps were loudly resounding. And then he came to a stop at the opposite side of Emily and slightly behind.

……Someone sitting snugly on the president’s chair, waited on by a beautiful girl beside him and a scary-looking man standing by behind him.

No matter how anyone looked, it was Kousuke that looked like a mastermind. Perhaps it should be said that it was just as expected from the right-hand man of the demon king.

「……What are you? Where did you enter from?」

Kaysis recovered quickly from his agitation, and then he asked Kousuke, who was now sitting on his chair while staring angrily.

That question was only natural. The elevator that Emily and Woody rode in was the only route that could lead to this president office. Naturally, that elevator was installed with security cameras which could be watched through from the president’s office. There were countless security cameras existing between the elevator and the president’s office, and naturally, there was also a security camera in front of the door of the president office.

Naturally, Kaysis himself checked on all those cameras, and the guards, who now finally moved their gun muzzles, should have also checked the monitors in the observation room located on the other side of the hidden door of the president’s room.

But, there wasn’t even a single one among them who detected Kousuke’s existence.

To enter this room located on the highest floor could only by through the front door that could only be opened by Kaysis from inside. If that door was closed, the room would become completely closed off. The air duct’s size couldn’t be entered by humans, and it would be absurd for someone to enter from the window.

From the point of view of Kaysis and others, in this situation, there was no other way to describe it other than this young man suddenly appearing out of nowhere.

Although, the answer of Kousuke was simple.

「Even if you ask me from where, wasn't it you who invited me in? From that door over there.」

「Impossible. I don't know someone like you……」

「Well, that's because I'm just a little bit inconspicuous. I won't be bothered even if you overlooked me, not at all. I'm speaking the truth you know?」

Kousuke shrugged. This time, he was following Emily from behind using the full power of invisibility while making use of the blind spots of the security cameras, so it was justified that they didn't notice him, and he was also really not bothered by it. It was his habit, of making the excuse「I'm not bothered, okay? I'm really not hurt, okay?」when other people couldn't notice him.

Kaysis naturally couldn't believe Kousuke's answer, and he guessed that Kousuke didn't plan to disclose the trick. So he straightened up his collar and took a pompous attitude before changing the topic.

「……Well, no matter. By the way, you, the one sitting there in my chair as though it is your own. Who are you? You seem to be Japanese, and I cannot believe that you are from the security bureau, but……even so, you infiltrated this place by yourself. By any chance, is there even a young Japanese man among the agents of the "JD Agency"?」

Kaysis’s expression was clearly displeased seeing his chair occupied by someone else while he spoke his prediction. But indeed, that prediction was the most probable one.

「Hee, that “JD Agency” is supposed to be a “non-existent organization” but……it’s normally known like this.」

「It’s not normally known. But, that’s common knowledge among the highly positioned people of this side of the world. They are paying the maximum caution toward the security bureau chief and intelligence department chief, and toward the “erasure organization” these two are leading.」

「Well, if you are the top of an underworld organization, I guess you would have them getting in your way many times and dealt you a hard blow. That kind of people should be able to grasp their existence from the piling up facts……but, won’t it be a problem that the name of the organization is exposed?」

Chief Magdanese was grasping the situation in this place through a device that was attached on Kousuke. She was shrugging inside a surveillance car that was a slight distance away from the building.

「This is what you call an open secret. Having it be known to a certain degree will also become a deterrence.」

Kousuke nodded「I see」to the words transmitted to him through the device. Kaysis guessed from that that Kousuke was communicating with the outside and he became convinced that Kousuke was a member of the security bureau.

Though in truth he was the vanguard of a more dangerous group……

「Fumu, should I say that it's just as expected from the chief of the security bureau. To be able to subvert an enemy during that kind of situation and then sending in a skilled agent……. Yet, I cannot help but say that you are a little bit too rash.」

Kaysis said that and took out a smartphone from his breast pocket. Then his finger suddenly slid through its display.

「Aa, that again. That's a switch for the「Berserk」activation, right?」

「Fufu, so you understand. Once I pushed this button, a lot of berserkers will rampage in the middle of several dozen cities. Aah, let me correct one thing. This is certainly an "activation" button, but this smartphone is originally used for "cancellation".」

「……I see. I had been thinking about it even before entering this room, but you are really a wary person huh. If a password isn't entered into that smartphone in a regular interval to cancel the activation state, then the drug will activate on its own accord. Is it something like that?」

「You have a good understanding. Exactly. Therefore, even if you steal this from me, even if you kill me, it would be meaningless. Rather, that will become the opening curtain of an unprecedented disaster. It's not something that can be risked by you people who are shouldering the security of this country, isn't it?」

Kaysis talked with a broad grin and snake-like gaze. Surely the cancellation password wasn't known by anyone except Kaysis. And it didn't seem like he would talk even if he was captured, and if he was killed, then a great disaster would definitely occur.

Kaysis believed without a doubt that he was in an overwhelmingly superior position. It seemed his selling point was this craftiness of him. He lifted the smartphone that was his lifeline in one hand while his other hand moved forward in inviting gesture.

「Now then, Emily. Come to my side. That is if you don't want a great number of sacrifices to be created in this country because of something that you created.」

「-, this low-life」

Emily's skin felt goosebumps from the gaze of Kaysis who was immersed in joy. She cursed him without even hiding her feeling of disgust. But Kaysis's smile was deepening. It seemed that even that disgust felt pleasant for him.

「That's right. It's already inevitable that you will become mine, but a punishment is needed after you dragged this uninvited person here, isn't it? How about you give me a kiss of oath after you come here.」

「Wha, what are――」

「Fufu, it seems that young agent-kun over there is a special existence for you. Then, it will be a lovely punishment if I make you offer that body to another man in front of his eyes as the proof of parting. Don't you think so?」

Surely, when someone talked about the height of low-life, it would refer to a person like this. Making other people submit and to be able to smear them with humiliation and shame was the greatest happiness for this man. The unhappiness of other people was exactly the nourishment for his life. His smoothly moving tongue moved even smoother from imagining the future that was smeared with unhappiness.

「Aa, while we are at it, perhaps it will also be good to torture him in front of you who are crying pleadingly. And then, after he becomes unable to endure the pain, I will make him say this. ――「Please, just do whatever you like to Emily, spare me already」like that. When I imagine the face of Emily's at that time――」

「So it's true that third-class villains like to prattle on and on.」

A calm voice reached Kaysis who was continuing to talk with an expression of ecstasy. That voice sounded exasperated, as though it was directed to a worthless existence, an apathetic voice that was really lacking in emotion.

Kaysis stared suspiciously at Kousuke who wasn't showing even a speck of unease at this situation.

「You are saying, that I'm a third-class villain?」

「Yeah. I don't know if it's because you have prepared an absolute superiority(trump card) or because you are like this from the start, but you who can play around in this situation, is without a doubt a third-class.」

「……」

Kaysis fell silent. He wracked his brain and reconfirmed whether there was anything that could shake his superiority, but he was holding a switch that could instantly open the curtain of tragedy if it was pressed, and if something happened to him then the tragedy would act on its own anyway in less than an hour. Such a card was something that wouldn't become a worthless card that easily.

Kaysis reached a conclusion that this might be a bluff. But Kousuke suddenly stood up while speaking.

「According to the demon king, it seems that what is called a trump card is something mass produced……what about you I wonder?」

「What? Demon king? Just what are you talking a――」

Kaysis talked in suspicion, but instantly, he opened wide his eyes and his word cut off.

That was because, without any advance sign, Kousuke was right in front of him.

Kaysis immediately tried to draw back his body, but the next moment, his field of vision was reversed, and he was falling into confusion. But, he immediately felt an intense impact hitting his back, and his voice got caught in his throat.

His gaze was wandering while he was filled with pain and confusion of what in the world had happened to him. And then what entered his sight was only the ceiling and the LED lighting. From that, he understood that he had been thrown on the floor.

「Yo, you bastard, do you not care, what will happen to the city――」

「Well, that will be for later.」

His mind was flooded with pain; however, Kaysis made use of his astonishment to wring out words from his mouth. But the reply he got was a casual sentence along with the back of a shoe that filled his field of vision. Simultaneously an intense impact assaulted him, and his consciousness was cut off with a snap.

Inside his hearing that was rapidly getting farther away, he felt like he could hear gunshots and angry yells, and also screams……but Kaysis was swallowed by darkness without even being able to process that.

Part 2

「Bubeh!? Hah, wha, what!? What happe――hih!?」

The pain and impact suddenly running on his cheek made Kaysis wake up. His face grimaced from the dull pain he felt on his back and forehead, but even in such a state, he tried to rally his confused mind somehow.

However, the moment his hazy visual field became clear, he raised a shriek that he had never made until now.

Although, no one would be able to laugh at him from doing such a thing. After all, the cause that made Kaysis scream was a sight that was just that bizarre.

「Wha, what!? You guys, just what the hell you are doing!?」

Kaysis called out with an obviously shocked voice. Ahead of his gaze, there were his subordinates that he was familiar with.

……However, each of his subordinates were perfectly making a chuuni pose.

They were the guards under Kaysis’s direct supervision who were inside the room with him just now. One of them had a pose where one of his legs was lifted with both his hands extended straight to both sides. It was a magnificent pose, as though he was a savage eagle that would fly away anytime.

Another person was standing in a low stance with his legs spread apart widely, one of his hands was on his hip while his other hand was held crossing his chest diagonally. That pose looked as though the man was going to transform into a masked warrior at any second now.

And another person was taking a pose where his body tilted slightly forward while his right shoulder was lifted slightly, his right arm extended to below and his left hand was covering his face with his five fingers spread wide open. The angle of his waist was extremely sexy. That pose looked as though something would come out at any moment from his back.

The others too, the guards who were inside the room just before Kaysis lost consciousness, all of them were lined up with everyone taking some kind of chuuni pose. So to speak, it was like a museum of posing statues. The gallery was using the whole spacious area of the president’s office.

Those people didn’t answer even when Kaysis was yelling in extreme panic. Every one of them was wearing sunglasses so their eyes couldn’t be seen, but perhaps they were unconscious seeing how they weren’t reacting at all. When Kaysis strained his eyes to the limit, those posing guards had their body and four limbs entangled in very fine strings, and he could see that they were being hung up like marionettes.

At the same time, Kaysis noticed that he was being restrained in his chair. His four limbs were being restrained by a similar super-fine string.

「Hey, Kousuke. Is it necessary to do this?」

「……If you ask whether there is any necessity, then the answer is definitely negative. This is bad; the damned Lord

Abyssgate is easily showing his face. Perhaps, it’s hopeless already for me.

Hearing that casual conversation in this bizarre space caused Kaysis to return to his senses in surprise. When he turned his gaze toward the voices’ direction, he confirmed that there were several people right beside him.

Three of them were Kousuke, Emily, and Woody who were inside the room before this. But, in addition to them, there were a further three more people.

As expected from Kousuke-san. You don’t forget this thing called “beauty” even in the middle of battle. I have underestimated you.

……Indeed, you suppressed the enemies in less than a minute, and during just a few minutes from you contacting us, you created this kind of artwork. This can be said as terrific. Though now I’m completely filled with the desire to go home.

Ahahaha, it’s great that I can move now after having something unknown done to me but……this case that made even the chief to be haggard is really a heavy burden, huh. I wish I could keep losing consciousness without waking up……

Vanessa, who for some reason looked dejected even though her expression was enraptured, praised Kousuke. Chief Magdanese was having a faraway look while her gaze wouldn’t move toward the posing men no matter what. And then, Allen, who was made to drink some restorative medicine made in another world and healed until the point where he could at least move.

In Allen’s case, Emily wished that he would exit the stage with his face still disfigured like before, but Chief Magdanese said「This idiot who kept making mistakes cannot be allowed to rest more than this. He has to be made to work like a cart-horse」. And so, without any other choice, he was healed.

Even so, he was still far from being fully healed, for the time being, his swelling was suppressed and his broken jaw repaired so he could talk. His broken teeth and lacerated nose and cheek were left alone. His face was wrapped with bandages all over like a mummy, making Allen’s figure look really painful, but there wasn’t anyone who cared about that.

By the way, regarding the restorative medicine made in another world that healed Allen (the highest class of product sold for the general public), Kousuke skillfully hid it and explained that Allen was healed using his ability, so it was currently ignored by everyone thinking that Kousuke also had that kind of power.

Though it seemed that Emily was really bothered with a power that could heal bone fractures in the blink of eye……. Naturally, there was no power that could heal people turned into berserkers, so Kousuke told her that while saying that he would explain to her later. Hearing that caused Emily to withdraw obediently.

「……My word, for the chief-sama of the state security bureau to personally be here. What an honor. However, you have made an extremely poor move. As expected, even a living legend has finally gone senile, hasn’t it?」

Kaysis implicitly conveyed that at this rate berserkers would be released in the middle of cities with his sarcastic and obstinate words. His expression was also sneering at Chief Magdanese.

At a glance, he looked composed, but if observed carefully, it could be seen that his eyes were twitching faintly, and his voice was slightly shaking. The cause of that went without saying.

Because, there were his subordinates making chuuni poses within his view after all!

「Mister Abyssgate. I'll leave this to you.」

「That's why I told you that my name is Kousuke.」

Chief Magdanese didn't show any particular concern to Kaysis's words and her gaze moved to Kousuke. Kousuke punctually said his request for correction before sighing. Then he put down a chair in front of Kaysis roughly.

Kousuke put the chair so that the back of the chair was facing Kaysis and he sat down on it. He put his arms on the top of the chair's back and gazed straight at Kaysis.

「Mister Abyssgate……. So that's your codename inside the agency. Fufu, I'll remember that. I will surely investigate your background. And then, your important people will――UBAoAa!?」

「Just who do you think you are talking to? Hold down that tongue.」

Right in the middle of Kaysis's curse toward Kousuke, he directly received a kick on his crotch from Vanessa who had been reduced into a believer of Lord Abyssgate, and he raised a weird scream. Actually, he wanted to writhe around, but he couldn't do so because he was tied to the chair and he could only twitch repeatedly while desperately enduring the pain.

「Aa~, Vanessa. Let me do it, okay?」

「Forgive me. Against my better judgment, it annoyed me seeing his attitude that is making light of Kousuke-san.」

Just where had the Vanessa-san who was always calm, cool, and collected gone to? Even though she absolutely wasn't someone who would instantly make a 'Direct Attack!' to the crotch because of provocation……

Allen and Woody similarly turned pigeon-toed while drawing away from being creeped out. Kousuke faced toward the writhing Kaysis once more while they were like that.

「Now then, Kaysis. I'll have you spit out everything. Not just the cancellation code, but also how this case started, your plan from here on, and then the location of all the『Berserk』that you stole.」

「Do, do you seriously believe, I'll talk――」

「You will. I said it, right? The one who doesn't understand the situation is you. Why do you think you who is holding the trump card is getting captured like this without question? Why did Woody change sides? Didn't you think about that?」

「That's……」

Of course, Kaysis noticed those abnormalities. No matter how unthinkable it was that his subordinate would get lured away by a salmon sandwich, he didn't want to think about it. Also, it was unthinkable that the security bureau would make a gamble that could involve a lot of people's life using a baseless method like torture because there was no way he would easily confess just from that.

But, even so, there should be nothing that could shake his absolutely superior position with him taking hostage of this country’s people, as long as he didn’t confess anything, then there was nothing the security bureau could do except whatever Kaysis told them. It was undeniable that such a belief was curbing down his feeling of fear toward the abnormalities. It was when he was thinking like that,

「I also told you this, didn’t I? That’s why you are a third-rate. Honestly, regarding the mastermind of this case, well, I have no doubt that it’s really you, but I think there is a high possibility that there is still another existence behind you. The existence that granted you the seat of president of this large company……something like that.」

Kaysis’s expression didn’t change. There wasn’t even any turmoil inside his eyes. His breathing was also not shaken at all. But, there also wasn’t any sarcasm coming from him right away. Kousuke was convinced just from that.

Surely there was another person that knew about the existence of『Berserk』and stole it the very first time. After all, an impetus was necessary for Kaysis to know about the existence of『Berserk』.

At the same time, there was no doubt that this man was cunning, merciless, and excellent, but, no matter how, Kousuke couldn’t believe that Kaysis had the status that counterbalanced with the organizational power Kousuke expected, so surely his conjecture that this『Gamma Pharmaceutical』wasn’t at the deepest bottom of everything was correct.

While thinking so, Kousuke suddenly took out from his breast pocket a string that was attached with something that looked like a five-yen coin. The size was about the same as a five-yen coin, but the material looked like an amber crystal. There was a round hole in the center, and the string was tied there.

Once Chief Magdanese and the others saw that item, they made a really complicated expression.

「……I don't know what you are planning to do, but if you don't release me, a lot of people will die you know? After all, no matter what you are going to do to me, I absolutely won't speak.」

「You know, the world is overflowing with irrationality. Did you forget that just because you are on the side that is scattering around irrationality?」

Kousuke then dangled the string. The crystal shaped like a five-yen coin swung back and forth in front of Kaysis's eye.

Kousuke coughed once gohon for a moment, and he straightened up his sitting posture before he suddenly opened his mouth.

「You are gradually becoming stra~ngee~; you are gradually becoming straa~ngee~」

「??? Just what are you saying……. Is your head having a screw looseee-hee~」

The crystal five-yen coin systematically swayed like a pendulum in front of Kaysis's eyes. At the other side of the coin was a suspicious incantation (?) that sounded strangely stupid. Kaysis's was doubting Kousuke's sanity that matched Kousuke’s expression that looked complicatedly embarrassed.

But, right after that, the end of Kaysis’s sentence crumbled. Light slipped off from his eyes, and his snake-like atmosphere dispersed as though it was just a lie, where now he seemed like a mere simple man.

□You are gradually wanting to taa~lkk~. You want to talk about everything, everyy~thii~ng□

□I, I want to taa~lkk~. I want to talk about everything, everyy~thii~ng□

□If you are asked you will want to anss~werr~. You will be unable to not anss~werr~□

□I will want to anss~werr~. I become unable to not anss~werr~□

□You will be happy by telll~ingg~. You will want to tell everyy~thii~ng□

□Will will wiilll~□

The slow and stupid voices resounded inside the room. Kaysis was completely transformed into a repeating machine. At the same time, a light of expectation was starting to grow inside those eyes. His atmosphere was like a Villager A who was called out by a hero party, who for some reason knew about a local legend and would tell it to the hero party without leaving anything out.

——Soul magic enchanted-type brainwashing artifact “Staking the Pride of a Villager”

The villager in an RPG would tell everything they knew if they were talked to. If they were addressed by the hero party, ordinarily they would obediently listen. They also wouldn’t voice even a single complaint when their house was entered by a hero party as they pleased, and even if their home was rummaged and, in the end, their possessions got taken away without permission.

This artifact would turn the targeted human into such a lovely villager. This was an artifact for dealing with the aftermath of an incident, bestowed by the demon king to the abyss lord for his personal use.

A minute later, the president of a large company that could be counted as one of the top five even in Britain finished his job-change into a splendid Villager A. He happily spouted out everything that he knew.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Thank you very much for the festival of salmon sandwich’s review column.

It’s a happy feeling that something I liked is shared by other people!

Now then, the end of this extra compilation too is gradually coming into view.

I think it will be 2, or 3 more chapters.

But even though I say that even Shirakome doesn’t know how this tale without any plot, or anything, will roll in the future.

When it’s over what will I write then I wonder?

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M. Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 214

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

DAS

Part 1

「Welcome, this is「Gamma Pharmaceutical」desu. Welcome, this is「Gamma Pharmaceutical」desu. Welcome, this is 「Gamma Pharmaceutical」desu. Welco――」

「Yosh, it's a success.」

Kousuke nodded in satisfaction seeing Kaysis who was continuously saying the same line like a broken record with a friendly smile.

Chief Magdanese's and Allen's, who were watching from behind, eyes began to twitch as though they had seen something repulsive.

Both of them were people that had been fighting in the underworld where it was a vortex of schemes and violence, or rather, it wouldn't be an exaggeration to call them residents of the underworld; yet, even the two of them were creeped out by the brainwashing technique that was bestowed directly from the demon king……. And then, seeing Kousuke who was making a satisfied smile from seeing the result…….

Both of them were honestly thinking「That returnee group……they are seriously, bad news.」.

Kousuke firmly ignored the gaze of the security bureau duo that pierced the back of his head. He put away the artifact "Staking the Pride of a Villager", and began the interrogation――or rather, the inquiry.

「Now then, Kaysis. First, tell us your plan, just what were you going to do by using「Berserk」?」

「Welcome! This is「Gamma Pharmaceutical」desu!」

「……No, not that, your plan――」

「Welcome. This is「Gamma Pharmaceutical」desu-」

「No, that's why your plan――」

「Welcomee! This is「Gamma Pharmaceutical」desuu!」

「……」

Kaysis was already a splendid villager. Most likely he was a high-class villager even among all the villagers, the one without any particular meaning, the one that wasn't doing anything even in the afternoon, the jobless villager loitering around near the village entrance――Kaysis had his job-changed into "the villager of the beginning".

「……Hey, Kousuke. Could it be, you have overdone it?」

「N, no, such a thing should not be……」

Kousuke scratched on his cheek while denying Emily's words. However, in reality, they couldn't question Kaysis because he was transformed into "the villager of the beginning". Seeing no other way, Kousuke's hand entered his pocket to take out "Staking the Pride of a Villager" once more.

However, Vanessa stopped Kousuke from the side. Or rather, her shocking action stopped him from moving.

「Do it seriously.」

After saying such a thing, Vanessa suddenly dropped her elbow on Kaysis’s head. boguu A raw sound that mustn’t be made by a living thing resounded. Emily raised a cute scream「Hya!?」.

「A problematic machine can be fixed by hitting it.」

「Jelgome-. Ghighis is-, Janma Khalpageudical, -, desu!」

「Wai-, wait Vanessa! Humans are not machines, this person became all the more stranger, see!」

Kaysis-san was moving ominously kaku-kaku while starting to making sounds ‘gyogyogyo! gyogyogyo!’. Emily was pointing her finger while making a retort.

「How strange? In Armage○n, the Russian astronaut used Wrench Attack to fix the shuttle engine though……. Perhaps my angle was bad.」(TN: Armageddon movie)

「No, wai-, Vanessa. Wa――」

Kousuke tried to stop Vanessa, but before he could, Vanessa’s pointlessly refined beautiful left hook captured Kaysis’s temple. ZUPAN-! A beautiful sound also resounded from that. At the same time, Kaysis’s head was snapped away to the right as though it got blown away.

「△☆□○□□×□□□□♡□□□□□□□

「Muh. Is it not a problem of angle, but power?」

Kaysis-san’s head was blown away to the left this time. Vanessa’s backhand that could even be said to be artistic captured the right side of the head, filled with the centrifugal force of a body rotation.

However, Kaysis-san was only discharging broken words and facial expressions that were increasingly turning into a person in a straitjacket; he wasn’t returning any proper answer.

Vanessa looked dubious, even so, after that she attempted various things like「The spin is not enough?」, or「Should I use a combo?」or「Perhaps I should use a shake rather than impact」or「Neko Damashi!」…… (TN: Neko Damashi, the signature move of Nagissa from Ansatsu Kyoushitsu)

Finally, Kousuke went「Stop iit! Just stop it alreadyy!」and pinioned Vanessa from behind while dragging her back. With that, the curtain of the short torture scene was finally closed. Chief Magdanese was sending Vanessa a gaze that was filled with a smidgen of admiration, was that originated from mercilessness or something else?

「Aa, geez. This looks like it will be bad without healing……. First thing first, let’s examine him before using the artifact one more time――」

「Nice to meet you, honored guest. I am Kaysis. The president of this「Gamma Pharmaceutical」. And, do you perchance have any business with me?」

「He got well somehow!? It feels a little strange though!」

Kaysis recovered his sanity (?). As expected, it seemed that something that almost broke really could be fixed by hitting it. A light of intelligence was shining from his eyes, and a dignity that was like a village chief could be felt from his tone. ……However, he had a nosebleed that was pouring like a river, his front teeth were gone, and the area around his eyes was bruised to look like a panda.

While feeling a little irritation at Vanessa’s triumphant look beside him, Kousuke cleared his throat once and asked about Kaysis’s plan once more.

「Fumu, so it’s about my plan. Where should I start I wonder……」

「First, tell us the outline.」

「I guess. Speaking simply, I plan to turn people all over the world into latent berserkers, where they have to drink the suppression medicine daily, and obtain a profit from that. Like that my position within the organization will become firm, and with the organization power and『Berserk』I will become the one leader that can manipulate the world from behind……something like that.」

The plan was told promptly, but the detail was absurdly demonical. This man didn’t think of humans as humans, he only saw them as pawns that produced a profit. This repulsive plan laid bare the nature of Kaysis Wentworks.

Emily unconsciously gulped while Vanessa’s gaze turned grave. It was only those like Kousuke and Chief Magdanese who looked unperturbed; even the smile was disappearing from inside Allen’s eyes.

「Transformation into latent berserkers, and then the suppression medicine, what do you mean by that? Something like a capsule attached with a detonator would surely be ejected out of the body eventually, what you mean is something different from that, isn’t it?」

「Correct. What I mean isn’t physical means like that, but by using an improved drug of『Berserk』. Right after『Berserk』was created by accident, we performed repeated experiments using the data and product that were brought to us by our cooperator.

Kaysis continued his talk after saying that. If summarized, it would be something like this.

Berserk was a drug that abnormally vitalized the cell of the consumer. That overly rapid vitalization would repeat self-destruction and restoration forcefully, creating that kind of enlargement and super humanization ability.

But, just like how the extent of the vitalization would be in proportion to the consumed amount of the drug, the vitalization rate of Berserk could be controlled to a certain degree. It seemed that they had already gathered the data regarding the effect and time limit of the Berserk transformation and the necessary dose after going through many human experiments.

Even so, no matter what they did, they couldn’t go as far as controlling the vitalization and transformation right after the consummation of the drug. That was the reason they used a cheap trick like using capsules attached with detonators……

But the story would be different if they had Emily who was the drug developer.

What Kaysis and his group wished from Emily was the development of the improved drug with a delayed vitalization rate——in short, a drug where after consuming it, there would be a time delay before the vitalization could reach a stage where transformation occurred. At the same time, they also wished for Emily to develop not the antidote that could give complete recovery, but a suppression drug that would only suppress the vitalization as long as it was consumed continuously.

In such a case, the people would have to drink the suppression drug created by「Gamma Pharmaceutical」every day if they didn’t want to become a monster that lost all reason.

「However, how are you planning to turn the people all over the world into latent berserkers? If they understand that it would affect their lives, people will stop buying even the cold medicine sold in the market.」

「You’re right. But, if it’s mixed into something that humans have to drink every day, they will not be able to avoid consuming it.」

「Every day? ……Don’t tell me」

「Yes, it’s just like what you are imagining right now. It’s water.」

The cultivation of「Berserk」could be done as much as anyone wanted as long as they just had the data. Kaysis planned to use them to pollute the waterworks and not just that, but dams, rivers, water purification plants, and so on, all the places that supplied water.

There wasn’t any antidote for「Berserk」. Once the water was polluted by it, there wouldn’t be any method to purify it. There would be no way other than evaporating the polluted water or draining it into the sea. It seemed that Kaysis was planning to pollute even the rainwater and seawater with 「Berserk」eventually.

「Such a thing……you are insane.」

「As expected this isn’t a laughing matter. Originally, erasing this kind of fellow is my role though.」

Vanessa didn’t even hide her disgust and glared at Kaysis while Allen, understanding that they had fallen behind in front of this danger that threatened the world, said something like that as though spitting it out.

Emily’s face was pale. But, there wasn’t any despair in her cat-eyes. She glared even more at Kaysis while her eyes were shining with the color of strong determination.

「I see. In such a situation, even if you are exposed by the government as the mastermind, it wouldn’t be any problem then. After all, the government people would be in the same danger of turning berserk too. As long as they are unable to secure the formula of the suppression medicine, they won’t lay their hands on you at all. After all, even if they try to do anything, the world might end.」

Chief Magdanese sighed deeply with her gaze still looking severe. And then, she asked one more thing about Kaysis’s remark that caught her attention.

「Tell us about the “organization” that you mentioned.」

「Information regarding the “organization” is it? Let’s see…… perhaps I should say, that it’s a gathering of old codgers captured in a fanatical ideology and deep-rooted delusion. It has an ancient history, its members are also an unknown number, and it possesses political power, economic power, and raw power en masse. Yet despite so, it’s a gathering of brainless idiots that is doing nothing except secretly chasing after the occult.」

Even though it was the organization that he belonged to, Kaysis was expressing a really piercing evaluation about it. When Chief Magdanese wordlessly urged him to continue, Kaysis, who just for a moment returned from being a village chief into a snake-like company president, then spoke the name of that organization.

「The underworld organization that has been continuously searching for genuine mystics since far in the ancient time. Its name is “Hydra”. If it’s you chief-sama, then you should at least know that name, don’t you?」

「Is that so……that “Hydra”. They are a stereotypical occultist fanatic group. Supposedly, they have been crushed on countless occasions; however, sometimes they would show a glimpse of their face in some kind of case, an organization that is difficult to eradicate.」

Chief Magdanese who seemed to know the name of that organization showed an expression as though she had swallowed something bitter that she rarely showed. From her words, it seemed that in the past she might have confronted them several times. It seemed that Allen also knew at least the name, his expression was half-surprised and half-understanding that this name could come out here.

On the other hand, Emily and Vanessa had “?” floating above their head while beside them Kousuke was looking up to the sky「Aa~」. It was an organization name that he was awfully familiar with.

「It’s a multi-headed monster that comes out in Greek mythology. No matter how many of their heads that are crushed, it will revive if there is just one head remaining…… so they came out here once more. However, you are talking really bitterly about them. Do you have dissatisfaction against your organization?」

「Yes, yes, if it’s dissatisfaction, then I have it. Prattling about things like a mystic or supernatural phenomenon in this modern time, they can only be called as insane. Even though they can stand in even more superior positions in the world if they use the power of an organization of that scale, when it comes to those old codgers, they are making light of the power of science too much. What do they mean by contradicting the ideal of the organization, huh? It’s because they are obsessed with something like mystics that is unclear whether it exists or not, that the organization is still a social outcast even now.

Kaysis talked as though he was spitting out. It seemed that Kaysis had a way of thinking that if they obtained a power that could interfere with the world using the power of science, then it was fine to use that. In contrast, the leadership of Hydra was searching for mystics to the end, and their objective was to interfere with the world using that mystic and wouldn’t recognize any means other than that. That seemed to be their way of thinking.

Because the origin of the organization establishment was to obtain mystics, then indeed, Kaysis’s way of thinking was contrary to the organization’s founding ideal. Kaysis perceived the organization not as a gathering of researchers, but as mere “power”, in a sense, his nature was the exact opposite as the organization members——he was a realist.

I will change the world using Berserk——if so, as expected even they surely won’t be able to disregard me as a greenhorn. Fufufuh, even that guy, Jefferson Allgrey, who is always looking down on me thinking he is the superior one, making fun of me, he will kneel in front of me, begging for forgiveness. I’ll carve into his flesh and bones, just who is actually the superior one! ……That’s how it should be.

Kaysis, whose ambition had fallen apart, dropped his shoulders in dejection.

On the other hand, Chief Magdanese reflexively stepped forward in excitement and grabbed both of Kaysis's shoulders. She then began to shake him back and forth.

「Just now, did you say Jefferson Allgrey? That real estate king and also politician?」

「Ye, yeah. That Allgrey.」

「Who else! Who else is a member of Hydra that you know about!? Tell me!」

「Go, got it. The others in the leadership are――」

The names that were spoken after Kaysis said that was an unimaginable luxury. Several of the names were people that even the security bureau was suspecting. There were also names that were under secret investigation, but even so, it was tremendous for these big names of a listed up occultist fanatic group to be exposed like this.

When Kaysis finished telling the names of the leadership that he knew about, Chief Magdanese confirmed with her gaze that Allen had recorded the names before her face turned toward Kousuke.

「Mister Abyssgate. I'm grateful. These bunches are people whose real forms we cannot get a hold of despite the dark rumor about them. With this, perhaps we can perform their funeral.」

「Aa~, yep. I see……」

Kousuke's reply was really evasive. Kousuke's gaze wandered around for a while before he asked Chief Magdanese timidly.

「Err, chief-san. That Mr. Allgrey or something, as expected, you are going to arrest him?」

「What are you saying? Obviously we will. Even though he isn't related to the case this time, there is a mountain of cases that are thought to be related with Hydra. Each time, we only treated the case as unresolved, or we ended up capturing the underlings, as though they are a lizard that cut off their tail to escape. And now we might be able to finish them all at once.」

「Ye, ye~ah. That's, how it is huuh~」

As expected, it seemed that Chief Magdanese sensed the strangeness in Kousuke's attitude. She looked suspiciously while speaking out the question whether there was any problem.

But, at that time, a shocked voice「Eh!?」resounded from behind her. When she looked there, she saw the figure of Allen, his eyes opened wide obviously shocked, with his gaze fixated on the tablet in his hand.

「? Allen?」

「A, aa~, chief. Just now I was pulling up information about Allgrey and his cohorts but……this」

Allen showed his tablet with a troubled expression. Chief Magdanese received it, and after her, Vanessa and Emily also turned their gaze to peek at the tablet's display.

There,

「Then, you are saying that the donation this time will continue in the future too?」

「Correct, it’s just as you say. It feels like the me before this had been wandering inside a nightmare all the time. I was clinging obsessively to my current position, and in collecting money and influence. But, just how much value do those things actually have! It’s a smile. The children’s smile is exactly where value can be found. The future where children can live with a smile on their face, that is exactly something with a value that is worthy for me to devote my life to!」

Of all things, on the display, there was the real estate king-san giving a powerful speech.

Chief Magdanese went「WHYY!?」in a voice that had never been heard from her before, her eyes looked like they almost flew out from their socket. She was the chief of the security bureau, that was why she knew painfully well about the dark rumors regarding Mr. Allgrey. Therefore, seeing his radiant smile and his speech that was overflowing with kindness and sincerity was honestly a nightmare for her instead.

The interview toward Mr. Allgrey in what seemed to be a special television programme was continuing on the display.

「That is wonderful thinking Mr. Allgrey. I also heard that there are a great number of people who are in agreement with your thinking, can you tell us more about that?」

「That is a true fact. They are my personal friends, my comrades. From here on, my comrades and I are wishing to act by exerting our best, in order to make this world become better even for just a little!」

「I see. And as the symbol of that resolution, you are founding this charity organization “Staking the Pride of a Villager”, right?」

「Exactly. Perhaps it is a single hero who is moving this world. But, what is supporting the world is every single one of the villagers. I am not a special human. But I wish to support the world as a single villager even with my meager strength!」

Hearing that emotionally moving speech, the audience in the studio stood up in unison and gave a thunderous applause. At the same time, a scrolling caption appeared on the screen. The names of the people supporting Mr. Allgrey were scrolling there. ……All the names, were the names that were spoken by Kaysis just now.

Chief Magdanese and everyone else was petrified. Among them, it was Emily who came alive before others. With a twitching expression, she asked Kousuke whose gaze was staring toward the day after tomorrow.

「Hey, Kousuke. The name of the charity organization is “Staking the Pride of a Villager” the news said……」

「Is. Is that so……」

「Hey, Kousuke. The name of Kousuke’s tool that can hypnotize other people, what is its name again?」

「……”Staking the Pride of a Villager”, I guess.」

Right after that, Chief Magdanese threw away the tablet. Allen raised a strange voice「Howah」while performing a diving catch.

Chief Magdanese power walked with loud footsteps, and this time she grabbed Kousuke’s shoulders.

「Explain, Mister Abyssgate. Concisely and swiftly.」

“YE, YES, MA’AM! In, in the first place, I came to this country in order to crush those guys! After crushing them, I brainwashed them at once! They became compassionate villagers! End of report, ma’am!”

Kousuke who was being demanded to explain with bloodshot eyes and a stifled voice reflexively saluted while answering toward Chief Magdanese’s overwhelming intensity. Vanessa and Allen nodded deeply, understanding how he felt.

Chief Magdanese gazed fixedly for a while at Kousuke who was drenched in cold sweat that was similar to a waterfall, and then she sighed deeply and drew back. While she was at it, she covered her eyes with one hand and looked up at the sky.

Seeing the figure of the chief that was like that, Vanessa said a brief comment.

“As expected from Kousuke-san. It feels like the saying “Everything is Abyssgate’s fault” will spread far and wide sooner or later.”(TN: ‘Everything is Abyssgate’s fault’, in Japanese it’s translated as ‘Daitai Abyssgate no sei’, which can be abbreviated as ‘DAS’)

For some reason, Kousuke was unable to make the retort ‘You’re noisy’ to Vanessa.

Surely from here on, Mr. Allgrey and his cohorts would use their fortune for charity work without sparing anything. Naturally, because of Mr. Allgrey’s reputation as a politician, at first he would also be ridiculed that this was only a bid for popularity, but it wouldn’t take that long for his fame to soar through the roof.

Sure enough, what would the society think if he was then arrested when he had saved a lot of people and obtained the trust of the mass……. Of course, it wouldn’t be a problem if there was definite proof, but even so, surely there would still be a problem. It was not difficult to imagine Chief Magdanese’s heartache level going up.

kohon- Kousuke cleared his throat. He faced back toward Kaysis who was looking on blankly, and then he questioned him in order to clear away the complicated atmosphere.

「So, Kaysis. The data and drug of『Berserk』, are all of those in this place?」

「No. Naturally, I decentralized it. If it’s the list of the laboratories that are in charge of safekeeping the data and drug, it is saved in the flash drive inside the drawer. You can confirm it there.」

Chief Magdanese somehow pulled her mind back to normal and sent her gaze to Allen. Allen who received that gaze moved to investigate the drawer. Like that, when he checked the flash drive he discovered, certainly there was the data of the storage areas, and not only that, it was also filled with the detail of the plan steps and so on.

With this, they now understood most of what should be known. If they destroyed all the data and drug next, the threat of『Berserk』would vanish. Emily wouldn’t be drowning in guilt for more than this, and the regret of her important people who became a sacrifice would also clear up a little.

That was why, perhaps now there wasn’t any need to know, about the answer to the question that Kousuke was putting off from asking, the question that until the end she was hesitating whether she should ask it or not.

However, right now, the one who was here was a strong girl who by her own will had resolved to face a great evil and the truth. She was a coward and often turned small, but even so, she was a girl who wouldn’t stop advancing forward.

That was why,

「The last thing. Tell us. ……The one who told you the existence of『Berserk』……who it is?」

「Fumu, that’s――」

Emily knew the truth.

Part 2

Time had passed until it was late at night. There wasn’t a star in the sky, and there was also no moonlight. The night sky was covered by cloudy weather, making the gloomy atmosphere to hang in the air.

The night view of the city could be seen from the veranda of the hotel that was prepared for them by the security bureau. Regardless that it was the dead of night, what was called the city center knew no sleep. Therefore the stars on the ground illuminated the dark night radiantly, granting comfort to the spectator of the view for just a little.

「……Emily. You cannot sleep?」

「Kousuke……yes. Just a little.」

Emily was on a veranda, both her arms leaned on the handrail while she was staring at the night view for some reason or another. A voice called to her from the neighboring veranda.

「You aren’t cold?」

Emily was wearing a nightgown. Although it was created from thick fabric for use in winter, it was only a piece of clothing. Kousuke knitted his eyebrows seeing that. Emily smiled wryly while shaking her head.

「I see. Well, certainly the night air in winter feels pleasant.」

Saying that, Kousuke copied Emily by using both his arms to lean on the handrail of the veranda beside Emily’s and he stared at the night view.

Both of them didn’t say anything for a while. They were merely looking quietly far away. Emily couldn’t express into words the reason she was unable to sleep. After all, it was something obvious. Also, because right now there wasn’t anything that had to be said regarding tomorrow.

That was why Kousuke only muttered a brief sentence.

「Just a bit more. Let’s do our best, together.」

「-……yes. Yes-」

Emily cast her eyes down, as though she was reflecting upon something. But, her voice that replied to him was reverberating really well in the chilly air.

Silence visited the place once more. It was unknown how long they were like that. Suddenly, Emily asked Kousuke.

「Hey, Kousuke. When this matter is over, what will Kousuke do?」

「Hm? That’s, I’ll return to Japan. I said it, right? I’m a student, yeah? Even though this is still winter holiday, I’m skipping through my short winter course here. I’ve got to return quickly and participate in it.」

Emily was looking blankly for a moment after hearing that reply, but right after that, she burst into laughter as though she was unable to hold it in.

「Fu, fufu……the person that toyed with not just the underworld organization, but even with the security bureau, needs to join a short course……kufuh, fufufufuh」

「O, oi, don’t laugh. Just between you and me, even the demon king is living as a normal student, you know. It’s not strange at all that I’m a student, right?」

「Bu, but. A person that introduced himself as Abyssgate something, fighting against armed men, someone like that is going through lessons normally……ahah, no good; it’s too surreal when I imagine it, I cannot hold my laugh. Ahahahah」

「Gufuh. Do, don’t say Abyssgate……」

Seeing Kousuke hanging his head down while his hand was pressing on his chest, Emily’s laugh was increasingly sounding more amused.

She had never laugh like this since the chain of incidents was starting.

Surely tomorrow would be the day where everything was settled. Nervousness, uneasiness, and pain that was the truth inside her heart. Actually, it was something that she was vaguely aware of. It was something she desperately averted her eyes from. The result was that all those were thrust before Emily now.

――If I am alone, could I endure it?

Thinking about that Emily shook her head inside her heart.

――Could I come this far, only with Vanessa and me?

As expected, she shook her head in her heart.

——In this time that is cruel, uneasy, painful, and difficult, even so, would I be able to laugh just like this?

There was no way she would be able.

Emily glanced at the sullen Kousuke beside her, and then she smiled softly while wiping the tears gathering at the corner of her eye with her finger.

「Kousuke, thank you.」

「It’s still too fast for you to say that. Say it after everything is over tomorrow.」

Kousuke’s words were blunt and slightly filled with sulkiness that hadn’t disappeared. But, for Emily, those words felt ticklish somehow.

Emily stared fixedly at the side profile of Kousuke who was looking far away with his chin resting on his hand. Kousuke seemed to notice her gaze, and he looked slightly uncomfortable.

Emily was thinking ‘my body will get chilly soon’ while she resolutely made a request to Kousuke.

「Say, Kousuke.」

「Hm?」

「You see, tomorrow, when everything is over……I want Kousuke, to tell me about yourself.」

「About myself?」

Kousuke raised his eyebrow and turned his gaze toward Emily. Emily nodded to his gaze while her cheeks reddened slightly.

「Yes. Like, how come you are able to use that kind of mysterious power. Like, just what are the returnees. Those kind of things, various things about Kousuke.」

「……」

「Uh. I, I understand that it's a secret matter you know? But, I absolutely will protect the secret. I'm serious, okay? Besides, next time something happens, perhaps I will be able to become Kousuke's strength then, besides, err, besides……」

Seeing Kousuke who spontaneously fell silent, Emily added to her words with a little bit of fluster.

For Kousuke, he didn't have any particular problem teaching her about the returnees. In the first place, they had honestly talked to the media, that they had been fighting the army of an evil god in another world. It depended on the other party whether they would believe it or not.

Emily had witnessed Kousuke's power, so naturally, she would believe and accept it. Therefore, it wasn't anything that particularly needed to be hidden from her.

As expected, if it was known by the whole higher-ups of the government, it would cause hindrance to their private life, and it would be putting the cart before the horse, so in that case, a large-scale countermeasure like pulling out the brainwashing technique of the demon king (especially his wife) would be necessary, but doing something like telling an individual like Emily, or Chief Magdanese, who knew about the scariness of the returnees like Kousuke and wouldn't easily act against them, there wouldn't be any problem.

Then, if it was asked the reason why Kousuke was falling silent, that was of course because he was told something like「I want to know more about you!」by a beautiful girl while that girl's cheeks were reddening.

Sure enough, for someone with a lover, it wasn't good for him to step further than this. He was deeply lamenting why he didn't immediately tell her about the existence of his lover. Thinking back, he wouldn't be lying if he said that there was no timing to tell the truth. But, as expected, it would be bad if he told the truth now. If asked what would be bad, of course, it was about the possibility that Emily's mind would turn to ash.

Kousuke instantly ended the mini Kousuke meeting inside his heart, and then he replied toward Emily who was still speaking in a fluster.

「No, I don't mind, doing just that――」 「Really!?」

「O, ou」

Emily's body leaned forward from the veranda, with her sparkling gaze capturing Kousuke. Kousuke thought that if Emily wanted to know about himself, then he would inform her about how he had a lover at that time, but……

Seeing Emily whose whole body was radiating「I'm, happy!」, the mini Kousuke inside his heart was rolling around from guilt and various other emotions.

Emily noticed how because she was leaning forward, her distance with Kousuke was so close they were almost touching. She became flustered from shyness while pulling back her body.

And then, Emily was showing quite the sly cuteness from her act of sending Kousuke glances to confirm that he wasn't creeped from her getting too close like that. The song of Rolli○ Girl (from a certain smiling video) was playing out inside Kousuke's heart. (TN: Rolling Girl. Also, a certain smiling video refers to Niconico Douga. Shirakome disguised niconico as nikoniko here, which mean smilingly in Japanese)

「I'm looking forward to it Kousuke. Ah, but, that, can I, ask just one thing right now?」

「Wha, what is it?」

Emily fidgeted, her finger played around with her untied hair twining the hair around while her cheeks reddened so much that it felt like the chilly air would be warmed up from it. Kousuke put up his guard, but the question Emily released still hit him like a body blow.

「You see, I'm asking this only out of curiosity, nothing else, but……what kind of girl, that Kousuke prefer?」

Seeing that kind of transparent attitude, the mini Kousuke was shouting「What do you mean just out of curiosity!? Sly! As expected from Emily-chan! That's sly!」while tumbling down the hill road inside his heart.

The unblinking gaze from Emily caused Kousuke's gaze to wander restlessly, and then he answered honestly.

「Rabbit-eared onee-san.」

「……Eh?」

A counterstrike at Emily. Emily's eyes turned into dots and was lost for words. The figure of herself wearing a bunny girl costume seducing Kousuke with a bewitching air was emerging in the back of her mind.

Emily instantly became a completely ripe tomato, so much that it almost felt like a sound of puff could be heard. She went ‘awawa-, awawa-* in panic, looking left and right, and in the end,

「Ko, Kousuke you pervert!」

She said such a thing while rushing inside her room.

「……When everything is over, I should make a phone call to Nagumo before talking to Emily.」

Kousuke decided in his heart to consult with his friend, his senior who had gone far ahead on the road to understanding this and that about girls.

Although, him noticing that this choice of his was mistaken……it was a story of a bit later.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Thinking back, it feels like the first smiling video Shirakome first saw was Rol○ng Girl.

I forgot what the impetus for me to see it was, but it was impactful.

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M. Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 215

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

YES-, ABYSSGATE-!!

---

bara-bara-bara-bara- The peculiar sound of a rotor was reverberating.

Under the early morning cloudy sky, the things that were spreading such a noise were three large helicopters. The three were forming a triangular formation and pushing on through the cloudy sky in a straight line.

Each of those helicopters was carrying a fully armed special force of the security bureau, in addition to Kousuke, Emily, Vanessa, and Allen, who was wafting off a pathetic aura, who were also located on one of the helicopters.

「O, oi, Allen. Are you okay?」

Riding on the same helicopter was the commander of the special forces, who was also the captain of Alpha squad, Bernard Pays. He asked Allen with some hesitation. He belonged to the security bureau's assault section, so he was quite acquainted with Allen who was working as an analyst on the surface where they often shared information.

Even though they weren't quite friends, their relationship with each other was at the level of close co-workers at least. Therefore, when he saw Allen, who was usually acting flippant with a light atmosphere, sitting on the bench in a style akin to a certain boxer who had burned out into pure white, he couldn't help but call out to him.

「Aa, Pays-san. Thanks for your concern. If I have to say whether I'm fine or not, I'm not fine, so it's fine.」

「No, that reply is already not fine there.」

Bernard made an expression that didn't know what to say to Allen whose face was changed to look similar to a mummy man's face.

「You see, Pays-san. I'm specialized in killing secretly. My job is to stealthily and quietly go 'pshuu'. Yet despite so, I was told to steal, spurred on to become a bodyguard, made to be beaten viciously by a demonic young man, sentenced with the caving in of my face by a beautiful girl, and on top of all that, I was told 'go fight a war against monsters' you know? Even though this is the order from the chief that I respected so much, I'll still feel tired from it. I'm just a step away from getting burned out. It's nice isn't it, for Pays-san and others. All of you received healing. As for me, my molars or inside my nose are still throbbing with pain……Head-on fighting isn't my territory you know? Yet despite so, I'm being sent out in this state; I'll die for sure this time.」

'Heheh' Allen chuckled while his gaze was getting distant and his mutter getting sluggish. Bernard's cheeks couldn't stop twitching seeing such an Allen. Inside his heart, he was thinking「This is bad. This guy, he is seriously getting cornered」, like that.

Allen's figure was like a salaryman who had become worn-out from continuously working in a black company, sitting melancholically on a bench of a public park while visioning an impossible dream of changing job. The final blow was dealt to Allen, who was exposing such an appearance.

「That's depressing, Mr. K (lol). Even though it will be the final decisive battle after this, what are you doing getting low spirits like that? I’ll gouge you out you know?」

「Scary-. What do you mean gouging!? Where are you going to gouge!? Or rather, what did you add just now when you said Mr. K?」

The cold words that came from Vanessa who was sitting beside Allen had gone passed being sharp and inspired terror instead. Allen was shivering while talking back.

「Please read the mood a little. Right now is a serious time. A lot of lives are hanging on this, and we have to fight an army of berserkers after this you know? Please don’t make that kind of funny face and act seriously.」

「The one turning my face into a funny one like this is particularly because of the fault of you guys though! Besides, I don’t want to be told to act seriously by Vanessa――」

「Oi, who said you could call my name casually like that. You want me to turn your face into something that will inevitably invite a roar of laughter?」

「I, I’m sorry. But, even if you aren’t so angry that your tone change……a, it hurts-. It really hurts I said! Please don’t grind on my injury! Please forgive me, Paradis-san.」

When Allen casually called Vanessa’s name, he was given back with indignation that surpassed the imagination. His injury was getting ground from above the bandage which caused Allen to scream while writhing around.

Certainly, Allen was the perpetrator that scattered around 「Berserk」in the research building. But, in the first place, it was the chief that ordered the theft, and then unexpected situations happened on top of another unexpected situation. So to speak, what happened was something like an accident.

Allen too pretty much felt guilty about the tragedy that occurred at the research building, and he was also feeling apologetic toward Emily; but because his habitual frivolous attitude was ingrained deeply in his self, he didn’t look like he was reflecting at a glance, which invited biting attitudes from others no matter what he did.

A situation that could only be said as tough luck and behavior that didn’t convey the inside of his heart. If it was said that it was him reaping what he sow then that would be the end of it but……

Starting with Bernard, the squad members boarding the same helicopter couldn’t help but send gazes of sympathy toward Allen who was still screaming while his face was getting ground by Vanessa.

Vanessa and others were unfolding a scene that could be seen as comedic in a sense. The one who was seeing them acting like that with a faint smile on her face was Emily. But, there was gloom in that smile.

Vanessa stole a glance at Emily while grinding on Allen. From that, it could be understood that the dialogue to some extent was also to clear up Emily’s feelings.

「Emily. Are you okay……I won’t ask you that. There is no way you are okay. It’s just like what Vanessa said, right now is the critical moment that will be the turning point. That’s why, keep standing firm. We are with you.」

「……Yes. Thank you Kousuke. Also Vanessa too. I was saying selfish things to be able to come along with you all, so I won’t run away with my tail between my legs in the middle of it.

There wasn’t any change with the gloom in her smile, but the strength dwelling in her eyes wasn’t withering. Kousuke nodded at Emily before quietly peeking outside through the window.

Outside was the cloudy sky spreading, looking as though rain might pour at any moment. While thinking that the sky currently was like Emily’s heart, Kousuke focused his mind on the operation that was currently unfolding.

After destroying all the data and drugs of Berserk they found in Gamma Pharmaceutical, Kousuke and others scrutinized the flash drive they confiscated from Kaysis once more. Inside that flash drive, the data listed the multiple research facilities where Berserk’s data was transferred to.

Most of them were research facilities inside a corporation that was unrelated to typical medicine manufacture, but there were several places among them that couldn’t be ignored. Those places were dams or water purification plants. Every one of those places were facilities that were related to Hydra in some kind of shape, and it seemed there was also a research facility inside them.

It was a terrifying story after they knew about Kaysis’s plan.

Naturally, for the security bureau, it was urgent to suppress those irrigation-related facilities. An improved version of Berserk still didn’t exist, but in the small chance that the existing Berserk was spilled, it would create a tragedy that would be unbearable to witness.

And so, because the number of facilities was a lot, it was insufficient with just the manpower of the security bureau.

They also cooperated with the army, and currently, a simultaneous suppression operation was unfolding toward those multiple research facilities.

「O, oi, Paradis. Don’t go further than that. Even like this, he is more or less a precious fighting strength. We really aren’t planning to lose, but the opponent is an army of berserkers. We have prepared the best equipment, but it’s still an unfavorable comparison compared to the army.」

「Muh. I can only drawback if Captain Pays tells me that. Mr. K, you narrowly escaped death.」

「U, uu. Is there, any girl that will be gentle to me somewhere in this world……」

Allen broke down crying as though he had been assaulted by a hoodlum. Gazes of sympathy were focused on him. Bernard was sighing deeply toward that state of Allen’s before he moved his gaze toward Kousuke.

Inside Kaysis’s flash drive included the list of the many people that were transferred to the research facilities. There were many people who were unrelated to the research work in it……there was no way they wouldn’t understand what the meaning of that was. Most likely, they were for human experiments and in addition, to be put around as senseless fighting strength.

A group of berserkers that would continue to fight without knowing pain and fear, and they would recover instantly as long as their head wasn’t destroyed……putting it bluntly, this was completely outside of the security bureau’s domain. This was obviously a scene where the army should move out.

But, it was undesirable for both Chief Magdanese and also Kousuke to have Kousuke’s true identity be exposed to a group that didn’t belong under the security bureau. Therefore, the special forces of the army were heading to other facilities, but the facility that they were currently heading toward had to be dealt with somehow with only the special force of the security bureau and Kousuke and co.

Bernard had the resolve. He wouldn’t hesitate to offer his life anytime if it was for the country’s safety. But, even so, he couldn’t avoid having his hand get sweaty. He was planning to be meticulous in putting up countermeasures and vigilance, but depending on the situation, there was also the possibility that he would have to shoot his comrade that had turned into a berserker.

Despite the fact that he was a veteran leader of the assault section and someone that was appointed as the captain of the special force, it still couldn’t be helped that he would unconsciously send a gaze of expectation and prayer toward the being(Kousuke) that wielded supernatural power.

Perhaps noticing the gaze of Bernard, Kousuke, who was gazing outside through a small window, suddenly returned his gaze and looked at Bernard.

“What’s the matter, captain-san?”

Bernard reflexively smiled wryly seeing that light attitude where he couldn’t feel any particular fervor from it.

“Nothing, I just think that you are really calm there. I think there is nothing as terrifying as you as an enemy, but when I think that you are fighting together with us as an ally, there is nothing as reliable as this.”

“Well, even though you said that they are lying in wait for us, they are just a muscle-brain group after all. I feel regretful for the people who were simply tricked and turned into berserkers; but based on the data, it seems that the majority is underworld people, so I don’t feel that much guilt. They also have a clear weak point. Even if it’s just captain-san and others, I think if you fight calmly, you will manage it somehow you know?

You are saying that really lightly. It’s like you are a warrior that has gone through much more bloodshed than even me. Do you have experience fighting similar things like this?

Bernard’s wry smile was increasingly getting deeper from hearing Kousuke’s light tone. He suddenly asked something like that. The other squad members were directing their gazes at Kousuke with deep curiosity. It seemed that they were thinking that it might be a reference for the battle after this depending on the situation. But more than half of that interest was just out of curiosity though.

Kousuke returned a wry smile at Bernard’s question. When Emily and Vanessa were also directing a gaze of deep interest to Kousuke, Kousuke answered while getting a faraway look.

Well, I actually have, if it’s a battle against warriors of god. Although, those guys weren’t cute bunches like these berserkers.

Ber, berserkers are cute?

That’s right. Their face was super beautiful, but their fighting ability was bad news on top of bad news. They were moving so fast they didn’t even leave behind afterimages, flying freely in the sky, disintegrated everything while ignoring something like defensive power, they neutralized all attacks using twin swords and wings; furthermore, they were gushing out like cockroaches……I made do somehow by dealing one hit kills from behind using invisibility, but if I fought them right from the front, honestly, whether I can survive or not is……yep, thinking back, it’s a miracle we could survive.」

「「「「「……」」」」」

The soldiers, including Bernard, turned wordless hearing Kousuke’s reminiscence that was said with a bitter smile. Inside their heart, all of them were fiercely retorting「What is that joke-like existence!? It’s a joke, right? Right?」, but no one said it out loud.

At the same time, a faint confidence「Compared to that, we can win can’t we?」was welling up inside them. Unexpectedly, it seemed that their morale was raised from the question of Bernard who was wondering how to encourage his squad.

「We will arrive at the point soon! Start preparing!」

The helicopter pilot gave his report. Bernard nodded to that and gave out instructions to the troops. Emily’s and Vanessa’s expressions were containing nervousness.

The place where they would land at was a lumber storehouse that was distanced slightly away from the water purification plant. The water purification plant was on a riverside that was surrounded by forest. It seemed that the research facility was jointly established with that water purification plant.

As for their plan, they would land at a lumber storehouse that was slightly away from the water purification plant, and from there they would advance through a land route and suppress the facility while the enemy wasn’t aware of their presence. The biggest point was to raid them with full secrecy and make the related research facility not realize the attack.

They would silently and swiftly suppress the area without even giving the enemy a chance to activate「Berserk」. That was their greatest objective ideally.

They would attempt to land at a vacant lot that was a temporary storage site for lumber that was lumbered from the forest; then they would approach the water purification plant from an angle that was on the completely opposite side. Even if they couldn’t land, there would be no problem if the helicopter descended down to a height where they could drop down using rope.

But, it seemed that the matter couldn’t progress that easily……

「-, wait a second pilot-san! There are people inside the forest! There are more than ten!」

「Wha-. Don’t tell me」

Kousuke threw a warning at the pilot who was making the helicopter descend for the landing. Bernard rushed toward the cockpit and Kousuke’s side.

「Mister Abyssgate. You don’t think those people are workers of the lumber mill?」

「It’s Kousuke. Certainly, there is a possibility that they are lumber mill workers. But, even though a helicopter is approaching, they are moving inside the forest as though to surround the lumber mill……do you think that lumber mill workers would surround the landing point when they see a helicopter?」

「……I see. I don’t want to see that kind of woodcutter.」

Bernard’s expression turned bitter from the information he was given. Obviously, the enemy was on guard against an approach from the lumber mill and had placed their personnel here. Inside the list, there were also people who were formerly police or members of a violent organization. Every single one of them was a criminal that had dirtied their hands thickly in crime and backed into a corner. They were useful resources to be ordered to act like this.

Most likely they themselves didn’t even imagine that they could be changed into monsters. However, they were undoubtedly lured by money and told to eliminate the approaching enemy.

「Most likely they have reported our approach too……」

「That’s likely. The plan to silently suppress them is meaningless already now.」

「Aa, we can only assault them hard.」

When the grim-faced Bernard instructed the pilot, the pilot made the helicopter climb back up to head directly toward the water purification plant. The next moment, one of the soldiers who was looking at the situation below from a window made a report that sounded like a shout.

「Missile-! Evade!」

「-, Bastard-」

The pilot cursed while tilting the helicopter greatly to the side. Emily screamed from the radical motion while a portable surface-to-air missile was flying out from inside the forest and approaching them in a straight line. The pilot’s reaction was splendid, but in the end, it was doubtful whether they would be able to evade or not.

The color of resolution dyed the face of Bernard and the troops, in the middle of that, however.

「——”Black Vortex”」

The moment Kousuke muttered those words with one of his hands on the floor, the helicopter lowered its altitude drastically with a jerk. It was unnatural, as though something grasped it from below and dragged it down.

——Gravity magic “Black Vortex”

It was the gravitational field generation magic that Kousuke specialized the most in. If a gravitational field was generated at the selected spot, then he could stand on the ceiling or perform pseudo flight in the sky by “falling”. It was a technique that could be said as the basic of the basics of gravitation magic, a magic that could be used without a chant right from the start by someone like Yue.

Due to the gravitational field that was suddenly generated, the helicopter received a gravity that was several times the norm, and it descended down drastically. At that moment, the missile was passing by above the helicopter.

「Wha, what!? Just now, what happened!?」

The pilot raised a bewildered voice, but surely it was the group on the ground that was looking at the situation who wanted to say that. After all, the helicopter shifted lower with a jerk just before the missile hit, and it was just in the middle of swiveling widely. That maneuver could only be considered as abnormal.

□I won’t let you fire that for the second time.□

Kousuke unraveled the gravitational field and took a glance at the pilot who was recovering control over the helicopter while he muttered so with his hand forming a seal. He formed a seal even though it had no meaning!

Right after that, with a poof a clone body of Kousuke popped up outside the cockpit screen. The clone could be called out within a radius of three meters with the real body as the center, so it was possible to perform a pseudo wall slip by using that.

The pilot was busy screaming from seeing a person materializing outside the window. The soldiers also went□It, it came ouutt!□; they were screaming as though they had encountered a ghost. It seemed that multiple Kousukes had become a considerable trauma for them.

The existence that was barely Kousuke silently put on a pair of sunglasses outside the window, and then he leapt down while deploying twelve kunai around him like satellites. The next moment,

□I won’t ask for forgiveness. Die while resenting me as much as you want. ——”Zekkou Senjin – Hikuusen”□(TN: Hikuusen = Flying Devouring Flash)

The twelve kunai floating around Kousuke flew out all at once. Each of them was heading to a different target like a streak of light. It went without saying what their targets were.

Including the person who somehow recovered from the shock of witnessing the abnormal maneuver of the helicopter and now was in the middle of preparing the second shot, all the latent berserkers lurking inside the forest immediately got the crown of their heads pierced in unison and breathed their last.

Kousuke stood midair with black ripples spreading out from below him while making the floating kunai flying freely. Bernard gave a lukewarm gaze at the pilot who was flustered from seeing such a sight while giving him instruction to haste toward the water purification plant.

The pilot cursed「What the hell this is, shit」in a small voice; however, he still controlled the helicopter without faltering, as fitting for a veteran pilot.

Before long, they could see an open space. The water purification plant and adjacent white building that at a glance was unclear what its purpose was, were coming into view. They could also see the water supply facility further downstream a slight distance away. The whole water purification plant was surrounded by two layers of fences with barbed wire on top of them. It seemed that traveling using a helicopter was also taken into account from the start as they caught sight of a large open space and a heliport.

「Chih. They had called in just as expected. They are coming one after another. ……Doesn’t seem like they are normal security, huh.」

Using a pair of binoculars, Bernard saw a great number of people coming out in groups from the adjacent building toward the open space that was in front of the water purification plant. His face frowned. Most of the people didn’t look like honest people, they were people with an air about them that was obviously thuggish at a glance, but among them, there were also the figures of slim young men, females, and also old men.

「Oi oi, you mean all those people are going to get turned into monsters? What now Captain Pays? If we descend to an altitude where you can drop down using rope, we are going to get shot down if we are hit by a rock that is thrown by a berserker's power you know?」

「Can't be helped. We can only use sniping or grenades from a slight distance away to decrease their number as much as……」

The heliport was already crowded with latent berserkers. The pilot's had a point with his worry, so Bernard decided their tactic with a bitter expression. It was at that timing that Kousuke told them to wait.

「Captain-san. I'll go there. Please open the hatch when we arrive above them. I'll secure the landing zone.」

「Don't tell me, you are going there alone? The opponent is a monster group that can only be killed by destroying their brain you know?」

「Yes. But, sniping won't work unless you go through the trouble of making a headshot from a flying helicopter while it's uncertain if grenades can destroy their brain reliably, even if it can blow them away. The more time passes, the more the berserkers will come out one after another, and we won't be able to take control. There is also the possibility that the crucial targets will run away during that time.」

「That's……certainly, it's just as you say. That was why we decided to land at the lumber mill five kilometers away from here so that the enemy won't notice us.」

Bernard scratched his head roughly. They got their start spoiled right from the very beginning, and now to make up for that they would make Kousuke, who originally should be an unrelated person with this case, to clear up the problem. Surely, this matter was something shameful for him as a member of the security bureau’s assault section.

Kousuke, who seemed to see through that sentiment of Bernard’s, clapped on his shoulder thinking that it was unexpected.

「Please don’t think that I’m unrelated or anything. Rather, this is my battle. I’ll eliminate those who stand in Emily’s way, protect her, and lead her to wherever her hand is reaching at. Rather, it’s captain-san and the others who are our cooperator here.」

「Mister Abyssgate……」

「It’s Kousuke. Well, that’s how it is, so everyone, please give me covering fire, okay? Aa, also just to make sure, I’m Kousuke.」

The words of Kousuke that were said with a fearless smile naturally caused Emily’s eyes to grow moist from feeling moved while Vanessa was making a triumphant look, for some reason. And then, because the soldiers knew about Kousuke’s monstrous power, they felt cheered up and a sense of trust in their hearts.

All of them saluted with a crisp expression and responded to Kousuke’s instruction.

「「「「「YES-, ABYSSGATE-!!」」」」」

「That’s why-, I told you already that I’m Kousuke-!! Is this intentional!? You are doing this intentionally!?」

「Mister Abyssgate-! We are going to arrive above them before long! It’s really okay that I don’t lower the altitude, is it!?」

「Aargh-, pilot! So you too-! The altitude is fine as it is, damn it all-!」

「Abyss! Those guys are starting to turn berserk!」

「Captaiiin! What's with that friendly call name! You want me to punish you with compulsory rope-less bungee jump!? There are about twenty berserkers there huh, son of a bitch!」

「Abyssgate-san! I'm opening the hatch! Good luck!」

「Thank you for the perfect salute! But I'll punch you later! Then, I'll go become the vanguard now!」

「Come, all of you! Fix your eyes without blinking! This is the descent of Abyssgate-sama!」

「Danessa. I'll turn you into a lovely villager later you bastaaard! Prepare yourself!」

「Abys――Kousuke-. Do your best!」

「Oi oi oi oi, Emily-chan. You almost called me Abyssgate just now, didn't you!? What's the meaning of this!? That's quite shocking, though!?」

Even while making fierce retorts, Kousuke leaned out his body from the opened hatch with his head turning toward Emily. Emily was averting her eyes toward the direction of the day after tomorrow. It seemed that she had plainly gotten carried away by the soldiers saying Abyssgate on and on.

But in the next moment, the helicopter tilted greatly. It seemed that one of the berserkers had thrown a block with a force equivalent to a cannon shooting, and the pilot took emergency evasion.

As a result,

「Aa」

Kousuke whose guard was down with his head turned toward Emily left behind that kind of stupid voice and got thrown out of the hatch. The troops went「Aa」in unison while staring at Kousuke who was getting smaller.

「Ko, KOUSUKEEEEEE-」

While Emily's voice was echoing, Kousuke was freefalling face-up while his shoulders skillfully dropped in dejection. To fall like this from the helicopter by accident was really a sloppy way to start a fight.

「Well, I'm this kind of character after all. Surely.」

Kousuke muttered that with a sigh, and then with a twirl he rotated midair and looked down to the ground. There, berserkers, who were already nearly twenty in number, roared while waiting impatiently for the prey.

With those terrifying monsters below, Kousuke took out a pair of sunglasses from his breast pocket and calmly put it on. Right after that, the corner of his lips grinned widely. That was the mark of the descent of the abyss.

「Good work with the welcome. As thanks, I'll present you with a magnificent headhunt!」

He kicked on the air. One of the berserkers waiting on the ground reflexively waved up his hand around like a child seeing the falling prey suddenly changing direction.

Lord Abyssgate shifted his landing point. It wasn’t because he wanted to avoid getting surrounded by berserkers. Rather, it was the opposite. He flew toward the middle of a spot with the highest concentration of berserkers without hesitation.

And then, just before the landing, shan- a clear sound resounded while two short swords were drawn out; his body rotated like a spinning top. Jet black sword flashes that could be mistaken as a spiral gale was blowing violently, caressing the thick neck of the berserkers that looked like a log.

step While a light landing sound that was unthinkable when coming from a high-altitude descent resounded, the lord stayed unmoving in a chuuni pose. He was kneeling on one knee, the two short swords were held in a reverse grip, one in the front and the other one in the back.

In the next moment, four sounds goto- resounded from behind the four berserkers surrounding the lord. Those sounds unmistakably came from the neck of the berserkers. Looking at them again, all the four berserkers had cleanly lost everything above their neck. The wounds might’ve been burned or frozen because no blood spurted out.

The terrifying monsters lost their heads that were their only weak point. It was done so easily, as though the berserkers were toys that had interchangeable heads. dou- They fell down while raising such a noise.

The lord stood up quietly. Of course, he didn’t forget to sharply push up his sunglasses with one hand while making a cool pose of half his body leaning to the back. Seeing the lord like that, the berserkers growled while throwing their killing intent.

The lord took it in stride while going□fuh□before he introduced himself.

□A battle is killing each other with strength and will. You all who are lacking will, you won’t be able to stop this abyss. Now, let’s pull down the curtain. ——Kousuke E Abyssgate, has arrived!!□

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

I caught a cold……

When I went to buy cold medicine, my bicycle’s wheel got punctured……

When I was ironing my suit, I noticed that a part was torn……

It couldn’t be helped, so I drank the cold medicine and Nico Douga.

John Wick’s Udonge is super cute……

Shootout Dream and Battle of Koumakan are lovely.

The next update is planned for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 216

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Wai-, You Raised Too Many Flags!

Part 1

The bodies of the berserkers who were surrounding a figure from four directions were slowly collapsing like a blooming flower.

The figure that appeared from behind the tough meat wall that lost their head was the lord whose body was wrapped in a black outfit with two jet black short swords held in reverse grip. The one-lens type sunglasses was reflecting light even under the cloudy sky; it glittered with a sparkle. Surely, it was an optional feature.

「GAAAAAAAAAAH!!!」

It was a dissonant sound of many overlapping roars. The roars of the berserkers shook the air.

Lord Abyssgate, who was cool at any time with his body kneeling on one knee and his short swords readied to the front and back, wasn’t perturbed by that shriek that stimulated human fear. He stood up silently while putting away one short sword.

And then, he took a half-body stance toward the berserkers who were tightening their encirclement and thrust one hand forward; his palm was facing up——kui kui he moved his fingertip. It was as though he was telling them ‘come at me’.

「Let me tell you this, this lord isn’t so soft that the like of mindless beasts can possibly win.」

It was as though that whisper became the signal because the berserkers roared and began charging from three directions. The vibration of their steps made it feel like the ground was shaking. Normal people would surely lose strength from their waist and feel their groin going cold from feeling that pressure. Just like Emily-chan the other day. Just like Emily-chan!

In contrast, the lord――vanished.

It happened in an instant. The berserkers that came from three directions were blown away all at once. They went back down the path they just advanced through with a fierce momentum as though they had just been hit by a dump truck. Naturally, the berserkers approaching from behind also got grandiosely dragged into it.

At the spot where the berserkers were just at, there was the lord in an unmoving pose――three of them.

「Abyss-style Assassination Martial Art – Phantom Attack Form――”Roukyouka”」(TN: Haze Frenzy Flower)

It seemed the lord was pleased with the naming of the Abyss-style. He looked pleased that he could unveil the numerous naming (centered on existing techniques, especially the martial art moves that weren’t named before this) he had thought up of through the whole night last night. The smile on his mouth indicated that.

By the way, what he did was only make clone bodies and simultaneously blew away the enemies that were coming from the three directions using palm heel. The ability of the lord’s lovely fingerless glove produced unrealistic power that could make huge bodies in the middle of charging forward to double back. Of course, the lord properly transmitted the impact to the brain, so he didn’t fail at dealing the fatal blow.

□aAAAAAAAAA-!!□

Three berserkers swung down their stout arms like a hammer from behind the three lords. In the next moment, the clones easily vanished along with a comical sound. The attack from two berserkers ended up striking the ground in vain.

And then, the true body of the lord——

The enlarged fist the berserker was attacking with was already larger than the lord’s head. That fist hid the figure of the lord and without stopping it plummeted toward the ground without compromise.

That was how it looked, but there weren’t any remains of the lord in the small crater. The lord that was supposed to be the real body shouldn’t be vanishing like a phantom. The berserker who lost his target moved his bloodshot eyes everywhere in search of the target.

□If you lost your reasoning power, then at least sense using instinct.□

□-□

A voice came. From below the berserker.

The berserker looked down at his own feet in shock. His figure that was peering at his own feet with his body leaning forward looked as though he was bowing. He looked really comical acting like that with his large build and the mad atmosphere he was giving off.

A short sword that stretched out from the ground, as though it had been growing there all along, attacked the berserker that was peering at his own feet. The short sword flew straight at the berserker’s head, pierced the eye of the berserker, destroyed his brain, split the skull, and flew out from the back of his head.

Light left the eyes of the berserker that received the lethal attack as his body tilted unsteadily, and at the same time, the other hand that was reaching out, similar to the short sword, grasped at the berserker’s hair and pulled it into the ground.

Using that recoil, the lord flew out beside the berserker that was buried in the ground, making it look like its upper body was prostrating. Of course, the lord flew out in the pose of a wild eagle!

「GAAAAAAAH」

The approaching berserker leapt at the lord in midair. Using their charging momentum, they threw their body into the air like a cannonball to shoot down the lord.

「How unfortunate. That’s an illusion.」

The body of the berserker passed through the lord’s body without hindrance. The one jumping was the clone body of the lord, which didn’t have any substance.

Then, where was the real body?

Of course, the lord was normally right beside it with his painfully thin presence. Even now, he was closely nestling beside the berserker-san. However, von A unique sound resounded. The true shape of that sound was by the body of the lord that was dancing midair beside the berserker, the flaming short sword that appeared in the lord’s hand without anyone noticing――it was the sound of “Heaven Destroying Sword of Lightning Flame” cutting through the wind.

□Be embraced by the dark hellfire――”Katon – Enryuuga(Annihilating all creation – The abyss’s world-destroying conflagration)”□(TN: Fire Escape – Flame Dragon Fang)

―― Katon – Enryuuga(Annihilating all creation – The abyss’s world-destroying conflagration)

The highest class of fire elemental magic “Azure Sky”――that magic was in a compressed state enveloping the short sword. The sword that was clad in the super-hot blue fire cut and melted the target. It made a unique sound von when it was swung. Because it was a sword that was filled with magic power, it could repel magic attacks.

Yes, it was a peerless sword that melted and cut every obstacle while leaving a beautiful trail of light behind in midair――so to speak, it was a lig○ saber!

When this ability was first unveiled, it went without saying how the creator and the lord wordlessly exchanged high-fives. And then, unable to contain themselves, the two did make-believe of a certain knight. It was a little bit of a black history for the two of them when they received a lukewarm gaze from the two rabbit-ears witnessing their act.

The berserker whose neck was melted and cut by the light sword rolled on the ground right after. Berserkers were attacking the landing lord one after another.

□It’s hard to move with that large body, right? I’ll make it lighter for you――”Demolish Yoke”□

The lord made a sonorous finger snap. Right after that, the surrounding berserkers were blown away into the sky.

――Gravity magic “Demolish Yoke”

The magic that Miledy Raisen once used at the legendary decisive battle, a magic that forcefully liberated the target from the wedge of gravity. The berserkers who lost the shackle of gravity were thrown into the air helplessly due to a reason that couldn’t be resolved using physical strength.

And then, if someone looked far above the sky, there were two lords standing back to back in bilateral symmetry, as though looking at the mirror reflection. They both were taking a stance with half their body shifted to the back, and both of them were holding kunai between their five fingers while displaying a throwing stance.

□□Thy art judged by the dark god――”Juuton – Saika no Seitsui(Inescapable Judgment of Abyss)”□□(TN: Gravity Escape – Star Fall of Calamity Judgment)

What was launched was a downpour of kunai that multiplied in weight until they reached several tons.

The dozens of berserkers became helpless due to the restriction that was zero gravity in midair. The only thing that they could do was to use their hands instinctually to cover their head. Even so, perhaps they could possibly defend using those thick arms that looked like logs.

Although, in the first place, Juuton – Saika no Seitsui(Inescapable Judgment of Abyss) wasn’t a technique for piercing the target. This was an attack that was labeled as judgment. And then, from time to time, judgment was carried on by reaping the head.

The result,

"At least have a peaceful life in the next world."

Surrounding the lord on the ground, a sudden squall poured down on the berserkers, where their heads were separated from their torsos like a joke.

The cause was one thing. The rain of kunai was something to reap the head from the beginning. The super heavy kunai falling to the ground had super-fine steel string tied to each other. Yes, so to speak, the steel string was like a guillotine falling down from the sky.

White smoke was rising from here and there. The ability of "Berserk" was trying to keep the berserkers alive by repeating super-regeneration, but there was no way it could regenerate the whole body from the head, and it was also impossible to regenerate the brain from the torso. Before long the bodies reached their limit and withered as though in resignation.

The rising white smoke looked like the soul of the people that were liberated from the "Berserk" transformation.

The lord standing in the middle of the white smoke shifted his sunglasses slightly and offered a silent prayer to the white smoke, and then his eyes narrowed quietly toward the remaining berserkers.

Around him were floating kunai that were connected to each other with steel string. step The two clones landed down on both sides of the lord. The lord swung the short sword clad in azure flame while it made a von sound, and then the clones also started swinging similar swords of azure flame.

“Now then, let’s end this quickly. ……This futile fighting.”

The lord muttered, and at the same time, his presence got drastically thinner. Even though he was right in front of them, the berserkers looked around in puzzlement.

Right after that, the lord rushed out.

Five minutes.

That was the amount of time the mindless beasts who were given the name of the legendary mad warrior were able to survive in front of the abyss lord.

Part 2

……Impossible. What the hell is that……just what in the world is happening……

A man’s voice that sounded shaken was resounding in a dim monitor room located in the corner of the research facility. What that person clad in a lab coat looking like a researcher was looking fixedly at with an intense concentration was the image from the security camera that was facing toward the heliport.

It had been anticipated that someday the security bureau, or the army, would come to assault this place; therefore, the closest place that a helicopter could land at and the path that could be passed through by car were all monitored. When a communication came from the lumber mill, the people here only thought Aa, they are coming here really early, huh.

As long as they had groups of berserkers, they didn’t need to fear most armed groups. It wasn’t like they needed to hold the place and carry out do-or-die resistance. The berserker group was simply for buying time. While the attacker was spending their time dealing with the monsters, they would carry the research data and escape using the prepared method. After that, they would continue research at another research facility.

If they kept repeating that method later, then they wouldn’t be able to be captured that easily. That was what they were thinking.

Yet despite so,

「Impossible. This is impossible-. Just what is that brat-. This is ridiculous! It’s like a poorly made American comic-. Who can accept that such a thing exists in reality-」

「……Ingram.」

Beside the man, an armed man with an air that seemed used to battle punched down on the desk loudly while shouting.

The armed man——his name was Weiss Ingram. He was a guard that Kaysis put in charge of for the security for this research facility. Narcotic smuggling, human trafficking, inducing war, arms trade, and so on, he was a leader of a mercenary group that would do anything as long as it produced him money.

Weiss had a large scar running from his cheek to his right ear. His face was distorting as though that scar was twitching while he gave some kind of instruction to his subordinate through a wireless device. And then, his gaze turned toward the man in the lab coat.

「Oi, what the hell are you doing staring idly like that? Finish your preparation to skedaddle right away. I don’t wanna die fighting that kind of incomprehensible American comic bastard here. We are going to use all the remaining berserkers and “that” to buy time. We are going to leave this place in five minutes.」

「A, aa, got it. No, wait a second. You are going to use “that” too?」

「Aa? Isn’t that obvious? We cannot bring that kind of thing with us anyway. We only need the data of the result of the experiment; there won’t be any problem releasing that to send it to those guys.」

「That’s……certainly, you are right. Got it, I’ll prepare――」

The man in the lab coat was nodding while he was going to say「I’ll prepare right away」, but his words stopped in the middle. Weiss turned dubious, and his gaze moved to the man, where he saw the man in the lab coat had his gaze fixed on the monitor.

In the monitor was reflected the picture of the helicopter landing on the heliport that had been safely secured, the troops of the security bureau’s special force quickly getting down from the helicopter, and then a girl with blonde hair tied into a side-tail getting down with the help from the man who annihilated the berserker group using supernatural skills.

The man in the lab coat opened his eyes wide while muttering「Why, in this place……」. Weiss got irritated seeing the man in the lab coat acting like that and called「Oi-」with a rough voice. The man in the lab coat seemed to come to his senses from that, and with a ‘hah’ he took his gaze off the monitor and shook his head once before saying「I’ll prepare myself」while exiting the room.

Weiss’s gaze returned to the monitor, and he narrowed his eyes, staring at the girl who, for some reason, seemed to embrace the young man, or rather, she somehow looked like she was clinging to the young man.

「A girl on the battlefield, huh. Well, she is wearing a lab coat, which might mean that she is someone like that.」

Weiss pondered something before a wide grin that looked disgusting appeared on his face. He then followed after the man in the lab coat and exited the room. He did that while giving instructions to his subordinate through a wireless device.

Part 3

The research facility had a white outer wall. Alpha squad was lining up along that wall in an orderly formation. Bernard, who was in the lead, had his gaze fixed on the door that his subordinate was trying to break.

The other squads, Beta squad and Gamma squad, were trying to infiltrate from other entrances. Each of those squads was accompanied by a clone of Kousuke.

Kousuke was vigilantly sensing his surroundings at the back of that formation while being aware of Emily who kept glancing at him with a complicated look.

「……Emily. I'm really not bothered, so Emily too don't get bothered by it. Rather than that, focus your mind for now. Even though we are protecting you, that doesn't mean it's okay for you to not be careful, okay?」

「Ye, yes. I'm sorry Kousuke.」

Actually, Emily thought that because she almost called Kousuke as Abyssgate just before he was about to jump from the helicopter, Kousuke accidentally fell out of the helicopter. Because of that, she was a little down thinking that she had held the other back right away from the beginning.

Emily apologized right away when she got down from the helicopter, but Kousuke, who had offhand knowledge that it was the easiest to get aimed at the moment when a helicopter was taking off or landing, was being busy acting vigilant toward the surrounding, so he only replied「Aa, yeah, it’s fine」that sounded really curt.

Of course, he also really didn’t mind, so his words sounded light coupled with that factor too, but from Emily’s point of view, she felt that Kousuke’s words had a different nuance. So to speak, for her it sounded like「Emily is the same as the other guys, huh? Well, it doesn’t really matter though.」.

As a result, Emily leapt at Kousuke. Kousuke was startled, and he drew back, but Emily kept clinging to him while yelling things like「You are misunderstanding Kousuke! The bad one is the idiot soldiers of the security bureau! I just got unconsciously carried away by them, I actually wanted to call you by your name properly! Please, believe me, Kousuke!」

On site of a recent battle where a curb stomp had just been performed, in a situation where they were surrounded by the special force troops around them, furthermore, in a time where they were going to march into the enemy’s base after this, Emily-chan clung while imploring「Don’t hate me!」unashamedly. It seemed that her nerves had unexpectedly become thick and sturdy through the case this time.

「Oi, Aby. We are going to charge in. Keep your flirting with your girlfriend for later.」

Bernard warned with an exasperated voice seeing the love comedy of the two that was completely lacking in tension (seen from the side) just before they broke in.

「Oi, captain-san. The way you call me got even friendlier huh. If you want to get along with me that much, it’s fine to call me Kousuke you know?」

「Is that so? Then you can also call me by my name you know, Aby.」

「……I'm absolutely not going to.」

The ignoring phenomenon occurred really naturally. It wasn't like it was caused because of sarcasm, ill will, or teasing. In fact, Bernard calling Kousuke as Aby with so much naturalness that it felt like a leaf that would fly if it was blown by the wind.

Beside Kousuke who was making a sour look, Emily, who was called as "girlfriend", had red cheeks while her mouth was smiling broadly. She was also throwing a gaze that was mixed with slight jealousy to Bernard who called Kousuke with the pet name Aby even though it was Kousuke's alias. She was busy with various things.

「……How envious. How jealous. Flirting with a cute girl in this kind of situation……damn Abyssgate.」

「Who do you think you are addressing without any honorifics just now? I'm going to get rid of you while dressing it up as an accident you know?」

Allen had a handkerchief that he took out from somewhere and bit on it while going 'mukii!'. It seemed that he was considerably broken. In response to such an Allen, Vanessa was giving a warning with a voice that didn't sound like a joke……as for her, surely, she was already at a point of no return.

The soldiers, including the captain, who were emitting nervousness from preparing themselves with the possibility that they themselves might get infected with「Berserk」exchanged looks at each other wry smiles seeing the exchanges of Kousuke and co.

「Captain, we can proceed.」

Bernard received the report from the soldier that succeeded in unlocking the door and used his radio. Both Beta squad and Gamma squad also returned affirmative signals for their breaking-in preparation.

Bernard started counting. Inside the tightly tense atmosphere, the count――turned to zero.

「GO-!」

The soldiers were invading the facility with a fluentness akin to flowing water starting from Bernard’s signal.

Emily was desperately following in the middle of the soldiers while being surrounded from three directions by Kousuke, Vanessa, and also Allen.

The safety confirmation「Clear」reported back through the radio from each squad.

The corridor was dim. It seemed that the place was only installed with fluorescence lamps for emergency use. The existence of Kousuke and co was known from the battle on the helicopter landing pad. Therefore, the facility personnel must have already turned off the facility’s function and started to escape.

The squad’s objective ranged from capturing to erasing the essential personnel that were important even among the staffs of this facility. And then, their most important duty was to not let the water supply be polluted by「Berserk」no matter what happened. There wouldn’t be any advantage for the enemy to spill the current version of「Berserk」, but the possibility of what these cornered people might do……it couldn’t be viewed optimistically.

Therefore, now that they had been detected, they had to suppress the whole facility swiftly. The soldiers were confirming their current position with a device in hand while advancing without hesitation inside the ominous facility without any human presence.

They could see the end of the corridor ahead. It seemed that the path became a T-junction there.

It was at that time,

「Enemy-. At the front, they’re armed!」

「Spread out!」

Kousuke’s yell reverberated. Bernard gave out instructions swiftly in a flash. The soldiers parted to the left and right in a second and took cover behind pillars or room entrances. Kousuke also hugged Emily and dived behind a pillar.

Almost at the same time as that, dadadadadada- consecutive gunshots were reverberating. Muzzle flashes blinked in the corridor ahead, and in the next moment, impacts ran on the walls and pillars where Kousuke and others were hiding and smashed up the surface.

It seemed that it was an ambush by humans.

The reaction of the soldiers was also swift. They aimed toward the spot where the muzzle flashes were visible and began firing with polished accuracy.

「We cannot waste time in this kind of place! Jazz-, grenade!」

「Yes sir—!」

The soldier called Jazz pointed the grenade launcher attached under his rifle muzzle and fired deep into the corridor. Right after that, a heat wave blew through along with a fierce roaring sound.

「Go-, Go-, Go-!!」

Bernard’s command resounded while the wave of the explosion hadn’t ended yet. The soldiers were firing simultaneously while rushing deeper into the corridor. Their gun points were directed ahead at where the corridor was divided to the left and right. At that moment, they could see the figure of a man running away toward the corridor turn.

The following soldiers saw men collapsing on the ground; perhaps they were late to escape from the grenade explosion and crouched down. The men were groaning in pain, but right after that, they started to convulse. At that moment, tan-tan-tan-

Gunshots echoed. The soldiers drilled the head of the men without hesitation.

「Clear」

「Clear」

The soldiers reported the confirmation of safety with calm voices. And then, as though nothing happened, the soldiers advanced forward once more with a flowing movement toward the direction where they saw men escaping to just before.

(……As expected, the real deal special force is amazing huh.)

Kousuke reflexively sent praise with a small voice. Vanessa beside him showed her affirmation with an expression that looked slightly proud.

(Naturally. They aren’t anything overwhelming like Kousuke-san, but the assault force of the security bureau is unmistakably elites. As long as their opponent isn’t a mass of absurdity, they wouldn’t fall behind that easily.)

As though to prove those words of Vanessa, Alpha squad, led by Bernard, was exterminating the armed groups lurking everywhere inside the facility to buy time, as though they were facing children. The squad kept advancing without stopping.

It seemed that the other squads were also the same from the report coming through the radio. There also wasn’t any report of someone being injured. Kousuke, who was sharing information through his clone bodies, also understood how his clone bodies didn’t really need to do anything, so he once again felt for real the strength of the special force.

While they were advancing like that, Kousuke and co arrived in a spacious room. According to Kaysis’s data that they had downloaded before, this room should be the main research room.

As though to show that, there were several types of machinery that seemed to be for research use, incomprehensible items left around on a desk, and several personal computers here and there.

「Captain-san.」

「Aa, I know.」

Kousuke called with a small voice, to which Bernard nodded. He already finished giving out hand signs and the troops also aimed their guns to cover all blind spots.

「Yoo yoo, ain’t this the great elites of the security bureau. Just what are you doing, standing around silently in this kind of place?」

The one who was saying such a thing with a joking mood was a frivolous man with a large scar on his cheek as his peculiarity, Weiss. Perhaps as the expression of his composure, he didn’t even touch the light machine gun hanging on his shoulder by a strap. Both his hands were raised up as though to show his surrender.

「……Weiss Ingram. I never thought that you were in this kind of place.」

Allen sighed with his gun pointed. When Vanessa asked with her gaze「Who?」, Allen said that he was an inhuman mercenary who some time ago was failed to be caught by Agent L from the JD Agency and then went missing after that.

Hearing that, Bernard’s motivation to leave the man alive turned zero, and he was about to give the erasure order in a snap.

「O, oi oi, wait a second. If you kill me, something disastrous will――」

「Fire-!」

Weiss was about to say something, but Bernard was merciless. He signaled the men to fire without compromise. Weiss jumped to the side without delay, and countless bullets passed through the spot where he was just at a few moments ago.

Weiss hid behind a desk while cursing「This is why I hate the spoiled elites-」and sent instructions through his radio. The subordinates of Weiss who were hiding everywhere inside the room pulled their triggers toward the troops right away.

The troops immediately scattered to positions where they could cover each other and began firing back at every direction. Kousuke was also starting his half Abyssgate transformation in the off chance some stray bullet would go to Emily while suppressing the enemy force.

「Shit-. That Kaysis bastard. The pay is not worth it at all for something like this! Oi-, old man! Not yet!? We cannot hold on any longer here!」

「――」

Weiss threw an angry yell while firing back with his light machine gun. Right after that, a man was crawling out on all fours from the shadow of a desk located deeper in the room. It seemed that the man was crouching because he couldn’t move due to the intensity of the gunfight.

Weiss who saw that clicked his tongue and took out a smartphone from his breast pocket, and without hesitation, he pushed on one of the buttons lighting the screen. When he did that, a scream immediately surged.

「My bad. Die for my sake a bit.」

The button Weiss pushed was the detonator for the 「Berserk」that he made his subordinates drink.

Naturally, Weiss’s subordinates knew the true nature of the thing they were made to drink. They knew yet they still drank that kind of thing. If they were asked why they did it, then it wasn’t because of loyalty but because of fear. Simply because if they didn’t drink it, then they would be killed by their boss Weiss. That fear allowed them to take the drug even knowing the true identity of the drug.

Because in Weiss’s mind he didn’t think that he would be able to escape while leading all his subordinates, he made this inhumanly ruthless decision. He made everyone except his close aides and useful subordinates take the drug.

「Chih. All troops, concentrate on the berserkers! Don’t get hit by any residual splash!」

Bernard’s order was given, and at the same time, Kousuke began to deal with the berserkers. He didn’t neglect to guard Emily, but there were Vanessa and Allen beside her. It was Danessa-san who recently only showed her unfortunate side, but her strength was an authentic one.

After all, by herself, she protected Emily from the dozens of pursuers led by Kimberly while being isolated and helpless; she was a formidable fighter that could overcome even a berserker if it was a one-on-one with leeway to spare.

As for Allen, it went without saying that he was a murder specialist that could take on, at the same time, several berserkers that were the primary source of infection who had been dashed with the undiluted solution of「Berserk」. Even now, he wasn’t letting any enemy get nearby by means of martial arts that looked like Gun-Kata using two handguns resembling a certain demon king.

But, even so, in this kind of situation where they were surrounded by berserkers from all directions, and it was at a range this close, it couldn’t help that the attention would be directed that way……

「Ah」

Emily unconsciously raised her voice. Ahead of her gaze, there was Weiss who was trying to get out of the room quickly where right now he was opening the door, and a man in a lab coat who got his collar grabbed by Weiss before he got thrown into the place behind the door.

Kousuke lopped off the head of a berserker, and then he was about to set forth to capture Weiss――but just before he could do that,

「Then, sayonara everyone. Please enjoy your welcoming party until the end no matter what.」

Weiss then pushed the smartphone button, and the solid door closed loudly.

It was unclear just what his reason for pushing the button was, but that reason was immediately turned clear.

「Guruuruuruuruu」

A low growling voice resounded between the gunshots.

「Captain-san! The door deeper inside!」

「-, oi oi, what’s that……」

Kousuke was pointing ahead. There, the door that was on the wall on the opposite side of the door Weiss and others went through was being opened before they knew it. And then, Bernard stiffened reflexively when he saw the thing coming out from there.

The thing coming out from there was a large body that might reach two meters in length——a beast. Its appearance looked like a cat. It had lean limbs and a tail swaying relaxedly. However, it had a large body that couldn’t be found anywhere on earth. Its eyes were bloodshot, and saliva was dripping down from its mouth.

From behind that beast, there were also things that weren’t cats, but they were also enlarged beasts that looked hungry without any sanity. There were dogs, mice, and also monkeys. Every one of them was literally a monster.

「I see. There is no reason to not use『Berserk』on animals. And this place is a research facility. It would be stranger instead if there were no animals for guinea pigs……」

Bernard muttered that with a disgusted expression. He then gave instructions to his subordinates, and they rearranged their formation. But, at the same time, there were angry yells resounding from the radio. It came from Beta squad and Gamma squad. It seemed that at their side they also encountered berserk animals.

Thanks to Kousuke’s clone, currently, there wasn’t any soldier who became unable to fight, but they didn’t seem to be in a situation where they could link up with each other soon.

「It can’t be helped. We don’t know how many of this things there are, but I’ll clear——」

「No, Aby. You go chase Ingram and others together with Doctor Grant.」

Kousuke who was in his Abyssgate transformation once more was about to take on the berserk animals——the Berserk Beasts. But Bernard stopped him.

Kousuke reflexively turned an expression of disbelief「Are you sane?」to Bernard. Bernard gave a glance to Kousuke before throwing a flashbang and tear-gas grenade. If they were animals, then even if they were turned mad, they might falter a bit in front of objects that intensely stimulated their sight and smell. That was Bernard's thinking but……

Unexpectedly, it seemed that his thinking was right on the mark, the Berserk Beasts didn't falter, but they leapt back greatly.

Bernard included that useful information into the tactic inside his head while he spoke to Kousuke using the time he bought.

「Both Ingram and that man he took away are both prey that cannot be allowed to escape. We don't know what kind of escape method they have prepared, on top of that, we cannot let them buy any more time. Besides, there won't be any meaning of you taking the girl here if they get away, right?」

Bernard said that with a smile. His gaze turned toward Emily who was desperately looking at the situation around even while she was turning small with both her hands holding her head.

It was exactly as Bernard said. The reason they picked this place from among the places that should be suppressed was for Emily's sake. Emily herself knew that she was asking for something selfish, but even so, she earnestly requested and arrived here. It wasn't for the sake of the world, or even for the sake of the security bureau. It was for the sake of Emily that he came here. It was none other than Kousuke who declared that.

Kousuke looked at Bernard once again. The berserkers around had mostly been dealt with by the soldiers, but even so, if they had to face the Berserk Beasts, then it would be a struggle between life and death for them.

But the gaze that Bernard returned to Kousuke contained not even a shred of hesitation or fear. He would give his all for the sake of doing what must be done. There was only the resolve as a professional in his gaze.

「I'll send my clones here quickly when they finish taking care of the guys in the other places. Don't be reckless and focus on buying time.」

「That's really reassuring. If it's just buying time, then it will be too simple that I might let my guard down unconsciously.」

Bernard smiled fearlessly. Kousuke also returned back a fearless smile while he helped Emily stand up.

「Bernard. You are a good guy.」

「You noticed it this late? You are unexpectedly slow huh, Aby.」

Kousuke and Bernard thrust their fist at each other. For some reason, Vanessa's eyes were sparkling at the exchange of manly smiles between the two, but they ignored it for now.

Kousuke pulled on Emily's hand and broke into a run right away. Vanessa and Allen were also following behind.

At the same time, the Berserk Beasts instinctually hate letting their prey get away more than feeling disgusted toward the tear gas, so they all rushed off toward the four.

「Don’t let them hinder Aby and the others-!」

The soldiers laid out a barrage following Bernard’s order. The Berserk Beasts were blown away to the side were unable to stop the charge of Kousuke and co.

Using that opening, Kousuke was able to reach the door where Weiss went into. Kousuke opened the door while he looked at Bernard and the soldiers who were facing the Berserk Beasts who had changed targets.

Seeing Kousuke and the others stop moving and looking here, Bernard yelled angrily.

「Don’t mind us, just go quickly-! Heh, no need to worry, we are going to catch up with you guys soon.」

「Wai-, stupid-! Just why did you say that just now!?」

The speech of Bernard that was said with a fearless smile caused Kousuke to make a retort. Just how could Bernard say that kind of lovely speech in this critical hour? There was no way Bernard, who wasn’t an otaku, was running a joke here, which made that speech sound excessively ominous.

But in a perfect form, Bernard added a more lovely flag as though he was being possessed in this critical hour.

「Aby! Let’s get some beer when this case is over!」

「Stop it already! In the battlefield,「When I go home~」type of speech is something that mustn’t be said the most!」

Of course, Kousuke’s words were ignored so naturally, it was unnatural as usual.

「Doctor Grant! There is one thing I want to say to you along with my subordinates if we can meet again later! Will you hear it then!?」

「Eh? Ye, yes! It's a promise!」

「That's why stop ittt! Emily too don't reply back! It's seriously not funny at allll!」

'As expected, perhaps it was better that I remain here.' Kousuke thought so, but right after that, one of the Berserk Beasts approached Kousuke and co. Because Allen pulled the other three through the door to the other side while saying「Please hurry!」, the beast didn't manage to get near.

The solid door was closed, and in the end, the sight of Bernard giving them a thumbs up with a nice smile was seared into their brain.

The door was dented then from the tackle of the Berserk Beast, and after that, the sound of gunshot resounded gan gan gan.

「Now, let' stop standing idly here and proceed!」

Vanessa and Emily stood up from Allen's words. Kousuke also stood up with a speechless expression.

Like that, Kousuke and co started running deeper into the corridor. Vanessa suddenly whispered.

「What a sorrowful affair.」

「You are annoying!」

Kousuke's retort exploded toward that extremely imprudent line. bachikon Vanessa's head was struck with such a sound while Emily and Allen were bewildered at that incomprehensible act of the two. Kousuke then prayed.

□Bernard. I'll send help there as soon as possible so seriously, don't die.□

For some reason, the figure of Bernard giving a thumbs up with a nice smile couldn't vanish from Kousuke's mind.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

I don't have any writing time at all with 7 days of continuous working, but this chapter made it in time somehow with just a little bit of lateness……but I'm sorry for the lateness.

Next chapter will be the climax.

The next update will be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 217

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

The Snapping Abyss Lord

Kousuke and co dashed through the dim corridor that was only illuminated by emergency lamps.

They couldn’t see the figure of Weiss and the man in the lab coat they were pursuing, but there was no hesitation in the steps of Kousuke who was in the lead. He was advancing while his gaze was focusing on the ground of this complicated passage that seemed like an underground labyrinth. There weren’t any maps for this place, even in Kaysis’s data.

Kousuke was following the trail and presence of the escaping Weiss using the skill of the “assassin” vocation, [+Tracking]. He didn’t miss even the faintest trace that was even vaguer than mist, which a normal person wouldn’t be able to perceive. Putting aside Vanessa who was ecstatic, even Allen’s face was twitching for who knew how many times already from seeing that figure chasing after the prey accurately.

□□oOOOOOOO-□□

□Don’t mind them. Run!□

Berserkers appeared from the corner of the passage. The two berserkers were charging at them right from the front, causing the ground to vibrate. Allen and Vanessa spontaneously began to stop their feet to intercept, but Kousuke accelerated faster instead and raised his voice. The two of them reflexively obeyed him.

Kousuke tensed his legs and put strength into them. He soundlessly accelerated and approached the wall. Emily and the others followed behind thinking that he was going to pass through from the side, but they soon knew that wasn’t his intention.

Kousuke put his foot on the wall and ran on its surface while his body was turning sideways. When he climbed up to the ceiling where his body became upside down, he kept running on the ceiling without pause. ——Skill “Shadow Dance”. It was Kousuke’s favorite skill.

「Hah」

Kousuke sprinted on the ceiling. The movement of the two berserkers, who were about to tackle them, halted for a moment after seeing the impossible position of their target. Kousuke rushed between the two.

While still upside down, a short sword flashed in a rotation like a whirling wind. A beam of light the color of the blue sky gently caressed the necks of the berserkers, melting and cutting without reservation. Shockwaves flew from the fingerless glove too as though it was only done as an extra, blowing the berserkers against the wall.

Kousuke landed lightly, and then he resumed running in the lead as though nothing happened.

The body of the berserkers convulsed in vain on the wall without any residual splash or without being an obstacle at all.

Even before reaching this far, there were berserkers and berserk beasts attacking them incessantly. Most likely, they were prepared by Weiss to hinder them, but they only came sporadically and couldn’t hope to stop Kousuke from his hunt.

Before long, Kousuke and the others ran into a steel door at the end of the passage. The width of the passage was quite wide, but there were so many large boxes and machinery parts cluttering the floor that if multiple people wanted to pass through, then they would need to line up in a single line.

「Vanessa-」

「Roger.」

When Kousuke called, Vanessa moved instantly in understanding. She hugged Emily who was at her side and hid behind a large machinery part. Allen also took cover smoothly after her.

A beat.

DA DA DA DA DA DA DA DA DA- A thunderous roar echoed. A machine gun in full auto spouted fire, and a great number of bullets scattered the packages filling the corridor. Kousuke smoothly evaded the flying bullets and threw a kunai.

「Kousuke-san. Your Vanessa is desiring to see the scene of cutting bullets with a katana.」

Vanessa-san was loyal to her own desire even while being exposed to gunshots. Emily, who was being embraced inside Vanessa’s arms, was dealing the slaps of a straight man repeatedly pechi pechi even while turning small.

「No, putting aside getting out of the line of fire, but a stunt like cutting apart bullets from a full-auto machine gun with unparalleled accuracy is beyond me, okay?」

Vanessa's eyes turned round while she went「Ee……」hearing what Kousuke said. It seemed that the Kousuke inside Vanessa had been turned into someone who could do anything.

Vanessa turned a gaze that seemed to want to say「You're kidding; you say that, but the truth is?」. Kousuke smiled wryly to that.

「Something like cutting all the bullets fired in full-auto without even missing one, that kind of stunt is only possible for the demon king or the demon king's wife, the swordswoman-sama. As for me, I'm fine with sticking to petty surprise attacks.」

Kousuke shrugged his shoulders, and then in the next instant, his figure vanished. In exchange, there was a kunai at the spot where Kousuke had been at until now. That was the kunai that Kousuke had thrown just before.

Naturally, for the kunai to be there meant,

「Guah!?」

「Shit-. Since whe――」

「Gafuh!?」

Kousuke was in the middle of the enemies.

It was one of the abilities possessed by the kunai. Space substitution. The subordinates of Weiss were panicked at the sudden appearance of Kousuke on the wall where the kunai had stabbed. They aimed their gun muzzles without delay, but at that time, they could do nothing but have a tearful separation with their head and body.

A single slash attack of heat gave them an unreal death. Their torso and head rolled like broken toys leaving them no time to transform into berserkers, and they departed for their journey to the other world.

Even so, different from a berserker's last moment who would have their body dried up completely and broke down to the degree that they couldn't keep their original shape, now the space was filled with human corpses rolling around everywhere. That factor was enough for Emily who wasn't used to death to turn pale and bile to rise up in her throat.

「Emily, right now, think only about what's in front of――」

「I, I'm fine, Kousuke. Let's go!」

Her smiling face was twitching and pale, but Emily stopped Kousuke's words with a strong voice. And then, she stared at the solid-looking steel door in front of her eyes, as though she understood something.

「Kousuke. Ahead of this is……」

「So you realize. Yeah, that's right. They are on the other side of this door. It looks like they are flustered, but they still aren't escaping. Looks like we made it in time.」

「I see……」

Emily took a deep, deep, deep breath. And then, she closed her eyes just a little. By doing that, scenes revolved behind her eyelids like a revolving lantern. The days she spent in the Down classroom. The smile of Hendricks and Lizzie who looked after her, the quarrel between Rod and Dennis in place of greetings, Jessica’s mischievous smile, the joyful and fun joke exchange between Sam and Milo.

They were Emily’s beloved big brothers and sisters. They weren’t here anymore. She could never meet them again, her precious family.

Emily opened her eyes quietly.

「Kousuke, please.」

「Ou」

Her words were few, but the response she got was strong. Kousuke’s short sword left an azure trail behind and pierced the steel door. It was as though a knife stabbing through butter, the short sword smoothly pierced without meeting any resistance. The place pierced by that super-high temperature had the surrounding area melting in the blink of an eye.

plop, plop The steel door was turned red hot and melted down. The sight behind the door was starting to turn visible bit by bit from there.

It seemed there was an underground parking lot on the other side of the steel door. There were several passenger cars and freight cars; there were also particular vehicles like forklifts and so on.

Beside one of those cars, on the side of a medium-size pick-up truck, there was the figure of two people. They were on the side of the truckload that seemed to be filled with luggage, but it appeared they were astonished by the steel door melting. They were standing still without a twitch.

plop, plop The door was vanishing, The door separating Emily and the man was vanishing.

Their knees were starting to be visible. One set was Weiss’s that they saw before this while the slacks of the other man’s was something really familiar for Emily. Those slacks were dark brown, and Jessica and Lizzie always said that it was too plain. Surely, if the slacks were seen from nearby, there would be a small fray that could be found around the right knee.

The belt was starting to get visible. That belt was slightly thinning recently, and the holes were shifted. Everyone was worried if the wearer of that belt was eating properly because he often went on trips.

The necktie was visible. It was a bright navy blue necktie with sharp stripes on it. To tell the truth, it was a present from Emily to him for his birthday. The expense choked out her pocket money while she chose the necktie with the help of Lizzie and Jessica.

「Aa……」

Emily unconsciously leaked out her voice. That voice came from her fleeting hope——that ”It could be a mistake by some chance”, that hope which she herself would laugh at. It was now crushed to bits.

Kousuke swung his arm. The steel door was blown away without leaving any trace.

There was nothing that stood in their way anymore.

The remains of the steel door illuminated the surrounding with a bright red light even though it was rapidly cooling down. Emily slowly walked forward while the remains were scattering. On her right was the protector from the Far East who was wielding the mystic, on her left was the heroic protector who would stand up even against her motherland if it was necessary, and behind her was the protector who shouldn’t exist that symbolized the necessary evil. She entered while taking them along.

The fluttering lab coat was Emily’s pride. The proof of her pride in the things she had piled up and of the place to belong that was given to her by him. But right now, that pride felt really heavy, really empty.

Beside Weiss who was cursing「This is too fast, this damned monster」while holding his head, there was the man who was still petrified in astonishment. Emily looked like she was going to burst out crying at any moment; however, her expression was filled with the resolve that she absolutely wouldn’t cry. It was with that expression that she opened her mouth to that man.

「Why did, you do it……teacher?」

There was no way the man couldn’t understand the meaning of that question.

The first voice Emily spoke out made him, Emily’s teacher that was like a substitute of her father——Professor Reginald Down to come back to his senses.

「Emily……」

「Why did you do it, teacher?」

Hearing her name called by that voice that she thought she wouldn’t be able to hear for the second time caused Emily’s heart to be shaken whether she wanted it or not. The words that she repeated had no intonation, perhaps because she was forcefully holding down her emotions.

「……Emily, I――」

Professor Down’s words got caught up in his throat once more. He bit his lip hard, as though he was in pain, or as though he was holding back something. Kousuke and Vanessa watched over the scene.

Silence ruled over the place. In the middle of that, Weiss suddenly glanced at his wristwatch. At that moment, Allen, who had never taken off his gaze from Weiss, reacted.

He exchanged a glance with Kousuke for an instant. That was him signaling to let Emily keep talking while he would capture Weiss ahead. There wasn’t any reason to let an enemy at large, so Kousuke also showed an agreement with his gaze.

Like that, Kousuke and Allen were about to leap out, but just before they could,

「Whooops, don’t move you two. If not, then I’m going to make this beloved papa of that missy get riddled with holes, yeah.」

Weiss anticipated that quickly move and circled his arm around Down’s neck and pinioned him from behind. He was hiding behind Down and turned him into a shield while his gun muzzle stuck out on Down’s side.

Weiss hindered Emily’s talk with his gun muzzle not wavering. Vanessa gazed at him with a suspicious gaze.

「What are you planning?」

「What, nothing. Even though he is threatened, but as expected, with the girl who is like his daughter in front of him, perhaps this guy might do something stupid. That's what I think, you know?」

「Threaten? ……Are you saying that Professor Down is here because he is being threatened?」

「Hm~~, it's a bit of a faulty expression to say threaten I guess. It's that, something like unwillingly complying with a forced request for cooperation.」

It seemed that Weiss wanted to say that Down was here unwillingly. Down's face grimaced from the sensation of a gun being pressed hard on him. Weiss grinned smugly while he jerked his chin toward Emily.

「Genius missy. This substitute father of yours is really gallant see. He will even lick other people's shoes with the term that they won't lay a hand on you. Even I got moved into tears by that devotion and thought that maybe I'll overlook you missy, but it's a different story if you come here by yourself.」

「Wa, wait, that's not what we agreed on. You said that Emily wouldn't――」

Down showed his panic hearing Weiss being talkative. Just from looking at that, it really seemed that Down was obeying without any choice because Emily was used to threaten him.

Weiss sent a vulgar gaze at Emily as though he was going to ridicule Emily's agitation――

「Teacher, please answer. Why, did you come to do something like this?」

「……」

What was there was an Emily who wasn’t shaken even for a bit, her straightforward gaze was unchanging while her expression looked as though she was desperately stifling her overflowing emotions. Rather, her expression was showing something that was dirtied from how Down was still displaying that kind of farce at this point in time. Be that as it may, a strong will could be seen from her that made it clear that she had no plan of going along with that kind of farce.

Kousuke and Allen spontaneously made a small smile seeing how Emily acted. Vanessa too, even though she was gazing at Emily with concern, her expression was proud toward Emily who was showing her “strength”.

「What’s this, I thought you were going to get shaken at least a little. Well, I didn’t expect that much from this anyway. It’s fine because the true thing will be from here on.」

Weiss easily separated from Down and shrugged his shoulders, and then he cleared away in one go the cover enveloping the large box that was put on the back of the pick-up truck.

「-, you-」

「Ooh, so you are shaken by this. I’m glad I brought it here just in case.」

Emily glared at Weiss with a furious look. Kousuke and the others weren’t an exception. That special case with a transparent surface was filled with children who hadn’t even reach five years old. They looked really scared. Three children were snuggling each other in the corner of the cramped case as their bodies huddled down while trembling fiercely.

Weiss pushed his finger on the smartphone on his hand while his vulgar grin deepened.

「The American comic bastard over there, also the agents, and even Emily, don't move, okay? If my finger slipped because of the spur of the moment, then these brats will end up going out with a cheery monster debut, yeah?」

Because Weiss knew about Kousuke's ability, he didn't take his gaze off of Kousuke for even a moment despite his frivolous attitude. Most likely, the moment Kousuke's presence vanished even for an instant in this situation; he would move his finger without hesitation and activate the detonator switch for the『Berserk』that was consumed by the children.

……And so, Kousuke was normally vanishing just like usual.

「You scum. Just the fact that you are living is a crime.」

Vanessa who guessed what Kousuke was doing cursed to buy time. Weiss's expression turned amused instead at the abuse from an opponent in a situation where he was overwhelmingly superior and shrugged. Of course, he didn't take his gaze away from Kousuke……he didn't take his gaze away……

「It's better for all you dogs of the government to increase your cursing variation a bit more. I already got too used to what you guys will say, and recently, it was boring for me. Well, no matter. Come on, first of all, you guys toss the dangerous items to the floor.」

His gaze toward Kousuke wasn’t taken o……wasn’t tak……it was taken off.

Weiss’s gaze smoothly flowed toward Vanessa who was talking to him. He did that really naturally, without any doubt, as though it was only the norm. He slowly lowered down his gun, and he made a satisfied smile toward Allen and Vanessa.

「Not using this skill is also advantageous sometimes……it’s not like, I’m crying here.」

「Wha-, guwah!?」

Kousuke-san who was normally at your side, weeping like usual, was here. He ignored Weiss who jumped in shock, held his wrist and made him drop the smartphone, and then held him down to his knees.

「Guh, god damn it-. This American comic bastard! Just why the hell did something like you come out here, huh!」

「It’s not like I don’t understand your feelings, but be quiet for a bit. Right now is Emily’s time.」

When Kousuke increased the pressure at Weiss’s joint, Weiss leaked out a small anguished voice「Ngih」before he shut his mouth.

Down backed away from Kousuke who suddenly appeared at his side where Emily’s gaze then pierced through him.

But, right after they thought that Weiss’s farce was over and they could start talking, goun-goun-goun-

A suspicious sound that sounded like it was resounding from the bottom of the earth resounded on the eardrum of Kousuke and co. It was the sound of some kind of machine activating. And it also sounded really loud. Kousuke and co ran their gaze suspiciously to the floor.

And then, their gaze caught a crack running through the floor. No, it wasn't a crack, but a circular line with its center split by a vertical line.

「Is that, an elevator?」

Vanessa muttered. It was just as she said; there was an underground space further underneath this underground parking lot/cargo storeroom. The diameter of the circularly shaped elevator was around seven to eight meters. It was a large elevator for transporting large machinery and material.

It was climbing up. Kousuke and the others had a bad premonition welling up inside them fiercely. This time a muffled laughter resounded in their ears.

「Ku-, kuku-, fuhah. It finally arrived. It took a lot of time to lure it to the elevator, but it's barely safe. I was wondering just what would happen when the distractions got easily broken through and we were caught up with, but it's worth it making up that kind of farce.」

Weiss said that kind of thing while being pushed on the floor by Kousuke. They were about to question what he meant by that, but before they could, the elevator's door opened. The floor split to the left and right, and a hole was opened wide in the floor――

Countless somethings instantly flew out from there.

「-, Get down-」

Kousuke yelled while taking a position in front of Emily right away. And then, he mowed down those things attacking them with a flash of his short sword. Vanessa and Allen also quickly got down, and they succeeded in evading the first attack somehow.

Those things intercepted and severed by Kousuke made raw sounds bicha and fell on the floor. The fallen things convulsed with watery sounds while the sources of the things that lost its tips were pulling back into the elevator.

「Te, tentacles?」

「Looks like it. Those guys, just what in the world are they calling here?」

The things that Emily mentioned while her face went pale were indeed tentacles. They were skin-colored, fleshy tentacles that even looked like human guts. Those things flew out simultaneously from the elevator.

「Old man. It’s plan B! Run to the meeting point somehow!」

「-, Go, got it!」

The moment Kousuke left him, Weiss sprang up to his feet and jumped to the side. He barely avoided those things that also came attacking him. And then he took out an attaché case from the pickup truck’s driver seat that had its door opened all this time. At the same time, he started up the engine.

But, he didn’t enter the truck but started running at full speed while still holding the attaché case.

On the other hand, Down also seemed to know what was coming from underground as he rolled under the truck the moment the elevator’s door opened. Like that he came out on the other side and hid there, so he was safe. And then, just like Weiss, he took into his hands a shoulder bag and a rectangle case. He then started running toward a door the opposite side of where Weiss was going.

Naturally, Kousuke and the others aimed their kunai and guns to stop Weiss, but a lot of tentacles flew out before they could and hindered them.

On top of that,

「Ah, Kousuke-. Those children-」

「That bastard-. So this was his aim from the start-」

The tentacles attacked the pickup truck as though they were reacting to the engine sound. Even though each of the tentacles was only as big as an arm of a child, they instantly toppled the truck sideways without any difficulty. Naturally, the case holding the children was thrown out from the truck. The children who were jostled inside the case screamed.

The tentacles reacted to those screams and entangled the case. It seemed that it was a tough case, so the case wasn’t crushed or squashed, but the case was dragged toward the elevator.

「Vanessa, Allen. Take care of Emily!」

「Acknowledged!」

「Aah, geez. This is completely out of my field you knoww」

They followed Kousuke’s instruction and went to Emily’s side to protect her; then they led her away to take some distance from the elevator. Most of the rushing out tentacles was cut apart by Kousuke, but even so, as expected from the two, their skill allowed them to accurately blow away the remaining tentacles using bullets.

Kousuke judged that it would be fine to leave them to fend for themselves for the moment, and he was going to rescue the children.

However,

「No way I'll let you do that so simply yeah!」

「You-, this shitty bastard!」

Weiss fired his machine gun from the other side of the door. He was aiming at Emily. As expected, a feat of shooting down bullets using bullets could only be done by a certain demon king. It was impossible for Vanessa and Allen.

Therefore, Kousuke couldn't help but defend against that using his kunai to deploy out a barrier. Although it was only for a little while, Kousuke was still being held in place.

「Yoo, American comic bastard! If you are a hero, then don't abandon those pitiful children just like a hero yeah.」

Weiss's disgusting laugh echoed, then in the next instant——it flew out.

Like a spear that was thrown by an expert, countless tentacles stretched out and stabbed the ceiling and walls. And then, by using expansion and contraction, and recoil, something that could be described as a lump of meat appeared from the bottom of the earth.

It was weird and repulsive, like minced meats that were haphazardly kneaded to each other, with tentacles haphazardly growing out from there. That figure stirred up instinctive revulsion from anyone seeing it.

It wriggled with a flabby motion and crawled up like a muddy stream. It scattered around flesh and liquid while moving to the nearest prey. ——Yes, toward the case where the children were inside.

「That case is a solid one, so it will be able to hold for a bit even if it was swallowed by that ruined experiment. Do your best and go all out to rescue those children. We won't mind it, okay?」

A ruined experiment——just as those words stated, the meat lump was a product that was created from a process of an experiment. The reason this thing ended up as this ugly meat lump was only one was because of a demonic deed that was done for the sake of knowing the limit of 「Berserk」's ability.

「Berserk」would repeatedly cause regeneration by forcefully invigorating the cells until it was past the limit of the flesh. Then, what would happen if「Berserk」was continuously administered while also continuously giving healthy and young flesh to the subject? The subject would fuse its former flesh with other flesh in the form of it getting swallowed inside regeneration. Such a thing was repeated.

Like that, what resulted was the worst monster that didn't even retain its shape as a living thing——a Berserk Chimera. It was already incomprehensible just what the former organisms that entered into the fusion were.

It took time to lure this thing from the underground's deepest experiment room to here using any kind of bait. But Weiss believed that it would be impossible to hold back this existence that was wielding the supernatural without using the Berserk Chimera. This was his genuine trump card. That farce and all his talkativeness were for buying time to guide this Berserk Chimera.

Weiss immediately vanished behind the door at the same time as his spoken out parting remark. After the berserk chimera took the children’s case, it continued to attack Kousuke and the others without pause using its tentacles like a storm.

Kousuke defended against all those while gritting his teeth hard. Behind him, Emily called to him with a trembling voice.

「Kousuke, those children……what to do! They have to be saved!」

「……」

There was no reply. Normally, Kousuke would reply right away with words that were overflowing with confidence, but now he didn’t reply right away. A bad premonition welled up inside her. By any chance, perhaps even with Kousuke here, those children were beyond salvation already. Was this the end, just like what Weiss said……

「Kousu――」

Emily slowly peeked at Kousuke’s side profile with an expression that almost cried. She instantly swallowed back her words unconsciously.

Kousuke was always like a whistling wind or making a troubled smile on his face. Sometimes he showed a serious face, a resolved face, or a nostalgic face. Emily had seen all those faces until now, but she had never seen Kousuke’s current face.

There was nothing in it, an expression of “nothingness”.

Honestly, she shuddered. The eyes without any emotion in it, staring straight at the berserk chimera, and the expression where all emotion had slipped off cleanly from it, it was as though the person there wasn’t Kousuke.

「I somehow, understand. Even though I don’t know what your former appearance looked like, I understand somehow. ……It’s scary, isn’t it? It’s painful, isn’t it? You were brought to this kind of place, and ended up like that……」

Those words lacked intonation. There, not just Emily, Vanessa and Allen also noticed.

Kousuke had “snapped”. It wasn’t at the level of the anger he showed when Emily was cornered by the security bureau. At that time, there was still some saving grace. The Grant family was in good health and they were already rescued, Chief Magdanese and her group were also people with conviction, and the incident at the research building had a strong aspect as being an accident.

That was why, even though Kousuke was angry at that time, he wasn’t totally angry. But, right now was different. What was in front of Kousuke was an inhuman act, an avatar of malice and greed. He understood. Even though he didn’t know the details, he understood just what the material used to make the lump of meat before his eyes was. He understood just who was crying and screaming at that time.

That was why, the feeling that Kousuke held——was rage.

「Allen.」

「Ye, yes-」

Allen who was suddenly addressed twitched in reaction. Allen was sweating coldly from the terror that was silent but surely eroding him. Kousuke commanded at such an Allen still with a voice that was lacking intonation.

「Chase after “that”. Stop him in his place until I catch up after I rescue those children.」

「Ye, YES SIR-!!」

Kousuke stabbed his short sword into the ground and made a path of flames run on the ground. A path that was protected by a flame wall ran straight to the door where Weiss entered. Allen dashed through it.

「Emily.」

「Hy, hyes-」

「Chase after the professor. Vanessa.」

「Yes, Kousuke-san.」

「Protect Emily.」

「Acknowledged.」

Flames ran toward the door Down went through. Emily was hesitating, but Vanessa held her hand and pulled her. Even so, Emily was worried about the children, and also about Kousuke. When she looked back, there, Kousuke was putting on his sunglasses while opening his mouth.

「Don’t worry Emily. I’ll save those children. I’ll destroy this pitiful monster. I’ll make “that” regret that he was born. I’ll leave only Down to Emily, but I also won’t let anyone other than those guys get away. That’s why, go.」

「Ye, yes, I understand. ……Kousuke, please, save those children!」

「Yeah, leave it to me.」

Emily started running, led by Vanessa. The berserk chimera instinctually shirked away from the flame wall, but even so, it still tried to capture the prey by stretching its tentacles in a roundabout way through the ceiling, but all its efforts were pushed back by the barrier from the kunai, and it couldn’t approach the prey.

Emily and the others chased after their respective target, and their figures vanished from the room. Detecting that, Kousuke, no, the abyss lord declared calmly without even taking a cool pose.

「This rage surely belongs to all of you who are toyed with by others as they pleased. In return, I’ll dispel your chagrin for you. That’s why, please, sleep peacefully.」

The abyss lord who was driven by rage began his battle for the sake of salvation.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Now then, in the last chapter, I said that next would be the climax but……this chapter is one step behind the climax.

So far as it goes, Shirakome is looking on warmly from managing to put out a cool development following the template “the mastermind is the father” but,

Actually, I wanted to end this all in one go with one chapter.

Everything is the fault of reality and the workplace. I’m sorry.

Next week, I will receive consecutive holidays, so I think I can go until the end.

It will make me happy if you readers can look forward to it.

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 218

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

I Wanted, to Have a Date……

AN: This chapter was late. I’m sorry.

He was running without making any sound while paying the greatest attention to the surroundings, yet his running speed was still top speed. The agent of a nonexistent organization——Allen, was chasing after the escaping Weiss with astounding speed.

It seemed that Weiss was heading toward the installation of this facility’s power generator, Allen could see various pipes and electronics, big and small, throughout the corridor.

But at that time, Allen’s gaze suddenly caught something that he ought to be careful against. It was a very fine wire that was set up in the corridor inconspicuously. A simple trap.

Allen’s face didn’t change, his running speed didn’t decrease, and he went to the wall and jumped. And then by kicking on the wall, he climbed until near the ceiling, his hands caught one of the pipes, and he flew over the wire like a pendulum.

That jump looked excessive just for jumping over a single wire, but actually, that wire was a bluff, there was an infrared-type trap set up ahead of that wire, so Allen’s action was correct looking at the result. It was an instantaneous judgment based on Allen’s experience of many years.

“This would be easier if I could run on the ceiling like him though!!”

“Chih. You bastard are also monstrous enough to be able to react to that-”

Weiss, who was hiding behind some cover, aimed at the moment Allen landed and fired. However, Allen also read that ahead of time and got down looking as though he was clinging to the floor the moment he landed, so the bullet futilely passed over above his head.

Still lying down on the floor, Allen pulled his gun trigger without any time lag. His bullet counterattacked Weiss. Weiss leaked out a“Uoh-!”voice, but even so, he managed to dodge by hiding his body with the agility that was on the level of a cockroach.

“Eat this too!”

“Are you an idiot, doing that in this kind of place!?”

Weiss threw a hand grenade while roaring angrily. It was a cramped place, and furthermore, the place was packed full of pipes that he was unaware of what their functions were. ‘Just what the hell he is thinking throwing explosives in here!’ Allen sprang to his feet even while cursing and aimed in a kneeling posture using both his hands.

The bullet he fired accurately shot through the midair grenade, and it exploded right in the middle of Weiss and Allen. Allen rolled to the passage’s wall at the same time as his firing, and then he covered his whole body with his coat that possessed the material to be bullet-proof, knife-proof, and some impact resistance. Even so, he grit his teeth from the impact that made him feel enough pain while trying to snipe Weiss. At that time,

"Ih!?"

"Light is with you, I guess?"

Allen's cheeks twitched from looking at "that" rolling below him. Right after that, kat- intense light surged out.

Weiss, who in a sense believed in Allen's skill, had predicted that Allen would shoot down the hand grenade, so he also threw a flashbang at almost the exact same time.

With this, he ran out of grenades and flashbangs. The double-layered trap and the hand grenade was a preparation to steal Allen's sight at this moment.

At the same time, when the light was starting to settle down, Weiss sent machine gun bullets at the spot where Allen was. His tactics were flowing smoothly without any hesitation and mercy, brought about by his overwhelming battle experience. He became the target of the JD Agency because he was using this skill of his to accomplish immorality and turned the table on the many police and agents coming to capture him.

He was even able to escape once from an agent of that JD Agency; his skill was something authentic, in contrast with his frivolous attitude.

Although, if it was asked whether that skill could work that easily against the man who was positioned to work directly beside the chief of the state security bureau even from among the JD Agency,

tan- tan-

「Tsua!? Son of a bitch-」

Two gunshots echoed, and at the same time, Weiss's machine gun was blown away. It was merely luck that his fingers didn't get blown up too.

Weiss immediately drew out his handgun to fire back. But, he whispered「That just ain't possible」with a displeased expression seeing what appeared at the space where the flash had settled down.

「It's the standard for a spy to have seven gadgets, right? My organization is a nonexistent one, but the guys affiliated with it are all comparatively a believer of romance you know?」

Allen said so with his hand holding that――a coat that hardened like a shield and blocked the bullets. He waved it lightly. Inside his heart, he was going「That was dangerous just now!」while sweating coldly, but he was hiding it with his usual foolish smile.

「Spare me from a real ○07. Don't tell me that the developer of that thing is named Q or something, that's not it yeah?」

「……No comment.」

「So it's really Q, huh!? Your organization is screwing around too much!」

「No, no comment.」

Both of them were acting the funny man and the straight man like television performers while, at the same time, they pulled their gun triggers. They were trying to take each other’s life smoothly while talking jokingly. It was a black communication between a veteran mercenary and a first-class assassin.

As expected, it seemed they had predicted each other’s movement as the bullets grazed the cheek of the two who were in a half-body stance. (TN: This half-body stance is like karate stance, where you directed one side of your body toward diagonally behind, so to make your body a smaller target)

Allen made his coat a substitute for a shield and charged forward in a dash. The passage wasn’t that wide, so when the shield of the hardened coat that was spread widely launched a shield bash it was impossible to dodge.

Weiss had a future vision where he got pushed down——so he instead stepped forward. If he were to show his back, then he would undoubtedly get shot in the back and die. He judged that his path of survival only existed going forward.

Weiss slid the moment just before he came into contact with Allen. Perhaps he was trying to slip through between Allen’s legs, but there was no way Allen would allow that as he swung the shield down——Right before that, however, Weiss fired repeatedly toward the ceiling.

□-□

The fired bullets hit a pipe on the ceiling and came back toward the ground through a complicated ricochet. Allen immediately lifted his coat shield and blocked the ricochet. At that moment, Weiss was sliding on the floor while passing through……during that time he unsheathed a knife to slice Allen’s foot.

Allen blocked that knife using his shoe that had a metal plate inserted inside, and then he discarded his coat and, at the same time, used one hand as a fulcrum and kicked with a reversed foot. The shoe of that reversed foot had a mechanical knife flying out from its tip.

Weiss blocked that using his gun barrel while retreating from the kick’s range using the momentum of his sliding. He rotated once and then aimed toward Allen from a kneeling stance. Allen also aimed his gun from a kneeling stance.

“Just die quickly, dog of the state.”

“Please die quickly, mercenary.”

A beat.

tan- tan- tan-

Bullets showered each other from point-blank range. Although the firing line of Allen’s gun was slightly shifted by Weiss’s knife, Weiss’s gun also had its firing line shifted by a retractable baton that Allen took out unnoticed. It finished with only their cheeks being grazed.

jako- Their magazines ran out at the same time with that sound echoing. Weiss pretended to retract the knife in his left hand, and in the middle of that motion, he threw that knife to his right hand. His left hand caught Allen’s baton without pause while the knife landed in the right hand’s grip, as though it was attracted to there, as he approached to carve Allen’s throat.

Allen easily abandoned the baton and stepped in so low that he looked like he was crawling on the ground. He dodged Weiss’s murderous blade while he grasped his collar, and then he turned around. He threw up Weiss with his waist’s motion.

Weiss that was flung away with a so-called shoulder throw then had his back strike the floor.Gahah Air was driven out from his lung.

Yep, the end.

Well, not yet actually.

Allen pulled out his spare gun, and he pressed the gun muzzle on Weiss’s forehead. At the same time, Weiss also talked lightly even with his face grimacing, and he pressed a button on his wristwatch.

In the next instant, a thunderous roar and an explosion blast blew violently from behind Allen. Allen’s gun muzzle shifted slightly due to that, and because Weiss’s head swung aside, the bullet veered away.

Weiss jumped to his feet and dashed fiercely toward the nearest door. Allen immediately fired, but Weiss stepped on Allen’s coat while passing through and sent it flying to block the bullet. Even so, he couldn’t avoid all the bullets, and his shoulder got hit, but he didn’t pay it any attention and opened the door with a tackle and jumped inside.

Good grief, what obstinacy. I can understand how J can let him get away.

Allen made a bitter expression at his failure of letting Weiss slip away while he immediately moved to resume the chase.

He clung to the door and slowly peeked in. Right after that, a storm of bullets rained down like hail. It seemed that Weiss had a spare machine gun. Most likely, Weiss was someone wary, so he had put weapons here and there throughout his escape route.

Allen took out the magazine from his gun and confirmed his remaining bullet. He only had few bullets left, and there was only one more magazine on his waist holster.

"Haa, I used up too much on the berserkers in the first half of this mission."

Allen smiled bitterly while exchanging his magazine with the new one and put away the half-used magazine. And then, he pulled out a pin from his wristwatch and dropped it on the floor. Immediately, small legs like an insect's flew out from the pin.

Allen rotated the rotatable bezel of the watch halfway round. Right after that, the windbreak part of the watch turned into a display that projected the image on the floor level.

"This is the prided article of a real-life Q. Just watch it thoroughly to your heart's content."

The small metallic bug moved its legs with a rattling sound and advanced toward the location of Weiss who was shooting his machine gun while talking provocatively. Allen was watching his watch's display while controlling the small insect using the bezel's rotation.

Like that, the feet of Weiss were visible inside the display. Allen grinned widely, but as expected, the one over there was Weiss, whose obstinacy was on the level of a cockroach. Just before Allen could press the button, Weiss suddenly noticed something below him. He discovered the metallic thing with strange legs crawling below him, and his cheeks twitched grandly.

The next instant, DOOON- an explosive sound echoed, and the gunshots stopped.

Allen rushed into the room with his gun readied and guard up. It was a large room. It was an atrium with a height of around two floors, and there was also the second floor with a wire-net type floor. It was a room that had a lot of power generators in it.

When Allen intruded deeper, he could see a crushed machine and a pipe that snapped in the middle and was spouting out white smoke. Allen was instantly alerted in wonder if it was a poisonous gas, but there wasn’t any warning from the air composition that was displayed on his watch.

Guessing that it was just vapor, Allen circled around the white smoke while he aimed his gun in a snap toward a cover that had a human presence.

「Yoo, doggy. That thing, ain’t it a foul?」

「That is a power I have exactly because I’m a dog of the country. That’s not wrong, is it?」

「Don’t screw with me. This is why……I hate, the elite young master.」

Weiss talked frivolously. Allen talked frivolously back with his gun aimed at Weiss once more. But, although there wasn’t any carelessness in Allen’s eyes, there also wasn’t any great cautiousness in it. That was understandable. Weiss had his side largely gouged, and he was already fatally wounded. Allen guessed that he would only have a few more minutes to live.

Weiss vomited out a glob of blood while limply leaning on the wall. He took out a cigarette with a trembling hand. Allen was about to pull the trigger without caring about it but,

「Hey, doggy. You want……Hydra's, information right?」

「……No, not really?」

「Is that so? The case, this time, is from that bastard Kaysis's arbitrary……action. Hydra, has their own, different……plan. There won't be any harm……in knowing it, right?」

Indeed, 「Berserk」's case was something Kaysis had done on his own authority in order to triumph against Hydra's leadership. And then, Kaysis's data didn't include the big plan of Hydra's that would be carried out soon. If Hydra had a different plan in progress, then it was something that the security bureau ought to know.

Therefore, Allen's finger slackened slightly from pulling the trigger. Weiss grinned smugly while his hand carried the cigarette toward his blood soaked lips. His figure enjoying the cigarette smoke didn't look like someone who would die with certainty.

「Why are you going to talk?」

「Just, for harassment. Because they gave me……this job that's not worth it, yeah.」

Allen showed a slight hesitation, and a beat later, he urged Weiss to continue with his gaze.

The light in Weiss's eyes was dimming already; his voice was small. His voice was whispering in a subdued tone, making it really hard to be heard in this room where there was the echoing sound of vapor jetting out. Without any other choice, Allen got closer to Weiss.

Of course, Allen anticipated that this might be a trap and the moment he got closer Weiss would pull out a knife or a gun. Even so, Allen had confidence in his reflexes, and he judged that he would undoubtedly be the faster one in this situation; he got closer while putting up the maximum caution.

So……after this, Hydra……

Please give it your all if you are going to die anyway. I cannot hear anything here.

This guy, how harsh……. But see, if you, get this close…… that's enough, yeah?

Both of Weiss's hands sprang up right after that. He caught both of Allen's wrists instantly with a speed that was unthinkable coming from a half-dead man. Although Allen was calm, he was slightly late in his reaction because he was mostly cautious against a gun or knife, but it wasn't any problem at all getting caught like this.

Allen made the knife inside his shoe to jump out, and he kicked Weiss's stomach. Weiss vomited out blood with his body lifted in the air.

But, here an unexpected situation occurred. Weiss should have no more physical strength with his dying body, and he should be blown away from Allen's finishing blow; but instead, his grip strength was increasing further. He didn't let go of Allen's hands like a magnet.

-, so this is what they call the great strength when at death's door!

「Hihih, this is a desperate grab for a fellow traveler to hell.」

Allen kicked repeatedly. He broke Weiss's ribcage, his mechanical knife hacked Weiss's stomach into shreds, and furthermore, he also stabbed Weiss's heart. But, Weiss didn't die. The pressure on his captured wrists was increasing!

「Don't tell me-, the cigarette just now-」

「Spot on-! I'm not gonna let you aim at the head y'knoww」

With both his hands caught, Allen had no way to destroy the head. Being too close like this sealed his legs from destroying the head.

Allen twirled his gun using his fingertip, like a sleight of hand. His pinky held the trigger, and he aimed at Weiss's head with the gun in a reversed position, but Weiss's arm strength that was increasing further didn't allow Allen to aim accurately. Allen was continuously landing strong knife-attached kicks, but the created wounds were smoking white and gradually began to regenerate.

「Hahah, I'm easy to get lonely see. At least accompany me a little in my journey to that world 'kayy」

「You-. Release me already-」

Weiss laughed ghastly while getting drenched in blood. The cigarette that was crammed with「Berserk」had its content soaked with the drug. Weiss was pretending to smoke while actually he was biting off the cigarette and swallowing it. That was why Weiss was transforming bit by bit.

Because his transformation was slow, there was merit in that he didn't change into a berserker right away and could still think. At the same time, there was also a demerit that it would be the end if his head was shot in the halfway stage before he completely transformed into a berserker.

That was why Weiss was sealing both of Allen’s hands.

As expected, Allen was losing patience while he unleashed kicks like a storm at Weiss that was starting to rapidly change before his eyes. However, Weiss’s regeneration ability was also gathering speed, and the first stab wound was already completely healed.

「Guh-」

「Then, let’s meet on the other side yeah, doggy.」

Weiss’s insane words stabbed at Allen who groaned from the feeling that both of his arms were being gripped so hard that they were on the verge of snapping from the pressure. Right after that, a roar rose from Weiss. His muscles enlarged and his wound closed in tremendous speed.

「DON’T UNDERESTIMATE MEEEEE-」

Allen pulled up both his arms together with a loud yell that was rarely heard coming from him while he struck Weiss’s stomach with a fierce kick. Weiss’s body was lifted up before it fell down right away, but before that, Allen made his body slide to the floor and put Weiss’s body on his lifted leg. And then he pulled both his hands while his leg struck up with all his strength.

The body of Weiss that was in the middle of the transformation got turned over with an overhead throw. He was sent flying face up to the opposite side. Even so, Weiss’s hands didn’t let go of Allen, but Weiss that was turned over was in Allen’s line of fire.

Allen twirled his gun once more with just his fingertip and pulled the trigger repeatedly. He didn’t manage to aim at the head, but it was enough to strike the shoulder. Perhaps the bullet hit a good spot because one of Allen’s hands was released.

Allen quickly got up and aimed at the other hand that was growing like a log while holding his hand and fired. The moment his hand was released, he rolled away to take some distance while firing toward Weiss’s head.

But here there was a further unexpected situation occurring.

「Wha!? He dodged!?」

「AAAAAAAAAAAH!!」

Yes, he dodged. A berserker dodged. It detected the approaching bullet and leapt aside.

A berserker was a lump of instinct. It would at least cover its weakness the head with its arms, but fundamentally, a berserker would only charge forward like a boar. It could do nothing but charge forward relying on its body and super regeneration. Until now, there wasn’t a single berserker that had ever taken “evasive actions”.

「Chih, a troublesome guy even after becoming a berserker huuh!」

Allen took out a throwing knife and threw it toward Weiss’s eye. Allen thought to fire at the head the moment Weiss dodged. But, as expected, this berserker——Berserker Weiss, didn’t seem like a normal one.

The throwing knife was struck down this time without dodging. Furthermore, it didn’t keep charging without pause, but it dipped its waist deeply like a beast while groaning□uUUUUU-□and glared at Allen.

Yes, as though it was observing Allen’s move.

□Wa, wa wa wait……this is different from what I heard! A berserker that can “fight” is not a joke-□

Allen was complaining greatly but fired at the same time. The moment Allen aimed his gun, the berserker charged forward with a terrific step. Although that charge wasn’t a bull rush like every berserker before this, it was a counter rush that was accompanied with the evasion of the bullet by lowering its stance instantly.

□Seriously, spare me-□

This time Allen jumped to the side. Berserker Weiss rushed through the place he was in just now and created a crater on the concrete floor.

Allen jumped to the side while doing a handstand with one hand and fired further. The bullet approached the head with terrifying accuracy, but Berserker Weiss lifted its hand as though it had predicted it from the start, and the bullet was blocked by that hand.

Berserker Weiss raised a war cry while grabbing the nearby broken pipe. He tore it off with brute strength and threw it toward Allen.

□HiIlH□

Allen screamed pathetically while clinging to the floor and rolling away. He somehow managed to dodge it. However, the fact that the berserker was using a tool caused Allen’s expression to shudder with fear.

But, at that time, a light machine gun on the floor was reflected in the corner of Allen’s sight. Most likely, it was the weapon that Weiss used before which probably got sent flying due to the explosive of the insect gadget. Allen leapt so close to the floor that he was hugging the ground and pulled the trigger toward Berserker Weiss that was bending down in preparation for a charge.

dadadadadada- A rhythmical sound resounded, and a swarm of bullets assaulted Berserker Weiss.

「GAaH」

「He dodged as expected! Aa, geez-」

Berserker Weiss dashed to the side at the same time as when Allen pulled the trigger. And then, it sometimes used obstacles for cover while running in a circle around Allen.

gachin- That sound echoed showing that the light machine gun ran out of bullets. Allen’s face paled.

With a timing as though it had aimed for the moment the bullets ran out, Berserker Weiss turned on the offensive. Its step made a DON- sound as though a cannon had fired, and it approached Allen.

「Shi, shit-」

Allen took out a small cylinder from his belt’s buckle and fired it at the pillar of the second floor. A wire stretched out, and its tip then clung tightly and fixed itself on the pillar. Allen pushed his belt’s buckler at the same time, and the wire reeled in quickly pulling Allen to the air.

Below him, Berserker Weiss passed through just within a hair’s breadth while smashing some kind of machinery into pieces overenthusiastically.

「This isn’t a joke. Just what part of it is a lump of instinct! A berserker that is this used to battle is just……」

Allen was drenched in cold sweat while taking refuge in the air, and suddenly a conjecture welled up inside from his own words. The berserkers that he faced until now were basically just civilians or fellows that more or less used to some scuffle. That was why charging like a bull was only natural for them if they followed their instincts.

But, if it was a first-class fighter whose body moved on a subconscious level to predict the chance to attack and took the optimum evasive action when in battle, then what would happen if that kind of person was turned into a berserker? A person with a combat skill on the level that it was engraved into their subconscious, would they become a monster that only charged forward like a civilian in the end?

By any chance, the answer to that might be this Berserker Weiss before his eyes. A skilled mercenary that could battle a top-ranking agent equally was transformed into a berserker resulted in this. Of course, it was nothing more than a conjecture; perhaps there was another factor contributing to this.

「Hahah, perhaps this will be seriously bad if this is turned into a weapon.」

Allen reflexively muttered such a thing, but his face tensed right away. Berserker Weiss was tearing apart the fixing implement of a machine that was almost as big as a car so that it could lift it up.

It was obvious what its reason for doing that was.

□Crap crap crap crap-□

Allen manipulated his buckle to cut the wire and fell to the ground. After that, the car-sized machine came flying. The pillar Allen fixed his wire on was pulverized with a thunderous sound, and then the second floor's path was also destroyed by the machine.

Allen landed with an ukemi technique, but naturally, Berserker Weiss didn't overlook that opening. The rock-like fist was already approaching by the time Allen was recovering his stance.

□Gahah□

Allen could only guard by crossing his arms while taking a back-step with all his strength to lower the impact as much as possible. He was blown away horizontally above the ground, and his back crashed on a machine behind him. He couldn't even scream with how intense the impact was, and then his body slipped down slowly to sit on the floor.

'Kahah' Blood was mixed in the breath that he finally could spit out. It seemed that his internal organs were injured. Both his arms limply hung down with their direction facing to strange angles.

But even so, he was alive. What's more, he was conscious, and he was able to watch the Berserker Weiss slowly approaching him. Surely, that was thanks to his miraculous impact neutralization and ukemi technique.

□Aa……gehoh. This is really, not a laughing matter. …… Haven't I, bought enough time already? Ayssgate-sa~n, it's fine if you rush here……gohoh, anytime noww□

Allen smiled bitterly at his body that couldn’t even twitch from the impact while calling for help with a listless voice. But, even Allen understood. This was checkmate.

Berserker Weiss had arrived until it was right before him. Perhaps it was just his imagination, but it somehow looked like the berserker was sneering at him.

Allen was always side-by-side with death in his duty. Therefore, he didn’t feel fear. However, if he had a regret, then that would be……

「Before the end, just once. I wanted to have a date……with a super beautiful woman or girl.」

‘Even though I’m also an agent, but why is Jame○ Bond that popular while I’m not? Regret……’ Allen whispered.

Berserker Weiss’s fist was lifted up. And then just before it was swung down,

「FIREE-」

A command. A storm of bullets assaulted Berserker Weiss. It was a concentrated fire from four directions above. Berserker Weiss couldn’t endure and threw its body between the machinery in evasion.

「Chih. It wasn’t finished off from the first attack. Its instinct is really something. Oi, Allen, what’s with that berserker?」

The one saying that while jumping down from the second floor using other machines as footholds was,

「Be, Bernard-san!」

「Ou, you really got done in huh, Allen. You didn’t get splashed by any liquid, right?」

Yes, the one firing from the second floor was the person who had displayed an outrageous skill of raising death flags in high speed, that Bernard!

It appeared that he had struggled through that deathly battlefield and came here as reinforcements. Allen who was saved by a hair’s breadth like a heroine in some tale felt an emotion welling up inside his heart. Driven by that feeling he spoke to Bernard who was making a fearless smile.

「Anyway, I request a change.」

「How regretful. He is infected with『Berserk』already.」

click Bernard’s gun muzzle locked on to Allen’s forehead. Allen made a justification「I’m lying, lying! You aren’t a beautiful girl, but I’m really happy that you came to save me!」in a panic.

Bernard made an exasperated face at the agent whose talkativeness didn’t decrease even when wounded all over like this while helping him to stand up.

「Err, you saved me Bernard-san. But, that guy, he is really bad news.」

「No, it will be fine.」

Allen suggested caution against the out of norm Berserker Weiss, but Bernard was indifferent. Bernard opened his mouth with a wry smile toward Allen who looked dubious.

「We are here. So there is no way he isn’t here too, right?」

「A. Aa, that’s right. Hahah, really I’m saved……」

Right after that, GOBA-aAAA- Berserker Weiss flew out from the cover along with a terrific impact sound. However, it flew out not by its own action, but with a black whirling sphere settled on a hand palm. That palm was thrust forward in a palm attack stance by Kousuke――no, Lord Abyssgate, which blew away the berserker.

「I received the information from my real body. It looks like you have acted really inhumanly. ――Don’t think that you can die easily.」

The lord that was walking out calmly had his eyes filled with rage, his hands unsheathing two short swords. One sword was clad in the azure flame, and the other sword was clad in glimmers that looked like diamond dust. The melting and severing sword of superheat “Enryuuga”, and the ice sword of absolute zero that formed its counterpart, “Touryuuga”. (TN: Enryuuga = Flame Dragon Fang, Touryuuga = Frozen Dragon Fang)

Berserker Weiss made a war cry while standing up, and then it threw pipes and machine parts toward the lord.

The lord stepped in. Right after that, he jumped and rotated midair while stepping lightly on the pipe. And then, without stopping he stepped on the machine parts and splinters flying at him one after another and charged toward Berserker Weiss in a straight line.

Berserker Weiss might’ve felt a threat because it then tried to dodge to the side. But,

「Where are you going?」

Such a sentence reached the berserker. From right beside the position where it was going to dodge to. At the same time, the figure of the lord approaching from in front of it flickered and vanished. The lord had already switched with an illusion in the middle of jumping by using the skill “Leaf Dance”.

Berserker Weiss wasted no time in swinging its fist. The arm was as thick as a log, and it was swung with a force equivalent to a cannon firing in order to flatten the enemy. And then, something flew in the air. An arm severed from the elbow was rotating in midair.

Berserker Weiss that didn’t feel pain launched a deadly attack with its other arm without delay, but the figure of the target had already gone. And then, the berserker fell on its knee with a jerk because one of its legs was cut and sent flying while encased in ice.

The lord slipped into the blind spot behind the Berserker Weiss after he cut the arm. And then he swung “Touryuuga” while passing through. The blade of ice that was formed to an extreme thinness had a slimness of a single molecule already. The chill coating the blade froze the target instantly.

□AAAAAAAAA-□

□Who said that you could howl?□

Berserker Weiss launched a backhand blow even while on its knee, but its body was slowly tilting in contrast with its will. What was flying midair was the arm that was launching the backhand blow. What was rolling on the ground was its other leg.

Berserker Weiss that lost its four limbs was starting to regenerate its hands and feet by activating its super regeneration. But, the two short swords were swung again right after the limbs were starting to grow and sent them flying.

After that, it was routine work. The regenerating part was chopped off before it could be restored to normal, and the berserker couldn’t escape its state of limbs shortage. It tried to take some distance by prancing up its upper body, but even so, it was pressured down by a whirling black sphere, and it couldn’t hope to move because of the suppression of the supergravity.

「You can regenerate however much you want? Fine then. I’ll keep you company until you die in that case. Regenerate as much as you like, squirm as much as you like. Until that time when the end arrives.」

The lord’s arms went hazy. Each time the limbs of Berserker Weiss danced in midair. In the first place, the amount of 「Berserk」that was crammed into the cigarette didn’t amount to much.

Berserker Weiss writhed, the state of its instinct was different from other berserkers, and before long, something other than madness was starting to enter its eyes, welcoming that time. The speed of its regeneration dropped down drastically, and the vigor of the rising white smoke was decreasing.

The limit of the regeneration had come.

Its flesh body was gradually shrinking. Due to that, the withered Weiss who was on the verge of death recovered his awareness.

「Son of a bitch-. Damn it, if you ain’t gonna accompanying me then just diee」

Weiss didn’t stop his cursing and frivolous talk even at this kind of time. In his eyes, there was a disgusting color, that he wouldn’t grant them the reaction they wanted from him no matter how much he got tortured.

After all, he would die in less than a few seconds. In that case, he would rather spit out curses even if just by one more. Weiss opened his mouth with that kind of intention, but the lord firmly grasped his head. And then, he took out a five-yen coin crystal that was tied with a string.

「Just an instant is enough to grant you regret and despair.」

「What are, you planning——hih, ah, aAAAAAAAAAAH」

A shriek that was unbearable to listen to was reverberating. That was undoubtedly a voice of regret and despair. Weiss was screaming while his body was completely withering and rotting away.

「Sca, scaryy. Aby, just what did you do?」

「Hahah. I don’t want to know though……」

Bernard, accompanied by his subordinates, arrived while lending Allen his shoulder and asked. His expression along with his subordinates were all twitching extremely. Allen was going ‘no no’ in refusal to hear, but he couldn’t move properly, and on top of that, both of his arms were broken, so he couldn’t even block his ears.

The lord spoke with an expression that seemed sickened toward Bernard and the others.

「I just showed him a nightmare. A nightmare where he is eaten alive by the dead. For now, I set it so that his mind experienced it a hundred times in a moment.」

□□……□□

It would’ve been better if he didn’t ask. Bernard and the others were wordlessly holding the same thought inside their heart.

Then, the lord suddenly raised his head. Bernard and the others asked the lord what happened with their gaze, to which the lord spoke.

□It seems it’s necessary for me to head for my real body’s reinforcement. Bernard. I’ll leave the rest to you.□

□Roger. I don’t know what is going on, but leave this place to me. I won’t let even a single one of the remaining staff here get away.□

The lord nodded at Bernard’s words before his figure became smoke bofun- and vanished.

Right after that, an intense shaking attacked the facility. It was clear that the vibration came from a distant place.

□He is really going at it flashily huh, that Aby. The vibration just now was intense.□

□I think Bernard-san who is calling him with a pet name is also amazing you know?□

Bernard was staring in puzzlement at Allen’s words before he pulled himself together and began giving orders to his subordinates.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

This time I was late too.

Coupled with the work for publication too, Shirakome’s sleeping time is……heheh

Next week for sure, I’ll write the story until the very end in one go for sure!

Please, follow the lord’s adventure for just a little bit more.

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 219

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

It’s Me You Know, A○derson-kun-

AN: ↑

For those who don’t understand the meaning of the title, please watch the movie Matrix Reloaded without fail.

Smiths-san’s「Me, me, me――and then, me」is strangely pleasing for Shirakome.

The lump of meat squirming before his eyes――Berserk Chimera, didn’t try to chase after Allen who chased after Weiss or Emily and Vanessa who chased after Down.

The Katon flame wall blocking the tentacles’ path had already vanished. If it was a berserker that was faithful to their instinct, then it would at least try to stretch its tentacles to chase, but this berserker didn’t even do that and stopped trying. Surely, most likely, that was because it was cautious against the human in black clothes standing in its way.

「Now then, I don’t know just how deep you have carried the case of the children, so I won’t give any mercy no matter what you were formerly.」

Kousuke unsheathed two short swords. shaan A clear voice echoed and the unsheathed swords were held in a reverse grip and, at the same time, Kousuke’s body sunk really low to the floor. It was a stance similar to a crouching start so to speak.

In an instant, the berserk chimera launched countless tentacles. Those tentacles that were fired with a speed that resembled a bullet became like a wall as they attacked Kousuke.

And then, a hard sound, which was really unthinkable when coming from a lump of flesh, resounded as it began stabbing the metal floor.

Yes, they stabbed at a space where there wasn’t anyone.

「Chih. As I thought, even the weakness’s position is haphazard.」

The sound of someone clicking their tongue and a curse resounded. That voice came from behind the berserk chimera. There, the figure of Kousuke was unmoving with his arms crossed. Looking carefully, the top of the berserk chimera’s head was entirely cut off, and a beat later, the lump of meat fell on a distant spot along with a graphic sound docha-.

At that instant, Kousuke rushed forward with a momentum that would give anyone who saw it the thought that he liberated the power he saved up, slipped through the barrage of tentacles, and then split the upper head of the berserk chimera.

Although it didn’t look like the berserk chimera received any pain, it was spouting out white smoke while the top of its head regenerated in what should be called an instant. At the same time, it created new tentacles and launched them to Kousuke.

(I cannot see the position of its weakness, the brain. In the first place, there is no guarantee that it only has one brain. It’s not like I don’t have a method to blow it up altogether, but then the children inside will die with that. And then, that super regeneration is a hindrance for me to scrape off its body……this is difficult.)

Kousuke cut apart the swarm of tentacles, dodged with acrobatic movements, and handed out attacks by using the tentacles as stepping stones. He grumbled inside his heart while analyzing the enemy as a wry smile suddenly emerged on his lips.

To add as a side note, it was also forbidden for him to get touched by the liquid that was scattered when the tentacle was grazed. Even if it was Kousuke, he wouldn’t be able to suppress the transformation of his body if he got splashed by『Berserk』.

Then, at that time, the senses of Kousuke, who was pondering on how to approach this, detected an assault from behind him. When Kousuke immediately twisted his body midair, just as he thought, there were countless tentacles the size of human arms flying toward him from behind.

『Oi oi, so it can also grow from the part that I cut off. Just what kind of organism has this thing consumed that it can do something like that?』

What attacked Kousuke from behind was the lump of meat that Kousuke cut flying before this. It was squirming despite being separated from the main body and grew out slender tentacles.

There were tentacles and flesh, which he had cut apart, lying all over the place. As expected, Kousuke’s expression couldn’t stop from twitching.

The moment Kousuke muttered「This is bad」, a barrage of tentacles approached from all directions. In addition to that, there was also the lump of meat clinging to the ceiling unnoticed that began attacking like a shower, leaving no place to escape. Their numbers already surpassed three digits.

Normally, it would be a hopeless scene. If the one who was here was the soldiers of the special squad, then they would undoubtedly sigh and make a bitter smile at the same time as their resignation.

But, of course, for the right-hand man of the demon king, something of this level, no, no matter what kind of situation it was, it was an impossible story for him to carry an emotion of resignation.

「――”Juton – Todokienu Kuroki Sei’iki”」(TN: Gravity Escape – Unreachable Black Sanctuary)

Immediately after, four whirling black spheres as big as pinballs expanded around Kousuke. At the same time, all the approaching tentacles crashed to the ground as though they were struck down.

「Abyss-style Assassination Martial Arts – Sword Form――”Senretsu Kokujou Yaiba”」(TN: Flash Rend Black Fortress Blade)

Furthermore, Kousuke lifted both his arms and rotated his two short swords like a pinwheel using the movement of his fingertips and his wrists inversely. The tentacles attacking from overhead were shaved off and blown away as though they were hit by an excavator.

Even the tentacles that circled around the shield of slashes and attacked were repelled back by the kunai that were unnoticeably flying around Kousuke like satellites. Furthermore, those kunai were rotating at high speeds. Not a single tentacle could reach Kousuke.

「Burning all these……will put the children in danger I guess. Then, let’s smash them apart after freezing them——Rage, silver wind. The breath of the eternal world of ice and snow. Hinder the path of the traveler and seize at the cold arm. Thy art the prisoner of the white ice coffin——”Tougoku no Hana”」(TN: Flower of Frozen Prison)

Kousuke lightly made a sound ton with his step. Immediately after that, a sound bikibiki echoed and the floor was dyed white. Mist was generated as well. With Kousuke as the center, the white wave was spreading as though it was eroding the world. The tentacles and liquid scattered everywhere were frozen altogether.

But, it didn’t end with that. The lump of meat which was dyed pure white and hardened was then enveloped by a prison of ice right after that, like a blooming flower.

A cluster of ice flowers was blooming proudly everywhere.

The white erosion also reached the berserk chimera through the floor. Perhaps sensing the danger, the berserk chimera stabbed its tentacles in the ceiling and made its body leap into the air. It already had the composure to launch a random barrage of tentacles to Kousuke despite just escaping from the floor.

However, the tentacles needed for attacking were all touched by the chill that froze them. The berserk chimera obeyed its instinct and severed all of its tentacles by itself. The countless tentacles that bloomed into ice flowers instantly were now falling to the floor.

「There is no way I'll let you get away don't you think?」

Kousuke used the falling ice flowers as stepping stones and jumped toward the berserk chimera. He used the tentacles he cut down and the tentacles approaching wildly as further stepping stones while he somersaulted; then using that momentum, he threw his short sword.

The short sword cut straight through the air like a single streak of light. It stabbed the berserk chimera that had no leeway to evade.

GI, GI, GIIIIIII

A bizarre voice reverberated. Kousuke guessed that it was the scream of the berserk chimera that let alone having a mouth, it was doubtful that it even had vocal cords. Inside the space where the scream that sounded like the scratching of metal was echoing, the area that was centered on the stabbing short sword was playing a dissonant sound bikibiki as the berserk chimera started to freeze over.

「I won't freeze your insides. I'll shave and smash you from your outer layer.」

If its separated part could still move after getting cut off, and if it could regenerate no matter how much it got slashed, then he would restrain it using an ice coffin, and then freeze all of the parts he scraped off and pulverize them. It was a method that paid attention to the safety of the captured children as much as possible while rescuing them with certainty.

Before long, the tentacles that stabbed into the ceiling and supported its mass were frozen, and they became unable to endure their own weight and snapped. The berserk chimera fell to the floor, and its body’s outer part was smashed apart from the impact of the fall.

Squirming lumps of meat could be seen from inside the smashed lump of meat. It was trying to regenerate. But, the stabbing short sword didn’t allow that. The mist was coming down faster than the regeneration could start and froze them.

When Kousuke snapped his fingers, the frozen outer layer broke apart once more, and frozen lumps of meat were scattered into small block shaped pieces.

「If I continue to smash it like this until those children become visible――」

‘I should be able to save them.’

Yes, Kousuke was about to say that, but right after that, his cheeks cramped from the squirming presence he felt near him. When he quickly looked around, piki-, paki- he could see cracks forming in the ice flowers.

「O, oi oi. This is a joke, right?」

Kousuke unconsciously let out those words. It was understandable. After all, the countless lumps of meat locked inside the ice flowers were squirming and bloating from the inside.

baki- Hearing such a sound, Kousuke returned his gaze to the berserk chimera, and there, the same sight of it bloating from inside entered his eyes.

Kousuke opened his eyes wide. No matter how he looked at it, the lumps of meat in the room, and also the berserk chimera, were increasing in volume. When a human transformed into a berserker, their super regeneration was caused by the repetition of breaking down and regenerating. It could be said to be similar to the phenomenon of muscles swelling up.

But, even that had a limit. It wasn’t like a berserker would transform endlessly until it was a giant. It was impossible for them to multiply new flesh from a small fragment of flesh. It wasn’t an ability that a human was equipped with.

「No, wait. In the first place, this thing is stretching out tentacles……」

Kousuke suddenly noticed. This thing was stretching out tentacles endlessly――that was an impossible trait for all creatures that he knew about. Even though there were creatures that had tentacles, there shouldn’t be any creature that was able to grow several hundreds of it or more.

But, in reality, the berserk chimera before his eyes was propagating itself with a force that could even destroy the ice coffin from the inside using pressure――

「Propagation……haha, come to think of it, there is this organism called the planarian huh. Even if they are cut, they will regenerate the same specimen, right?」

That was correct. Certainly, the berserk chimera had taken in a lot of organisms. Not to mention animals and insects, it had also taken in plants and so on. Of course, it had also taken in a few human adults and children. And then a lot of planarians were added into that flesh.

Super-regeneration wouldn’t occur if there wasn’t any flesh that became the base. Then, if that flesh was able to multiply automatically, wouldn’t infinite regeneration become possible with that? This was the result of the experiment that was carried out with an idea that had gone past madness into exasperation.

The berserk chimera had not even a fragment of the souls of the animals and humans that became its base. What it had was a more primitive instinct. ——Only the instinct to eat and survive, that was all.

Kousuke shuddered while returning from his own thoughts back to reality, and right after that, all the ice flowers smashed apart.

「These guys here created something like this, just how were they planning on stopping this thing when the time came?」

What was truly frightening was the deed of man. The spirit of inquiry and tenacity, madness that pushed on ahead until the end of the road without considering the future or other people. Just like the magicians of the former world's mad god——Ehitorujue that invited the destruction of themselves.

It would endanger the children if he burned this thing to ash. It was useless to freeze and smash it. If he slashed it, then it would regenerate and multiply endlessly just as much as he slashed. Exterminating it using great firepower would endanger the children. If he was touched, then it was game over.

However,

「Good grief. Just when I thought that I finally went home from a fantasy world, this side is also fantastical like this. It seems that I, no, we are deeply loved by the extraordinary, huh.」

The Kousuke’s expression contained no despair as he shrugged with an air of “dear me”. He also didn’t believe in the possibility that he might not be able to save the children.

Why?

It was obvious.

「So you returned, me.」

「Yeah, I have returned, me.」

「I too, me.」

「Bernard……it was seriously just barely for him. That guy is really loved by the god of death so much that it’s a wonder how he has been able to survive until now y’know. But it looks like he is also loved as much by the god of fortune.」

The berserk chimera had swelled up until it was twice, no, triple its former size while making a bizarre scream. And then, the innumerable number of lumps of meat had already transformed into tiny berserk chimeras. Clones appeared at both sides of and behind Kousuke while all those were surrounding them.

These were the clones that accompanied Bernard’s group and the other squads.

The clone that reinforced Bernard had a faraway look. Its information was also shared with Kousuke’s real body, so he also got a faraway look from the scene「you are already a fantasy」where Bernard was continuously collecting death flags per second; however, he was also continuously escaping from the clutches of the god of death due to strong fortunes that continuously came at him per second too.

GIIIIIIIIIIIIH!!

A wave of flesh attacked at the same time as the shriek. Yes, it was a wave. The small chimeras were also adding onto it, turning the attack into a grandiosely spreading wave that looked like a thick membrane. It spread out everywhere toward Kousuke and his clones.

「Now then, the clones have also come back, except the one guarding the Grant family, so let’s settle this quickly. …… Haa, I actually don’t want to use this thoughh. I rea~lly don’t want to use this thoughh. But there is no time, and it’s for the sake of the children. It can’t be helped, huh.」

Kousuke leapt on the roof of a large truck and looked at his three clones that were in the three corners of the room. They were showing a wry smile, or possible a melancholic expression. He then took out something from his breast pocket.

It was a crimson jewel.

The shining jewel the size of a pinky had a metallic vine coiling around it, and it was linked with a thin chain. Kousuke wore that on his neck, and then he gripped the crimson jewel tightly.

Perhaps the berserk chimera had its survival instinct stimulated by Kousuke’s freezing magic because ahead of his gaze there was its figure already swelling up until it nearly reached the ceiling without stopping its regeneration and propagation. The case holding the children seemed tough, but surely it would reach its endurance limit soon. There could be no more postponement; they needed to be rescued even for a second faster.

Then, there was no way he could hesitate.

No matter how much Kousuke himself shirked away from it. No matter how much compensation he would need to pay for it.

He liberated it.

That taboo power! It once caused even the demon king to raise an anguished voice, the true and tremendous power!

「Endure this, my willpower! Here we go! ——”Limit Break-“!!!」

Right after that, a crimson magic power burst out from Kousuke. The intense magic power spiraled and blew up violently as though it pierced the ceiling. Magic power and storm howled thunderously. Kousuke’s figure was enveloped by the radiance of the demon king and became indistinct.

The berserker chimera pulled back the tentacles that it was going to stretch out. It was as though it was getting frightened of the existence before its eyes.

Ki, GiiIIIH The berserk chimera cried. A voice resounded toward it from inside the crimson tornado.

「O pitiful existence. Your time of liberation has come.」

That voice sounded as though it reverberated from the whole space. The crimson torrent was starting to converge, and a shadow of human appeared from inside the dazzling radiance.

The black silhouette took a step forward from the large truck. Naturally, it didn’t fall down or anything. A ripple appeared in midair, and the shadow advanced on it.

「This abyss lord, will save thee.」

The raging magic power torrent dispersed in a flash. In exchange, the crimson radiance was increasing in might and enveloped the shadow. The shadow swung one hand widely and turned his body magnificently. The shadow lowered one leg slightly, and his other hand moved toward his chest. His sunglasses glittered with a flash despite the impossible angle.

Shadow.

Yes,

「My name is Kousuke E Abyssgate-! The noble of the abyss, and the right hand of the demon king! The next patriarch of the head reaper rabbit (planned)-! I am the one that brings salvation and the end for thee! Now, welcome it with the shriek of heavy thunder!」

It was the abyss lord who was highly spirited more than usual!

The berserk chimera went, ‘anyway, tentacles first!’, it attacked following its instinct.

「EE—XCELLEENT-! No matter what is going on, it’s a good thing to not hesitate.」(TN: The ‘excellent’ is said in broken English, ‘eeekusereentoo’)

The lord who finally used Western language called a clone to appear in front of him. The clone destroyed the tentacles using “Enryuuga”. Behind the clone that became a shield slashing down the tentacles, the lord pushed up his sunglasses sharply while continuing his words.

「Although, whether it will work or not is a different matter. Fix your eyes. At the true form of the endless abyss!」

Right after that, multiple presences were born. A further four clones were created from the clone that became the lord's shield.

Not only that but besides the original three clones that evacuated to the room's corners, four clones materialized at each of their sides.

Those four clones leapt toward the chimeras, and at the same time, each clone created four clones midair. Those four clones then created four more clones. And from those four additional clones came a further four clones. Four clones, to four clones, to four clones, to four clones-!

――Abyss Lord's Exclusive Limit Break Artifact "Last Zell(just don't use it on me okay?) Ver.2.1"

The last derivative skill of the "Assassin" vocation, "Abyss Lord", originally raised the foundation ability of the user, breaking the limit along with the passage of time. The crimson jewel that was bestowed by the demon king blew away this passage of time and forcefully multiplied the user's ability by five times.

And then, regarding this Abyss Lord's activation state――Kousuke divided it into five stages that he called "Depth I" up to "Depth V"――He would be able to create one more clone when he entered "Depth III", and when he entered "Depth V", the clones that originally could only be created by the main body of the abyss lord could then be created by the clones themselves too.

It would usually take a considerable amount of time for Kousuke to reach this "Depth V", but Last Zell cleared away that limitation.

However, naturally, there was compensation for it.

□□□□□□□□□□□The abyss is without end——□□□□□□□□□□□

The lord multiplied into sixty-four people almost within an instant. They charged from four directions while saying something simultaneously.

The tentacles stretched out from the small chimeras that were scattered everywhere inside the large underground parking area, and with the tentacles that were launched from the main body, their number was already enough to form a cage of piercing spears that left no place to escape. Even if some of them got mowed down by the short sword shining with the azure flame, it was a herculean task to handle all of them.

Half of the sixty-four lords were cut down within an instant. However,

□□□□□□□□□□□There is no end to the darkness of the hell□□□□□□□□□□□

In the next moment, more than 160 lords manifested. Using their skills and bodies, they became the shield for the clones behind them and cut open a path of survival.

□□□□□□□□□□□There is no hope to capture the abyss——□□□□□□□□□□□

The small chimeras widened the membrane of flesh in an attempt to swallow the lords. The attack with a vast surface area was already an area attack. The lords used other clones as stepping stones, or they threw the others to escape from the range of the membrane. The rest enveloped their bodies with Katon and launched kamikaze attacks at the small chimeras.

□□□□□□□□□□□There is no meaning in touching the abyss——□□□□□□□□□□□

No matter how many of them were pierced, no matter how many of them were splashed with liquid, in the first place, the clones weren’t made of flesh despite having a solid body. There was no way the clones could be altered; the small chimeras were helpless against the overly extravagant suicide bombing skill.

□□□□□□□□□□□It’s a pipe dream to destroy the abyss——□□□□□□□□□□□

The number of lords that disappeared from suicide bombing already surpassed a hundred easily; however, by the time a beat or two passed, three hundred lords began attacking in waves.

□□□□□□□□□□□Despair to the resentful——□□□□□□□□□□□

They were pierced and vanished. Twice the number came back in their place.

They were pulverized and vanished. Twice the number came back in their place.

They were smashed and vanished. Twice the number came back in their place!

□□□□□□□□□□□Hope for those who searched——□□□□□□□□□□□

The small chimeras were reduced to ash one by one in succession with certainty by unceasing attacks that had no hesitation of being a sacrifice. The berserk chimera was surrounded by more than three hundred lords and got its body thoroughly scraped off from the outside.

□□□□□□□□□□□O you that stand in our way, engrave into that body□□□□□□□□□□□

GIIIIIII-, the berserk chimera shrieked as though to drive away the terror it felt. It shrank its body for a moment, and right after that, it launched tentacles in every direction. What was different about that, was that all its tentacles that previously were as thick as a child’s arm, were now reduced to the size of a finger.

It might be sensing the danger of being obliterated. It might be doing this to fulfill its survival instinct. It seemed to optimize its attack method toward the enemy.

It would be appropriate to call the thin and sharp thrusts as an intense rain. They were assaulting straight ahead, from the ceiling, or from the floor. The flesh thrusts that might reach in the several thousands were a symbol of despair.

More than a hundred lords were terminated by that.

□□□□□□□□□□□Moan from the endless nightmare□□□□□□□□□□□

And so, it was opposed by a thousand lords.

They wielded a short sword of azure flame, but be that as it may, the weapon they utilized was their own body. Like a nightmare without end, each vanishing was filled with manifestation, and each time the number was increased in an infinite hell. Even with Last Zell put into operation, it didn’t change that he was in the “Abyss Lord activated state”. His spec that was continuously increasing finally outdid the propagation and regeneration speed of the berserk chimera.

□□□□□□□□□□□We art the incarnation of the abyss. The dream of darkness, the black ephemeral, everything—□□□□□□□□□□□

This was exactly, the right hand of the demon king.

This was exactly, the true form of the one that was said by his comrades to be “actually the one who was nonchalantly on the level of humanity’s strongest”.

This was exactly, what accomplished that grand feat of inflicting a scratch on that demon king.

More than a thousand abyss lords launching unceasingly, multiplying chuuni speech, and gestu——not that, waves of attacks without end!

「Lukewarm-. Do you think you can bring me down with something of that level! If you wish to drive away the abyss, then you need to bring at least a gatling railgun!」

The name of him who spoke of such absurdity, let’s say it, one more time.

「Now-, this is the closing of the curtain! You can boast to king Yama in that world-. You can say, that the one who granted me my end is that person! Yes, it’s by this me, Abisuuge—to-!」

The lord yelled his own name a bit like a native speaker (?), or rather, his pronunciation sounded like his tongue got rolled up. The lord then crossed his arms with the short sword, still in a reverse grip, as his body bent forward with tension.

The small chimeras were already annihilated. The regeneration and propagation of the berserk chimera also couldn’t catch up anymore; its body had been reduced to the size of a big truck.

Like that, one of the clones scraped off the flesh even while its body was pierced by tentacles. At that place, a solid glitter could be seen faintly. Without a doubt, that was the case where the children were locked in.

「Gather-, my compatriots-. This is the time for salvation!」

The lord’s order thundered. Several dozen clones lined up instantly in front of the lord and took the same stance.

The lords grinned broadly with fearlessness, and his eyes opened widely in a snap (Warning: It was done behind the sunglasses, so other people couldn’t see it).

「Mine abyss, can you see through it? ——Abyss-style Martial Art – Attack Form Secret Finishing Move「Kokusou – Arashi Kage Ryuuha(Surging fang, shadow claw, know the nightmare of the dark abyss)」–!!」(TN: Black Phantom – Storm Shadow Flow Rending)

The abyss lords sprinted. They became a single vertical row and charged the berserk chimera.

The berserk chimera tried to launch its tentacles, it tried to leap and become a cannonball with its lump of meat, but the clones in the front row handled it, and even if they couldn’t handle it and vanished, the next lords would eliminate it.

And then, the clones that arrived at the berserk chimera in the blink of the eye used their bodies to whittle the flesh wall down and got annihilated. The following clones each recklessly hurled themselves to the berserk chimera and opened up a hole with certainty on one point of the flesh body!

It was a storm-like assault without any pause by the black shadows. That waves of attacks that could be mistaken as a single great lance, it looked like, yes……

Jet Strea○ Attack!

In the next moment, a sound boba- came into hearing, and the flesh on the other side of the berserk chimera was blown away. At the same time, a lord flew out from there. A beat later, a case that was wrapped with steel string flew out.

The lord rotated in midair and swung his short sword at the case that was flying and following him. The case was instantly split apart into pieces, and three screaming children flew out from there.

It seemed that they didn’t faint even after getting swallowed by the berserk chimera. Normally, anyone would lose consciousness from excessive fear but……. What could be done now was only to pray so that they wouldn’t get traumatized by this.

The lord, along with his clones, caught the children that were thrown out in midair and landed lightly.

「Boy, it’s safe already.」

「E, eh?」

The boy that was let down was looking around with greatly restless eyes due to his great confusion. And then, the boy witnessed the unrealistic scene of countless humans with the same appearance surrounding the berserk chimera, and he exposed his shock with「EeEEEEH!?」.

The boy and girl that were let down by the clones beside him were also similarly flustered while on the verge of tears.

□Hmm. I guess this is a bit too intense for children. But, I ask you to be relieved. This nightmare is over already. I’m ending it!□

The lords spread out. In the center was the berserk chimera.

While the eyes of the boys and girl turned into dots, the lords simultaneously touched one hand to their sunglasses (of course, the stylish pushing up motion couldn’t be forgotten), they averted half their body slightly behind, and then their other hand pointed quietly toward the berserk chimera.

□□□□□□□□□□The sky of hell, the world of fabrication, the revolving black sun——□□□□□□□□□□

That was a chant. The only magic that the lord learned, the magic of destruction that once tore down the logic of the world.

□□□□□□□□□□The night sky collapses, the star of calamity shines darkly. What is released is a fragment of the abyss——□□□□□□□□□□

A finishing move among finishing moves that couldn’t even be invoked by the lord if he wasn’t in a state of “Depth V”.

□□□□□□□□□□Converge, disintegrate, swallow without pause, smash without stopping——□□□□□□□□□□

Sparks surged. It was a phenomenon of electrical discharge that looked like black lightning. It was generated with the berserk chimera as the center.

The berserk chimera launched its tentacles looking somewhat desperate, but the clones blocked them in front of the chanting lords and cut them down altogether.

□□□□□□□□□□That is a world of interstice without light. The embrace of demise. The birth of a new providence――□□□□□□□□□□

And so, that thing propagating into the world, which destroyed even the Holy Precincts――the attack of the protector that brought about the dawn.

The main body of the lord made a beautiful turn that was without any meaning, and then along with a really magnificent pose, he spun the last sentence, and let it resound to the world.

□Be swallowed by the infinitude of darkness and perish――Gravity magic ultimate secret art □Kokutenkyuu(black whirling darkness of abyss)□□(TN: Black Heaven Suffering)

At the center of the surging black sparks, a small black sphere manifested.

The sphere was whirling in disorder, and right after that, it swelled up to a size with a diameter of a meter and began to suck anything and everything in the surroundings with a fierce might. No, perhaps it should be said that rather than sucking, it was already twisting the space altogether while compressing it to the center.

――Gravity magic “Black Heaven Suffering”

It was the gravity magic’s secret art that the liberator Miledy Raisen once used in order to save the world.

Compared to what she used, this magic here was a shoddy one where its immatureness was standing out. But, even so, here in this place, it possessed enough strength to destroy this monster that could possibly regenerate and propagate if there was even just a fragment of its cell remaining——it was truly legendary magic.

GIIH, GIIIIIIIIH!!

Perhaps that should be called its shriek of death and agony. The berserk chimera was pulled in as though the lump of meat was crumbling from the edges, expulsed toward a world of super compression and destruction.

A beat.

The large truck that was entangled by stretched out tentacles so that the berserk chimera wouldn’t get pulled in was sucked in without any resistance and crushed by the pressure. In the end, the berserk chimera became completely terminated.

The black celestial sphere shrunk before vanishing as though it melted into space. At the same time, the many clones also dispersed, as though to say that they had finished their role.

The end was very silent.

「……Onii-chan, who, are you?」

The boys and girl forgot their trembling, their crying, and also their huddling with each other. Their heart was stolen by a piece of legend before their eyes. One of them asked with a small voice toward the lord while still feeling astonished.

The lord looked back over his shoulder. The gaze of the little children turned toward him.

The lord went□fuh□toward them, and then he answered while sharply pushing up his sunglasses.

□Oneself? I am……just a hero that you can find anywhere.□

Thinking that it would be inappropriate to say things like “demon king” or “abyss” toward the cornered children, the lord answered after showing a thinking gesture for a while. Hearing that, for a moment the children looked puzzled and they looked at each other’s face.

But, the next moment, they showed a smile that was like a blooming flower. It was the greatest sparkling bright smile, one that children would show toward a hero just like in a movie. It was a smile that was overflowing with conviction, that heroes certainly existed, with admiration, and with hope filling their heart——it was the greatest reward there was for a hero.

The lord that received that——crumbled down right after.

□O, Onii-chan!?□

□Hero-san!□

□Ninja-lookalike something-san!□

The children rushed in a panic toward the lord that abruptly fell on all fours with his head hanging down. And then, their face approached looking worried, and they heard that whisper.

□Hahah fuhihih, I messed up saying “oneself”. Even I don’t understand what I’m saying……it hurts, my heart hurts~□

The children lifted their face and exchanged gazes once more. Even though they had no words, what they wanted to say was conveyed to each other clearly.

That was,

——Just what is a hero?

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

When I wrote in high spirits, the number of letters become like this……

I will post one more chapter today or tomorrow.

=>Was what I thought, but I forgot my Sunday work……

I’m sorry, looks like the update will be as usual.

I also wrote this in my activity report, but Overlap-sama’s homepage is uploaded with the newest chapter of the comic version.

Kick rabbit is really bad news.

If you are interested, please go take a look without fail.

Also, it’s also uploaded on the homepage, but volume 4 seems to be for sale.

Please treat it well.

It seems the next update will be at 6 P.M. Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 220

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Berserk, Was in Your Heart Right From the Start

---

go-go-go That sound that sounded like earth rumbling, and impact sound DON- that resounded to the bottom of stomach, could be heard.

And then the one who screamed cutely「Hyaah」to that while hopping pyon was Emily who was chasing after Professor Down.

Vanessa, who was running beside Emily, wasn't perturbed at all. Perhaps also because it was just the two of them right now, Vanessa was currently in the cool beauty Vanessa-san mode like when they met for the first time. Seeing Vanessa like that, Emily looked down feeling a little embarrassed.

「An expression of shyness――priceless.」

「Aa, yep. Even when you are in work mode, the inside is still Danessa.」

While the sound of gan-gan- from the shoes hitting the metal floor was resounding, Emily made a dry smile at Vanessa who was saying that kind of thing with a crisp expression.

「At any rate, Kousuke-san is really going at it flashily.」

「You're right. That must be just how absurd that berserker is.」

「A lump of meat――just what in the world, that……」

Emily spoke her deduction to Vanessa's whisper. It was in line with the answer that Kousuke reached personally. It was a deduction that showed the depth of humanity's sin.

The berserker chimera possessed the ability of regeneration and propagation that humans, in general, couldn't possibly stand a chance against. When Vanessa heard the true identity of it, her expression moved slightly. That wasn't because she was worried for Kousuke, it was something that was directed to Emily who could talk about her deduction so calmly.

「I understand now that it has absurd abilities but……Doctor Grant, you don't look like you are particularly worried.」

Emily felt the glance of Vanessa on her. However, Emily replied without averting her gaze from straight ahead.

「I am worried. No matter how strong Kousuke is, there are many ways things can possibly go wrong. He might even get injured. It was the first time I saw Kousuke that angry, so I'm also feeling uneasy that he might do something reckless.」

「Is, that so?」

Even so, Emily looked relatively calm. Vanessa tilted her head at that. Seeing Vanessa like that, Emily smiled wryly while continuing to speak「But」.

「Even so, that person……is my hero after all.」

That was why she believed. That no matter what kind of difficulty he encountered, no matter what kind of irrationality he was exposed to, no matter what kind of pinch he fell into, in the end, he would surely overcome it all and fulfill his promise. He would save the children, liberate that pitiful existence from the wedge of this world, send flying that mercenary who was rotten to the core and then rush to her side. Yes, she believed.

「That's why, I, I have to do what I ought to do. I have come here by acting selfishly. I cannot afford to be flustered or anything. Looking back will be an insult to Kousuke who believed in me and sent me ahead.」

「……」

Vanessa kept sending sidelong glances at Emily. And then, she nodded「yep yep」as though she understood something.

「Doctor Grant.」

「What?」

Emily stared straight ahead and advanced without hesitation. A smile emerged on Vanessa's lips while she spoke.

「You are a good woman. Surely, Kousuke-san too will accept you. Leave the hotel reservation to me.」

「Bufuh!? Wha, what are you meowtering out!? Really, what are you meowtering, Danessa!」

Emily slid down due to the flow of the talk that suddenly went toward a vulgar direction. She almost kissed the floor lightly. She stood up in a hurry and started running once more, then with a reddening face she glared piercingly at Danessa. She prepared the firing of her cat punch.

Although, the Vanessa in question was making a puzzled expression instead. That irritated Emily excessively.

「Doctor Grant. In a movie or film, in the last scene, the main character will kiss or bed the heroine. In the case this time too, it will be the best if it's concluded with Kousuke-san and Doctor Grant acting a passionate bed scene. Leave the scene recording to this me, Vanessa.」

「Be be be be be, bed scene!? Idiot-. Danessa you idiot-! There is no way we will do something like that! No, I'm not saying that we will never do it but……that, I only thought a little about it, like 'I too someday will~', but if I'm asked by Kousuke it's not like I'll refuse……wait that's wro――ng-! That's not it! Or rather, what's with you! What do you mean recording huh! Just what kind of position!」

「Any kind of event needs to have a memento about it left behind. So please feel relieved. I'll also participate in the middle. A sticky and wet, passionate threeso――」

「Don't say any more than that-!」

Emily howled. Her straight-man skill had already reached the maximum number. At the same time, a cat punch was let fly. That punch which was unleashed under the straight-man skill splendidly bored in on Danessa's cheek.

「? Why, was I punched?」

「This person is hopeless already. I have to ask Kousuke to turn you into a splendid villager.」

Surely, Vanessa was gifted with the skill Serious Breaker. Emily was feeling disheartened but still managed to resolve herself to use the final option.

Like that they advanced forward, passed through several doors, and before long, the two of them came out into a passage with a waterway in it. It seemed that they had passed through an underground passage below the research facility and came out in the water purification facility.

After they passed by a place that had several things that seemed to be pipes and tanks lined up, the two of them put their hands on the door in front of them. Vanessa made Emily back away while she entered the room.

That room seemed to be placed above, and was wholly dedicated to, a water tank. Half of the room was used up by machinery while the other side of the fence became a watering place.

Perhaps this was a place to temporarily store the water that was flowing in from the waterway. It seemed that it was being opened right now, so under the floor was a fierce water current that was flowing toward somewhere.

It was a vertically long room, so they could see a stair that continued to an upper floor, a passage, and then a door. The door of the second floor was located at the southern end of the room, and there was a bridge-style passage that connected both doors.

Emily and Vanessa sent their gaze toward the door of that second floor――

「Ah, teache――」

「Doctor Grant-」

There was a flapping lab coat. It was clear whose coat it was. Emily was trying to call out because Down’s figure had vanished to the other side of the door. However, Vanessa pulled Emily closer to her cautiously.

Right after that, gan- a loud voice entered their ears. Something fell behind Emily and Vanessa, in front of the door they had just gone through. When they looked back in surprise, there was a large rectangle case the size of a Boston bag there. It was the thing that Down carried, along with a leather bag, when he escaped. It seemed that he threw it at the time when Emily and Vanessa entered the room.

The sound batan- of the door on the second-floor closing resounded.

At that moment,

□□□□□KIIIIIIIIIIIII-□□□□□

Such cries struck the two’s eardrums, and at the same time, the case bloated up from inside, and it was destroyed. It seemed that it wasn’t made from a material that was really tough in the first place as the cracks spread in the blink of an eye and the clasp snapped.

Instantly, something leapt out and attacked Emily and Vanessa. Vanessa placed Emily behind her for protection while she fired.

However, that creature’s speed wasn’t normal. Also, its movement was strangely irregular, and so the bullet Vanessa fired missed.

That creature kicked on the floor and leapt toward her face right away; however, Vanessa only narrowed her eyes quietly without even any agitation. Her long leg kicked up vertically to deal with it.

go- The thing was kicked up together with the vivid sound of bones breaking; it then twirled in midair before it then crashed on the floor some distance away.

「That is……a monkey.」

「Seems like it. It looks like an adult, but seeing that case's size, it seems that before this it was an infant monkey.」

A bullet struck the infant monkey in a flash when it slowly stood up. The moment it raised its face a splendid headshot finished the berserker animal——Berserker Monkey, and like that it crumbled down and white smoke rose from its corpse.

However, they couldn't let their guard down. The reason was the presences that spread out to surround the two of them——the Berserker Monkeys still numbered four in total.

「Strange.」

「……Indeed. Doctor Grant. Please back down slowly to the wall. Toward that gap between the machine and the pillar.」

Vanessa guessed the meaning of Emily's mutter, and she increased her cautiousness to the maximum while slowly backing away as though to make herself a shield.

Yes, they had the leeway to back away. The berserkers that usually rush ahead following their instinct were taking a fixed distance from Vanessa and Emily, as though they were observing the situation, or they were being careful.

Actually, these Berserker Monkeys had wariness toward danger instilled inside them using a method similar to the Pavlovian dog experiment. It was an experiment to make berserkers that usually only rush forward foolhardily cope to a certain degree toward firearms. Seeing a gun muzzle and hearing a gunshot, those conditions along with the awareness that “something painful would come flying”, at the same time, were planted into them.

It could be seen whether the experiment failed or not from this. The four berserker monkeys were surrounding Vanessa and Emily. Their wariness was plain to see. However, they also didn’t retreat due to their instinctual belligerence, or their desire to eat.

Vanessa made Emily withdraw to the gap between a machine and a pillar before she pulled the trigger as though to say that she didn’t give a damn about that wariness.

However, the berserker monkeys who tried all they could to not stand in front of the gun muzzle were already out of the firing line by the time the trigger was pulled.

So this means that even without an antidote, the progress of converting the drug into a weapon is advancing steadily, isn’t it.

Even an expert marksman like Vanessa couldn’t hit the target easily in front of the berserker monkeys that were taking evasive actions with all their strength by using their beastly agility.

gachin- Such a sound rang out, and the gun’s chamber was fixed in place in a slide-out position. It ran out of bullets.

As though aiming for that moment, the berserker monkeys went out to attack simultaneously.

Vanessa was in danger——was how it seemed.

「An agent of the security bureau isn’t so soft that they can be taken off guard by the likes of monkey.」

That muttered words were the truth. Vanessa’s hand thrust out smoothly toward one of the assaulting monkeys, and the moment that hand made contact, the monkey was blown away in another direction.

And then Vanessa stepped forward without pause and threw the empty gun magazine she had taken out. A berserker monkey rapidly approaching from the left was checked with that before Vanessa crouched down swiftly and launched a fierce upper roundhouse kick.

By crouching down, the berserker monkey that approached from the right lost sight of its target, and it sailed over above Vanessa’s head. The monkey that leapt from the front received a fierce roundhouse kick that sprang from a blind spot and got blown away.

The left berserker monkey that got checked by the empty magazine came flying in with a time difference. Vanessa had recovered her posture by that time, and she thrust out her arm once more.

The berserker monkey opened its mouth with a shriek kiiii-; however, in the next instant, the monkey felt a faint touch on its arm, but at the same time, its field of vision reversed, and it fell into a panic. Then it noticed that it had received a severe impact on its back and was staring at the ceiling.

And then, a gun muzzle cut into its field of view. The sense of danger instilled into it ordered it to evade but——too slow. pan- A light sound rang and with it a wind hole opened in the berserker monkey’s forehead.

The berserker monkey that was the first to be blown away in another direction was going along the ceiling and assaulted from overhead.

But, as expected it couldn’t reach. A hand that thrust out in a flowing motion softly touched the berserker monkey’s head as though in a caress, and then it was forced into a backflip with fierce momentum. Even the physical ability of the monkey was in vain, and the berserker monkey crashed on the ground. It then met the same fate as the previous monkey.

Without even any time to wake up, a shot to the head splattered its brain.

The last monkey moved as though it was crawling on the ground in order to bite at Vanessa’s leg. In an instant, a knee fell down. Perhaps because of its instinct, the berserker monkey leapt to the side right away, but its wrist was grasped.

Its wrist was twisted, and its joint was instantly locked. For a berserker that didn’t feel pain it was possible for it to shake off the hold without balking at getting a broken bone, but even so, for a few moments, it couldn’t avoid moving while following the limit of its body’s mobility. And then, the berserker monkey’s vector of inertia and center of gravity were directed at that instant, and it quickly got pressed down with its face against the floor.

A knee fell on its back to stop it from moving. Because the right point was pressed, it had no room to use its physical strength. It wasn’t even given a chance to even struggle. gorit- The gun muzzle pressed on the back of its head and fired its bullet with no hesitation.

“With this it’s all of them.”

Vanessa’s sharp gaze ran through the surroundings.

What she used was a technique of jujitsu and aikido. Vanessa’s body was that of a female. No matter how much she tried to deny it, it was a fact that her pure physical strength was inferior to males. That was why she polished numerous techniques based on ‘soft and fair goes far’.

What about powerful offensive abilities? A single bullet would serve that purpose. No matter how muscular the opponent was, even if it was against a monster, she could knock them down unquestionably if only one of her hands could touch them. For the rest, she just needed to pull the trigger.

This was the strength of Vanessa who was said to be at the top level in close-quarter combat among the agents that belonged under the security bureau. Even though recently she was called as Danessa a lot, her strength was the real thing.

——That was exactly the reason he created this moment because he didn’t underestimate the people of the security bureau by any means. The moment when Vanessa was away from the protection target.

Agent, protect her if you can.

-, Doctor Grant!

Unnoticed, Down’s face peeked out from the door on the second floor with a gun muzzle aimed. ——Toward none other than Emily.

Vanessa leapt in front of Emily as though she was flying. It was at the same time as when Down fired.

A dry bursting sound rang consecutively. Vanessa’s body jerked. Fresh blood scattered in a splat and dirtied Emily’s cheek.

「Kahah, gaa, a」

「Vanessa-」

Vanessa crashed on the ground and rolled several times. She then tried to stand up right away, but the impact clogging her lungs made her unable to breathe well. She could only crouch from the intense pain cruising through her whole body as she was unable to move.

Emily, whose facial expression changed, rushed to her. She made Vanessa face up and embraced her inside her arms. Blood could be seen flowing from her shoulder, arm, and thigh, but Emily couldn’t see any blood from the torso that got shot first. Even while panicking, Emily took off the suit’s jacket and took a look. There she saw four bullets squashed inside a bulletproof vest that blocked those bullets.

It seemed that the bulletproof jacket barely saved her life. Although, putting aside the gunshot wound in her arm and shoulder, the bleeding on her thigh was at the level that couldn’t be left alone. Most likely an important artery was grazed there.

「As I thought, I’m no good in something like this. Just what do I need to do to get a headshot I wonder?」

Footsteps rang while Down advanced on the upper passage of the second floor. He stopped in the middle and aimed his gun while staring at the defeated berserker monkeys. There weren’t any particularly strong feelings that could be felt from his words and voice, whether from shooting a person or aiming a gun at Emily. Emily bit her lip strongly from that.

But, right now wasn’t the time to complain. Emily took out a container that looked like an experiment vial from her breast pocket. She opened the lid and made Vanessa drink half of it while she poured the remaining bit by bit on the wounds.

Immediately the blood that was flowing out like a river was clearly lessening. Vanessa’s pained breathing was also recovering its regularity slightly.

「……My god. Emily. Emily, by any chance, have you improved『Berserk』in this short amount of time? Or is that a product of an idea that you didn’t tell anyone, even me? As expected, you are really outrageous.」

Down’s eyes were shining ominously at the unknown medicine that was displaying a recovery ability that was impossible for existing medicine.

However, his deduction was completely off the mark.

What Emily used was healing medicine from another world that Kousuke handed to her in preparation for the worst case scenario. As expected, its effect couldn’t give a complete recovery until the bullets remaining inside the body were taken out, but it was able to at least stop the bleeding completely, soften the pain, and heal to a certain degree.

Vanessa didn’t look like she could move properly, but even so, she conveyed that she was okay with her gaze. Emily sighed in relief.

And then, her gaze struck at Down who was looking down at them from the second floor. It was a calm gaze; however, a rage that couldn’t be hidden was dwelling there.

「Teacher. You shot at me there. Without any hesitation.」

「……That’s right. However, I want you to not misunderstand. I wasn’t trying to kill you there. For a researcher like me to stop that security bureau’s agent, I have no other way than that.」

Down, who knew that he wouldn’t be able to shake off the pursuit from the beginning, implemented a strategy that used berserker monkeys to separate Emily from the troublesome bodyguard, and then he shot at Emily so that Vanessa would cover her without any leeway to dodge or counterattack.

In other words, because he had no confidence that he would be able to snipe Vanessa, he did it in a way so that Vanessa herself would be the one that entered his line of fire.

However, that didn’t change the fact that Emily was in his line of fire. If Vanessa didn’t make it in time, then there was no proof that Emily would be safe.

「But, it’s fine in its own way even if I got shot. Isn’t that right?」

「……I didn’t want you to die though.」

It seemed that it would’ve been fine as long as she was just alive. But even that was suspicious if it was true or not in this situation.

「Teacher, please tell me your motive. I came here in order to listen to that. Surely, it will be meaningless, and nothing that I have lost will come back, but……even so, I want to listen to your true feelings. Teacher-, these five years that you spent with me, with all of us, is there any meaning in it? Do we mean anything to you? The thing that you want to obtain even by betraying all of us, just what in the world is it?」

That question was said calmly, but it sounded as though she was going to vomit blood.

Weren’t they a family? Didn’t he save her when she was cornered? Didn’t he love her? The five years they had spent together since that day, when she was welcomed as family, was all that a lie? Was it something so light that he could easily betray and abandon them?

Down looked down. Her gaze toward Emily was calm, but there was a darkness somewhere in it. He kept aiming his gun without letting his guard down. And then, he answered.

「What I want to obtain, is it? Indeed, it’s a meaningless question. But, if you want to know that, then I’ll tell you. You see, Emily, I merely want to leave behind my name in history.」

「Leave behind your name, in history?」

「That’s right. Some people have their name entered into the textbooks to be read by the future generation; I want to become that kind of human. I want to stay behind in the memory of the people forevermore as a historically great character. Do you understand?」

「For, for something like that……」

「As I thought, you don’t understand.」

Perhaps, there was some kind of reason that left him with no choice but to do something like that. Perhaps there was no other way but for him to abandon them for the sake of something important which he couldn’t let go of no matter what. Those kinds of fleeting thoughts were now splattered with mud and thrown away by Emily.

Emily trembled, perhaps from anger, or perhaps from frustration. Down made a troubled smile.

「Surely you don't understand. The fear of being a human that doesn't matter whether they exist or not, or the emptiness of being forgotten, or the hopelessness to vanish without leaving behind any proof of leaving.」

「Such a thing-, that kind of thing-. There is no way that teacher is a person who doesn't matter whether you exist or not! Just who in the world can forget you!? Me!? My seniors!? Lizzi-nee!? Everyone in the Down classroom, they are going to forget you!? There is no way such a thing will happen! Aren't we who have received your teaching-, the proof of your life!?」

A scream that sounded like pleading reverberated. But, even those words only made Down give a troubled smile; he then shook his head slowly.

「It's not something like that Emily. It's not that kind of a small story. I said it, right? I want to leave my name in history. It's no good with only the personal memory of you all. Something like that cannot erase this terror, this despair, this emptiness inside me.」

「You are……」

Her words, her feelings, they didn't go through. Emily understood that from seeing Down's eyes.

Just what in the world was driving him like this? Emily couldn't understand that.

The person called Reginald Down was born in an average family, graduated from university with an excellent result, entered the path of a researcher, encountered his wife, became a lecturer, his wife died from a sickness, he welcomed distressed students and sent out a lot of excellent disciples to the outside world. Emily heard such a story from Down.

Was there any factor somewhere in that life that drove him to madness?

"You cannot understand? I guess that's how it is for you. Even if other people can understand, Emily, you surely cannot understand it."

"Why, do you say that?"

"Because, you are a genius."

"Eh?"

Emily Grant was a genius. That was why it was impossible for her to understand Reginald Down for eternity.

Emily was dumbfounded after hearing that statement from Down. She felt as though her whole self was denied. Emily who was lonely because she was a genius, the one who taught her that such a thing was irrelevant was none other than Down. But now he discarded Emily because she was a genius.

"You won't understand the feeling of a mediocre person who saw off the back of a genius. That what someone can achieve is decided by the ability that person is provided with from the start."

"But, but teacher, you are an excellent educator even throughout the university, even the other professors respected teacher——"

That’s because I’m a mediocre person. Because I’m mediocre, I understand just what it is that someone doesn’t understand. I understand what needs to be done so that they can understand. I have kept searching, that’s why I understand what other people search for. I understand what makes anyone happy, and what I need to do to push the back of others. That’s because all of those were also paths that I myself had gone through. That’s all.

Down sighed deeply and looked at somewhere far away with empty eyes while continuing his words that sounded like he was talking to himself.

No matter how many efforts I piled up, the geniuses are clearing over all those efforts easily. When I thought of one idea, they will already create a hundred ideas and produce results. Just how much emptiness I felt each time that happened, is surely something that they don’t understand.

Surely what was reflected inside his eyes, was the figure of his students who were already graduated and had been recognized in society.

Emily didn’t understand. Every time teacher saw the seniors that came out on television shows or in magazines; he would make a proud expression. He would be happy as though it was about himself. Was all of those just acting?

Was he actually boiling with emotions of hatred and jealousy, that he should be the one that got praised, that he should be the one that was granted with glory?

Even so, they would say that I am their teacher and that somehow consoled my heart. Having all of them, including you Emily and everyone in the Down classroom, adoring me as “the educator Reginald Down”, it supported me. It gave me acceptance and a small satisfaction that it’s enough with this.

His affection was the real thing. His feeling of wanting to become other’s strength was true. Even if he couldn’t stand on the front stage, Down was able to maintain his self by doing that. The trust and gratitude of his students somehow diverted Down from his dirty vanity that should be called a deep-rooted delusion.

Then, why?

Isn’t that obvious? That was because Berserk was created.

A hitch leaked out from Emily’s mouth.

Berserk, was?

Yes, Berserk. Emily, you are without a doubt a genius. That is a miraculous drug. It changes humans into something that is not a human, aa, that’s right. It’s a miracle! Just how many applications can be found from it if it’s continued to be researched!? The result is clear! It will be a revolution of the world!

Te, teacher……

Down put one hand on his temple in excitement and laughed loudly. That figure was truly abnormal. The figure of the kind and gentle Down inside Emily’s memory was vanishing.

There is no doubt! This is a great exploit that will leave the name in history! All those results left behind by all my students until now are just like trash in front of Berserk! You will become a historical character! And I am the father of that! I will leave my name as the father of a revolution! Do you understand!? ——No, surely you don’t understand. That’s why in front of this miracle you were able to say bullshit like「This is dangerous so let’s destroy it」-「 pan- With a dry sound, the floor nearby Emily burst open. The excited Down unconsciously shot. Down went ‘hah’ at the bursting sound he made and readjusted his breathing, and then he made a gentle smile with a disgusting easiness.

」-「

「I got flustered at that time. No matter how much I explain to you about the “possibility” of「Berserk」 you won’t change your decision to destroy it. If I tried too hard at persuading you, I’d lose your trust and my standing as “father”. There also wasn’t any leeway timewise. After all, I didn’t know when you would erase the data.」

「That was why, you took it out?」

「That’s right. There is my disciple at the leadership of Gamma Pharmaceutical, and I relied on him. But never in my wildest dream would I have thought that it would be an underworld organization that has this kind of facility though. I thought it was the will of heaven. Finally, the time to be rewarded has come even to this me who continued to only perform services for other people.」

But, it couldn’t go that easily. No matter how much he researched the stolen data and drug, he was unable to create the antidote. The research about「Berserk」’s use as a weapon was producing data and application methods to some degree, but the plan of Kaysis and others to scatter 「Berserk」themselves before selling the antidote was quickly coming to an impasse.

They also could only do extremely simple things with the application too; he was unable at all to create something that would shake the world as a “miraculous drug”.

No matter what, he lacked the decisive something to create those.

Yes, he lacked the existence of Emily Grant who was the creator.

「The first incident, those police officers, and then agent Warren too, they were all people under Kaysis. Isn’t that, right? Everything was all to corner me and direct me so that I could only rely on teacher. In order to make me research and develop『Berserk』by my own will.」

「Exactly. It was going well until the middle, but……. Really, they were all doing needless things. Whether it’s the security bureau, or Rod and Dennis too.」

pakit- There was the sound of something snapping. It came from inside Emily’s chest. It was the sound of something important, something really important snapping and then breaking.

Scenes were resurrected in her mind. The nightmare that she absolutely couldn’t forget.

——Milo-oniichan died. He was run over by a berserker, as though he got hit by a truck.

——Sam-oniichan died. He was reduced into a berserker in the end.

——Jessica-oneechan died. Her neck was snapped by the gentle Sam-oniichan.

——Dennis-oniichan died. In order to avoid being transformed into a berserker, he shot his own head.

——Rod-oniichan died. While he was apologizing ‘sorry”.

And then,

——Hendricks-oniichan died. In order to protect Emily and everyone else.

She thought of him as her real older brother. He was slow in some areas, but he was sincere and gentle; a person that was like a pleasant breeze. There wasn’t anyone that could ease the heart by being at their side like him.

——Lizzie-nee died. In order to hide Emily. She made herself as the bait.

She was someone Emily idolized. Sometimes she wasn’t honest, but there wasn’t any other woman that was as gentle and lovely as her. She saw a dream. The scene of Hendricks and Lizzie who she liked very much getting wedded together, smiling with happiness.

She believed.

That everyone in the Down classroom would someday be able to witness such a lovely sight.

All of those——

□So it was I, that pulled the trigger.□

□Hm?□

Emily averted her gaze from Down who tilted his head and slowly stood up. Vanessa called at Emily with a small voice that was still pained, but Emily only smiled fleetingly and averted her eyes from her.

"Do, Doctor, Grant-. You, cannot. That's-"

"I'm sorry, Vanessa."

Vanessa couldn't hope for a complete recovery with bullets still remaining inside her body. Her internal organs that received four shots, although the bleeding could be stopped, her broken bones still weren't healed. Therefore, it was the best she could do to reach out her hand that was trembling from enduring the intense pain. Yet she failed to grasp Emily's hand.

"Can you not move, Emily?"

Down aimed the gun muzzle at the standing up Emily once more.

"If possible, I don't want to kill you. Even what happened with Hendricks and the others was just an unfortunate accident, it wasn't something that I wished for. That's why, you obediently——"

"I, pulled your trigger."

Emily's mutters cut off Down's words. Her figure with her head hanging down looked really sorrowful. Her worn-out lab coat seemed to be the representation of her heart.

Down seemed like he didn't understand the meaning of Emily's words and tilted his head once more. Emily continued her heavy and dark words toward him.

"You, weren't simply a virtuous person. Inside your heart, there was a madness nesting there all this time. A conceit that is far, far stronger than other people. A heart that is wishing for praise, was gnawing inside you.」

「……」

「Everyone suppressed those down. The many seniors, everyone in the Down classroom, your family. Despite so, I broke that. The trigger that you wanted to pull but you managed to hold back from, I pulled it――I awakened, the Berserk that was inside of you right from the beginning.」

「So, there was a Berserk in me right from the start. Now you really said it, Emily.」

It was unclear just how the expression of Emily who raised her face slowly should be described as. She looked troubled, she looked as though she would cry anytime now, and she looked like she was resolved about something――it was a strangely transparent expression.

「I was the one that pulled the trigger that awakened the monster, that's why――that's why, I will be the one that pulls the trigger too for ending it.」

「……You will, shoot me?」

There was a small handgun in the hand that Emily lifted. It was Vanessa's spare gun. It seemed that Emily pulled it out when she was standing up. From behind her, Vanessa yelled 「You must not, Doctor Grant!」with a hoarse voice.

「Emily. You will shoot me, who you saw as a father? This me who rescued you?」

「Yes. I'll shoot. I, will end you.」

「For revenge?」

「No. It’s for your own sake. And then, for my sake. Surely.」

「……I see.」

The two who once called each other as father and daughter were now aiming a gun at each other.

There wasn’t any undulation of great emotion that could be seen from their crossing gazes. But, surely they were holding back emotions that couldn’t be expressed with words like an explosive that was on the verge of exploding. Perhaps it wasn’t just Emily who was like that, but Down too.

「Then it can’t be helped. Sayonara, Emily.」

「Yes, sayonara. Teacher.」

The triggers were pulled. Dry bursting sounds thundered.

At the same time, a shadow sprang out in the air. kin- A metallic sound resounded.

The bullet was bisected into two. The split up bullet greatly diverted from the target and pierced the wall behind.

「Ko, Kousuke?」

A shadow landed down lightly. That was without a doubt, the catching up Kousuke.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

It will finish with just about two more chapters.

It will make me happy if you readers can enjoy it until the end.

Arifureta Chapter 221

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Kaclick, Like That

AN: This is the second posting for today.

I also posted a chapter before this, so for those of you who didn’t read the previous chapter yet, please pay attention.

Part 1

With a short sword in hand, Kousuke stood between Emily and Down.

Kousuke was staring at Emily from the front.

Yes, Kousuke split apart the fired bullet in midair, in order to protect Down behind him. What he cut was Emily’s bullet.

“Ko, Kousuke……why-”

Emily questioned with the gun still raised in her trembling hand.

Kousuke slowly walked forward without any words; he didn’t even glance at Down behind him. And then, when he arrived right in front of Emily who was shaking her head left and right, he put his hand softly on the gun barrel and gently lowered it down.

“Stop it, Emily. This is not your role.”

A calm voice and a composed gaze enveloped Emily.

But, Kousuke felt a slight resistance at his hand that was put on the gun barrel. Emily was rejecting it. He could see a tragic resolve in the eyes of Emily who was shaking her head left and right.

Kousuke didn’t know about the words exchanged between Emily and Down.

Even so, he was able to guess. Just what kind of feeling caused Emily to pull the trigger. Just what kind of feeling caused her to direct killing intent at the man who she thought of as a teacher and also a substitute father.

Surely, she felt hatred. Surely, she also felt resentment. But, her action didn’t come only from being captured by those kinds of negative emotions and madness.

Inside her eyes, there was a sense of purpose. Or possibly, a sense of duty. And then a sense of responsibility.

Kousuke smiled wryly in his heart, thinking that it was just like Emily. Even so, his hand didn’t let go of Emily’s gun that refused to be lowered.

「Kousuke-, this is something that I started, that’s why-. That’s why-」

「Is that really so? I don’t think so though. Well, even so, if that’s what Emily yourself thinks, then I won’t really deny it. However, the end of this path is no good. It’s not a destination where Emily should go.」

He wouldn’t let her go down the path of a murderer. Kousuke responded with a feeling that was as equally strong as the feeling Emily held.

Even so, Emily was about to object further, but Kousuke added his words.

「Because, that’s something that runs counter to the wish of Emily’s big brothers and sisters, right?」

「-」

Yes, no one was demanding this kind of conclusion from Emily. Even though Kousuke had never met them, even though he had never exchanged words with them, just from hearing Emily’s story it was something obvious to Kousuke.

There was no way those who risked their lives to protect their important little sister would wish for this.

「Emily’s dream is to save those who are suffering from sickness, right?」

She wished to heal her grandmother. Emily’s steps that were starting from such a wish, surely it was them who were rooting for it more than anyone.

「They should believe, more than anyone. Emily’s hand, it isn’t something to hurt others. It’s something to heal, to save others.」

That was why not a single one of them blamed Emily for creating the drug of madness. They didn’t escape by saying that it was unrelated to them. They understood that it was an outrageous situation, yet they didn’t leave Emily’s side by any means.

That was why.

「My bad, but I’m not going to allow this, yeah? I absolutely won’t allow only this. No matter how strong Emily’s will is, I’ll stop you with my all. Endo Kousuke, the right-hand man of the demon king and also your protector, this me will stop you with my whole body and soul. Emily Grant has reached this far by doing her best to save others. Something like the closing of a curtain by such a girl murdering someone who was family, I won’t let that happen.」

「Kou, suke……」

Strength left Emily’s hand. gatan A sound rang. The handgun that slipped unhindered from Emily’s hand fell to the floor.

Surely, there wasn’t any way to express the overflowing emotion inside her. All the words that existed in this world were too inadequate for that. She wondered, just how many times this body, this heart had been protected. When she needed it, help would be given to her without fail, by Emily Grant’s hero.

Softly, Emily’s head leaned on Kousuke’s chest. drop, drop The falling tears on the floor were surely the result of her emotions that couldn’t be spoken aloud appearing in a definite shape.

Kousuke gently put his hand on Emily’s head as she was burying her face on his chest while trembling. He exchanged glances with Vanessa who was relieved while still lying down on the floor and nodded to each other.

「……So even that berserker cannot stop you. I’m keenly feeling the irrationality of your existence thoroughly.」

Down said that with an astonished expression. He wasn’t running away or shooting while Kousuke and Emily were talking. Kousuke turned a suspicious gaze at Down who was like that.

「You aren’t running away?」

「Will you let me run away?」

Down replied so while smiling bitterly. There wasn’t any hostility, or fluster and desperation that were particular for a cornered person that could be seen from him. Kousuke’s gaze narrowed in wonder of what this person was thinking.

And what bothered him above all, was the reason why Down didn’t shoot.

At that time, Kousuke only cut Emily’s bullet. He used gravity magic to suck in the bullet toward his blade and slashed the bullet that shifted slightly. Naturally, he planned to use his kunai to repel the bullet that he thought would approach from behind him but……

In the first place, Down didn’t pull his trigger at that time. Down had no intention of killing Emily.

「Just what in the world you are planning?」

「Of course, I’m thinking about myself. I have been thinking only about myself since I stole『Berserk』.」

Kousuke thought that perhaps, by some chance Down actually hesitated to shoot because of his affection toward Emily, but it seemed that wasn’t it. Down’s calm and composed gaze and voice seemed even eerier.

「……I don’t know what you are thinking, but for now, surrender.」

「Oho, you won’t kill me?」

「I just don’t want Emily to lose another person close to her. ……Even if that person is only “formerly” close to her, or even if that person is an unforgivable traitor.」

If Kousuke had to say more, he also had the calculation of wanting to hand over the case’s ringleader to Chief Magdanese. Kousuke thought that it would also be necessary for Emily’s life from here on that there was the result of “the culprit was captured” regarding the『Berserk Case』that had shaken the world.

Kousuke’s words caused Emily to raise her face from his chest, and she looked at Down. Her gaze was certainly wishing not for Down’s death, but for him to be judged by the administration of justice.

Down listened to Kousuke’s words, and then he saw Emily’s gaze before he sighed deeply.

「Haa, really, nothing has gone well at all. Perhaps this is also because I’m mediocre.」

Down took one, two steps back. Kousuke leapt out without any question. He would hold him down and rob him of his consciousness. With the danger of『Berserk』, it was a great concern even to just speak to him.

When Kousuke stepped on the second floor’s passage, it was at the same time as when Down fell into the water reservoir behind him. Emily reflexively yelled『Teacher-』.

Kousuke jumped in to overtake Down and caught him in midair. But, when he tried to hover in midair, his body lurched forward with a jerk. Kousuke launched a steel string from his sleeve in a panic to seize the handrail of the passage, and he dangled down.

Kousuke’s movement was lacking in luster. Originally, he should’ve been able to make Down unconscious before he could jump down, but he was unable to do that because of the effect of the previous battle.

The rapid Limit Break by using Last Zell. Naturally, he was unable to escape from the side effect. Currently, Kousuke was in the middle of a remarkable weakening. He was unable to create a clone, and his physical abilities decreased by sixty percent. He was being assaulted by fatigue that made him want to just fall asleep right now. Honestly, he already felt his consciousness getting farther away when he used gravity magic to suck in the bullet.

「You plan to suicide huh!」

「That's right. Though actually, I wanted Emily to kill me. After all, I understand that I won't be able to escape. If that's not the case, do you think I would talk that long even after understanding that a monster like you is here?」

Down spoke about his own end really easily while dangling in midair after being seized by Kousuke.

「Although, I didn't think that that berserker would be defeated this quickly though.」

「Teacher-, what are you doing!? Didn't you want to leave your name in history!?」

Emily's words caused Down to answer with a mysterious expression that was a mixture of resignation and madness.

「That's right. I'll leave my name in history. If I cannot escape anymore, then I'll leave my name as the tragic father who tried to stop the girl that scattered disaster in this world!」

With those words, Kousuke finally guessed the thinking of what Down was trying to do. And then, he said「This stupid bastard-」while trying to throw Down on the floor.

But, before he could,

「If even that cannot come true then-! Aa, fine then. I will become that very disaster itself! I'll leave my name in history not with a great achievement, but with a great sin!」

Saying that he exploded the moment Kousuke threw him.

doon- The moment that muffled sound rang, Down’s stomach exploded. Naturally, his blood and flesh scattered. Emily became unable to move due to the abnormal situation that was too gruesome.

Kousuke desperately maintained his creaking body and his distant consciousness. He activated gravity magic while leaping toward Emily right away.

Even gravity magic that was unable to completely display its effect was able to at least knock off the approaching blood and flesh.

But, for the current Kousuke that was his limit. Down changed his route using the impact and fell into the water reservoir along with his scattered blood and flesh.

A grand spray of water rose to create a fierce ripple in the water reservoir. At the same time, the clear and transparent water was dyed red as though ink was spilled into it.

「……」

「Damn it-, he got us-」

Emily was dumbfounded without any words while staring at the water reservoir that was dyed red while Kousuke laid bare his irritation.

「Kousuke-san-, this is!」

The lying down Vanessa threw a radio at Kousuke. Kousuke guessed what she meant and received the radio before speaking into it.

「Bernard! Can you hear me!?」

「Mu, Aby. What's the matter?」

「Berserk spilled into the waterway! The water gate is open, and it's flowing somewhere! Anywhere is fine, just stop the flow before it can go through the water supply facility!」

「-. Wait a second! ——Control room-. Seal all the waterways!」

Bernard who received the contact gave instructions to his subordinates that suppressed the control room.

Just as Kousuke said, Down didn't just blow himself up. "Scattering disaster"——just as those words meant, he wasn't trying to transform himself into a berserker, but he exploded himself to scatter the「Berserk」that was stored inside his stomach and spilled it into the waterway.

Most likely, this aberrant plan was hatched because of the irregularity that was Kousuke. This was Down's final attack from thinking of the possibility that anything he did would be prevented.

No matter what place it was, no matter what reason it was for, a person who staked their life on the line was terrifying. Kousuke, who got outwitted, painfully realized that once more while he grit his teeth.

Then, it was at that time that a voice that sounded like a shriek rang from the radio.

「Captain-, the control doesn't work! Both the clean water facility and the water supply facility, all of them won't move from the opened gate state! The control is completely on the fritz!」

「What did you say-. What's the meaning of this!?」

「Those guys, perhaps they are inserting a virus into the computer-. If I have time, then I think it’s possible to recover the control though.」

「How long that will take?」

「……Ten minutes. No, if I have just eight minutes, I’ll somehow……」

「Tsk, get on it right away.」

「Yes Sir-」

Silence ruled over the place for a while. At this rate, the irrigation that was polluted by「Berserk」would flow into the city. Even before that, it would pass through several towns. If that happened, a wave of berserkers would be spreading as though eroding the country from the edge.

Most likely, it wouldn’t take five minutes until the polluted water passed through the water supply facility. The time limit until the overwhelming tragedy, was just five minutes.

「Kousuke……」

「Kousuke-san……」

Emily, who was staring at the water reservoir in a daze, and Vanessa, who had a grim expression, were calling Kousuke.

Kousuke thought of something with a grim expression, then he suddenly smiled bitterly, and strength left his shoulders. And then, he ran his gaze toward Emily and Vanessa while taking the radio into his hand.

「Bernard. I’ll do something about it. Well, it will become flashy, so don’t let anyone get near the water supply facility.

! Aby. Got it. I’ll leave it to you-. Please, save this country!

Bernard’s trust and slight entreaty reached Kousuke through his voice from the radio.

The same thing was also dwelling inside the gaze of Vanessa and Emily.

Kousuke kept smiling bitterly while opening his mouth to those two.

Actually, I didn’t want to rely on him. At the very end, it became a pathetic story like this but……I’ll ask a bit, for help from his majesty the demon king.

Emily and Vanessa looked puzzled. Kousuke’s bitter smile deepened at that.

Part 2

Kousuke and the others came out to the rooftop of the clean water facility while lending a shoulder to Vanessa.

There was a water supply facility downstream, and even further downstream they could see a town.

「Kousuke, what are you going to do?」

Kousuke said「I'll do this」to Emily's question and took out his smartphone. And then, he called. After a few call tones, there was the sullen voice of the speaker on the other side coming out from the phone.

「……What is it, Endo――」

「Nagumo! My bad but there is no time! Don't ask anything and blow up the water supply that is near my position!」

「……」

The call partner was his majesty the demon king who was currently spending an enjoyable time making dinner with his beloved daughter. His majesty the demon king was wearing the frilly pink apron that was created by Myuu for him, spending an enjoyable, enjoyable time while Yue and the others were holding down their laughter!

Normally, if someone was suddenly phoned, and then requested to destroy a public facility without even getting told the reason, that person would either doubt the sanity of the other party, or they would cut off the phone without delay thinking that it was a joke before returning back to the happy family time.

But, the other party here wasn’t normal. Rather, this person was the synonym of abnormal irrationality.

Therefore,

「’Kay. Don’t move from where you are.」

「-. I’m in your debt, Nagumo!」

A presence of a wry smile was transmitted from the other side of the phone.

At the same time,

「E, err, Kousuke? Who are you talking to? Or rather, what are you doing? Or rather, there are various things I want to ask but, anyway, can I ask? ――What is, that?」

「Kousuke-san……I cannot believe it but……」

Emily was looking up to the sky with a completely cramping expression while asking Kousuke as Vanessa was also similarly staring at a spot in the sky with a flustered expression that was rarely seen from her.

Kousuke shrugged his shoulders at them who were like that and said.

「There won’t be any airborne infections from『Berserk』. Even if it is in a liquid state, it will become invalid if it is vaporized. Then, I’ll blow it up all together with an overwhelming heat. ――Well, that kind of thing can only be done by the demon king though.」

It was right after he said that.

Far high in the sky, a dot of light was starting to shine brilliantly as though a second sun was born. It could be seen clearly even through the clouds. It then looked as though it swelled up instantly before suddenly a pillar of light descended from the sky.

The cloudy sky was blown away, an enormous hole was created in the sea of clouds in the sky, and the atmosphere was burned down. That pillar which pierced the water supply facility along with a thunderous roar instantly destroyed the facility with a brilliant light, melted the ground, and created an outrageous crater in the blink of an eye.

The light flooded the world.

The world that was gloomy from the cloudy sky was being dyed pure white. The heat wave and shockwave were spreading like a ripple and turned the area surrounding the facility into a circular-shaped piece of empty land.

——Sunlight convergence laser “Burst Hyperion”

The demon king detected the location of the water supply facility using the “Compass of Crossing Guidance” with Kousuke as the reference point, and then he teleported the “Burst Hyperion” to the satellite orbit above the facility using a space substitution artifact.

Next, the demon king pushed the button kaclick, like that. Just with that the laser cannon that converged sunlight annihilated anything and everything.

It was truly heaven’s judgment. The manifestation of myth.

Though the person who pulled the trigger was currently wearing a frilly pink apron at home.

「……」

「……」

The faces of Emily and Vanessa turned into something that really couldn’t be shown to other people. Their eyes opened wide with their mouths gaped open unmoving. Drool was trickling from the corner of their mouths, and not a single word leaked out.

While they were in the middle of being like that, the water supply facility was eradicated entirely. Next, the light pillar that changed even the topography was getting thinner bit by bit, and before long it vanished as though melting into the air.

Color returned to the world, and the sound of a waterfall flowing into the deep crater resounded.

『How is it, Endo? Is it okay like that?』

『Yeah, thanks, Nagumo. Sorry that I suddenly made an outrageous request.』

『I understand that you are trying to not rely on me. And now someone like you came to rely on me without even saying the reason. You must have a reason that is that important, right? Well, I’ll trust you on that. That’s why I don’t need your apology.』

『Hahah. As I thought, the demon king is just too doting on his relatives yeah. That’s why I cannot rely on you too much.』

Kousuke scratched his cheek awkwardly while making a wry smile. And then, he reported that he meant to return to Japan in a few days, and he would speak about the circumstances when he went back and cut off the phone.

Kousuke let out a long exhale.

Putting aside if it was related to a request from Hajime, Kousuke had promised to himself that he wouldn’t rely on Hajime for anything in a matter that he poked his nose into by his own collision. But now he relied on him in the end. His shoulders dropped in dejection while he patted down his chest in relief that they had avoided a great disaster (excluding the crater).

And then, his gaze slowly turned toward Emily and Vanessa who was still petrified wordlessly.

「Aa, Emily, Vanessa――」

「Hyuuwa!?」

「Afuh」

The moment he called to them, Emily jumped in surprise while raising her voice as though she was liberated from a binding curse before she became unable to stand up from shock and fell down. At the same time, Vanessa who was borrowing Emily’s shoulder also fell down, and her butt impacted the ground.

Kousuke thought that their reaction was understandable while he was about to lend a hand at the fallen two――and he stiffened.

choro choro choro~

Slipping through the sound of the waterfall, there was the sound of water from right nearby.

The source was, of course, the Emily-chan who kept lying down on her butt while shivering all over. It seemed that her bladder loosened up completely from witnessing the situation that surpassed human knowledge. ‘Come to think of it, she gulped down a lot of coffee before riding the helicopter because she was nervous huuh’, Kousuke recalled.

「……Kousuke-san. It feels like I’m going to leak out too. Is it fine?」

「There is no way it’s fine.」

Vanessa who noticed Emily’s disgraceful behavior and made a wry smile while talking to Kousuke. There Emily finally seemed to recover her sanity. Naturally, she also noticed her current situation――

「HiiIIIIH. SToOOOOOP-. Or rather, DON’T LoOOOOOK-, DON’T LOOK AT THIS KIND OF ME, KOUSUKEEEE-」

Emily was on the verge of tears while tightening her bladder. She was desperately hiding within her lab coat while her hands held her head down and she turned small.

While Emily’s shriek was echoing,

「Oi, Aby! What was that just now!? Something came out there you know!? From the sky! Something came out!」

This time Bernard’s voice was transmitted from the radio. It seemed that Bernard and others also witnessed the light of “Burst Hyperion”.

「DON’T LOOOOOK-! PLEASE, STOPPPPPP!」

「Oi, Aby! Respond! Explanation please!」

「Kousuke-san, instead of “pi—”, the bleeding is not stopping. My wounds seemed to open because of falling just now. Please help.」

Emily who screamed while turning small. Bernard who yelled together with his subordinates from the radio asking for an explanation. Vanessa who was on the verge of death.

Kousuke sighed again in a different kind of manner this time.

「Now then, what to do about the clean-up I wonder……」

He looked up at the sky during this scene that was chaotic even when everything was over.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Really, thank you very much for following this extra compilation for so long.

In the next chapter, the epilogue will be the end for this extra compilation.

Those people are also planned to come out you know~

I will talk about the detail of my plan from here on or the epilogue’s afterword on my activity report.

The next update, surely perhaps, can be finished by 6 P.M. Saturday, I think.

Arifureta Chapter 222

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Epilogue First Part

AN: Even though this is the epilogue, there is a first and second part……

I’m sorry. I couldn’t finish it.

But, I’ll upload the second part within this day!

TN: The segment above was a note from the author, not from the translator. Sorry, but please wait for two or three more days for the next chapter.

Part 1

The sound of a deep sigh leaked out in a room that boasted of its excellent soundproofing. The wooden desk and leather chair that was overflowing with a high-class aura were originally there to add to the dignity of the owner, but right now, the owner of the sigh was enveloped in a tired atmosphere that made such a thing be meaningless.

「Aa~, chief? Are you okay?」

The room owner――the state security bureau's chief Sharon Magdanese was addressed by Allen while he was smiling wryly.

Chief Magdanese was putting both her elbows on the desk with both her hands joined together supporting the forehead of her hung down head. She lifted her face slightly and replied with a slightly exasperated expression.

「Isn't that my line instead? Allen, are you really okay?」

「Ahaha, I'm really fine. I more or less received "healing", so my health is not as bad as my appearance.」

「……A "healing" that cured both arms that had the bones pulverized in less than a day until they became usable again, is it? Haa~~~」

She once more sighed not just deeply, but dee~ply. Allen's wry smile deepened in proportion to that.

Chief Magdanese felt Allen’s gaze that seemed to say that he understood her feelings while her face turned toward the large display hanging on the wall with an expression that didn’t even try to hide her sullenness.

What that display projected was the manifestation of the mystic. An unimaginably abnormal spectacle.

She wondered just how wonderful it would be if the image was just a scene that was cut from a movie.

「The devilish hand of the demon king that is fired from the sky……I wonder, since when did this world get eroded by fantasy?」

「Oh maaan, chief. That’s a really poetic expression there. It’s just like Aby-san――buberah!?」

Chief Magdanese’s paperweight bullet burst out. Allen pleaded「I’m an injured person! An injured person! Be gentler to me, please!」with teary eyes.

Chief Magdanese easily ignored that as her eyes fell toward the display on her hand. She read the analysis result that was written there with a powerless voice.

「A satellite that is able to fire a laser of converged sunlight……the point of it, that it was just a simple thing that merely focused heat. It’s more or less theoretically possible to be constructed using the present-day science, it said.」

「However, it’s impossible to make it the size of the silhouette that we captured for an instant. If we try to make it, then the result will be on a really big scale. What’s more, this one was able to not only blast away a whole facility, but its power was even able to change the topography. Considering it, such a thing is――」

「It’s impossible for such a thing to not be noticed by our nation……no, by all the nations on earth when it was in the satellite orbit. In addition, for it to be able to fly to the position for a pinpoint sniping at that timing, that is even more impossible.」

gii The high-class chair raised an unpleasant sound. That must be because it was pressed with a weight from an unnatural stance aided by the body’s stirring. Chief Magdanese noticed how she had tensed unconsciously and took a breath.

It wasn’t unreasonable. The image of the light in the sky was captured by the aircraft monitoring the operation area. It was launched suddenly from the satellite orbit by an orbital weapon that appeared without any advance notice, and as soon as it blew up the surface, it then abruptly vanished without any trace.

If that was the joker of the unfathomable power that was possessed by Abyssgate, then Chief Magdanese would instead feel her stomachache softened because she could believe that she had confirmed the bottom of his strength.

But, that was a weapon. Certainly, it was overflowing with mystical aspects like how it was ignoring technological problems or how elusive it was. But, even so, that thing was without a doubt a weapon that was created by human hands.

It wasn’t something unfathomable and unique that could be recognized to be owned just by a person, but a weapon that could be used by anyone if they wanted to.

The cold reality that was contained within that fact, even while it possessed fantasy aspects in it, was causing Chief Magdanese's blood to run cold. She felt a blunt terror that was far closer to herself more than when she witnessed the mystery of Lord Abyssgate.

「……His majesty the demon king is it. I knew that around him there must be people with the same power assembling but……」

「To think that Aby-san is really just someone in an underling position. Hahah, there is nothing to do but laugh here. Even though I cannot see the future where we will be able to stand a chance against even just him alone, there is still the demon king-sama waiting behind him who can go kaboom just with a phone call. What the hell.」

「If we believe his talk as it is, the best he can do is just scratch the demon king even when fighting with his whole body and soul on the line. Furthermore, he also said that it's unclear whether he can even match the wives or not.」

「Chief. The instant I saw that light in the sky, I understood just why the person who exterminates a demon king in a tale is called as a hero. Indeed, that person must be a hero. For that person to be able to challenge something like that」

'Certainly, that's so', Chief Magdanese nodded deeply. At the very least, she who shouldered a part of the national defense really couldn't fan up any thoughts of trying to stand against that.

Chief Magdanese sighed deeply for who knew how many times already while she suddenly took out a USB memory from her breast pocket. She toyed with that using her fingers while leaning on her elbow.

「What's the matter, chief?」

「……No, nothing really. It's just, I think that perhaps this thing is a Pandora's box.」

「Aah. Certainly, that's a perfectly fitting phrase. By the way, is Aby's faction the calamity? Or the hope?」

Chief Magdanese floated a vague smile as her answer to Allen's question. Even Allen didn't understand what she really meant.

However, the one thing that was definite was what was inside of that USB memory――the research data of 「Berserk」, and if they tried to use that for evil, then a calamity would descend upon them without a doubt. That didn't merely refer to the fact that berserkers would be created once again, but in the meaning that they would enrage the bearer of mysteries by doing that and turn them into enemies.

「Oh man~. Even so, if it's known by Aby-san that the security bureau is hiding「Berserk」, it would absolutely be bad news, wouldn't it? All the data and drugs from every facility were completely destroyed, and in some places, they were destroyed along with the facility……That is a bomb in a sense you know? I think it's better to destroy it right away though……」

Allen didn't even hide his disgusted expression and said such a thing to Chief Magdanese who was still toying with the USB memory with her fingertips.

After that infiltration into the clean water facility, Kousuke, who was greatly exhausted, took a rest at a facility the security bureau prepared, but……after resting for half-day, he temporarily disappeared, along with Emily and Vanessa.

Without permission, they borrowed the pilot and helicopter that were with them during the mission.

The security bureau fell into an uproar from that, but because they guessed the reason that Kousuke vanished, they waited until they were contacted.

As a result, it became an uproar with how all the『Berserk』that was recovered from the facilities that were stormed by other special forces (including the army's special forces) were wholly destroyed by someone unknown. Like that, it became clear what Kousuke and co were doing.

The feat of completely destroying the data and drugs by easily breaking through the strict security of the army caused the members of the security bureau to make a dry laugh altogether.

After that, they started taking independent actions for a while before there was a contact that came through Vanessa in order to confirm whether the『Berserk』that was recovered by the army had really been destroyed with nothing left. Chief Magdanese offered her full cooperation and exchanged various information with Vanessa.

If it was known that Chief Magdanese was in fact shrewdly collecting the research data of『Berserk』that remained from the university's research building……

Allen couldn't stop his trembling.

Chief Magdanese made an exasperated expression at such Allen.

『Please don't say anything thoughtless. I'm not hiding this or anything.』

「Eh? But, the fact is chief is carrying that right now though.」

「Look here, after Paradis and Doctor Grant escaped from the research building, just who do you think cleaned up there?」

「That's of course, us the security bureau……there was also the matter about Hughes-san and others there.」

「Yes, that's right. And then, Doctor Grant and Vanessa who barely escaped from the research building with their life didn't have the time to bring the research data with them. They, and also Abyssgate, understand that.」

In other words, it was clear as day that the security bureau who went there for cleanup would recover the extremely dangerous drug and data.

Although, even Allen understood that much. In short, Allen was thinking that exactly because everyone understood that, Kousuke and co should be thinking that the「Berserk」possessed by the security bureau was destroyed already. But contrary to that they still possessed the data. Wouldn't that be bad for them, he wondered.

Chief Magdanese who guessed Allen's unexpressed fear shook her head and answered.

「There is no way that person will swallow what I say as it is. I destroyed the data, ok thanks, you think it will be like that?」

「That, well……. Then, chief will destroy it. But, then why are you still carrying it like that?」

「For caution's sake, I want to destroy it in front of his eyes, so that he won't be able to just vanish compared to if I destroy it at a distant place from him.」

From Chief Magdanese’s viewpoint, she was thinking that Kousuke might just return home to his country without even showing his figure anymore in front of them. If it was with his profoundly mysterious power, then doing something like sneaking into the security bureau without anyone noticing and destroying the data before disappearing should be a piece of cake.

But, Chief Magdanese wanted to talk with Kousuke eye-to-eye no matter what. It would be unbearable if she let Kousuke go home when their relationship with Kousuke, who was able to do that much, and the demon king faction behind him was still vague like now. Chief Magdanese who had the self-awareness that she was already really old didn’t want to have her stomachache get worse than this.

And so, even if with a roundabout meaning, a conversation was indispensable. The fact that she hadn’t destroyed the USB memory stick yet and walked around carrying it was also a move for that, she wanted to destroy it in front of Kousuke’s eyes to help in building a relationship of trust between them.

Surely, perhaps, there wouldn’t be that much of an effect that could be expected from doing that, but it was Chief Magdanese’s principle to not make light of even the small moves.

Allen nodded with a look of ‘I see’. Chief Magdanese sent a sidelong glance at Allen with her fingertips holding the USB memory stick before she suddenly threw her gaze to a space of empty air and opened her mouth.

「That’s how it is, so if you want to destroy it then do as you please, Abyssgate.」

「Eh? Chief?」

pachin- The chief put the USB memory stick on the desk with a sound like a shogi player putting the piece on the board. Allen’s eyes turned into dots. For a moment he thought「Is she finally turn senile?」, but he got a gaze of absolute zero turned to him instantly, so he straightened his posture in panic.

Right after that,

「……How surprising. To think that you are able to feel my presence.」

「Oou!? Aby-san!?」

Allen jumped to his feet reflexively from hearing the voice that resounded from the room’s corner.

When Allen turned his gaze in a fluster, there he saw the figure of Kousuke leaning on the wall with his arms folded. His expression was displaying a clear emotion of admiration.

「A, Aby-san, since when were you there? Or rather, how did you enter……」

「I have been shadowing right behind you all that time you know? I entered this room together with you.」

「I, I didn’t notice at all……」

Kousuke turned his gaze to Chief Magdanese while putting aside Allen who was plainly shocked. His gaze was filled with admiration and a question of since when she noticed him, and also a little bit of happiness mixed there.

Chief Magdanese displayed a wry smile at Kousuke’s gaze while she shook her head.

「I didn’t notice you or anything. However, thinking of the number of operating forces, their affiliation, the base’s location, the information sharing with Paradis, and so on, I thought that you would be coming soon. I’m glad you are really here. If not, then I would be a pitiful person who is talking to empty air there.」

「……As expected from the chief. You completely got me there.」

Kousuke smiled wryly while his back moved from the wall. Surely, his face looked very slightly regretful because his hope of「By any chance did the number of people noticing me increase!?」had crumbled away.

Kousuke walked up to the front of the desk and took the USB memory sticks. And then, he crushed it inside his fist without confirming its content.

「Is this all the data?」

「Yes, that’s right. With this, it means that the data of 「Berserk」only remains inside Doctor Grant’s head.」

「You are sure?」

「You can just make sure, can’t you? I believe you have the method to know with certainty whether the data and drugs of「Berserk」still remain or not in this world if you feel like it. I don’t plan to be an idiot that makes a bluff to that kind of opponent.」

Indeed, if Kousuke hypnotized the authorized people and asked them the information, he would be able to ascertain the truth. Also, Chief Magdanese didn’t know, but if he relied on that person to have him use the “Compass of Crossing Guidance”, then the truth would be ascertained in an instant.

Chief Magdanese seemed to be resolved even if she got hypnotized, so she stared straight at Kousuke. Kousuke who received that gaze shrugged and shook his head.

「I’ll believe your words chief. Besides, I don’t want to do something really cruel to the side that will protect my friend and her family from here on.」

It felt like a threat was mixed into it just for a bit. Chief Magdanese scowled while asking back.

「……You are telling us to protect the Grant family?」

「Even if the chief advocates that『Berserk』is unnecessary to the VIPs, there surely will be those who question the uproar this time. If the Grant family is aimed at and Emily meets misfortune then……yeah? This too is for the sake of the nation’s defense, isn’t it?」

「Because if that happens then what we will face won’t be the people of that side or even the very『Berserk』itself, but the “abyss lord” huh. Indeed, this is the most important matter that concerns the nation’s defense.」

‘If something happens to the Grant family, then it’s not gonna end well’——Chief Magdanese made a slightly tired expression at that veiled warning, but even so, she promised that she would protect the Grant family from the stupid bunches.

Surely, within a few days, there would be pairs of lovers or spouses with a lot of friends moving to the neighborhood of the Grant family. Those people would watch over the Grant family with handguns hidden in their pockets while rousing up themselves with「Whether the lord will rampage or not is hanging on our shoulders!」.

「Well, I'll agree to the matter of protection. However, I have one condition――no, a request.」

「……I don't think that this is a situation where there will be a condition attached normally. Just as I thought, as expected from the chief.」

「It's an honor to receive the praise. It's not like I plan to ask for anything excessive. Just, if you are going to do something in this country, or if by chance someone related to this country is going to do something, I wish you will contact us beforehand.」

This was the promise that Chief Magdanese wanted to extract from Kousuke by talking to him. It was too dangerous to leave him without supervision. But, it was impossible to attach a collar or anything to him. Then at the very least, she wished to know what he would do and where. She wasn't telling him to ask for permission, but at least she wanted him to keep them informed.

「Depending on the situation, surely there will be a time where it will be better for me to be the one that takes care of it. I believe that you are able to take care of most things, but surely it won't be troubling to have a connection to the authorities.」

「Hm~m. Well, as long as that authority doesn't reach out their hand to us. There would be nothing more depressing then having someone move to try to get our information even if just non~chalantly.」

「The consideration of that area would be something we wish for you to trust us with.」

Seeing Kousuke hesitate with a ‘h~m’, Chief Magdanese muttered a few words.

「……The cleanup was really difficult this time.」

「……」

「We got severely criticized by the intelligence bureau, and then the water supply for that area and also the information control……. After this, we have to falsify the written report about the Berserk Case in various things, and surely I will be severely criticized again when I advocate that「Berserk」is unnecessary at the meeting……」

「……」

「I don’t want to say this, but I’m really past my prime now. Recently, it’s become hard to endure my stomachache. Do you know that medicine is not effective anymore? Perhaps this is already time for me to think of retiring. Well, I don’t know whether my successor, whoever he is, will be able to build a connection nicely or not though……」

「……」

「Come to think of it, my arm that got shot really hurts. Even though Allen got healed, I need to normally depend on modern medical care here. As I thought, perhaps I should just retire. The motivation necessary to win the argument against the intelligence bureau at the meeting is just……」

「Got it! I got it already! I’ll contact you properly if I’ve business or something in this country okay! That’s why stop suddenly looking far away with an expression like an old man that has sensed his time of death like that! Feels like your image is crumbling down!」

「Wonderful. Then, leave the protection of the Grant family and the cleanup of the「Berserk」case to us of the security bureau. I will hand over a private line to Abyssgate that connects to the staff under me, so if there is something, please exchange information through it. ――I wish that from here on the security bureau can continue a good relationship with the demon king faction.」

Even though just now she had been pretending to be like an old man that was going to be led away by the death god, Magdanese instantly returned into the face of the chief of the state security bureau clad in a dominating aura and concluded the talk. Inside his heart, Kousuke's cheeks were twitching while thinking「As I thought, I'm no good with this person huh」.

After that, they talked for two, three more minutes. And then hearing Chief Magdanese added a terrifying request like 'if there is a chance, please let me talk with his majesty the demon king no matter what', Kousuke once more felt admiration that this woman was really a big shot before he put his hand on the doorknob.

And then, just before he exited the room, Kousuke suddenly recalled something and turned around.

「Come to think on it, thanks chief-san. I planned to confirm it myself before this, but it helps that you told me.」

「? ……Aa, about her you mean.」

Chief Magdanese tilted her head for a moment thinking just what was Kousuke talking about, but she immediately realized and then surprisingly smiled. Allen was taken aback.

「Thanks is unnecessary. Although it’s a fact that we had no breathing room due to the situation, if only we could confirm it quicker, it would be a relief for that girl’s anxiety.」

「I wonder. There is no use talking about ‘what if’. If she can think of it as a prize for working hard, then the world can be a little kinder to her, that won’t be bad won’t it?」

Perhaps feeling a little embarrassed by his own speech, Kousuke scratched his cheek awkwardly after saying that. Chief Magdanese looked even happier at that while she nodded.

「I don’t have the qualification to answer that ……but if that’s really the case, then certainly, it won’t be bad. I think it’s great that there is a salvation for her even if just one.」

Those words from the great woman of iron and blood that shouldered the country’s protection sounded like her true opinion which she showed in the end. Kousuke also nodded back to her with a calm smile and exited the room.

Allen who saw the chief’s smile was petrified throughout all that until the end.

Part 2

It was at a café located in a place that could confirm the high-rise building of the state security bureau by sight. There was a girl with her blonde hair put in a side-tail——Emily, looking absentminded inside.

Her hand kept holding the cup of steamy coffee latte in front of her. However, she showed no sign of drinking it. She was only staring blankly at the rising steam.

Other than emotions of sadness and pain, her side profile also contained various other things. There were people who were mysteriously charmed with that. In the first place, Emily was a beautiful girl, yet right now she felt like a “woman” rather than a girl of her age. Surely, that was because the experience she had gone through these few days was an unusual experience.

The young men and male employees inside the café kept sending glances at the beautiful girl that was sitting alone in melancholy. That was the proof of the charm Emily was emitting.

Her long and slender legs wrapped in black stockings were crossed. Finally, a young man whose gaze was attracted to that resolved himself and stood up. It appeared that he would call out to Emily.

But, right after the young man took a step forward, his foot stopped still.

That was because Emily suddenly lifted her face. It seemed that was because she noticed the young man’s secret intention. Her reaction looked as though she was called by someone. Yet, he couldn’t hear anything that called the girl’s name other than the sound of car engines.

The young man tilted his head in wonder of what happened, but even so, he was about to step forward again――

「Ah, Kousuke! Over here!」

He saw a flower blooming proudly. The melancholy until just now disappeared like a lie, and in its place was a dazzling flower that was blooming in full. Emily made a full smile and waved her hand, which caused the young man to stop walking once more. However, this time he was purely fascinated.

「……Emily, looks like you have become able to notice me normally huh.」

The one who appeared while saying that was of course Kousuke. The young man too finally noticed after he heard that voice that there was a male that had approached this spot nearby without anyone noticing. The male was Japanese without any particular characteristics that stood out.

For a moment, the young man compared himself with Kousuke and he self-assessed himself that he won, but he instantly withered when he saw the trust and affection that emerged on Emily’s expression. His shoulders dropped in dejection while he returned to his seat with heavy steps. The other customers and male employees were looking at the young man with a complicated expression.

「I guess. Somehow, when Kousuke comes near, the area around my forehead goes tingling.」(TN: Imagine in Gundam when the newtype sense danger or a formidable enemy)

「You are awakened to a strange ability huh. Well, I'm happy though so it's fine.」

Kousuke saying that he was happy made Emily smile even happier instead.

「So, are you finished? Did it go all right?」

「Yeah, everything went well. With this, 『Berserk』doesn't exist anymore in this world. Looks like the security bureau has also worked hard.」

「I see……thank you, Kousuke. Really, saying this is not enough at all but, thank you.」

Emily leaned her forehead on Kousuke's shoulder naturally. Seeing that, several males including the young man just now clicked their tongue. Surely, they wanted to say 'damn show off'.

Kousuke reflexively smiled wryly while hearing those clicking tongues. He then gently tapped on Emily's back while urging her to exit the café.

Kousuke started walking on the street. Emily asked him where they were going.

「H~m, there is a place I want to go for a bit. Can you come with me?」

「Yep, it's fine. But Kousuke's plane schedule is……it's fine because it's in the evening, isn't it?」

Today, Endo was going back to Japan. He had finished reserving a ticket for an evening flight. Naturally, Emily was feeling lonely, but there was no way she could neglect her parents who were piling up mental worry due to the attacks against their daughter, so she was planning to spend her time in her home for a while and couldn’t go with Kousuke.

Although, there would be a clone body staying with her for a while to guard her, and Kousuke also firmly promised to her that this separation wouldn’t be forever, so she wasn’t that sad.

「Which reminds me, what about Vanessa? Midway she said that she has a business, so she went somewhere but, is it about the security bureau’s business?」

「No, it’s another matter. Vanessa is also going to the place we are heading to right now. There is something I want her to check on just in case.」

「Hm~m. You are speaking ambiguously. ……It’s just me that is out of the loop here.」

Emily’s lips pouted a bit sullenly. Kousuke reflexively almost said「How cute」, but the body blow of his heart made him shut his mouth decisively.

「That’s not it though……. Rather, this is about Emily. Well, you will understand when we go there. Depending on the situation, perhaps it will be necessary for me to go on ahead for various measures but……you know, there were things I wanted to take care of first at the security bureau. Just in case.」

「I don’t really get it but……fine then. If that’s what Kousuke and Vanessa think is the best then okay.」

Emily smiled gently. The height of her trust toward the two could be seen from that.

It would take about thirty minutes of walking, so the two didn’t use a taxi or anything and walked there while strolling at the same time.

There was no talking; however, the atmosphere wasn’t awkward by any means. Both of them were walking at a relaxed pace. After a while, Emily leaked out some words in a mutter.

「You see, I’m thinking of teacher even now.」

「Hm?」

Kousuke tilted his head. Emily continued while slightly looking up at the sky.

「He betrayed us, did inhuman things like that, and in the end, he tried to take along a lot of people with him in death……even so, I cannot hate him. Even now, somewhere inside me, I’m thinking of that person as “our teacher”. …… Do you think it’s strange?」

「I wonder. After all, I don’t know what has been accumulated between Emily and Down.」

Emily smiled a bit happier knowing that Kousuke didn’t make any denial.

「Yep, there are a lot of things that we had accumulated. I cannot forget them. Whether when he reached out to me, or how he saved me, or the warm place and important teachings that I received, I cannot forget them.」

「Because, those weren’t a lie, right?」

「……Yes. Those weren’t a lie.」

At that time, the young Emily who was cornered by the environment was saved, it was a fact. The fact that she was given the warmth of a family, and also everything else. The important things residing in Emily’s heart weren’t a lie.

A shadow of melancholy fell on Emily’s expression once more.

「That’s exactly why, I feel it’s scary.」

「……」

Emily kept looking down without showing any sign whether she noticed or not the gaze of Kousuke who was looking at her from the side. She continued talking in mutters.

「Surely, Berserk is inside everyone. Just a little impetus, something that is trifling for other people will become the trigger, awakening it. Surely, it’s easy to occur on a particular field. That’s what I think.」

Everyone had the seed of madness at the bottom of their heart. Kousuke couldn’t deny that. The face of the classmates that didn’t manage to go home together with them passed through Kousuke’s mind. The binding of their hearts slipped off under a unique situation.

Just as Emily said, even in a situation that wasn’t that unique, it was still something that could possibly occur. And then, her remark that meant that the binding of the heart was easier to come off for those who tried to walk through a path to the extreme was likely to be an accurate statement.

「Even now, I’m thinking it. If teacher didn’t meet me, perhaps teacher would be able to live normally as an excellent educator.」

It was a meaningless what-if. Emily also understood that. But, she couldn’t help but think about it. She thought and thought, but even so, she continued to wander the labyrinth of her pondering, of what she actually should do.

It was terrifying. Thinking that perhaps ahead of her path she would once more pull the trigger of someone’s Berserk. She didn’t have any intention of giving up her dream, but even so, no matter what, when she thought of the future ahead of her path of research, her hands and feet stiffened, and something cold and heavy was sinking to the bottom of her guts.

Kousuke averted his gaze from Emily and looked up to the sky. It was likely that Emily wasn’t asking for anything from Kousuke by talking about this. The proof of that was how the light of determination could be seen inside her eyes that were tinged with melancholy, that even if that was the case, she wouldn’t draw back, she couldn’t draw back. Therefore, why she was making Kousuke hear her heavily agonizing thoughts even just for a little was merely her depending on Kousuke.

Kousuke scratched his head awkwardly at Emily who was showing such awkwardness in depending on others. And then, he started a strange talk.

「In the past, at a certain place a long time ago, no wait, it wasn’t that long ago, it was something relatively recently, anyway, at a certain place, there was a single hero.」

「Heh? Err, Kousuke?」

‘What’s up so suddenly?’ Emily tilted her head. Ignoring that, Kousuke continued to talk.

「The hero was super handsome; he excelled in both brain and physical aspects. He was fair and kind, overflowing with a sense of justice, and a super popular male. He made others feel ‘just explode’, but anyway he was a really good guy.」

「Yo, you wanted him to explode even though he was a good guy?」

「Nn, well, just ignore that. Anyway, one day the perfect superhuman hero was summoned to another world together with his comrades. He was kidnapped along with the people around him by a damned shitty god somewhere just out of curiosity.」

Seeing Kousuke who was talking in annoyance caused Emily to go ‘hah’ in realization. The fairytale that Kousuke was suddenly talking now was surely not a fairytale. It was a part of the tale of the beginning when this profoundly mysterious hero was born.

Emily closed her mouth and concentrated on her ears. The person she loved was trying to tell her something by going as far as disclosing his secret. She focused so that she wouldn’t overhear even one word.

「Putting aside the intention of the shitty god, the people of that world said to the hero and his group. Save us they said. Defeat the enemy they said. The hero responded, that if there are people in trouble then, of course, they should help. The hero and his comrades who had crossed through worlds had managed to obtain great power, so surely it will go well he thought. But――」

It didn’t go like that.

「Bit by bit, bit by bit, something black was starting to pile up inside the hero.」

「Something, black……」

Emily could guess. That must be the seed of Berserk. Something everyone possessed, a negative emotion.

「The justice that the hero believed in, it didn’t work on anything. He lost his fairness and became as though he was possessed by the deep-rooted delusion that he should be the correct one. His comrades and childhood friends also remonstrated him, but the hero who was instigated by the enemy――betrayed everything.」

「-」

Emily had her breath taken away. Emily didn’t know what happened to the hero. But, she could somehow see her teacher overlapping with the hero. Just what did the hero feel at that time? Just with what kind of feeling did the hero betrayed his comrades? And then――how did the hero end up in the end?

Matching Emily who came to a stop, Kousuke also stopped walking and continued while staring at Emily.

「The hero pointed that tremendous power of his toward us. He pointed it toward his childhood friends who should be important to him. He pointed it, toward the people that he said should be protected. At the time of the decisive battle when that guy was needed the most, that guy was on the enemy’s side. Everything was in order to prove that he was exactly the correct one. In order to take back the time when everything went well for him.」

「……What happened then, to the hero?」

Emily asked by squeezing out her voice. In response to that Kousuke, 「Yeah, he got beaten up black and blue by a girl, his childhood friend until he apologized tearfully. He came back with his face swollen up so much it made us feel ‘seeerves you right you handsome’.」

「Eh?」

This was the aftermath of a grand betrayal. Emily thought that surely this would be a tragic story but with a bit of salvation in it even then. But seeing Kousuke laughing casually while talking「Oh mann~, at that time that guy came back with a pathetic face! He apologized while looking like he was going to cry, but his front teeth were some broken up that it made everyone almost break out laughing! That was seriously a serious breaker y’know!」, Emily’s face went blank in a daze.

Kousuke who noticed Emily who couldn’t follow at all then cleared his throat cough once.

「Well, what I want to say, that……sorry. I couldn’t save your teacher.」

「Eh? E, ah, no, that’s not-. I, don’t mean something like――」

Emily tried to make an excuse in a panic, but Kousuke stopped her with his hand and smiled wryly. However, he then directed a strong gaze at Emily that made her heart jump.

「I know. But, even so, I swear here, Emily. If ahead of this path Emily is walking through someone gets their madness awakened, that time I won’t let you lose them. Even if I have to sock them in the face, I will drag them back to you without fail.」

「u, a」

She was at a loss for words. While Emily’s mouth was opening and closing wordlessly, Kousuke gifted her with words that illuminated her path.

「That’s why don’t make that kind of pained face and just advance ahead through your path.」

Emily leapt. Where to? That was obvious. Toward the chest of her beloved hero. Emily leaked out sobbing ‘hics hics’ from something hot filling inside her chest while Kousuke gently caressed her hair.

It was unknown how long they were like that. Before long, Emily lifted her face. Kousuke pulled her hand and began walking once more toward the destination.

Silence was descending once more, but this time it was with a really awkward atmosphere. Emily kept glancing at the side of Kousuke’s face with moist eyes while Kousuke being Kousuke was writhing inside from his own speech.

Trying to change the atmosphere a little, Kousuke spoke a proposal that he actually had been thinking about since some time ago.

「Hey, Emily」

「Whaaat, Kousuke」

Her voice was sweet. It was dripping sweet. The sugar content in the air was increasing. Kousuke went「I, I might have really done it now……」while sweating coldly.

「About your research from here on.」

「Uh huh. Continuing it in the university……will be hard I think. But, somewhere else――」

「About that, if you want, how about trying to go to another world?」

「Another world……」

Inside Emily, it already had become a fact that Kousuke was summoned to another world together with his comrades. She didn't think that his story was fiction. Rather, she comprehended that Kousuke's mysterious power had its root from there.

And now, she might be able to go to the world where Kousuke obtained his power of a hero. That was enough to fill Emily with happiness.

「Is it okay?」

「Yeah, you more or less need the permission from the demon king to go to the world over there, but well, surely there won't be a problem. You see, on the other side, there are a lot of mysterious plants and minerals that don't exist here. There is also something like a pharmacy study there more or less, and if Emily learns that and puts it into use for your research, won't that become a shortcut for a breakthrough?」

「Pharmacy study of another world……certainly, that is really interesting. That healing medicine is also made from there, isn't it?」

「H~m, I guess. Though it's roughly not pure chemicals but a magic medicine though……」

Emily's eyes were sparkling bright with the idea of going to Kousuke's world, and also that it might be useful for her lifework. Her gaze looked far better than her enraptured gaze before this. For Kousuke, it was a poison in various meaning. Though it was him reaping what he sowed.

「Also you see because there is magic in the world there, the technology there is not that developed. Currently, I'm studying medical science here, but I'm doing that with the objective of wanting to heighten the medical technology there without magic.」

「……Kousuke, by any chance, are you planning to go to that other world in the future?」

Emily looked up anxiously at Kousuke. He nodded in response without hesitation. A shadow fell on Emily's expression.

「Well, currently, the demon king is taking measures so that it will be easier to come and go from here to there, so I'm not going to be on that side forever without coming back though……」

Hearing that, Emily began pondering something. Kousuke went「Hm?」seeing that and tilted his head. And then Emily suddenly snapped her head up and declared to Kousuke.

「Then, at that time I will accompany Kousuke too! At that time, I'll show you that I can develop the other world's pharmaceutics more!」

Seeing Emily declaring 'I absolutely will be useful to Kousuke!', Kousuke was thinking from the start that he wished for Emily's cooperation in improving the medical treatment without using Tortus's magic, so he accepted immediately. However, he somewhat felt a strange weight from the word「accompany」that Emily said……

No, let's stop lying to himself. Kousuke was convinced. That word absolutely meant「accompany」in that meaning. Kousuke was sweating coldly. Emily's cheeks were dyed red, and her eyes were sparkling fierily perhaps from thinking of the future. There was no doubt that in her brain she was surely imagining the development where the two of them were examining patients at the clinic in another world.

Even though she would be in another world, if there was a method to return to earth, then it would be safer to do her research in another world rather than on Earth where there was a possibility she would be targeted. She would also be able to defeat Alzheimer with the result of that research.

For Emily, immigration to another world was completely a good thing.

He, hey, Emily. There is also something that I have to tell you……

Kousuke was opening his mouth to speak about the matter that he missed the chance to say until now because of one thing or another. Right now, he was going to say it loud and clear. But it seemed that the goddess of fate was quite detestable.

A familiar ringtone interrupted Kousuke’s words. It seemed that Vanessa was the caller. Kousuke cursed Vanessaaa inside his heart, but thinking of the thing that he asked her to confirm, he couldn’t ignore this.

Like that, what entered the ear of Kousuke who took the call was good news that came in with a truly miraculous timing.

AN: Continue to the second part

Arifureta Chapter 223

Arifureta Extra Compilation – From Abyssgate Lord of The World

Epilogue Second Part

AN: This is the second part of the two parts epilogue.

There is the first part before this; please pay attention.

「Hey, Kousuke. Is this the place you wanted to take me to?」

「Yeah, this place.」

The Emily's gaze couldn't hide her perplexity and was wandering around without any calm. That was reasonable. The place Kousuke brought her to at a fast pace after the call from Vanessa——was a hospital.

The question of「Why?」was whirling inside Emily's head.

「You see, this hospital is under the influence of the security bureau. They make use of it for the criminals and the victims of a case, or people with circumstances.」

「Security bureau's.....eh, wait, then」

「Yeah, the people related with the「Berserk」case are also hospitalized here.」

Emily gulped. The people who got「Berserk」stored inside their stomach but didn't have it explode yet, the people who were confined for experiments but luckily could be rescued just in time, and the research facility personnel who got injured during the suppression operation and so on, they were all here.

Emily looked around with a sorrowful expression, but she suddenly noticed something. Even with all those people here, it wasn’t a reason to bring her here. If someone turned into a berserker, then it was too late for them, and in the case that they hadn’t turned into a berserker, then it would completely be the domain of a doctor. There wasn’t any reason for Emily who was a researcher to be here.

Yes, if there was a reason for her to be brought here, then it would be the same reason as the families of the patients who were gathering in the patients’ room or corridor even now――

With a shudder, an indescribable emotion that was different from a chill was welling up inside Emily.

「Wa, wait, wait Kousuke! By, by any chance, in, in here…… but, I, definitely remember that everyone was-」

「It kept bothering me all this time. In Emily’s story, it was only your parting with her that was different. I didn’t say anything because I thought that it was a slim chance, but I believed that the possibility wasn’t zero.」

“Her”――Emily understood who that word referred to.

That’s right. Indeed it was right. It was only her who Emily didn’t see directly. When they parted from each other in the end, she lured away the immediately approaching berserker and vanished. But Emily didn’t confirm her last moments at all.

The repeated death, the overwhelming presence of death of 「Berserk」, the heavy tremor that was chasing after her, all of those pushed Emily into despair. That was why she thought that must be the last moment for that person, yet……

「I was thinking about confirming it by myself, but before I could, chief-san found her and contacted me. It looks like she hadn't recovered her consciousness yet, so just in case, in order to confirm it directly and find out the details of her condition, I asked Vanessa to go ahead……」

There was already no more words. The hope rising up inside was making Emily's heart quiver.

「The call from Vanessa just now. ——She said that she was awake. She was heavily wounded and needs complete bed rest, but there is nothing threatening to her life.」

「a, a……」

Emily covered her mouth with the hand that wasn't being pulled by Kousuke, and then her blurry gaze caught the figure of Vanessa talking with a person who seemed to be a doctor.

Vanessa, who noticed Kousuke and Emily, then lowered her head to the doctor before turning her gaze to the two of them. Her expression was a gentle and relaxed one that they had never seen until now. Just from that expression, Emily discerned that there wasn't anything bad at all. She grasped that her hope wasn't a lie.

「She is all right, Doctor Grant. She is also really lucid, and the doctor also said that there would be no problem if she is going through treatment. Now, she is waiting. Please meet her.」

「Vanessa……yes, yes-」

Kousuke let go of the hand he held and gently pushed Emily’s back. Vanessa sent her off with a gentle smile. Emily couldn’t endure it and tears were trickling down her face while she opened the door to the patient room and entered inside.

pi-pi-pi- Other than the resounding sound of medical equipment, the patient room was enveloped in silence. The sunlight poured in through the window that had its curtain opened, illuminating the patient room brightly.

With staggering steps, Emily approached the bed slowly. There, she saw the woman whose both legs were fixed in place, her head bandaged, and her hand was receiving an intravenous drip.

Perhaps that woman noticed Emily’s presence because she slowly opened her closed eyes.

And then,

「……Emily. Aa, I’m glad. You are safe.」

While sleeping on the bed with wounds all over her body, the words that came out the very first time from her mouth were words that rejoiced of the safety of her little sister——

「Lizzie-nee-!!」

With her mind still pure white, Emily only surrendered her body to her great joy and leapt into the chest of her big sister——Lizzie Ashton. Lizzie, who received the embrace of her beloved little sister, naturally,

「Ouch ouch ouch ouch-. Wait-, it hurts, it hurts I told you, Emily! Your big sis is dying! I’m dying for sure this time!」

「Fueah!? So, sorry-, Lizzy-neee!」

She fainted in agony. A person who was in a total bed rest mustn't be jumped at. This was important. Emily was flustered and all shaken up while Lizzie smiled wryly「What a hopeless girl」with teary eyes that endured the pain.

「It's fine if you do it slowly. Look, come here, Emily.」

「Lizzie-neee」

Softly, as though she was touching a delicate artwork, Emily timidly embraced Lizzie, and then she began to leak out sobbing 'hics hics'. Lizzie partly closed her eyes at her little sister that was like that while caressing Emily's head with a gentle hand manner.

「Fufu, you really have become a crybaby while I fainted just for a bit, didn't you? Just where has the usually obstinate person gone to I wonder.」

「Fho, fho cares……hics, sniff-」

Emily grumbled while hugging tightly without any signs of letting go. Lizzie's smile was getting increasingly broader.

「I heard about the matter this time, just for a bit from that cool female agent. Looks like you have gone through a great adventure.」

「I'm, not. It wasn't, adventure……. I just, needed to do, something somehow……but, I couldn't, do anything……I only, kept getting, helped……」

「Yeah. That Paradis-san also said that she wanted to protect Emily because you were working very hard. Also, there is one more hero-san? I heard that he too lent his strength because Emily worked really hard.

Emily stirred restlessly and lifted her face from Lizzie's chest, and then her face that turned terrible because of the tears and mucus distorted.

Lizzie wiped up Emily's face that became like that while she proudly gifted Emily her words along with a gentle smile that Emily idolized.

You have worked hard haven't you, Emily? As expected from the little sister of us all. Surely those guys, and Rick, and also teacher, they must be proud of you.

Lizzie-n*eee*-

Ah, ah, geez. Even though you are a beauty, it is wasted like this……come one, blow your nose, blow

Emily blew her nose just as she was told. And then, she restlessly buried her face into Lizzie's chest once more. Right now, she only wanted to earnestly feel her beloved big sister.

And then, Lizzie also embraced tightly such an Emily. She was only showering her love to her little sister who survived and gritting her teeth against the loneliness toward the person she loved and their comrades who had protected them.

Part 2

The airport's lobby was really bustling with people waiting for their departure and people waiting for the arrival of flight passengers. At a waiting place where there were several rows of bench seats in place, Emily, whose eyes were still red, was staring at Kousuke apologetically.

「Sorry, Kousuke. Because of me, there is barely any time left. In the end, you cannot go buy souvenirs or do anything else.」

「No, it's fine. That was a special reunion for you. I'm not that boorish that I would be a nuisance with that.」

In the end, after Emily, who had transformed into a sticky burr on Lizzie, was finally pried off after the nurse noticed that Lizzie was almost fainting with the white of her eyes half exposed. (TN: A burr is prickly seeds or seed heads that stick to fur and clothes)

However, even with that, it seemed that Emily hated to exit the room, and when she was scolded by the nurse and got dragged outside, Emily spontaneously yelled「ONEE-CHAAAN!」and reached out her hand. Lizzie, whose eyes snapped open in a flash hearing her little sister's shout, then reached out her hand「EMILY――」, which got the intravenous drip torn off from her hand which turned it into even more commotion. The two of them were really sisters that were similar to each other.

The nurse, who was treated as a mafia member who was trying to tear apart the loving sisters from each other because of an unpaid debt, then got a throbbing vein on her forehead. Even then, the nurse kept treating the situation. It went without saying that Kousuke and Vanessa then earnestly apologized to the nurse.

Because of this and that, in the end, they arrived at the airport with barely any time left until the departure, which caused Emily to be apologetic.

「Well, at any rate, it’s great that Lizzie-san is alive.」

「Yes-」

It was a blunt topic change, but Emily responded with a broad smile. The lost things wouldn’t come back, and the wounds from that time wouldn’t vanish for her whole life. But, even so, there was salvation, even if it was just one. It was really as though the world rewarded a little to someone that had done their best.

And, at that time, Vanessa, who left them for a bit because she received a call, returned to them.

「Kousuke-san. Bernard is coming to see you off.」

「Yoo, Aby. I came as the troops’ representative.」

It seemed Vanessa had gone to the entrance to welcome Bernard who came to the airport to see off Kousuke.

「Coming expressly here like this, is your work okay?」

「No, it’s not okay. That’s why I need to go back right away, but it will be no good if we don’t give even a single parting salute when you return home to your country like this. Besides, you see, here is a souvenir from the guys in the troops.」

「Eh, my bad, troubling you like this. But, if that’s the case, then I’ll accept gratefully――」

Kousuke got a bit shy while he peeked inside the bag before his cheeks convulsed. Inside there were various combat knives and bullets that were carved with strange letters. There were also hand grenades that were written with obscene jokes, a Zippo lighter, and a high-class cigar crammed inside.

「Are you an idiot!? There is no way I can bring this back!」

Kousuke turned into a straight-man reflexively, but Bernard replied with a puzzled expression.

「Eh, but, you. You are normally carrying something like this, right? Remember, that small katana, or the knives.」

「Ah……yeah, I guess. Sorry. Also thanks.」

He had no words to retort to that. Like that, Kousuke put the souvenir into his rucksack. He planned to throw them into the Treasure Warehouse later.

Bernard, who finished handing over the souvenirs, then nodded in satisfaction before he swiftly turned around. It seemed that it was true that busy.

「See ya, Aby. When next you come here, show your face no matter what. I'll introduce you to a delicious restaurant.」

「Aa, thanks. Bernard too, don't be too reckless.」

Kousuke smiled wryly while saying his thanks to Bernard who he could only think of as someone that was loved by the death god and the goddess of luck simultaneously. And then,

「What are you saying? I have a wife and a cute daughter waiting at home for my return. No matter what happens, I will go back home for sure.」

「That's why-, don't say those kinds of lines so easily like that!」

「Just you wait Annie (the six years old daughter). Father will get home soon……」

「Wai-, Bernard! You, seriously be careful! There is absolutely a death god right behind you there!」

Bernard so easily built a dangerous flag as naturally as breathing like always. And then his figure vanished into the crowd.

「What should I say, in a sense, it feels like he is the one nearest to Kousuke-san. I cannot help but feel amazed that he doesn’t die with that.」

「I can agree with that.」

Vanessa, for some reason, was staring at Bernard vanishing into the crowd with a gaze that seemed like she was looking at a rival while saying such a thing.

「Kousuke, it will be time soon.」

「Oh, is that so. Then, perhaps I should go soon.」

Kousuke stood up and shouldered his rucksack. And then, he was about to walk toward the boarding gate. But then his sleeve got pulled.

「Hm? Emily, what’s wrong?」

「……」

While staring at the floor, Emily pinched at Kousuke’s sleeve tightly without showing any sign of releasing it. Kousuke reflexively looked at Vanessa looking for help, but Vanessa only shrugged and didn’t say anything.

「Eeer, Emily. I’m leaving behind my clone, and I also told you my contact number, right? We will be able to meet again soon, don’t look that reluctant; it’s embarrassing somehow.」

「……」

Kousuke said that kind of thing with an exaggerated gesture a bit jokingly, but Emily’s state didn’t change. No, her ears that could be seen from between her blond hair were in the progress of changing. They were gradually getting redder. Looking closer, her neck and cheeks were also dyed red.

Kousuke then grasped the situation「Come to think of it, in the end, I failed to say anything of it! Not good!」, and he opened his mouth to say something. But, before he could,

「Yo, you see-. You see-, Kousuke! I, I actually-, that, about Kousuke I――」

The Emily’s face snapped up in a flash and was truly that of a bright red apple. Her eyes were moist, and inside them, there was an immeasurable heat. At a glance, it was obvious that she was about to liberate into words the flame that was already blazing up thunderously inside her chest currently.

The Emily’s voice unexpectedly reverberated loudly and stopped the activity of the surrounding people and the people from walking along. Their attention gathered at the two of them. The onlookers guessed the atmosphere between the two「Oh my? Could this possibly be……」and their eyes sparkled with deep interest.

And then, Emily-chan, who was already at her wits’ end, was about to carry out her first confession in her life, and her mouth formed the shape of saying「lo」, it was at that instant,

「Ah, there you are! Kou-ku~~~n-♡」

A dignified and clear voice rang through the lobby. That voice was so refreshing, and also vaguely contained a sweet sensuality, that everyone spontaneously searched for the owner of the voice.

Naturally, Kousuke, who was familiar with that voice, thought「Don’t tell me-」while he reflexively averted his gaze from Emily and turned his face toward the direction of the voice.

It was in the middle of her once in a lifetime confession, yet Kousuke turned his gaze toward the other. That caused Emily’s expression to turn ‘funya’ into a pitiable look. But, it was no good for her to be like that. Emily had to take her battle stance right away before it became a sorrow for her.

After all, right there, the person who would become the fated enemy of Emily was approaching near.

「Kou-kun!」

「Rana!?」

Emily and Vanessa also turned their gaze when Kousuke called a name. There, they could see a super beautiful onee-san running toward them from the other side of the crowd.

Two hills were jiggling up and down with each step of the run. Beautiful dark blue hair. Tight waist and beautiful legs that looked unreal. With a beautifully well-proportioned body that was 8 times longer than the head, which was realized in real life. And looks that harmonized both cuteness and beauty perfectly.

That beautiful onee-san was rushing toward them with an attractive movement like a rabbit hopping forward pyon pyon. She decided that the crowd was a hindrance and shifted her route a bit.

And then, while the people were paying attention to her in various meanings, she leapt and used the nearby pillar as a foothold to easily fly over the crowd with a beautiful rotation in midair. The onlookers unconsciously raised admiring voices「Ooh」seeing that acrobatic performance, but the beautiful onee-san Rana Hauria ignored them and leapt toward Kousuke with a pyon.

「Kou-kun, long time no see. I wanted to meet you.」

「Eh, ah, yeah. I also wanted to meet you but, no, before that, why are you here!?」

Kousuke asked with his eyes darting about in surprise. Rana chuckled seeing that while answering.

「You see boss opened the gate for me. He said that it was for an experiment. And then the boss said that it seems Kou-kun is in trouble, so he asked me if I wanted to meet you for a bit and helped to send me here.」

「So, this is Nagumo's doing……」

「Yes, I'm grateful for boss's consideration. But, it's strange you know. For some reason, boss was really impatient just now. 「It's no good if you wait until he comes back. Go there right now. Right now! It's better if you ambush him at the airport. Perhaps there will be someone near him, but don't worry of it and just jump at him!」boss said.」

「Tha, tha, that bastaaard-. He knew and still did this!」

Kousuke guessed the reason why the demon king sent Rana here. It was complete harassment. Or perhaps, he did this from a sentiment of「Comrade♪ Comrade♪」.

In any case, Kousuke was swearing inside his heart while trying to separate himself from the clinging Rana for the time being because of the attention he was showered with――

「Kousuke, that woman, who?」

「Hih」

He could hear a broken language. It was a voice without any emotion in it, a mechanical voice that sounded like a machine. Kousuke moved his gaze with a crude motion like a machine that forgot to be oiled. Toward the girl who was about to confess to him.

「Hih」

And then, he shrieked for the second time. Because Emily-chan's eyes, they were completely a single color. She was smiling faintly, but the pupils of her largely opened eyes were opening. It was a face that must not be shown by a beautiful girl.

「Kousuke? Who. That woman?」

「Hm? Ara, nice to meet you young lady.」

The one who reacted first to the repeated question was Rana. It seemed that Rana noticed Emily's existence for the first time when she separated from Kousuke. She then smiled sweetly. And then, she guessed from how Emily called Kousuke's name that she must be his acquaintance, and so she introduced herself.

With the decorous method, Hauria-style.

First of all, the sunglasses were necessa~ry!

「Mine name is Ranainferna Hauria! The wind shadow of the head reaper clan, and the lover of the right-hand of the demon king Lord Abyssgate! If you are a friend of the lord, then I welcome you without any reservation. However, please never forget that I'm a woman that belongs to darkness. You won't get away with just a mere scalding near me.」

There was a rotation. There was a cool pose! From the sunglasses that was slightly lowered, there was a perfect wink pachin-.

It was done. The perfect greeting was done toward the friend of her beloved lover. Ranainfe――Rana went「fuh」and her face turned into a triumphant look.

Kousuke crumbled down. The onlookers couldn't catch up at all with the development! Vanessa was nodding「Hohou, so there is a lover already」with an expression that was somewhat admiring.

And then, as for Emily,

「Lo ve r? Lo ve r……Lo ver……Lover!?」

She recovered her sanity. And then, she turned her face toward Kousuke with a motion just like Kousuke before this; it felt like there would be a gigigi sound ringing out from her neck with how crudely it moved. And then, with an expression that looked half-smiling, or perhaps it was half-crying, on her face, Emily asked.

「Kousuke……you have, lover?」

「……err……yes.」

The onlookers were starting to make the noise ‘A carnage, it’s a carnage’. Kousuke glanced at the commotion with a cold sweat while searching for words. Rana was looking alternately at Kousuke and Emily with a puzzled gaze while Vanessa was staring fixedly at the transition of the situation.

After knowing the fact that Kousuke had a lover, Emily’s body was trembling all over while her eyes were looking down.

「He, hey, Emily? I thought many times of telling you this――」

「WHYYY! WHY DO YOU HAVE A LOVER! WHYYYYYYYY-!!」

「Whoaa!? Ca, calm down Emily!」

「UWAAAAAAAAAN-, this is just strange-. Just why didn’t you tell mee! I would still absolutely fall in love even sooo-, but all the same, this is just too muuch-. UWAAAAAAAAAN-」

The loud scream echoed in the airport lobby. Even the staff of the airport were approaching in wonder of what was going on.

Kousuke, who got his collar grasped and was shaken back and forth, tried to stop Emily, but Emily, in her deranged state, was unstoppable.

In that chaotic scene, Rana was holding her chin with her hand while thinking of something「Uu~n」, then she clapped her hands pon- and walked closer toward the two briskly.

「Yes yes, Emily-chan, can I call you that? How about stopping at that, and talk a bit with me?」

Rana, who took off her Hauria mode, talked to Emily consolingly.

By the way, Hauria mode referred to the chuuni mode in full power. It was always on 24-hours when she was together with the Hauria clan. But, at the time when she was just alone with Kousuke, and at the time when there was no Hauria around, Rana had become able to talk normally in a normal mode!

Rana was taught that this was the decorum on Earth by Shia. It was a secret art that she learned desperately for the sake of greeting Kousuke’s parents!

「Uu, what do you want? Is this where you tell me to not approach your man-?」

「No? I just want to confirm to you, Emily-chan.」

「Just whaaat」

「You like Kou-kun? Not as a friend, but as a man?」

「Uuh……that’s right-, I like him! I love him! I’m sorry! FUEEeEEEEN-」

Emily confessed that she loved him by throwing all caution to the wind, and then right after that, she thought that she had done wrong to Rana and apologized, and she wailed once more. Seeing that, Rana judged that Emily’s feelings were a serious one――

For some reason, her eyes were sparkling brightly. And then, she tightly hugged the wailing Emily mugyu-.

「You did it, Kou-kun! The wife is multiplying!」

She blurted out such a thing.

「Eer, Rana-san? Just what could you possibly be talking about desu?」

Kousuke's speech was turning polite language, for some reason, while he asked with convulsing cheeks. In response to that,

「Eh? That's why, 'finally the second wife get!' I said.」

Rana responded back with a puzzled expression.

The surrounding fell silent. Kousuke also fell silent. Emily's wailing stopped.

Kousuke's expression looked like he was enduring a headache, and he asked while massaging his temple.

「Wh, what's with multiple wives? Isn't the premise strange? I'm planning to marry Rana though?」

「Eh? It's not strange, is it? Kou-kun marry me, then marry Emily-chan. After that, you need at the very least five more people!」

「Why!? Why do I need seven wives!? Polygamy is forbidden you know! Or rather, normally a wife is just one person!」

Kousuke shouted. Toward that, Rana tilted her head with an expression that was confused as expected,

「That's if it's in Japan, isn't it? Kou-kun will come to my place, right? Besides, one day you will become the clan head, so having just one wife——that's no good, right?」

「Ka, Kam-san only has one wife, right!?」

「That’s true, but the elder folk usually have multiple wives you know? Don’t you know that? Besides――」

「Besides?」

While hearing the sound of his common sense crumbling, Kousuke asked Rana timidly. Rana clinched a broad smile and a thumbs up while she responded.

「Even though our boss created a harem, if Kou-kun, who is his right-hand man, only has one wife then you will get looked down on! It’s fine! You don’t need to be that worried because I have arranged so that I can get along well with the fellow wives!」

「That’s not the proble――m-」

Kousuke cradled his head in his hands. In Kousuke’s mind, he had imagined a future where he and Rana would be a husband and wife like a pair of swans as the head of the clan, yet the Rana in question was actually having expectations of ‘won’t the next wife get found out soon already’. Somehow, Kousuke felt like various things inside him got smashed.

He felt like he could vaguely hear the voice of the demon king「You too, have a taste my feelings, my bosom friend」. He got the mood of wanting to punch him flying very much.

「Wai-, just wait a second. You, you are saying that it’s fine even if I’m included?」

Emily somehow managed to pull out from Rana’s chest and asked in agitation.

「But of course. Let’s support Kou-kun together, okay?」

「No no no, that’s absolutely no good! Something like that! That’s just, im, impure! As I thought, a married couple has to be a pair that is being the best partner for each other……」

Emily, whose head was messed up already, was talking about what a married couple was. But Rana was directing a meaningful expression「Fu~hn」at such Emily. Seeing that, Emily bluffed「Wha, what is it」to which Rana smiled complacently.

「Then Emily-chan, you can just give up on Kou-kun. If you say that it’s no good unless there is only one wife, then that position is mine. There is absolutely zero chance for you to replace me.」

「-. Tha, that’s……」

‘Fufuhn’, Rana showed a fearless smile. Emily was plainly flustered by that. Rana wore her sunglasses once more and made a rotation.

「Hmph, it’s absurd to believe that you can win against this me. The heart of Abyssgate is the prisoner of my hand of darkness. There is no hope for anyone to liberate it from me. Fufufu-」

Well, in other words, it seemed that Rana was saying ‘Kousuke is deeply in love with me, and I also have no intention of letting him go at all~’.

Emily saw Rana sharply pointing her finger at her, and she understood one thing.

「……I got it. So you are the cause.」

「Hm? What are you saying I wonder? Oh, cute little kitty?」

「That’s why-, I’m saying that you are the cause! That speech and act of Kousuke that was painful to look at, that’s because of you, right!?」

「Gafuh!?」

Kousuke was shot. A girl said that she loved him, but it seemed that actually, she thought that he was painful to look at. Cracks entered his heart.

「Actually, he is a cool and lovely person! Yet the moment the battle starts, he becomes strange! It’s you who made Kousuke become like that, isn’t it!?」

「Gofuh!?」

「Fuh. Indeed, it’s not an exaggeration to say that it was me who awakened Lord Abyssgate. And? If that’s the case, then what are you going to do? Do you think that a kitty like you can do anything?」

Rana chuckled ‘ku-ku-ku-‘ looking really crooked. She was in high spirits. She was in super high spirits.

Not noticing Rana’s mood which was absurdly enjoying this, Emily-chan, who was resolved to rescue her beloved, proclaimed a war declaration.

「I swear, I swear that I’ll turn Kousuke back into a proper human!」

「Gahah!?」

「I wonder if you are able to do that?」

「It’s not about being able to or not. It’s about doing it or not! Besides, I also won’t let you get away.」

「Me?」

「That's right. Even though you are this beautiful, you are doing an embarrassing act like that! It's unforgivable as a fellow woman! I swear I'll turn you back into a proper human too!」

「Ku-ku-ku-, you can howl really loud, small hero! Then just try it! I won't run or hide anywhere! However, never forget. When you peek into the abyss, the abyss will also peek back toward you!」

「I won't lose! I will not lose! Just watch Kousuke! Because I won't let you be that kind of pitiful human!」

「……」

Rana's loud laughter that couldn't hide her feelings of 'This is super fun!' was reverberating, and the war cry of Emily's, who was threatening like a cat going fushaa-, that was echoing caused Kousuke to feel like his heart died.

The airport was enveloped in chaos.

In the middle, Vanessa appealed「This loyalty, is higher than a mountain. This love, is deeper than the sea」while announcing her candidacy as the third wife. Hearing that, Rana said「You-, are pretty good! I warmly welcome you!」, to which Vanessa said「My greatest thanks」and fell on her knee theatrically. It was at that time that the security of the airport finally arrived.

While everyone was taken to the security office cordially, Kousuke took out his smartphone powerlessly and made a call.

「Ou, Endo. What's――」

「Just you wait, Nagumo.」

「Ha? Ah, you had met Rana already? From that sentence, it looks like it became something interesting huh?」

The voice of Hajime cackling loudly could be heard from the other side of the phone.

Kousuke spoke with a deeply held resentment.

「This time I'll sock you on the face! I'll make you regret handing Last Zell to me!」

「Eh, wai-, you-――」

Kousuke cut off the call.

In front of him, there were Emily and Rana who were still continuing to quarrel with each other even while receiving the exasperated gaze of the security staff. Sure enough, a new objective that was added into Emily's lifework――the grand objective of stopping the chuuni of Rana, and also the Hauria clan. Would the day it was accomplished come in the future?

「Kousuke-san. Four more wives left. They should be somewhere in the world. Let's do our best from here on. I'm feeling excited for some reason.」

「Which RPG is that huh? Just stay quiet a bit, Danessa.」

Kousuke averted his gaze from Danessa, who was staring at him with an excited gaze just as she said that and let out a deep sigh.

「Come to think of it, I'm not studying at all throughout this holiday.」

It seemed that Kousuke’s dream was still far ahead.

The strongest assassin who nonchalantly saved a country, or possibly even the world, was worrying about the national mock exam that would be carried out on the first day after the holidays, and then he breathed out a deep sigh once more.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Finally, it is finished……

This is really an extra long compilation. Shirakome never thought that he would write this much (wry smile).

Really, thank you very much for accompanying me to the very end.

It will make me happy if this can become a good thing for you to kill time with.

The development after this is completely undecided.

I also want to write about the characters that weren’t written about in the Afterstory, like the hero or Shia. I want to try writing an extra for the others too.

However, I think I want to rest a little due to my circumstance in real life and so on. I’m wondering whether to rest for the whole of August.

I might nonchalantly update again when I raise my spirit, so at that time, it would make me happy if you readers would come read again.

Then, let’s meet again later.

I pray so that lovely chuuni will be with everyone who loves Narou.

Arifureta Chapter 224

Arifureta After II The Obstinate Princess Lily

AN: The title is different from my advance notice?

Yes, when I noticed that I had written too much, I couldn’t reach the part-time work leader Lily part in one chapter.

Part 1

tap tap tap tap- The sound of a typing keyboard resounded. The force of that typing was fierce. It was as though it represented the typing person’s fury, or perhaps their desperation. That sound ruined the chic atmosphere of the office that was consolidated with wooden furniture.

Uu, there is work today too. Tomorrow will be work too. The day after tomorrow too, and the day after that too, and the next day after that will be work too-! Even though, I’m not a princess anymoreee!

The sound of tap tap tap- finally became a da-da-da-da-da-da- sound that resembled a shooting machine gun. Right now, the fingertips striking the keyboard were leaving behind afterimages……such a thing didn’t happen, but the force of the finger taps was to the degree that gave such an illusion.

The one who was skillfully using the modern earth device as a matter of unpleasant necessity with teary eyes, for some reason, was the beautiful girl who once was the princess of the Hairihi Kingdom in the other world Tortus——Liliana S. B. Hairihi, that person.

Liliana was fourteen-years-old when the other world summoning was carried out, with a face that still had childishness remaining in it at the time. But now she was about to reach twenty. The six years, and also the rich experience she went through during that time, had polished her beautiful face even further.

Her hair that was like flowing gold threads, her eyes that were overflowing with gentleness and intelligence, her rose-colored cheeks, her gracefully moist lips, and then her elegance and personality that were oozing out even without her particularly doing anything, all those factors were enough to captivate anyone regardless of gender.

In fact, Liliana who accepted the invitation of her beloved and migrated to this earth had been receiving immense fame——no, rather than fame, it was more accurate to call it worship from a lot of people.

It showed from this.

knock knock, a knocking sound resounded a bit loudly, and when Liliana responded, a woman entered the room.

"Excuse me, your holiness. About the additional material for the case that will be discussed this afternoon……"

"I had finished it-! Yes, I finished it already! After all, I was dealing with that since six o'clock in the morning you see!"

The woman who was wearing a business suit looking perfectly like a career woman was handed over the document by Liliana in a snap.

The woman, who was Liliana's secretary——Sandra Winchester, slightly opened wide her intelligent eyes and accepted the document while replying"As expected from your holiness"with a voice that was crammed with admiration.

Now then, about this designation that Sandra called Liliana with——"your holiness".

Yes, it wasn't "your highness", but "your holiness".

They were on Earth, where there was only a limited number of people who could introduce themselves as royalty, so naturally, Liliana had abandoned her title as a princess in this world, but the title “holy woman” then clung to her as though in replacement.

This was exactly the reason why Liliana was teary-eyed since six in the morning as she exhibited her typing skill that was like a storm while discharging grumbles of complain.

「Your holiness. About the inquiry from the several countries that will question regarding the standing of “Hairihi Faith” at the conference today……」

「It’s not “Hairihi Faith”, it’s “Hairihi Volunteer Association”! ……cough-. Anyway, give them the answer as indicated in the document. This is the draft. Please send it to the media correspondence department. I’ll entrust them to proofread it to a certain degree, but please caution them earnestly that they are not to use any words that will endear to any faction.」

「Acknowledged. After all, this will affect the hundreds of thousands of believers from here on. I will enforce your holiness’s will thoroughly. Also, the madam chief of Britain’s state security department has called so about that.」

「It’s not “believer”, but “association member”. Please delegate the whole thing with Magdanese-san to Kousuke-san. Also, I think that the Vatican will also come with the attempt to make contact, but delegate that to Kousuke-san too. He has a relationship with the leaders of both organizations, so delegate it wholly to him even if he comes crying or complaining. If he tries to escape, please tell him that I’ll tattle to demon king-sama then.」

□Yes. Aa, also, about the secretary general that will be our conference partner, it seems that he has already arrived.□

□Uguh. He, he arrived really quickly. I guess that goes to show just how much expectation and suspicion he is holding. If the conference this time recognizes our “association” formally as an “international volunteer group”……then we will be able to clear the strange misunderstandings, and I too will be able to throw all the work wholesale to someone e——cough, to reach out my helping hand to a lot more people. No matter what, we have to sweep away the perception of our association that see us as a suspicious “newly rising religion”……□

□That’s right. By using that kind of official stance to make use of the UN, we will permeate into every religion, and someday the teaching of your holiness’s sublimity will spread to the whole wor——□

□It won’t spread-. I’m not someone like a certain scheming demon king somewhere! Our association is purely a volunteer organization to the end; it’s not a religious organization I tell you-. Or rather, recently I tended to ignore it, but don’t call me “your holiness”, but “chairman”!□

□Yes, chairman-sama(your holiness).□

□Hey you. Just now, you were attaching brackets there right!? It’s plain to see you know! Ah, wait, what’s with that expression that seems to say□It’s fine, I understand everything clearly□! You completely don’t understand anything!□

While Liliana’s voice, which was mixed with straight-man retorts, was reverberating, Sandra was directing a gaze that was filled with affection and respect toward the holy woman who was also modest today, and then she reverently bowed before taking her leave.

Inside the office that was filled with silence once more, the tic tac sound of the clock was echoing excessively loudly.

Liliana dropped her waist powerlessly on the chair and hung her head down while holding it with both hands.

And then, she muttered briefly right from her heart.

「How, did it turn out like this……」

Now then, Liliana was supposed to be a normal girl without any titles whatsoever on Earth, but in less than two years her believers swelled up to the hundreds of thousands, and she got worshipped as the founder of a new religion——a “holy woman”. The government of every country and other religions were unreasonably cautious toward her, she had overcome brutal events like schemes behind the scenes and assassinations, and now she was preparing for a conference with the top brass of the United Nations in order to turn her association into a publicly recognized volunteer organization. Wherein after that, a press conference that would be broadcasted to the whole world would be opened up. In the end, just what kind of sequence of events made her end up falling into such a situation……

Liliana put her hand on her stomach that was making a cute sound「kuu~」in protest of her failure to eat breakfast while her gaze was looking at the faraway scenery outside the window. And then she began to reminisce about the happenings in these two years and few months.

Part 2

Inside the office where there was silence and bright sunlight shining in, the sound of a moving pen scratch scratch and the sound of the clock that sounded like a chirping bird chirp-chirp-chirp-chirp- resounded.

It was a really calm atmosphere that was optimum for doing paperwork.

But the owner of that room was in a state that couldn’t be said to be calm at all. The hand moving the pen didn’t stop, but her gaze kept glancing briefly at the clock many times over. She then looked at the mountain of paperwork and sighed; her shoulders dropped after measuring the height of the paperwork……then she started reducing the mountain of paperwork diligently, got fidgety, and got dejected……

「Liliana-sama……I understand your feelings, but no matter how many times you check the clock, the time won’t progress faster you know?」

「-, I, I’m not, worrying about anything you know?」

「No, I’m not fooled at all. Because you are already fidgety like that.」

Liliana moaned「Uh」having that pointed out by her exclusive maid.

「Today is the day your beloved husband can cross over here, isn’t it? Starting from that “Kouki-kun is abducted too many times- Case”, demon king-sama seemed to be busy with various things and got dragged into turmoil, so it has been five months since he could properly take time to meet you. That’s why, isn’t it fine even if Liliana-sama doesn’t force yourself to do your duty just for today?

I cannot do that. If I shirk off my duty by using that person as an excuse, then there will be no meaning to my resolve that decided to be left here in this world.

The maid suggested so; however, Liliana rejected it while smiling wryly.

A month after the legendary decisive battle. Even though at that time Liliana was worked to death with the revival of her motherland, she still fiercely appealed to Hajime firmly. Perhaps that also worked in her favor because after many twists and turns (especially with the first wife), she managed to be accepted by Hajime along with Aiko who was also fiercely appealing like her. She then spent a brief time of happiness with him, but……

Liliana was a princess.

Furthermore, his majesty, the king of the country, was absent, and her younger brother, which would be the next king, Randell was still immature. Although Liliana’s mother Luluaria was working hard, as expected, there was a limit to the situation wherein the kingdom’s capital was annihilated. The postwar processing that was done by Liliana, who had gathered much sympathy from her great effort as the commander-in-chief at the decisive battle, became something indispensable for the kingdom.

Therefore, although Liliana was conflicted, she made the decision to not abandon her position. It was unknown whether Hajime and others who would return to their home would be able to open the gate to Tortus once more. And so, there was even the possibility that it would become a parting for their whole life.

Even so, Liliana couldn’t abandon her motherland.

Liliana told Hajime that she would stay behind with the resolve for everything. She declared that resolve of hers, however, Hajime smiled happily instead. Liliana remembered that smile clearly. Of course, that smile wasn’t because Hajime was happy that he could part with Liliana. If that was actually the reason, then Liliana might’ve thrown herself off the tower regardless of her resolve or anything……

Anyway, that determination became one of the great reason, and there was no doubt that she had accomplished joining the wives group. The night before the return to earth, it went without saying how the resolved Liliana was blazing more than usual.

「……Princess. Please come back to reality. And please wipe up your drool. Your face has turned into something that must not be shown toward other people.」

「Hah!?」

Liliana had gone completely into a trip from recalling the passionate night she spent with Hajime. The exasperated voice of her exclusive maid caused her mind to return to reality with a ‘hah’. And then, she took out her handkerchief and thoroughly wiped the saliva trickling from the corner of her lips.

「Princess and Hajime-sama’s relation is really harmonious, isn’t it? The voices of envy among the maids also still hasn’t stopped. Similarly, I also feel really envious.」

「It, it’s not that great……」

The words of her exclusive maid caused Liliana’s cheeks to go red, and she began to deal with the paperwork in high-speed to hide her embarrassment. For her to hide her embarrassment with high-speed paperwork processing, perhaps it was just as expected from the talented princess of the kingdom.

「……Princess. At the “gate opening” this time, what will you do?」

「What do you mean?」

The exclusive maid who was gazing smilingly at the embarrassed Liliana then went through a complete change and asked with a serious expression.

「With the help of the artifacts that Hajime-sama exclusively left behind for the craftsmen, the royal capital reconstructed at an astounding speed. Seventy percent of the whole capital has been finished in this year and a half. The plan for the new royal capital’s formal ceremony of the revival proclamation has also begun.」

「……That’s right. Certainly, with the help of everyone from the empire and the beastmen, the truly new royal capital is in the process of being built by also taking in the style of many nations. The functional beauty of the empire’s capital, the natural beauty of Fea Belgen, and then the traditional beauty of the Hairihi Kingdom……it’s a wonderful city that harmonizes all of those.」

「Yes.」

「It will become a symbolic city that is worthy of the new era that has freed itself from the rule of the mad god. The ceremony has to be a grand celebration that indicates a fresh start toward the new era.

Liliana’s gaze was directed from the window to the outside. Ahead of her gaze, there was a beautiful townscape taking shape. If she sharpened her ears, she would be able to faintly hear the hustle and bustle of the reconstruction and work activity.

Liliana’s cheeks loosened, and her eyes squinted fondly at that. She felt like it was worth it for her to work so hard in which there was barely any time to sleep for her.

Yes. This matter should be almost fixed already with the agreement of the empire and beastman clan too. And above all else, as long as Liliana-sama’s spouse is that “Goddess’s Sword”……no, the “Godslaying Demon King”, there won’t be any problems that can occur that easily.

……What is it that you want to say?

Liliana returned her gaze from the window toward her exclusive maid. A suspicion dwelled inside her eyes. The exclusive maid told her master that she respected with a voice that was filled with gentleness and sympathy.

Isn’t it enough already?

Enough……

Yes. His highness Randell-sama has grown remarkably; he also has excellent retainers with him. The reconstruction of the capital and the relationship with other countries, they have reached a point where we can take a breather. It’s my humble opinion that even without Liliana-sama leading in the front, the kingdom is already able to keep advancing forward even then. Then, Liliana-sama, don’t you think that it’s better for Liliana-sama to start chasing after your own happiness?」

「……」

‘Is that really the case?’ Liliana questioned herself while staring once more at the new capital outside the window.

Even so, certainly it was the fact that recently the work that absolutely needed Liliana to handle had decreased remarkably. And then, at times where she could relax, her thoughts would run toward her beloved every time. She would think of him especially vividly at night when she was all alone by herself, constricting Liliana’s heart painfully.

「Hajime-san……」

「Fufu, isn’t that the answer, Liliana-sama?」

「-」

A voice that wished for her beloved unconsciously leaked out. The exclusive maid that caught that voice laughed merrily with loosened cheeks as though she had seen something delightful or perhaps something charming. Liliana felt somewhat awkward getting seen through like that, and she averted her face with her cheeks reddening.

The exclusive maid chuckled even more from seeing Liliana like that. Surely, if in this place there were other servants who were serving under Liliana, every one of them would surely have made similar smiles from seeing their master’s cuteness.

Everyone was holding really deep thoughts of respect and gratitude to Liliana.

Liliana was already loved by the servants and the people due to her personality. And yet, she didn’t stop just there, when the capital was once attacked, she slipped out of the palace by herself and went to call for help. Such an event was well-known due to a certain merchant with a name that was similar to an energy drink.

In addition, it was also known how she tried to offer her body to the empire in order to save the kingdom that was weakened by the attack.

And then, in that legendary decisive battle.

While the people of the capital were sent to evacuate toward the empire, they asked what she would do with unease in their heart. To that, Liliana said with a smile.

——”Even though the royal capital will become a battlefield, if I, the princess, don’t fight, then who will fight.”

She became the commander-in-chief and took the command of hundreds of thousands of warriors in the battle that staked the existence of mankind. That gallant figure was spread far and wide by the surviving soldiers, mercenaries, and adventurers.

Her fame had risen up with a momentum that pierced the sky. Regardless of man or woman, young or old, in spite of race or occupation.

That was why the exclusive maid could say the words□it’s enough already□with conviction. It was the general consensus of all the people.

Liliana threw her gaze outside the window once more, at the reconstructed city. She felt the warm gaze of the exclusive maid while wearing an ambiguous expression, unable to be convinced whether it was really fine for her to be liberated from the responsibility of royalty and chase after her own happiness by crossing over the world.

But, at that time, ri—n a sound that was like a wind chime rang. That was a signal from the room in a corner of the palace that was used for “gate opening”. The sign that the door to another world was opened.

-. Hajime-san!

Her gloominess until just now vanished elsewhere. Liliana’s expression bloomed brightly in a flash like a child. She said to her exclusive maid I’m going to welcome him! before going out of the room with energetic footsteps without even waiting for a reply.

The exclusive maid was silently bowing toward the door that was opened vigorously.

Hajime, who appeared from the gate, was jumped by Liliana with obvious happiness. And then without stopping she pulled Hajime’s hand like a kid and guided him to her own room.

Midway, they passed by the servants of the palace and several nobles, each time they faced Hajime with unconcealed respect while their expression greatly softened seeing Liliana who kept tugging on Hajime’s hand in her grasp as though to say Hurry-, hurryyy.

Every time Liliana passed by someone, she would greet them politely, but it seemed she didn’t notice their warm expressions. Surely, after some time passed and she calmed down, she would become like a ripe apple then.

Hajime was wearing a troubled smile seeing such a Liliana while he was getting dragged cutely. In Liliana’s room, he received black tea that was personally brewed by her.

「Nevertheless, today Hajime-san comes alone then. I thought that Yue-san and the others would surely come too though.」

Liliana was placing a tea snack that looked like a cookie on the table while asking Hajime with her head tilted. Hajime made a smile that vaguely looked mischievous and asked back.

「What? You don’t like being alone with me?」

「Suc, such a thing……couldn’t possibly be true.」

Liliana cheeks faintly reddened and she dropped her waist on the chair with a thump. Hajime’s gaze that was oozing a bit of S aura caused her gaze to wander, and her body to fidget around without any composure. And then, Liliana became unable to endure Hajime’s atmosphere that seemed to enjoy her state and changed the topic.

「And, what about Hajime-san? It seemed that you were really busy from “Kouki-kun is abducted too many times-Case” though……」

「……That naming, it really caught on?」

「Yes, well. After all, after that other world summoning, Kouki-san was further summoned again and dragged Hajime-san then, right? I heard the story that during the third summoning Kouki-san got dragged in with teary eyes while also dragging in Hajime-san. That story is already spread around here. Ryuutaro-san and others were telling that story looking really amused.」

Hajime half-smiled at Liliana’s words.

Just as Liliana said, Kouki went into an atonement journey in this Tortus, but in the middle of his journey when he stopped by in the palace, he got summoned into another world somewhere.

There, Kouki faced his own way of living, and through many twists and turns, he saved the world but……

At that time, when Hajime who was begged by Kouki’s childhood friends and his wife rushed to where Kouki was for assistance, just when the series of event was resolved, and they were going ‘no, let’s go home’, another summoning assaulted Kouki as though to say「Next one, please take care of ii~t」.

Kouki was on the verge of tears while yelling「I don’t want anymoreeeeee~~~」and wasted no time clinging tightly to Hajime who was nearby. Demon king-sama got flustered 「Wai-, you-」but it was already too late.

While the childhood friends and wives were staring in a daze, both of them intimately went through another world summoning for the third time.

To tell the truth, after various things were happening in that world, they got summoned for the fourth time. Kouki was a softhearted person, but as expected, it seemed that he snapped toward the goddess that requested「I want you to save the world」, and in front of the watching Hajime he,

「You stupid idiot-. Why are you giving up like this! Do your best-, do your best! You are a goddess right! If it’s you then you can do it-. You can do it by yourself! You surely can! Believe in me who believes in you! If you give up, then it’s the end of the world y’know!」

Like that, entrusting himself to the momentum, Kouki insisted「Please manage it somehow by yourself」. In a sense, he had done something astounding. It was a heartfelt insistence to the degree that it made Hajime to unconsciously admire him.

As a result, currently, there was her majesty the queen of the second world and the materialized goddess of the fourth world on both sides of Kouki, staring at each other with sparks scattering between them.

Back to the story.

Hajime recounted the experience with a bit of a faraway look. He then noticed Liliana who was staring at him in wonder and coughed before returning to the topic.

「Well, it has calmed down somehow. Right now, I'm going to college while trying to expand my business. Well, even though I say that, on Earth there are also dangerous bunches and guys with dozens of loose screws in their head as it is, so I'm busy there in its own way.」

「Is that so. Come to think of it; I heard that Kousuke-san is running around to resolve that kind of case. He introduced several women who will be living on this side.」

「……Those Hauria bunch are sprinting to even weirder directions after obtaining Earth's knowledge. It's tiring already thinking about those guys.」

The 'hyahha' life of the head-reaping rabbits that exhausted even the demon king. Just where in the world were they going toward? In a sense, it was worthy of admiration how a certain girl in a lab coat with a side-tail hairstyle was still working hard. And then, as for a certain agent who recently became obsessed with wearing a rabbit ear hairband and in a mistake forgot to take it off and casually went into her workplace, surely she was completely beyond hope.

Hajime was about to get a faraway look once more. In order to make him return to reality, Liliana opened her mouth with a slight panic.

「Even so a college student is it……how should I say it, I have some doubt if there will be anything that Hajime-san and others can learn in college after this far.」

「Well, I cannot deny that. But, you know, the college students all over the world are relatively noncommittal don't you think? We too. It's not like we took the examination seriously thinking of wanting to learn something. It will be a long life after all. We just thought that it wouldn't be that bad having the experience of being a college student.」

「I, is that how it is? I heard that what is called a college in the world over there is the highest institute of education, so I thought that it would be a gathering of those who are serious with their studies.」

「Of course, there are also the serious bunches there, and that's also the correct way of going through college. It will be a different story if I'm using my parent's money, but I'm paying for everything, the tuition and also the living expenses with the money that I earned myself. Whether anyone will do it seriously or loosely, it depends on each person. What I'm saying is, just what is bad about going there in order to enjoy the student life?」

Hajime said that with a shrug. His feeling of wanting to experience university was true, and it was also a fact that he was learning the major of archeology and folkloristics because he was interested in them.

Although, his biggest reason was something that couldn’t be helped; that was “wanting to see the female college student Yue”. The experience of hearing a lecture while sitting side by side with Yue with the appearance of a twenty-year-old really satisfied Hajime. Of course, he wouldn’t say it out loud.

By the way, just like always, his harem situation and the wives’ beauty caused a university somewhere to still be in the middle of chaos and mayhem.

「Enjoying school life…..is it.」

Liliana let out a small mutter. It wasn’t like there was particularly great emotion filling that mutter, but the small hope that was implicitly included in that mutter couldn’t be hidden.

Because she was a princess, Liliana was unrelated with student social status. Something like the springtime of life in the middle of school life like a normal girl was something that she only knew from books. She had a longing for it, and she also dreamed about it.

It was possible that she could experience high school life with Hajime and the others if she acted selfishly in the past. If she abandoned the kingdom and her status as princess and shook off everything, then perhaps such a dream could’ve become a reality.

After thinking that far, however, Liliana thought「How stupid」with a self-depreciating smile and shook her head. Abandoning the people to run toward the dream with a man, that kind of woman wasn’t herself.

——I am Liliana S. B. Hairihi. The only princess of the Hairihi Kingdom.

She had a longing for being a normal girl. But, if she discarded being a princess for that, then the brilliant soul of Liliana would die out. It would be none other than Liliana herself that wouldn’t forgive her if she abandoned the people and ran away from her obligation. If she did something like that, surely Liliana would continue to scorn herself for her whole life.

Just when she thought about her own personality as「What a difficult personality 」, a small laugh suddenly reached her ears. When she raised her gaze in puzzlement, there was Hajime with a smile on his lips staring fixedly at Liliana while resting his chin on his hand. His gaze was awfully kind in contrast with the smile on his mouth.

「E, err, what is it?」

For some reason, she couldn’t look at Hajime’s eyes and turned away slightly while asking. Her heart was beating fast, hammering in her chest.

「No, nothing. I’m just thinking, that you are proud as usual.」

Liliana tilted her head from not understanding what Hajime wanted to say. Hajime’s smile was turning increasingly kinder seeing that while he spoke the main topic that he came for today.

「Enough about me for now……what about the kingdom? I more or less let out reconnaissance planes right after I arrived, and had a look at the situation. Based on what I see, it seems that the reconstruction is going along well.」

「That’s, right. I also talked about it just now with my maid, but even the plan for the celebration ceremony of the new royal capital completion has begun. I also haven’t heard of any serious problems with the empire, the beastmen, and the rebirth of the holy church. I believe that we will be able to proclaim our revival in less than half a year. Of course, the new capital has the concept of “an open city to other countries and races”, so there is a huge mound of small problems.」

Even while feeling perplexed with the radical topic change, Liliana answered like that with a wry smile. She also said 「Come to think of it; I came here after leaving a mountain of paperwork that I have to go through」with her tongue playfully sticking out.

But, Hajime only narrowed his eyes at that joking gesture of Liliana without particularly laughing back, and he then asked quietly.

「About that, is that a problem that cannot be resolved without Lily here——without princess Liliana S. B. Hairihi here?」

「Eh?」

Liliana lost her words hearing Hajime’s question. The content of the talk was similar to her conversation just now with her exclusive maid.

「Is this country unable to progress forward without Princess Liliana? Will it mean that you abandoned “the responsibility of royalty” by leaving now? Is it crossing over worlds that will hurt your pride?」

「Pl, please wait a second. Just, what is this about……」

Liliana waved around her hands from being unable to understand the surge of questions and asked Hajime to stop.

……Of course, she actually understood just what Hajime was saying to her. The fast beating in her heart didn’t show any sign of stopping. Her face was so heated that she was aware of it herself.

But, honestly, she also felt perplexed. She had been a princess since she was born. It wasn’t an exaggeration to say that it was her identity. Even though she understood that her happiness lied in another place, it wasn’t easy for her to make the decision.

As though seeing through that perplexity of Liliana’s, Hajime smiled wryly「You are thinking too hard on it」while further adding on to his words.

「I’m not asking you to abandon being a princess. This is just a matter of the order of priority. Leave the role of being royalty to other people for a bit and live for your own sake a bit more――won’t you be like that any time now? That’s what I mean.」

「I, I am……」

‘Is it really fine?’ Liliana tilted her head again with such doubt.

Hajime’s expression turned half concerned, and half exasperated from seeing the princess who was still conflicted with the feeling of reluctance and guilt to leave her country for her own sake.

And then, he scratched his head a bit roughly as though he had finally grown impatient.

「Good grief……you really are an obstinate princess.」

「Hajime-san?」

Liliana who understood what was the intention of Hajime giving her that kind of question gazed anxiously at Hajime who was looking like that thinking「By any chance, has he fallen out of love with me?」.

Hajime also returned an exasperated gaze at that gaze of Liliana while replying,

「Stop acting like this already, if you won't act at least a bit selfish……I'm going to kidnap you, you know?」

「Hee!?」

He said such a thing.

Liliana raised a hysteric voice while jerking her body which caused the chair to make a bumping sound. Hajime then grinned broadly while making an additional blow by saying 「A demon king kidnapping a princess……that's not strange at all, right?」.

Naturally, it caused Liliana's face, no, all of her visible skin to be dyed bright red to the degree that it looked like she might explode.

Liliana kept opening and closing her mouth wordlessly. Hajime shrugged at that, and then, thinking that there wouldn't be any progress like this, he suddenly took out a crystal ball from "Treasure Warehouse II" that looked like the item used in fortune-telling and put it on the table.

「If you are that doubtful whether it's okay for you to live for your own sake, then let's just ask directly instead.」

「Wha, what are you planning to do?」

The demon king took out an artifact——that fact caused Liliana to feel a bad premonition blaring in her mind, and her cheeks twitched. The princess laid bare her wariness in a complete change while the demon king activated the artifact with a really nice smile.

And then, he took in a deep breath facing toward the crystal ball that was faintly shining and,

「AT~~~~~TENT~~~~~ION-!!」

He yelled really loudly with that kind of voice. Instantly, there was exactly the same voice and word 「AT~~~~~TENT~~~~~ION-!!」resounding from outside the window.

Liliana turned her startled face to outside the window, and while her mind was in chaos「E? Eee!?」, the demon king-sama who was also in perfect form today raised his voice uncompromisingly toward the people of the new capital projected inside the crystal ball, where they were also similarly looking around at the surroundings with their minds in chaos.

「This is too abrupt but——I'm the demon king!」

「Certainly it's just too abrupt!」

Liliana acted the straight-man from her heart. From the crystal ball, there were also the voices of several people who similarly acted the straight-man, resounding inside the room.

It seemed that this artifact had the function that connected the image and voice. Just now, Hajime said that he launched reconnaissance planes over the new capital right after he arrived, so surely this artifact was linked with those countless planes by a two-way connection to broadcast the voice.

Hajime smoothly ignored Liliana’s retort and sent his voice to the middle of the capital.

「People of the new capital, I’m asking all of you. ――Do you still need Princess Liliana?」

「Ha, Hajime-san!?」

The capital people inside the crystal ball were showing a bewildered expression. The amplified voice that was reverberating everywhere caused the people indoors to come outside too, and they all looked at each other’s face. Hajime told them that he was using an artifact to talk all over the capital and that if they answered from where they were, their voice would reach his ear.

Liliana who guessed what Hajime was trying to do went ‘awa awa’ in a great panic.

「Right now, I’m in the middle of courting Liliana. I told her, just come with me to my world right away. But, the situation is unfavorable. It seems that this princess-sama is worried about you guys, she is really worrying so much that she cannot bear it. ――What do I do now? At this rate, I’m going to get dumped like this, even though I’m the demon king.」

「REA~~LLY, JUST WHAT ARE YOU TALKING ABOUTTTTTT-」

The demon king-sama was venting his anger「Because of you bastards I’m about to get dumped here, asshole」to the people all over the capital. Liliana was getting teary-eyed from shame and everything while screaming at such a demon king. She stood up so quickly the chair fell down and then she kept hitting repeatedly poka poka at Hajime’s head to make him stop.

His head was shaking all over ka-kun ka-kun, however, the demon king-sama didn’t stop.

「Therefore, I’ll ask, one more time. Does all of you, does this world, still need Princess Liliana? Are all of you toddling chicks that are so helpless that she cannot take action from worrying about you guys?」

The people looked at each other after hearing that question thrown at them once more.

And then, with a bewildered expression on his face, a stern-looking uncle that seemed to be the foreman of a construction site,

「No, even if I’m asked that……Liliana-sama, she is still staying in the palace until now?」

He said such a thing.

Hearing that voice resounding from the crystal ball, Liliana went「Heh?」with a really strange voice. Even while she was astonished like that, the voices of the people of the new capital who were talking to the people beside them in a mood like gossiping were starting to reach through the crystal ball.

「Oh dear me. I was completely under the impression that her highness has been living happily in the other world since a long time ago already.」

「Eh, how strange. I heard that she already has a child with his majesty the demon king already though……」

When the wife of an ingredient shop said that, the shop's owner the husband cocked his head in puzzlement and replied like this,

「If I'm not mistaken, the demon king-sama has been living in the world over there with his other wives since a long time ago I'm told. By any chance, our princess-sama, she got left out?」

「Eh, Liliana-sama, she is alone?」

「No, wait. The relationship between the wives should be great. Yet, for Liliana-sama to be still here means……by any chance, she didn't get along with her mother-in-law……」

「Princess, she got bullied?」

In front of the new main gate, when the soldiers of the kingdom were talking to each other, the male and female adventurers nearby were looking to the sky with sympathizing expressions.

Liliana's cheeks were starting to twitch uncontrollably. She had never imagined even in her dreams, that during the time she was desperately taking care of the works day by day, the people that she worked for actually thought that she had eloped since a long time ago. Furthermore, her still being in the palace was starting to make strange misunderstandings spread!

「Wai-, wait everyone~~! I'm not being left out and also not being aloneee! I even get along well with my mother-in-law Sumire-sama! A, also, something like chi, children……I don't have them yet. I am just doing my work pro~~perly here!」

Liliana reflexively gave an explanation with a loud voice, but that voice was picked perfectly by the artifact that was pointlessly high-spec and was sent to every corner of the capital.

The pathetic sounding explanation of their beloved princess caused the people to look at each other for the third time, and then they laughed with each other as though they had arranged it beforehand.

There wasn’t even a shred of emotion that was poking fun in their laughter. That laughter was overflowing with warmth.

The foreman of the construction site whose voice got picked up first tensed his dirty face while sending his words.

□In that case, there is only one answer to that question of his majesty the demon king.□

The foreman then glared all around him, there his several dozen subordinates made similar expressions. And then, with their voices matched together,

□□□□□□We don’t need the princess anymore!□□□□□□

The wife and husband of the ingredient shop just now, and the surrounding people were,

□□□□□We are fine already!□□□□□

The soldiers, adventurers, mercenaries,

□□□□□Please don’t treat us like a helpless chick!!□□□□□

Liliana’s eyes were nailed toward the crystal that kept changing the projected image with the voices of those people getting through.

The people of the capital right now were facing the palace, and they raised their voices.

The people who were in the middle of working stopped moving their hands, the people indoors got outside, regardless of adult or child, they all were saying things like 「Just how long is the princess going to keep working」or「Her highness worries too much」or「If princess does nothing but work, then his highness demon king will fall out of love you know」that pierced relatively deep into Liliana without batting an eyelid.

But, their expressions were uniformly warm, that was why the heart of the people was conveyed toward their beloved princess Liliana with nothing to spare.

Namely,

——Enough with the tedious talk. It’s fine already, so just chase your happiness right away.

That.

The warm, lovely thing overflowing out from Liliana’s heart turned into tears that trickled through her cheek. She leaked out a sobbing voice and formed her words desperately even while her voice stuttered many times.

「E, *ever*yone! Thank, youuu!!」

The formed reply became a ripple that spread throughout the new capital. Whether those words of gratitude were conveyed or not, the expressions of the people that seemed to say「That’s our line」gave the answer more eloquently than anything.

Hajime hugged the small shoulder of Liliana who was letting out large drops of grateful tears. That small shoulder had been continuously burdened with the country until now.

Hajime circulated his words of conclusion through the artifact.

「You guys, that really helped. Even the obstinate princess finally folded. This is sudden, but I'll take Liliana right away.」

「Eh? Eeh? Hajime-san!?」

Liliana turned bewildered feeling her body floating lightly, and then when she noticed that she was being held in a princess carry, her face turned red instantly.

Liliana turned small in Hajime's chest from shyness and happiness. Hajime gave her a glance while taking back the crystal, but his movement suddenly stopped from remembering something.

「Aah, that's right. I'll say this in advance to the people of the new capital. Liliana, in the end, cannot stop being a princess, she is a woman with kindness, sincerity, and love. Therefore, from here on too she might unexpectedly come home here to take a look at your situation. At that time, if you guys show Liliana a predicament that makes her sad…… know that my 108 harassments will rain down on you all.」

「Wait, what are you saying there!」

A demon king was someone unreasonable. And this one here was an extreme one.

Liliana retorted with a convulsing face at the demon king's proclamation of disaster, and the faces of the new capital's people were also convulsing all at once. And then, the people swore in each of their hearts. 「Let's live seriously with our all」like that.

It was the day that people would live with their all, half threatened.

On that day, the princess who had continued to devote herself to the kingdom and the people was kidnapped with a princess carry by the demon king to another world.

……By the way, regarding Liliana’s personal effects, thanks to her exclusive maid standing by in front of the room of “gate opening” with complete preparation, they were crammed into a large bag, so there was no problem at all.

The bag of Liliana’s personal effects that was presented right away was received by Hajime like it was only natural along with a praise「Good work」while the exclusive maid acted humbly saying「It’s a great honor」like it was only natural. Needless to say, Liliana yelled「You act more like a servant to him compared to when you’re with me! Or rather, you two absolutely plotted this behind my back already!」when she saw that exchange.

AN: Next chapter will be uploaded around seven.

Arifureta Chapter 225

Arifureta After II The Part-Time Leader Lily First Part

AN: I'll submit one more chapter for the commemoration of the resumption.

Part Time Leader Lily Second Part will be around 8 or 9 o'clock.

□Hafuu~□

That kind of sigh, which was free of tension, resounded inside the room that gave off a sense of cleanliness with its white tone.

Her own sigh unexpectedly echoed loudly causing Liliana to be taken aback, and then she frowned with a speechless expression, perhaps because she was letting out that sigh unconsciously.

For some reason or another, she kept leaning her back deeply on the reclining chair she was sitting on, and then she kicked on the floor with the bare tips of her toes and tried turning around. The good quality chair lightly rotated and the state of the room was reflected in Liliana's sight in order.

It was a room that was half the size of the room that she was using until just some time ago in the palace.

Liliana herself thought that this size was just right, but if the nobles and servants in Tortus knew about this, then they might yell「How can the princess be made to live in this kind of small dog house!」with a look like Edvard Munch's The Scream.

A few months had passed since the day when "Princess Liliana" went inactive and arrived on Earth. The more the months and days passed, the more she made in Earth accessories bit by bit.

The puppet "Dancing Davis-kun" that she received from Myuu at the moving celebration was emitting its presence excessively. Surely, the expression "quivering" suited the puppet more than "dancing". It was vibrating jiggle jiggle like a dangerous person who was going through withdrawal symptoms.

Just from where in the world did Myuu obtain this Davis-kun……

Honestly speaking it was eerie, but when she recalled Myuu's smiling face whenever she thought of throwing it away, she was unable to throw it away.

「Fuu~~n」

Liliana was letting out a strange exhalation that lacked in tension while rotating her chair one more time. She then stepped a bit and rotated in reverse. Whirl whirl. Whirl whirl.

「Nothing, to do.」

It seemed she had spare time.

「How amazing. Liliana is now experiencing by myself that "spare time" I heard from rumors.」

It seemed she really had spare time. To the degree that she narrated the present condition of herself by herself.

For Liliana who was born as royalty, what was called “spare time” was the same as a fairytale.

After all, she was the sole direct descendant of the royalty until her little brother was born. She began going through education for the gifted ever since she was old enough to be aware of her surroundings, and even when Randell was born and her possibility to ascend to the throne decreased, the necessity for her to receive much training in her role as a spare, or in order to function as a rope toward the empire, didn’t decrease at all.

And then, when she was in her youth at the age of fourteen, she went through a year of a chain of events that was like surging waves, to which the word dense wasn’t enough at all to express that experience. And after that, she was swamped with work for the sake of the reconstruction.

From the time since she was born until the moment before this, she was in a position that was understandable for her to never experience this thing called “free time” or the like.

That was how Liliana was before, but then she was taken away by Hajime, had her official papers made in forgery, deceived the administrative official, obtained social status peacefully by slapping public safety in the face, and currently, she was going to the same college as Hajime and the others.

Before this, she had been taken to visit Earth several times, so she understood that earth was a world that was like a jack-in-the-box. Even so, the “school life” and “learning experience of another world’s college” that Liliana yearned for tickled her curious mind and gave her fresh enjoyment. It was, but……

Whirl whirl. Whirly whirl. The princess of another world was rotating in twirls using the chair of another world. And then, she came to a stop,

「……Davis-kun. It’s nice to be you huh. You look busy quivering.」

Finally, the princess started talking to a doll. Davis-kun quivered back and forth looking troubled.

But, at that time, the sound of the entrance opening could be heard faintly.

If Liliana had animal ears growing in her head, then right now they would surely be snapped up in attention pikon. She wore her indoor slippers and exited her room with rhythmical steps te-te-te— in order to welcome the person returning home.

She went down to the first floor and encountered Sumire who was holding a large quantity of bags, for some reason.

「Welcome home, Sumire-okaasama.」(TN: The kanji for okaa-sama(honored mother) here is written with the kanji of mother-in-law)

「My, you are home early today, Lily-chan. I’m home!」

Sumire fixed her hold on the large amount of bags with a rough huff before Liliana went to help her in a hurry. She took several of the baggage, and when she glanced inside them, it seemed their contents was a large number of side dishes.

「Say, Sumire-okaasama, this is?」

「You see, this is today's dinner.」

「Dinner?」

「Yes. The dishes that were served in the event had leftovers, and I pilfered them all! They were really delicious. I heard that they called a really famous cook to make the dishes. So I thought that I should let my uncute son and his cute wives to try them.」

「Is, is that so. Thank you very much, Sumire-okaasama.」

「Your welcome!」

Liliana's expression crumbled softly seeing her mother-in-law who was all smiles.

Frankly speaking, this is Sumire they were talking about, so she surely must have forcefully swiped the dishes for "takeout" without even minding the eyes of others drawing away from her. If not, normally someone would stop anyone from bringing home this much.

It seemed that today there was an event for the live-action film of the manga that was authored by Sumire, so the people there too must be only looking at Sumire who was packing up the food happily while thinking「No way we can anger sensei at this event huuh~」.

The Nagumo Family was in prosperity.

Sumire herself was a big name shoujo manga artist, and her husband Shuu had made his company bigger in these few years. And above all, the businesses that Hajime reached out his hand toward here and there were making absurd killings.

From the standpoint of royalty, it wasn’t like Liliana didn’t think that they had the allowance, so they could just directly employ that chef to cook directly for them.

But, no matter how much they were earning, no matter how prosperous they were, displaying a dynamism that was not forgetting this kind of “fun” was the shared trait of the Nagumo family. It was a tacit precept of the family.

Liliana became really ticklish seeing Sumire who showed off the dishes「I came with the delicious cooking that I snatched off――!」for the sake of herself who was a daughter-in-law.

They carried the large number of dishes to the kitchen before Sumire tilted her head「Come to think of it」while speaking out her question.

「You aren’t together with Hajime and the others?」

「Yes. Hajime-san and the others still have a lecture, so they are still at the college. The lecture that I was scheduled to have canceled……」

「My, that’s nice. Doesn’t a sudden lecture cancellation make you happy for no reason?」

「Eh? Eer……」

It seemed that Sumire’s common feeling wasn’t transmitted to the serious and diligent princess. After all, this princess was someone that would start talking to a quivering doll when she had too much free time.

「Or rather, even if you didn’t come home, you could’ve just gone to the lecture that Hajime is going to. Even just chattering aimlessly will be fun, right?」

「No, Sumire-okaasama. As expected, thinking that it’s fine to chatter while receiving a lecture is just……」

「Eeh~. It’s fun exactly because you are doing it secretly behind the teacher’s back.」

「Sumire-okaasama……」

Liliana’s shoulders dropped in dejection. Her blood-related mother Luluaria was fundamentally a sincere character that was strict and diligent to herself. And so, Liliana couldn’t say anything anymore to the irresponsible statement of her mother-in-law whose sense of value was completely different with her real mother.

But mysteriously, the relationship between Sumire and Luluaria was good despite this, which was why it was something mysterious.

They put down the dishes for the evening dinner with a thud in the kitchen. Sumire was moving the many dishes that were her war booty while she threw her gaze to Liliana who was helping her serving the food with similar nimbleness.

「And, how are you recently? Have you gotten used to this world? At the time when you only just came, you spent all your time studying various things, but recently you aren’t like that anymore.」

「Yes. I have grasped Earth’s affairs in general. The economics and politics, the religion and history, the situation of every nation, culture, fashion……every book in this world is compiled systematically, and even if there is something I don’t understand I can investigate it immediately using the internet. It’s really convenient.」

「Aa~, yeah, I see.」

「Yes. Especially the more I learned about economics and the study of statistics, the more I feel how deep they are. The density and the fruits of labor that has been accumulated by the predecessors of this world are something that I cannot find in Tortus. Every day, I feel like I am shown just how behind the study of the world other there is compared to here.」

「I, I see. How amazing~」

「Yes. Right now, over there they are still in the middle of reconstruction, so even if an advanced system is suddenly introduced, I can see that it will only end in failure. It won’t be able to happen right away, but someday, I believe that the kingdom has to adopt this. Regarding the field of economy, the coordination with Fhuren――」

「St, stop! Sto~~~~~p! That’s enough there, Lily-chan!」

「Heh?」

Sumire hurriedly raised her voice to stop Liliana who was spouting a torrent of speech.

Liliana was lifting her face in puzzlement, but even now, her hands were moving continuously without pause and served up the packed dishes as though they were palace cooking. Her speed was twice Sumire’s while her courteousness was triple.

「Geez, Lily-chan, even though you should have left the position of the princess and came into the family when you are talking about your mind, you are only talking about the kingdom.」

「a……」

Liliana finally noticed herself what she was talking about after getting stared at by Sumire's half-admiring half-exasperated face. Her cheeks reddened.

「When you just arrived here, you felt like 'Everything attracts my interest, so there is no time for that!', but when you calmed down after grasping the situation to a degree, as expected, you become concerned with your homeland, don't you?」

「N, no, such a thing……is not true.」

Seeing Liliana who stuttered, Sumire put her index finger on her chin muttering「Uu~n」in a thinking gesture before she spoke something that was shocking for Liliana.

「Is that so? But recently, Lily-chan is making a face that looks like a lost child somehow you know?」

「Eh……」

Sumire walked toward Liliana who was staring at her in blank amazement with her eyes turned round, and then she stooped down a bit to put their eyes at the same height. And then, after Sumire confirmed that those blue eyes were reflecting herself properly, she asked calmly with a gentle and kind expression.

「Do you want to return home?」

It was a gentle voice that was filled with concern and sympathy toward Liliana without any blaming tone in it.

For a moment, the questioned Lily showed an expression that didn’t understand what the meaning of the question was. But right after that, she unconsciously raised her voice.

「I’m not thinking anything like that!」

「Wawah, wait Lily-chan, calm down.」

「Sumire-okaasama, it’s true! I’m not thinking of going home or anything! I’m not feeling any discomfort or dissatisfaction! I love everyone! I’m happy I can come here! It’s true!」

「I get it, I get it already!」

Sumire spontaneously hugged Lily tightly.

It seemed that Liliana jumped to the wrong conclusion thinking that Sumire’s question had the implicit meaning of 「If you are dissatisfied with the life here, perhaps it’s better to go home?」

Of course, Sumire didn’t mean anything like that. She was only concernedly thinking「Perhaps she is slowly getting homesick?」, thinking that anyone would be driven by their feelings for their homeland. She wouldn’t say anything like ‘go home’ even if she got her mouth ripped open.

Because, Sumire’s feeling toward Liliana was,

「A princess! The real thing! From another world! Just who would let you go! Fuhehe, everyone in the world! How can this be, this lovely princess-chan, she is my daughter! Thank you very much! Dyufu, dyufufu」

It was fixated like that.

Liliana, who knew nothing about that, was tightly embraced against Sumire’s chest and guessed that she was misunderstanding and her cheeks reddened once more.

「I’m sorry, Lily-chan. Looks like I’m off the mark.」

「No, it was me who jumped to the wrong conclusion…… thank you very much for worrying about me.」

「I’m your mother. Isn’t it natural for me to be worried about my daughter? If there is something, then don’t be reserved at all and consult me, okay?」

「Yes-」

Liliana smiled softly at the gentle hand of the mother-in-law that was caressing her head. And then, they began moving the dishes on to the plates once more. Liliana didn’t even suspect that inside her heart, Sumire was jumping in joy thinking「No good-, the destructive power of a genuine princess’s smile is extraordinary yaa~~!!」

After that, Liliana was enjoying tea with the kind mother-in-law until Hajime and co returned home.

A lively family.

A quiet time with the beloved people.

Liliana was feeling the happiness she hoped for. There wasn’t any falsehood in it.

However, for some reason, Sumire’s words were remaining inside her head, and it didn’t vanish, like a small bone that got stuck in her throat. It caused her to have a feeling that she couldn’t express in words.

That night. Liliana, who returned to her room, had finished all her preparations to retire to bed; however, she didn’t lie on the bed and sat on the swivel chair while being in a daze.

The words「Like a lost child」from that afternoon were replayed many times over inside her head.

When she suddenly dropped her gaze, there was the unmoving Davis-kun there. It was unmoving without even a twitch with an expression that was like it was going to raise an American laugh「HA————-, HAHAHAHA-」anytime now.

「——O wind」

Liliana spoke a verse of chant. Immediately, a breeze flowed, and Davis-kun started to move shiver shiver, tremble tremble as though it came to life. It was really comical. As though it was making fun of Liliana who was even now harboring a mist that couldn’t clear up.

「……Damn you, Davis-kun.」

She tried hurling abuse with a tone that was out of the norm for her. Hurling abuse when it moved even though she was the one moving it herself, it seemed that Liliana was considerably “loosening”.

But, at that time, a knocking sound suddenly rang out. Liliana twitched, and in shock, she replied even while her voice slightly turned shrill.

Like that, the one who entered was Hajime.

「Yo, can I bother you a bit?」

「Ye, yes. No need to say a bit, please feel free to do as you please. But, there will be a lecture first thing in the morning, so if I can possibly be let to sleep by the early hours……」

「This isn't night crawling. Or rather, you think I'm a really frivolous guy that will say something like "let me do it a bit" huh.」

Hajime smiled wryly at Liliana who was in a thorough misunderstanding while retorting. And then, he sat down on the bed and directed his gaze at Liliana who was red-faced from her misunderstanding.

「Well, it's also not something as big as a business or anything though……how are you doing lately?」

「……Fufu. I was also asked that this afternoon by Sumire-okaasama. Do I really look that unusual I wonder?」

Seeing how the mother and son were equally worried about her caused Liliana to leak out a chuckle of amusement.

Hajime scratched his cheek awkwardly while answering.

「You aren't acting unusual or anything. It's just; it's the fact that you look like you aren't energetic. And from that, it looks like you are gloomy because it seems that Lily yourself doesn't understand just why you aren't energetic.」

Liliana felt a ticklish feeling 'he really is looking properly at me huuh' while she hugged her knees on the chair. Her figure that turned small on the chair with only her toes peeking out from her largish and loose negligee was really charming.

「Thank you very much for worrying about me.」

「What are you saying. I'm your husband you know? It's obvious for the husband to worry for his wife.」

Once again it was a similar line from the mother and son. This time Liliana became so excessively amused that she chuckled a bit louder.

「I'm fine, Hajime-san. Really, it's only that sometimes I felt a bit gloomy. It's nothing big at all.」

Hajime sighed at Liliana who was saying such a thing. And then, he suddenly stood up and lifted up Liliana in a princess carry.

Hajime sat down once more on the bed. However, this time he put Liliana on his lap in his arms.

「Err, Hajime-san? As I thought, yo, you will do it?」

「I'm not gonna. The inside of Lily's head is unexpectedly pink colored huh. No, perhaps it's not unexpected. In the first place, you have a hobby of creating delusions.」

Liliana's cheeks reddened with her hand on her own clothes. Hajime directed a warm gaze at her. Liliana turned sulky.

「Don't sulk like that. Recently, I'm bothered. I'm asking not for Lily, but because I want to know. Listen to your husband's request.」

「u. That way of talking is not fair.」

Liliana groaned in a small voice.

And then, strength left her body as though she was giving up, and she began to talk about her emotions lately that she herself wasn’t clear about.

According to her, the time she spent in the Nagumo family was really happy.

According to her, the lecture at the college was also really interesting.

According to her, there was nothing more easeful for her heart than this situation where she could play, learn about what she likes, and having a day where she didn’t do anything.

According to her, right now, she was living just like in her dreams, without any anxiety or pressure, spending happy days being surrounded by her beloved people.

According to her, every day was really meaningful.

The more she talked, the more it felt like there wasn’t any problem. But, Hajime’s expression, who was staring fixedly at the talking Liliana, was gradually turning amazed, no, to speak more accurately there was a color of exasperation that was starting to dwell in that expression.

If asked why his expression was like that, it was because even though Liliana should be talking about happy things, her expression looked vaguely unsatisfied.

Liliana didn’t notice Hajime’s expression that was like that, and in the end, she summed up her own feeling.

Most likely, I’m lacking in an objective inside myself. Surely, what I ought to do is find a great objective and devote myself to it just like Hajime-san and the others who are doing their best in order to manage the businesses. Yes, that must be it. It feels like I can see it while I was talking.

For the time being, I’ll learn economics to the end because it will be useful in the futu――

「No, that’s not it.」

Liliana finally looked up to Hajime after getting interrupted midway. And then she noticed. That Hajime’s face, for some reason, was absurdly exasperated!?

「Ha, Hajime-san? Did I, say something strange?」

「Aa~, yep, what to say. You are strange. Especially in your head.」

「That’s cruel-!? That’s an unthinkable abuse! Just where is it in me that is strange!?」

As expected, Liliana couldn’t forgive Hajime’s abusive language, and she snapped angrily while questioning him. It caused Hajime’s expression to turn speechless.

Liliana guessed that somehow Hajime had noticed something that she didn’t notice herself. So she waited for an answer even while puffing up her cheeks.

Hajime suddenly stood up and the, he casually tossed Liliana on the bed. Liliana bounced poyon and looked up at Hajime in a girl’s sitting posture.

「Listen well, I’ll say it starting from the conclusion. The true identity of your gloominess is “insufficientness”.」

「Err……that’s why, I said that I’d find an objective and work hard.」

「No, that’s not it. Even if you do that, you won’t be satisfied. It won’t be enough at all. Your murky feelings won’t get cleared up for even a bit. I can guarantee it.

Ee~. Then, what is it that you mean?

Liliana tilted her head in wonder as though asking ‘In the end, what is it that you want to say?’. Hajime opened his mouth while looking like he got a headache, as though this was something unexpected.

Work that is forced on you.

Yes?

Approaching deadline.

Err……

Cases that cause stomachaches. Tremendous pressure.

Excuse me~, Hajime-san? What are you……

A problem where running away is not permitted. The word responsibility that crosses the mind.

A, are you listening, Hajime-san?

The mountain of paperwork that is piled up mercilessly despite you being on your last legs already from lack of sleep.

……

Liliana finally fell silent before Hajime yelled as though to deal the finishing blow.

Work, work, work-, so much so that you are literally “swamped with work”!! A work with a grave responsibility that you feel like vomiting-!!

「……kufuh」

Liliana twitched. She looked around while saying「Just now, did you hear some kind of strange laugh?」. Naturally, there was no one inside the room except Hajime who was standing imposingly and the quivering Davis-kun.

「No, it was you just now, you.」

「Eh? What do you mean me……」

The gaze of Hajime whose hypothesis had turned into conviction, it now had gone past exasperation and turned instead into pity while his hand took a mirror that was on the table.

「Lily. Try to confirm, just what kind of face you are making right now.」

「Hajime-san's words and actions are cryptic since some time ago though……」

Even while saying that, Liliana obediently accepted the mirror then looked at her own face and――she stiffened.

That was understandable.

After all, in the mirror, there was an incomprehensible expression that was scowling in displeasure, yet even so, for some reason, the eyes of that expression were blazing fierily while a fearless smile was merging on the lips. If it was said without any dressing up, then it was a really creepy expression. And that expression was pasted on her own face!

Liliana tilted her head thinking「Dear me? By any chance, is there another world inside the mirror?」while she tried knocking on the mirror, turning it upside down while waving it around. But no matter what the creepy Lily there wouldn’t disappear.

Liliana stared at her own face for a while before she suddenly tossed away the mirror pei-. And then she turned her gaze at Hajime while putting her face between her hands.

「Ha, Hajime-san! Just what have you done to me! It’s cruel that you make my face turn like this!」

「I ain’t doing anything. It’s only Lily’s real nature surfacing on your face.」

「What do you mean with real nature!?」

For the time being, Liliana laid the blame of her terrible face on Hajime, but Hajime then pointed his finger with a snap at her.

‘What does real nature mean? If you don’t understand, then I’ll tell you.’

With eyes glinting like a detective cornering the criminal, Hajime exposed the truth to the world!

「Lily. You are——a genuine, and what’s more it’s at a super level, or rather it’s at abnormal pervert level, WORKAHOLIC!」(TN: Here Hajime said it in Japanese English, wookaahorikku)

「WHA, WHAT DID YOU SAY———!! ……No, wookaa……what is that?」

Liliana tried to get shocked following the mood, but she then tilted her head at the vocabulary that she heard for the first time.

「It refers to work addiction. First on the list is work, second is work, third and fourth is also work with work in the fifth. Personal life? What's that, is it delicious? Hobby? It's work; you got a problem? It refers to that type of person. Furthermore, in Lily's case, it doesn't apply to mere normal work. You aren't able to feel sufficient anymore unless it's something forced on you, with heavy responsibility, and its quality and quantity are in super hard mode. You are a work addict on an abnormal pervert level.」

「E, ee!? Yo, you are wrong! Rather, I actually hate working!」

「……Actually, recently there is this case where friction is appearing which concerns the public safety, and there might even be dead victims coming if the discussion fails. Lily, I'm thinking of leaving it to Lily――」

「Eh!?」

Lily-chan's eyes were sparkling brightly.

Hajime quickly picked up the mirror that was thrown pei- just now and thrust it in front of Liliana. It entered her eyes, the sight of her own face with an incomprehensible expression that looked displeased while also looking delighted. In a sense, it was an expression with a superb harmony between the two emotions.

「My, my real nature is, a workaholic……what's more it's at an abnormal pervert level……」

Liliana crumbled down. She fell from the bed, and then she trembled quiver quiver just like Davis-kun while her eyes were losing focus.

Even though she should have gotten away from the duty of royalty and crossed over worlds to chase the happiness as a normal girl, as expected, it was insufficient when she didn’t have any duties……

However, when it was pointed out to her like this, then certainly it was exactly like that. Even when she obtained the knowledge for living, even when she strived to study at the university, even when she built new human relations, and even when she went somewhere and did something, all of those were for her own sake.

No matter what happened, the consequence would only affect herself. When she failed, there wouldn’t be any considerable loss or anything. Even if, for example, an unexpected situation that surpassed the acceptable range occurred, in front of her new family, everything would be nothing more than a trifling matter.

It was truly a life of Easy Mode.

Compared to standing at the top of a country, leading the people, and fighting a mighty enemy, this life was truly, truly……

——Lukewarm

「Hau!?」

「O, oi, Lily? Are you okay?」

The feeling toward her life on Earth that was spontaneously welling up inside her caused Lily to crouch down with her hands pressing on her chest.

——Liliana S. B. Hairihi, 17 years old. The princess of the Hairihi Kingdom.

Since she was born, she had been continuously immersed in “things that must be done no matter what”. From that, her body had become something that couldn’t be satisfied with “things that she can choose and want to do herself”!

Give more work! Work that troubles the mind so much it feels like the head’s blood vessel will burst! Pressing problems that are nothing but excessive-. Paperwork that is piling up like a mountain range, that makes you hallucinate like it won’t end for eternity-!

「I’m not that kind of dangerous woma――――n-!!」

「Oooi-. Seriously, are you okay, Lily!?」

Liliana held her head while writhing around due to her real nature. Even while feeling creeped out, Hajime went to soothe her somehow.

Thirty minutes later.

Liliana, who calmed down somehow, was now sitting while hugging her knees feeling dejected. While she was like that, Hajime folded his arms and wracked his brain「H~m」.

「……Hajime-san. Perhaps it’s better if I go home.」

「Hm? I somehow understand what you are thinking, but why?」

Liliana’s body was stirring restlessly; she raised her chin that was put on her raised knees and spoke with a complicated sulky expression.

「As I thought, no matter where I go, I’m still a princess. No matter what I do, in the end, I’ll summarize it into the point whether it will become advantageous for the kingdom or not. And then, the “insufficientness” in Earth, it caused me to trouble Hajime-san and Sumire-okaasan like now.」

Her shoulders drooped, and she delicately muttered something incomprehensible「Someone like me after all, is just a princess that cannot become a normal girl」.

Hajime smiled wryly while answering.

「Well, whether you are going home or remaining here, it doesn’t really matter which one you are going to choose though.」

「That’s cruel-!? Is that something you can say to your wife!?」

Hajime’s wry smile deepened saying「I’m joking」at the enraged Liliana while he continued speaking.

「Look here, I understood from the start that you could not stop being a princess, you remember? Your princess level is a bit above my expectation but……if you want to do work as royalty, then I won’t stop you. If Lily wishes for it, then I’ll make it so you can even come and go there from here every day. I’ll need to concentrate a bit and improve the gate, but……well, I’ll manage somehow. That’s why don’t say you are going home looking desperate like that.」

「Hajime-san……」

Of course, Liliana herself also didn’t seriously say that she was going home. But, as expected, it was something joyful to be told「Don’t go」by her beloved like this.

Hajime continued talking to Liliana whose cheeks loosened up.

「I told you this several times already, but Lily, speak more selfishly. After all, no matter what kind of impossible demand it is, I'll do it somehow.」

「……yes.」

Hajime said that while patting her head gently. Liliana's body trembled as though she was in anguish. Her eyes were starting to carry heat. Hajime averted his gaze from such a Liliana and returned to the talk.

「And so. Becoming a commuting princess is also one way……」

「Commuting princess……it's the first time I heard that kind of vocabulary. But, I have the feeling that like that. in the end. I'll be swamped with work where I cannot stop even if I want to stop.」

「Yeah, I also think so. And so, how about doing work other than the work of the royalty? Even though I said that you will still get swamped with work, all the same, so you will be moderately busy doing things with moderate responsibility, like that little by little you will get used to "moderate work", and eventually your body and heart will get accustomed with "enjoying free time". Something like that.」

「So it's like, a rehabilitation then. I somewhat feel complicated……」

'Am I a sick person, ah, I'm an addict……' Liliana made a complicated expression with that thought. Hajime then suggested to Liliana whether he should leave several businesses for her to manage.

Liliana pondered for a little before she shook her head.

「No, I’ll refrain from work where I act as Hajime-san’s representative. I know that even by doing anything else I’ll still have the sense of security that everything will be fine no matter what happens, but even so, I believe that doing work that is unrelated with Hajime-san for my first rehabilitation will be just right.」

「Hm~m? Is that so. However, in that case, what will you do then?」

Liliana suddenly stood up, and while bouncing poyon on the bed, she thrust up her fist and proclaimed.

「Yes, I decided. I’ll do part-time work!」

Honestly, it wasn’t like Hajime wasn’t thinking「Is it fine doing part-time work?」, but it seemed better for Liliana to be in a place where she didn’t have the backing of Hajime, so he didn’t really say anything.

And then, Liliana said「My aim, is to be a normal girl! I won’t let anyone say that I’m a workaholic anymore!」with rough breathing from her boiling up motivation while Hajime was giving her a noncommittal applause「Oo, do your best~」.

Arifureta Chapter 226

Arifureta After II The Part-Time Leader Lily Second Part

Part 1

ding ding The bell chimes rang. It was a withdrawn sound that felt pleasant to the ear.

「Welcome.」

The two young male customers who entered were immediately addressed by a voice. The voice came from a small distance away, but it was a pleasant and refreshing voice that didn’t lose to the bell’s chimes.

When they turned their gazes due to the lure of the voice, there was a stunningly beautiful girl there. It was a blonde-haired and blue-eyed girl wearing a cute apron. Her luxuriant hair was tied on the back using a largish frilly ribbon.

Looking from the logo on the apron, the silver tray in one hand, and the plate placed on the other hand, it was obvious from a glance that this was this restaurant’s employee.

「Dear guest. I will guide you to your seat right after this, so can I please ask you to wait for a bit?」

『『Ah, yes』』

The two male customers replied in beautiful harmony. The waitress-san smiled cheerfully. The two of them staggered.

The waitress advanced smoothly through the gaps between the tables with light footsteps and set down the plates she carried with a movement that even displayed elegance somewhat. The two female customers who received their orders were staring in a daze at the waitress.

After that, the waitress once more gave a stunningly beautiful bow and smiled like a blooming flower at the two female customers who unconsciously returned the bow. The two female customers were shot through.

The waitress returned to the two male customers and bowed. A sweet aroma spread gently from the swaying hair of golden threads.

「I’m sorry for making you wait. Smoking seats or non-smoking seats, which one will be your preference?」

「E, either is fine.」

「Me, me too.」

The two male customers followed the waitress as though they were being lured by the constant smile. Even after they were sat, their gazes were kept glued to the waitress who was going to bring some water and wet towels.

They were handed the menu by the returning waitress. She then said「Please call me when you’ve decided your order」 before she was about to withdraw, but one man reflexively called out.

「He, hey. Before this, you weren’t working here, right?」

It was a sudden question, but the waitress that guessed this customer had gone to this restaurant before this nodded briefly.

「Yes. I started working part-time here just recently――I’m called Liliana. If I can become the acquaintance of you honored customers from here on――that will be great.」

She cutely smiled while bowing with her fingertips slightly clutching the tip of her skirt. That gesture swiftly shot through the two males. With the way how at the end of her sentence her polite language broke down slightly, it caused a sense of familiarity to well up inside the two male customers.

「I super will become your acquaintance.」

「Rather already we are become your acquaintance.」

The Japanese of the two male customers crumbled.

After that, there was a profoundly mysterious happening when Liliana came to take their order, for some reason, they ordered things from the menu one after another, even things that they didn’t feel like ordering were ordered following Liliana’s recommendation. The two looked like they were satisfied on the whole.

「Yuuka-san, I’ll be bringing more orders. Please take care of it.」

「Yes ye~s」

The chef who was wielding the frying pan inside the kitchen――Sonobe Yuuka replied back lightly.

It seemed that she had just finished cooking. She beautifully served the contents of the frying pan on the plate and faced toward the counter with the plate in one hand.

She was wearing a pure white chef coat and a crimson scarf on her neck. The limp beret on her head was also crimson colored.

In her student days, she had a serious character, but her appearance was showy, so she gave an impression of a frivolous gal. But right now, she was a splendid war potential of the western restaurant that was managed by her family. She was a chef who would become the second generation of this restaurant in the future.

It was only her dyed chestnut colored hair that didn’t change, but the atmosphere she was clad in was somehow mature and kind. The look in her eyes that could be called as sharp, if it had to be said, also seemingly looked like they had softened. Naturally, those factors also boosted her charm, which had existed since the beginning, by several times over.

In fact, there were a lot of regular customers who frequently visited this western restaurant□Wisteria□aiming for the beautiful chef. Also, this restaurant was established just a bit before Yuuka was born, so it had already welcomed its twenty year anniversary; there were also a lot of veteran customers who extremely enjoyed seeing the growth of Yuuka who they often helped since she was small.

□Yes, this is Kuban-san’s meat pie, take it, please. So, the next order is……□

Yuuka looked at the order tag she received from Liliana, and her eyes blinked repeatedly. And then, she leaned her body out from the kitchen counter and took a look at the table where Liliana had taken the order just now.

Over there were two young male customers.

Yuuka dropped her gaze at the order tag once more. No matter how she looked at it, there was an order for about six people written there.

「……Since Liliana worked here, the customers became really big eaters huh.」

「Yes, Japanese people are all gormandizer, aren't they?」

Yuuka lifted her gaze from the order tag and sent an unblinking stare at Liliana, but then she sighed seeing Liliana putting on a friendly smile.

「Well, they all ate the food without leaving any, so it's not a problem but……be careful not to make them force themselves too much okay.」

「Please leave it to me, Yuuka-san. It's my specialty to see through to where the limit is. I'll use every method available and make the sales and repeaters to be double the last month's. I'll bet on my honor as a former princess!」

「It's fine even if you don't bet that. Anyway, calm down first, former princess.」

Seeing Liliana whose nose breathed roughly with overflowing motivation, Yuuka acted the straight-man while smiling wryly.

「Now then, it will soon be the time when the customers will come in force. Let's put on our fighting spirit. I think it will be fine because Otou-san and Okaa-san will also be returning soon, but until then, spare me from the number of orders that I cannot deal with alone, okay?」

「It's fine. I have finished grasping Yuuka-san's ability. I will take orders in the amount where Yuuka-san can just barely manage!

Ah, yep. ——This, rather than being a rehabilitation for Liliana, isn’t this actually a trial for me?

Liliana said ‘Leave it to me!’ while putting the meats pie on her tray and headed out to give it to the customer. Yuuka murmured so while seeing her back.

After that, the two parents of Yuuka returned from their business, and the number of customers sharply increased when it approached evening. Liliana, who made the Sonobe family scream from the number of orders that were coming in like a surging wave, then clocked out when it was time for her to depart for another part-time job.

After that, everyone in the Sonobe family was left behind looking dead tired.

The customers also became sparse and after about an hour till it became time to close the restaurant for the day, ding the bell rang.

Welco——wait, what, isn’t this Nagumo?

Yuuka had left the kitchen and was now sorting the cash register’s sales slip. Just as she stated, ahead of her gaze was Hajime.

What do you mean by ‘what’ when you are greeting a customer.

Hajime entered the restaurant with a wry smile while sitting on the seat at the edge of the counter with a practiced movement. That spot was tacitly a reserved seat for Hajime who had now become a regular customer.

Since the party of the one year anniversary of returning home, Hajime, who was pleased with this restaurant’s cooking and coffee and also because of the friendly atmosphere due to the management who was his classmate and her family, sometimes visited now and then.

The other classmates too, even after graduating high school they would aimlessly drop by several times a month, and when they gathered for a meal, they would mostly gather at Yuuka’s restaurant, so this place became something like a hang-out place for the other world summoning group.

……Although, Hajime was also made to feel an extremely unwilling feeling because, for some reason, he received an extremely disgraceful impression that said「He is like a man going to his mistress’s place for an affair」from his family and friends.

Even though most times when he was here he would be with one or more of his wives, yet why he was still evaluated like that……. It was something that was greatly baffling for Hajime.

And then, those wives who were mostly with him when he was here, especially recently, would be staring at Yuuka with a fixed gaze; just why was it like that…….

When Hajime sat down, Yuuka’s father that had replaced her to cook in the kitchen——Hiroshi, and Yuuka’s mother Yuuri, addressed Hajime「Welcome」looking very happy.

Hajime returned the greeting and then Yuuka, who left behind the sales slips, asked him.

「And, are you coming to eat? It’s rare for you to come alone.」

「No, I finished having dinner already. I came here just to drink coffee a bit and also ask about how our part-time princess is doing.」

「Aa, I see.」

When Yuuka turned her gaze to her father, Hiroshi nodded as though to say「I don't mind」. In exchange, Yuuri moved to take over sorting the sales slip. For some reason, she was giving a thumbs up at Yuuka while she was at it.

Yuuka asked while pretending not to see her mother who was like that.

「Are you okay with blended coffee?」

「Ou. Or rather, are you the one making it?」

Hajime tilted his head because if he remembered right, even though Yuuka had become able to be entrusted with cooking, she shouldn't have been entrusted with making coffee yet.

Seeing Hajime's questioning face, Yuuka showed a bit of a triumphant look while she swiftly prepared to make the coffee.

「Yesterday I finally got the okay. I also took the barista qualification test already. This is more or less the first blend that I will serve to a customer, so drink it with care.」

「What's with that condescending attitude huh?」

A wry smile leaked out once more. The exchange between Hajime and Yuuka was very relaxed between each other from this kind of visit that spanned for several years. This was related to the impression of「He is like a man going to his mistress’s place for an affair, but the two of them didn’t have an awareness of that.

A fragrant aroma enveloped the space. Hajime made a wondering expression at the coffee that was presented to him and brought it to his mouth to test how good it was. And then, a beat later, he went Oh with his eyes snapped open in admiration. And then, without pause, he took the second and then third gulp. From that, it seemed that Yuuka’s first blend was a good work.

Yuuka made a delighted expression that was mixed with a little bit of relief while she slouched forward a bit and rested her chin on her hand above the counter. Her other hand was playing around with her crimson scarf with her fingertips twirling it, and one of her feet was tapping ton ton on the floor with her toes.

So? What is it that you want to ask? Lily is doing really well here though?

Is that so? She is a princess and shouldn’t have any experience in a service trade, but she doesn’t become a bother about various things because of that?

Nope, rather she is serving the customer so perfectly it is wasted for this kind of neighborhood western restaurant. She is elegant and refined——and it looks like there are already customers coming here for Lily.

Just from two weeks?

Yep, just from two weeks. And not just that, she even gave advice for the management. It’s to the level that it feels like we got the scale falling from our eyes. You know, she was having fun when she calculated how much the expenses this month got reduced.

「As expected from the addict of an office job. Just why is she doing consultation even though this is part-time job huh?」

Hajime sighed in exasperation. A smile emerged on Yuuka's lips with a chuckle seeing such a Hajime.

「Well, I too was anxious at first though. Suddenly, a call came from Nagumo telling me「Won't you try hiring a former princess for a part-time job」, what's with that? I myself am still a novice, and it's the best I can do just doing my own part. But, well, now I'm glad that Lily came to work here.」

「Is that so……. I too was really worried about letting Lily go part-time at a place I don't know about at all. At that point, if it's Sonobe, then I can trust you; and so, I entrusted her here……it's great if her being here also benefited this place.」

「……As always, you are overprotective toward your relatives huh. Today too, you came directly here to expressly check on her.」

Yuuka's expression turned into an exasperated one. However, her fingertips were twirling and toying her crimson scarf even more. The tapping of her foot became even more rhythmical ton, toton-.

For some reason, the mother who was in the middle of sorting the sales slip was grinning broadly seeing such a Yuuka.

「Well, I can't deny being overprotective but……I'm coming today because that girl is starting to act unexpectedly, no, in a sense, it's just as expected from her I guess. Hey, Sonobe. When she was in the middle of working, did Lily's atmosphere feel like she was unsatisfied somewhat?」

「Eh? ……H~m, I didn’t really feel anything like that. She was in really high spirits when taking orders, and she was scattering around courtesy so much it was starting to increase repeaters. Why are you asking? By any chance, did she say that working part-time here is dull for her?」

「No no, she isn’t saying anything like that. Rather, she was saying that she is having fun.」

Yuuka tilted her head at Hajime who spoke evasively.

Hajime hesitated a little before he confirmed it with Yuuka 「I’ve told you the details about why Lily is working part-time, right?」. When Yuuka nodded, Hajime continued.

「Since a week ago, that Lily, she often didn’t come home.」

「Somehow, that line sounds like something that would be said by a no good husband who let her wife run away.」

「Shut up. And then. When I tried asking what she is doing, it seemed that she is also starting to work part-time with the supplier that is doing business with your place. She said the work is completely desk work.」

「Eh? Is that so?」

That fact caused the eyes of Yuuka who didn’t know that to turn round. But, it appeared the story didn’t stop there.

「It seemed the fare configuration of that supplier is problematic, and then while Lily was talking about various things to the supplier, she then got scouted by the person of that company. I don’t know what kind of talk she had with them though.」

「He, hee. I wonder since when it became like that.」

「Yeah exactly. But, even with that, it’s unthinkable that she would be so busy that she needed to be absent from several lectures at the college and became unable to come home. I’m only guessing but……」

「She is doing more part-time work?」

「Yeah.」

Hajime nodded while looking like he got a headache. Although it seemed he didn’t have positive proof, that was why he thought of asking Yuuka, whether Liliana was feeling insufficient just working part-time in this restaurant.

「You can just ask her directly.」

「That girl is giving me the slip. I don’t want to get the answer out of her forcefully. And observing her with artifacts will make me look like a controlling husband, so I don’t feel like doing that.」

「Oh, really.」

Hajime drank his coffee miserly while looking really worried, or perhaps overprotective, and yet for all that, he behaved indecisively. Yuuka replied curtly with an expression that looked disappointed to that.

「In the end, what are you going to do? When she is working part-time at our place, she doesn’t look like she is feeling insufficient, she looks like she is having quite some fun you know? Should I indirectly tell her that Nagumo is worrying? I don’t know if the workaholic Lily will be able to restrain herself by doing that, but perhaps she will talk to you by her own initiative what part-time work she is doing right now.」

「I, see. Can I ask you to do that?」

「Yes yes. It’s fine, doing just that much.」

Yuuka nodded while lazily waving her hand. Hajime drank his coffee and said thanks before standing up.

「My bad that I sounded like whining there. I feel relaxed when I come here every time. I guess it’s not just for show that you are the second generation owner of the place for relaxation that lured even the demon king.」

「Even if you praise me I cannot give you anything except delicious western meals and coffee okay. There also won’t be any discounts.」

「Uh oh, that’s unfortunate.」

The two cracked jokes to each other. Yuuka’s scarf was twirled around so much it was already starting to fray while her tapping toes were already like a tap dance.

Hajime said his goodbyes to Hiroshi and Yuuri and then exited the restaurant. Yuuka saw him off before closing the door, and when she turned around, there were her two parents there with truly nice smiling faces.

「……What?」

Yuuka asked with obvious wariness. In response, the gentle Yuuri,

「What to do, Hiroshi-san. This daughter of us, her trait is completely a mistress.」

「H, h~m. But from my standpoint, I wish that she will marry properly though.」

「Lo, look here! Just what are you two speaking about your daughter! I'm not Nagumo's mistress, and I also got no plan to enter that guy's harem!」

Yuuka howled. However, the chain of events just now was where a man with wives and kid unexpectedly showed up; then she treated him with food, heard his complaining, and gave him comfort——those acts, even considering that this place was a restaurant, seen from the side looked enough like a mistress.

Seeing her parents who lightly deflected「We get it, we get it」toward her words of denial, Yuuka became especially displeased.

However, it was natural that her words didn't have any persuasiveness.

After all, Yuuka's toes tapping ton ton on the floor was her habit when she was in a good mood. And furthermore, that habit wouldn't come out just from being in a good mood; it would only come out if she also felt embarrassed at the same time.

In addition, there was the crimson scarf and limp beret that Yuuka was wearing. Actually, those items had a lot of color variety, but Yuuka only had those items in the crimson color, even including the spare. When she went to buy a replacement, as expected, she would pick crimson again. The same color as the light of the magic power of a certain someone.

And then, her habit of rolling around her scarf with her fingertips was a new habit that was formed these past several years. It was an unconscious habit that came out only when she was talking with a certain someone.

「Heey, Otou-san, Okaa-san? Are you two listening?」

「Yes yes, we get it already. We better start closing up the restaurant soon~」

「The most important thing for Otou-san is that Yuuka is happy, that’s all.」

「I, told, youu~~~」

The famous western restaurant「Wisteria」. The frequently changing emotion between joy and anger of the second generation owner was also the specialty of this place.

Part 2

A month after Hajime showed just a bit of a good-for-nothing act at Yuuka’s restaurant.

Currently, everyone was gathering in the living room of Nagumo residence. The 120th something of the Nagumo Family Meeting was opened.

The one who sat at the center of the large dining table was Hajime, and right in front of him was Liliana who was sitting with an awkward expression.

“Now then, Lily. Do you know what the meaning of this family meeting is?”

“u, mo, more or less……”

Liliana averted her face quickly to the side, but ahead of her gaze, there were Yue and the others who weren’t even hiding their exasperated expression. What gouged her heart especially deeply was that even Myuu was looking at her with eyes that appeared to be looking at someone hopeless.

Hajime was about to open his mouth toward Liliana whose gaze was swimming sui~ to the opposite side.

But, before he could speak, pururururu a phone’s ringtone rang.

“Ah, I, I’m sorry. Please excuse me a bit.”

「Ah, oi, you」

Liliana looked the other way even when Hajime raised his voice while putting her own smartphone on her ear. And then, what could be heard after that were only words related to business like contracts or clients and so on.

Before long, it seemed that they had reached an end and Liliana cut off the call. Seeing that, Hajime sighed while opening his mouth.

But, before he could speak, pururururu a phone's ringtone rang.

「Ah, I, I'm sorry. Please excuse me a bit.」

「……」

She answered the phone. This time, it seemed that there was a problem occurring regarding the shift at her part-time workplace. Liliana was listening to the phone while going 'uh-huh, uh-huh' before she quickly started to give out instructions, like who to call, who to substitute for the shift change, what to do about the lacking place such and such, and then what she wanted to be dealt with next and so on……

Hajime wanted to act the straight-man 'Managing shift schedules obviously ain't the work of a part-timer right!?', but for the time being he endured it.

Before long, the talk came to an end, and Liliana cut off the phone. Hajime then sighed while opening his mouth.

But, before he could speak, pururururu a phone's ringtone rang.

「Ah, I, I’m sorry. Please excuse me a bit.」

「……」

Liliana answered the phone. For some reason, there was a sobbing voice coming from the other side of the phone. Liliana was consoling her talking partner while sometimes also reprimanding, and then in order to deal with a grave problem that seemed to occur from some kind of miss, she took out one more smartphone from her pocket and quickly began to give out instructions.

Before long, it seemed that she finished and Liliana cut off the phone. Hajime, who got a vein pulsing on his forehead, was opening his mouth.

But, before he could, gatari the sound of someone standing up from a chair resounded.

「I’m sorry, Hajime-san. It seems that the section chi――cough-, a regular employee who was entrusted with an important project made a miss, and it turned out into something that a part-time worker like me has to deal with. And so, I’ll go out for a bit!」

A part-time worker that followed up for a regular employee’s miss. Or rather, a regular employee who came crying to a part-time employee even though it was his miss. Furthermore, it seemed this regular employee was a section chief.

Since when did the definition of part-time work change drastically like this.

Liliana quickly put her outfit in order while saying things like 「At this rate, the two hundred employees there will be out in the cold! As a part-time leader, I have to do something before she tried to go outside.

snap- One more vein emerged on Hajime's forehead. And then a word.

"Shia."

"Yes sir desuuu"

From behind, the rabbit-eared wife who was dancing to the same beat as the husband embraced Liliana who right now was about to exit the room.

"Shi, Shia-san? I'm sorry, but I'm going to wo——"

"Yes yes, I'll just make you cool your head a bit heree"

"Eh? Wai-, NOOOOOO-"

Liliana screamed, and then after that, she received an artistic German suplex and the floor struck the back of her head."My head-, my head hurts like it got splitttttt-"The former princess was shouting while rolling around on the floor in agony.

"Uu, just what are you doing. After this, I have an important work……"

"Is that, something more important than the family discussion?"

Liliana complained while rubbing the back of her head with teary eyes. Hajime asked her with a sigh mixed in it."Uu-" Liliana was at lost for words, and Hajime said in response.

"If that's how it is, then I'll attempt to solve the root of the problem and make it so that you lose your reason for going."

「E, err, Hajime-san, what do you mean specifically?」

「……Today's weather is sunny, but it seems that there will be a random meteor shower later.」

「Let's have a discussion.」

Indeed, the root of the problem would be cleared. If there wasn't any troubled person, then there also wouldn't be any trouble.

Feeling how unbearable it would be if the meteor shower that once annihilated the capital of her own country was dropped on her part-time workplace, Liliana took her seat in a panic.

「Look at you, even though recently you were grieving because not to mention me, you weren't able to even converse satisfactorily with anyone in the family because of work, work, work, but then you tried to get out abruptly from the discussion to talk about that, just what's with that?」

「Tha, that's, obviously, even I am also fed up here you know, Hajime-san? I really want to yell out loudly, 'just why are they all relying on just me, please manage it somehow just by yourself.' But, before I realized it, everyone relied on me, and I was placed in a position with responsibility, and now it's really hard to break out from it.」

「Even though it's part-time work?」

「Even though it's part-time work, yes.」

Hajime sighed for who knew how many times already. He then handed over the mirror he had prepared to Liliana who was talking with a voice that couldn't hide her emotion of 「I'm fed up already」.

The face that was reflected in the mirror was the creepy face of the workaholic Lily with fierily blazing eyes.

Liliana gently put down the mirror.

「This is a mistake. It’s not like I’m starved or anything. This is a misunderstanding. Thanks to doing a moderate amount of work from the part-time job, day by day, I’m in the process of getting closer to becoming “a normal girl” ――」

「Including the part-time job at Sonobe’s place, how many part-time jobs are you currently holding?」

「……I, it’s, seven.」

「The job description?」

「A, a bit of managing inventory and dealing with the client.」

「Other than that?」

「Something like fast food restaurant.」

「The specific.」

「……I’m in charge of the part-time workers at the main restaurant while being entrusted to coordinate the surrounding seven branch restaurants.」

「The call just now?」

「At another establishment related with food and drink where I’m working part-time, various things happened, and I work as an advisor of the head office trade section……It seems there was a miss at the transaction that was started from my advice where the company’s fortune is at stake, and at this rate, it would get a complete revocation. If that happens, depending on the situation there, then there is even the possibility that the company will go under.

Hajime wordlessly pushed out the mirror. It was as though he was an exorcist that was pushing out a cross toward a girl who was possessed by a devil! What was reflected in that mirror was a creepy face that seemed to sayThis is a heavy responsibility you know, Lily! Gufufuh……

Immediately,Stooppp——. Don’t show me the mirrorrr——!!Liliana writhed in agony.

……She was completely like a girl who was possessed by a devil.

Yes yes, at~~ten~~tion! Now that we have confirmed that presently Lily-chan’s workaholic level hasn’t improved at all, everyone, please state your opinion!

Sumire, who held the role as the chairman of the meeting, tapped the table kan kan with a spoon and asked for the opinion of everyone.

Yes!The one who raised her hand first was Myuu. Sumire pointed with a fork at MyuuYes, Myuu-chan!. Her manner was really bad.

I think that Lily-oneechan’s addiction won’t be fixed even if she died!

Kafuh!?

Myuu launched her words like a bullet of an anti-material grade rifle with a cheerful smile on her face. Liliana pressed her chest and collapsed.

Next,「Yes desuu!」was Shia with her rabbit ears standing straight. Sumire pointed sharply with long chopsticks「Yes, Shia-chan!」. Just where did she take it out from?

「I think that something like rehabilitation is meaningless to fix a person's core nature desuu!」

「Guhih!?」

That opinion actually had much persuasiveness. A~ll of Shia's family were people with screwed up core natures. Incidentally, Shia's self-proclaimed best friend, the princess of the elves, was also a pervert at the core. Soon, she might turn from her best friend into her step-mother. However, regarding this case, Shia was averting her rabbit ears from the reality.

The next one who hurriedly raised her hand was Tio. After her, Remia also raised her hand while smiling. Sumire said 「Yes Tio-chan, Remia-chan!」while pointing with a snap using a ladle. For a moment, it looked like the ladle materialized from empty air……was that just an illusion?

「For example, if I hath mine butt spanked moderately in the name of rehabilitation, and then asked if this nature of mine can be fixed by that or not, then the answer is it's impossible! This art the same.」

「What a hardship. Even though she wishes to stop working and be together with her family, without working she will be frustrated……it will be great if there is something else other than work that she can do.」

「Uu. I'm the same as Tio-san……even if you ask me something other than work……after all, I'm just a hollow person……hics-」

Liliana lost her nerve. And then she fell down before starting to trace circles on the floor with her fingertip in an easy to understand gesture.

「Nn-」Yue raised her hand. Sumire said「Yes, Yue-chan!」while pointing with a frying pan for rolled eggs so hard it made a buon sound. ……It looked like she took it out from her cuff though.

Beside Sumire, Shuu's eyes were sparkling, 「Sumire, you, your party performance skill has gone up again!」his tension was climbing up to the sky.

「……You want, remodeling?」

「Hiih!? No thank you!」

'That difficult nature, want me to remodel it along with your soul?' Yue wriggled her hands while standing up from her chair. In response to that, Liliana screamed while dragging her body backward.

Hajime gave a glance at Liliana who was trembling like Davis-kun before he scratched his head and opened his mouth.

「Well, it's positive that this nature of Liliana cannot be fixed just from doing part-time work.」

「Uu, Hajime-san?」

Liliana's shoulders dropped despondently.

Hajime's gaze ran around toward Yue and the others. He judged that they all had reached a conclusion. And then, he made Liliana sit on her chair in order to tell her that conclusion.

「Lily. Anyway, these two months of rehabilitation turned out meaningless, that's why, how about if in the next two months you don't do anything?」

「Not doing, anything?」

Liliana was bewildered. Hajime nodded「Yeah」. In a sense, this was a shocking proposal for Liliana.

「Resign from all your part-time jobs, and then, become a shut-in NEET for two months.」

「Eh?」

Like this, with the unanimous vote from「The 80th or 130th, well it doesn't matter which, of the Nagumo Family Meeting」, it was decided that the princess of another world was to become a shut-in NEET.

By the way, regarding the mismanagement of a certain trade department that made a miss, it was resolved in moderation by Hajime due to Lily's entreaty. Of course, it was resolved using a way that wasn't a random meteor shower on a sunny day.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

I uploaded three chapters consecutively for the celebration of this story's resumption, but for some reason, this Lily arc didn't end.

Unexpectedly, I had fun writing, and unconsciously the story got dragged on.

Especially how it became as though this is Yuuka’s turn even though this is Lily’s arc……Lily, how pitiful.

Now then, my deepest apologies, but next week’s update for Saturday will be Lily’s arc too.

In this After II, I’m thinking to try to write about the wives or classmates that didn’t get spotlights.

And when I finish with that, unexpectedly there are a lot of wishful voices, and Shirakome himself is also getting in the mood for it, so I’m thinking that perhaps I should try writing about the story of Kouki-kun who got kidnapped too muchhh.

Well then, please take care of Arifureta from here on too.

Arifureta Chapter 227

Arifureta After II I Become the God of the New World? First Part

---

AN: I’m sorry, the Lily arc hasn’t ended yet……

Next chapter! I will finish it next chapter without fail!

PS-

The chronological order was pointed out to me, so as soon as I have time, I’ll revise it.

Until then, it will help if you readers can think that this is how it is with the hopeless Shirakome just like usual and look the other way.

Part 1

☆NEET Queen Lily

Two months had passed since that『It’s troublesome already to count the number y’know, Nagumo Family Meeting』, where it was decided that Liliana had to become a shut-in NEET.

During that time, in order to rescue the workaholic former princess, Liliana, who was constantly drifting around from too much free time, was consoled by every one of the Nagumo family with every kind of amusement. It was so that she could forget the matter of work even for just a little.

Everyone was worried from the bottom of their hearts about their family member who was addicted to work at an abnormal level.

Then, specifically what kind of amusement was provided for her? For example, there was something like this.

The one who was the first to move even among the Nagumo family was Myuu. She visited Liliana’s room with toys in her hands.

『Lily-oneechan, let’s play this!』

The thing that Myuu brought and presented to her with a lot of energy caused Liliana to tilt her head.

『Err, what is this, Myuu-chan?』

「It’s Raptor nano.」

‘I’m not asking in that kind of meaning.’ While thinking that, Liliana dropped her eyes on the thing that was handed to her――a 1/48 model of an Earth’s fighter plane, multi-purpose tactical fighter F-22, alias Raptor.

Myuu nodded in satisfaction at Liliana who accepted the model even while she was in bewilderment, and then she took out another model fighter plane. 「Flanker-tan is also hard to discard, but it cannot win against the charm of the variable wing. Tomneko-tan, I pick you!」She did that while saying such a thing.

「Now, Lily-oneechan. Shut-in NEET Lily-oneechan who is only staying indoors. In order to master being a shut-in NEET, let’s blast off to the sky while secluding yourself inside the room nano!」

「Err, Myuu-chan? I wish you won’t repeatedly call me a shut-in NEET too much like that……. It’s more or less something decided at the family meeting; it’s something like a medical treatment……」

「Shut your mouth, Warrant Officer Lily. Do you want me to beat you up? nano」

「……Recently, you are increasingly growing similar to Hajime-san aren’t you, Myuu-chan. Especially in that unreasonable aspect.」

Surely, if there was an entry for “unreasonable” in the status plate, then Myuu’s parameters would surely extend out with terrific momentum.

Before Liliana realized it, Myuu, who seemed to change completely into a military personnel, was clad in something like a pilot suit, equipped with a short mustache, teardrop type sunglasses, and sharply put sucha! on her face.

And then, she handed over matching sunglasses and a short mustache, along with something like a game joystick, to Liliana. Perhaps for Myuu, speaking of military personnel meant having a short mustache……

「Warrant Officer Lily. This is a flying toy that papa created. Something like a drone. A distant viewing stone is used for its cockpit screen, and its field of vision can be shared through these sunglasses. The controls are performed using this joystick. Do you understand? nano」

「Ah, yes. No, I don’t understand. First of all, what’s with the Warrant Officer?」

「Ah, Myuu is the flight lieutenant and is above Lily-oneechan, that’s why properly call Myuu as Captain nano.」 (TN: Should I use lieutenant here or captain? This is how the raw is. I don’t really get the structure of military command.)

「No, that’s not what I’m asking……」

Myuu already opened the window and put her F-14 Super Tomcat in standby. Whether when she was a princess or when she wasn’t a princess anymore, the point where she was ignored didn’t seem to change.

「Preparation OK. Demon squadron, Demon 1 Super Tomcat. Launch- nano!」

「Eh, do I need to say that too? E, err, Demon 2, Raputar? La, launching!」(TN: When the word Raptor is Japanized, it was spelled as raputaa)

The fierce gleam from Myuu’s eyes emitted a wordless demand. Liliana, who sensed that, spoke while matching with Myuu’s launch sequence. There wasn’t any runway, but Captain Myuu’s first aircraft and Officer Lily’s second aircraft floated lightly using gravity control, and then they both flew outside the window.

After that, the sight of the vast sky that was visible through her sunglasses cleared up, even if just temporarily, Liliana’s gloominess, who was feeling depressed from not working.

Liliana was opening her mouth to thank Myuu for her consideration and her invitation for this wonderful playing time, but when she glanced to her side, for some reason, Myuu was making a fearless smile that was just like her father. Seeing that Liliana was assaulted by a fiercely bad premonition.

Right after that,「Finally they are coming huh. Fine then, I’ll play with you nano」Myuu spouted out ominous words. Liliana was glancing at Myuu through the corner of her eyes as she became speechless from the scene that was visible through her sunglasses.

After all, there was a “real fighter plane” flying in parallel with their model aircraft.

Liliana questioned Myuu with naked agitation, but according to Myuu’s careless reply, it seemed that the place their toys were flying was right above the base of the JDF.

Actually, before this, Myuu already had previous offenses of flying above the JDF base while raining down missiles that were crammed with ketchup and mayonnaise.

The vehicles and facilities on the base, and also every one of the JDF who came outside to shot down the aircraft model was dripping with ketchup and mayonnaise at that time. It seemed that they flew into a rage from that. Perhaps because of that too, this time even the fighter planes of the JDF finally scrambled just to face a small model aircraft。That damned drone came around again!。that was displaying a performance that was unbecoming when compared to the existing drones of the modern era.

The pilot of the aircraft flying parallel with them, for the time being, moved his hand in the cockpit in a pointing down gesture; he was demanding them to land down.

。Myu, Myu Myu Myuu-chan! What are you thinking! As expected, this is crossing over the limit of things that can be done!。

。Lily-oneechan. There are great sayings in Japan nano――it’s not a crime if it’s not exposed.。

。Hajime-saa――n! Remia-saa――n! Myuu-chan here is dashing in an improper directionnn! Please revise the education policy-! Or rather, stop her quicklyyy!。

。Fuh, naïve. Both papa and mama, and also everyone else, are away from home nano. Myuu has made no oversight!。

Ignoring the shaken Liliana, Myuu said something like 。Demon 1, engage!。while controlling the plane with pointlessly refined piloting. And then, the cockpit of the startled pilot was fired at by Vulcan.

Right after that, bichi bichi bichi- small bullets hit the canopy of the JDF aircraft. Naturally, the canopy was dyed bright red. It wasn’t the pilot’s blood, but ketchup. Furthermore, there might be some kind of particular component included in it because the ketchup was clinging well without getting blasted away by the wind pressure.

The pilot’s movement stopped. No, he was starting to move slowly. He was moving his hand. His hand was once more moving lower——tracing his neck, and then his thumb dropped downward. It was obvious what the pilot meant. 「Fall to hell」he gestured.

It went without saying that after that it had turned into a grand dogfight against the JDF aircraft.

Even while pleading for them to just go home already while half-crying, Liliana continued to escape from the JDF aircraft with excessively skilled piloting. Myuu said「If we escape here, it will be the shame of the women of the sea!」while displaying beautiful midair maneuvers one after another like an Immelmann turn, Cobra, and so on. She didn’t stop her grand rivalry with the JDF aircraft. Naturally, even Liliana’s straight-man act「Woman of the sea you say……this is the sky!」was ignored as if it was nothing.

But, the end came so suddenly.

Because out of nowhere, the back of Myuu’s head was tightly held in an eagle grip.

gi gi gi When the short mustache and sunglasses Myuu turned around, like a machine that didn’t get oiled, there was the figure of her papa half-smiling.

After that, the drone forcefully self-exploded in the blink of an eye;「Aa!? Myuu’s Tomneko-tan!」even such a scream echoed in vain and signaled the end of Myuu’s “playing”.

And then, the main offender Myuu met a punishment of a hundred strikes on her butt by Hajime from going too far in playing, and on that day a sobbing voice was echoing in the Nagumo residence without stopping until dinner time.

Liliana, who got the feeling that recently Myuu's attitude was becoming too flashy, was looking at Myuu who was reflecting with teary eyes. She thought, 'perhaps it ended all right like this'.

……She felt like for an instant she saw a color of ecstasy on the expression of Myuu while she was rubbing her swollen red butt, but surely, without a doubt, that was just her imagination. Because if that wasn't just her imagination, then one black dragon would surely vanish from this world without a trace.

At another time, she was also invited by Yue and Shia and tried working diligently at sewing steadily.

Yue had the experience of tailoring Hajime's outfit during her period in the abyss, so by now, sewing was becoming half a hobby for her. Shia was a rabbit skilled in housework from the start, so sewing was her forte. Taught by the two of them, Liliana's sewing skill was improving conspicuously.

There, Remia, who recently became known as an up-and-coming designer who was enveloped in mystery with an unknown face, offered up an idea, and Liliana tried to sell the clothes and accessories she created through the internet.

When she did that, it unexpectedly sold well, and Liliana was having fun more and more……

She established the marketing and advertisement of the internet sales, and what's more, she started to investigate the procedure in order to start up a company——and got a knuckle dropped on her head from Hajime.

It was understandable why Hajime did so. After all, she got a shadow under her eyes from thinking of the prospect of internet marketing in the future from morning until evening.

Most likely, the environment where she was made to be a shut-in NEET caused her to manifest withdrawal symptoms. No matter how much work she was chased with, it didn’t show up at all on her face even once. That was why it showed just how much she was starving for work that her face’s complexion changed.

And in the end, at midnight, Myuu rolled out from the closet of Hajime’s room looking scared because she could hear a strange voice. She was clinging to Hajime while in tears.

……Let’s put aside for now just why she was hiding in the closet of Hajime’s room at midnight.

Let’s also put aside, for the time being, the appearance of Myuu who was wearing adult lingerie with a black tone unbecoming for a ten years old girl.

While we were at it, let’s also put aside the fact how without anyone noticing there was a hole opened in the closets of Hajime’s and Myuu’s rooms with a size that could be freely entered through by a child.

Even while his expression was grandly twitching, Hajime carefully wrapped Myuu inside a futon and put her to sleep. He then entered “the place of strange voices”——the Lilianna’s room. When he confirmed the inside, he found Liliana making noise from a nightmare there.

She was roughly breathing looking like she was in pain while moaning. ……While sometimes,□fuheh□she was raising a strange giggle. Her expression was the usual creepy face.

It seemed, even inside her dream, she looked like she was going□Ge, geez-, this is really hopeless. Fine then, I’ll do it already. If I don’t do it, then who else will do it☆□. It seemed that in her dream she was happily chased by work even while acting displeased.

This princess couldn’t escape from work whether in dreams or reality.

Hajime devised a plan.

In the first place, Liliana had a habit of fantasizing. Especially regarding love affairs. And then, in this house, there was a leading person on that road. Yes, it was the famous shoujo manga artist Sumire.

With the work of Sumire as the first on the list, the book collection of shoujo manga that was deposited in large amounts at her workplace was given to Liliana.

Because of her seriousness that came since birth and her workaholic nature, and since Liliana came to earth, she was busy in learning various things and didn’t really come into contact with this thing called manga. For Liliana, her reading was mostly thick learning books. She wasn’t familiar with books that had mainly pictures in it.

Because of that, at first Liliana was smiling wryly from the really unfamiliar experience, but because it was something prepared for her with effort, she gave it a try.

And the result was,

□Munch munch-, gulp-……puhah. Aa, what’s with this good-for-nothing. What are you doing just seeing her off there? Good grief, you don’t understand a woman’s heart……. Nn, continue to the next volume. Eerr, the next one, the next……□

She got addicted, and she was not just merely but totally addicted to the world of shoujo manga.

Liliana was lying down on the bed while right beside her was a bottle of Co○ Cola and a bag of potato chips constantly on standby. She brought them to her mouth while still lying down as she dragged her body forward while reaching her other hand toward the next volumes of manga piled up without raising her body at all. She had reached this kind of advanced level by now.

In addition, she was in a state that wasn't concerned at all with her rolled up skirt, generously exposing her thighs that recently had become somewhat plump; in addition, she sucked up chupa- her fingers that got gleamingly oily from the potato chips before wiping those fingers on her flipped up skirt.

Already, there wasn't even a shred of the atmosphere of a former princess from her.

She was an existence that shut herself inside her own room in broad daylight, equipped with carbonated drinks and potato chips, and continuously adventured to the world of literary creation without getting tired of it.

Liliana S. B. Hairihi.

Right now, she had become a genuinely splendid shut-in NEET without anything that could be complained of from her!

□How did it turn out like this……□

Hajime who was standing beside the door of Liliana's room while looking at the state of Liliana was pressing his head with one hand looking pained.

Certainly, it was Hajime who handed over the great amount of shoujo manga so that Liliana could enjoy her free time a bit. But, while that might be the case, he wondered just why in a mere month that work addict on an abnormal pervert level could become a splendid shut-in NEET like this.

Hajime sighed while feeling troubled□Was the recoil from the work addiction too powerful?□at the former princess whose way of living was overly extreme.

And then, he approached Liliana who didn’t even noticed that Hajime was right behind her while she kept lying down indulging in manga with her bare legs swinging up and down.

Standing beside the former princess whose panties visibility wasn’t just a glimpse anymore but already at a completely exposed level. Hajime let out a deep sigh once more and held that plump butt in an eagle grip.

□Hinyah!? What is thisss!?□

Liliana’s butt twitched up with her panties still fully exposed. Even so, she didn’t let go of her manga and also didn’t even stand up and only looked back across her shoulder. She then went□What, it’s just Hajime-san□in understanding and smiled before returning to the world of manga without pause.

□No, don’t go back there. Look over here, butt-naked princess.□

□Bu, butt-naked princess……that’s a really cruel remark.□

As expected, Liliana couldn’t just accept the way Hajime called her and raised her body squirmingly. Yet, even so, she only moved to a girl’s sitting posture with her slovenly state unchanged seeing her skirt was still flipped up.

「And so, what business do you have Hajime-san? As expected, it’s to grope my butt? Ufufu, even though the sun is still high up……the love of my husband is strong.」

After saying such a thing, Liliana fidgeted around while closing her eyes and she pushed out her lips「Nn」. With oily lips that were gleaming from potato chip remains.

Hajime’s shoulders were falling in dejection at Liliana who didn’t have even a shadow of the proud princess in the past while inside his heart he was complaining「In a sense, Liliana might be number one if speaking about the level of things not going as planned」.

And then, he gently used a tissue to wipe up the lips of the potato chip princess who was waiting for a kiss.

Liliana felt an out of place sensation on her lips and showed a puzzled expression at Hajime who kept wiping.

「Your current appearance, I wonder what the bunches at the kingdom will feel if they see it.」

「? Won’t they think, ‘she is really living in happiness’, like that? I’m happy you know?」

「……You also have potato chips and cola with you.」

「No, not really, that’s not……certainly, they are really delicious though. I also think that they are the strongest combo. ……Want to eat?」

Liliana tilted her head thinking「Perhaps, he wants to eat too?」while she rolled her body and took a bag of potato chips that was placed beside the pillow. And then, she rolled once more and returned to her former position with a really natural motion to get back to a girl’s sitting posture.

And then, when she felt the lightness and silence of the potato chip bag she was presenting, she blinked「Eh?」and confirmed its content. The inside was already empty.

「Err, I thought it still has some remain……」

Giving only a glance at Hajime whose expression was gradually turning speechless, Liliana rolled and rolled once more to move to the edge of the bed. And then, she reached out her hand while still lying down and rummaged around under the bed searching for something.

「A, there is. ……Here, Hajime-san. Please take one.」

She lifted up a box with a familiar movement, and then she took out that from the bag while hiding it with her body before she held out her hand smoothly toward Hajime. Right after that, from her arranged fingers, chakin! a po○ky flew out.

Liliana’s face looked triumphant. It seemed she saw a commercial and wanted to imitate it. And then while she was at it, her other hand that was held in front of her chest also had a po○ky shakin- flying out. She ate that one herself.

「……」

「This is really delicousss」

Seeing Liliana who was smiling cheerfully while wordlessly doing ‘aa~n’ at him, Hajime was starting to show a tired expression all the more.

□……So, about my business.□

□A, that’s right. What’s the matter?□

□No, it’s not really a big matter, today is exactly the second month. I’m wondering how it turned out.□

□……Ah, now that Hajime-san mentions it.□

It seemed that she had completely forgotten the aim of being a shut-in NEET. Liliana was making ○cky sticks shakin shakin from her fingertips while nodding in understanding. ……Her fingertips shakin was surely using magic. Truly a waste of magic use.

Liliana smiled cheerfully and spread her hands widely as though to flaunt herself.

□Please look, Hajime-san. Hajime-san’s strategy is right on the mark! I am splendidly free from any withdrawal symptoms even without doing any work, and not just that, I have turned into a normal girl who can think from the bottom of my heart that I don’t want to do anything like work anymore!□

Liliana proclaimed energetically. An ambiguous groan □uboa□leaked out from Hajime’s mouth.

It was truly just like this princess-sama who was unable to live except in an extreme way of living. No, perhaps it was exactly because she was royalty that she could only live extremely……

□Lily. I don’t know if you remember, but in the end, this is a rehabilitation to cure your workaholic symptoms. It doesn’t mean that it’s fine for you to just roll around like this for your whole life you know?□

「Eh……but, Hajime-san. If you work, you lose isn't that right?」

Hajime went「uboa」once more. This was no good; this former princess was no good already. Just within two months, she had thoroughly become a regretful princess.

「Listen, Lily. I am also an otaku at my roots, so I'm with the indoor faction. That's why I cannot unsparingly reject the saying to work is to lose. Tou-san also told me in the past, that a person who can become shut-in with their own money is the winner in a sense.」

「Hear that, just as I thought, we lose if we work!」

「Oi, are you listening to me? I said "your own money" just now.」

「Ee~rr, but, I am Hajime-san's wife……in short, Hajime-san's money is my money――higyahn!?」

An iron forehead flick burst out toward Liliana who was talking like Giant.「My forehead-, my foreheaaad-」Liliana screamed while writhing around.

Liliana's skirt inevitably got rolled up once more with her panties completely laid bare. A vein pulsed on Hajime's forehead while he spit out「I'll stop being gentle」and put an eagle grip on her plump thigh.

「Fuwah. Wha, what are you doing Hajime-san. As I thought, you are craving me right from the afternoo――」

「This thigh has become really plump huh. It feels chubby.」

「Eh? Is, is that so?」

「Yeah. Far more than two months earlier.」

Hajime was giving an unblinking gaze while「This place too, and also here too huuh」he grasped at Liliana's butt and her upper arm.

Guessing what Hajime wanted to say, Liliana's girl power finally reacted. Her complexion was turning drastically pale.

Hajime's fingertip was sliding toward the most dangerous place on her body. Hajime's eyes kept being unblinking, and he ignored even when Liliana tried to stop him and pinched at that place.

――puni-

「Stooppp――!! Don't pinch my stomachhh-」

「Oi oi, what's this. What's with this flabby stomach? Hmm?」

「Tha, that's not it! This is, there is just a bit of that going this, should I say that it's……」

Liliana was pressing on her stomach while her eyes were rolling round and round while she was desperately searching for an excuse, but the scattered wreckage of snacks, the remains of carbonated drinks, they all stole the persuasiveness from her.

Hajime turned his heart into a demon king and dealt the finishing blow to Liliana.

「At this rate, in one more month……the overweight princess Liliana will be complete.」

「O, overweight princess.」

ツイてる おいしさ!
やさしい ハッピーターン
やさしい
ハッピーターン
アレルギー特定原材料等
27品目使用しておりません。
グルテン不使用
5袋

おかげさまで
30周年
亀田製菓
化学調味料
無添加
おばあちゃんの
ぽたぽた焼
さとうじょうゆ味
おしょうゆ度UP!
おばあちゃんの新レシピ♪

Liliana crumbled down. It seemed that a sense of danger for her current situation was finally sprouting. She threw her poc○y pei- still with teary eyes. Furthermore, she took out Hap○y Turn from under the sheets and pei-. She took out a great number of gummies from under her pillow and pei-. She reached her hand under the bed and took out every kind of potato chip, Tonga○ Corn, Pota○ta Yaki, Do○tachos, boxes of ○maibou, Country ○'am, Cho○ Pie, etc……and threw them all pei-. And for the last, she hopped up and down pyon pyon which caused candy to fall down from all over her clothes. She threw peeeeei- all of them altogether. (TN: , , ,

,

,

,

)

The snacks built a mountain in the corner of the room. Just how much had she piled up?

「Hajime-san. It appears that I have the fate of needing to work no matter what.」

「You are going to the extreme again. Why can’t you do things in “moderation” huh?」

「I am Liliana. A woman who can only choose white or black, one or ten!」

「No, even if you proclaim like that, it’s still」

Liliana who was growing somewhat completely desperate caused Hajime to scratch his cheek wondering what to do.

But, at that time,

「I have heard the story!」

The closet of the room was thrown open bam. From there, the one who leapt out with a pointlessly refined somersault was the mother of the Nagumo family――Sumire. Just what was going on with the closets of the Nagumo residence? It was terrifying because it felt like it would access another world at this rate.

Hajime ignored Sumire and investigated inside the closet. While he was doing that, Sumire made a cool pose while pointing with a snap at Liliana.

「Lily-chan! Become mine(my assistant). If you do that, then I'll give you half the work!」

「Yes, happily!」

In response to that sentence of invitation that was like a certain demon king somewhere, the former princess replied swiftly like a certain pub worker somewhere. (TN: Anyone know the reference here?)

「Saay, Okaa-san. Just from where in the world did you enter this closet from? There is no hole inside, and there is no way I won't notice if it is hidden……」

Hajime turned around while his head was cocked in puzzlement. There was already no one else there.

「What……the……」

Hajime who didn't notice their presence exiting the room at all was astonished.

Hajime couldn't suppress his shudder against his mother who recently seemed to learn the skill of appearing at unexpected places and at unexpected moments. Actually, in the world of publishing business, there was a rumor that Sumire-sensei was a real-life Dorae○n though……

It was a story for a bit later when it was finally known that it was because Sumire was using and applying the artifacts that Hajime created in preparation for the worst case, or artifacts for making the daily life convenient.

Hajime, knowing the fact that his mother was using the artifacts even more skillfully than himself, fell on all fours. It was also a story of a bit later.

Part 2

☆Shoujo Manga Artist Lily

「Thank god~, you really saved me, Lily-chan. I thought that you could become a battle-ready force because your fingers are dexterous, but this surpassed my expectations.」

「I'm honored that I can be useful. I myself am having fun getting involved with the creative work of manga……」

It was about a week after Sumire took away Liliana without Hajime even noticing to become her work's assistant.

Because several of Sumire's assistants who were working with her until now suddenly got sick or had family problems, she became shorthanded all of a sudden and was in need of substitute assistants in a hurry.

Of course, because Sumire was a big-shot manga artist, the publisher would prepare excellent assistants even in such a situation. But, Sumire who knew that recently Liliana got really addicted to shoujo manga thought that this was a good chance, and she tried making Liliana become her helper.

As a result, Liliana, who was skillful and possessed uncommon concentration power from the start, managed to learn the skill, that wasn't inferior even when compared with veteran assistants, in just a week. Now, she had become a very satisfactory battle force.

It appeared that manga creation work suited Liliana. The work also had a moderate pressure where she couldn’t bear to make a mess of the manuscript that was drawn by Sumire, who was someone she loved, it needed precise attentiveness, it had a clear time limitation that was the deadline, and the work amount was also quite much.

And then, the best thing for Liliana above all else, was that this work “wasn’t a work that she was forced to do”. It was a work that Liliana liked, where the factor that she was helping Sumire was strong.

In a sense, it could be said that this work was fit for Liliana to a T.

「Fufu, Lily-chan. Right now, you are making a really good face you know? You have a shadow under your eye, but it feels more like something healthy and fulfilling.」

「Yes. Perhaps this is the first time that I’m getting absorbed in work with an excited feeling like this.」

They had just somehow finished the manuscript in time right before the deadline. Now, they were talking to each other leisurely while drinking café au lait that was filled with a lot of milk. The other assistants were also unanimously praising Liliana’s work attitude.

Here, she wasn’t standing in the lead. They were all working hard together where everyone was praising their peers. It was something really fresh for Liliana and gave her a great sense of fulfillment.

「So Lily-chan. I asked you to come help for the time being but what will you do after this? If it’s okay with you, I’ll employ you formally.」

「Sumire-okaasama――no, Sumire-sensei, if it's fine with you then please, by any means.」

The two exchanged a firm handshake with each other.

Like this, the workaholic part-time leader had gone through being a shut-in NEET and finally become a shoujo manga artist's assistant.

Half a year after that.

「Haa, Sumire-okaasama. As I thought, it's just no good. It's fine already, so please go back to your own work.」

「What are you saying now. There is still time. It's too fast for you to give up.」

「Uu, but……」

Liliana dejectedly turned her eyes to the clock on the wall. It was just a bit more until the time limit.

Well-balanced meal and the fierce and violent battlefield that was the approaching deadline had shaved off the excessive fat from Liliana's body. However, in reverse, her body build became just right――even though she was slim, her style became voluptuous and her sensuality increased considerably. There was also how her age had turned seventeen years old, and her charm as a woman was increasing by far and away.

Liliana, who was putting on such an adult sensuality, was now in a state that was being down, for some reason, which caused anyone who was looking at her to harbor various desires without reason.

「Come on, don’t be that down. Lily-chan is the prized pupil of this Sumire-sensei, that’s why you need to hold yourself more confidently.」

「Sumire-okaasama……that’s right. Besides, even Hajime-san is a person who won’t give up until the end. It’s no good if I give up now.」

Liliana clenched her small fist and made an appeal of not giving up.

Now then, if it was asked what Liliana and Sumire were waiting together for, they were waiting for a call.

In this half a year, Liliana, whose heart was completely stolen by the world of literary creation, had increased her skill by a great margin. And then, she made her superabundance delusion to erupt and secretly drew her own shoujo manga, but Sumire knew that and invited her to apply for the Rookie of the Year Award.

Today was the day where the winner would be announced. If someone won a placement, then they would be told by phone. If there wasn’t any call until the appointed time, then that meant that their work was rejected.

The work that she poured her heart and blood into got evaluated by other people. This experience that was the first for her was heightening Liliana’s nervousness to a new level.

Seeing Liliana who was staring fixedly at the needle of the clock, Sumire thought inside her heart「The nervous face of Lily-chan who recently grew into a completely lewd body——not that, she recently looked like an adult……it’s unbearableee」and unconsciously reached out her hand squirmingly, it was at that time,

——pururururururururu-

□!?□

□I’m sorry-, it’s just a sudden impulse! Forgive me!□

The resounding ringtone caused Liliana to stand up in a flash. She left behind Sumire who, for some reason, was apologizing while making an excuse and took her smartphone into her hand.

She answered the phone timidly, and a beat later, her expression turned bright in a flash. She expressed words of thanks□Thank you very much-□many times while bowing her head repeatedly as though she was a pure Japanese person.

Like that, after Liliana cut off the phone, she leapt toward Sumire who was smiling broadly from guessing the result.

□I did it, Sumire-okaasama! I, I did it!□

□You see, it’s just as I told you, right? I told you it would be fine if it’s Lily-chan. And, which place did you win?□

□Yes, it’s the first place! The number one! The grand victor!□

□Oh my. I thought that it might be possible, but you actually really took it. As expected from Lily-chan.□

It seemed that Lily’s submitted work took first place.

After that, the work of Liliana who took the Rookie of the Year Award obtained explosive popularity and sold out like hot cakes.

Surely, her being a relative and also a prized pupil of that famous shoujo manga artist great Sumire-sensei was also one of the factors of her high newsworthiness.

By the way, the story of the manga was about the journey of a talentless young man who was summoned to another world, where he brushed aside adversity until he defeated an evil god, and in the process of that journey, the main character was connecting his heart with the princess of the kingdom. It was a really common love fantasy genre.

In the middle of the journey, the vampire princess, rabbit-eared girl, dragon onee-san, a widow and her daughter, the teacher, and girl classmates who were summoned together with the young man made their appearance and had a nice atmosphere with the young man, but the young man's heart was leaning toward the princess of the kingdom. Like that, there was also the desire of a certain someone laid bare in the content of the story.

It went without saying that Liliana was given a coo~~~ld chilly gaze from the wives who were reading the manga.

Even though the story was something common, the emotion of the characters, the story's development, and the scene depiction were something overflowing with realness as though the creator had seen it with her own eyes. It seemed that caused it to be received well by the readers.

Now then, Liliana, who had discovered something for her to live for, became Sumire's second gen, and took a seat in the manga world; inside such a person there was a trait that couldn't be ignored by the people related with the business world.

That was her elegance as royalty that she had recovered from discovering something to live for. And then, her personality and beauty that once in the past charmed millions of people. In addition, was the refined sex appeal that she was clad with recently.

In short, she had the appearance and personality that was extremely appealing to the media.

Because of that, once she showed up in things like autograph sessions or interviews, her popularity exploded greatly separated from the manga.

After all, because she was a former princess she was used with going out in front of a lot of people, she also had the full knowledge of what kind of expression, along with the impression, she needed to give to others. Compared to probing the gut of each other against foreign negotiators or nobles, just making herself to be received favorably by the masses was just too easy.

Because she was recognized as the prized pupil of the great Sumire-sensei by society, there was no way she could smear mud on the face of her treasured mother-in-law. She also wanted to respond to the feelings of her fans who said to her that they liked her manga.

Liliana, who was thinking like that, displayed her princess skills in full without holding anything back.

As a result, a year after Liliana started her activity as a shoujo manga artist, at the time when her manga was decided to be turned into an anime at an unprecedented speed, Liliana was,

□Everyy~~one! Thank you very much for coming today! Anime decision☆ Congratulations! This is Lily who will sing the theme song as the work’s creator dee~~su! I’ll sing with my all, so please enjoy it okay!□

——WAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAH!!!!

While a thousand fans raised their loud cheers (because the tickets were limited, only a thousand people could enter), Liliana stood on a stage wearing a cute outfit like an idol, and then she sent a wink pachin-.

The former princess, former part-time leader, former shut-in NEET, and the popular shoujo manga artist, was now turning into an existence that was laying her hand on the seat of the top idol.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

I'm sorry that the Lily arc turned out to be so long.

I'll end it in the next chapter, and after that, I'll write a bit about the wives who didn't get a spotlight. I'm also thinking of trying to write about the Getting Kidnapped Too Much Case.

Incidentally, in the main story, is there any section that feels like「This part is written vaguely, more detail please」? Sometimes in the middle of writing, I often think 'I want to try writing it in more detail someday', but the 'After' and 'extra story' are too fun, and those things are becoming a distant memory.

If you have a request, then please don't hold back and tell me whether through a review or message.

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 228

Arifureta After II I Become the Deity of the New World? Second Part

---

AN: This chapter is a bit late, I’m sorry!

Part 1

☆Top Idol Lily

In the center of a dressing room that was quite large, Liliana, who was buried in bouquets, presents, and letters from fans, was moving her pen with a terrific momentum scratch scratch scratch scratch scratch while still dressed in a cute stage dress.

Without even feeling bothered that her fingertips were dirtied with ink, she kept moving her pen with a momentum that felt like it would even produce afterimage. The reason for this was of course in order to draw her manga.

There weren't even thirty minutes until her next show. And then once she stood on the stage, she wouldn't be able to make it to the deadline. Therefore, she had to finish her manuscript in less than thirty minutes!

whoosh Liliana's left hand reached out. What that hand grasped was a Calory ○te. It was a really excellent ration if you ignored how it would turn lumpy inside the mouth. She'd had no time to eat since the morning, so she replenished her nourishment with this. (TN: I never ate Calorie Mate before, and the author here is using a word □□□□□(passa pasa) that I cannot find the meaning, to describe the sensation. I just put the word lumpy as a placeholder. Anyone know how to describe the sensation of eating Calorie Mate?)

And, at that timing, regardless of how Liliana had asked the staff so that no one entered the room until the decided time, the door of the dressing room was knocked upon.

Liliana, whose princess skill was lively even at this kind of time, was replying brightly with a voice that would make anyone who heard it feel happy despite how Liliana’s eyes didn’t even look away from her manuscript, and how her hand also didn’t stop moving.

「Ye~~s. The door is not locked~.」

「Eerr, excuse us.」

「E, excuse us for the intrusion.」

After seeing the people who entered, then indeed, they were people who weren’t a problem even if the staff let them enter.

「Ah, Kaori! Also even Shizuku! You two really came for me!」

Just as Liliana said, the people who timidly entered the dressing room were Kaori and Shizuku. The two of them were making a really speechless expression toward Liliana who was surrounded by bouquets and many other things, wearing a showy dress, and yet her fingertips were dirtied by ink while diligently drawing pictures.

「Somehow, you really feel like an entertainer here……. Eer, so, Lily. You suddenly sent that kind of mail, 「Emergency! Emergency! Hee~lp-. Especially Kaori!」, just what in the world was with that?」

Just as Kaori said, Liliana sent a reinforcement request to the wives.

It seemed that she especially needed Kaori’s reinforcement, the reason for that was,

「Yes, I’m glad that it’s Kaori who arrived first. I’m sorry for the hurry, but please use the magic to prolong time. Also, it has to be finished in about twenty minutes……for now, please expand the time difference to ten times. Ah, Shizuku, sit over there, and please help with the inking.」

「「Eee~~~」」

It seemed that this former princess, at last, found herself lacking time, and she now attempted to solve the problem using magic. Asking to use magic that even interfered with the principle of the world in order to finish a manuscript——it was a special bargain sale of an age of god magic. In a sense, it could be said that this was really fitting for a wife of the demon king.

Kaori and Shizuku couldn’t hide their complicated faces after hearing the reason they were called here.

「I understand that you are really in trouble but……somehow, I don’t really feel it at all.」

When Kaori unconsciously muttered that, Liliana lifted her face and showed a crisp expression.

And then,

「Kaori.」

「Eh, wha, what is it, Lily?」

「I am Liliana. A woman who will do anything if it’s to protect the deadline.」

「Aa~, yep, that’s right.」

Kaori went「Well, isn’t it fine」and sent a half-smile at the crisp Liliana while releasing her age of god magic. With this, a ten-fold time difference was created between the inside of this room and the outside.

For a while, the sound of scratch scratch scratch scratch scratch scratch and the sound of splat splat, plop plop resounded inside the room. Putting aside the content of the manga, both Kaori and Shizuku knew very well that Liliana was working hard, so they seriously endeavored to help her.

After around an hour, some more reinforcements arrived. It was Hajime, Yue, and Shia. Even while they too showed an exasperated face at the reason they were called here, their thoughts toward Liliana was already like「Good grief, just go until as far as you can go」, and so they began to participate in helping her.

「Hey, Lily. When we passed by the stage just now……」

「Yes? What is it?」

While Yue and Shia were obediently helping, Hajime suddenly started talking.

「Somehow, two people who I recognize really well were wearing black suits and sunglasses while doing otagei with really smooth moves. That wasn’t just my hallucination, right?」(TN: Otagei=Fans who were yelling and dancing at pop concerts)

「Aah, about Shinji-san and Yoshiki-san.」

「……As I thought, it’s those two huh.」

「Yes. You don’t know Hajime-san? Those two right now are starting up a security firm and working as bodyguards that specialize in protecting celebrities. This time, they are accepting to guard my concert also because they are acquaintances.」

Liliana was tilting her head while saying incomprehensible things like「Since they became a hot topic due to “the otagei of the black-suited bodyguards is godly”, it seems they are also undertaking the role of the captain of the groupies」.

Nakano Shinji and Saitou Yoshiki.

Those two who were the bunch who once were engaging in spiteful harassment toward Hajime, after the death of Hiyama Daisuke and Kondo Reiichi who they often hanged out with, they began to change little by little. They displayed a desperately earnest fight in the legendary decisive battle even when facing the apostles and right now they didn’t hold any antagonism even against Hajime.

Such Shinji and Yoshiki, after graduating from high school, they were living aimlessly without doing anything in particular; but just recently, they started up a security firm that specialized in guarding celebrities.

They were wearing uniforms consisting of a black suit and sunglasses, which would make anyone want to give them a straight-man retort that they watched too many movies, but their skill as bodyguards was super first class. Their experience in facing monsters and god’s apostles in another world was something that couldn’t possibly be surpassed by the likes of suspicious people, so it could be said that this was only natural. They had already piled up many achievements and received deep trust from the world of show business.

And those two, from piling up many days of being the security of idol concerts, saw the groupies who were doing an otagei activity, and it seemed that, for some reason, they got triggered. While those two were standing at both sides of the stage to keep a watchful eye for anyone suspicious, they generously displayed the physical ability their body was blessed with and completely and thoroughly copied the otagei moves.

Since a video of two bodyguards wearing black suits and sunglasses doing otagei with really smooth moves was uploaded on a certain video site, they were treated as gods of the otagei world and won a popularity that wasn’t inferior even against the idols at present from a part of the community.

Rather, their fame was so much that there were even people who came to the concert just to witness the “dancing black-suited bodyguards”.

「Nn, their dance was really amazing.」

Yue said that while lifting her hand midair. She connected spaces using space magic and tried to secretly have a look.

Like that, a hole manifested in midair, and the spectacle on the other side of that hole was――

「Lily-, Lily-! Fuuh, fuuh, fuuh, fuuh!!」

「You guys-, put more of your soul into it! Heat up the concert with your whole body and spirit! Here are the audience seats. But this place is also another stage-」

Shinji was waving around a light stick with really smooth moves while inciting up more shouts of support for Lily. Yoshiki was showing a movement that was completely synchronized with his partner while passionately leading the groupies.

「Ca, captain. The movement is just too intense; my stamina is already……」

「These dancing bodyguards……they are monster.」

One person, then one more person, the group of otakus was collapsing before the concert was starting. By the way, the captain referred to Shinji, while Yoshiki was called as the demonic vice-captain.

Shinji, who was single-mindedly dancing while dressed in a smart black suit, shouted at the collapsed otakus.

「Is this fine with you? Ending it here like this.」

「Eh?」

「Are you fine with this, giving up on everything.」

「Cap, tain?」

The group of otakus who was heaving and drenched in sweat, turned their eyes toward Shinji who was smoothly dancing.

「We are, the people who protect the idols. We protect their body, their heart, we are the people who offer them our lives so that they can shine!」

The smoothness of Shinji’s dance was gradually increasing. It was truly a master-class otagei that was filled with soul and spirit!

「Stand up you guys! Never Give Up! If someone doesn’t give up, then they will surely be able to reach the summit of their dreams! A man taught that to me!」

The gazes of Yue and the others turned toward Hajime. Surely, if they were talking about a man who exerted a strong influence on Shinji and others, then it could only mean Hajime.

Shinji's words that were overflowing with spirit caused one of the collapsed otaku to ask in amazement. Even during that time, Shinji was drawing a beautiful trajectory with the light stick in the air while demonstrating an artistic dance.

「Captain. Just what is your dream? Just what is it, that makes you go this far!?」

It was a heated question that came from an otaku who was somehow swallowed by the place's atmosphere. Right now, the people who collapsed, and also the people who didn't, everyone was drenched in sweat while directing a serious gaze at Shinji.

「What is this for, you ask? That's obvious.」

Shinji looked at them, and then he looked at his pal, then he declared powerfully!

「It's to-, HAVE A SHOTGUN WEDDING WITH AN IDOL-!!!」

DOLL DOLL DOLL~~, the proclamation of Shinji was echoing inside the concert venue that was in the middle of preparation. It echoed really clearly.

……It seemed that was the main reason why they founded a security firm that specialized in celebrities. Yoshiki beside Shinji was looking up to the sky while his lips formed a thin line as though he was biting his lip against something.

「Wha, what are you saying!? Something like that is obviously impossible! It just cannot happen!」

The otaku who asked just now argued. But, such words didn't reach Shinji. The reason was because Shinji had seen it. In a world where he was walking right alongside death, he had witnessed the indomitable spirit of that man!

「No, it's not impossible! Because I know! I know a man who even though he was dropped into the bottom of hell, even though he faced nothing but despair-, he continued to struggle without giving up and created a harem-. A man who day after day, is always having a debauchery party with transcendentally beautiful girls-. The man who reached the summit-」 gachari A sound rang. When Yue and the others came back to their senses with a 'hah' and turned their gazes toward the sound, over there, they saw the figure of Hajime drawing out Donner. It seemed he was planning to snipe at Shinji through the connected spaces. In a panic, Shia moved to stop him using Cobra Twist.

「Even we, if we don't give up we should be able to achieve a shotgun wedding with an idol! We should be able to do it! Or rather, about this matter, even if we put aside Nagumo, I just cannot grasp how the hell that Endo can create harem-. Why, why Endo? Why am I no good, huh? Forget harem; there ain't even any sign I'll be able to get a girlfriend y'know. Or rather, there ain't even an encounter. There ain't even a tiny bit of it! I ain't popular on the 'am I actually cursed as retaliation for harassing the demon king in the past?' level already here! GODDAMN IT ALLLLLLLL-」

Right now, the light stick was leaving behind afterimages while Shinji's otagei was showing a movement that was unthinkable to be at the level of humans. That was, the dance of someone who had stepped their foot into the territory of god! The manifestation of the overflowing yell of the soul!

「Captain……a person like you is……」

「Are you trying, to challenge the impossible……」

「Heh. What an idiot. But, I don’t hate it yeah, a passionate idiot like you.」

The otaku group was starting to stand back up! Perhaps they felt sympathy at that yell of the soul that laid everything bare. A fearless grin was emerging on every single one of their――

Yue closed the space.

「……Nn. Lily. Is this okay?」

「Ah, yes. Yue-san. Your precise work really helps.」

「Yes, Lily. I also finished here. What’s next?」

「As expected from Shizuku. That’s an excellent piece of work. Please do this next.」

They resumed their work as though nothing had happened. It seemed they decided that they didn’t see anything. Even Hajime, who ate a smooth transition from Cobra Twist to Triangle Choke by Shia, also obediently went back to his seat.

「Come to think of it, Lily. Is there anything particular in your surroundings?」

「Anything, particular?」

Hajime asked while he was rubbing his neck. Liliana sent Hajime a glance while tilting her head without dropping the speed of her pen at all.

Hajime was putting a tone on his manuscript page while nodding「Yeah」.

「Look, recently my existence became known, right? Especially because Kaa-san dropped the bomb.」

「Yes. Well, even if Hajime-san called it dropping the bomb, but I too am calling Sumire-okaasama as “okaa-sama” normally, so it became known with a natural flow.」

「No, not just about your relationship with me, but also about this and that in private.」

Those words caused Liliana’s face to turn red spontaneously.

Just some time ago, when Liliana received an interview on the television, Sumire also participated as a special guest. At that time, Sumire jokingly said「Liliana is the wife of my son you know, so don’t make a move on her okay~」.

If that was all, then it would be nothing big because it was something already known, but Sumire, who got carried away, then dropped the bomb by frankly exposing a part of the married private life between Liliana and her son. That was already a talk that could smash apart the dream of the male fans into pieces.

Furthermore, Sumire also casually said「It’s not just Lily-chan you know~」while giving hints that Liliana’s partner actually also had other women, and he had an indulging relationship with those women too.

Naturally, there was no way the media wouldn’t bite at the impure private life of Liliana-sensei who was a beautiful manga artist and also an idol who was at the peak of her popularity; though Hajime crushed the commotion before it could create a stir.

Thanks to that, for some reason, the topic wasn’t being excessively discussed in TV shows and the like, but even so, it didn’t mean that there wasn’t any effect at all.

One of the effects was the rash actions of a part of the wildly fanatic fans.

「Before this too, you almost got attacked by a reckless fan, right? Who knows what can happen.」

「Perhaps that is so, but currently, there is no sign of that. Besides, I’m not so weak that a civilian can take me by surprise. I have also trained much in “Hauria-style close-quarter hand-to-hand combat art ~This is the bunnies’ way y’know~” from Shia-san’s direct teaching.」

「……」

Hajime’s gaze turned toward Shia. Shia looked aside. When Hajime muttered「It’s really fresh how the style name is accompanied with a subtitle there」, Shia’s cheeks blushed with a puff. There was no doubt that her currently invisible rabbit ears were surely flopped down from shame.

「Rather than that, everyone. Can you all come listen to my concert today?」

Liliana changed the topic to wave off Hajime’s worry and also to imply that she was fine. Hearing that question, Hajime and the others looked at each other’s faces.

This was the stage where their important family was standing on. Although they had attended her concert several times before this, it was impossible for them to go home after coming this far. Their answer could only be one. With a unanimous decision, they would cheer on the idol wife and idol fellow wife.

After that, Liliana, who somehow managed to finish the manuscript before the deadline, handed it over to her editor with a really nice smile. The editor gave a thumb up with a posed look before she straddled her beloved motorcycle, Kawasaki's Ninja ZX10-R, and vanished into the city.
——Though she was a woman who finally welcomed her 60th birthday this year……

Like that, the last concert for today began. Liliana, in her fluttery and frilly dress, lavishly sent winks and twinkle-☆ and heated up the venue.

Below that stage, even the two black-suited and sunglasses bodyguards were taking up positions as security while demonstrating smooth otagei like they were possessed as they were greatly heating up the venue by becoming one with the otaku group whose gazes seemed to conceal some kind of determination.

After the concert closed the curtain with enthusiasm, excitement, and fulfillment, surprisingly there was still work for Liliana to attend to, an autograph and handshake session. Even while Hajime and the others were getting exasperated with just how much work she was doing, they still stood a slight distance away and watched over Liliana who was currently mass producing fans with her ‘former princess & real idol smile-!’

Fan number 1——a silver-haired young man with mismatched eyes and an atmosphere like a stepping stool reincarnator. (TN: Fumidai tenseisha(stepping stool reincarnator)= a term for characters who are used as fodder to make other characters look good, or characters that tried to carry out wicked schemes only to meet an unfortunate end themselves. Like Kouki or Hiyama, I guess. I just looked up this term in a hurry, so please correct me if my understanding is wrong.)

「Lily-sensei. I’m a great fan! It’s a lie that you have a husband, right!?」

「Thank you very much. Can I trouble you to teach me your name?」

「Eh, ah, I’m Satoshi.」

「……To Satoshi-san, here. Thank you very much for always coming to my concert. Please come again next time, okay?」

「Yo, you remember me……yes-. I’ll absolutely come! I will cheer for you!」

Fan number 2——a girl with her front hair styled like Sada○.

「Sensei. What do you think about love between the same gender?」

「Can you please tell me your name?」

「u……○ko, desu.」

「Aah, you are the person who was always cramming your fan letter with the words “I love you” aren’t you? Thank you very much. I’m happy that a cute girl like you is supporting me.」

「a, u」

「Please support me from here on too.」

「yes」

Fan number 3——A male hero wearing a high-class suit that had the embroidery of a super-deformed Lily.

「Lily-sensei. I come here today bringing a marriage registration. Please, place your signature here.」

「That’s a splendid embroidery no matter how many times I see it. What’s more, it always has a different pattern each time. If I remember correctly, you sewed it yourself, right? I feel embarrassed somehow, thank you very much. So it’s fine if I sign here then. Fufu, what a humorous person.」

「Say, Lily-sensei. I cannot read this though……are these letters from a country somewhere?」

「They are Hairihi Kingdom letters. ……Is it, no good?」

「-. Don’t be absurd. Though I will be happy if next time I can have you write it in Japanese.」

「My. Ufufu. Then, please come again to the next concert, okay?」

「Of course.」

Fans number 4——A pair of onee-samas who were strangely muscular.

「Lily-chaaan! The concert today is also reeaally great!!」

「Dear me, I'm totally moved」

「Fufu, thank you very much for every time. It's because all of you onee-sama are always cheering me on with loud voices(deep voices) that I immediately notice when onee-sama's group is coming.」

「Oh noes, how embarrassing. When we are excited, our voices unconsciously turn ju~st a little bit burly you knooww.」

「Oi, just now, someone said「It's not the level of burly anymore. That voice was completely like the voice of a beast」, who's the guy saying that, aaa!? I'm gonna butche——cough-. I'll give him punishment mon.」

「Now now, Kenji——cough-. Reika-san. If you make that kind of gallant face(berserker face), then everyone will be charmed(traumatized) you know? Rather than that, please come next time too without fail. I also want to meet all the other onee-samas.」

「Ah geez, Lily-chan, you always know what to say to make us happy. Yes, of course, we will come to cheer for you again. After all, we, the members of "Manly Woman Path", all love Lily-chan so much!」

Even while conversing intimately with the fans, Liliana was still handling the long queue so swiftly it was a mystery.

Seeing her like that, Hajime commented briefly.

□So deep.□

It seemed he commented about the fans.

By the way, all those fans would participate in the event where Liliana appeared every time without fail, so Hajime and the others also knew their faces. And then, Hajime became really uneasy with their speech and conduct, so he investigated their backgrounds from feeling worried.

What he understood from the result was, for example, fan number 1, the young man, his appearance was completely like a stepping stool reincarnator, but actually, he was a splendid monk with priesthood. He disguised(?) himself using a wig and colored contacts and attended Lily’s events secretly.

Furthermore, fan number 2, the girl, was actually the young daughter of Japan’s preeminent great conglomerate that managed some long-standing department stores. Fan number 3, the male hero, was the oldest son of a lawyer family that had continued for generations, a son of the current chairman of JF○A. Fans number 4 were Japan’s version of Chrystal——the leadership of an organization that took control of the underworld pleasure district of the whole Japan. (TN: Japan Federation of Bar Associations. Btw, will I get any problem by brazenly putting the censored names like this? Should I put some censoring?)

Other than them, there was a frog-faced virtuoso doctor that was said to possess god’s hand, a detective that often said ‘in the name of my grandfather’, a super high school student level female high school student, an unfortunate looking young man that called a fat kitty cat「sensei」, a foreigner whispering「The human of this star is――」while holding a canned coffee in one hand……etc (TN: See the reader comments below if you want to know the reference.)

Certainly, they were really deep. Those fans came from a deep fan stratum. There was no doubt that inside Liliana there was an ability to attract people. And then, she conversed intimately with those men and women of dee~p character, sometimes she ignored them, sometimes she led them on, and she then ended the conversation in a pleasant note and sent them back. Seeing her figure like that reminded Hajime and the others of the princess who once fiercely fought against the nobles and empire diplomats using a smiling face and dignity and words (thorns and indirect implications are optional).

「It's true they have deep personality but……how should I say it, Lily's personality, it's different from a normal idol, it's……」

Kaori spoke in hesitation while her cheeks were twitching. Yue and the others supplemented on her statement with an expression that seemed to say that they really understood what she meant.

「……They are clingy.」

「I can feel obsession from them desuu」

「Perhaps this is saying too much but……recently, I also feel something like worship from them.」

Exactly as they said, a really small proportion――in places like BBS on the internet and so on, a topic that talked about

‘there are a lot of fellows with screws loose among Lily-sensei’s fans’ was spreading.

「Is this really fine?」

Kaori was staring at Liliana worriedly. Following her, Hajime and the others were also staring at the figure of the idol princess who was showing a natural and perfect smile that was overflowing with so much elegance and intimacy.

For Liliana who had been competing against veteran nobles and foreign diplomats since her childhood, it was a trifling matter to pound a degree of information of her fans into her head. If she could exchange words with them for just once, she would never forget their face; and if she conversed with them just for a bit, then even from just that she would see through what kind of gesture and way of talking they would like and deal with them using that.

Against someone like that, there was no way an idol’s fans wouldn’t have their hearts captured, which continuously increased the production of fanatic fans even now.

Like that, by the time the line was handled, and only a half remained, the worry of Hajime and co became a reality.

「Sorry, but you can stop right there.」

Before Hajime and the others moved, Shinji, who was standing by near Liliana, quietly walked forward and called out to one of the fans to stop moving. At the same time, Yoshiki moved casually beside Liliana.

「Eh, eh? Wha, what is it?」

「……I won’t say anything bad. Just go home for now. I don’t want to create a disturbing topic in this kind of place.」

It was a man who looked like a fan who was told right to the face「Please leave」by a black-suited bodyguard. The fan looked like he was cowering without any composure, but behind his hanging down long hair could a glaring gaze be seen.

The young man argued vehemently with a small stifled voice as to why it was only him that got stopped like this. Shinji's gesture and gaze expressed that he would never let the man pass. The overwhelming pressure from Shinji that was different from a civilian greatly scared the young man while also making him lose a bit of temper.

The bright atmosphere until now completely changed and the fans and staff all around felt a strained tension in the air. While they were starring uneasily between the young man and Shinji, Liliana, who guessed the situation, stood up.

「Shinji-san. I'll be fine, so please let that person through.」

「No, but still. This is also pretty much my work……」

Liliana called out to Shinji. Shinji frowned with a troubled look while looking over his shoulder.

But, at that time, the atmosphere of the young man who was shrinking away from Shinji suddenly changed entirely. His fingertips that were restlessly moving stopped still.

「Shinji? Right now, you called that man by name? That man who should be a mere security guard?」

That voice was small and sounded a bit stuttering like before. However, a hint of dangerousness that came from a great boiling emotion could be felt from it.

Perhaps the people surrounding them also felt that hint of danger because they were starting to take some distance like a tide drawing back.

In the middle of that, it was only Liliana who kept staring straight at the young man, and she nodded.

「Yes. I called him by name just now. Because he is my friend.」

「You act as you please again in a place where I don’t know. What a bad child. You always always, with another man in a place where I don’t know. Even though I have been this patient like this. Even though I was thinking of forgiving you about that self-proclaimed husband too.」

「Forgiving? Why do I need your forgiveness? What is that forgiveness for?」

「Shut up-. I won’t forgive you anymore-. Unforgivable-」

The young man was talking incoherently; however, seeing Liliana who was staring straight at him without faltering and asked him back, the young man faltered in return, and he shouted.

Like that, he entered his hand into his breast pocket and took out a kitchen knife. Before this, the security had carried out an inspection when the audience began entering, so it was unclear how this young man could bring in something like that. Shinji and Yoshiki grimaced at the hole in the security.

The surrounding people screamed and backed further away. They were forming a circle around Liliana and the others as if there was nobody else other than them.

Hajime looked like he was going to move from the corner of her eyes, but Liliana stopped him with her gaze. In response, Hajime scratched his cheek before he leaned his back on the wall to show that he was watching carefully. That gesture showed his trust toward her, and at the same time, it also expressed Hajime’s intent that no matter how the situation ended he would help her in dealing with it. Liliana’s cheeks loosened slightly seeing that.

Although, for the young man, it seemed that he saw that smile as something that was mocking him. He shouted「So you are also laughing at me-」while charging forward with the kitchen knife raised high.

Shinji sighed while clenching his fist to subdue the young man. But beside him, a silhouette stepped forth smoothly.

Of course, it was Liliana. Behind him, Yoshiki leaked out a stupid voice「Ah」.

「You-, you forever, belong to meee-」

「First, you should hear what other people say.」

The kitchen knife was swung down. The surrounding people held their breath. They screamed and averted their eyes from the tragedy that would happen in the next moment.

In an instant.

The ups and down of the young man were reversed.

「Ah, eh?」

The young man leaked out a confused voice at himself, who before he knew it, was rolling on the floor with just a light impact.

“I don’t know what kind of life you have experienced until now, but I’ll feel troubled if you are demanding from me the responsibility for that feeling where things cannot go as you wished it.”

The young man came back to his senses from those words of Liliana. He forcefully stood up once more and rushed while shouting again. He thought that surely just now only slipped.

But, the result was the same.

Just before he could touch Liliana, his field of vision was overturned in a circle, and he then faced up to the sky along with a light impact.

This time he understood. That he was thrown down by Liliana.

The humiliation and reality that his body wouldn’t move like how he wanted caused the young man to spew out words that were already hard to comprehend while he charged forward trying to stab with his knife.

But, perhaps it should be said to be as expected. The arm that he thrust out was softly grasped, and right after that, the young man’s body revolved around Liliana once like a satellite, contrary to his wish. He was swung around back onto the path he just came from, and then he was pushed away by one of Liliana’s hand.

“I’m very good at remembering people’s faces. However, I don’t remember you.”

The screaming young man charged. Liliana’s arm rolled up his arm, and then she twirled beside him as though she was dancing on the stage and flung away the young man with a really natural flow.

「You-」

「In other words, you have never come to an event where I participated even once. Isn't that correct?」

The young man was only thrown without any pain. The young man, whose face was dyed bright red from shame and rage, was rapidly approaching while swinging around his kitchen knife senselessly, but……the arms of Liliana, who smoothly stepped close to the young man, gripped his collar; at the same time, the young man was thrown down and made to look up to the sky without being able to offer any resistance.

「Most likely, you had watched me through television at home. And then, it caused you to hold an emotion that lead you until you were causing something like this. But, is that really something that you wished for?」

Irimi Nage(Stepping-in Throw)

Kote Gaeshi(Wrist Reversal)

Shihou Nage(Four Directions Throw)

Tenchi Nage(Heaven and Earth Throw)

Kokyuu Nage(Respiration Throw)

Kaiten Nage(Rotation Throw)

Liliana was talking about the situation while continuing to knock down the young man unharmed with her techniques at the center of the empty circle.

「Oi, Shia. Is that the “This is the bunnies’ way y’know” you taught Lily?」

「Please don’t mention the subtitle…… I didn’t really teach her anything. I taught her the basics of hand-to-hand fighting, and also the basics of Aikido more or less, but in the first place, I’m not someone who uses that kind of flowing Aikido.」

「But, isn’t that guy practically being handled by bunnies there?」

「That’s why please stop it with the bunnies, Hajime-san. That’s something that Lily-san learned by herself. It seems she watched the technique on an internet video and copied from that.」

「What’s with that learning aikido through correspondence? Is that girl actually a hidden buggy character, huh?」

「Isn’t that right desu. She is already at the level where it might be dangerous for me if I don’t use physical reinforcement in our bout. I tasted the terror of Aikido before this. Well, even so, I don’t really have the motivation to learn it though. As I thought, for a rabbit it has to be an impactful battle that makes your blood boil and your flesh dance.」

「Just what kind of rabbit are you, huh? Ah, you are a rabbit from another world.」

While Hajime and Shia were conversing about Liliana’s hidden talent, a sobbing sound was starting to echo in the venue before anyone knew it.

When they looked toward the sound, the aforementioned young man was crouching while raising a sad weeping voice.

As for Liliana, there wasn’t even a single crease on her frilly idol dress, and her breathing wasn’t disordered at all either.

The audience was still petrified from admiration and shock. Shinji and Yoshiki were taking out Uma○bou from somewhere and turned completely into spectators. What happened with being a bodyguard?

Liliana approached the young man who was continuing to do nothing but crying in a posture that looked like a half-prostration. And then, she began to brush the young man’s head gently.

「It’s painful, isn’t it? It’s so tiring, so much so that you cannot stand up anymore, isn’t it?」

It appeared that while Hajime and Shia were conversing, Liliana had gotten out the circumstance of the young man from him. And it seemed that Hajime and co had an interest in the young man’s circumstance and emotional state as much as they had an interest with the darkened skid mark on the road that they completely failed to hear the story.

Feeling the sensation of the gentle brushing on his head, the young man raised his head in astonishment while crying. Liliana smiled gently at him. And then, she whispered something into his ear.

When the young man received those words, his face that got soppy from tears and snot became even more disheveled, and he broke out crying loudly once more.

Liliana gently brushed the young man’s head once more. She looked like a mother consoling her child.

It appeared that she succeeded in persuading the madly rampaging young man. A completely speechless air was flowing around inside the astonished concert venue.

Hajime ran his gaze through the venue before he suddenly started clapping. Of course, it was in order to prompt the praising toward Liliana who despite being attacked, instead admonished the attacker. He did this because he didn’t do anything, so in exchange, he would at least give cover fire.

The Hajime’s scheme, who took the role of being a hired applauder, splendidly struck home. At first, there was only sparse applause, but gradually it was getting louder before, at last, a grand applause reverberated like thunder along with cheers.

Even though there wasn’t an encore or anything, the venue was filled with the repeated calls of「LILY-! LILY-!」.

In the middle of that, Liliana, who seemed to guess Hajime’s intention, sent a glance that expressed her thanks to him with her gaze. Right after that,

「……Oi, did you see?」

「……Nn. Her lips, for an instant, really it was only just for an instant but――it grinned.」

「It felt like she said「Just as planned」……don’t tell me, this assault situation was planned? ……How terrifying.」

「No, Shia. There is no way; surely it’s impossible to plan for that young man to be here. Everything from the persuasion and then Hajime’s applauding act to the reaction of the fans, it isn’t anything like ‘just as planned’.」

「Shizuku-chan. As for me, rather than saying it’s「just as planned」, I think it’s more like「Ku-ku-, seizing the mentality of the masses is no trouble at all」. Remember, even at that time during the decisive battle; she also said something like 「Manipulating the masses is just too simple」.」

When Hajime and the others returned their gaze to the scene while feeling a slight shudder in their back, over there, they saw the figure of Liliana responding to the applause of the fans while smiling gently like a holy mother and helping the young man to stand up.

What was truly terrifying was this most excellent queen who properly possessed both purity and impurity.

The beautiful girl that was a famous shoujo mangaka, while also being an idol, had suppressed an assailant right from the front using martial arts, and she didn’t stop there. Due to the dramatic development where she reformed the assailant, the fans in this place became delirious with passion and went wild with enthusiasm.

Surely, this unexpected occurrence would become news at night today that would be broadcasted to the whole country. Like that, Liliana’s fame would be going to a new height without knowing any place to stop.

After that, just as expected, Liliana’s fame was climbing higher with a momentum that pierced the sky. Even people who held no interest in manga and anime read and watched the dramatic and touching news and began to hold an interest in Liliana’s existence itself.

And then, Liliana freely used her inherent princess skill and responded to the people’s wild enthusiasm in entirety.

And not just that.

The young man who was reformed from Liliana's words talked about how Liliana was a being that was overflowing with kindness, that he was saved by her, that she was exactly the goddess of kindness and salvation who descended to the present world, and with a response to a television's news coverage as the impetus, sometimes there were fan letters or blog posts with content that talked frankly about the sender's troubles reaching Liliana.

Naturally, Liliana wasn't able to personally go to resolve those troubles, and she also didn't have any intention to do such a thing.

But, even though Liliana herself was unable, Liliana knew a lot of acquaintances who were able.

There was the chunibyou monk, or the yandere young daughter of a great conglomerate group, or the lawyer wearing a painful-to-look suit, or the group of onee-samas who were running in full speed through the path of manly women, or a doctor, or a detective, or an apparition, or an alien……

Of course, she also had a lot of connections that she obtained from her days of working part-time.

And then, Liliana was a former princess. She excelled in using people more than anyone else.

After that, it went without saying.

With pure virtue and correct calculations, Liliana used her fans to help her troubled fans.

If you ask, then you will be helped.

When such a story spread, the quality and quantity of people asking for help increased.

When six months passed, the number and content of the requests for help became something that Liliana couldn’t possibly deal with by herself. However, if she said I’m stopping already here, a riot would occur with certainty. After that, Liliana devised a plan while feeling that she became unable to pull out.

That plan was,

——Liliana Aid Network

In a manner of speaking, such a thing was the starting up of a “jack-of-all-trades”.

The difference with the normal jack-of-all-trades was how it didn’t have any employees who would bind the contract or act on the scene other than employees that dealt with the paperwork.

Liliana categorized the gathered troubles on the dedicated site, aggregate them, and scrutinize their degree of priority and the content before making her judgment. And then, she would choose from among the registered members of her fan club the person capable of resolving that problem.

There wouldn’t be any reward. If there was a reward, then it would be the direct call from Liliana that asked “please” and preferential right for her event. And then, the words of “thank you” that they received directly from Liliana at the dawn of when the trouble was resolved.

But, this system was surprisingly functional.

The Liliana fan club members with de~ep personalities, and who were ridiculed by a part of the community as bunches with dozens of screws loose in their heads, would move with the readiness to work as a slave for the sake of a “please” and “thank you” from Liliana.

That was already a kind of great wave. The great wave that was sometimes generated at the turning point of the era, which could also be called as the flow of the world.

The saved people became fan club members, and then those members would then save other people, and in turn, those people who were saved would then become fellow fan club members.

That cycle continued without end, and before long, it spread outside of Japan and reached places overseas. “Liliana Aid Network” became a foundation before she knew it and even began to reach out its hand toward world scale relief activity.

One time it stopped a regional dispute; one time it established infrastructure in a developing country; granted education and goods to unfortunate children; planted greenery on a completely withered land……

And then when she realized……

□□□□□Your Holiness-! Your Holiness-! Your Holiness-! Your Holiness-!□□□□□

□□□□Holy Mother of Kindness! Holy Mother of Kindness! Holy Mother of Kindness!□□□□

Hairihi Volunteer Association became Hairihi Religion.

□How did it turn out like this……□

In the event that commemorated the production of her manga’s live-action movie, Liliana, who was standing on the stage in order to sing the theme song, was muttering with twitching cheeks.

Part 2

☆Living God Lily

「Uu, really, just how did it turn out like this……」

Liliana, who was doing the final check of the paperwork while doing a ten-second charge inside the office in preparation for her conference with the secretary general, returned to reality from the long reminiscence that she did before she knew it. It was actually really like Liliana to simultaneously verify her paperwork and eat even while reminiscing. (TN: Ten-second charge seems to be the slogan of a jelly drink in Japan.)

Liliana was unconsciously letting out her complaint while thinking that recently she wasn’t able to meet Hajime and the others again. But suddenly, a reply came back in response to her complaint.

「Obviously that’s because you are a princess.」

「Howah!?」

There should be no one other than her in this office. Naturally, Liliana, who let her guard down because there should be strict security in this place, raised a strange voice.

When she turned her gaze, she saw a rift in space and the figure of Hajime who came out from there.

「Hajime-san! Geez, please don’t startle me.」

「That can’t be helped. Even though I’m your family, in this place with a really strict security where the secretary general of the UN is also in attendance, how I can say something like ‘I came because I just wanted to talk a bit though, I’m also family so please let me in’. There is a limit even in being unable to read the atmosphere.」

「……Hajime-san. Before I realized it, you have become someone who is trying to read the atmosphere. You have really become an adult. Just as I thought, a person will mellow when he has as many as seven children.」

And then, ‘I’m always getting a late start……’ saying that, Liliana’s shoulders dropped in dejection.

「Just what are you saying? Even though you cannot even go home enough due to being so busy with work as the founder of a new religion.」

「Uguu. It’s harsh getting told that.」

Liliana pressed on her chest as though she was getting stabbed, but she immediately pulled herself together and made a fearless smile.

「But that too will be over soon. If I can have this association recognized as an official volunteer organization from this conference, I too will be able to beg to be off from all duty. In the content of the agreement with the UN, there are requirements to establish an inspection division that is configured with only UN personnel as a monitoring mechanism, and also a decision-making body that has to accept at least one person from every country where they will vote to make a decision. This association will stop being an organization where anything is decided by the will of just me alone. It will be a democracy you know Hajime-san, democracy! Like that, my authority will be shaved, and I will fade out naturally from here!

……Is that kind of plan going to be okay?

It’s fine, there is no problem. ……Fufu, if the conference can go well this time, then I will retire. And then, I too will make a child with Hajime-san and devote myself to parenting!

Somehow, it feels like you are raising a flag there.

Hajime’s was at a loss of words seeing the holy woman going ‘ehehe’ in a trip of delusion about her calm and happy future.

Oops, come to think of it, Hajime-san, you wanted to talk? You coming expressly at this timing, does that mean there is something important?

Liliana noticed Hajime’s expression and went ‘hah’ and returned to her senses. She tilted her head and threw a question at Hajime to varnish over her actions just now.

Still, with a complicated expression on his face, Hajime said Aah, there is nothing really important while shrugging.

Well, how should I say it……what I want to say is, I also quite like Lily who is working busily.

……That’s a surprise attack. What’s more, I feel really complicated whether I should be happy or not.

Even while she was saying that Liliana’s cheeks were blushing red.

Wh, why so suddenly? Saying that kind of thing in this kind of timing, isn’t that exactly something like a flag?

「I guess. But, I want to say it ahead of time just in case. Remember, quite some time has passed already since your workaholic behavior was identified, but in the end, you are undertaking a completely staggering job like this. You aren't addicted to work anymore, but in the end, Liliana S. B. Hairihi is unable to change her way of life, isn't that how it is?」

「That's……」

She retired from being a princess and wished to grasp the happiness of a normal girl——like that, the kingdom's people saw her off, and she came to this world. Even though it should be like that, right now Liliana was going to tackle a conference with the top of the world where her fate was at stake.

Even though she tried doing part-time work, even though she tried to become a shut-in NEET, even though she tried to become a manga artist, even though she tried to become an idol, in the end, perhaps the path that the human called Liliana was walking would always end up converging onto a path where she took the responsibility of many people and stood in the lead to guide them.

It was because she was a princess. It was because she couldn't stop being a princess.

Was it just as expected, that she was unable to live the way she aspired for? In the end, was a person like her an existence who would put her beloved as secondary?

Liliana's shoulders dropped, and she answered her own question.

Hajime, who was watching Liliana with a wry smile, slowly approached her side. And then, he gently pinched Liliana's cheek, who was showing a depressed expression.

「I came here not to make you wear that kind of face. Didn't I say it? I also like a Lily who is shutting herself inside the office like this while getting chased by work.」

「Hajime-san……」

「Isn't it just fine even if your aspiration stays as an aspiration? Isn't it just fine even if you put your husband as secondary? It is also not bad in its own way even if there is at least one wife treating me roughly. You see, it's Liliana's individuality that the other wives don't have.」

「I don't want that kind of individuality at allll!」

Despite saying that Liliana was fawning on Hajime by rubbing her cheek on Hajime's cheek.

「Well, that's how it is. Just go without getting too worked up. Because no matter where Lily is going, I'll properly run after you everywhere.」

「Fufu, thank you very much Hajime-san. But, as I thought, I will do my best here. Because I am Liliana. A woman who won't let my aspiration stay as just an aspiration. Or rather, I want a child.」

「That's what you're stressing on?」

They smiled at each other, and their lips overlapped naturally.

But, at that time, a reserved knocking sound that sounded like it was being considerate to the two's tryst was resounding.

「Looks like it’s time already.」

「Ou, go do your best, your holiness.」

「Geez, please stop saying, your holiness. I am the chairman.」

After joking, they smiled once more at each other and Liliana left the room behind. She didn’t look back at Hajime who was left behind and straightened her back with dignity.

And as for the results of the conference.

Before the mass media, the UN secretary general declared with blushing cheeks.

「She is truly-, the goddess who descended into this world! She is a living god! Hairihi religion will bring about salvation to the world!」

The populace gathering outside the conference building while watching the broadcast in real time, and the people watching television, all raised cheers simultaneously.

「How did it turn out like this!?」

The scream Liliana raised was lost amongst the cheers that were raised, even by the press people, and vanished in vain.

Before, in another world, an existence that introduced himself as a god talked about his ambition that he would also become a god on Earth. He proclaimed that he would become the god in the new world for sure.

But, the result was that the mad god was defeated by the demon king.

And right now, in place of the mad god, a wife of the demon king——

Became the god (?) of the new world.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

By the middle, I didn't know what I was writing anymore……

Thank you very much for the many requests.

I took notes of them, so I'm thinking that I want to try writing them someday.

For now, I'm thinking that I want to write about the other wives a bit in the next chapter.

Something like Tio and Hajime getting spirited away, or Shia going bunnies in the world of martial arts, or Yue and Hajime tackling an underground world……or Remia……she is difficult~

After that, I'm thinking that I also want to try writing a bit of a long extra story.

The next posting is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 229

Arifureta After II Spirited Away

AN: I’m sorry it’s late.

This is Tio’s arc.

Part 1

「Come to think of it, Goshujin-sama. I saw something strange midway coming back here.」

Tio was throwing those words around from the garden with a tranquil rural landscape.

Hajime was relaxing by lying down on the edge of the house's eaves like a sleeping Buddha statue while feeling the gentle blowing breeze, the chirping of small insects, and then, the breathing of a beautiful woman wrapped in a bamboo mat while being hung from the tree in the garden. He then directed his consciousness, along with a suspicious gaze, to the woman.

「Did you perhaps see a mirror?」

「Kufuu!? What an excellent comeback. It's tough to be loved so much by Goshujin-sama……」

Tio was being hung up like a criminal while her cheeks were reddening, and her body was meandering and wriggling.

「Haah. It's fine even if you normally reflect on yourself sometimes you know? Even though we finally came to visit the house of Jii-chan and Baa-chan, you suddenly made an introduction that was lacking in common sense. And then you created an urban legend at the shopping district……」

「Goshujin-sama, thou said that but exactly because they art family that it's only natural to convey the truth without any falsehood in it, art not that correct? I don’t wish to speak deceiving words toward those two.」

「It’s only your words that are wonderful. But, don’t you forget that it was that unvarnished truth that almost sent Jii-chan and Baa-chan to heaven.」

Just as Hajime said, Tio had finished her meeting with Hajime’s grandparents. Of course, it was done together with Yue and the others.

Currently, the Nagumo family was in the middle of a homecoming at the home of Shuu’s father.

Because Shuu was a son who was born late, his parents were already at a really late age. They were at the age that would enter ninety soon. Therefore, it was hard for them to rush and personally visit Hajime who had returned from the disappearance incident like the parents of Sumire.

In the end, with the persuasion of Shuu and Sumire, and also Hajime himself, Hajime’s grandparents were waiting for this day where their son’s family would go to their home.

The two of them were really happy that their cute grandson came to meet them safely without harm.

Although the moment they saw the many beautiful girls and women behind that grandson and they all introduced themselves as「I’m his wife」, their teary smiling faces petrified completely. Their faces stiffened so much it felt like you could hear a crack sound.

What’s more, when Myuu politely gave her greeting before energetically explaining her position as「I’m papa’s daughter!」, both of them harmoniously staggered.

After all, no matter how they looked, Myuu’s appearance was around five years old. In other words, their grandson impregnated the daughter of other people when he entered middle school, or perhaps it was even when he was still in elementary school……

The psychological impact on Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan was unfathomable!

But there, an even more pursuing blow came from Myuu! The princess of the Nagumo family was merciless even against the elderly!

「But, Myuu is also a bride! Myuu is planning to push down papa someday and make a fait accompli nano!」

‘noo~noo~noo~’ The end of Myuu’s sentence echoed.

Obaa-chan collapsed. Ojii-chan supported Obaa-chan with shockingly agile movement. However, his severely trembling legs and waist didn’t come just from his old age but a display of the deep damage that was dealt to him!

Incidentally, an incomprehensible voice「Ubooa」leaked out from Hajime’s mouth. Surely, he was feeling joy(shudder) from his daughter’s growth. He thought「This girl; she is closing the paths of escape!」.

It was at that timing, 「If I don’t assert mine assistance here, then it will be mine shame as a dragon race!」Tio, for some reason, was showing her determination.

Toward Obaa-chan, who somehow managed to hold on to her consciousness, and Ojii-chan, who was desperately supporting such Obaa-chan, Tio launched words of self-introduction「I’m Goshujin-sama’s sex(love) slave」that were lacking in common sense with a self-triumphant expression.

Obaa-chan’s eyes turned white. Ojii-chan’s soul was slipping out from his mouth. ……Even so, Ojii-chan’s hands that were supporting Obaa-chan didn’t let go.

Hajime, who had snapped by this point, first wrapped Tio in a bamboo mat, and then he tied her on a missile and launched her flying to the other side of the mountain.

The draconic woman that was flying in a beautiful arc with a red flare trailing behind was surely witnessed by a lot of the local people while they were listening to a joyful shout of 「I’LLLL, BEEE, BAA~~~~CKK!」

Incidentally, punishments of butt spanking and seiza + weight on lap were waiting for Myuu and the criminal instigator Remia respectively. Of course, for Remia there an was additional punishment of leg poking after she reached the limit.

Both of them seemed to be reflecting properly on their fault as far as it goes. On the surface.

Although, when Remia’s numb legs got poked repeatedly, she screamed things like「Dearrr, please forgive me alreadyyy. Aaahn」a little seductively, so Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan who somehow managed to revive then crumbled down once more.

In addition,「We heard that Hajime boy has returned?」the old people of the neighborhood also came bringing some gifts and also to make their greeting but……

They witnessed it. The figures of a foreign beauty on all fours while raising a coquettish voice (?), and “Hajime boy” torturing that woman.

Needless to say, they wordlessly turned on their heels. It was curious how the neighbors who knew Hajime from the past would deal with Hajime from here on.

After that, the Nagumo family somehow explained the existence of Yue and the others, and for the time being, they acquired the understanding……abandonment of thinking, or possibly escapism, from Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan.

In the middle of the conversation, there was a phone call from Kaori’s father and the return of Tio, who was still wrapped in the bamboo mat like a caterpillar, while she was dragging the missile behind her. Ojii-chan, who witnessed that from the darkness, had his soul slip out from his body, but he survived without a problem thanks to Yue’s soul magic.

The total change of their grandson and the behavior of the wives that were lacking in common sense caused the cheeks of Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan to keep twitching from start to end. But even then, by the time they had dinner, the two of them became able to calmly converse, mostly.

Like that, through the flow of the conversation, the two grandparents became curious about how their grandson encountered the girls who later would become his wives. Yue, Shia, and Myuu then talked passionately to the two of them how much they were saved.

It was a story that struck them dumb, but even so, they understood that their cute grandson had helped others, and as a result, those people who were helped wanted to be together with him. Then he brought those people like this to meet the two of them. Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan smiled happily for real this time.

Of course, after they heard the story that far, they became curious about the last person, about the beginning of love with Tio. Obaa-chan asked that with a gentle expression.

Hajime was flustered. Shia got a faraway look. And then, Yue shrugged her shoulders with a wry smile. Hajime, who was opening his mouth to change the topic, was obstructed by Sumire with a whip of an udon noodle.

Using that opening, Tio spoke with a proud expression, as though to say that there was nothing to be ashamed of at all.

「Truly. How wonderful for thee to asketh, Obaba-dono. When I first met Goshujin-sama was the moment when mine life and sense of value changed for good. After all, that was the first time for me to be beaten up so viciously like that!」

「Eh……」

「Yes, yes. I can remember it so clearly even now. That blazing gaze which was sparkling so brutally. The impact that resounded until mine deepest core. I was vomiting blood and raised a pitiful cry; however, Goshujin-sama only continued on hitting and kicking me violently without a shred of mercy even then!」

The hopeless dragon hugged herself and talked about her important memory while wriggling her body around with a bright red face.

Ojii-chan got a coughing fit, and udon spurted out from his nose. Chopsticks fell from Obaa-chan’s hand and fell with a clang.

Hajime repelled the approaching udon whip with finger bullets using crunchy bits of tempura and returned the udon to the bowl while he opened his mouth to stop Tio. But there, fried tofu from the father launched a direct attack!

The large fried tofu clung onto Hajime’s mouth like a mask. Like a baddie in a drama trying to make the victim faint using a handkerchief that was soaked in chloroform, the father pinioned his son from behind while blocking his mouth!

Hajime, who had a vein twitching on his forehead, raised a protesting voice「Mogah」and tried to tear Shuu off of himself, but there the mother joined in. She took out from who knew where something that looked like a chakram. It was an artifact named “Anywhere Clothes Drying Frame Without Care of the Place☆”. It produced a string for hanging clothes on it to let them dry, where the string would be fixed in space. The mother then restrained her son along with her husband!

Although it was only temporary, Hajime, who got restrained by a string for hanging clothes that could seal even a god’s apostle, became unable to stop his wife’s outrage!

「And then there was that, the attack that bestowed to me a deep emotion that I wouldst be unforgettable for mine whole life……」

Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan looked at each other’s face. They harmoniously put down their chopsticks and watched Tio with a smile. That expression was the expression of someone who had prepared themselves for the worst before the end of the world……

「Yes, Goshujin-sama, toward the buttocks of I who was wounded all over mine body by that point, stabbed a hard and thick metallic stake into there!」

□□Ubooa□□

Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan were invited to heaven——Yue’s soul magic! It brought back Ojii-chan and Obaa-chan who were rising to heaven with content smiles! As expected from the legal wife. It was a really fine play.

Of course, Hajime snapped. Just how many times did his Jii-chan and Baa-chan need to get invited to heaven before they were satisfied?

Tio’s bed was decided at that time. It would be in the garden’s tree. She wasn’t allowed to sit or lean. But there was no problem. She would only become a bagworm just as usual.

By the way, the current time was after a night had already passed. It was currently just before noon, and the other family members were going out to the town. It was to mitigate the urban legend created by Tio while grabbing lunch in the restaurant that was recommended by the grandparents.

Yue’s soul magic had been playing a very active role. Naturally, Tio was house-sitting so that there wouldn’t be any more pandemonium. Just in case, Hajime, who made the origin of the problem, was also house-sitting doubled with monitoring Tio so that she wouldn’t crawl down and chase after them.

About this time, Yue was surely piling up communication with the grandparents and deepening their mutual understanding while healing their mind. Incidentally, there was also no doubt that she was restoring the honor of her husband and fellow wives. As expected from the legal wife. As expected of the legal wife-.

「And, soon it will be noon, how do you feel after getting hung up for the whole night?」

「The love of Goshujin-sama who even though art saying this or that while acting like that, yet watching over me from a position where I can see. My underwear art crying that it wouldst be the limit soon.」

「……No good huh. Recently you are soundly sleeping even when you are hung up……perhaps, I should consult with Adol-san for once.」

With a whisper, Hajime hung his head down dejectedly toward the pervert who recently was increasingly losing her restraint while he called to mind the grandfather of that pervert. Even among Hajime's acquaintances that were filled with a lot of unrestrained people, he was a respectable "adult" who was few in number.

Without showing any sign of noticing that whisper of Hajime, Tio started the course correction of the talk topic that had diverted by a lot.

「Rather than that, I was talking about that strange thing just now, Goshujin-sama.」

「Hm? I think that there is nothing stranger than you in this world though……and? What was it that you saw?」

The casual abuse caused the toes of Tio's dangling feet to go really taut. A strange voice「Nfu」also leaked out from her mouth.

「Ri, right. When I was launched away by Goshujin-sama and impacted the mountainside, the first thing I did was to roll down the slope in order to get out of the woodland path.」

「That’s a really daring idea. As expected from the black dragon whose selling point is her toughness.」

By the way, if at that time there was someone who witnessed that figure which was earnestly spinning in full speed like a somersault, or spinning top sometimes, even while rolling down the slope, surely that witness would yell 「Ah, a real Roll○ Girl!」without a doubt. While it was a ghastly way of falling, it was also a fall that vaguely gave off an artistic impression.

「And then. Midway I made an error in the balancing, and mine face struck a thick tree, and I stopped in place.」

「Normally, anyone would die from that.」

「What, something like that? The attacks from Goshujin-sama art far more luscious. There art no need to worry.」

「Who is worrying huh. Don’t speak like I’m feeling jealous to a tree.」

Ignoring Hajime’s straight-man act, Tio continued to talk while throwing her gaze to empty air in remembrance. The wind was blowing and the bagworm Tio was swaying back and forth.

「Now then, I was about to roll down once more, but at that time, I suddenly felt a pressure. It was as though mine body was wrapped wholly with silk floss while getting pulled in. It felt like that.」

「? You felt it? You didn’t see anything?」

「No, it was after that. I felt curious and went a bit toward the direction where I was pulled in. It was hidden by the slope and the trees really well, but there was a small cave there.

That cave, it wouldst not be found easily unless they art diving down the slope like me.」

「Hee. Well, after all, around this area is a countryside that still has a lot of nature. It's not strange even if there is a lot of those kind of places……but it doesn't stop there, right?」

Tio nodded「Truly」.

From the other side of the stone wall, suddenly a child's face jumped out. It must be a child from the neighborhood. Perhaps he heard their conversation and peeked in curiously. Naturally, what he saw was a beautiful woman hung up in a tree and a man that was gazing at the woman while lying down on the veranda.

The child silently withdrew his face. He had seen something that he shouldn't have seen. It was the most mysterious experience of his childhood.

「I guessed that it was a mist. Something like a white mist was coming out slowly from the cave; however, it then drew back as though the cave was breathing. Perhaps it was caused by the flow of wind, but even so, it was also strangeth how a mist was occurring locally like that. Added with the strange pressure, it is a mysterious story, isn't it?」

「Certainly. I have never heard of any phenomenon like that. A white mist coming out from a cave……it's curious.」

「Right?」

「Then, in the end, you didn't ascertain the true shape of that?」

Tio answered Hajime's question with a triumphant face.

「Right after I was going to ascertain it, mine foot slipped and I rolled down!」

「Aa, hm, I see.」

It seemed after that she became a Ro○ng Girl once more.

Tio’s eyes were shining in expectation.

「How is it, Goshujin-sama? Everyone won’t be coming back for a while. Won’t thee, go on an adventure for a bit with me?」

「Adventure huh……」

Her smile wasn’t from a perverted ecstasy as per usual. Tio was sending him a bright smile that was obviously from a pure feeling of wanting to go on a mysterious little trip with Hajime. Hajime was looking at such Tio while showing a thinking posture for a bit.

「I guess. Being like a Buddha statue like this is also boring. I’m also tired of looking at you hung up like that. Let’s go amuse ourselves on a small adventure for a bit.」

「Ri, right! ……E, even though Goshujin-sama was the one hanging me……to get tired looking……this damned Goshujin-sama-. Haa-haa」

Tio was whispering something while breathing roughly, but Hajime normally ignored her. And then, he moved from his Buddha statue posture using one arm to spin four times in a display of a pointless technique that was pointlessly refined while landing on the garden. While he was in midair before the landing, Hajime had properly worn his shoes and even put on his jacket.

Hajime approached Tio and untied the rope binding her body. He then locked the door of the house and turned around.

There Tio’s voice called at him.

「Goshujin-sama. Can thou bring mine footwear for me?」

Hajime looked back and saw Tio’s feet. Her white and smooth bare feet were fidgeting around. Come to think of it, she was bounded inside the room and then hung up from there――Hajime who recalled that grinned while replying.

「You need it?」

「!?」

Tio-san was twitching in shudders.

Even though they were going on an adventure in the middle of the mountain after this, she was asked「Something like shoes is too good for the likes of you, do you need it?」. It was a critical hit for the perverted dragon.

……Although, surely the true critical hit was how even after saying something like that, Hajime brought her shoes before personally putting them on her feet.

Hajime reverently slipped on her shoes, as though he was treating a fragile thing――Tio who was treated like that retracted her usual perverted smile and went bashful like a really normal girl.

Part 2

「Above here?」

「Right. Look over there. There are the tracks where I was slipping down correct? There art no mistake.」

As Hajime glanced at the spot where Tio was pointing at, he saw a track where there was a straight concave. It was as though something landed there face first before sliding down without getting peeled off.

Hajime returned his gaze as though there was nothing there. Ahead he saw trees and grass growing densely along with a really steep slope expanding in his view. Depending on the place, there was a slope that wouldn’t be an exaggeration to be called a cliff.

「There won’t be anyone looking in this kind of place. Tio, lead the way.」

「Acknowledged. Let’s go right away Goshujin-sama. I wouldst determine with these dragon eyes of mine, whether thy hath grown dull or not.」

「Bring it on. You yourself, don’t show anything unsightly like slipping and then falling down.」

They made frivolous talk. Tio grinned fearlessly and then instantly waved the edge of her clothes and dashed away suddenly.

ton- With a really light sound, in the next moment she was far above.

A beat later, Hajime also jumped out.

to-to-to-to- Leaving only those light sounds, the two of them were jumping up like acrobats using tree roots, slightly sticking out rocks, or from branch to branch.

Tio sent a glance at Hajime who was following her. She leaked out a joyful chuckle「Fufuh」and increased her speed further. Hajime made a bit troubled smile at that and also followed her by increasing his speed.

Seen from the side, they only looked like shadows climbing up the mountain with fierce speed. If by any chance there was a witness here, then undoubtedly there would be a new urban legend created that Tengu were living on this mountain.

Turning into modern era Tengu, the two of them sometimes shifted their course a bit, sometimes they meaninglessly climbed a tree, or sprinted down a slope playfully. After a while,

「Muu? This is strange.」

「What is?」

Tio landed from a big jump and came to a stop before she tilted her head.

When Hajime copied her by tilting his head, Tio stayed silent while pulling on Hajime to get closer. Their standing position changed by just a bit from doing that.

Hajime looked suspicious. But he saw the place Tio was pointing at and reflexively leaked out his voice「Oo」.

「This is, it’s like a natural camouflage……no if I have to say which, then perhaps this is more like an art of trickery?」

「Isn’t it splendid? Just by changing our standing position a bit, there art nothing that could be seen except a slope. It is exactly because we art in this angle and position that we art able to notice this cave.」

Just as Tio said, before when Hajime was right beside Tio, he was attentively observing the surrounding looking for a cave, but he didn’t notice the cave over there at all until Tio led him to the spot he was currently standing on.

The cause of that really should be called an art of trickery. If they weren’t standing on a particular spot, the surrounding landscape and the miraculous bulge of the slope would cause the cave to be unseen.

Hajime was feeling admiration while asking Tio once more.

「And, what is strange about it?」

「No, Goshujin-sama. In the first place, what was the reason that I who was rolling down the slope noticed this place?」

「Aah. A strange pressure and absorbing force, was it? ……I don’t really feel anything here. There also doesn’t seem to be any mist.」

「Correct. I too don’t feel anything right now. Let’s see, was it perhaps mine mistake……」

Tio cocked her neck while groaning ‘uumu’. Hajime approached the cave and peeked inside. It seemed that the cave continued quite deeply.

Hajime turned around after confirming that.

「There is no way we can dismiss the senses of the dragon race as a misunderstanding that easily. Besides, we came this far for an adventure. Then we cannot just go home without even stepping in or checking it, right?」

Those words of Hajime's that were inviting an adventure were responded to by Tio「Indeed」with a nod while her shoulders shook happily.

「Even though this art a world without great labyrinths or monsters, for some reason, I am getting thrilled.」

「What is called an adventure is not looking for danger. It's looking for the unknown. In that meaning, the conquest of a great labyrinth cannot be said to be as an adventure then. In a sense, this might be our first adventure you know?」

「The first adventure, with Goshujin-sama and me? Fufuh, perhaps Yue and the others would be jealous of this.」

Tio raised a delighted chuckle for sure this time. Hajime also joined her with a cheerful grin.

「Then let's go. Dragon race of another world.」

「Right, let's go. Godslaying demon king-dono.」

Both of them thrust their bodies into the cave jokingly and also in high spirits.

……

……

「……Goshujin-sama. Mine butt got stuck completely. Please pulled me from inside.」

「Slo, sloppy.」

Even though they had put up a front and stepped inside, now the voluptuous butt of the dragon-san was splendidly getting stuck.

Tio faced back and twisted in her body as though she was going down a ladder, but her plump butt only changed its shape mugyuuuu and couldn't get in.

Feeling that it couldn't be helped, Hajime was sighing while he grasped Tio's legs and pulled in with a jerk. The butt was going mugyuuuu-. It still couldn't enter.

「Hrrgh-」

「Aah. My butt, if it's treated that violently-」

A scream that sounded a bit happy echoed. Hajime put even more strength into it. The charming butt shook furu furu as though in resistance. It still hadn't shown any sign of getting in.

Hajime took a breather「fuu」, and then he proposed to Tio who was kicking around her legs as though to say「Come ooon haul it in」.

「……Tio. It doesn't look like it will go in at all. There is no other way, so how about I tear off your lower body so that I can pull in your upper body?」

「Suddenly I'll turn splat!? There art no way I'll agree! Such a thing art beyond the limit even for I who love pain!」

Tio couldn’t hide her shudder from Hajime who made a brutal suggestion like a demon king. Hajime said「It’s a joke」while putting his hand on Tio’s thigh.

「Anyway, it doesn’t look like you can enter like this, so…… I’ll take it off, okay?」

「What? How……aa, by storing it inside the Treasure Warehouse. Yosh, then cometh, bring it on!」

Today, Tio’s fashion was a pants-look. And so, if her pants were transferred away into the “Treasure Warehouse II”, then space would be liberated.

The “Treasure Warehouse II” fitted on Hajime’s finger shined crimson for an instant. By doing that, in the next moment, Tio was reduced into a female pervert with her panties fully exposed.

「I, it’s really breezy down there……」

Tio kicked her legs up and down looking a bit embarrassed. Hajime held the voluptuous thighs in front of him using his arms and pulled in once more.

However, Tio’s large butt was unexpectedly obstinate.

「Ada-, adadada-. Go, Goshujin-sama! My butt’s skin art getting bruised!」

「Good grief, it’s a really stubborn butt.」

Hajime cursed. Because he was pulling Tio forcefully, her panties dug into her crotch, and now it looked like she was wearing T-back panties. Hajime glared at the shaking butt.

And then, seeing no other choice, he also transferred the panties into the Treasure Warehouse.

「……Goshujin-sama. By any chance, I hath also lost my last fortress now?」

「It can’t be helped. It’s in the way.」

From the entrance of the cave, there was the lower body of a woman being suspended without even a shred of cloth. If the people of the dragon race village who idolized her like a princess saw her like this, surely they would have out-of-body experiences without a doubt.

Hajime took something out from his “Treasure Warehouse II” that looked like a thin stick and inserted it between Tio’s shivering butt, which was looking pitiful somehow, and the rock where it got stuck.

「Muu? Something cold art on mine butt……」

「I’m pouring oil for lubricating a machine. With this, it will be smoother to pull you out.」

This was the same idea as using soap to take off a ring that couldn’t come off. The overflowing oil trickled from the gap between the butt and rock and flowed down Tio’s thighs. Each time Tio twitched and shivered she leaked out trembling voices.

After pouring in a lot of oil, Hajime readied himself and pulled on Tio’s legs.

「Oo!? It’s slipping in! It’s working, Goshujin-sama!」

「Yosh, just a bit more. Do your best, butt-naked dragon!」

「Haua!? Not forgetting to insult me even at this kind of time……this damn beloved Goshujin-sama!」

The two was strangely getting roused up, for some reason.

Right after that, nupon- a strange sound rang, and Tio’s bombastic butt slipped out from between the rock.

And then,

「……Goshujin-sama. It’s a bit hard to say this but」 「Don’t finish it. I know already.」

Tio-san, also had a bombastic breast.

Her shirt was rolled up, and her back was fully exposed; however, this time it was her gigantic twin hills that got stuck. For the time being, Hajime embraced Tio from behind to try pulling her in but……

「It’s happiness to be embraced tightly by Goshujin-sama, but mi, mine breast feel like they wouldst get torn off……」

「Haa. Let’s just go with the same method.」

「Please be gentle.」

Like that, Tio――became stark naked.

She limply sat on the floor of the cave with her cheeks blushing faintly. Her butt and breast were glistening because of the oil.

「At the start of the adventure, the proud princess of the dragon race got stripped naked and became all slimy…… Goshujin-sama, honestly speaking, what doth thy think?」

「I’m thinking it’s pitiful.」

Tio didn’t look happy like usual; she was wafting off a sorrowful aura and agreed「That’s right」with a faint smile.

Hajime wordlessly handed her a towel.

Tio wiped her body using that while taking out the traditional garment of the dragon race――the kimono that was a blending of Japanese and Western styles from her own “Treasure Warehouse” and quickly put it on.

「……Say, Goshujin-sama. Thinking really really carefully, I was stuck because of the rock correct?」

「Hm? Yeah.」

「Then, wouldst not it be better to use transmutation?」

「……」

Hajime halted. Tio also halted. Inside the gloomy cave, Hajime and Tio looked at each other.

「Now, Tio. The unknown is waiting ahead from here! Our adventure will begin from here-」

「O, ou! That’s right! It’s from here on!」

It seemed that for now, they would get over it with mood.

Both of them started walking deeper into the cave with a strange tension.

After walking for a while, the inside of the cave was unexpectedly starting to show aspects of a cavern. The deeper they went, the wider the cave turned.

「Somehow, this is nostalgic.」

「Might it be about Orcus?」

Hajime muttered in a small voice. Tio guessed what he was thinking and asked.

「Yeah. There is no light of green light stones here, but as expected, speaking about a cave for me just means Orcus.」

「I can imagine that. It was the starting place for the current Goshujin-sama, and then――it was also a place of a precious encounter.」

Tio sympathized with Hajime with her voice vaguely containing gentleness. Hajime walked while illuminating the surrounding with light while glancing at Tio beside him.

「That encounter tied Goshujin-sama, spun a bond with Shia, and connected toward me. Most likely, if there art just one of those lacking, then I wouldst not be here like this.」

「Don’t make a solemn talk like that so suddenly. It’s rare for you to talk about what-if. That’s a meaningless supposition, right?」

「That’s right. Indeed, it’s meaningless. But, I feel happy with our time right now that art like a miracle, so much so that I’m looking back like that. Being solemn sometimes art also not bad.」

Tio made a really hard to describe smile, but even so, there wasn’t any shadow in it by any means. Even though it was just for a moment, Hajime’s eyes were definitely stolen by that smile of Tio’s.

「Oh? What's this, Goshujin-sama? Art thou falling in love with me all over again? By any chance, the possibility of surpassing Yue art……」

「It's completely none.」

Hajime's immediate answer dealt a critical hit. A sweet voice leaked out from the hopeless dragon-san. 「If only she kept smiling like just now, no matter from where you look she is a wonderful princess of the dragon race, yet」Hajime was staring at Tio with disappointment filling his eyes.

「Or rather, you, you are aiming to surpass Yue?」

「That art really a late question. There art not a single woman that art not aiming for that. Of course, it wouldst not be something that art done bloodthirstily, but a chase to overtake that art done enjoyably. It's something like a serious playfulness between fellow wives.」

「……I thought that it's just Kaori who is like that.」

「Fufu, you still hath some way to go Goshujin-sama. Everyone likes everyone else to the greatest degree, but that art that. This art this. Because we art woman, then as expected we want to be told as "number one", we desire to be "the only one" for the man we love. Even Yue often said it, art not she? 「I'll accept any challenge anytime, anywhere, no matter how many times」.」

「I see.」

A wry smile emerged on Hajime's lips thinking that he still "had some way to go" while he scratched his cheek. Even though normally Tio was just a pervert, sometimes she would give Hajime "understanding" with significant words smoothly said like this. She was by nature really thoughtful, and that was also one of her charms.

Hajime wanted to say something to the smiling Tio and opened his mouth.

But, before he could speak,

「Ah?」

「Mu?」

Hajime and Tio simultaneously ran their gaze over the surrounding. Sharpened wariness resided in their eyes.

Before they realized it, and it was truly before they realized, the mist was manifesting around Hajime and Tio. It was an extremely thin mist. However, seeing this, it was clearly unnatural for the mist to be appearing so suddenly inside a cave like this.

And above all, what they were feeling right now proved that the mist was abnormal.

「I see. Indeed, this is a strange pressure, and I also feel a pulling force deeper inside the cave.」

「It appeared that it wasn’t just mine misunderstanding. Now then, what about Goshujin-sama’s magic eye stone? This art definitely not magic, but perhaps it’s one of the mystics of this world?」

「My magic eye stone isn’t reacting at all. But, it’s unthinkable that this is a natural phenomenon. It seems that a rare phenomenon is really occurring for real right now.」

Even while they were conversing like that, the pressure and pulling force were growing stronger. The restraining force was strengthening as though it wouldn’t let the two of them go away while trying to drag them in.

Hajime took out a reconnaissance plane from his “Treasure Warehouse” onto his palm and made it fly deeper into the cave.

The plane was advancing deeper unhindered, and its view was shared with Hajime so he could look at the situation inside.

After it advanced a little ahead,

「-. Oi oi, seriously?」

「Goshujin-sama, what’s the matter?」

Hajime made a bit of a dry chuckle. It seemed there was an unexpected situation that made Hajime unable to hide his surprise.

Hajime kept his eyes fixed deeper into the cave while answering Tio’s question.

「The reconnaissance plane was swallowed.」

「Swallowed? What doth that mean?」

「Exactly like that. The mist is getting thicker the deeper you go ahead. The shared view turned pure white, and nothing can be seen in the surroundings. And right after that, my link with it got cut.」

「That’s……」

Tio gulped. She understood well how powerful Hajime’s artifact was. Even though it was just a reconnaissance plane, it was impossible for its link with its master to be severed that easily.

Hajime gave even more shocking words to the surprised Tio.

「That’s not all. Just before I lost the plane, it was just for an instant, but……I could see a sea of clouds.」

「Sea, of clouds? Wait a second Goshujin-sama. It wasn’t the sky, but thou couldst see a “sea of clouds”? In other words――」

「Yeah, the scene I saw wasn’t something I could see from a cave even if the ceiling here is transparent. Hahah, we are really inside a cave, right?」

Hajime and Tio looked at each other’s face.

And, at that time,

「Nno!?」

「This is!?」

The mist moved. No, the mist around Hajime and Tio increased in thickness so suddenly they mistakenly thought that, and at the same time, the pressure and the pulling force also increased.

「Aa, this is bad Tio. Just maybe, this cave is a “natural gate”. At this rate, perhaps we might get thrown out to another world somewhere.」

「I see. The true identity of “spirited away”, by any chance it might be this kind of place or phenomenon.」

Even while Hajime and Tio were speaking out their hypothesis, they were trying to turn around toward the entrance.

But, it seemed the phenomenon of spirited away was something that couldn’t be escaped from that easily.

「Ah, this is no good.」

「Truly, I understand this sensation. ——We art caught.」

With those words as their last, Hajime and Tio’s figure was enveloped by the abnormally white mist.

And then, a few minutes later, the mist finally cleared up, and the figures of the two weren’t there anymore.

Right after the mist coiling around them cleared up, Hajime and Tio were,

「Oo, it’s really the blue sky.」

「Entering into a cave and falling from the sky, this art truly something.」

They were free falling in the great sky of an unknown world while they were folding their arms in an unmoving thinking posture. (TN: In the raw, the author is using the kanji 賛嘆 (zessan/great praise) related to the free falling. When I google’d it, it’s related to the free-falling stock market price, but to my shame, I still really don’t get what the connection between great praise and free falling is. Help please.)

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

This is Tio’s arc.

About how far it will continue, what kind of end it will have, there is no plot, so even Shirakome doesn’t know.

But as expected, I don’t think that it will run wild like Lily’s arc……

The posting of the next chapter is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 230

Arifureta After II in a World of Sky

The wind howled. Wind pressure was striking everything. If one looked up, they would see the vibrant azure sky. The light of the sun was brilliantly showering down. The sea of clouds was shining silver due to the reflection of the sunlight.

Surrounded by all those, there were two silhouettes freefalling with their arms folded.

「I wonder if it’s my fate to enter a cave, then freefall in the sky?」

「Who knows. But, at the very least, this art a refreshing fall compared to before, isn’t that right?」

「This is really pleasant weather~」

Just to make sure, let’s specify it one more time. The two were in the middle of freefalling without a parachute or lifeline.

「For now, should we try going under the sea of clouds?」

「Right. It looks like the weather art bad, but perhaps there wouldth be something that couldst make us understand what kind of world this place art. After all, there art nothing above the sky.」

Hajime and Tio plunged into the sea of clouds even while they were talking like that.

At that instant, they received a baptism of terrific air turbulence and random lightning. It seemed that this sea of clouds wasn’t merely thick clouds or rain clouds, but something that resembled a super vast cumulonimbus cloud. Seeing as how there wasn’t any sign of a vortex, it wasn’t any kind of typhoon. It was just a storm cloud with an abnormal range that silently covered the world as far as the eye could see.

The lightning is flying wildly about, along with thunderous sounds, attacked Hajime and Tio as though to remove the intruder.

Hajime’s body instantly emitted red sparks. The lightning that should strike Hajime’s body was directly streamed away as though it was sliding off the body. It then flew away in the direction of the beyond.

As for Tio, she seemed to be casually enduring the lightning by using dragon scale hardening. She also used regeneration magic to repair the holes that opened on her clothes with an unruffled air.

Only a few seconds past.

bobat Both of them came out at the bottom of the sea of clouds with some cloud parts trailing behind them.

Without delay, fierce wind and rain attacked the two mercilessly.

「Uwaa, this is just terrible.」

「What to say……art this world, ended already?」

Gravity control type multipurpose assault unit——Cross Velt. Hajime summoned eight of them to put up a cube-shaped barrier around him and Tio. They looked on from inside the cube at the rainwater trickling along the barrier's surface and unconsciously leaked out their voices.

Their reaction was understandable. No matter how they looked at it, the heavy rain pouring down toward the world like a waterfall looked like muddy water. The rainwater that hit their skin dyed the spot pitch black.

Tio used wind magic to shake off the black rain, and while she was at it, she combined it with fire magic to warm her and Hajime's wet body while drying out their clothes at high speed. She was doing that while expressing her impression toward this other world with a really astonished voice.

Her gaze was looking at her own arm that was wet with the black rain just now. Countless red specks were coming out from there. It seemed that the places that got touched by the black rain were getting inflammation.

It was a world with obviously harmful black rain pouring down.

Of course, perhaps this was a characteristic phenomenon of this region, but at the very least, it was obvious that the dark color of the ocean spreading below wasn't caused just because the sunlight didn't reach. This black rain was pouring down so much that it colored the sea black.

And then, if the sea, which was polluted to this degree, followed the sea current and flowed through the world…… they naturally could imagine the hopelessness of this world.

Hajime took out his smartphone and made a drop of black rain to fall on the display. Right away, a ripple spread on the display. A loading screen appeared for a few seconds.

「Unknown composition, just as expected. It doesn't match anything from the data of Tortus or Earth. Its effect on the human body is……oou, looks like Tio's impression is seriously spot on. Look here. This rain has the effect to cause necrosis in the cell.」

「……Oh dear. However, no matter what kind of environment, what art called as living things wouldst find a way to adapt in the end and survive. There art still a possibility of organisms that managed to adapt in this place. Besides, perhaps even this black rain art limited to this area.」

「Well, you're right. Anyway, for now, let's return above. This rain doesn't have much effect on us, and we can heal the effect right away, but even so, this kind of muddy, black world is depressing.」

「No doubt about that.」

Hajime and Tio took one last look at the raging black world before charging into the sea of clouds once more with the barrier still activated.

They went through the sea of clouds and returned once more to the clear azure sky.

「If someone met that spirited away phenomenon, then they will get thrown off into a world that is really hard to survive huh.」

「It looks like it. What wouldst we do Goshujin-sama? Art we going home?」

Tio asked without any doubt that they would be unable to return to Earth. With the "Compass of Guidance Crossing" and “Crystal Key”, it was possible to return home to Earth no matter what kind of world they were in. That was the reason that the two weren’t flustered at all even when they were going to be swallowed by the white mist inside the cave.

Hajime turned his gaze at Tio’s question. He showed a thinking gesture『Hm~』and asked back in return.

『What do you want to do Tio?』

『……We should return. This adventure is not on the level of going to the mountain for a bit anymore. I wouldst consider looking around for a bit if this was a good world though……. Also thinking about the time until Yue and the others return home, even if we art going on an adventure, we should return once to take Yue and the others together too.』

Tio made a wry smile just for a moment before she advocated a cautious theory. Indeed, although they could return at any time, the scale of this situation was too big to be a little fun that was done while their family wasn’t at home. The state of this world was too turbulent.

It was really an opinion with the prudence that was just like Tio.

Hajime narrowed his eyes at Tio before he showed a bit of a thinking gesture once more. And then, perhaps he had finished scrutinizing Tio’s opinion because he smiled wryly while agreeing『I guess』, and then he activated his “Treasure Warehouse II” to take out the “Compass of Guidance Crossing”.

Right after that,

『Hm? Hmm? ……Damn it. Now I’ve really done it, Tio.』

「Mu? What art the matter, Goshujin-sama.」

Hajime was scratching his head awkwardly which caused Tio to tilt her head in puzzlement. Her expression froze with a snap at Hajime's next sentence.

「The compass, I forgot to bring it with me.」

Hajime was jovially saying「I'm beaten, I'm beaten」while laughing 'tahahahaha', with Tio staring open-mouthed in a daze and amazement at Hajime.

A beat, two beats. Finally, the meaning of Hajime's words seemed to soak into Tio as her complexion changed, and she began to press questions in a fluster.

「Wha, wha wha, what do thy mean with forget!? It was inside the Treasure Warehouse wasn't it!?」

「Haha~. I just recalled it only now, but just before this I lent it to Yue, but she hadn't returned it to me. That's really careless of me.」

「Tomfooleryy――!! Such an important thing art not something to be forgotten!」

「Oo, I got scolded by Tio……this is a really fresh experience.」

「Art this the time to say thattt――――!! What to do……, we couldst not go home.」

Hajime's attitude that was too overflowing with irresponsibility caused Tio's shoulders to drop dejectedly. She was in a state that she didn't even realize that for the first time she had yelled angrily at Hajime.

「Well, don’t be that upset.」

「What? Goshujin-sama, thou art really composed. Art there any prospect of us going home?」

「We have no prospect to go home, but looking at it from the opposite side means that Yue is carrying the compass, so we don’t particularly need to get flustered, right? I am carrying the Crystal Key, but if she finds me using the compass, then it’s possible to search in reverse.」

「……I see. Now that thy said that, indeed there art no reason to lose composure. If Yue uses the compass to find us who didn’t return home, then we wouldst be able to return home at that point in time. Fumu, mine apologies Goshujin-sama. I was showing something unsightly.」

Being able to understand that their situation wasn’t particularly serious after getting told so, Tio cast down her eyes from the shame of her disordered state.

Tio, who averted her eyes, didn’t notice, but Hajime’s expression, who was looking at her embarrassed gesture, was extremely gentle. Different from the normal Hajime who was usually dealing with Tio in full S mode, his warm expression now was emitting a definite affection.

Everything was because he understood the reason why Tio unusually lost her composure like just now.

Tio wasn’t feeling uneasy at the possibility that they couldn’t return home itself. In front of her, there was a man who had obtained the means to cross over worlds with only his determination when at the start he didn’t have anything at all. Doubting that they couldn’t return home was instead nothing more than an insult to Hajime.

Therefore, the reason why Tio was flustered was something else. That reason was in the fact that she separated Hajime from Yue and the others through something that was caused by them doing something that she suggested. She had no doubt that they would be able to go home. But, the problem was the time. At how long Hajime would be separated from Yue and the others.

In short, her loss of composure at their inability to go home was the manifestation of her consideration toward Yue and co. Although her sturdiness was her strong point, she was someone who wouldn’t hesitate to turn her own body into a shield for her comrade’s sake. Her way of losing composure was really like herself.

「Well, under the cloud feels like the end of the century, but the sky is really not bad. Until it’s time, let’s go adventuring to see if this sea of clouds will end somewhere and if there is, we will look for land, Tio.」

「Right. Yes, yes-. Let’s do just that!」

The embarrassed Tio lively raised a happy voice after receiving that order to resume their adventure. There wasn’t even any need to mention her expression. It was truly a smile that would charm anyone, and that would make anyone who knew her to be amazed thinking『If she can always be like that, then there wouldn’t be anyone doubting her if she really is the princess of the dragon race or not』.

A while after they began their sky journey, currently, Tio had transformed into a black dragon, and Hajime was riding on her.

At first, Hajime was using his skyboard while Tio was also only using her wings from partial dragonification and used wind magic to fly in human form, but Hajime requested to her that he wanted to mount her.

Riding on a dragon’s back to fly in the sky far away——that yearning of every man had often been realized by Hajime, but he never got tired of it, and if there was a chance, then he would ask to ride Tio like this.

「It also hast been a while since I’ve flown with Goshujin-sama on mine back. There wasn’t that much chance since we returned to Earth.」

「Yeah. What’s more, we were flying mainly at night whether on Tortus or Earth. It’s really has been a long time since we last flew in a sky this clear.」

「If thy wish it then we couldst fly anytime, correct? The sky of Earth art constrained, but if it’s now, then we couldst do anything using Goshuujin-sama’s artifacts, isn’t that right?」

「Yeah. I can just make an artifact for jamming and camouflage. Just spare me from having a dogfight with the ASDF.」(TN: Air Self-Defense Force)

Tio caught the wind and flew among the cloud chasms with a movement that was drawing an elegant curve. The milky road that was like flowing cotton candy was an amazingly superb view.

The sea of clouds wasn’t only shaped flatly. At some places, the clouds would make a gigantic mountain shape or chasm shape like where they were at right now. There were also clouds that were arch-shaped and also clouds that were shaped like surging tidal waves. It was a magnificent view that could be described as a continent that was made in the sky.

Hajime was sticking to Tio’s back using gravity control, so there wasn’t any concern that he would fall. The wind pressure and air were also controlled within one meter of his body using a dedicated earring artifact. And so, Tio was flying to her heart’s content without needing to give any consideration or restraint.

She broke out from the chasm with a steep climb and slipped through the gap between clouds lazily floating about while barrel rolling.

She passed under arching clouds and swiveled around a mountain of clouds as though she was dancing. She then went on a steep climb before letting her body swoop down in a free fall. And then, she unfolded her wings with a force that blew away the clouds in the surrounding and flew inside the tidal wave cloud like a surfer.

「Having fun?」

「Yes, this art really fun!」

In contrast with the fierce maneuvers, Hajime was asking questions in a calm voice. And the responding voice was an excited voice just as expected. And then, a single roar as though she was giving a service. While it was a powerful roar, the reverberation felt pleasant somehow. Hajime also raised a cheerful laugh at that.

But, it was at that time, as though in response to Tio’s howl, there was a faint sound reaching the two.

「O? Tio, just now……」

「It seemed, we hath discovered the first villager――no, the first living thing here. It's truly auspicious that not every living thing here art exterminated.」

Even in this world where black rain that caused necrosis on living cells was pouring down, it seemed there was still living things here as expected. Right now, the sound vibrating in their eardrum that was getting louder and louder was obviously coming from a living thing――in addition, it seemed to be a howl that came from a large type organism.

Hajime tapped on the black-scaled back, and Tio took a steep turn in complete agreement.

They passed through several cloud mountains and in the end, they circled around a conspicuously large spiraling cloud. Then, there they were able to catch sight of black spots in the sky that looked like dribbling ink.

「Hou……so there art mine fellow race even in this world.」

「As expected this is a fantasy world huh. Well, we don't know yet whether they are like your race that can turn into "human" or "dragon", or if they are just a variety of monster.」

The specks reflected on the azure sky were gradually growing bigger. The two who possessed eyesight that was incomparable with average people could clearly see the true form of those specks.

They were dragons. Not the snake type dragon of the east, but the western dragon. Their number was around ten. Their body was grey colored, and their body length was around two to three meters. Their bodies' build looked bad. Compared to Tio's build, they looked really frail. Their howl that they sometimes raised to call Tio sounded like a crying voice instead after the two saw their figures.

First things first, Tio tried talking to the small dragons that approached nearby in the blink of an eye in order to investigate their intelligence level.

「All of thee, art thee able to understand mine words? Couldst thee communicate using the mind?」

The response that came back was only gyau gyau gyao gyao, a crying voice of a beast. They were flying in circles around Tio who was hovering in midair as though they were fawning over her――

「「「「「……」」」」」

They took a second look at Hajime who was sitting on Tio's back. They were definitely taking a second look.

Seeing that the grey dragons stopped crying and instead were fixedly staring at him, Hajime gazed back「Aa?」in suspicion.

Right after that,

「「「「「Gyuwa!?」」」」」

The grey dragons showed a reaction that looked like「We have seen something that mustn't be seen!」before running away at full speed. There was even a dragon among them that was too panicked it lost speed and almost fell.

Their state was exactly like an unfortunate victim encountering a monster, or perhaps like a villager A who suddenly bumped into the demon king out of nowhere.

Like before, they only cried out like a beast without showing any state of using language, or even advanced intelligence. But seeing how they were running away with terrible desperation while looking behind them several times,

——Ruunnn, quickly runnn

——Someone-, someone helpppp!!

——Oh god! Oo, god in heaven, please grant us your salvation-

——There is no way, I’m going to die in this kind of placeeee-

It felt like those kinds of screams of the heart could be heard.

「……Tio」

「Wha, what is it, Goshujin-sama.」

Tio replied back to that quiet voice in a slight fluster. When she turned her head around and looked behind, she saw the figure of Hajime looking far away. A vague sorrow was drifting from his side profile.

「Am I, really that terrifying?」

「N, nooo, I think that art not really not the case……」

「But, no matter how I look at their reaction, it’s like they are a victim that encountered the devilish homicide in a horror movie. Even though I’m not emitting pressure or anything. Even though, I’m not doing anything.」

「Ma, mayhaps, they art not used to human? When they approached me because they thought of me as their fellow, they saw a creature that they hath not seen before and got surprised. Surely that art the case here.

Are they running away that desperately in terror because they are surprised? ……Recently, I’ve been told that I was mellowing out, and I thought that I had adapted a bit to live on Earth but……

Goshujin-sama, mine motherly instinct art really tickled seeing thy rare disheartened figure, but for now, how about we try chasing after them? After all, they art the only living things in this world that we finally discovered.

……You are right. Let’s do that.

Tio was writhing lightly seeing Hajime who was somewhat dispirited.

If it was him when he was at Tortus, then something like this would cause a vein to twitch on his forehead before he shot them down dopan-, so him being disheartened like this showed that he was in the process of acclimating to life on Earth. That was what Tio thought, but this was really a rare sight, so she didn’t say anything instead.

In exchange, she urged Hajime to chase after the change in this world that they finally encountered so that it wouldn’t get away.

She flapped her wings once. Tio began to fly like she was gliding. The grey dragons that glanced back as though saying They aren’t following us? Are we safe already? saw the following Tio——or more accurately Hajime who was riding on her back, and their body twiiiitched and trembled.

Naturally, they began to escape with even more desperation than before.

「……」

「Aa~, Goshujin-sama? This art surely that. They don’t look like they hath intelligence on the level of humans, they art genuinely a beast. That’s why they art instinctually sensing Goshujin-sama’s strength――」

Tio followed up with a touching gesture. However, it was unclear whether her words reached or not. Hajime didn’t react at all while his somewhat dispirited expression was starting to change bit by bit.

The disheartened face turned into a fixed stare, and next, it changed into a small irritation. And then――

「Fine then. If they are asking for that kind of character from me, then, aah, that’s fine. I should answer their expectation. Ku-ku-ku-ku-」

「Go, Goshujin-sama, art making a sadist face like when he was dealing with me!? Run away! All of thee, quickly run awayyyyy-」

The demon king-sama stood up imposingly above Tio and widely spread his arms in a dramatic pose as though welcoming in the enemy. His lips split apart like a crescent moon while his eyes were blazing fiercely like a hunter cornering his prey!

Tio howled and urged the grey dragons to escape. The grey dragons that looked back simultaneously at that voice――saw it right away.

「Now, run, run, run! I’ll leisurely hunt you down and devour youuuuu-」

They saw the demon king who was bursting with crimson magic power while loudly yelling something like that which reverberated to the whole azure sky.

Of course, it went without saying that the body of the grey dragons twitcheeeeeeeeeed. It also went without saying that they were starting to run away with even more desperation than before. From behind them 「HAAH――――HAHHAHHAHHAH!!」a loud laughter resounded. Something shining could be seen glittering around their eyes even though they were dragons――surely that was just an imagination.

Around thirty minutes after Hajime turned demon king. Hajime, who had just created one more piece of black history, was sitting on Tio's back while grasping his knees. Tio, who was taking the stance of "Let's just leave him alone for now", finally called out to Hajime.

「Goshujin-sama. Stop being down and look ahead.」

「Just leave me alone Tio. I'm disgusted with my own foolish act and lack of growth. ……If I don't reflect back on myself a bit, then I'll turn completely into Endo.」

「If he heard that, then he wouldst get upset and indignated……no, mayhaps, he wouldst be happy because of his comrade increase? Well, rather than talking about that, come now, stop acting like that and raise thy head. It was worth it to chase after those dragons with some distance in between. I believe this art a sight that wouldst make thy heart greatly throb though?」

「Dismissing my concern like that……well, certainly the matter of Endo doesn't matter but……. And, what are you saying about the sight――」

Hajime stopped hugging his knees while casually saying something cruel about a certain friend with a thin presence and lifted his gaze. And then, he lost his words while unconsciously rising a voice of admiration「Ooo」.

In the middle of the chase, the two felt that it was futile chasing after the grey dragons and took some distance from them while following behind without the dragons noticing. And now, it seemed that they had reached the place where the dragons were dwelling.

「Is this a real Lap○ta huh?」

「Aah, that masterpiece……indeed, this resembles that. Though, as for me, this reminds me of the Holy Precincts.」

The sea of clouds continued without end since the place they appeared at in the beginning up till now. There was only the sea of clouds as far as their eye could see. It was possible that perhaps this sea of clouds was covering the whole world. In that case, because the surface was ravaged by the black rain that was bringing fatality to living things, then where would the dragons rest their wings――the answer to that question was this.

――An island floating in the sky.

Yes, it was a piece of land that was floating above the sea of clouds without anything supporting it from below. It was as though a piece of land had been reeled up as it was. Below it was the exposed earth and stones, above there was the verdant green ground, and there was even a forest covering the center of the floating island with tall trees. Its size was around five or six Tokyo Domes.

「I thought that this was a fantasy world by the time there were dragons, but with this, it feels even more like it.」

「Before, there was no time to observe the floating island of the Holy Precincts thoroughly. I am feeling a bit thrilled. Goshujin-sama, the dragons before art likely to be here too, so it's better to land on the edge as to not surprise them, correct?」

「Yeah, do that. I'll use "Presence Isolation" in advance.」

The more Tio approached, the more a commotion happened in the forest at the center. The trees were unnaturally shaking slightly; however, right after that, the forest was filled with peacefulness. Surely the dragons were hiding there.

Tio landed on the edge of the floating island while feeling their presence. She landed gently with a softness that didn't fit her large body. Hajime jumped down from Tio's back and stepped on the lush ground with his own feet.

Right after that, Tio dispelled her dragon transformation and stood beside Hajime. rustle, a sign of agitation was spreading from the forest.

「It looks like normal weeds from the appearance. The composition of the soil……it seems similar with Earth and Tortus but……hm?」

Hajime crouched and took a grass within his hand, and he then analyzed the soil composition with "Mineral Appraisal". And then, 「Oh?」 he blinked as though he noticed something.

「What art the matter? Art there some kind of mysterious composition mixed in it?」

「Rather than calling it a mysterious composition…… something that is really similar with a composition I'm really familiar with is mixed in. What's more, it's scattered all over in a wide scope like a fertilizer.」

「Familiar composition? From thy speech, is it something from Tortus?」

「Yeah. They are small granulated minerals that are even smaller than sand. ——「Converging Transmutation」」

Thinking that it was faster to see directly, he made his palm face up. Right after that, Hajime was activating a transmutation master's secret art of transmuting without the hand directly touching the material to converge the mineral in the surrounding.

Sparkling sands were bursting out from Hajime's surrounding. They were like large flowing rivers of the cosmos, swirling like sparkling stars with Hajime as the center where they were gradually converging above his palm.

With an emission of crimson sparks, the item that was finally created by the compression transmutation was a fragment of shining azure mineral.

「This art……it looks like god crystal.」

「Yeah. Though it's different in the finer aspects. It seems that the aspect where it takes in magic power and condenses it to manifest liquid is the same though.」

To be more specific, it couldn’t retain magic power as much as a god crystal, and on top of that, it also didn’t have the power to create god water that possessed the recovery effect, which wouldn’t be an exaggeration to be called as regeneration. However, its ability to take in magic power into itself and then create a liquid with abundant nourishment, and then its circulation rate of going through those sequences were far faster and more efficient to the degree that couldn’t be compared to the god crystal’s production of god water.

Hajime acquired that knowledge from the analysis of his smartphone that was equipped with the advanced function of analyzing using “Mineral Appraisal”, Creation Magic, and Metamorphosis Magic. Tio, who received Hajime’s explanation, said「I see」in understanding and then looked around.

「So that’s how a land floating in the sky couldst be this verdant. The reason art because it hath that god crystal look alike.」

「Looks like it. Although, that’s not the reason why this land is floating though……」

Hajime stood up and turned his gaze to the center of the floating island. He intended to go investigate there. Tio also nodded and was about to walk, but it was at that time,

「Mu? So they art coming out by their own initiative.」

One dragon suddenly showed its face from behind a tree. jii~ It was staring at Tio.

Hajime and Tio looked at each other. For now, they would try watching in silence. Hajime was using “Presence Isolation” at full power while also forming a simple barrier using a pencil-sized Cross Velt. It wasn’t an artifact for defense, but a barrier artifact that used space magic to bend the light for optical camouflage. It wasn’t that powerful, but it more or less also possessed space isolation effect, so it blocked the body odor from detection.

The small grey dragon was looking jii~ at Tio for a while, but seeing that Tio wasn’t moving while looking back at it with a calm expression, it seemed the dragon let its guard down just a little because it came out with unsure steps from the forest.

Behind that dragon, 「Oi, is it really okay?」「Stop I told you! You are going to die!」the other dragons timidly showed their face from behind the trees as though to say that.

「It looks like they art calming down a bit there~」

The figure of those dragons that could be said to be charming in a sense caused Tio to loosen up her face. Perhaps Tio’s atmosphere that was softening further encouraged it, and the dragon in the lead was advancing a bit and stopped, then it advanced a bit and stopped again. It was repeating that action while approaching Tio bit by bit.

Before long, the dragon that had arrived near Tio brought its snout closer to Tio, and it sniffed her smell sniff sniff. And then, it nervously retracted back its neck and tilted its head before it brought its nose closer again and sniffed her scent sniff sniff again.

「Hmm. It appears they art confused, whether I am a dragon or a human. In that case……it’s great isn’t it, Goshujin-sama. It appears Goshujin-sama art not especially hated; these children seem to fear “human” itself.」

「I see. In other words, that means humans, or at the very least “humanoid” beings, are existing in this world.」

Hajime replied using “Telepathy” just in case so the dragon wouldn’t get spooked. While the two were doing that, the other dragons also seemed to lose to their curiosity toward this mysterious existence who smelled like their race even though she was human. They were coming out of the forest even while looking timid with unsure steps.

Tio was surrounded by dragons in the blink of an eye. She slowly reached out her hand toward one of the dragons that was bringing its snout closer. The dragon twitched and drew back, but when it saw Tio waiting silently with her hand still reached out, it approached back slowly.

Finally, Tio’s hand touched the dragon’s snout. And then, when Tio caressed it, the dragon blinked in surprise before it started to narrow its eyes pleasantly. Its shrill but low purr kururururu- seemed to show its fawning act.

Behind Tio, another dragon was pressing its snout as though to appeal ‘me too’. Just when she thought that was it, the other dragons also pushed their snouts forward from the left and right too.

「Oi oi, all of thee. For the dragon race of all things to be spoiled children like this, every single one of thou? What troubling children.」

Tio chuckled while saying that. Although, even though she was saying that, the emotion dwelling in her eyes was an unconcealed kindness. She gently caressed them in turn with smiling eyes and loosened cheeks, looking truly like a mother.

Hajime also looked fondly at the figure of Tio surrounded by dragons while gently spoiling them. Even though normally she was very much a pervert, her true nature was a noble person that was overflowing with prudence, kindness, and pride. That was exactly the charm of this woman, Tio Claus.

「Mu? I vaguely feel a passionate gaze……now-now, Goshujin-sama. Art thou envious that I am paying attention only to these children?」

While smiling mischievously, Tio accurately threw her gaze at Hajime who was hiding behind the barrier of optical camouflage.

It was a fact that Hajime was captivated, so he smiled wryly while replying「Perhaps」. After getting that unexpectedly positive reply, Tio's cheeks blushed faintly. It seemed she was a bit happy.

To divert the attention from her shyness, she opened her mouth with a bit of rapid talk.

「Goshujin-sama. If it's now, these children's wariness art lessened considerably, how about giving a try to pat them?」

「I guess. There won't be many chances of something like this.」

Hajime manipulated the pencil Cross Velt and deployed the optical camouflage as close as possible on his body. He was also in the middle of activating Presence Isolation in full force, so he should be able to pat the dragon if he reached his hand from a blind spot.

Hajime slowly approached a dragon. It was half closing its eyes from Tio's caressing, so it shouldn't notice anything even if he touched it a bit.

But, it seemed that wild instinct wasn’t that naïve.

□!?□

The dragon that Hajime approached suddenly leapt back from that spot. Furthermore, that jump happened so deftly and vigorously that for a moment there it felt like there would be a sound hyuba-.

‘Am I noticed?’ Hajime stared fixedly, but the dragon tilted its head□kuruu?□while looking around. It seemed it didn’t notice Hajime, but it only acted instinctually.

Hajime tried taking a step forward. The dragon took a step back. Hajime tried taking two steps forward. The dragon took two steps back. Hajime tried to circle behind it. The dragon circled with a fixed distance preserved in between. It was as though there was an unseen wall between Hajime and the dragon as the two sides were turning in circles without any change of distance between them.

It seemed that the dragon didn’t understand why it was acting like this. It frequently tilted its head.

□Ma, mayhaps it understands instinctually that there art something it hates there?□

Tio muttered such a thing, perhaps from sensing how Hajime’s eyes were gradually turning scornful.

Hajime tried approaching the other dragons. The other dragons also took a distance with natural movement. No matter where Hajime tried to go, the dragons would distance themselves from Hajime as though they were magnets of opposite poles. There was no doubt that they didn’t notice Hajime’s existence. In other words, they were avoiding him on a subconscious level.

Hajime was hurt for a tiny bit. He was looking at the day after tomorrow with a faraway look.

But, at that time, perhaps it was just a coincidence, but one dragon clawed on the ground with its hind leg. The soil that was hurled from that went splat on Hajime.

That action was as though like what a cat or a dog would do to filth……

「……Go, Goshujin-sama?」

「……」

Hajime didn’t reply. He merely grinned.

Crimson magic power suddenly sparked. The dragons were still busy fawning on Tio. They didn’t notice how they had stepped on a landmine.

Hajime slowly walked while still having the barrier and Presence Isolation activated and took a position at the center of the dragons by skillfully manipulating the distance.

There, the dragons finally noticed the strange air and they looked around restlessly.

And then, they turned their gazes’ at the area centered around them, which, for some reason, was empty without anyone being there.

——Stand B~y! Stand B~~y!!

——Now, everyone, are you all finished with your preparations?

——It’s starting you know?

——Pe~~ek, aa~~~~~~~~~~.....demon king!

The barrier vanished, and the Presence Isolation was dispelled.

What appeared was a bursting crimson magic power with the demon king-sama grinning wideeeeely at the center.

The result went without saying.

□□□□□PIGYAAAAAAAAAAAAAAH!!!□□□□□

The dragons' screams that were filled with fright resounded through the clear blue sky.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 231

Arifureta After II Mistaken World View

At a corner of an island floating in the sky was a demon king sitting on the ground while grasping his knees.

It was Hajime.

「Even though thou understood this is how it wouldst end up……」

A weeping back, eyes that looked like dead fish’s, and a beautiful huddling posture could be seen. Hajime, who was currently the personification of a picture perfect “depressed person”, was told such by Tio with an exasperated expression.

「Guu」

He could barely let out a ‘guu’ sound. Seeing such a Hajime, Tio snickered once more through her exasperation. The situation that was the exact opposite of their normal actions would surely make anyone who knew these two to doubt their eyes if they saw this. (TN: In Japan, there is a saying of “he cannot even make a ‘guu’ sound” to show how speechless or cornered the person is.)

「Come on, Goshujin-sama. Come back to thyself quickly. Thou art going to investigate the cause of this island’s floating state, correct?

Tio snugly squatted beside Hajime. She peered at Hajime's face with a consoling smile. Hajime glanced at Tio, and then he glanced across his shoulder to look behind him.

Over there were several fainted dragons with the white of their eyes completely exposed. Several of their fellow dragons poked at them to ascertain their well-being while several others were staring fearfully at Hajime and Tio. It went without saying that the fainted group was the victim of one of the Demon King-Style 108 Harassment Skills, "Peek-a-Demon King!".

Just leave me alone and take care of those guys. You see, I'm disgusted from the bottom of my heart by a foolish existence like me.

Well, certainly, it was really immature.

Gufuh. Getting told that by the likes of a hopeless dragon……depressing. I want to……not die; I want to be a shut-in.

Even though Goshujin-sama's mind art damaged that much, this natural abuse, nnn-

Tio's cheeks reddened while her body fidgeted.

A dragon that was poking its comrade behind them tilted its head Oh? before a beat later it made a commotion gyau gyau. The other dragons got startled and turned around. They then started to make similar noises. A fainted dragon had its tongue spilled out limply from its mouth. ……It seemed that it was just a step short of death's door.

「However, for Goshujin-sama to make merry until this far, how rare this is.」

「Well, I cannot deny that my mood is uplifted more than usual. After all, an adventure where there is no clear objective, no powerful enemy, and no companion's life at stake like this is a first.」

「Boy.」

「You say that, but you too are high spirited, aren't you?」

「Yes. I couldst not deny that.」

One more dragon had its tongue spilled out limply. And then one more dragon, although it opened its eyes just for a moment, then stretched its forelegs to the sky――before losing strength and flopping on the ground.

This scene was obvious to the trained eye. Right now, something that looked like a white vapor was rising out from the limply unmoving dragons toward the heavens with a swaying motion! They were dying from the shock of "Peek-a-Demon King"!

「Well, for now, I'll depend on you to keep my disgrace a secret, okay? As expected, if this is known by Yue and the others, then I'll turn into a real shut-in from shame and self-disgust.」

Hajime stood up while making Tio promise to keep this a secret. He then turned on his heels and walked away briskly. He was heading toward the dragons making gyau gyau noises at their comrades' death.

The surviving dragons were startled by Hajime's approach, and their bodies froze before they escaped in panic.

「Fufufuh, a secret just between the two of us, that really art not bad. Very well. The childish figure of Goshujin-sama will be locked inside mine heart.」

「Please, okay? Now then, you guys, don't go to the other side as you please.」

Hajime was talking with Tio while fitting his hand into a black glove that was overflowing with romance. He then suddenly reached out with his hand to the empty air and grasped something violently and then drove it into the dragon below him.

The dragon with its tongue lolling out twitched and convulsed. The other dragons raised their cries while evacuating to the sky, as though to say「He is beating up a corpse!?」

Not paying any attention to that, Hajime did the same thing to the other dragons. He caught something midair and then drove that something, with a palm strike, into the dragons' bodies.

「Still, looking at them from nearby like this I can really see it……these dragons, their bodies are really frail.」

「Yes. They art scared of humans, and then with the polluted land there art no doubt that this world is a harsh place without sufficient food for these children to live.」

While conversing like that, Hajime made red sparks run through the black glove. bachi bachi With that sound, the hand became clad in moderate electricity before Hajime's hand casually struck at the place where the heart of the dragon with the lolling tongue seemed to be located at while still talking normally with Tio.

The dragon with the lolling tongue twitched and trembled. Then in the next moment, its eyes opened with a snap, and it accomplished its revival!

The “Lightning Clad” seemed to be overflowing with casualness, but actually, it had been superbly adjusted. Hajime also used electric shock into the dragons that were ascending to heaven.

By the way, Hajime reaching out his hand into the empty air was a direct blow to the soul——by using the black glove that was a protection artifact, Hajime grasped the souls of the dragons that were ascending to heaven and returned them to their bodies.

The dragons that received the relatively rough direct resurrection treatment were shivering in terror, as expected when they saw Hajime. Hajime muttered「Well, can’t be helped. I reap what I sow」. For the time being, he took out food——meat that was preserved inside “Treasure Warehouse II” ——for the bean sprout dragons.

Hajime threw it carelessly at the dragons’ feet. The dragons jumped in place because they couldn’t escape even if they wanted to with their distance being so close to Hajime, but even so, their nose was twitching from the wafting smell from below.

They were bothered by Hajime. Or rather, they were scared. Perhaps they would be killed instantly the moment they took their eyes off of him……

Even while thinking that, drool was already flowing like a river from their mouths. In less than ten seconds their eyes were already glancing repeatedly at their feet.

They looked like a doggy that was told to “wait” .

Hajime smiled wryly.

「That's an apology for surprising you guys. You guys looking like bean sprouts even though you are of the dragon race is also pitiful. Eat as much as you want.」

Hajime also carelessly left behind more raw meat in order to include the share of the dragons that were circling above while observing the situation. And then he drew back.

The dragons looked at each other. 'He is not attacking? What is this thing with a good smell? Is it okay to eat?' It felt like those voices of the heart could be heard from them.

The flying dragons hesitantly landed down. Their eyes were turning bloodshot from seeing the lumps of meat while drool was flowing from their mouth like a waterfall. The dragons looked at each other, and then they glanced at Hajime.

Hajime was standing silently beside Tio. Beside the mysteriously kind and great existence who was clad in the same presence as them.

Before long, one dragon became unable to endure anymore and bit at the edge of the meat. While the other dragons were watching over him「O, oi. Are you okay?」, for a moment, the dragon stiffened before its eyes suddenly snapped open and it charged the lump of meat.

「GYUUOOOOWAAAAA!」

Anyone could understand its meaning despite it not using words. That was truly a roar of joy! 'How can something this delicious exist in this world! This is like a treasure among food~~-!!' Such a voice from the heart was resounding.

Naturally, the other dragons also snapped at the meat. And then they raised similar roars of joy.

One dragon exposed the white of its eyes, and its tongue lolled out from the excessive deliciousness and excitement. Its soul that looked like a white vapor was ascending to heaven. Hajime quickly grasped it, drove it zudon- into the body, and revived it with bachi bachi. The dragon then snapped into the meat once more.

「These guys, they are dying too easily. Just how frail are they?」

「Truly, this art too pitiful for a dragon race……was what I wanted to say, but it looks like this art even the first time eating meat for these children. Most likely, they art surviving by living on this island and eating fruits or something else. By the way, why did Goshujin-sama bring meat like that?」

「Aa. Remember, we had a barbecue before, right? A lot of people came, and so I bought a lot of meat in preparation for high spirits. These are the remains of that time.」

「Mu. Wait a second, Goshujin-sama. If I remember correctly, the meat at that time was really good meat correct? I remember that it was the brand product from somewhere.」

「Yeah. These are grade A5 meats.」

「……The meat they art eating for the first time, art the top quality product. Perhaps it couldst not be helped if they ascend to heaven from that.」

Rather, this was an act that would make the meat producer fly into a rage saying ‘don’t use this meat for animal food!’. If Hajime was going to make an excuse, then it was because other than this meat he only had preserved food. Even Hajime felt a bit regretful doing this.

But, this act, that was an extravagance in a sense, brought an unexpected result about.

「Hm? ……Their wariness is lessening slightly?」

Yes, the dragons that were giving off satisfied auras as though to say「I'm full!」were sending glances at Hajime. From those gazes, it certainly looked like the color of terror from before was lessening. Right now, he had to say they were more bewildered than scared.

「……Are we mistaken perhaps? Who would have thought that these guys who were that scared of humans would change their hearts like this just from a single helping of food.」

「Muu. These children art too simple that it's worrisome. They are like children who wouldst follow a stranger just because they are promised candy.」

It was unthinkable for a wild beast to so easily let go of the wariness they had harbored once. That was why Hajime gave them meat in the name of apologizing, but……at this rate, perhaps these dragons would react warmly towards humans who they actually ought to be wary against when compared to from before.

The result of doing that would be the same as shortening the life of these dragons. Therefore, Hajime's expression turned a bit bitter.

「But if you look at it from another angle, then perhaps they are so cornered to the degree that their wariness will lessen just from a single helping of food……」

Hajime sighed. And then, he exposed a really speechless expression before he suddenly changed his presence.

「Sorry. I didn’t intend to toy with you guys, but……I did something bad. Be scared of humans properly.」

Saying that, Hajime was about to emit “Pressure”――but it was at that time,

「「「「「Gyauh!?」」」」」

The dragons suddenly turned around in a panic and rushed at full speed into the forest.

「Goshujin-sama?」

「No, that’s not me. I haven’t emitted “Pressure”. Just what in the――」

Tio showed a face that was questioning Hajime, but naturally, Hajime responded with words of denial. Hajime himself was tilting his head in puzzlement as to why the dragons suddenly ran away.

But, in the next moment, he noticed the cause and stopped his words. If it was the hell rabbit-eared Shia, then it would’ve been possible that she would’ve noticed at the same time as, or possibly faster than, the dragons.

「What? Something is approaching? A living thing……but this voice…」

「Mu? I couldst not hear anything……no, now I couldst. …… This is…..it sounds like a motor?」

「Ye, yeah. I can also hear something like that……」

From far away the sound of kiiiiiiiii- was faintly resounding. Certainly, it was just as Tio said; the sound resembled that of a motor. Yes, it was a voice that was raised by a machine. Therefore, Hajime couldn’t hide his bewilderment.

A black rain that polluted the world, dragons, and a floating island in the sky. In this undoubtedly fantasy world, something that was making a sound that resembled a motor was approaching rapidly. It couldn’t be helped that his image of this world was crumbling.

「Nevertheless, this thing is……」

「Fast!」

The moment Tio finished Hajime’s sentence, that thing showed its appearance, along with a high-pitched sound.

A hard-looking frame, in a delta shape, that had a trace of roundness with a sky blue color that could conceal itself within the azure sky appeared. Several long and narrow tubes were attached to its bottom part. There were five of them rushing straight toward the floating island in a beautiful triangular formation.

Seeing those things flying away instantly above Hajime and Tio, Hajime said,

「Why fighter planes!?」

He grandly acted the straight-man.

Yes, those things were obviously fighter planes. If compared to the existing aircraft on Earth, then these planes looked like space fighter aircraft that appeared in a movie based on the near future, but Hajime’s excellent eyes certainly caught sight of a few things. A human was riding inside the cockpit installed at the front part of the airframe, and that the tube things installed below the aircraft resembled the missiles on Earth.

「……Goshujin-sama. It seems our worldview art mistaken. If we hath to say what kind of world this is――it's SF.」

「What's with this chaos.」

A black rain that polluted the world, dragons, and a floating island in the sky, along with futuristic fighter planes flying through the sky.

Certainly, it was a chaotic world.

KIIII A hard sound resounded from the aircraft that drew a beautiful arc in the sky. The formation of five planes was circling above as though to observe the floating island, and then they took a distance for the moment.

「The other side should be able to see us too. It will be fine if they can communicate with us somehow.」

「For now, how about trying to talk with them using telepathy Goshujin-sama?」

Hajime and Tio talked with each other carefreely. Ahead of their gaze, one of the circling aircraft suddenly began to be clad with a strange light. The aircraft that was giving off a presence that felt increasingly like SF――or rather like a UFO―― released something akin to a ripple of light the moment it passed over the forest.

There wasn’t any thunderous sounds reverberating, or the forest getting blown up. But, there was certainly a result from that.

KIIIIII-

A hard sound that was different from the motor suddenly struck the ear.

□-, this is□

□A sound wave?□

Hajime and Tio scrunched up their faces reflexively. Tio immediately blocked the sound wave using a wind barrier, but even so, that sound attack caused her a headache.

Naturally, for the dragons whose hearing was better than Hajime and Tio and didn’t possess any barriers, this was an attack that would make them feel outrageous agony.

□□□□KUWAAAAAAAAH□□□□

The dragons raised a cry that sounded like a scream and flew out of the forest.

It seemed they fell into a panic. They frantically tried to distance themselves from the forest as much as they could. But then another plane fired its missile.

The missile that was approaching at high speed burst before it could impact the dragons, and from there a net was ejected.

The net spread widely and enveloped the dragons without even giving them time to twist their bodies. On top of that, the net wasn’t falling down but stayed fixed in midair and restrained the dragons. It was as though the dragons were locked inside a cage that was created in midair.

「A hunt, huh.」

「……I see. We art not helping?」

Tio didn’t sound angry. She merely asked as a question. Hajime made a wry smile.

「If there is someone being a nuisance to a fisherman saying 「What are you doing catching the fish huh!」, then that person is simply an idiot. No, rather he is a scoundrel that is hindering the fisherman’s work.」

「Certainly. It’s not something good if we who doth not know anything about this world interfere as we pleased.」

It was completely sound reasoning. They only had a bit of an interaction with the dragons, but it would be a lie if they said that they didn’t feel any attachment at all to the dragons whose reactions were like a stray dog. However, if they were asked whether they were so attached to the dragons to the degree that they would hinder the aircraft pilots who were possibly hunting the dragons to feed their families, or for some kind of important work, then the answer was a big NO.

「But, I’m curious to the working of that net that is fixed in midair and the sound wave attack and flashing phenomenon of the aircraft. No matter how I look at it, their driving force seems different compared to Earth’s aircraft……Perhaps, it might have the same principle with how this island is floating.」

「Either way, they art a party that we might be able to exchange words with. Letting this chance get away art not an option. The problem now art how to communicate with them, but……art we going to try sending them telepathy?

It will be great if my “Language Comprehension” and interpreter artifact can demonstrate their effect.

Even while the two were conversing, most of the dragons that were flying out of the forest were captured. Hajime was observing to see how the dragons would be transported, but during that time, one of the aircraft circled around and was facing its nose toward Hajime and Tio.

Oh, as expected, it looks like they noticed us. It seems the other side is the one coming to contact us?

Ri, right. It appears so but……for some reason, I hath a bad premonition though.

Tio’s premonition was correct.

The moment voo- an instantaneous sound split the air and a sudden flash scattered from the lower part of the aircraft’s nose——wind of killing intent assaulted the two.

What was fired without any warning was a machine gun. The storm of bullets that were concealing terrible destructive power mercilessly rushed at Hajime and Tio. The surrounding ground was rupturing as though getting blown away. The thrown up cloud of dust hid the two from view.

The aircraft passed overhead Hajime and Tio as though nothing had happened and rejoined its comrades. It didn’t even give a glance at Hajime and Tio anymore. It was clear that the pilot thought the two weren’t an existence that was worth anything. It was only mowing grass in the corner of the garden that was an eyesore——that was how it felt like.

「……Calm down me. This is another world. Don’t judge things with our own common sense.」

「……Those guys……ignorance art truly terrifying isn’t it.」

The cloud of dust was carried away by the wind. What appeared from there was naturally the unharmed Hajime and Tio. A cube-shaped barrier was deployed around them using the Cross Velts. The strafing that had a might which resembled a 30mm Vulcan cannon was blocked without even a single crack on the barrier.

However, it was doubtful whether the heart of the person inside could block that kind of uncompromising tyranny.

Hajime was folding his arms with a vein pulsing on his forehead, but even so, he was trying to suppress his anger and persuade himself. Tio was directing a gaze that was shuddering in terror at the aircraft pilots. Of course, that shudder wasn’t directed toward their strength, but at their attitude that was picking a fight against a godslayer right from the front.

「This is a world with polluted land. Then, a ground that is floating in the sky must be really important for humans to live. Naturally, they should be managing and protecting it strictly. And now there are unknown people rudely stepping on it. I cannot complain even if I got shot without any warning whatsoever. Isn’t that right, me? That’s right, me.」

「Go, Goshujin-sama. I understand that thy art angry, so please stop that soliloquizing. Somehow it’s terrifying in a different meaning.」

The way to suppress anger Hajime-style――soliloquizing. When seen from the side, it was a skill that was wholly judged to be more terrifying than being angry normally.

Because on Earth there was no way he could uncompromisingly go “instant death for everyone♡” like when he was on Tortus. This was a patience skill that Hajime newly learned.

From afar, seeing how Hajime and Tio were unharmed, the pilot seemed to be taken aback and directed its aircraft’s nose toward the two once more.

Hajime cleared his throat once and called for a ceasefire while activating “Telepathy”.

「Aa~, pilot-san, pilot-san. Can you hear? We don’t have any ill intention. If we are trespassing illegally, then we will apologize and get out right away. That’s why first let’s have a tal――」

Missile inbound!! Without warning, it went whoo~~~sh-!!

Of course, Hajime and Tio were unharmed.

「……」

「Sto, stop it! All of theee, doth thee hath a death wish!? Let’s hath a talk right now!」

Hajime was muttering to himself inaudibly.「Perhaps the telepathy didn’t go through. No, perhaps they didn’t understand the language. Perseverance is important in communication. Isn’t that’s right, me? That’s right, me」He was soliloquizing again. His eyes were completely not moving though.

「Please, listen to us. We――」

Missile comi~~~ng-!! Yes, whoo~~~~sh-!!

Perhaps the missile this time was of a different variety because it didn’t just explode it had an extra flame blast with viscosity. The surrounding was dyed crimson. However, inside the rumbling flame that was blazing, the two were standing still unharmed as expected.

Tio was getting flustered ‘awawawa’ while glancing at Hajime, but when she saw Hajime’s expression had gone past rage and he was starting to smile instead, she covered her face with both hands as though to say「I cannot bear to see this anymore!」

But, it would be troubling if the current Hajime was looked down on. In order for him to live normally in Japan on Earth, his homeland that believed in law and order, every day he was working hard not to use violence, but instead, he was learning a different type of strength that was patience and perseverance, negotiation power and financial strength.

He wouldn’t snap just from a small amount of machine gun strafing and missiles!

……It felt like the dragons would want to retort「Then why did you snap before this!?」if they knew it.

「Pilot-san, we――」

Hajime tried to call out once more with a voice that had lost any intonation. This time, finally there was a reaction. Although, the reaction wasn’t something that “came back” to Hajime, but a complete ignoring of Hajime.

「Chih, what the hell is this. Don’t tell me they are carrying a shielding device on the same level as a warship?」

「Vans-san, surely that’s impossible. Do you see anywhere any device with the size necessary for a shield of the warship level?

Are they an OOPArt owner? ……I want that.(TN: Out of Place Artifact)

No way. You think there are any explorers in this era huh. Rather than that, look there. That woman. Her outfit is strange, but she is an extremely fine jewel, yeah? Hey, Vans-san? Looks like that guy is calling at us, so let’s land down and kill just the man, then give me that woman. The woman from before is not usable anymore. I want to make her my new pet.

It appeared these guys weren’t really guys with class. At the same time, it seemed that they were thinking that the conversation on their side wasn’t leaking out. Most likely, they were under the impression that the communication method Hajime and Tio was using was something like their own method. It seemed they thought that they couldn’t be heard because they were on a different frequency (?).

Hajime was silent. However, all the color was gradually leaving his smiling face.

In the middle of that, the man who seemed to be the leader called Vans-san said this to the man who made a remark of wanting to kill Hajime and taking only Tio as a pet.

Hmph? Certainly, I’m curious about that abnormally strong shield. ……Fine then. We will land down and pull the information out from them. After that, kill the man——and I’ll take the woman.

Eeh!? That’s unfair!

Don’t make a ruckus. I’ll lend her to you when I’m not using her.

「A~a, can’t be helped then~」

Their screwed up conversation was continuing. The five fighter planes——if following what they were saying, it seemed that the plane was called sky battlecraft——that were circling with their noses directed at Hajime and Tio were lowering their speed and altitude. Currently, in the conversation that was clearly being leaked out, the hot topics were about how they would kill Hajime or how they would rape Tio later.

「……Haa, the fools. They art waking up a monster that is not necessary to wake up. They art getting their just dessert.」

Tio’s words were muttered to herself.

The sky battlecrafts were approaching. The dragons were peeking at their direction from inside the net.

Hajime’s figure vanished instantly.

And then, the pilots of the sky battlecrafts, especially Vans who was flying in the lead as the first plane, began doubting their eyes.

「There is no need to get down. I’ll send you all down to hell myself.」

A flat voice was resounding inside their heads. At the same time, an impossible sight appeared in front of them.

With a giant weapon loaded with a giant stake carried in one hand, a human silhouette jumped onto the front of the flying sky battlecraft’s cockpit while scattering crimson sparks.

「Eh? Ah? What——」

That became the last sentence of the man named Vans.

【What……the hell, is that!?】

【Just now, what happened!?】

【What is going on!?】

【Shit-, is that seriously some kind of OOPArt!?】

Panicked voices resounded.

The sight that they witnessed frightened them.

It was of a man jumping up a few hundred meters with a flesh and blood body, carrying a weapon that was unthinkable for any human to lift in one hand, literally pulverizing the first plane.

The wreckage of the first plane that was scattered into little pieces and shower of flesh and blood were raining down to the ground. A single black giant stake pierced the floating island like a gravestone.

The pilots that were cursing while rapidly turning their planes were treated with another absurd sight.

It was the sight of a barrage of giant stakes flying wildly everywhere.

【Sca, scatterrr!】

The plane that seemed to be the second in command immediately gave an order, but he was already too late. One plane received a direct hit and turned into scraps midair.

【Holy shit-, you bastard, I’ll absolutely murder――】

The one speaking turned speechless. His eyes were opened wide. That was natural. After all, the target was calmly standing in midair while causing crimson ripples to spread out; furthermore, in the hand opposite of the one carrying the weapon that was shooting out giant stakes——the gatling pile bunker——another giant weapon materialized.

The name of that weapon, which was put on the shoulder, was Agni – Orkan. It was a weapon that displayed the most power in surface-to-air combat.

Instantly, a great number of missiles were launched.

The man that was about to spit out a curse soundlessly screamed while steering his plane, but how could he possibly evade more than fifty missiles that were assaulting him from every direction. Naturally, his fate was decided.

One more flower of flame bloomed in the sky.

「Withdraw! We’re withdrawing!」

「Mo, monster-」

The two remaining sky battlecrafts circled with a maneuver that was possibly even more outstanding than aircraft made on Earth. They tried to retreat from the battlefield right away with their highest speed.

Their speed was also amazing, as expected, as they had turned into the size of a bean in one breath.

Hajime silently stowed away the gatling pile bunker and Agni – Orkan and took out the replacement weapon.

——Anti-Material Sniping Cannon Schlagen AA (Acht Acht)

Across the scope, a sky battlecraft escaping to the sky far away was reflected.

「That was a good lesson, right? Use it as a reference in hell.」

The trigger was pulled after that whisper. No matter how excellent the speed of the sky battlecraft was, there was no way they could match the speed of a bullet that was accelerated electromagnetically. One plane was pierced from its back part all the way up to its front part, and then its figure vanished into the sea of clouds appearing as though it had been skewered.

Hajime who was shouldering Schlagen AA called out to Tio.

「Tio. We are pursuing. We are annihilating――not, it appears that the plane is returning back toward its comrade's location. Let's thoroughly have them tell us about this world.」

「Aa, yes. That's right.」

Tio was watching Hajime tear apart the nets capturing the dragons using a chakram with a wry smile while transforming into a dragon.

And then, Hajime rode on her back, and she started flying in the sky with terrific speed.

「Goshujin-sama, thank you.」

「……For what?」

Tio didn't answer. Hajime also understood what it was about. She was happy that he exposed his wrath when the men said they would make her a pet.

Instead of answering, Tio’s acceleration that was far smoother than usual told the answer more eloquently than anything.

「Now then. Was that the standard of this world’s humans, or is it different? I’ll have them show me.」

「Thy art really on fire……」

Even while feeling a bit excited at the fierce gleam in the eyes of Hajime, who was facing an enemy, which she was seeing for the first time in a while, Tio was also feeling just a little pity at the vulgar residence of this world who angered the demon king right from the start.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Recently, I’m unable to make it in time……I’m sorry.

Now then, just when you thought that it’s fantasy, it’s actually half SF! That kind of story.

Tio arc, just where in the world is it going to lead? Even Shirakome doesn’t know.

But, I’m writing while picturing an enjoyable development. Just like usual!

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 232

Arifureta After II Cannot Stay as Onlooker

The near future type aircraft made in another world was racing through the sky at a speed that left the territory of sound with a lurch.

It detoured a large cloud mountain with an amazing turn in an attempt to shake something off. It then accelerated in one go from its slight reduction in speed. The nozzle at the plane’s rear was ejecting sparkling silver particles——the ejected amount increasing explosively.

The sky battlecraft intruded into the world of the speed of sound once more with an impact sound. The surrounding clouds were blown away due to the shockwave. Its acceleration knew no end and had easily surpassed Mach 2 already.

「NUOOOOOH-. THAT’S REALLY FAST-. AS EXPECTED FROM A FIGHTER PLANE! IT’S GETTING AWAYYYYY-」

A beat later, a black dragon with a desperate look appeared through the cloud mountain. A whirling black wind was enveloping Tio. Seen from the side, it looked like there was a jet black typhoon flying horizontally.

It was Tio’s flying skill that realized flying at super speed by reducing the air resistance to the extreme, and furthermore, she caused a spiral-shaped wind around herself to convert it into propulsive power. Even if one looked at the long history of the dragon race, there didn’t exist anyone that entered the realm of the speed of sound.

Therefore, something like storming into an unknown territory of speed was truly something out of the realm of common sense, and what’s more, it didn’t just stop there, she was actually flying while maintaining a speed that was twice the speed of sound. A miraculous feat that couldn’t be possibly realized without the age of god magic called “Sublimation magic” and the assistance of an artifact. Of course, there was also the delicate yet powerful skill that should be referred to as Tio’s own special talent.

Tio was unmistakably the history’s fastest living thing on Tortus. However, it was a fact that against this aircraft that was continuously accelerating she was gradually getting left behind. She somehow managed to stay hot on its tail despite the aircraft sometimes taking evasive maneuvers against the threat of Hajime’s sniping but……

「Hmm~, looks like it will reach the limit soon even with the threatening. It seems he is starting to realize that we have no intention of hitting him.」

「Nuu. I know that I couldst not win against a fighter plane in a match of pure speed, but……when it comes down to it, it’s vexing to be left behind like this.」

「No, by the time there is a biological creature that can freely fly in the sky at speed twice the speed of sound, complete with heavy armor and high firepower, that’s already a nightmare. You too have deviated far from the scope of a living thing you know?」

「I’m happy to be praised, but it’s only this that I couldst not accept even with logic.」

Tio was looking at the far away sky battlecraft that was already nothing but a speck in the sky while moaning「Muu」in dissatisfaction.

Seeing Tio as such, for a beat, Hajime tilted his head as though he was thinking of something, and right after that he grinned——and took out something.

It looked black, thin, long, and elastic——

「Here we go, Tio. Let’s show off our combination move.」

「Mu? What in the world——-, tha, that’s!?」

Tio glanced back after hearing Hajime’s words and opened her eyes wide in astonishment. Her voice was raised half in shock and half in joy.

That thing which captured her gaze. That thing which was going to be swung right now.

——Black Whip ver 2.1 “This is not a weapon. It’s for personal use desu.”

It could be easily guessed for what kind of personal use it was used for.

「GO-, TIO! UNTIL THE OTHER SIDE OF THE SKY!」

The black whip was swung down. hyun- It split the air and dexterously flew right behind while making a really crisp sound bechin-.

「AA———!! HOW COULDDDDDD-. Thi, this sensation that hath been a while-」

「What's the matter Tio! Your strength shouldn't be just this much!」

Once more, bechikon-! The greatly twirling whip's tip was donpisha- striking Tio's butt.

「IT CAME IT CAME IT CAME-! MINE POWER IS OVERFLOWING OUT! MORE! HIT MY BUTT MOREEE! WITH THAT, I FEEL LIKE I COULDST GO FURTHER!」

「You said it! You matchless pervert dragon! I'll give you more!」

「BRING IT O———N-!!」

Tio's eyes were getting moist. Her mouth was leaking out heated breaths 'haa haa'. Her body was shivering in joy, and the jet black tornado enveloping her was fiercely increasing its acceleration! By using her special skill "Pain Conversion", the reward that was granted to her by her master was giving her strength! Her speed was endlessly increasing!

The sky battlecraft that had turned into a speck was getting larger and was now comparable to the size of a thumb!

「PLEASE HIT ME! MINE BUTT! PLEASE TORMENT IT MORE!」

hyun hyun-hyuun- Accompanying the sound of slicing wind was the sound of a whip cracking bishi-, bashi-, bechikon- as though in response to that entreaty. By using the personal use artifact that was bypassing the black scales and granting direct and superb pain only to the sensitive skin, the hopeless dragon-san was reaching her perfect form!

The sky battlecraft in front of them was reeling for an instant.

Just when he thought that he had barely escaped with his life from the incomprehensible monster that destroyed sky battlecraft using a flesh and blood body, a majestic black dragon that he had never seen before was chasing after him clad in a jet black typhoon. In addition to that, the dragon was moving at the speed of sound while also being equipped with something like a laser cannon.

He lost count of how many times he had made a mistake with his piloting and reduced his speed from shock……

On top of all that, came a perverted roar that was mixed with excitement「HIT MINE BUTTTTT-」that reached his ear as though that solemn voice was coming from the sky.

The pilot was in chaos! Then he became teary-eyed! He couldn’t understand what reality was anymore!

「Glowser 4-. I believe in you! Get me out of this nightmare!」

The pilot called out to his beloved plane——Glowser 4——in a pleading voice. The mindless plane was naturally keeping silent, but due to the hard pressing of the slot pedal, it was displaying its ability up to the very limit of its performance.

Based on the specifications it was a super-fast sky battlecraft that could reach the maximum speed of Mach 4.4 in a purely straight line. It left behind an explosive sound that was similar to the air rupturing and dashed through the sky like the streak of a meteor.

Behind it, the hopeless dragon-san managed to stay on its tail! The owner-san riding on her back was swinging around a “personal not weapon” without pause in high spirits! Howls of joy were resounding through the vast sky! Tio Claus was outdoing a modern aircraft!

「ORA ORA ORA ORA ORA-, you got slightly left behind! Put your strength into your ass! This damned hopeless dragon-」

「AHIIIIIIIH! I CAME! I'M COMING TO BEYOND THE SKYYYYYYYY-」

「Just what the hell-. Please no more-. Someone HELP MEEEEEEEEE-」

The sky was blue. The wind was refreshing, and the sea of clouds was beautiful.

Amidst such magnificent nature, three different roars from three different people were……

It was truly chaotic.

A while after the chaos had spread throughout the azure sky.

「Hics……」

「Don't cry, Tio. You set a new record you know? You are without a doubt the fastest living thing in history. You are amazing. In various meanings.」

There was the figure of Tio who was flying at a normal speed while sobbing and Hajime who was consoling her.

It stood to reason that Tio who reached the realm of four times the speed of sound, even though it was just for a moment, was unmistakably an existence that had deviated from the scope of living beings and could be said to have entered the realm of god. But, even so, she was unable to match the endurance of the near future type aircraft of another world that could maintain such a speed continuously. In the end, she was left behind like this and had her pride hurt.

「It’s vexing, how vexing」

「Come on, stop crying already. You are amazing okay.」

Hajime exposed a gentle expression that was unthinkable to be coming from the person who just now was exhibiting storm-like whipping while laughing loudly. He was patting pon pon and caressing Tio’s black scales.

To be given the carrot after the whip, Tio drew in her tears of vexation and continued「But……」while being enveloped in an aura of happiness.

「We let go of a source that we couldst finally communicate with. What wouldst we do from here, Goshujin-sama?」

「H~m, let’s see. We can return to the floating island and investigate the cause of the island’s ability to float, but we have flown quite a distance away from there. Let’s try and go for a bit in the direction that guy was flying.」

「Well, in this first place, this art an aimless adventure, so I don’t mind that.」

While saying such a thing, the two continued to carefreely fly in pursuit of someone who they had no idea of how far he had escaped.

Sometimes Hajime would change their route randomly by saying things like「Let’s try going over there」or「Let’s try going toward that cloud」. Tio would tilt her head thinking 「He is not in the mood for chasing anymore?」, but even so, there wasn’t any particular reason for her to object so she would continue flying following his instructions.

Like that, they must have flown continuously for half a day.

Midway through they discovered several floating islands while advancing past the scenery that wasn’t really changing. The time was finally starting to enter a period in which the sun was starting to sink below the other side of the sea of clouds.

Inside the world that was painfully beautiful and dyed in a madder red color, it appeared.

「Hee. This thing is also really big. Is this a mothership I wonder?」

「……It’s not clear if this is the place where that guy escaped to. Well, though it doth not feel like we art mistaken based on the direction and distance.」

「Ou. We aren’t mistaken.」

For a moment, Tio directed a really speechless expression at Hajime, but then she immediately pulled herself together and asked「What wouldst we do?」

Hajime displayed a thinking gesture while staring at the thing ahead of his gaze.

It was a large flying warship vacantly shining dull grey from the illumination of the sun’s orange light. Its shape was similar to a blimp in Earth’s terms. It had a small but wide shape like a rugby ball. When thinking about how it was made from metal and its shape, it was common to come to the conclusion that it was unsuited for flying; however, it was giving off a definite sense of stability even when seen from afar. It was ejecting sparkling silver particles from the back while flying with considerable speed.

Its size was about as big as two aircraft carriers on Earth. After looking closely at it, there were countless cylindrical protrusions on its exterior. There was no need to guess that those were weapons on board the ship. Countless small square hatches were lined up. There was no doubt that those were for the loaded weapons like missiles or the like.

‘This is becoming even more like SF’ ——Hajime was thinking of such a thing while speaking out their plan.

□Yosh, the situation changed from pure fantasy to semi-SF. We too will job change from adventurer to spy.□

□H, hmm? In other words, we art going to infiltrate?□

□Yeah, somehow I’m getting thrilled. Tio, dispel your transformation. We are sneaking into that mothership overflowing with romance——Golia○ with a camouflaging artifact fully deployed.□(TN: Goliath is a destroyer ship in Laputa)

□It feels like that temporary name art telling the fate that ship wouldst meet though……the flag of its sinking art as likely as a certain Titani○-san□

Tio responded while emitting a bright flash from her transformation cancellation. She was hovering with her wings that were still showing due to her using partial transformation. Hajime also took out a skyboard from “Treasure Warehouse II” that he rode on. He activated a pencil Cross Velt and deployed a barrier for camouflage.

□Do those guys have the technology that can break our camouflage……we won’t know until we try it.□

「What wouldst we do if we art discovered?」

「Of course, we will have a peaceful dialogue. After all, I am a virtuous and exemplary Japanese citizen. If I tell them that I'll at least spare their lives if they hand over the guy that was screwing around before this, then surely both sides will be able to build a friendly relationship.」

「Goshujin-sama, that's a joke correct? Thy face art serious and thy voice art flat, but that's a joke correct? Isn't that right?」

Hajime didn't answer. Since ancient times, a good Japanese boy was a taciturn person!

In a state that was without sound, without shape if seen from outside, and furthermore, without heat that could be detected, the two of them approached sii~~lently from behind the mothership. They could feel how big it was the closer they got.

The two who arrived above the mothership removed their skyboard and wings before landing on the edge of a giant deck.

「……This is some unknown metal, but it doesn't have any particular effects. I guess it's just some normal metal.」

「So this thing art floating not because of the metal.」

Hajime whispered while kneeling on the deck with his hand crawling on the smooth floor. Tio was paying attention to the surroundings, but there weren't any signs of humans being on the deck. In the central part, there was an out of place room that seemed to be the control room of the mothership. They could see glimpses of human silhouettes across the windbreak. They couldn’t decide whether that place was really the control room or just a watchtower, however.

「Goshujin-sama. Although we hath an invisibility barrier, I just couldst not calm down no matter what by staying for long in a place this open. I couldst see something like an entrance over there; how about we hath a look for now?」

「I guess. I’m curious about the material and some other things but……well, I can just take some samples with me.」

Hajime said such a thing as he casually tore off a railing and stored it into the “Treasure Warehouse II”. The area around ten meters away from the door that seemed to be the entrance became uneven as though it had been gnawed at by worms.

What a natural vandalism & larceny. Police officer, catch this demon king, please.

Whether he actually noticed the amazed expression of Tio behind him, Hajime, whose mood to be stealthy was nonexistent despite being in the middle of an infiltration, was advancing across the deck briskly until they were in front of the door that connected to the inside. He covered the whole door with a barrier so as to not ring any alarms from the difference in air pressure and the like, and he put his hand on the door to investigate if there were any traps.

He then used transmutation and changed the door into a mere hole and stepped inside with a casual attitude. Tio followed in, and the door was returned to its former shape again with transmutation. Lock or anything was meaningless in front of a transmutation master.

「For now, infiltration successful.」

「How strange. This art different from the type of infiltration that I know though.」

Hajime nodded in satisfaction that there weren't any alarms that triggered. Tio's expression was really complicated.

Both of them paid attention to any presence in their surroundings while advancing forward. They steadily progressed through the passage of smooth metal. Several places were gouged out by Hajime-san's hand. He was like someone who was using a coin to scratch cars on the roadside while casually strolling. It was truly a nasty prank (?).

「The driving mechanism is likely to be at the rear of the hull. Also, that area located at the highest position must be the watchtower or the control room.」

「Those sparkling particles must be one of the reasons why the island art floating. Then, should we search the rear hull first?」

Hajime thought for a bit before nodding at Tio's suggestion.

「Yeah, I want to quickly carve the meaning of regret into that guy who got away, but well, we know he is inside this ship anyway so we can leave him for later.」

「……Right.」

Both of them vaguely headed toward the rear hull. In contrast with how big the ship was, the corridors inside were unexpectedly narrow. Three people walking side by side would feel cramped.

Naturally, on the way, they encountered a lot of the ship's crew.

Hajime and Tio were able to detect the other party’s position using “Presence Detection” before they bumped into each other, so they were to keep advancing forward without being discovered.

Even in the case in which they encountered a small group inside the small corridor, they would just jump to the ceiling and pierce the ceiling with fingers thrust in order to cling there until the group passed by, or by creating an appropriate gap in the wall using transmutation and push their bodies into there until the group passed.

The mood was really like a certain spy movie somewhere. Hajime’s expression was expressing enjoyment as though his childlike innocence had returned to him.

By the way, when they were clinging onto the ceiling, Hajime would turn into something like human hammock to take ahold of Tio, and when they slipped into the gap created in the wall, Hajime would embrace Tio tightly, so Tio herself was also having a lot of fun with it while feeling embarrassed and happy.

It seems there art a proper country existing. They look like military personnel. Their ethics art low, but they hath obedience for the chain of command.

Yeah. They are a proper military with a pecking order divided into ranks. The fact that the military can deploy an expedition of this scale means that their country also has quite the scale to it.

The two made their conjecture based on the figures of the crew who were wearing unified uniforms with different color schemes, the conversation the two overheard, and in addition, how the weapons the crew were armed with were obviously guns that were also uniformly made.

Even while conversing like that, the two were enjoying their game of spy make-believe to their heart’s content as they slipped through several doors, passed through several spacious rooms, and descended several stairs before they came out into a particularly large corridor on the lowest floor. Wherein they suddenly smelled an unpleasant smell.

Hajime and Tio looked at each other’s face with a grimace at the familiar offensive smell and followed the smell as though they had been invited.

They could hear voices from the other side of the corridor’s corner. Both of them peeked out from the corner.

「Oi, did you hear? Those guys from Glowser squad, they were all annihilated except for Higgs.」

「Is that, true? Just what in the world happened huh. Was it those Avenst bunches?」

「Might be. But among the Glowser squad that went out for supplies, it’s only the messed up Higgs who came back in terror. That one seems true. Is it that scary just being attacked by that bunch?」

「That’s……perhaps, they used a new weapon?」

「You think that bunch has that kind of power huh. They are just air pirates that keep spewing out delusional words like tradition or pride or whatever you know?」

「Then, why do you think Higgs got that scared going against the like of that bunch?」

「Ain’t no way I know that even if you ask me.」

The two men were leaning on the corridor’s wall while speaking about several concerning topics. The source of the smell certainly came from those two. However, it was obvious from a glance. The reason was that their work clothes that looked like overalls were drenched in blood.

There was a large door in front of them. They must be doing some kind of work there that drenched them in blood. The two didn’t really want to imagine what was being done inside there. Most likely, the men were in the middle of their break right now.

「Well, anyway, it’s a fact that we lost four sky battlecraft. After all, we are ordered to extract spare fuel for aircraft like this.」

「You’re right.」

The two workers sighed at their comrades’ misfortune. It wasn’t clear how strong their feelings of fellowship were for their comrades from their conversation. However, it seemed certain that the work which drenched them with blood was necessary to replenish the sky battlecraft that Hajime shot down.

The two workers took a puff of something that seemed similar to a cigar before returning to the room while feeling that it was bothersome. When they entered, an intense smell——the smell of blood——was flowing from behind the opened door.

「Goshujin-sama.」

「Yeah, let’s go.」

The two’s personality weren’t so cute that they would falter just from the smell of blood after this far. In order to ascertain the true identity of the “fuel” that was the source to make the sky battlecraft, and perhaps also this mothership and the floating island to float, Hajime and Tio approached the room.

The door was a sliding type, most likely it would automatically close after a certain amount of time. Hajime and Tio slipped inside the room before the sliding door closed.

And then, they witnessed it. The cause of why those pilots were trying to capture the dragons alive. And also the true form of the “fuel”.

Inside, the room was spacious. It had the height of two floors with a length and width that could reach a hundred meters. Three sides of the room were made from cages without any gaps in between. There was some kind of work stand in the middle of the room. Several things that looked like cranes and arms were protruding from the ceiling and floor.

The cages were filled with dragons and nothing else. The dragons’ sizes, colors, and shapes were varied, but they were living things that were obviously dragons from a glance. There were also grey dragons like the dragons they were playing with at the previous island. Even the biggest of the dragons here didn’t surpass three meters, and most were only small dragons with a size around one or two meters. There were also dragons with a size of around thirty centimeters among them.

The center of the room was truly in akin to a sea of blood. There was a large work stand with a dragon was lying down on it being pinned in place by several arms. The dragon didn’t have any light in its eyes, and blood was still flowing from its ripped open chest onto the floor.

There were around ten workers when including the previous two. One of them was carefully washing a small silver stone that had just been taken out of the dragon.

The stone was then placed into a machine nearby, and after the worker confirmed something that was displayed by the machine, he handed the stone over to another worker. The worker who received the small silver stone inserted it into another machine and controlled the machine while confirming something several times.

The small stone, which had an uneven shape before this, was then processed into a clean square chip.

The silver stone that was processed into a square chip was then handed off to another worker. That worker inserted the chip into the bottom of a cylindrical machine that looked like a thermos with a cord connected to it. And then, after he pressed several buttons, the meter display on the side of the cylindrical machine was starting to shine silver from below sequentially.

After witnessing up to that point, Hajime muttered with a small sound and expressionless face.

「……I see. So the dragons of this world also have something like a magic stone.」

「And by processing that, they couldst obtain this “fuel”.」

Tio who nodded beside Hajime was similarly expressionless like Hajime in contrast with her comprehending words. Her voice had no intonation at all.

「Surely the floating island also has similar ore like that. …… Geez, it would be a fantasy world banzai if this ended just with that. This really left a bad taste.」

「But, just because of that, we couldst not stop them or resent them. For them who are living in the sky because of the polluted land, dragon hunting art truly a matter of life and death. Perhaps obstructing them from doing that art the same as saying ‘die’ to them after all.」

「Yeah.」

To say further, because Tio was a person of the dragon race, she had just a little emotional attachment toward dragon species, but even so, if it was said that these dragons were monsters unrelated to her, then that’s that. Even on Tortus, she wouldn’t hesitate to exterminate a monster of the dragon species.

But, as expected, the likable dragons she first met in this world flashed in the corner of her mind. Therefore, there was no way she could think nothing about this work of making dragons into battery replacements.

It was just as Hajime said, even though they could understand what they were doing, it left a “bad taste” inside.

「Let’s go Tio. It’s enough already.」

「Right.」

They had seen and known something disgusting――Hajime and Tio left the room with such a feeling. The weak cry of the dragons that sometimes reached their ears sounded like a cry for help to the two of them. Even though they knew that it was just their imagination, they couldn’t help but sigh deeply.

Like that, Hajime and Tio were about to step out of the room. It was at that time, gouuun-

A sound resounded to the bottom of their stomachs, along with the G-force that assaulted their bodies as though the ship was accelerating all at once.

The sudden change was nothing for Hajime and Tio, but several of the workers were stumbling or fell on their butt.

「Announcement from the control room. Sighting of Avenst is confirmed. This ship will enter battle mode from here on. All crew, go to your post right away. Repeat, this ship will enter battle mode from here on. All crew, go to your post right away.」

At the same time as the shrilly alert sounded inside the ship, a broadcast to the whole ship resounded. The announcement from the control room commanded the sortie of the sky battlecraft squad; in addition, an order that commanded the workers in this room to hurry with the resupply was given.

The situation inside the ship suddenly turned chaotic. The workers put around ten of the cylindrical machines into a case and put the case on a trolley before going out of the room with fast steps.

Following them, Hajime exited from the room while opening his mouth with a pensive look.

「Avenst, is that the air pirates those guys talked about just now?」

「Perhaps so. It’s unknown whether this is a coincidence or inevitability, but it appears this wouldst be a battle.」

The two didn’t know the battle strength of the other party, but it was unthinkable for a regular army that belonged to a country could be done in by a “pirate” group at best.

However, even so, an army in possession of unknown battle strength would battle an enemy with similarly unknown strength. They would like to be spared from harmoniously staying inside this ship in the unlikely chance that this mothership was shot down.

「Let’s get out quickly. We grasped the cause of the floating phenomenon already, and I smell a bit of danger from the energy that might result from the destruction of the power reactor that grants the absurd propulsive force to this mothership. Let’s take some distance and watch the situation.」

「Right. That art the wise choice.」

Hajime was thoroughly ignoring the flurry of activity inside the ship while taking a shortcut outside by irresponsibly opening stair-shaped holes in the floor using transmutation before he opened his mouth as though he recalled something.

「Come to think of it, that survivor……if I remember correctly, his name is “Sniff” is it?」

「Indeed, I think that person kept sobbing without end since he encountered us, but his name art not Sniff, but “Higgs”. Goshujin-sama, you only got the “i” correctly.」

「Well, it doesn’t matter if he is Hics or Huggs. Sorry, looks like we don’t get the time to beat him up.」

「Such a thing……I’m not really concerned about that. Just knowing that Goshujin-sama got angry for mine sake already made me need replacement panties.

No need to worry. I thought that might be the case, so I stocked panties for your use inside the Treasure Warehouse.

What, the? Thi, this art the first time I heard that.

Yue made me bring them. Some time ago there was a chance when I went out with just you, right? At that time, she said something like Did you bring your handkerchief? Your wallet? Tio's panties? Geez, it's no good to be forgetful. Nn-.

What legal wife power……

The two of them were having that kind of stupid conversation as though to wash off the unpleasant feelings from just a moment ago while Hajime used the hole that he arbitrarily opened in the hull to jump out from the mothership that was cruising at high speed to the outside where the winds were buzzing thunderously. Tio also jumped out after Hajime.

Hajime wasted no time riding his skyboard while Tio also revealed her dragon wings. They began to fly parallel with the mothership after they had gained some distance from it.

Hajime laid out a camouflage barrier that wholly covered both him and Tio then turned his gaze to what the mothership was pursuing.

The flying ship of the air pirates called Avenst had a similar shape to the mothership, but its size was only a third of the mothership. What was different from the mothership was that its rear hull wasn't emitting silver particles but white light that even looked colorless.

The speed difference between the two sides was evident. The sky battlecraft that flew out from the mothership quickly caught up and began their offensive.

The airship of the air pirates endured the attack with skillful maneuvers while intercepting them using the weapons on board so that the sky battlecraft couldn’t get near. In addition, sky battlecraft were also launching from the airship of the air pirates, and they were also displaying splendid dogfighting techniques while protecting their ship from the assaulting enemy.

It seems the air pirates are inferior when it comes to equipment and numbers, but their skills are better.

The speed difference art obvious, and their turning ability and weapons art also inferior at a glance, yet they art splendidly enduring. But……

Yeah, the difference in strength is hopeless.

Yes, no matter how skilled the air pirates were, their battle strength was overwhelmingly insufficient. Even from a quick count, the difference in the number of sky battlecraft was three times. The power of their Vulcan and their missile weapon’s maneuverability were so weak that a spectator would want to avert their eyes from looking.

Most likely, the air pirates’ side would get shot down if they got hit by a single missile or several bullets from the Vulcan. In contrast, the sky battlecraft on the army side, putting aside the missiles, seemed like their battle capability wouldn’t be affected even if they got hit dozens of times just by the Vulcan of the air pirates’ sky battlecraft.

The air pirates were facing an enemy with several times their number. They couldn’t hope to shoot down the enemy without landing hits several times as many, and they also couldn’t shake off the enemy using speed. The preeminent skill of the pilots was displaying a miraculous defense that would make any spectator to sigh in admiration spontaneously, but it was obvious that too was only a matter of time.

「No matter how you look at it, it’s not that the air pirates came attacking, but they, unfortunately, got discovered by the army……something like that.」

「O, Goshujin-sama. It looks like the mothership of the air pirates art changing course. Hou, it seems they art planning to plunge into those clouds that look like a mountain range see?」

They could see a giant waterfall of clouds on the left side. The river of clouds was flowing down like the vapor of dry ice falling to the ground from the towering mountain range of clouds that looked like it continued until the end of the world. It was merely a place with a height difference among the sea of clouds, but when seen from the side, it indeed looked like a mountain range of clouds.

Inside the sea of clouds was a place where black rain that caused necrosis on the cells and fierce lightning were raging. Was the airship and sky battlecraft of the air pirates that seemed to have low specs able to endure that environment……?

No matter how they thought about it, this was obviously a sink-or-swim gamble. But, either way, it was only a matter of time until the air pirates were shot down at this rate. There was no doubt that the air pirates also believed they had no other choice than to make this gamble.

The airship of the air pirates was starting to swivel left as though drawing a large arc. It was already partly damaged from being shot several times by the army’s sky battlecraft. Even so, it was evading the powerful cannon and missiles from the mothership, so it was still an amazing skill that they were displaying.

Although, if it was asked whether they could escape like that,

「……It will be harsh.」

「Yes.」

The mothership was approaching until it arrived nearby. The nearer it got, the more accurate their bombing became. No matter how divine the skill of the pilot was, there would be nothing they could do if the distance was closed further than this.

It was really unthinkable that the air pirates would be able to reach the cloud mountain range.

Hajime and Tio were watching that sight. Of course, the two wouldn’t head out to give reinforcements. These people were the “pirates” of this world — the outlaws that ignored the rules which protected many. This wasn’t a good problem to be mucked up irresponsibly by people of another world who came just to fulfill their curiosity of wanting a bit of an adventure.

No matter the problematic moral of the army’s pilots, no matter how the “fuel” production left them with a bad taste, it was completely unthinkable for them to be the air pirates’ ally only because of that.

As expected, the environment and the way of living of the people in this world were a bit too severe for the two of them to purely have fun here——Hajime and Tio smiled bitterly. They didn’t have the disgusting hobby of purposely enjoying the death of many people, so they averted their gaze thinking to withdraw from this airspace.

But, the destiny or something following Hajime and co around wasn’t that good of a guy that would let them get away that simply. All the events that happened in the other world Tortus, tumbling into another world like this when they came out just for a little stroll, then how that world had ended already, furthermore, having the scene of a battle between two factions unfolding in front of their eyes like this……

——Piiiiiiiiiih

「Aa?」

「Mu?」

In the battlefield that was decorated with explosion roars, howling wind, and orange flame blasts, suddenly a high-pitched sound reverberated. It sounded like a blown whistle; however, there was a compelling desperation filled into that——crying voice.

Hajime and Tio reflexively returned their gaze to the battlefield and caught a presence of something small rapidly approaching them.

A small shining silver creature was flying and weaving its way through the orange gaps of the explosions and the light of the setting sun that illuminated from the interval of the sea of clouds and sky. It was a small but magnificent dragon.

「Piih. Piiiiiiih」

The small silver dragon was desperately flapping its wings while raising a cry that sounded like it would tear up its throat.

‘A lost dragon?’ Hajime and Tio thought doubtfully, but they immediately noticed something else. That small existence was staring straight at the two of them, no, more accurately it was staring straight at Tio.

Hajime looked at the pencil Cross Velts floating around them. They were functioning normally. The camouflage barrier was going strong. Their form, smell, and heat shouldn’t be possible to be detected. But, the small dragon heading in their direction was going straight toward Tio no matter how he looked.

Hajime suddenly brought his face closer to Tio and sniffed repeatedly.

「Wha, what is it, Goshujin-sama? As expected it’s embarrassing to have mine body suddenly sniffed at.」

「No, I’m wondering if you have a unique smell that even my artifact cannot hide.」

「……Right now, it shouldst not be wrong of me for thinking of wanting to hit Goshujin-sama.」

Tio who was unusually angry was pushing on Hajime’s face with her hand to create some distance while her cheeks were blushing slightly.

Even while they were doing that, the small dragon arrived at their position, 「Pii! Piih!」it was crying out while circling around the two. It appeared that it was really detecting their presence without any doubt whatsoever.

「Oi oi, what's with it? It's looking really desperate somehow.」

「……Don't tell me, is it looking for help?」

Tio stared at the tiny dragon with an expression that was lost for words. She was wondering why a dragon that should be fearful of humans was trying to get involved with a human conflict. Hajime was also cocking his head in puzzlement.

But, the strange matter was continuing further.

Of all things, the air pirates that should be heading desperately into the cloud mountain range was greatly swiveling while bending their path. The direction the ship's nose was pointing at——was in the direction of Hajime and Tio.

「What's going on? Don't tell me the camouflage barrier is really broken?」

「No Goshujin-sama. I'm only guessing, but this child might be the cause?」

「They are turning midair to chase after a small dragon when they are in the brink of being shot down at any moment? I seriously don't understand what the meaning of this is.」

Perhaps the army also noticed the small dragon's existence seeing how the air pirates changed course, as several sky battlecraft broke away from the frontlines and approached here. Even though they should be pressuring the greatly skilled air pirates' sky battlecraft, they still approached the small dragon even if they left behind a hole in their side’s battle force.

At the same time, the sky battlecraft of the air pirates also ignored the defense of their own mothership and flew out toward the small dragon.

「……Just who in the world art thou?」

Tio unconsciously asked at the small dragon that was desperately pleading something. The air pirates that pursued the small dragon even if they had to throw away their life. The pursuing army that left behind the air pirates even though it was just a bit more before they could finish them off.

It was already obvious that this small silver dragon wasn’t just a mere stray dragon.

「Chih. I don’t know what’s going on, but at this rate, we will get dragged in. Tio, we are finished being a spectator. We are withdrawing from this airspace right away.」

「Mu, acknowledged.」

The two were curious about the small dragon’s existence, but it was out of the question for them to get saddled with an existence that was unanimously pursued by the army and air pirates. Hajime and Tio nodded at each other and tried to leave that place.

That moment, as though guessing the intention of the two, the small dragon blocked their route. And then, it began to emit silver right immediately after.

Tio and Hajime unconsciously stopped moving seeing the dazzlingly shining small dragon that looked solemn somehow. Inside their head, a pleading resounded. It sounded vaguely childish, yet filled with a greatly earnest feeling.

「Help-, help! King, please! Everyone, my friends, help them-」

They didn’t hear any clear words. But, that feeling was certainly conveyed to them.

Hajime and Tio couldn’t hide their bewilderment. They looked at each other while standing still.

Instantly, a sound wave impact assaulted the area.

「Piih!?」

「Uoh」

「Nuwah. This art from that time!」

It was the same sound wave attack that the sky battlecraft emitted at the floating island. Furthermore, this one had more power than that time. It even generated physical shockwaves that mercilessly attacked Hajime and others.

Naturally, Hajime and Tio weren’t damaged, but the small dragon wasn’t unharmed. The small dragon that was emitting a mysterious silver light got blown away by the impact and began falling limply as though its consciousness was cut off.

「Ah, hey, get a hold of thyself!」

Tio spontaneously leapt out and held the small dragon with both hands.

「Tio! Don’t daydream!」

「Nu?」

The sky battlecraft of the army passed through instantly. When Hajime gave her a warning, it was after the second plane following behind it had launched the missile that deployed the net like the time at the floating island.

The special net burst in front of her eyes and spread widely to envelop its target.

Hajime cut in between just before it could envelop Tio and the fainted little dragon.

「HAAH!!」

A yell containing fighting spirit. The magic power that was gushed out directionally was converted into physical impact due to the skill “Magic Shockwave”. The crimson wave that possessed immense power blew away the cage net far away without any trouble.

After the second plane passed through, the third plane that was further approaching was decelerating while deploying something that looked like a hook from its lower part. Most likely it would use that hook to catch the cage net and carry it to the mothership.

The pilot of the approaching third plane opened his eyes wide in shock.

After all, just when they were about to capture the small dragon with beautiful coordination, suddenly a beautiful winged woman appeared midair and caught the small dragon in her embrace. Furthermore, the cage net was blown away by a crimson wave, and in the end, a man riding a flying board also appeared. That was why it was impossible for him not to be shocked.

Yes, Tio got out of the camouflage range when she leapt out, and Hajime also exposed himself because he fired the magic shockwave.

The tough-looking hook flying out from the rapidly approaching third plane’s lower part was about to hit Hajime, Tio, and the small dragon behind him.

The fingers of Hajime’s right hand bent like claws. He instantly swung his right hand toward the hook that almost hit him.

By doing that, what was left behind was the figure of Hajime that was reduced into a pile of meat and got sent flying——was naturally not what happened. There was only the sight of the torn apart wreckage disappearing into the sea of clouds.

The sky battlecraft that pursued after the army’s sky battlecraft swiveled greatly to avoid Hajime and Tio.

When Hajime sent a glance, as expected, the air pirates’ pilot was also showing a shocked expression as though his eyeballs were going to fly out. He looked really like「WHAT THE HELLLLLLLLLLLL-」

「Tio, how is the dragon?」

「Hmm, looks like it just lost consciousness without any serious wound. ……Forgive me, Goshujin-sama. Because I unconsciously jumped out, we art dragged into something troublesome.」

Tio showed an apologetic face while approaching Hajime’s side. Hajime shrugged while smiling wryly to that.

「If your body moved by itself, then that must be the action that Tio wanted to do from her heart. Then I don't really mind that. First of all, it's too late already to say that we were dragged into some troublesome matter by this time. This kind of thing can also happen from putting on air as an onlooker.」

「Ye, yes. I see. Thank you Goshujin-sama.」

Tio's lips loosened up greatly hearing Hajime's indifferent speech. And then, for some reason, Tio seemed to be nestling even closer than before to Hajime.

Ahead of Hajime's gaze, the scene of the air pirates' airship approaching and the army's mothership circling around the two of them was unfolding. The sky battlecraft were circling around Hajime and Tio in circles with wariness and bewilderment.

Seeing that kind of sight, Hajime's wry smile deepened, and he muttered.

「Now then, first how about we try starting with some peaceful "talk".」

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Just a little notice, the comic version that is in the middle of serialization in Overlap-sama's homepage was updated.

Damn, seriously damn. The impact of the fight against the claw bear among other things is just damn.

It really has an impact, and I can enjoy Hajime in his early days in the abyss with another fresh feeling.

If you are interested, please take a look by all means!

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 233

Arifureta After II The Legendary Dragon Knight

Ee, everyone. This is sudden, but we are not anyone suspicious by any means. In this situation, we should strive to reach a mutual understanding peacefully, by means of communication like a cultured human shouldn’t wee-

The voice of Hajime that was amply filled with sincerity was resounding throughout the whole airspace. He was appealing by using telepathy, so his voice should undoubtedly reach both the army and the air pirates.

While the air pirates’ airship and the army’s mothership, which was located diagonally right behind it, were approaching, Hajime was hovering in midair while showing a friendly smile. The first impression was truly the most important thing in forming a personal relationship.

Tio, who was nestling close beside him, was nursing the small dragon in her arms while acting the straight-manNo matter how they look, thou only look like someone suspicious though, but it didn’t even give a single scratch to Hajime’s ignoring skill.

Hajime lifted up both his hands to appeal that he had no hostility while he continued his words like a cultured modern-day person.

「We don’t have any hostile intentions. No, honestly! I’m not lying at all! It will be a cold day in hell before I lie. A person like me is saying that, that’s why there can be no doubt about it. We don’t have any hostile intentions!」

「It sounds extremely fishy……」

Tio was saying something again, but his ignoring skill level had reached the max value, so there was no problem.

「Everyone, it appears that all of you are pursuing after this rug rat dragon, but the two of us don’t need it! Rather, we are even seriously wondering whether we should just toss this thing away over there.」

‘We don’t have any intention of snatching your prey okaaay!’ Hajime appealed so, but for some reason, hostility was overflowing from the pilots of both factions circling in the surrounding. Especially all the pilots of the air pirates, their rage was fierce. They were laying out their protest by punching bang bang at their cockpit’s windbreaker.

「……It was a joke. Just now was a joke filled with wit. That was my consideration to everyone trying to calm down this place. Anyway, we don’t have any intention of snatching this thing, so we will hand over this rug rat. Owner-san, please come out to the fro~~nt.」

For some reason, when Hajime said “rug rat” or “owner”, the killing intent of the air pirates pilots doubled. Somehow, he got the feeling that the more he talked, the more their hostility fanned up.

Even while Hajime was making a speech like that, the airship of the air pirates had approached nearby.

There, perhaps their mental petrification against the really strange duo was finally dispelled because the sky battle force of the army was starting to make a move.

It seemed that it was a fact that they tried to capture the small dragon alive, so instead of attacking Hajime and Tio, they resumed their attack on the airship.

Perhaps it should be called as an abnormal obsession because the airship was recklessly charging forward without even taking any evasive maneuvers. It was being bombed directly and was damaged all over.

The pilots of the air pirates returned fire. However, because their numbers were reduced by the army’s overwhelming attack, and how the airship wasn’t taking sufficient evasive maneuvers, and because there were Hajime and Tio——or more accurately, the small dragon nearby, their movement was restrained, and they were unable to deploy in a defensive battle like before.

「Ee, everyone, let’s calm down for now. I will hand over this rug ra——this young dragon, so both sides, please stop your ships. Let’s talk it out with each other about the handing over——」

「Please match your speed with usss-. And then, give Kuwaibel to me! Please-」

The amplified voice of a woman——no, a girl, reached Hajime, cutting off his speech.

When Hajime turned his gaze there, he could see on the front deck of the airship that was charging here, a girl carrying something that looked like a megaphone was leaning her body forward on the handrail that caused her to look like she could fall off at any moment. Behind the girl were a tall blonde-haired young woman and a young man with the same blonde hair standing by. They were desperately holding the girl who looked like she could fall off.

The girl’s silver semi-long hair was wild from the strong wind. But, the girl’s expression was even wilder than that. Looking closer, she was a beauty. However, her eyes that were greatly slanting upward and her desperate look that resembled an ogre were honestly at a creepy level.

But, her figure that was reaching out her hand earnestly and sincerely even when she knew that she wouldn’t reach conveyed the seriousness of the girl.

The ship wasn’t decelerating. It would get shot down if it stopped. It was something definite. That was why the girl yelled for Hajime to match their speed pleadingly.

The airship was passing by so close that it almost grazed Hajime and Tio. The girl was still reaching out her hand with a despairing and grieving expression.

Hajime and Tio looked at each other’s face.

「Aa~. It looks like they also know the name of this rug rat, and based on the situation, perhaps what this thing meant by friend referred to the air pirates――let’s toss this thing to that girl and get away from here.」

「This hath really become troublesome in various aspects, I understand.」

They nodded once. Hajime and Tio started sliding backward with sudden speed.

The movement that wholly ignored things like propulsive force, or dynamics, caused several pilots who were looking for a chance to open their eyes wide in shock.

Hajime and Tio instantly approached the airship's deck.

The girl's expression greatly brightened up. The blonde-haired duo behind her looked wary.

Perhaps thinking that the small dragon was going to be handed over, the mothership behind the airship launched an innumerable number of missiles. It seemed that it took into consideration that the small dragon was nearby, so its main cannon, the majestic 3-gun turret, stayed silent, but in front of nearly fifty missiles, it was hard to say that it was "fortunate".

The Vulcan cannon loaded aboard the airship spouted fire, shooting down the missile swarm, but in the first place, it couldn't take evasive maneuvers. The sky battlecraft pilots also joined in the interception, but naturally, by doing that, the response toward the army's sky battlecraft thinned down.

One plane slipped through the defensive line of the air pirates and launched its missile.

Most likely its aim was the bridge. Human silhouettes could be seen across the windbreaker of a place that was jutting out in the central position of the airship.

The girl and the blonde-haired duo opened their eyes wide. They were staring dumbfounded at their last moment——

Ahead of their gaze, one smoking sky battlecraft barged in. It slipped in between the bridge and the flying missile without any hesitation.

It was a shield with one’s life on the line. For a “pirate”, that skill, that spirit, that everything, was noble.

A flame blast illuminated the bridge, the girl and others on the deck, and Hajime and Tio who were flying parallel to the airship.

The plane’s rear part was pulverized, and the front nose was torn to pieces. It was merely luck that the cockpit wasn’t blasted off.

But, there wasn’t any concept of bailout or anything for the pilots of this world. The reason was that there was nothing but the sea of clouds below when they ejected out. Inside that was a hell that rejected human survival.

「Bovid-!!」

The girl’s pained voice resounded at the interstice of the wind’s howl. Even though she wasn’t using a megaphone, the fact that her voice resounded excessively clearly was surely because the pilot was an important person for her.

「……Good grief. Well, I’m Japanese after all aren’t I?」

For some reason, Hajime was making a strange excuse while taking out something from the “Treasure Warehouse II” that he threw away. That thing, which was flying at a high speed that was unthinkable to be able to reach the battlecraft just from a snap of the wrist slid right under the cockpit part that was about to vanish into the sea of clouds.

And then, that thing that spread out with a kashun- sound——variable type chakram “Orestes” —— swallowed the cockpit along with the pilot through its center.

The girl and others leaked out「Eh?」while at the same time, another “Orestes” that was also thrown on the deck unfolded, and the cockpit appeared from there. The deck was dented along with a loud impact sound. The pilot who returned safely (?) looked dazed from being unable to comprehend what happened.

Hajime caught the returning “Orestes” while calling out to the girl and others who were dumbfounded by the unbelievable sight.

「O~i, you over there! You are this guy’s owner――not that; you’re his friend? You are, aren’t you?」

「Eh? A, e, u, tha, that’s righttt!」

Hajime asked while poking at the small dragon Tio was carrying. The girl was in a state of ‘presently in chaos!’; however, she somehow returned a word of affirmative.

Hajime nodded「Yosh」.

「Then, I’ll return him, so catch him properly okaaay!」

「Eh? Catch? Eh?」

Hajime directed a really nice smile at the girl who was all flustered and shook up. He ignored Tio who was speaking hesitantly「No, Goshujin-sama. Although the situation is as it is, that art a bit……」, and he strongly grasped the small dragon in an eagle grip.

And then, he tossed it away「Hoi-」with a really casual feeling.

「WAITTTTTTTTT-, WHAT ARE YOU DOINGGGGG-」

The girl screamed; however, she did that while running on the deck with surprising swiftness and performed a diving catch for the small falling dragon. At that occasion, she also seemed to perform a face slide, but she seemed to be unexpectedly tough because right after she lifted the small dragon to show the panicked blonde-haired duo.

That figure looked like an outfielder baseball player showing his fine play, or it closely resembled a person of a certain unpopulated island going「I CAUGHT ITT――――!!」. The blonde-haired duo was rushing to the girl while applauding. (TN: Click here if you want to see the pose. I don't really know what this refers too. Perhaps some kind of TV show in Japan?)

Seeing their figures like that, Hajime showed a really satisfied smile that seemed to say「Today too, I'm accumulating good deeds yeah」before he used telepathy once more.

「Everyone, with this we are not involved anymore. From the start, we were just a virtuous duo passing by, and so, we will quickly vanish so that we won't be a bother to everyone. Well then-」

Hajime prompted Tio and rotated his skyboard. The skyboard turned 90 degrees and left from the course of the air pirates. That was a course that went away from the cloud mountain range. Hajime predicted that the air pirates, who had recovered the small dragon, would head toward the cloud mountain range in order to escape the army, so he chose a course that was the exact opposite from that route.

But, destiny-san wouldn't let such a shallow demon king-san to get away! It was impossible to escape from destiny-san!

「Piih!? Pii~~? Pipiih!? Pii――――!!」

□Ah――, Ku-chan! DON’T GOOO-. COME BACK HEREEEEE-□

Such a cry and scream could be heard from behind.

When Hajime and Tio looked behind them in surprise, the awakened small dragon was chasing after them once more. Perhaps the girl had jumped out overenthusiastically because she dove past the handrail, but the blonde-haired duo caught her legs before it was too late.

The screams (?) of the blonde-haired duo□Pr, princessss-. Do you want to dieee-□or □Aa, this is bad-. Roze-sama’s clothes are slipping offffff-□who were looking desperate could be heard. The pilot, who went through that emergency landing on the deck, jumped out from the cockpit in a panic and joined in the rescue of the girl whose buttocks was getting exposed.

□Wai-, why are you chasing us!? Just as I thought Tio, a strange smell really is coming from you!?□

□That’s a cruel remark don’t thou know!? Even if it’s me, I couldst still feel hurt here!?□

Hajime and Tio accelerated rapidly.

However, surprisingly, the small dragon made its body to be clad in a silver color and chased them steadily. In contrast to the tininess of its body and its pitiful ‘pii pii’ cry, it was unexpectedly a speedy fighter.

□Uwaa, somehow everyone is following after us……what’s with this game of tag?□

□This art chaos.□

In the world of twilight, Hajime and Tio were in the lead with a small dragon, the air pirates' sky battlecraft, the army's sky battlecraft, airship, and mothership pursuing them in a straight line, which created a bizarre sight. Hajime was looking weary while Tio's face was twitching.

Even when they attempted to camouflage themselves using the pencil Cross Velts, as long as the small dragon was chasing after Tio by somehow grasping her position accurately, there was no other way to get away other than using speed.

Hajime withdrew Donner from his holster and loaded it with a special bullet, "Excise Bullet". It was a special bullet that could change places, along with the space around it, to another spatial coordinate. By firing the bullet with electromagnetic acceleration, and then exchanging places with it when it was at its farthest distance away, it enabled the user himself to move in the pseudo realm of electromagnetic acceleration.

「Tio, grab on to me. We are teleporting.」

「……Right. That's fine but……why didn't Goshujin-sama use it when chasing after that Higgs fellow?」

Hajime's gaze wandered around a bit while,「You, it's that you know, that. Yes, interfering in the battle between you and that guy is just inelegant, right?」, he was making a strangely lame excuse while his finger was about to pull the trigger.

But, just before he could,

「Whoops」

Hajime controlled the skyboard and made a sharp turn. The place where they were just at the moment before was pelted by innumerable bullets.

Furthermore, the sky battlecraft squad that cut in on the path Hajime was turning to was carrying out a strafing run with the Vulcan to reduce Hajime and Tio into meat scraps without even a shred of mercy.

Hajime further barrel rolled to avoid that, but,

「Oi oi, they are really feverish with murderous impulse huh.」

「Looks like they art losing their temper with this game of tag.」

Ahead of their gaze after turning around was the form of the mothership that had unnoticeably taken a steep climb and aimed its gun turret from its lower part from the far height. It seemed the turret was a type that could be stowed in since that turret that was protruding out from the ship's bottom was opening its large nozzle that had a diameter of around two meters.

It was a caliber that was too big to shoot cannonballs, but it seemed what it would shoot wasn't something like cannon balls or missiles.

It had a silver light converging in it. The energy was so immense their skin could feel it. No matter how they looked at it, it was in the preparation stage to fire a beam cannon like a space battleship that you often saw in SF.

Going with firing the main cannon of a mothership that was boasting its hugeness just to kill two people, these guys were really a bunch with a screw loose in the head.

Naturally, Hajime was trying to take evasive maneuvers, but the aim of that cannon turret was detailed in contrast to its size. Furthermore, the army’s sky battlecraft were joining in on the attack from all directions to seal their movement so that they couldn’t escape from the firing line.

Indeed, although this was for the sake of breaking the deadlock of the situation, it was unthinkable that the height of this killing intent was coming from the bunch who were refraining themselves from large-scale attacks in consideration of the small dragon’s existence.

「Oi, we told you already before, we don’t have any hostile intentions. We also don’t want anything to do with that small dragon! We also don’t want to get involved with you guys! We are going to disappear right away, so pull ba――」

Hajime’s persuading words resounded to the whole airspace using telepathy. But, before he could finish his sentence――the atmosphere burst.

GOU- The silver bombardment was fired from diagonally above and exploded the air. Due to the sky battlecraft attacking in waves, a wall of bullets was created between the two and the pursuing small dragon, distancing the two sides.

Therefore, that merciless attack dyed the world in a madder red color as though it was midday. Pouring down on Hajime and Tio like an iron hammer from the sky.

「Piih! PIIIIIH」

「Ku-chan-, Kuwaibel-! Come back quickly! Just what are you thinking of about those two!?」

The girl on the pursuing airship was desperately raising her voice using a megaphone at the small dragon that was forced to evade due to the shockwave that shook the atmosphere. Even the sky battlecraft pilots of the air pirates, which had been reduced in number, were making a shuddering expression at the bombardment of the mothership while circling around to the small dragon’s side.

The game of tag was over. The air pirates were now too far away from the area of the cloud mountain range that was their only chance of escaping. Actually, the inside of that mountain range area was relatively calmer compared to the sea of clouds, so it was the optimum place to conceal themselves, but it was impossible for them to return there now. The only way that remained for them now was only to dive into the sea of clouds even though they would crash nine times out of ten by doing that.

And to do that, they had to take the small dragon back into the airship even a second faster.

But, the small dragon in question was only raising its cry at the silver pillar of light as though it was searching for something.

It was as though it was convinced of the survival of those two who had disappeared inside the pillar without even a one in ten thousandth chance to stay alive……

「Li, es……impossible……」

Those words were surely representing the feelings of all the people on this battlefield.

The silver bombardment from the warship was vanishing as though it was melting into the air.

That attack should’ve annihilated everything without leaving even dust behind. However, while the brightness that was like midday was vanishing and the color of twilight was returning to the world, the future that should’ve been absolute was overturned.

What appeared was a sphere.

That solid metallic sphere, which was shining gently from the reflection of the evening sun, was further surrounded by jet black and crimson colored crosses around it.

「……It was an unknown attack, so just in case I jointly used the eight-point barrier and Aidion at the same time, but it seems that attack doesn’t have the power to break through the space isolation.」

「Well, this defense couldst even completely block the disintegration bombardment of the god’s apostles. As long as it’s not even a penetrating attack that ignores defense, it’s next to impossible to slip through Goshujin-sama’s defensive wall.」

kashun-kashun-kashun- With such a sound, the metallic sphere——variable style large shield “Aidion” ——was undoing its omnidirectional defense. It was several layers of shields sliding and contracting continuously smaller into its neighbor. Before long, the sphere was switching to its normal mode of a coffin form. At the same time, the eight-point barrier also vanished.

The battlefield was silent. No, more accurately the sound of the wind and the planes’ thrusters were reverberating, but the people on this battlefield were so speechless to the degree that it felt like that.

They were rightly amazed and dumbfounded. An individual was pulling through after a direct hit by the main cannon of a mothership class battleship unharmed. Everyone’s reaction was understandable.

On the battlefield that became still as death, Hajime started to monitor the conversations on the bridge of the mothership using the application of telepathy even while feeling his blood rushing to his head.

While they were all in a straight line pursuit, because the small dragon was in the line of fire the mothership couldn’t attack satisfactorily and left the attacking to its sky battlecraft. Yet why did they suddenly act decisively by attacking like that……

Inside the bridge of the mothership that Hajime was skillfully monitoring……

「Shit-, even that was defended-. Those guys, as expected they are monsters-」

「Impossible……we had confirmed it from the recording of Glowser 4, but……even though it was just sixty percent, that was the main cannon. Just what in the world are those two……」

「Captain-. Quick, quickly prepare the next attack-. The one with full power! If not, everyone will be slaughtered again!」

「Shut up, Higgs! We, the soldiers of the divine country are the chosen people that rule the sky. There is no way we will lose against just two pirates!」

「But-, those two aren’t human! You saw it right-? The male destroyed a sky battlecraft personally, and the female transformed into a dragon and pursued me hot on my tail even when I used maximum speed!

Chih. Oi, someone take Higgs away! He is an eyesore!

It seemed that surviving sky battlecraft had a system for video recording loaded in it. With that, they knew the incomprehensible strength of Hajime and Tio; and using the chance when they were some distance from the small dragon, they launched an attack that could be said to be excessive. That seemed to be the case.

The person who seemed to be the ship captain gave an order with an angry voice at his subordinates inside the bridge who were making noise from feeling shaken.

Launch the air battle squads that are in the middle of standby! Don’t let those two get near the air pirates and the monarch dragon! Helmsman, circle to the left side of the target with velocity 3! Replenish the main cannon, maximum power! Fix pod number 1 to 20 to the target. Bullet type Grog! Keep firing without pause! There is no way a shield that can block an attack like that can hold out for long! Crush them with quantity!

It seemed they were seriously planning to shoot down Hajime and Tio.

The mothership was starting to circle to the left side while spouting out silver light. The Vulcan barrels and cannon barrels that could bombard using medium size bullet types were directed at Hajime and Tio.

Hajime’s eyes narrowed quietly. He broadcasted a voice that was losing its intonation using telepathy.

「You can hear me, right? Listen well; I'll say it one more time, okay? We don't have the intention of getting involved with the dispute between you guys. We have the awareness that it's us who are trespassing in your territory. We, the nuisances, will disappear. That's why, so don't direct your killing intent at us more than this.」

It was silent for a while. The army side was bewildered with the voice that was resounding in their head; however, the captain spoke his answer from his spot even while half in doubt whether his voice would be transmitted.

「Sleep talk after you go to sleep. There is no way we can just leave alone anyone with that kind of bizarre power and also being obsessed so much by that monarch dragon. Originally, we would want to catch you two for human experimentation to search for the secret of that power, but you two are just too dangerous. That's to say nothing of how you two had laid your hands on the pilots of our army who are the people of god. We will kill you two right here, right now, for sure.」

The main cannon of the mothership was gathering an immense amount of energy. Innumerable sky battlecraft flew out from it. Their number was already surpassing fifty planes when combined with the planes that had already come out from the battle before this.

The small dragon was trying to approach Hajime and Tio, but the army's sky battlecraft were obstructing it with a wall of sound waves. They also attacked the air pirates. The air pirates' sky battlecraft already amounted to less than ten.

「Piih. PIIIIH」

Just what was making it trying that hard? The small dragon was desperately calling out to Hajime and Tio. It didn't want to get separated from them, or perhaps, it was asking them to escape together……it also looked like it was saying that kind of thing.

Hajime loosened up his expressionless face a bit and pulled the trigger of Donner. Two streaks of light flew out. One went toward the small dragon, and the other one went toward the girl on the airship. Just before it shot them through in a flash, the special bullets “Excise Bullet” stopped still in place, and using its effect, the small dragon was instantly transferred to the girl’s location.

「Just stay quiet at your friend’s side. Okay?」

「Pii……pih」

「Ku, Kuwaibel, is listening to what he is told?」

Those words that were said with an unexpectedly gentle voice in contrast with the dangerous atmosphere the speaker was clad in made the small dragon look alternately between Hajime and Tio restlessly, but after a slight hesitation, it replied back energetically. The girl who embraced the small dragon so that it wouldn’t run away for a second time showed a surprised expression at its behavior.

In addition, before they realized it, several Cross Velts were floating around the airship, forming a protective barrier.

The focused silver light was already at a critical point. The attack of the army’s sky battlecraft that became unreserved due to the small dragon’s distance was increasing in fierceness. Several thousand Vulcan bullets, several hundred missiles, and sound waves that were even accompanied with shockwaves came in such an absurd number that it was presumptuous even to call it overkill. And all those were concentrated toward just two people.

A flame blast enveloped the barrier, and the figures of the two disappeared inside as though a small sun was coming into existence there.

They were receiving that many concentrated attacks; however, Hajime, who continued to defend using only a barrier of space isolation, turned his gaze at Tio beside him. Tio shrugged and answered back at the wordless question.

「Goshujin-sama who art still trying to persuade them somehow even when having that much killing intent directed at thee art also not bad but……as expected, acting absurdly unreasonable with no question asked, that art what truly worthy for mine master. Goshujin-sama, holding back this late art unnecessary. Mine will art always together with Goshujin-sama.」

Hajime displayed a fearless grin and embraced Tio. If the figures of a man embracing the waist of a beautiful girl on the skyboard weren’t hard to see because of the flame blast from the missiles enveloping them, then surely the expression of the enemies would convulse grandly.

A calm voice resounded across the battlefield that was decorated with explosive sounds and impact sounds.

「……This is your last warning. Get lost, right now.」

Not just the captain of the mothership, but all the people who heard that voice felt a shiver down their spine from terror. But, unfortunately, it seemed they converted that terror into rage using their elitism and pride that was oozing from their every single word.

「Don’t falter! Fix them in place! They cannot move-. Their shield too shouldn’t be able to hold out for long anymore-.

Show our power as the soldiers of the divine country! Main cannon, status!?

Five percent left until the full charge, four percent, three percent……full charge! We can fire anytime-

Fire at the count of five! Air battle squads, pull back!

The red sky that was turning dark was dyed by the silver of midday once more.

It was incomparable with the previous one, and it wasn’t just the turret below the mothership, even the 3-gun turrets installed on the front deck also fired bombardments at exactly the same scale. The total of four silver bombardments tore through the sky with a might that ripped apart the atmosphere. The diameter of its hit range could reach ten meters. If the after-shock was included, then the area of another further ten meters was fatal territory.

Hajime and Tio’s figure vanished along with a flame blast that bloomed in the sky.

The world rumbled. The sea of clouds directly below was undulating and splitting from the impact. The cloud mountain range located far away had a large hole opened in its side and scattered away wholly.

Inside the light that should be called an aurora, the people from both camps were fixing their eyes upon that scene while holding their arm over their eyes or through a visor——

They witnessed it right after that.

GOU- The jet black spiral that blew upward and pierced the sky.

In defiance of the silver light, that pure black looked as though it was wordlessly asserting that it wouldn’t be dyed by any other existence no matter what.

“What’s, that……”Someone whispered.

At that moment, the jet black whisper converged tighter. It rushed out from the silver torrent and became a whirling sphere in the sky.

And then, it ruptured. As though the seal was broken. As though, born from a jet black cocoon——a figure appeared.

A single roar. A single flap of wings.

That form was magnificently, majestically, and gallantly conveying without a scruple of dignity as the supreme ruler of the sky that didn’t fear or hesitate against anything.

The large build that drew a line against the emaciated dragons of this world, and the overflowing dominating aura. Its existence’s mightiness that the skin, or perhaps the instincts, could feel.

“I’m concluding you guys, as my “enemy”. I don’t care whether you are from a divine country, or if you are a chosen race, or whatever. But you can learn it with your own body. That my wife is the one and only supreme ruler of the sky.”

Those words echoed through the whole airspace.

The people who suddenly regained their senses with a ‘hah’ noticed something despite this late hour.

Of the existence on the back of the hovering black dragon, with its wings spread and the blazing sun behind it. There, a man was standing imposingly, glaring down at everything.

Everyone couldn’t help but to feel awed by that figure mounting the back of the dragon that they had never even seen before.

Everyone held their breath and lost their words.

In the middle of that, the girl who was holding the small dragon murmured in astonishment.

She recalled a fairy tale that she knew since she was little. Yes, that was the legendary……

「……Dragon Knight, sama?」

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The next update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday too.

Arifureta Chapter 234

Arifureta After II　I am, Maou-san. Right Now I’m Right Behind You, You Know

(TN: Maou=demon king)

The first move of the battle’s opening was a roar that shook the atmosphere and a jet black flash that tore apart event the world.

「Bre, break up-. Brea――」

「I won’t make it in――」

The army’s sky battlecrafts flying about in the twilight sky. The evasion order that pilot yelled vanished in vain due the jet black flash that was mowing down immediately after.

It was like a swing of a large sword that was wielded by a giant in myth. Tio’s breath attack that finished charging in less than a few seconds annihilated three squads of five planes squad altogether with just one attack.

They couldn’t resist or anything and didn’t leave even wreckage behind. They were literally “annihilated”. Just like swatting irritating flies, the veteran sky battlecraft pilots vanished like a joke.

If anyone looked further, they would see the sea of clouds split into two. It was the scar from Tio’s breath attack. An ocean trench was created in the sea of clouds.

-, don’t falter-. Crush them with quantity!

A command that was filled with reprimand was given. The sky battlecrafts were commencing hit & run without pause at Tio and Hajime who was riding on her back. Their Vulcan cannons were spouting fire and countless missiles were rapidly approaching the two.

Tio, let’s go. Beat into them just what kind of being the supreme ruler of the sky is.

Very well. Then, thoroughly witness mine flying technique that I fostered and evolved in earth. Don’t fall off no matter what, Goshujin-sama!

gagagaga- Without even caring one whit at the bullets of Vulcan cannon that hit her body, Tio roared.

It seemed that the dragon scale of black dragon that was the most superior in endurance among the whole dragon people race couldn’t even be scratched by the like of Vulcan cannon. After all it was something that only ended getting whittled on the surface even when it got hit by Hajime’s railgun, so this could be said to be only natural.

The approaching missiles were drawing near from all directions like a cage, giving no place to escape.

But, Tio’s figure vanished before those missiles could arrive and hit.

「——「Fang of Flame」」

Immediately after, it that was whispered along with a solemn voice manifested and accomplished its meaning. Around Tio who was flying with a motion that should even be called as rhythmless, four brilliantly blazing flame clusters appeared.

When all those were launched simultaneously, they accurately swallowed the missiles approaching from the front without leaving any and demolished them. While flower of flame blast was blooming in the sky, Tio who was flying while producing shockwave instantly took a sharp right turn.

She caught the back of a sky battlecraft that was trying to fly past.

The sky battlecraft pilot took a steep turn in panic to shake Tio off, but she followed closely behind as though mocking that wonderfully sharp turn. She launched a breath attack once more and blown up the sky battlecraft.

「Shit-, this bastard-. Eat this-」

Perhaps this one was a squad mate of the one just now. The sky battlecraft circled at Tio’s back in order to save his comrade that was followed by Tio, however, unable to save his comrade he got driven by rage while firing his missile.

But, that missile that looked like it would hit based on the timing and position was evaded right after that along with an unbelievable scene.

「Thy movement art monotone.」

「Somer, saultiiing——」

Yes, it was a somersault. Of all thing, the large black dragon before his eyes were somersaulting midair while flying with a speed that was nearly the speed of sound. Naturally Tio was losing speed, but the missile was unable to react to the impossible maneuver and passed through below her in vain.

And then, in a stroke of misfortune the pursuing sky battlecraft was tore apart by the black dragon’s claw when they crossed each other, and ended up as a scrap.

Tio used the momentum of the somersault and descended below while recovering her speed. While falling, she rolled her body 180 degree and reversed her movement direction. By doing that, the sky battlecraft formation that was about to pass in front of her right at that timing……

Naturally, breath attack and compressed exploding flame bullets hit the formation as though the attacks were absorbed toward them. Five flame blasts decorated the sea of clouds simultaneously.

「Thi, this is hopeless-. I cannot shake it off-. Someone help――」

Tio rolled her body 180 degree from climbing steeply into the opposite direction. She once more took the back of another plane with the opposite of the previous maneuver and blown up the sky battlecraft that was desperately escaping.

「The aiming won’t get fixed-. I cannot get a lock on-」

Even though this pilot had taken her back by sacrificing his comrade, he couldn’t lock on Tio who was flickering left and right with terrific speed like an outstanding aircraft.

And then, Tio spread open her wings and raised up her body. She instantly decelerated by receiving the wind pressure to her heart’s content. When the pilot noticed his plane already passed over Tio. And as expected he got annihilated with one attack from behind.

「To, too fast-. What the hell is this monster-. Is this really dragon!?」

There was an impact sound as though the air ruptured. Next white wall of air was generated. Tio who was easily rushing into the world of the speed of sound while making a steep climb rolled over midair.

「Use the Synthesizer-. Match my timing!」

Three squads were approaching Tio from below as though they were going toward the summit of a pyramid. Their plane’s frame was starting to get enveloped with silver color. From that, this “Synthesizer” was most likely referring to that sound wave attack.

Although, Tio didn’t even look concerned seeing that indication of the sound wave attack that could grant fatal action obstruction effect to the dragon species. Instead she began to swoop down.

The sound wave attack was fired. The air was undulating. Tio charged into that raging sound wave without any hesitation. Something like a free fall was lukewarm. She spread her wings while falling and with an elegant movement she rolled. Right away, a jet black typhoon was generated from that movement.

「Insolent. Fall altogether all of thee.」

It was like a divine spear that broke through a great wall. The black dragon moving in the world of speed of sound clad with black typhoon easily blew off the wall of sound wave and merely passed straight through the center of the formation.

A beat.

The sonic boom that arrived late instantly pulverized their plane’s fuselage and drowned them into the sea of clouds.

Without stopping Tio opened up a great distance from the approaching missile using pure speed and maneuverability, she then blasted away one more squad with a mowing down breath attack.

And, it was at that time a large scale attack was fired at Tio from the mother ship. It seemed they couldn’t get a lock-on because of Tio’s overwhelming mobility, but 80% of their ally’s sky battlecrafts had fallen anyway. Surely they were thinking that in that case they would just bombard the very airspace itself in a limited area.

It wasn’t a high firepower that pierced through a point like the main cannon. What was approaching was a swarm of missiles that might reach a thousand in number. That swarm which was a bit too brutal to be called as a squall prided a size that couldn’t be compared with the missiles launched by the sky battlecrafts. It was clear that it had an uncommon power without compare.

In front of the display of power of blowing up an airspace, Tio flapped her wings once and hovered in place.

And then, she bent her body greatly backward while sucking in air. hyugoo- She was making that kind of impossible sound while sucking in air, which caused Tio’s chest to swell up rapidly.

The missiles that were approaching in a number that even hid the mother ship itself behind them were……

——GURYAAAAAAAAAAAAH!!!

The wind died. The air ruptured. The sea of clouds was blown away in radial shape, the atmosphere shook.

It was just a roar. And yet, it was a roar of the dragon king that granted terror to anyone who heard it without question. Therefore, the mere roar became a violent shockwave that spread through the whole airspace. The approaching swarm of missiles was pulverized by the wall of shockwave.

It was as though there was an invisible wall there, the missiles swarm exploded one after another in the middle point between Tio and the mother ship.

The sky where the curtain of night was already descending was illuminated dazzlingly by orange flame blasts.

「Oi oi, I don’t get any turn at all from the start here?」

「It was Goshujin-sama who ordered me to show the status of the sky’s supreme ruler correct? For now, I tried doing it with only using pure dogfight technique, breath attack, and a bit of magic but……was it satisfactory for thee?」

Turning back, Tio was directing a gaze that looked vaguely mischievous toward Hajime who was calmly standing on her back regardless of the heavy action.

Hajime was showing a half-amazed expression while,

「Those were midair battle maneuver things right? Kulbit and Split S, then Immelmann Turn and Cobra Turn? You also did various other maneuvers but, since when did you learn them huh? Well, it was splendid.」

「The fighter aircrafts in earth art wonderful. However, the sky art mine territory. Putting aside pure speed, mine pride wouldst not forgive myself if I lose in dogfight technique. I fished up various materials, played game, went to aerial show and learned. The most important thing art that it seemed that it satisfied Goshujin-sama.」

‘gururu♪’ Tio-san sounded her throat joyfully.

Because Tio could freely flew in the sky without anything like flying technique just by directly manipulating the wind, it was really bone-breaking for her to make the way of thinking like kinetic energy or potential energy to sink into her mind but……there was no doubt that her flying skill had rapidly risen up from earth’s aeromechanics, so she was really happy to be praised by her master when she unveiled the result like this.

With scales that deflected Vulcan cannon, excelling in speed and maneuverability that were even better than missile, possessing unrivaled powerful attack method, pulverizing the opponent just from the sonic boom, and on top of that she even had super first class flying skill that didn’t rely on her spec……

If the pilots of earth knew that their skill was stolen by a flying tank, there was no doubt that they would get teary eyed.

The flame blasts were gradually getting cleared by the wind flow.

At the other side, they could see the mother ship was charging its main cannon. The two didn’t know how the enemy was planning to make the attack hit, but there was no other way of calling them other than foolish that they still hadn’t escaped. The were overestimating their own existences too much.

The chosen people, the people that ruled the sky. The country of god.

Seeing words that dangerous lined up like that, it was clear that their pride was even higher than Everest, even so they couldn’t avoid getting evaluated as being a bit too thoughtless. Or else, perhaps they still had some kind of different trump card…….

「Well, just because of that doesn’t mean that we will just expressly wait for them though.」

Hajime was looking at even more air battle squad launching from the mother ship while the corner of his mouth rose up in a grin. Tio’s body that didn’t even twitch against Vulcan now twitched.

「I wonder, how does it feel to have your flank gouged out?」

The moment Hajime whispered that, the mother ship that was going to fire its main cannon anytime――wholly lost a part of its rear bottom.

It wasn’t a destruction, it was a loss. Like joined together blocks had a part taken off from it, a part of the ship’s bottom at the rear was coming off. While scattering crimson sparks.

The mother ship tilted violently. Furthermore there were a lot of people falling from that loss part. They couldn’t hear anything due to the distance, but they understood clearly that those people were screaming with expression of despair.

「Go, Goshujin-sama. Just what hath thee done?」

「You see, while you are fighting, it was boring doing nothing so I fired a single shell at them. Inside it was packed full with spider type living golem.」

――Special shell　“Squirm Shell”

The shell that was fired didn’t even explode, but the shell that invaded into inside the mother ship was so to speak a cocoon. Inside it had a lot of super small spider type golem packed in, and they would be born inside the body of the enemy.

This time it was against a gigantic battleship so it was still better, but if this was against a large living thing…….

By the way, the shell could be filled with various things other than spider. Your favorite insect-san right to your position☆

「Ho, how terrifying……or rather, thy hath created something nasty there-. I’m getting goosebumps!」

「No, right now you got no skin right? You have dragon scale all over. Well, anyway, I transmuted a whole lot inside the ship through the arachne bunches and forcefully purge only that spot, that’s all.」

「Avoiding the topic so smoothly……cough-. Ri, right, that place over there art……fufu, I see. As expected from Goshujin-sama. Normally thou art a heinously cruel savage and sadist bastard without compare, but the kindness thy show in this kind of time art just unbearable. I’m falling in love all over again!

Thank you. I don’t feel like I’m praised, so after this I’ll give you your savage punishment.

While his forehead was twitching at Tio’s words, Hajime used pencil Cross Velts to cover the entire purged part——the place where the dragons were captured and treated as fuel——with barrier.

While the mother ship was recovering its posture somehow, perhaps with the intention to protect the mother ship, about forty sky battlecrafts were charging recklessly toward Hajime and Tio as reinforcement.

Tio flapped her wings once to begin the dogfight once more, but Hajime stopped her.

Any time now they are going to struggle while holding delusion(hope) like “there is no way we can lose” or “we will surely win if we use this”. It will be too unsightly to watch, so we are going to crush them all in one go. Along with their heart.

Fumu, certainly. Shouldst I mow them altogether with a breath attack of maximum power?

I’ll work out a bit too. At this rate, I’ll be seen as a strange guy that is only riding on your back.

Tio chuckled at that really childish line. The sky battlecraft squads were approaching closer even while they were doing that. Even seen from afar, their expression looked damned desperate. But, a hope that they would manage it somehow if they could pull through here also could be seen dwelling somewhere in them.

「I’m telling you that it’s merely a delusion. Engrave into your soul, just who is it that you have turned into enemy.」

Right after that, what appeared was a swarm of black crosses decorated with crimson pattern. There were about two hundred of them lining up orderly midair behind Hajime. The scene of the swarm floating while clad in faint crimson light instigated a pure and bizarre terror. Despite the location being in the sky, the sight caused a vision as though they were lost in a graveyard.

Hajime’s eyes could see the figure of the pilots whose eyes were opened wide. Without taking his eyes off from them, Hajime’s hand elegantly waved like a conductor baton, pointing straight forward. The fingertips of that hand mimicked the shape of gun.

At that moment, the two hundred crosses rotated, the tip of their longer side faced forward.

「This is how to crush the enemy with quantity.」

A beat later. A thunderous roar.

The electromagnetically accelerated Burst Bullets fired from two hundreds Cross Velts were mercilessly launched in a rate of 1500 shot per minute. That was already like a wall of bullet that appeared in the sky. The battle of resource amount that was done by the army side before this was now returned back to them exactly as it was.

If they knew that if Hajime actually got serious, he could summon Cross Velts in the number of more than three times of now and several hundred Grim Reapers, just what would they think then?

The sky battlecrafts that got hit by the first attack fell into the sea of clouds in pieces. Even the planes that fortunately could dodge direct hit got their wings plucked by the Burst Bullets that were spreading lethal shockwave of crimson ripple midair and they fell.

It was just a round of offense and defense. Just from that, the sky battlecraft got their battle strength reduced until thirty percent.

「Something like this, is not battle anymore-. This is just massacre-」

「Just what the hell is that-. Where did he take it out from-」

「Is it still not yet-? The Negrade cannon, it's still cannot fire yet-?」

The pilots were in a state that could be called as pandemonium. But, that kind of composure immediately vanished. Because the bringer of death the two hundred crosses flew out all at once. With sharp angling and irregular movement that ignored aerodynamics, and sometimes while even generating something like afterimages, they were shooting down the sky battlecrafts one after another.

Indeed, it wasn't a battle anymore.

Amidst that situatin, the mother ship that succeeded in controlling its posture finally aimed its main cannon's turret at Hajime and Tio. It was focusing silver light, however, it seemed to be slightly different from its attack before. Inside the silver convergence, a muddy black was mixing like coffee dripping into milk. Looking really closely, the silver part also seemed closer to being white.

In a amoment, the white light mixed with black was fired along with a thunderous roar. Its power instead looked lower than the attack before, but Hajime’s instinct that was backed by experience told him that it was something more repulsive.

In front of that unknown that was likely their trump card, Hajime wordlessly made his “Treasure Warehouse II” shined.

The sun had mostly set, while the blackness of night was covering the world, it appeared beside Hajime who was illuminated by the white light.

「I’ll stamp it out from the front.」

Like that what was fired was the greatest light. The color of light shining brilliantly as though it was denying the night that it was still too fast for it to arrive, it was truly the color of sun that illuminated this world.

――Sun convergence laser “Burst Hyperion”

The horizontal firing of Burst Hyperion that finished charging. That was the true identity of the light. The sunlight energy that was converged and compressed to the very limit expulsed the world of night in the blink of eye.

The white light of the mother ship’s main cannon collided with the thick light of Burst Hyperion right from the front.

The power of the two lights rivaled each other, a fantastic phenomenon of lights blooming wildly that seemed unthinkable to be something of this world was occurring at the point of collusion.

「……How can an individual, rivaled the main cannon of a warship……」

The amazed whisper that leaked out from telepathy surely came from the ship captain. Hajime scoffed at that and replied back daringly.

「Rivaled? How long you are going to hold your delusion? Just this much ain’t enough at all.」

Hajime spoke the release keyword.

「——”Second Compression Furnace” release.」

Burst Hyperion was loaded with exclusive “Treasure Warehouse” that converged and compressed sunlight inside, but no one said that there was only one of it inside. It wasn’t strange at all even if multiple “Exclusive Treasure Warehouse” ——”Compression Furnace” were loaded inside.

What would happen if that second energy was liberated?

The answer was simple.

Something like a state of rivalry could be broken easily.

The attack of the mother ship’s main cannon was swallowed, terminated, and got pushed back gradually.

「-. Attack-. Attack that man! Use bullet that focused in speed! The surviving sky battlecraft squad too, attack that guy from behi——」

He was unable to finish saying that command until the end.

「——”Third Compression Furnace” release.」

This must be how the death sentence of the death god sounded like.

Like being swallowed by a raging stream, the main cannon of the mother ship was swallowed by the extreme thickening of the sunlight laser without being able to show anything that resembled a resistance. The advancing light of Hyperion kept pushing and swallowed a third of the front deck along with the 3-gun turrets, and pushed on until the sky at faraway in the distance.

Perhaps it was an instantaneous judgment, or perhaps a coincidence, it was unknown which was it, but just before the mother ship got hit it suddenly descended that it avoided the fate of being the Titanic of the sky.

However, it didn’t change that it was greatly damaged. It wholly lost its front and rear part as though something had taken bites from it. Seeing it tilting, with fires and black smokes, and also small secondary explosions rising from it, it was obviously in a tragic state, even so it was in a condition where it was barely hanging in the sky.

The mother ship was starting to turn around while spouting out silver light even with its altitude that kept descending.

So they finally felt like run away.

I don’t know what kind of effect that last attack hath, but that was surely their genuine trump card. And that trump card was defeated crushingly from the front and in addition they art almost shot down. If they don’t run away even after that, then that art the realm of lunatic.

The sky battlecraft pilots who were desperately running away even while getting chased by Cross Velts were also following the mother ship in panic.

The battle was over. The army’s gigantic mother ship that boasted great fighting strength was chased away just by two people.

While holding back the emotion that was overflowing from that fact, the air pirate’s girl and small dragon were approaching along with their airship.

「Piih. PIIIIH」

「E, excuse me-. Kn, knight-sama-. True dragon-sama-. In this chance, we are saved from danger――」

When they were trying to call out like that,

「――”Fourth Compression Furnace” release.」

「Eh?」

「Pi?」

The extremely thick light blown off the rear of the mother ship that was running away in all broken up state. Along with the girl’s words.

In addition,

「The flies are……around ten. Then I guess it’s enough with this.」

Saying that, what Hajime taken out was anti-material sniper cannon Schlagen AA. Hajime who captured the desperately escaping sky battlecrafts through his scope pulled the trigger at the interval of his breathing. The shells that drew a beautiful crimson line in the night sky were shooting down the sky battlecrafts that were performing random evasion without even a single miss.

「……hiu」

「……pii」

The side profile of Hajime who was dispassionately performing blood festival using the escaping pilots without looking particularly emotional caused the girl and the small dragon to tremble in their boots while hugging each other. With a plop, the girl fell to sit on the floor. The attendants blonde hair duo were also staring at their falling enemies with pale expression. It was only the surviving pilot who was whistling「hyuu~」in admiration.

「Goshujin-sama. That aircraft carrier art unexpectedly tough. It's still flying. Shouldst we pursue?」

「No, there is no need of that. I'll shoot it down after harassing them a bit.」

Hajime who finished shooting down all the sky battlecrafts put Schalgen on his shoulder while grinning broadly. Voices that said things like「Dragon knight-sama……not?」, or「De, demon……」, or「Ru, run away quicklyy」could be heard, but for Hajime who was making that wicked smile, all those were trivial things.

Seeing such Hajime, Tio said a sentence.

「Fumu. That is to say, they couldst not escape from demon king-sama is it?」

It went without saying that the words demon king caused the girl and others to tremble even more.

On the other hand, around that time in the mother ship……

"Those two!? Are those two chasing after us!?"

"N, no! The targets aren't moving! They are letting us get away!"

"Be careful of what you are saying-. They aren't letting us get away! It's our strategic retreat that succeeded-. The next time you said something like that, I'll consider that as betrayal!"

"M, my deepest apology."

The atmosphere was completely rough. Everyone was gulping their saliva as though their throat was parched while their face was tensing from the terror of wondering if they would be shot down anytime now.

The captain was also in the same state, he was saying thing like"strategic retreat success"from his mouth, but his face was twitching uncontrollably as though he caught a bad sickness.

"We have to, we have to inform our country quickly. If we challenge them using a fleet, then next time for sure……. Oi, how long until we enter the range where we can contact the country?"

"The range is about 1500. But, our propulsion is lowering, and in our current situation where we cannot resupply, it will perhaps take two days."

"Chih. Those two, just how did they scoop out the whole supply room……no, in the first place how did they know the location accurately? ……is there, a traitor?"

Excessive paranoia was gnawing at his mind in this extreme situation.

But, at that time, a communication entered the bridge.

「This is the launching and landing station! Higgs is trying to launch in his sky battlecraft! He is armed and caused many casualties among the mechanics who tried to stop him! Someone, please send reinforcement! That guy, he isn’t sane!」

The bridge turned into uproar from the sudden notification. The ship captain snatched a mike and pressed the communication button toward the sky battlecraft’s landing and launching station.

「What is happening!? What’s Higgs’s objective!? Why is he trying to launch in sky battlecraft in this situation!?」

「We don’t know-. He is talking incoherently……we really don’t get it! He is babbling ‘that guy is coming, if I don’t run away quickly, the “demon king” will come. That guy is here already!’. He won’t even listen to our words!」

「How ridiculous. Shit-, we have no time to be concerned with a crazy idiot in this kind of time. I give permission to shoot. If he is not going to listen, then I don’t care just kil――」

The captain was going to give instruction even while he was feeling some kind of intense bad premonition. It was at that timing.

He heard it.

――I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m on the deck you know?

「!?」

The captain suddenly sensed a presence and he turned around swiftly. However, he saw nothing there but the door that connected to the corridor, there was no one there. He returned his gaze to the front thinking if he was hallucinating, but right after that, he gulped his saliva unconsciously.

「Ca, captain. Ju, just now……」

A helmsman was looking back with a pale expression. No, not just him. All his subordinates inside the bridge were looking back just like him.

「Wha, what are you looking at! Carry out your own duty! Right now we need to hurry even for――」

It was a hallucination. It was just a coincidence that all his subordinates were looking back. The captain was persuading himself like that while erasing the sensation of a bug crawling on his back by yelling angrily. He was trying, to erase it.

――I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m in the central passage you know?

「Wh, who-」

「Ca, captaiiiin-」

He couldn’t trick himself anymore. The resounding voice, the presence he felt behind him, they caused the captain to look behind him, but as expected, there wasn’t anyone there.When he returned his gaze with a stiff motion, as expected he found the pale figures of his subordinates.

――I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m in front of the elevator you know?

「He, he is, approaching here?」

「Captain-. The, the elevator number 1-. It's moving!」

「Who is using it!? The image!?」

「No one is inside it! There is nobody! Just why is it moving-」

The subordinate that was in charge of remote controlling the facilities nearby the bridge was staring at his monitor looking like he was going to cry. His monitor was projecting the image inside the elevator that connected toward this bridge. But, inside the elevator that was indeed moving and climbing up, there was no one there at all.

The elevator stopped and the door opened. The camera in the passage that continued toward this bridge didn't catch the figure of anyone. However, the elevator was moving by itself, then stopped in this floor, the door opened, and then at the timing when it seemed one person had gotten off the elevator, its door closed once more.

――I'm, Maou-san. Right now, I'm in front of the first room you know?

The first room――Defense room number 1. In case the mother ship was boarded by enemy, at the area from the elevator and the stair until the bridge, there were three rooms prepared for the sake of holding back any attack toward the bridge. Those rooms were toughly made with a lot of cover so it would be easier to intercept the intruder.

「Defense room number 1-. An intruder in front of the door-. You are permitted to open fire!」

The captain used the radio to give instruction to the soldier standing by in the defense room number 1.

But, there wasn’t any reply coming back.

——I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m in front of the second room you know?

A shudder of fear ran on their spine. The captain’s gaze question his subordinate who was monitoring the place, but he didn’t say anything and only shook his head with unfocused eyes as though he was losing sanity.

——I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m in front of the third room you know?

Even the defense room number 2 was easily penetrated. No, it was unclear whether it was fine to call it penetrating or anything. It was as though the door of those rooms didn’t even exist, as though there weren’t any guards inside those rooms from the start, “something” was smoothly infiltrating without any difficulty.

——I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m in front of the bridge you know?

Silence returned inside the bridge. Before they knew it, the damage reports and communications that asked for instruction toward the bridge that were coming like a storm from every posts in the mother ship had gone silent as though they were holding their breath. The only sound that they could hear, was the faint breathing sound, and the humming of the power reactor working earnestly to keep this gigantic ship floating.

The captain slowly pulled out his handgun from the holster on his waist. Inside the silence where even the sound of rustling clothes felt nerve-wracking, he gritted his teeth that felt like they were going to clatter, and slowly aimed his gun barrel toward the door.

「I, if you want to come then come. The moment you open the door, I'll shoot you to de――」

「I'm, Maou-san. Right now, I'm right behind you, you know?」

It wasn't a voice that came from far away. It was a raw voice of someone. That voice could be heard right beside his ear, as though it was said from a distance where the speaker was clinging on him.

Something like sanity couldn't be retained anymore. *「aaAAAAAAH」*In the end, no one knew just whose scream that was. When pan that dry sound rang out, the one who collapsed first was the helmsman.

What shot through his chest was the captain's handgun. The captain whose reasoning was blown away and fell into a panicked state shot the moment he turned around. After that, it was like a stone rolling down a slope. Everyone without exception heard the voice whispered right beside their ear. In a panicked state, they fired or hit each other unarmed. The bridge fell into a scene of carnage.

Such situation was also occurring in every section of the mother ship. Everyone had their mind's equilibrium crumbled against the approaching something. Their heart was broken from terror, those who ran and hid survived. But, those people were constantly feeling it. No matter where they were, no matter what they were doing, they still felt the faint presence of someone behind them.

People who didn't turn mad were less than twenty percent of the whole.

「That’s the situation there right now.」

「For now, explanation pleeease」

After hearing the current situation of the mother ship that had escaped to far away from Hajime, Tio whose expression was skillfully convulsing even when she was still in black dragon form was asking for explanation with voice tone as cheerful as possible. If she didn’t hear the explanation, then it felt like she would see nightmare from hearing just the end result.

「Look, there are the arachne bunches that infiltrated before this remember? Using them, I carried out one of me-style Harassment 108.」

――Demon King-style (Third Person) Harassment 108 “I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m right behind you, you know?”

This was demon king-sama’s version of a certain urban legend “Ma○y-san’s Phone Call” using super small living golem. While using telepathy to forcefully make the listener experienced of something “gradually approaching”, their sense of fear was also amplified using soul magic. Furthermore, while making a show that something was getting closer, but actually from the start the golem that was lurking on the target’s collar was using “Presence Manipulation” to produce “a presence of someone that was constantly behind them”. And then the finishing touch was naturally the recording of Hajime’s natural voice that said “I’m right behind you, you know?”.

It was one of the wonderful harassment skills that would beautifully made anyone insane with certainty. If “Peek-a-Demon King!” was a sudden harassment, then this one was a harassment that was showing its effect gradually!

「……The idea art just too terrifying. Or rather, I think that the horror or urban legend of Japan art foul play. Before this Myuu searched the internet out of curiosity and then she didn’t come out from her futon for one whole day.」

「About Japan’s horror, it’s persistent like this, or perhaps I should say it has damp atmosphere……it has a characteristic atmosphere that doesn’t exist overseas after all. Well, for now, leaving that aside, let’s just use this to ‘kaclick’.」

Hajime who smiled wryly while shrugging suddenly took out something that looked like a switch, and then without hesitation he pushed that switch.

「……Just in case, I’ll ask but, just now, what did thou do?」

「Hm? That’s, it’ll be troubling if my arachne got carried away, so I spread them to the important places inside the ship——and blew them up.」

By the way, the arachne-chan(living golem) just now that was the size of a pinky could become a force that was about as much as 10 kg of C4 explosive. And then their number aboard the ship was around two hundred.

Not to mention the power reactor, the arachne also aimed at other places focusing at the bridge and other important facilities. And then they went BANG not from the surface but by using transmutation to infiltrate inside the machineries first.

Surely the crews who were beautifully in great chaos from the “I’m, Maou-san. Right now, I’m right behind you, you know?” were unable to deal with this.

The power was lost, the bridge was lost, resupplying was also impossible, and most of the crews were in the middle of madness☆. There was no doubt that the ship was falling right now.

If after this they were still able to return to their country without crashing, then that would be worthy of praise.

Seeing Hajime who was saying「An explosion at the end――that is romance」while making a really refreshed expression, not just Tio, the girl and little dragon who were still trembling, the blonde hair attendant duo, and then the pilot-san whose expression was twitching as expected,

「「「「「You demon-」」」」」

「Piih」

They gave a splendid straight-man retort with their voice as one.

If there were the classmates in this place, surely they would reply like this.

――He is the demon king you know?

Like that.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

Actually, I just wanted to write simple dogfight.

If a dragon used air battle maneuver in a dogfight……won’t it be super romantic?

By the way, Shirakome isn’t that knowledgeable regarding fighter aircraft.

Because all my reference source come from Blue Knight. No, it was really interesting that I got totally engrossed. I especially super like chapter 22.

Now then, a report for a moment.

Looks like the sale for the fifth volume will be at 25 December.

You can also see the cover illustration if you go to Overlap-sama’s homepage you know!

Please go take a look if you can.

Please take care of Arifureta from here on too.

Arifureta Chapter 235

AN:

□The data……vanished?□

Just like that person whose spirit pressure really vanish, the data didn’t revive.

I’m sorry, right now I’m in the middle of rewriting. I should be able to update tomorrow afternoon!

Although, the chapter this time is something like the exposition turn, so the story is not really interesting.

Anyway, as an apology that the update will be late, I uploaded the artifact catalog.

Arifureta After Story II

Artifact Catalogue

This is a catalogue of Hajime’s artifact.

Please read it to kill time.

Shirakome himself doesn’t grasp the whole thing, so perhaps there is still other.

For the artifact of other members, I’ll eventually add them in the list.

(TN: I made up all the German word here because I’m too lazy. Leave a comment if you know the correct word, and I’ll edit it later.)

Donner & Schlag

Total length 35 cm. Rotating style magazine with 6 shots. Made from composite ore of Tauru ore, Shutaru ore, and Athantium ore.

The origin of the naming was from German language □thunderbolt□or□lightning□, something like that.

Schlagen

Total length around three meters, single shot, electromagnetically accelerated anti-material rifle with zero caliber.

The naming origin was from German language 「Zerschlagen(Pulverizing)」……I think.

Schlagen AA

The successor of Schlagen. Its power and range were greatly improved. It surpassed the framework of a sniper rifle and reached the level of sniper cannon.

AA was the abbreviation of「Acht Acht」. I don’t know the detail of the spec, but language nuance was wonderful. It seemed that the power was also amazing. Therefore I adopted it.

Metzelei

Gatling railgun. Six rotating gun barrels, 30 mm caliber, it could shot about 12000 shots per minute. The cooling of early day version couldn’t follow along, and it could only keep shooting for around five minutes.

Metzelei Disaster

A six barreled gatling gun where each barrel was originally one Metzelei. The power was simply increased six times.

Orkan

Missile & rocket launcher.

Agni Orkan

A winged cross with a total length of 3 meters. It could simultaneously fire 300 pencil missiles.

Pile Bunker

Romance

Gatling Pile Bunker

Super Romance

Cross Bit

Flying cross. It could become a shield, or it could also fire exploding bullet. It could also form a barrier by connecting to each other with wire.

Cross Velt

The successor of Cross Bit. It had black color with red pattern — the culmination of chuuni.

Pencil Cross Velt

Alias “Don’t touch, you pervert!”

Hyperion

Sunlight convergence laser. It went chudon from the sky.

Burst Hyperion

The successor of chudon from the sky.

Mirror Bit

The machines on board the sky chudon. It could explode sunlight energy using Treasure Warehouse.

Chakram

Chakram. Its central part turns into a gate.

Variable style chakram Orestes

Wire was installed inside the chakram. It could deploy an extra-large gate by splitting into three parts.

Grim Reaper

Mechanized monster. It is fully loaded with ordnances inside.

Meteor Impact

A mere rock. The opponent dies.

Magic power cannon Grenzen

It’s non-lethal, so it’s fine!

Treasure Warehouse

Anything could enter

Magic power 4-Wheel Drive Brieze

A car that looks similar to a Hummer. Fully loaded with gimmicks like blades, caltrops, hand grenades, a sniper rifle, etc.

Magic power 2-Wheel Drive Schutaif

A bike that looks American. Currently, it was demonically remodeled into Shia’s wheels. It seemed it could also fly in the sky.

Bola

For binding. Recently it was used exclusively for Tio, or for Hajime mommy to dry clothes.

Artificial Arm

Kuh, be calm my left hand-

Ornis

Bird-shaped reconnaissance plane. There were also various other shapes.

Large Shield

Coffin shaped. It could let out a stake from below to fix it into the ground. Made from the composite of three kinds of ores.

Variable style large shield Aidion

It could turn into sphere shape that defended from all directions.

Hour Crystal

Slowing down the flow of time of a certain range.

Skyboard

Eu○ka (TN: Refer to Eureka Seven I think)

Ferner

Manta shaped airship. It used gravity control so it could make abnormal maneuvers.

Submarine

It could endure even magma.

Hand Grenade chudon

Flashbang Grenade kats

Burning Grenade goo

Paralysis Grenade abah

Tear-Gas Grenade nngih

Frag Grenades ……

Telepathy Stone Another world version mobile phone

Specific Stone Another world version GPS

Distant Viewing Stone Another world version telescope

Reaction Stone Another world version remote control device

Magic Eye Stone Chuuni

Sealing Stone It dispersed magic power. The block that sealed Yue

Crystal Key

The key that opened even the door that crossed worlds

Compass of Guidance Crossing

It could find anything

Magic crystal series

It could stock up magic power. There were various shapes like a ring, earring, bracelet, etc.

Cheatmate

Basic ability increase. It could strengthen the body to endure Limit Break. Cheat is your friend!

Novum Idola

It can make an illusion.

Delischanors

Something that bestowed a duplicate soul. It obstructed the soul interference from the opponent. By using it in conjunction with a living golem, a pseudo-clone could be created.

Lob Regenschirm

Three stages assault lance that rotated in high speed. With the sealing stone, unique unevenness, and high-speed rotation, it would dig through and disperse the magic itself.

Special bullet Living Bullet A living bullet. It would listen to a simple order of the user and crush the target.

Special bullet Burst Bullet A bullet that was accompanied by a shockwave.

Special bullet Excise Bullet It could switch the coordinate along with the space between bullet and bullet, or bullet and the user

Special bullet Vision Bullet By using it in conjunction with Novum Idola, it could launch illusion.

☆Addition.

Living Golem Arachne

Spider-type golem. It could launch things like sleeping drug, paralysis drug, weakening drug, and so on. Even transmutation is OK. It’s relatively all-purpose

Satellite type Bel Agharta

It poured down the light of regeneration magic.

Special bullet Squirm Shell

A shell that could be packed with various things and fired. Large creatures would unavoidably get teary eyed.

Torpedo

It could dye an oasis red. It could also kill an ancient monster quite a bit.

Tent and Kotatsu

The height of civilization that Hajime created

Camping Kit

Right now it was 3LDK with system kitchen attached by using space expansion

Dryer

It increases the glossiness

Impact Grenade

hidebuh

Mask series

Mask pink is retired uniform. Greatly increased battle ability

Gate Key & Gate Hall

Anywhe○ Door without door (Limited to a place with Gate Hall)

Gran Farensen

It increased gravity by several times over.

Last Zell

Limit Break for everyone

Drucken

Shia’s war hammer. It was changeable to become bombing mode.

Wirr Drucken

Drucken’s successor. It could become 100 Ton Hammeeerr

Black Slavery Whip

Tio’s whip. It could mass produce a black dragon. There were also times where Hajime used it on Tio.

Demon Sword of Circle Calamity Anima Ernte

Kaori’s twin large sword. Drain type demon sword.

Holy Sword of Gospel Bel Rexion

Kaori’s twin large sword. Healing type holy sword.

Schutzengel

Installation type. It deployed Kaori’s barrier magic in large scale.

Black katana

Shizuku’s beloved katana. The first present from Hajime. At night, she gives it maintenance while grinning broadly. Lightning Clad – Wind Claw – Gravity Cut, etc.

Will demonstrating katana swarm

Anyway, it’s a swarm of black katana that moved by themselves. I’m lacking in chuuni power. Naming under review.

Twin Iron Fan

The user is Suzu. A tiny kid will look slightly elegant with this.

Air Force Boots

You can soar in the sky

Living golem Demon Rangeeerr

Myuu’s golem squadron. They had an ego before anyone knew it. Myuu christened them “Belfegoor” “Satan” “Asmodeusu” “Lusife~r” “Mamon” “Leviatan” “Baalsebuf”

Recently, the small golems that she received by begging at papa were christened with names like “Agaresu” “Sitrii” or “Marubas” and so on……

Donneer – Schlaag

The small version of Donner & Schlag exclusive for Myuu. It could also perform electromagnetic acceleration using magic power battery

Kotetsuu – Muuramasa

Short swords exclusive for Myuu. Recently it felt like they were starting to have awareness……

This is Weapon Desu

Myuu’s exclusive black whip. It could exterminate terrorist’s “son”.

Don’t Touch, You Pervert

Myuu’s exclusive pencil Cross Velt

Pikko Piko Hammeer

Myuu’s exclusive piko piko hammer. Its tip had rabbit character.

Yue-oneechan’s Love

Myuu’s exclusive jewel magecra○.

Artifacts enchanted with concept magic are excluded. Because it only used that one time.

‘Other than that there is also something like this right?’ If you remember something like that, then I’ll add it if I can bother you to write it on the review.

Pardon me if the artifact explanation is atrocious……

Arifureta Chapter 236

AN: I made it yeah…….

Well, it’s just an exposition chapter, so it’s not even content with considerable appeal though (bitter smile).

Thank you very much for the artifact’s supplement.

‘Come to think of it; there is also something like that huh.’ I got that thought a lot of time.

I’ll add on it as occasion calls.

Arifureta After II The History of the Sky World

A sound like the creaking of metal resounded, the airship’s altitude lowered with a jerk.

「Kyah」

「Piih」

The silver-haired girl and little dragon who were hugging each other while trembling raised a scream at Hajime who was showing a really nice smile in a savage manner. The blonde-haired female made contact using something like a radio toward the place that seemed to be the bridge and asked what was happening.

「Roze-sama-. The damage to the ship is horrible; we cannot maintain our floating power-」

The magnified voice resounded to the whole ship. The silver-haired girl who was called Roze quickly returned to her senses, and then she turned her gaze at the little dragon——Kuwaibel. Kuwaibel turned its gaze at Roze and nodded once.

「Piiii~~~」

It raised a high-pitched cry. Silver light overflowed from its small body which gently enveloped the airship.

「Floating power increasing, 50 percent. Please just a bit more, Kuwaibel-sama.」

「Pii, pipih」

Kuwaibel puffed up his chest with a face that looked a bit triumphant, as though to say「Just leave it to me!」. It seemed that the declining ship was recovering its floating power with the help of that special silver power.

Roze let out a relieved sigh, and she tightly hugged her beloved friend and partner Kuwaibel again. She then returned her gaze at Hajime and Tio who were looking at them with a very interested gaze.

She stood up, put down Kuwaibel beside her, and then she showed an elegant bow that resembled a courtesy. Her hair was ruffled from the wind, her clothes were also a modest thing that looked like an overall, yet her appearance had a gracefulness that would make people who saw her get taken aback.

「It’s a great honor to be able to meet you for the first time, dragon knight-sama, true dragon-sama. I am Avenst Kingdom’s queen Roze Phiris Avenst. As the representative of the dragon kingdom, my greatest thanks for your assistance in this chance. ……Unfortunately, we are in this kind of condition, so we cannot even show you our gratitude satisfactorily, but please, you can rest your wings in our ship Rozeria by all means.」

The two comprehended, indeed this girl’s attire looked shabby, but now they could understand the reason for the refinement this girl was clad with. It seemed that Hajime’s prediction that she wasn’t just a mere pirate was correct.

Roze’s words caused the gaze of the blonde-haired male and female at both her sides to wander around. It was a fact that they were saved, but the two people in front of them were too much of an unknown. As people whose mission was to protect the queen’s safety, Tio’s existence added with Hajime’s deed and great power were making them hesitate if it was okay to approach these two simply.

「Piih. Pipii!」

「Ah, hey-, Ku-chan! That’s impolite!」

They couldn’t possibly defy these two, but they also couldn’t abandon their wariness……the blonde-haired duo were unconsciously putting themselves on guard, but Kuwaibel only gave a glance at the duo who were like that before he quickly flew out and began to fly around Hajime and Tio happily.

Roze was yelling「Come back hereee~e!」with an angry face, but Kuwaibel looked really curious about Tio in her dragon’s form, so he was flying in front of Tio’s nose tip while sending a deeply interested gaze.

「Tio.」

「Acknowledged.」

With Hajime’s call, Tio enveloped her body with a cocoon of black magic power light. The cocoon was shrinking whizzingly. Right after that, the magic power scattered like a bursting bubble and from inside Tio appeared in her usual appearance.

「……Holy cow. She really can turn into a human. It’s just like in legend.」

「Even when I see it with these eyes, I still cannot believe it.」

「Nee-san. Can you punch me a bit? I think I’m hallucinating.」

The pilot who was saved by Hajime――Bovid was putting his hand on his forehead while muttering, while the blonde-haired duo were also opening their eyes wide in disbelief.

Hajime and Tio ignored their shock and landed on the deck. When they did that, Tio was floating with the dragon wings she let out, but Hajime was normally stepping on the air and walked down, so everyone including Roze stared with their eyes almost jumping out from the socket.

Under Hajime’s feet that were walking normally as though he was going down a stair were crimson ripples spreading with each step. Everyone was staring at that wordlessly. Even after Hajime had stood on the deck, the gaze of everyone was still glued on Hajime’s feet.

「Oi, come back to your senses. We also have various things that we want to ask. The time is limited y’know.」

Hajime tapped his foot while saying that. Hearing that, Roze and others returned to their senses with ‘hah’ and their gaze met Hajime. Though their gaze still kept glancing at Hajime’s feet.

「Tha, that’s rude of us. E, excuse me dragon knight-sama. For you to come down here, can I take that to mean that you are going to give us the honor by resting your wings on our ship?」

「I’m not a dragon knight, and depending on the situation I’ll leave right away but……well, it’s true that for the time being I’m thinking of talking with you guys.」

The blonde hair duo frowned at Hajime’s wording. They reflexively were about to say something, but then Bovid elbowed them saying「Don’t get in her majesty’s way」.

「Is that so……I’m glad. Welcome, dragon knight-sama, true dragon-sama. If it won’t displease you, can I please ask for your name?」

「That’s why I told you I’m not a dragon knight. ……I am Hajime, and this is Tio.」

「Nice to meet thou, queen-sama with circumstance.」

「Yes, it’s an honor to meet the two of you, Hajime-sama, Tio-sama.」

Roze smiled widely while adding ‘sama’ when calling the two of them. While she introduced herself as a queen of a country, it seemed she completely saw Hajime and Tio as above her. Surely the reason for her attitude like this was related to the unfamiliar terms she was using before this.

Anyway, they were able to create a friendly atmosphere unlike with the army faction, so Hajime turned his gaze to another direction. Lured by that, the gaze of Roze and others followed Hajime’s, and there they caught sight of the thing that Hajime was looking at. It was a giant mass of metal — the part of the mothership that was forcefully purged.

「Excuse me, that’s……」

Roze raised a questioning voice. Hajime manipulated his Cross Velt in exchange for replying to her. The metal mass that was surrounded by barrier was approaching following the Cross Velts' movement.

"Well, it's nothing. These guys are innocent after all, so as expected making them fall together is just too much."

"E, err……"

Giving only a glance at the bewildered Roze, Hajime used convergence transmutation to dissolve the metal mass in front of his eyes into particle state. The sight of the gigantic mass of metal surrounded by crimson sparks and rustlingly vanished into sand shape made everyone speechless.

Although, the true surprise came after that. The state inside was exposed when the outer wall was vanishing. Inside there was,

"Wha-. Dragons are, that many inside there……"

"Chih, so it's something like this. So inside there is the fuel store of those guys' ship."

Roze pressed her hands on her mouth and leaked out a whisper, and Bovid was clicking his tongue while saying the correct answer.

The room where nearly a hundred dragon species were locked in dissolved in the blink of an eye. Several fist-sized metal lumps were created above Hajime's hand, and they were then stored into "Treasure Warehouse II".

Perhaps because the dragons hadn't flown for long, when the cage locking them in was gone, they were falling without even able to fly. They fell with a flop on the barrier floor that Hajime spread and then they looked around in astonishment while sitting.

「This is troubling. It would be great if they can just fly away quickly but……they don’t even have the strength to fly huh.」

「Uumu. It wouldst take some effort to care for this number. What to do, Goshujin-sama? There art also an option to use cheatmate and mine metamorphosis magic to remodel their body forcefully.」

Tio suggested using the magic that once transformed the enemy monsters in the holy precincts into black dragons. Hajime carefully pondered that suggestion, but the problem was resolved before he could give the answer.

「Piih, PiiIIlhpipih」

Kuwaibel flew up in front of the dragons that weren’t trying to fly away and then his body shined silver. The overflowing light was scattering like rain while showering the dragons. After a while, the dragons were starting to move their wings in bewilderment.

At first, it was slow. As though to ascertain the feeling. As though to recall the past.

One dragon, and then one more dragon was floating, and the dragons began to dance in the sky.

「Monarch dragon……was it? That was how those guys called this rug rat dragon.」

「Yes. A dragon that grants power to the dragon species. He is truly ought to be called the king of dragons.」

Dragons in various size were flying around the small dragon clad in silver in adoration, as though they were offering their respect. Hajime and Tio’s expression turned admiring while watching that sight.

Before long, the dragons flapped their wings powerfully and became a single flock that flew away. Most likely there was also a floating island in that direction. Kuwaibel was clearly giving out instruction to them to fly over there. It was certain that they would be able to rest their wings there.

「Thank you very much Hajime-sama, Tio-sama. To think that the two of you were able to save those children in the middle of that battle……how very admirable. As the representative of the dragon kingdom that loves dragons and wishes to be together with dragons, I offer the two of you my gratitude.」

Roze who stepped forward gracefully bowed her head deeply.

It appeared that Roze and her group were harboring a feeling of affection to the dragon species, different from the army faction. Seeing that their side also had sky battlecraft and airship, Hajime thought that they were using the energy body that seemed to come from the dragon’s heart, but based on what he saw from Roze’s behavior then perhaps there was another method than that. No matter what he couldn’t imagine this group killing dragons and taking out their cores.

While Hajime and Tio’s interest was stimulated inside their heart thinking that there were more and more things he wanted to ask with this, they were guided by Roze to go to the reception room. That was how it went but……

The terrible condition inside the ship that was littered with holes, the crews running around for repair, and then the strange noise that sometimes resounded and the condition that made it seemed like the airship would fall anytime, those factors caused Hajime to ask「……Is this airship okay?」. In response to that, Roze's reply was「I, it's fine you know?」with question mark inside her sentence and her gaze swimming around everywhere. In the end, Hajime rushed around to repair the ship.

He wanted to be spared of the ship crashing while they were talking, so he made them guide him to the broken area and performed repair one after another using transmutation. If there was a lack of material, Hajime used a part of the material that he snatched in a great amount from the mothership.

Right after crimson spark surged, the damaged place became just like new in the blink of an eye. The absurd spectacle caused all the crews including Roze to goggle.

Even when they were in the middle of moving to the next place, their gaze was nailed at Hajime's hand. When the hand moved to the right, their gaze would also go to the right, when it moved to left their gaze would also go left. When Hajime tried rotating his arm in a cir~cle, their gaze would also rotate in a cir~cle.

……To the right a bit faster-. The gazes went to the right swiftly-. Left-, but it was a feint, it was up! Refusing to get tricked the gaze went up! Left up down right left right up-! What the-left up right left right left-, ah, mistaken!?

「Just what art thou doing, Goshujin-sama and also queen-sama too.」

「Ah, no, sorry. Because these guys are moving too obediently, that I unintentionally……」

「My, my apologize. It feels like it would be a defeat if our gaze get left behind, that I unintentionally……」

The people around the blushing Roze were also making an expression like「Damn it, we unintentionally……」in harmony. Perhaps they were unexpectedly a group that could easily get into a certain mood.

With various happenings like that, Hajime and Tio who were invited into the reception room finally sat down on a stiff sofa. A steamy beverage was put in front of them. Most likely it was something similar like tea. A slightly sweet fragrance tickled their nose.

In front of the two was Roze. The blonde-haired duo were standing in attention behind her. Midway to this room Hajime and Tio learned that both of them were siblings, the older sister was Olga Crow, and the little brother was Jean Crow. They seemed to be Roze's imperial guards. The elder sister was the captain of the imperial guards, and the little brother was the vice-captain. They could also pilot sky battlecraft, but they were an expert in close quarter combat. It seemed that usually, they were also aiding Roze's daily life.

「Hajime-sama, Tio-sama. Forgive me for being too straight, but can I be allowed to ask what kind of objective the two of you have? We……we have a goal, a mission. I think that if it's the legendary true dragon-sama, then your understanding must have grasped it already but……like this, for the two of you to rush to our side in our time of danger, is it allowed for me to hold a hope that the two of you can give us your cooperation?」

「Wait, wait a bit. Calm down for now.」

From the middle of her talk, Roze's body was leaning forward, and she kept talking on and on. Hajime pushed forward both his hands to stop her. Roze pulled back her body in panic, and she corrected her posture in shame.

「I'll say this first, but I'm not the dragon knight you queen-san talked about, I also don't understand what you mean by a true dragon. The reason is that we aren't a dweller of this world.」

「……Not a dweller of this world? Forgive me; I don't really understand what do you mean by that.」

「I meant that literally, we are humans from a different world. A world where there isn't black rain like here, where the civilization isn't collapsing. There are multiple countries in existence there, and they more or less believe in order and law.」

Roze's expression was getting more and more bewildered.

Hajime smiled wryly understandingly, and he talked the summary of their experience of coming to this world. Whether they would believe it or not in the end, Hajime would leave it to their own decision. For the time being, he conveyed to Roze that with the premise that they were from another world, he wished for her to teach him about this world, the situation, and about the unfamiliar terms that sometimes came out in their conversation.

「It's a story that I cannot believe so suddenly but……for now, I understand that this talk itself won't progress without me explaining the situation. Having said that, I don't know from where do I have to start explaining……」

「Right……then, first, what is that black rain? Teach us starting from there. What happened that now the land is polluted by that rain?

So from there. So it’s really true, that the two of you doesn’t know about this world……

Roze took a gulp of the drink with her mind still shaken by bewilderment, and for now, she reset herself. She pondered for a bit thinking how should she explain, and then she began to talk.

The black rain, it is said to be the proof of the fallen monarch dragon——Helmut’s grief and rage.

In the past, at the time where the black rain still didn’t exist, in the center of dragon kingdom Avenst where Roze’s ancestor was acting as the king, there was an era of peace where dragon and human coexisted.

In that era, when dragon and human reached a certain age, it was the custom for them to choose a partner to exchange friendship of a lifetime. One of the monarch dragons who were the partner of the dragon kingdom royalty in such era was the evil dragon Helmut.

Monarch dragon, what does that mean?

Monarch dragon, they are a dragon that possesses special power even among the dragon species. They possess silver scales, bestow strength to the dragon species and the land, and they are able to exchange words with humans. They are the ruling kind among the dragons that will only exchange friendship with the royalty of the dragon kingdom.

The oldest and strongest country——Dragon Kingdom Avenst. A part of the reason for that status was because, in a world where a dragon was human’s greatest friend, the kingdom royalty was the only one that could exchange friendship with the dragon’s ruling kind.

「I see. That country surely was a country with influence huh.」

「Yes. The center of the world was without a doubt located in the dragon kingdom. However, even that era was approached by the end. ——It was the development of technology.」

Except for the existence of dragons and ores and the like that possessed special energy, there wasn’t any mysterious power like magic or anything in this world. It was inevitable for technology to develop here just like in earth. The difference was at the point that in place of electricity and gas, this world was using energy that was called sky core.

「Sky core, is that the sky blue ore that is even smaller than grains of sand?」

「So you know about that……. Yes, exactly. It is a special ore with traits where it can be changed into various kinetic energy, stimulate the growth of crops, or even neutralize gravity. It’s an ore that is really hard to be collected, but it can even allow an airship this big and sky battlecrafts to fly like this, and it can also produce light, heat, cold for our daily life.」

「……This ship, it’s not using that thing that is like the dragon’s heart?」

「-. Obviously-. Please don’t lump us together like those Qwailent bunches-」

「……Calm down. I’m completely ignorant what is common sense and what is not in this world. I’ll properly listen to queen-san’s story, so please explain.」

「ah, my, my apologize.」

Roze whose boiling temper got cooled by Hajime’s calm words cleared her throat. According to the explanation that she resumed, the thing that seemed like the dragon’s heart――that was something that was called dragon core, it seemed that even just a cubic centimeter of it possessed the same amount of energy of a fist-sized sky core.

Naturally, processing dragon core was very much better in labor and efficiency, but it seemed that Roze and others who were the descendant of dragon kingdom who didn’t discard their country’s idea of coexisting with dragon even now when their country had perished, they were only using sky core. Because of that, their airship’s spec was several level lower compared to the airship of their enemy――Sky Divine Country Qwailent. They also had difficulty in resupply, so they were always struggling with lacks of materials.

Somehow, it made it hard to drink the richly fragrant tea in front of them……

「Nkuh. This is delicious. Second please.」

「Ah, yes.」

Hajime-san mercilessly asked for a second. Right after that, Roze was explaining with a bitter smile about their destitute living situation. The expression of the Crow siblings shuddered. ‘Is this man’s nerve made from special alloy wire!?’ They wondered.

「And? The continuation?」

「Ah, yes. Eerr……that’s right. While the technology development is continuing, a certain researcher discovered it. That the dragon core is far more efficient than sky core. The dragons who were the great companion of mankind had their remains buried courteously even after death. The dragon core that should be called as that dragon’s soul was buried along with the dragon’s remain, returning back to the land. That was the norm at that time.」

「So curiosity, stepped across that common sense?」

「I don’t understand the feeling of that researcher. In the record, it was said that at the end of his research he created the fastest aircraft at that time using the dragon core of his partner who died from an unforeseen accident. And then, he didn’t create anything other than that. ……It’s possible, that man might only wish to fly together in the sky one more time using an aircraft that is inserted with the soul of his departed friend.」

The truth of the matter was unknown. However, the fact was that at the same time as that man’s discovery, the countries all over the world also noticed it — the value of dragon core.

And then, it began — the cruel and terrifying act of dragon hunting.

Technology that made use of sky core required extremely much effort starting from the collection of the sky core. Sky core at the very least need to be fist-sized to be useful, but the sky core that could be collected was only small things that were like sand. Just collecting it and compressing it into usable size consumed so much time and cost. Major effort was necessary just to research it.

Those necessities were removed by using dragon core. The research advanced rapidly, and technology was developed with striking momentum.

「It was said that the countries all over the world unanimously gathered dragon core and the technology race intensified. In the middle of that, it was only the dragon kingdom that was trying to stop the tide of the world that is making dragon hunting as right. The kingdom used all kind of method. Economic sanction, preferential treatment from the dragon kingdom, the export of sky core……sometimes they even used military force along with the monarch dragons.」

「……How long they could do that?」

Roze made a troubled smile at Hajime's words.

While the countries around them were continuing to develop technology, they rejected dragon hunting as wrong――that had the same meaning as being left behind by the world. Even if they were an influential country, but if their technology level was overwhelmingly left behind, it wasn't hard to imagine what kind of evaluation other countries would have against them.

Even so, the dragon kingdom continued to reject dragon hunting was because the dragon species shouldered the role as a balancer of the world. It wasn't something that was proven scientifically. It was something like a superstitious belief. But, it was believed that dragons had a role of taking in the toxic substance of the world into their body, and then they purified it to return it back to the world.

That was the belief in the dragon kingdom.

In a world where technology development advanced, a fact without proof wasn't worthy to be believed in. Even when the dragon kingdom persuaded that if the dragon hunting continued at this rate, a calamity would occur, no one bothered to listen.

Like that the authority of dragon kingdom wavered, their influence lowered, and shadow was looming on their power.

「The one who showed unease at such situation was the first prince of the dragon kingdom at that time. He became unable to endure the declining of his homeland. He cast away the belief as superstition and strongly appealed for technology development using dragon core.」

「Naturally, it didn’t end well wasn’t it?」

「Yes. In the record, harsh writings about him……like he was the shame of dragon kingdom or a traitor were written. However, even when he was showered with criticism from all the people of his homeland, he didn’t stop. ……No, exactly because he loved his homeland from the bottom of his heart, that he couldn’t stop anymore.」

「……I can picture it somehow. So he did it?」

Hajime looked up to the ceiling with an air that seemed to say ‘dear god’. Tio too seemed to be able to imagine what happened. She sighed as though to say that it was depressing just hearing it.

Even while smiling bitterly at the two, Roze talked with sadness at the forefront of her eyes.

How the prince, laid his hand on the monarch dragon who was his greatest friend.

Research of dragon core technology was advanced behind closed doors. As the last finishing touch, he murdered his partner, and with that dragon core――he constructed a gigantic flying warship that used the dragon core of monarch dragon for the first time in the world.

That ship’s majesty was tremendous, to the degree that the military balance at that time was tilted slightly just by that one warship.

Surely that prince felt relieved with that. With that, his homeland was saved. There would be peace. The other countries wouldn’t make light of them any more than this; they wouldn’t be invaded so easily.

“Thus, the dragon kingdom recovered its authority, but in exchange, they lost their pride and persuasiveness huh.”

“Must be. Even if they called for the cessation of dragon hunting, no one wouldst listen to them. After all, they hath murdered a king of the dragons to create a warship. Even putting aside other countries, the kingdom’s own people wouldst be the one that gave up on the country most of all.”

“Exactly as you said. A storm visited the dragon country, and they even met a crisis of internal disunity. But then, an occurrence so terrifying as though to say something like the risk of civil war is just a trivial thing was starting to happen.”

Black rain was starting to fall.

“Coming this far, the world finally noticed that they were mistaken. The true identity of the black rain is the end of the road of the energy that is released from sky core and dragon core. This thing that is dispersed into the air and changed in nature possesses a property that doesn’t grant vitality but instead steals it.”

“I see. Let’s put aside the detail about the underlying theory; it’s true then that the dragon race, and perhaps the sky core, are really the balancers of this world.

Fumu. The world art holding true above a balance. Noon and night, man and woman, positive and negative……it's natural for negative energy also to exist if positive energy exists. The dragon species and sky core take in negative energy, they then turn that energy into positive energy that they release back, when the released energy accomplished their role they wouldst turn into negative energy, then that energy wouldst be taken in by dragon species and sky core once more…….the world art in circulation.

The role of the dragon species was proved for the first time with the manifestation of a calamity.

However, mankind who noticed that fact then charged headlong to the unforeseen direction.

The dignity of the dragon species was trampled down. The choice that mankind took wasn't the abolishment of dragon hunting or the safeguard of dragon race——it was cultivation.

Oou. I knew it already but……even in the different world, human's karma is really deep anywhere huh.

Several countries publicized their breeding farms that were made in secret. Mankind had already soaked their hand with sin that couldn't be taken back since before the danger of the world. They made those breeding farms not because they thought that this would happen in advance, they surely didn't even imagine that it would turn out like this. Their conduct of selling over the know-how of the cultivation brazenly to the world, just how foolish was that.

Who would be angry at the deed of mankind?

That was obvious — the royalty of dragons.

They believed. The royalty and people of the dragon kingdom loved them the dragon species from the heart, even when the country was on the verge of danger the people didn’t give up to coexist with the dragon species. Because of that, they believed, that surely humans and dragons could walk together once more.

They endured. Even when dragon species was losing life one after another from dragon hunting, even when their relative monarch dragon was killed by the prince, because if they rampaged following their emotion, then the dragon kingdom they loved would be crushed by the countries all over the world.

The king made a decision. He told the father of monarch dragons who is his partner——Sutherland, that human and dragon should part with each other for once. The king said to take away all the dragon species and escape to the end of the world. If there are people that survived from the black rain, at that time the king asked for the dragon to grant a chance for the two sides start over one more time. Sutherland accepted and decided to part from mankind. However, that decision was a bit too late.

……So Sutherland’s child, couldn’t put up with it?

Sutherland’s child, the twin elder brother of the murdered monarch dragon——Helmut, attacked a cultivation place and the country it resided in before his father’s decision.

At the same time with that, it was an incident that was enough to erase the light of the coexistence faction that still hadn’t vanished yet. Every country that obtained a just cause carried out the capture and subjugation of the dragon kingdom using their fleets.

「It was an alliance of many countries, yet regardless of that, their pace was orderly, and their subjugation strategy was swift and precise. Even Sutherland who boasted of an unequaled strength, the best that he could do was to let some number of dragons to escape.」

「That was their aim huh. Perhaps the breeding farms were also a provocation. It was to eliminate the remaining coexistence faction and to completely take down monarch dragons that were still a threat.」

「That, must be it. The dragon species that were massing to depart to the end of the world were pushed back by the quantity of the allied army, and they were falling to the ground. Sutherland's children were killed one after another, or else their wings plucked and captured……it was truly a hellish picture. At the very least, it was enough to transform Helmut into an evil dragon.」

His siblings murdered, their dignity crushed underfoot, the black emotion that had been piling mountain high, when he saw his siblings trampled before his eyes once more——it snapped. Helmut's mind crumbled, and something awoke inside him.

It was said that the moment Helmut raised a howl that planted fear inside everyone that listened, the sky that should be clear was covered with dark clouds in the blink of an eye, and then black rain was starting to rain in impeccable timing.

「Fumu. Based on what I heard here……the power of circulation that dragon race possessed, was it reversed in this case? However, if this monarch dragon possessed power to the degree that couldst manipulate the weather, I don't think that they wouldst lose against mankind in the first place though……

How common. Wasn’t it the rage and hatred that surpassed the limit that pushed up the rank of this Helmut? Aa, could it be, he evolved into this true dragon that queen-san mentioned before?

Roze smiled wryly at the quick understanding of the two while giving affirmation.

The true dragon was said to be the ancestor of the dragon kingdom’s royalty and the monarch dragons. Its power was immense, and it was told that it could manipulate heaven and earth and could also transform into a human, and so on. There was nothing left of its existence except in legend, a fairy-tale existence.

There wasn’t any record of Helmut transforming into a human, but it seemed that he was called as a true historical dragon that evolved from monarch dragon due to the aspect of manipulating weather. However, it was also an ability that was limited to covering the world with cloudy weather that made black rain fell.

Tio-sama is able to transform into a human, and that overwhelming ability……you manipulated wind and flame before this. That, as expected you are a true dragon……

No no, I’m not a true dragon. It’s the reverse. I’m not a dragon that turns into a human. The correct recognition art I am a human that turns into a dragon.

Human, becoming a dragon?

In our world……no, more accurately in Tio’s world, there is that kind of race. Her family is all able to transform into dragons. If they are really true dragons, then that will be a bargain sale of fairy-tale existence.」

Hajime cackled saying「Well, even though she isn't a true dragon, but she is a god dragon though」while sending Tio a teasing gaze. Tio looked aside saying「I didn't say any lie」. (TN: True dragon's kanji is read as shinryuu, while accidentally god dragon's kanji is also read as shinryuu. Also, the kanji for the dragon of the god dragon here is for the eastern dragon.)

Seeing the relaxed relationship of the two, Roze asked timidly.

「That, then, as expected about the two of you being dragon knight-sama and true dragon-sama……」

「From what I can guess, this dragon knight is also an existence from a fairy-tale, and he was the true dragon's partner, isn't that right? But it's completely different. Tio can become dragon but she is a fully fledged human, and even if you say partner but she isn't my friend, but my wife.」

「Wi, wife……」

「Mu, mumu-. Wi, wife……that's the first time someone called me that. What's this, this itchy feeling in mine chest. Goshujin-sama, this child, she is really a good child!」

Tio got all bashful and fidgety from getting called as a wife for the first time. The eyes she were looking at Roze with were suddenly filled with the color of affection. Really, what a simple dragon.

Ignoring the writhing Tio, Hajime prompted Roze to continue talking. The simple dragon「Nou nou, Goshujin-sama. I'm thy wife」leaning on him was annoying, so, for the time being, he made her quiet with a slap. Seeing the hopeless dragon raising a coquettish voice「Ahanh」while collapsing on the sofa in ecstasy, the gaze of Roze and others became nailed on Tio.

Hajime’s cough made them returned to reality.

「Ah, e, errrr……that’s right. Helmut who became a true dragon and began covering the world with black rain was said to have lost his former heart. Without discriminating human or dragon, he raised a loud laugh as though enjoying the destruction while trampling over everything.」

「So that guy degenerated completely. The birth of the evil dragon is it.」

「Yes. It was said that Sutherland began a deathly battle in order to stop his fallen son. At the same time, his spouse Detmers led their surviving children back to the dragon kingdom.」

There was one reason for that. In order to save their friend.

It was unknown whether Sutherland was able to stop Helmut. Even if for example he could, mankind would perish under the black rain that was rapidly covering the whole world. Their beloved dragon kingdom would die out.

Sutherland possessed an exceptional strength even among the monarch dragons. And if he fought seriously, then others would only become a hindrance to him. Understanding that, amidst the falling black rain, Detmers and others dashed in order to save the humans that had cornered them.

「The essence of monarch dragon’s power is invigoration. And then, sky core has the property to neutralize gravity.」

「So that’s, the reason of the floating islands.」

「Yes. But, as expected although they are monarch dragon, they couldn’t do something like making the whole land float. What they could do was only making land with particularly abundant sky core to float. Even so, there is no mistake that we can live like this is thanks to the act of Detmers-sama and others that they carried out by staking their life.」

Kuwaibel who was snuggling up beside Roze raised a sad cry. Surely he understood the content of their talk. Roze gently caressed such Kuwaibel.

「This child is a memento from Detmers-sama. At that time it still wasn’t time to give birth, but Detmers-sama who was in the verge of death because of the black rain and using up enormous power cut up her own body and left behind an egg. She said, this child who will be born someday, will be the hope as the last monarch dragon.」

It seemed that Helmut didn’t come chasing after the floating land. According to the record, it seemed he watched the floating island while laughing. It was as though he was looking forward to the crisis that mankind would taste from there on.

Roze who took a breath after finishing the long story moistened her parched throat. And then, she faced Hajime with a gaze that was filled with determination unlike before this.

「After twenty years passed since that day of tragedy, the dragon kingdom that continued to exist in the sky received an invasion from sky pirate. Our country was stolen. At that time I was still a baby, I was able to survive thanks to my parents’ close aides taking me away along with Kuwaibel’s egg.」

Even without her saying anything, it could be guessed that the king and queen had died from Roze’s expression.

The dragon kingdom perished, and Sky Divine Country Qwailent came into being. The king was the air pirate’s leader. He monopolized the limited resource. Roze and others who were chased out were reduced to air pirates, the slipped through the divine country’s eyes and stole resource, and protected the people of the dragon kingdom who escaped together with them until now.

Like that, when Roze became ten years old, Kuwaibel was finally born. The people of the former dragon kingdom were boiled up by the birth of hope, at the same time, they kept hiding Kuwaibel’s existence who was still weak so that the divine country wouldn’t realize it no matter what.

「Even that end with today. My stomach froze when Kuwaibel came out to the battlefield but……from there, to think we were able to encounter Hajime-sama and Tio-sama……」

「Fuuh? And?」

Although Roze faltered for a moment at Hajime’s penetrating gaze, she immediately returned back a blazing gaze.

「I beg you. Please lend us your strength. The strength to take back the land of dragon kingdom Avenst.」

It seemed that in the deepest part of dragon kingdom Avenst, there was a spring that could grant power to monarch dragon. If they could go there, even Kuwaibel who was still only a few years old would become able to use a power that equaled a grown dragon even if just temporarily.

There if Hajime and TIo’s strength was combined with Avenst’s mothership and other airships, then it would also be possible to defeat the evil dragon Helmut, explained Roze earnestly.

Hajime glanced at Tio beside him. Tio’s expression was pondering something, but she noticed Hajime’s gaze and shrugged, leaving him to make the decision.

Hajime scratched on his cheek, and he lowered his eyebrows a bit while,

「For now, let’s put it on hold.」

He answered. Roze went「Eeh, isn’t this the scene where you gladly accept!?」in fluster because her expectation was betrayed. Hajime said「Something like that is the domain of a hero somewhere, or the abyss-san」and deflected easily.

Tio was staring at such Hajime with an expression that didn’t expect it. As expected, if Hajime was told something that easily went outside the category of adventure like ‘please go to war with a country, and then please defeat the evil dragon and save the world’, Tio thought that he would refuse promptly.

For Hajime whose basis was a swift decision, it was a really half-baked answer.

「Well, what. Even us, after hearing the story just now we ain’t just going to say “Oh is that so, yes, we will do anything”. Various things happened today, and we are tired. For now, we are going to rest, think it carefully, and then we will give our decision tomorrow. You don’t mind right?」

「Tha, that’s right. Indeed I’m too impatient just now. Even though Hajime-sama and Tio-sama have just finished with a battle of that degree, my deepest apologies for my inattentiveness. We have prepared a room. It is a modest thing, but later on, we will bring you your dinner, so please rest at ease tonight.」

「Ou. Much obliged, I won't hold back then. Okay Tio, let's go.」

「Ri, right.」

Hajime emptied his tea and stood up abruptly. He led Tio and got out of the room. A crew that would guide them, immediately appeared and took them to their room. Roze was staring fixedly at the back of such Hajime and Tio with an expression that was a mix of hope and unease.

The airship Rozeria was gliding through the night sky where a multitude of stars were shining.

At a corner of the ship's rear deck, there were the figures of Hajime and Tio. Both of them were sitting at the edge of the deck. Their legs were thrown out to the empty air. The sea of clouds that were shining from the reflection of the stars let the eyes of the two of them to enjoy the sight to their heart's content.

「And, why didst thou put the decision on hold, Goshujin-sama?」

Tio asked Hajime while watching him with a sidelong glance. Hajime was also similarly watching Tio with a sidelong glance while he opened his mouth.

「I’m thinking of deciding after hearing of what you want to do.」

「What I want to do?」

Tio tilted her head. Hajime nodded.

「Yeah. What do you want to do Tio? The restoration of the dragon kingdom doesn’t matter, but you have a tii~ny bit on your mind about this evil dragon aren’t you?」

「……So thou noticed Goshujin-sama.」

Getting seen through like this even though she shouldn’t have taken any conspicuous attitude caused Tio’s cheeks to redden from feeling too embarrassed. She thought that he really looked at her closely.

Tio slowly opened her mouth as though she was choosing her words.

「I thought that it was similar, just a bit. Of their way of living, and their last days.」

「Is it about, the dragon race’s country in the past?」

「Yes. I understand Helmut’s feeling, just a little. At that time, when I saw Haha-ue and mine comrades crucified, a black flame was certainly born inside me. A flame of hatred that only wished to burn others, even myself.」(TN: Haha-ue=mother, used in samurai families)

Hajime returned a silence at Tio who was talking bit by bit. He kept quiet while looking forward, lending his ear at Tio’s story.

「I was able to stop because of Chichi-ue's words. I was able to change the black flame into power to protect. Helmut art surely the me of that time that couldst not stop.」(TN: Chichi-ue=father)

That was why she couldn't just be indifferent to this. When she thought that the fallen king of dragons would continue to ravage this world with black rain even from here on forever, for some reason, the feeling that this was intolerable was welling up inside.

「This is just a retelling from Yue……"The track that Tio had walked through until now. That is Tio's everything" isn't that right? That's just a meaningless supposition. Helmut was unable to win against himself. Tio Claus won against herself. That's all there is to it right?」

「Fufu, thou art right.」

Tio smiled fondly and nodded at the words of Hajime that sounded a bit displeased, as though to say 'don't lump together the stupid idiot that ruin the world with my Tio'.

A quiet time was flowing for a while.

Hajime glanced once more at Tio before he scratched a bit roughly on his head.

「Aah, geez. Stop being indecisive and say your answer already. I'm asking you here, what do you want to do huh? You are too considerate to other people other than yourself at various things. I'm telling you, show some selfishness sometimes other than with your perverted attitude.」

「Goshujin-sama……」

Tio blinked. And then, she reflexively closed her eyes and hid her expression toward Hajime who was staring at her fixedly. She then whispered.

「I want to end this. This art completely unrelated to us. The scale art too big to call it an adventure. The opponent's strength art unknown. This is just mine ego talking. I understand all that. However――I wish to end this.」

That was Tio's true feeling. It was Tio's selfishness that came from her sentimentality, based on her ego, for the sake to cheer up herself.

Hajime who heard that,

「Roger. Let's end this. We are going to end the evil dragon Helmut's everything, just for our own convenience.」

He easily consented to it.

When Tio turned her face, she found Hajime's face that looked somewhat happy there. An expression of happiness from listening to Tio's selfishness.

'Aah, no more-' Tio yelled out her indescribable feeling in her heart while leaping at her beloved master.

The light of stars shining in the night sky enveloped the two with faint gentle light.

Roze's group at that time.

「Awa, awawawah. The two of them, doing that in this kind of place-. Aa, amazing-」

「Ro, Roze-sama-. You mustn’t look-. Co, come on, we understood already that they didn’t disappear, let’s go back inside quickly!」

「Pii, piiii」

「Kuwaibel-sama……. It looks like you are hiding your face with your wings, but it’s obvious you are completely looking from the gaps there.」

「Ou ou. As expected from the legendary dragon knight-sama yeah. Doing that on the deck so brazenly. How envious.」

「Bovid-. What are you doing looking so unashamedly like that! Quickly take Roze-sama inside the ship! Roze-sama too, please release your hands from the railing! Come on, quickly-. Hey, your strength increases-. Just how interested are you-」

Roze-sama was grasping the railing tightly and wouldn’t let go with her nose breathing roughly. Olga was desperately trying to take her back inside the ship, but her hold was so tight it made her shudder to wonder just where did she hide this much strength!

Kuwaibel in his own way was hiding his face with his wings while also thoroughly peeking from the gaps. Jean acted the straight-man, but Kuwaibel’s gaze completely stuck!

Seeing such covert pervert duo of monarch dragon and queen, it was only Bovid who was cackling while nonchalantly making his swift retreat.

Because he noticed that Hajime’s gaze was seizing their figures from across the shoulder of Tio, who he embraced closely.

A few seconds after Bovid vanished, crimson sparks surged in the night sky.

AN: Thank you very much for reading this every time.

Thank you very much too for the thoughts, opinions, and reports about misspelling and omitted words.

The next chapter update is planned to be for 6 P.M Saturday.

Arifureta Chapter 237

Arifureta After II Nation on Ship Avenst

AN: I’m sorry, it’s late again. Furthermore, the story doesn’t advance.

This is bad; I’m genuinely becoming unable to make it in time for 6 P.M Saturday……

I wonder if I should change it to Sunday……

Early morning, when the eastern sky was starting to be tinged white. Perhaps also because of the high altitude, the air was piercingly cold. The blowing wind made the receiver to feel slight pain.

It depended on the person whether to feel it as refreshing or torture. Although, even if it was someone who felt it refreshing, they still shouldn’t wish to stay inside such coldness for long.

In such an environment, there were two silhouettes leisurely staying there for thirty minutes already.

On the deck of the airship Rozeria, there were Tio and Hajime relaxing with a steamy cup beside them.

The minerals that Hajime obtained in this world were lined up in front of him. He took them into his hand and stared at them passionately, toyed with them……it seemed that he was displaying his transmutation master nature without reservation. Beside him was Tio, she was exposing a gentle expression as though her usual perversion was just a lie while staring at Hajime’s hand and face.

「E, excuse me~. Is it, a good time?」

A timid voice called at them. When Hajime and Tio turned their gaze, there they saw a beautiful girl with semi-long silver hair——Roze. Kuwaibel was firmly held inside her arms.

「Aa, what’s the matter, queen-san. The queer queen-san who was loitering around there since around ten minutes ago.」

「Please at least greet if you actually noticed already!」

The truth was Roze-chan had arrived on the deck since around ten minutes ago. She witnessed a gentle atmosphere around the two that was hard to interrupt as a third person. And then, what crossed in the back of her mind was this and that from last night. As a result, she didn’t know how should she call out at them and so she made an appeal「I’m nearby just by chance. Come on, notice me already! Greet out to me from your side!」.

「Roze-dono’s blatant “notice me appeal” art cute, that we acted mean against our better judgment. Forgive us?」

「Uh. That, no, I was in the wrong because I didn’t immediately call out……」

Roze who felt like running away even more from getting apologized honestly like that had her face blushed slightly in shyness from hearing Tio’s remark that she was “cute”, her mouth moved in mumbles.

「And, what do you want? Queen-san whose act is painful to look at.」

「That thing last night was Hajime-sama’s fault! Does Hajime-sama hate me!?」

Last night, the punishment from demon king-sama was waiting for Roze-chan’s party who was peeking at the scene where Hajime and Tio were exchanging love.

――Demon King-style Harassment 108 “From Today You Too Are Hauria”

A harassment by using an artifact that reproduced a pseudo “Divine Statement” by applying and enchanting soul magic. The result was “the target’s act became chuuni for a period of time”.

It went without saying that when they saw the act of Roze and Crow siblings that suddenly turned painful to look at, the eyes of the other crews turned into a dot. They even called the ship doctor thinking that the everyday hardships might finally turn them strange. Even after the effect ran out, they didn’t even have the willpower to complain to Hajime, and the three harmoniously sat on the corner of the room while grasping their knees to endure their black history.

Bovid who sensed demon king-sama’s anger a touch faster and escaped alone watched such trio and loudly laughed while rolling on the floor. Him acting like that made it felt like there was a retort ‘is it fine to roll around laughing at your lord’s foolishness like that, captain of the air battle squad’s first squad’ that could be heard.

「Good grief, we cannot progress like this right? Stop making merry and say your business.」

「-. Ho, hold it down me. I am the queen of the proud dragon kingdom. It's fine. Take a deep breath. Suu, haa……」

With blood vein pulsing on her forehead, including the wretchedness of the punishment last night, Roze renewed her determination 'I won't mistake someone like this as the legendary dragon knight-sama for the second time!' and then she told the two that the breakfast preparation had finished.

「Queen-san herself expressly come here just to tell us that? Even though you can just leave that to your subordinate.」

「No, that's because when I heard that the two of you were on the deck even since when the sun hadn't risen that I'm curious about what are you doing.」

It seemed that it was something like that. Hajime shrugged, and his hand beckoned at Roze whose body shrunk from cold. Roze whose gaze wandered around feeling a bit perplexed approached Hajime's side excitedly.

「Ah. The wind is……」

「Tio is covering the surrounding with a wind barrier. A wind that contains heat. Feels really pleasant right?」

「Ye, yes. ……Whether it's Hajime-sama's tool or Tio-sama's magic, they are really something that is outside of our common sense. About the talk of another world, I think it finally feels real for me after a night passed.」

「Well, even if I told you of another world it's not something that can be accepted right away.」

Roze glanced at Hajime who kept making crimson sparks at the ore in his hand even while they were talking. It was a vibrant crimson light. The ore changed shape right away. It was completely a mysterious power that human of this world didn’t have. The supernatural weapon created by that hand easily routed a gigantic battleship.

But, Roze knew that Hajime’s power wasn’t just making a supernatural weapon. She didn’t hear about the detailed story, she also didn’t think of forcefully asking, but she saw that right after Hajime showed his appearance, he tore to pieces the hook of an approaching sky battlecraft unarmed. That was something different with the power to create a thing that she was looking at right now.

Honestly, she couldn’t see his bottom. She thought it was terrifying. And now when she knew that this person wasn’t the noble dragon knight from fairy-tale who was the personification of justice, she felt it even more.

However, for them, the descendants of dragon kingdom who were heading toward a slow ruin, the existence of Hajime and Tio was like a gift from heaven.

Also, this timing when the last monarch dragon Kuwaibel had been born, she couldn’t help but feel that there was destiny at work.

「Oh, finally.」

「We hath waited long. I hath great anticipation because of that.」

「? Excuse me, both of you, what are……」

Hajime threw his gaze to the eastern sky while one of his hands was carrying an ore. Tio also focused her gaze while leaning close to Hajime. Roze who didn’t understand what the two of them were doing tilted her head with a question mark floating above her head.

「What you ask, it’s that. We are here because we want to see that.」

Hajime said that and pointed, at the thing that was showing out its face right now——the sun.

The sunlight swept away the blackness of night and dyed the world silver. The shadow of the sea of clouds darkened, and the illuminated place started to shine in sparkles like a jewel.

The sunrise seen from the deck of an airship that was continuously flying above the sea of clouds.

That was exactly the reason why Hajime and Tio got out on the deck since early morning. For the sake of settling it firmly inside their memory, the superb view of another world they went astray into through a strange phenomenon.

「……It’s not bad. Yeah, it looks really great.」

「This art a harsh world, but the strength of the light that wipe out the black of night art the same no matter what the world. Yes, it’s wonderful. It’s a beautiful world.」

「……」

Roze was dumbfounded.

The words “beautiful world” that came out from Tio’s mouth echoed many times inside her head. When she thought about it, when was the last time she watched the sunlight like this? She thought that this sight entered her sight every day.

However, she didn’t think anything about that view. She was merely desperate to survive and to accomplish her duty; she didn’t even look at the sky despite living in the sky. She noticed that although at this late hour.

The world was getting brighter moment by moment.

「……Yes, it’s beautiful. Really beautiful.」

Words of agreement. However, in contrast with those words, Roze’s expression was vaguely dark.

「The food is delicious even with how simple it is. Ah, give me another of this.」

「You, you are really not holding back huh.」

On the breakfast table, there were Hajime and Tio, and then Roze, Kuwaibel, Crow siblings, Bovid, and then a male crew that seemed to shoulder the role as a waiter. Usually, they didn’t have anything like a waiter, even the queen Roze and also the imperial guards’ leaders Crow siblings would do everything by themselves.

This time it was a special situation where they were welcoming guest that were Hajime and Tio.

Hajime’s remark of “another” despite saying that the food was simple while also understanding the reason why the food was simple caused the waiter’s cheeks to twitch a bit, even so, he obediently obeyed. Bovid retorted with an amazed expression. His attitude to the two of them was the most casual among the crews of this ship.

「Yeah. I'll stop if I'm told to stop, but as long as no one say that, it's my principle to receive the hospitality I'm given with my all.」

「Hahah, I get that. I was also taught by my father to receive the goodwill I'm given without reservation. You had even saved our life, so eat as much as you want. Though even after I say that, the one who create and prepare the food is actually not me! Ahahahah」

'Really, don't say anything you……' The gaze of the Crow siblings that was wordlessly appealing so was piercing Bovid. However, Bovid didn't pay that any attention. Right now, rather than the serious Crow siblings, it was more important to make Hajime and Tio felt welcome. He had finished saying thanks last night from getting his life saved, but as expected it was best to show the thanks with action. That was Bovid's cherished opinion.

It seemed that they were used to Bovid's unserious attitude, so Olga sighed while turning her gaze at her master. Olga couldn't stop frowning at Roze's state that was clad in a vaguely dark atmosphere since she went to call Hajime and Tio on the deck.

「……Roze-sama. Did something happen?」

Leaving a glance at Bovid who was talking cheerfully with Hajime, Olga talked at Roze with a quiet whisper.

Roze who looked taken aback and returned to her senses then shook her head and showed a smile to avoid the question.

「We still, haven’t heard the decision of Hajime-sama and Tio-sama……so it looks like my unease came out in my face.」

「Is that, so.」

Orga looked like she couldn’t accept the explanation and she sent a glance of doubt, thinking that as expected the two of them had done something to her master……her body twitched.

Because Tio’s hand stopped moving at the meal and she was staring fixedly at Roze and Olga.

When Tio’s eyes met Olga’s, she showed a smile that looked trouble, but also looked somehow gentle. Olga twitched even more from that expression.

Hajime and Tio who finally finished their meal after asking another helping twice then enjoyed the after meal black tea made in another world. Choosing the timing, Roze then asked with determination.

「……Hajime-sama. Regarding the answer to my wish last night, can I ask you to please tell us your answer?」

Defeat the divine country together and revive the dragon kingdom Avenst. And then, after putting in order a complete force, subjugate the evil dragon Helmut.

That was their cooperation request. Thinking from the aspect of their battle strength, they wished for Hajime and Tio to become the leading part in the battlefield. Especially the part to defeat the divine country where Kuwaibel was still powerless, almost all of that part would rely completely on Hajime like that.

Last night, when Hajime and Tio got out on the deck, they thought that perhaps the two of them would then disappear without telling anyone and so they spontaneously ran after them.

But, seeing the two of them were still staying here like this, then surely the two would grant their wish……

Although they were thinking so, they couldn’t help but gulp their saliva from nervousness.

Inside the room where complete silence had descended, Hajime slowly put the cup of tea he drank on the table,

「We are going to slaughter Helmut, but we don’t give a damn about that divine country something. You guys work hard yourself about that.」

「Wait, I don’t understand what you are saying.」

They almost trembled in happiness when they heard that the two would kill the evil dragon, but they suddenly went cold hearing the sentence’s latter half. Roze asked back with a half smile looking as though she was running from reality.

「I told you, I cannot be bothered about your country’s revival, but as for Helmut, we think perhaps we will go kill that guy a bit, purely for our own convenience.」

「……Wait, I don’t understand what you are sa――」

「Aa?」

「Understand. Evil dragon subjugation banzai. Sayonara the future of dragon kingdom’s revival. That’s what you are saying right. I understand.」

Roze who tried to do her best added with escaping reality, but she returned to reality due to Hajime’s voice and expression that looked like yakuza. She couldn’t stop her eyes from getting teary. Replacing Roze who fell silent, the Crow siblings stood up so fast their chair fell down while raising a voice of protest and persuasion.

「Why!? If you two have that much power, then it shouldn’t be that difficult to defeat the divine country! This is our dearest wish-. Please, I beg you two to rethink it-. Please-」

「Right now, even in this time the people of the dragon kingdom are suffering in hardship! The dragons are also in the same situation! Didn’t the two of you repel the mother ship of the divine country yesterday and saved the dragons-? Here please show your righteousness one more time!」

Olga and Jean’s words resounded loudly. However, the expression of Hajime who received those words showed not a single ripple.

「This is not really something you need to raise your voice that much right? If Helmut is defeated, the world will clear up. When that happens, then you can build your country anywhere on the vast land down there. Something like the land that might be polluted, or the battle against the divine country of that, those things are matters that are not related at all to us resident of another world. We don’t happen to have any duty or responsibility to become your substitute in war.」

The sound argument that was returned to them caused the Crow siblings to be at a loss for words. However, the power that Hajime and Tio showed wasn’t something that worthless that they could give up that easily. The two weren’t that farsighted that they could just say「Oh, is that so」in acceptance, even though there was the possibility to defeat the hateful divine country right in front of their eyes like this.

That was why they raised their voices asking how the two of them could abandon the suffering humans and dragons even after they knew the situation and also getting begged on like this.

「Hajime-sama. Please, we beg you to lend us your strength. At the very least, even if it's just cooperation to make it so Kuwaibel can reach the underground of the palace, can you please help us with that?」

Roze's pleaded fervently. Hajime retorted back without any particular change in his expression.

「What kind of compensation you can give me?」

「Eh? Co, compensation?」

The Crow siblings were going to make a ruckus once more, 'even though this concern the future of the dragon kingdom's people' like that, but Roze stopped them with her gaze. And then, she thought of what she could present, and the result, with determination she――

「I, I'll offer myse――」

「No need.」

「Hauh!?」

She was unable to say it until the end. Even though she was going to offer herself with a determination of the lifetime, yet it was cut down and discarded instantly. Roze whispered a line「E, even though, I am a queen」that might make a certain princess-sama somewhere to go「Comrade♪ Comrade♪」while jumping for joy.

「Or rather, you are really going to say that in front of Tio huh. The nerve you have there is really quite something.」

「Eh, ah. My, my apology, Tio-sama! I do not intend to insult Tio-sama by any means……」

「It’s fine, it’s fine, I understand.」

If she knew that actually Hajime also had multiple wives other than her, just what would this queen-sama of another world think? Tio averted her gaze with a vague expression.

Roze sank into silence with a difficult expression, and her gaze wandered around furiously while her head was working desperately.

Hajime opened his mouth with a sigh to finish the talk soon.

「Certainly, I have great power, and I can brag that just destroying a country won’t take much effort. But, it’s because of that that I won’t use my power because of other people’s will. My power is only mine, and it has to be wielded constantly by my will. Save me, help me, those wishes aren’t something exclusive that only you have. The world is overflowing with that kind of wishes, as many as the stars in the sky. I don’t have even the littlest bit of intention to spend my life and my important people’s life until it runs dry from responding and rush about everywhere to that kind of wishes just “because I can”.」

That was why, even if it was everything for the people in question, Roze’s wish that was nothing but a common wish for Hajime wasn’t something that he would undertake that simply as long as it didn’t even have any merit for him that could make him overturned his decision.

「And, you guys who are wishing for me to slaughter several thousand people and overthrow a country in your place, what kind of compensation you can pay me that can make me overturn my will that is flatly refusing to do that kind of thing and make me decide to wield my power?」

「……」

Roze couldn’t say anything at all this time for sure. Olga, Jean, and Bovid were also the same.

Hajime stood up from his seat. Roze twitched and trembled.

「As expected I’m not that shameless that I can keep remaining here after refusing your dearest wish like that. Tio and I will go to visit Helmut after this. I’ll only promise that I will clear up the dark cloud from this world. I don’t know how you queen-san, and others will live in the new world where the black rain vanish, and the sunlight shines on the land but……at the very least, I’ll pray for your success. It’ll be great if your dearest wish can come true.」

「ah, wa, wait-. Please wait-」

Hajime said that and prompted Tio with his gaze to walk out from the door. Roze threw herself at such Hajime. Of course, she wasn’t attacking him but stopping him from leaving. She clung on Hajime’s arm and desperately formed her words.

「Sa, say, err, tha, that’s right! Even though you say you will subjugate Helmut, but you don’t know where his location is right? We will show you the way! That’s why, please don’t leave-. Putting aside the matter of the divine country’s subjugation, we still haven’t been able to return our debt of you saving us!

If it’s Helmut’s location, then we can do something about it ourselves. About the debt, the delicious meal and empty bed are enough for that.

Hajime quickly shook off Roze’s clinging arms, but Roze circled around him and took position in front of the door with both her hands spread out. Hajime’s eyes narrowed quietly, but even while sweating coldly, Roze didn’t show any sign of moving at all.

Pl, please, come to Avenst by any means!

You are trying to take us away?

That’s not it! I do not think that such a thing is possible! ……If it’s in Avenst, then we will be able to show our gratitude a bit more properly. Even the cooking there is incomparable with the food in Rozeria. Also in Avenst’s airspace, there is an island with a lake and an island that grows rare fruit! After that, there are also a lot of dragons living there-. It’s only a few, but we are living in coexistence. Among us there are also people that can ride a dragon, the sight of human and dragon flying together is really beautiful……after that……the people of Avenst are all good-natured, ah, there is also craftsman that specialized in handling ore! Surely you will be interested. Besides, err, that……

She was already desperate. Even while getting incoherent, Roze was trying to make her invitation to mother ship Avenst into reality by speaking out things that might attract Hajime’s interest one after another. It was also just a bit painful seeing her like that.

Roze spread out her hands with all her might to not let anyone pass while narrating the charm of her country that didn’t even have any territory with teary eyes. It seemed that she was thinking that if she invited Hajime to Avenst, then there would still some possibility left they could move his emotion and receive his cooperation.

There, Crow siblings and Bovid also joined. They kept speaking on and on so that they wouldn’t lose their connection with Hajime somehow. Kuwaibel was raising a small cry while approaching Tio’s leg.

Staring at those brave figures of the queen and her group desperately clinging to their hope, Hajime’s expression suddenly turned gentle. Roze and others got taken aback, and then their eyes shined with hope thinking that perhaps Hajime would hear to what they were saying.

Hajime was making an expression that seemed to say ‘can’t be helped huuh’, yet it also looked really gentle, while――his hand was reaching toward Donner.

(Wait wait wait wait-, wait a second, Goshujin-sama! As expected, there art no way thou wouldst shoot them to death here correct?)

(Tio. You, what do you think I am. Of course, I won’t open up any hole in them. I have properly changed the bullet with a non-lethal rubber bullet. I’m just going to give them a bit painful forehead poke.)

(……I, is that so? No, even so, I think that art still too much though.)

Roze and others were puzzled seeing Tio who suddenly held down Hajime’s right hand and began to whisper from point blank range. Surely they didn’t imagine even in their dream

